The bushing section had an early morning visitor. A blue parakeet! The parakeet flew in the window and perched on the fence. Someone managed to catch it and the owner was found through the newspaper want-ads. . . . We extend the welcome mat to Mary Louise Taylor and Rita Hart, who have joined the hermetics stacking. Poly Auer, Marjorie Gross, Elaine Nicodemus, Clara Micheline, and Rozella Momper made a trip to Holland, Mich., for the tulip festival last week-end. . . . Irene Slater was telling about picking a few tulips from her yard to place in the house. Her husband wasn't very appreciative of her deed. . . . Dorthea Gaff and Hazel Bennett celebrated birthdays recently. Hazel passed out cake in the lead section. . . . Bob Wyss, second trick, is expecting to leave for the army soon. . . . Hilda Vance is a proud grandmother again. Her daughter, residing in Buffalo, N. Y., had a new son. . . . Lucille Orr is now on a diet to try and gain that new look. . . . Lillian Mallo advises against carrying an ironing board down the street and getting it home in one piece. Trying to give the pressing shops competition, Lillian? . . . Our sympathy to Gene Mettler on the death of his father-in-law. . . . Maxine George has left the test department to take a winding job. . . . They're whittling the men down! WANTS TO KNOW HOW A STRIKE WOULD AFFECT INSURANCE

QUESTION:

Would my insurance be good in case of sickness or accident during a strike at GE?

ANSWER:

We would not be able to make a commitment as to what our insurance policy would be at some indefinite date in the future. However, at one of our plants recently idled by a strike of production workers, the Company kept the insurance plans in effect during the strike. When the employees returned to work, they reimbursed the Company for the premiums paid for them.

HAPPY READING

QUESTION:

We would like more information about why we of Fairfield cannot have a few copies of the Fort Wayne GE NEWS, even if delivered the following week.

(Signed by several employees).

ANSWER:

Your question has now been more than satisfactorily answered, I'm sure, since employees of the Fairfield plant are now receiving copies of the GE NEWS regularly.

HAS FOOD ON HIS MIND

QUESTION:

I would like to know why the food at Taylor St. is not nearly as good as the food at the Broadway cafeteria.

ANSWER:

First of all, many people do not agree with you that the Broadway food is better than Taylor St. food. We have many people who say they prefer to eat at Taylor St., so it is not an easy task to keep our patrons pleased.

There are two elements entering into food preparation, whether it be in the individual home or a commercial restaurant.

1. The quality of the food (raw material) purchased.
2. The preparation — cooking and seasoning.

The food as purchased from outside sources is practically the same at both Broadway and Taylor St., although we do not necessarily buy all of our requirements from one vendor.

The food is prepared over the same recipes at both places, but cooking and seasoning are arts in which no two cooks are identical.

Welcome to all the newcomers. Hope you like us. . . . We have been having a lot of dirt in the placing group this week but don't get excited. It probably will be a let-down to know that it is all from Edith Bohde's lawn. If you would like to help her spread dirt some evening she will treat you to onion sandwiches. . . . A few weeks ago Florence Lea was feeding a little mouse cheese and crackers and milk. The news spread fast for now the creature, using the same hide-away, is a full-grown rat. Florence must have good food. . . . Ann Lehmon was on the sick list this week. Hope you are back with us soon.

GE Squares Slate Annual Meet Tues.

To Introduce 1953-54 Officers And Distribute Annual Reports

Members of the GE Squares will conduct their annual meeting Tuesday, May 26, at the Squares Hall, beginning at 8 p.m., James A. Walley, president, announced this week.

Officers for the 1953-54 club year will be introduced at the meeting. Committee reports will be presented and copies of the organization's annual report will be distributed to members prior to the meeting.

Candidates for office, who are being voted upon by ballot are:

President

Donald C. Reek, Bldg. 4-6.

Joseph P. Coughlin, Bldg. 26-2.

Vice-President

Robert K. Drake, Bldg. 28-2.

Charles W. Brown, Bldg. 31-2.

Secretary

Richard J. Killian, Bldg. 8-1.

Richard A. Thomas, Bldg. 4-6.

Treasurer

Charles E. Strecker, Bldg. 26-2.

Arnold C. White, Bldg. 19-1.

Director for 3-Year Term

Irving E. Ross, Bldg. 4-6.

Richard L. Hamilton, Bldg. 26-2.

Another item on the agenda will be the drawing for a $100 U. S. Government bond. All members attending meetings during the past club year are eligible for the award and one of their names will be drawn to receive the bond.

In addition to the business meeting, entertainment has been planned and free refreshments will be served.

Chairman of the nominating committee is Gordon C. Harvey. Assisting him are Robert F. Rowe, Lee R. Beard, and George E. Jamieson.

In addition to the newly-elected director, three other members will serve on the coming year's board. They are the past president, who will be Mr. Walley, and the two directors elected in previous two elections, Radcliffe P. Cheesman and Harold B. Carter.

Three General Foremen Appointed In Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17

Three general foremen appointments in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17 have been announced by P. F. Peternell, superintendent of Sub-Section 17. Ralph W. Hare has been named general foreman on second shift. Howard C. McVay has been appointed general foreman on first shift of unit bearing motors. Fred L. Pyle has been named general foreman on first shift of all two bearing motors.

In April, 1923, Mr. Hare became a General Electric employee and entered Bldg. 17-4 as a grinder. Two years later, he transferred to Bldg. 4-4 as a leading operator in the black armature section. Later, he worked in the product department in Bldg. 4-4 and Bldg. 19-5.

Appointed a foreman in Bldg. 4-4 in 1941, Mr. Hare became an assistant general foreman the following year. From 1946 until his present appointment, he was an assistant general foreman in Sub-Section 17.

Mr. Hare is a member of the Foremen's Association and the Quarter Century Club. The Hares, who reside at 2809 Lillie St., have one daughter who is attending Purdue University.

Joining the Company in December, 1928, Mr. McVay became a grinder. In 1932, he went to Bldg. 4-4 as an internal and external grinder. Two years later, he moved to Bldg. 4-5 on special precision grinding and black armature. Mr. McVay became a foreman of black armatures and commutators in the same location in 1941. Transferring to Sub-Section 17 in 1946, he was a foreman there and was named an assistant general foreman in 1952. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. McVay is a member of the Foremen's Association. He, his wife, and daughter live at 723 Nuttman Ave.

Entering Fort Wayne GE in 1929, Mr. Pyle went to the Winter St. plant as a lathe operator. He transferred to Sub-Section 15 in 1935 as a leading operator. In 1941, he was appointed foreman of Sub-Section 15 aircraft. He became a foreman in Bldg. 4-1 in 1946 and prior to his present appointment, he was a foreman in Sub-Section 15.

A member of the Foremen's Association, Mr. Pyle attended Ball State College in 1927 and 1928. He and his wife live at 4033 S. Hanna St.

William Moellering is a very happy man due to the fact that twins were born into his son's family; a girl and a boy. Bill is very much excited over the whole affair. One might say that Bill now is a double-barreled grandpa! . . . Ivan Hammond is another one of our co-workers who became a grandfather for the first time. He also is all worked up over the blessed event. It seems to us that the grandfathers display more interest over these affairs than the parents do. . . . One day last week Anita Ufheil went to the Employee Store to do some shopping. After the purchases were made the clerk asked her what her clock number was. She looked at him in somewhat of a daze, finally admitting that she did not know. After using a clock card for the past six years one would think she would become familiar with the number. . . . Joe Turley purchased himself one of those electric drill combinations. Among the gadgets that came with it was a paint mixing device. One day last week Joe decided to do a little painting. After getting everything in readiness he opened the can of paint, inserted the mixer, and turned it on. It worked to perfection and he was delighted with the results. But, when he withdrew the mixer he failed to shut off the motor. The results? A first-class spray job over the kitchen and himself. . . . Our genial friend, Ed Hines, who, by the way, works in Bldg. 4-1 then spends his evenings clerking in Morrison's Pharmacy, is still riding that ice wagon type bicycle back and forth to work. One warm afternoon last week he was observed pumping that antiquated piece of machinery south on Broadway and it seemed to be a very laborious operation for him. How he stands up under the strain is more than we can understand, but, nevertheless, we are still living in hopes of seeing Ed sprint down Broadway on one of those new lightweight machines. We are certain it would take a whole lot less energy.

Henry Wells was in Canada again for a week's vacation. . . . Millard Wells is taking a vacation this week. Here's wishing a speedy recovery to his wife, Mary, who is on the sick list. . . . Waymon Morton looks like a Swiss yodeler in his new cap. . . . I was over to see Paul Gruber's new GE television set the other night and it sure is a dandy. The pictures came in sharp and clear. . . . Bouncy Becker let his grass get too far along this spring. By the time he got ready to mow it he had to use a mowing scythe to find his lawn mower. It was so high he could hardly get his doors open. His yard looked like the Everglades. But, he wasn't the only one. The boys tell me that when Jake Mattes' cut his grass he found rabbits nesting in it. . . . To those of you who saw Officer Tieman out at the Reliable last Sunday, and thought he had a terrible sunburn, I would like to explain that it was not the sun causing that red glow. Many young ladies appeared in shorts and Bob just can't help blushing. . . . What would Art Thompson do without Ken Settemyre to find his pieces of steel for him? . . . We wish a rapid recovery to Mrs. Leon Kohne.

Foremen's Association to Initiate New Members at June 3 Meeting

Initiation of new Foremen's Association members will be conducted at the Wednesday, June 3, meeting of the organization, Leonard G. Reuss, president, announced this week.

Beginning at 5 p.m., the meeting will be staged at the Southwest Conservation Club. Prior to the buffet dinner a program of outdoor sporting events will be conducted.

Tickets, which are one dollar per person, may be secured from contact men. Deadline for reservations is Monday, June 1.

Members who have joined the club since April 1, 1951 up to the present will be initiated. Ed Klomp is chairman of the ceremonies and is being assisted by J. Wilmer Lavine and Robert Hatfield. William L. Paulson and C. William Hale are co-chairmen of the entertainment program.

The following schedule of meetings for the remainder of the club year has been announced.

July, no meeting.

August 26, Fish Fry at Southwest Conservation Club.

September, no meeting.

October, Ladies' Night at Chamber of Commerce.

November, to be announced later.

December, management meeting.

January, no meeting.

February, election of officers at Southwest Conservation Club.

March, installation of officers.

Max C. Decker Appointed Hermetic Sub-Section 16 Foreman in Training

Appointment of Max L. Decker as a foreman in training in Hermetic Motor Sub-Section 16 has been announced by Eldon J. Vosburgh, superintendent of the sub-section. Mr. Decker's appointment is in inspection and test.

When he came to the Company in April, 1941, Mr. Decker entered Sub-Section 13 rotor section in Bldg. 4-3. After attending the Specialty School in 1941, he entered the dynamotor section in Bldg. 26-4. The following year he entered Sub-Section 15.

After transferring to Winter St. in 1944, Mr. Decker became a leader in the power drive section. He was an inspector at Taylor St., Sub-Section 13 in 1946 and two years later returned to Winter St. as leader and inspector in the CW compressor parts section. Prior to his present appointment, he was leader of inspection and test in Sub-Section 16, Bldg. 17-3.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker and their three children live at R. R. 4, Bluffton.

11 Top College Graduates Receive Company Fellowships

Eleven of the nation's top college graduates will share in more than $32,100 worth of post-graduate fellowships awarded by the General Electric Company for advanced study during the 1953-54 school year.

Chester H. Lang, GE vice president of public relations, and chairman of its education committee, said that grants to the 11 graduates will total $18,900 and institutions which they will attend will receive a total of $13,200.

The fellowships, which are granted by General Electric in honor of two of its former presidents, Charles A. Coffin and Gerard W. Swope, call for $1,400 awards to unmarried students and $2,100 awards to married students for the academic year.

In addition, $1,200 will be granted each college or university chosen by the student for the advanced study.

Graduate students awards may be used to defray living expenses, while institutional grants will be earmarked for payment of tuition and other related costs.

Six of the students received Coffin fellowships for advanced study in electricity, chemistry and physics. This amounts to a total of 208 such awards since establishment of the fellowship grants in 1923 to honor one of the founders and first president of GE.

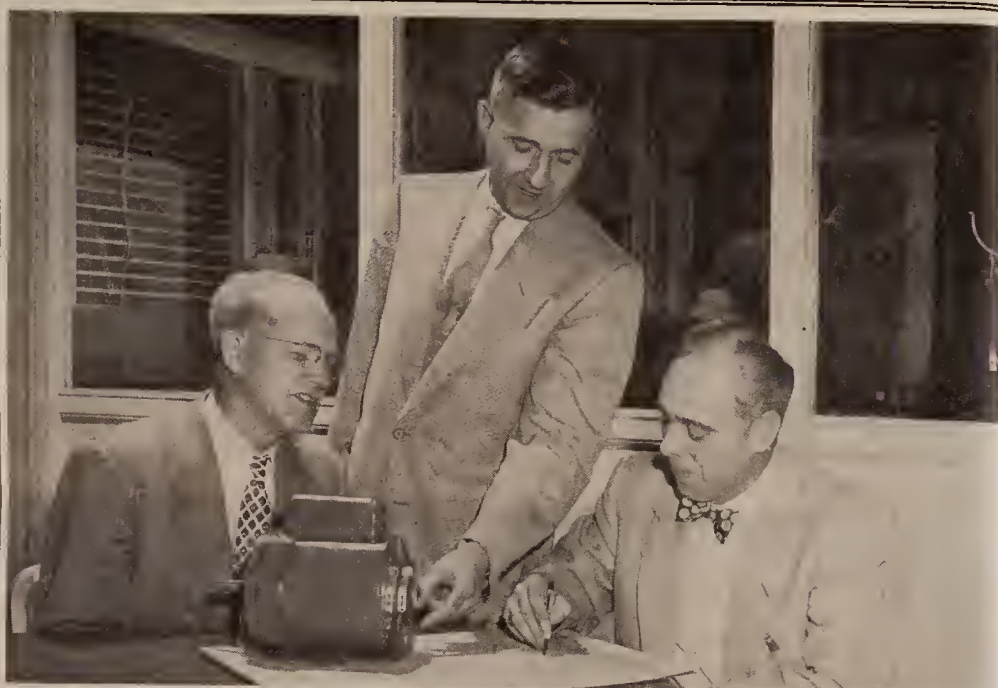

The other five winners received Swope fellowships for advanced study in metallurgy, chemistry, engineering and various scientific and industrial fields. A total of 55 such fellowships has been awarded since 1945 in honor of the Company's third president.

The fellowship winners were selected from 167 applicants representing 83 American colleges and universities.

Award winners were selected by representatives of six leading engineering and scientific organizations and the General Electric Company.

We lost a very nice girl from our floor. Sue Wagner left us to work in Bldg. 31-1. We hope she will like her new job. . . . Otto Pfueger celebrated his wife's birthday on May 3. . . . Mrs. Sue Taxler and Mrs. Clara Kleint spent the week-end in Chicago. They attended the Betty Hutton Revue Saturday afternoon, and the Margaret Etter Creches benefit cocktail circus party, Carousel, in the Saddle and Cycle Club in the evening. Harold and Hugo were with them. . . . P. P. P. stands for Poor Pete Prince. He is beginning to feel the effects of going without his lunch. John Redmerski has sold it for two days straight. . . . A Visitor: George Guenther, who is on pension, visited the boys one day last week. He is taking life easy, spends part of his time at his lake cottage. He belongs to the Screw Ball Club and has just received his invitation to the Christmas party to be held on the 4th of July. . . . Sherry Varner is sporting a Roy Rogers deputy sheriff badge. . . . We wish a lot of luck to Terry Bowman and his intended. He gave her a ring over the weekend. . . . For Sale: Ralph Ayres has a car for sale. It's a good car but Ralph can't find the title, so is having trouble trying to get rid of it. . . . The Elmer Warners have returned from a southern vacation. They visited their son at Camp Chafee in Arkansas, another son in Houston, Texas, and a daughter and a new grandson in Birmingham, Ala. . . . Joe Burton has acquired a new daughter-in-law.

Three Specialty Motor Design Engineers Awarded Patents by U. S. Patent Office

Patents have been awarded to three employees in the Specialty Motor Advanced Engineering Development unit by the U. S. Patent Office. The three men are Richard W. Dochterman, Raymond L. Hupp, and Richard E. Seely, all design engineers.

Granted his fourth patent, Mr. Dochterman received his latest award for the design of an electric motor. Mr. Hupp's invention, which is his first patent, covers a control circuit for an electric control unit for the control of a variable voltage generator set with the ultimate aim of controlling speed of a DC motor which this generator set drives. Mr. Seely's award concerns circuit arrangement for dual voltage motors with thermal protection. This is his first patent assigned to the General Electric Company.

When he came to GE in 1948, Mr. Dochterman entered Fractional Horsepower Motor advanced engineering development, where he has been a design engineer. He is a graduate of Purdue University, receiving his BSME degree in 1948. The Dochtermans and their two children live at 4027 Meda Pass.

Mr. Hupp entered GE employ in 1927 when he went into the test program. Upon completion of this course, he became an instructor in the Apprentice School. He worked in FHP test and in the data bureau prior to entering FHP engineering in 1940, when he was an engineer in the developmental section, Bldg. 17-4. In 1946, he transferred to Bldg. 4-6 on his present job of design engineer.

Graduating from the University of Illinois in 1927, Mr. Hupp received his BSME degree. He and his wife live at RFD 8, Lower Huntington Rd. They have one son who works in GE's Schenectady plant.

In 1942, Mr. Seely became a General Electric employee and entered FHP AC engineering as a design engineer. In 1944, he transferred to the developmental unit, which is his present location. He received his BSEE degree in 1939 from Purdue University. Mr. and Mrs. Seely and their three sons live at 2128 Cortland Ave.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the family on the death of our co-worker, Ralph Van Osedale. . . . Art Thieme was determined that Ed Gruber's next car should be a Dodge. Elmer Auman used his influence guiding Ed toward a Ford. Through the persistent use of S. A. I., Art finally won. Elmer claims Ed was not convinced—just befuddled. . . . Donning a new tee-shirt, Archie Gwaltney complained to his wife that the neck was too high. Later at work he found out he was the only man present wearing a shirt with a pocket in the back. He couldn't change either. You know—bad luck to put your shirt on twice the same day. . . . Luther Schrock is a fine understudy for Carey Baker. He not only does the work as Carey directs, he even tells some of Carey's worn-out jokes. . . . Jay Gaff and Russell Dunton have been bachelors for a week and have developed an extremely hungry look. We don't know about Russell's cooking ability, but Jay burned the same potatoes twice. My wife always says that's one way to tell when they are done. . . . Ralph Steward saved the humane officer a trip the other day by climbing a tree and rescuing a cat that was stuck between branches. We won't mention how high. . . . Swede Mosser should either catch bigger bluegills or not use so much power on his fly rod. He hooked a little one, and in the process of setting the hook he slapped himself in the head with a three-inch bluegill. . . . It is rumored that Fire Chief Kenny McCague will soon have a beautiful new fense. Wonder why?

Hodell Heads YMCA

Lisle Hodell, General AC Motor Sub-Department general manager, was installed as president of the Fort Wayne YMCA at the organization's annual meeting Tuesday, May 19. He assumes his duties for the coming year this week.

Occasion of the meeting was the 95th anniversary of the YMCA. Herbert P. Lansdale, Jr., executive mittee of YMCA's, was guest secretary of the International Com-speakar at the event.

6-4 AIRLINERS by ELLEN BAUER

Mrs. Noah Smith wishes to thank everyone for the lovely Mothers' day gift she received from the floor. . . . Moe Satterthwaite is the proud grandfather to seven pups. Now the question is what to do with them? . . . Nominee for the luckiest fellow on the floor is Jim Zehendner, not only did he have a wonderful week-end, but he also won the check pool on the fight. Incidentally, Jim, where did you get those socks? . . . Marcie Girardot seems to be a little confused as to what season of the year it is. She's been seen running around with snow shoes on. By the way, Marcie, that sure is a humdinger of a new car you have. . . . Sure was good to see "Lizzy" Malone last week; you're looking fine, hurry back to work, repairs are waiting for you. . . . Anyone wanting to know what Korea is like ask Barbara Speith. It seems that she made a quick trip in her dreams.

G-E DEATHS

Services Held Friday For John A. Loshe, 53

Services for John A. Loshe, 53, Decatur plant employee, were conducted Friday, May 15, at St. Mary's Catholic Church by the Very Rev. Msgr. J. J. Seimetz. Mr. Loshe died Wednesday, May 13, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Fort Wayne. Burial was in the Catholic Cemetery at Decatur.

Mr. Loshe, who lived at 109 S. Ninth St., Decatur, was a veteran employee at the Decatur plant and was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

Survivors include his wife, Marcella; one son, Eugene; two daughters, Miss Catherine and Miss Patricia; two grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Edward Gase, and seven brothers, Leo, Herbert, George, Arthur, Barnard, Herman, and Albert.

Auto Accident Fatal To Ralph Van Osdale

Monday, May 18 services for Ralph W. Van Osdale, Jr., 33, were conducted at the Bethany Presbyterian Church by Dr. William J. Ratz. Mr. Osdale was fatally injured in an automobile accident on U. S. Highway 224 Friday, May 15. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

When he joined the Company in 1940, Mr. Van Osdale entered the machinist course. Upon completion of the course, he became a turret lathe operator in Bldg. 26-2 in 1941. From 1944 until 1946, he served in the Armed Forces. Returning to Bldg. 26-2, he was an engine lathe operator and winding form maker. He did tin and solder work and was on a set up winding machine prior to entering Bldg. 19-5 as a milling machine operator. This was his location prior to his death.

In addition to his wife, Iona, survivors include two sons, Bernard and Douglas; a daughter, Joan; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Van Osdale; three brothers, Donald, Robert, and William; one sister, Miss Gloria Jean, and a grandmother, Mrs. Clara Van Osdale.

A former employee, Mrs. Mary Ellen Owen, 23, also was fatally injured in the accident.

Mrs. Owen was a clerk in Bldg. 19-5 from October, 1950 until January this year, when she took a leave of absence. Later she left the Company.

Survivors include the husband; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. McQuiston; and two sisters, Mrs. Rita Fredrick and Miss Bertha M. McQuiston.

"All that glitters is not gold," nor is "all that looks sweet sugar," as the honey bee found out when it perched on Ed Hines, of Bldg. 4-1. It made the bee angry, and Ed has a swollen lip. . . . We read in the GE NEWS last week that the son of Francis Harter has received many honors in high school. Either he has an awfully smart mother, or his dad is doing all right as mayor of Churubusco. . . .

Dick Crickmore is the proud papa of a new baby boy, James Richard. Congratulations. . . . Jim Lenoir has a new hot Mercury. This car is so fast that it catches fire. Jim dug up half of his wife's flowers to get enough dirt to smother the flames. . . . Bill Widdefield waited so long for his new car they gave him a gold key for it. . . . Francis Harter and Wally Reichter both took a drive in the rain to Indianapolis to see the trial races. No races. . . . We want to welcome a lot of people who are new in the division. Pearl Micheal, Doris Biltz, Carmen Parrish, Hazel Maxon, Margaret Parisot, Margaret Rollins, Eleanor Hoffman, Clarice Fyock, Agnes Shane, Billy Gawthrop, Treace Trout, Bessie France Willie Jackson, Rita McKeeman, Mary Harper, Vera Faherty, Emma Phillips, Bertha Mattes, Joe Meredith, Betty Park, Virginia Sheets, Betty Campbell, Ralph May, Joseph Schleinkafer, Earl Buckingham, Jack Calkins, Loren Cox, Fred Steinbarger, Arthur Fritzinger, Eugene Stinnett, Dorsey Lee, Almeda Walker, Roy Hinin, Richard Huth, Charles Snyder, Robert Eckert, Howard Friefenstine, Herbert Staak, Charles Kell, Betty Otavi, Carlos David, Howard May, and Helen Brown. . . . The girls would like to know where Bill Schultz buys his shirts with the three tucks on the elbows? . . . Did Ed Taylor ever look sad Monday morning? He was positive Walcott would win. Console yourself, Ed, there will be another fight. . . . Bob Erickson has a beautiful little son. Too bad he doesn't look like Bob! . . . Edith Minnich is lucky, she won a cake at a cake walk. Not very long ago she won a chicken. Wish I knew her tricks. . . . We are glad Mildred Greene got her much wanted dog. Incidentally she got a pair of them. . . . We are glad to have Malinda Behrman and Irene Kreger back with us. . . . Peggy Bahde was slightly bent this week from helping shovel gravel for the new cement floor job in their basement. . . . Bernie Lake, Hilda Seiler, Evelyn Skelton, Alyce Fuschuber, and Betty Campbell were stuck on the elevator with two men. They were plenty scared. No, not of the two men, but because the door wouldn't stay open long enough for them to get off. . . . Bernie Lake sure has a lot of excitement in her family. She became a grandma for the second time last week. She also received the good news that her other daughter, Joyce, is playing ball with the Muskegon Belles. . . . We wonder if Ray O'Brien is going to send his hospitalized bus-riding friend some flowers? . . . If anyone has any extra fly-fishing equipment, see Ralph Gilbert. He is going to do a lot of fishing in the corner this summer and all he has is the rod. . . . Wilbur Stocks was checking the repair jobs and now the fellows all call him Christine. . . . Dick Stauffer took a short nap on Sunday and forgot to reset the alarm. Consequently, he was up and at them at 3:30 Monday. That accounts for his sleepiness all day Monday. . . . We have a new name for Emery Tucker. He now is known as Humphrey Tucker and will go five rounds with anyone—even Walcott. . . . John Figley was worried about the clergymen who recently toured the plant. He says he is sunk if his minister saw all the pictures he has displayed. . . . John Willet is getting a Plymouth this week in place of his Chevy and Jay Michaels is getting a Mercury for his Ford. . . . Roxie Murray went skating at Muncie and now can qualify for the Roller Derby—spills and all.

Yes, they have added some new grandchildren to their families. Ericie McConnell reports that she has another grandson, while Lola and Jesse Hamrick say that this time it is twin girls in their family. . . . Lillie Hammond, one of our pensioners, has returned to Decatur from sunny Florida where she spent the winter. . . . Ed Borne is taking a vacation to practice up on farming methods. He is thinking seriously of taking up farming as a full-time job soon. We will be watching, Ed, to see some of those super colossal sized vegetables that you told us you raise on your farm. . . . The $64 question: Just how large was the hole that Fegley was supposed to be stuck in? How did Riley expect Ralph to get in there to remove Fegley's shoes? Now, Riley, if the hole was small enough for Fegley to get stuck in, how did you expect Ralph to get in after those shoes? . . . Going back to reminders of our childhood day, we find that Luther (Whitey) Brobaw is the victim of mumps. Just how many times can you get those pesky things anyway? . . . Greetings to Ericie McConnell on her recent birthday. The gang enjoyed the candy that she passed to them and all join to say "Thank you and many more happy birthdays." . . . Among the recent visitors in Fort Wayne attending "South Pacific" were Gladys and Jerry Coffee, and Hilda and Jim Staley. From the reports we heard they all enjoyed it very much. . . . Was his face red? It was Monday morning and Curt Baxter appeared to be blushing. Upon looking closer it was a nice case of sunburn. Results from sitting in the sun to watch the races. . . . This time it is happy birthday to Margaret Amsbaugh. She was busy Friday passing the candy bars to the gang. . . . Ralph Stanley was a visitor in Bldg. 1 this week. Retirement seems to be agreeing with him, although we hear that he manages to keep pretty busy these days. . . . Vic Amacher would be very disappointed if Ina Noack didn't walk on his clean floor every day! Careful, Ina, some days he swings a wicked mop. . . . Now who would ever suspect a gundrop of being rough? Helen Mowery claims those scratches that she had last week were from an encounter with a gundrop. We do know that a dog can scratch and we just found out that Gumdrops is a dog and a very lively one at that. Guess that solves the mystery of Helen's scratches. . . . We wish to extend sincerest sympathies to the bereaved family of John Loshe, who passed away last week after a comparatively short illness. John had more than 30 years of service most of it being in the inspection and test department. He was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

Inquiring Reporter:

DO YOU THINK ANYTHING COULD BE GAINED BY A MEETING BETWEEN EISENHOWER, CHURCHILL, AND MALENKOV?

HERBERT A. GARLETS

Bldg. 6-4

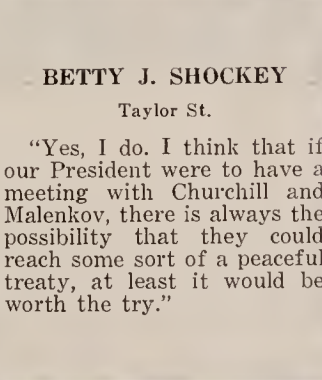

"I think there is evidence that the talks between Eisenhower, Churchill, and Malenkov will bring results. Nevertheless, if it doesn't, they can rest assured then that the last resort would be the atom bomb and the logical thing to do would be to use it for that is what caused the Japanese to surrender."

EDWARD W. REAM

Bldg. 20-1

"Yes, there could be something gained by this meeting if each man were honest and sincere about it, but I don't think Malenkov could be, due to his many advisers."

BETTY J. SHOCKEY

Taylor St.

"Yes, I do. I think that if our President were to have a meeting with Churchill and Malenkov, there is always the possibility that they could reach some sort of a peaceful treaty, at least it would be worth the try."

WILLIAM M. PALMER

Bldg. 19-1

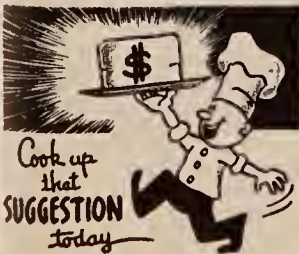

"Considering meetings and peace talks which were conducted with the Soviet Union in the past, it is my opinion that a meeting at this time would be of little significance to present conditions. The Communists will probably remain uncooperative."

EDNA F. DELEURY

Bldg. 26-4

"I think a meeting between these top three men could help to further peace in Korea and the whole world, if sincerity prevailed at the conference table. Some progress has been made since Malenkov came into power, through the exchange of prisoners of war, for which we are very thankful."

OVER OUR WAY

by Clara Volz

I know I'm heading for trouble but here goes. Nicknames seem to be in style now. Erv Moore is known as "Angel"; Don Kee as "Lover Boy"; and, of course, you know Charlie Fisher is "Sugar" to all his friends. . . . Ed Harrison must have had corn fritters for breakfast. He came in the office one bright morning telling us some jokes. Cute, but corny. . . . For the hands you love to touch just see Willie Smith. He asked Margie for some cream so he could take care of his pinkies. . . . We have a hole in our office wall next to payroll. The mice use this for darting back and forth between the offices. Margie Messer has an enormous dislike for the critters, and when she was told last Friday that one was lurking around in our office she was on the wary side. I told her not to worry. it probably went over to payroll to pick up its check. . . . Sorry to hear that Joan King is on the sick list again. Ain't no fun is it, kiddo. . . . It is nice to have Howard Musselman and Ed Steinau back with the gang again after their illnesses. . . . Bill Hanke and wife celebrated 28 years of wedded bliss last Saturday. Bill says that he remembers it rained like heck that day, and he had on a cheap suit which shrunk on him. . . . James Blake became the father of a 5 lb. 8 oz. daughter named Barbara Ann. Congratulations to mama and papa.

Mary Williamson and Millie Hasley are inseparable it seems. When Millie goes home at night she finds a seat next to the window so she can wave good-by to Mary. . . . Fred Leinker and wife are the proud parents of a baby boy. The Leinkers have two children now. Their daughter gets a big bang out of watching television even when there is no picture. She would rather see the snow and the diagonal lines, which is most of the time. . . . Frenchy took his third week of vacation last week. He spent his time at his cottage preparing it for his next two weeks. . . . Just a couple of miles out of Hicksville, Ohio, last week, George Mannisto threw a rod in his car. Long walk home, wasn't it, George? . . . Jimmy Keys' barber must have been out the night before. When he cut Jim's hair the next day it looked like he slipped and shaved his head instead of his face. . . . Eddie Kramer has informed us that he is going to order a guitar for his new son so he can play for Eddie's brother Arnold, who is a professional caller, when he gets older. . . . We are very glad to see Velma Rose and Helen Gresham back at work. . . . Last Monday morning Willard Lenz asked Maxine Jordan how she was coming along on the capacitors. Maxine said that she worked like a dog and had finally got them done. Willard casually remarked, "Okay, Fido!" All Maxine could reply with was, "Woof." . . . THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: "If you are keeping your head while others are losing theirs maybe you don't understand the situation."

Lewis Lahrman, Bldg. 6-1, and his palomino show horse, "Cross V" with the 32 ribbons won at Western Horse Shows in 1952.

He Rides'em, Shows'em, Trains'em Lewis Lahrman's Crazy About Horses

Beginning another season of practicing a hobby that has brought him satisfaction since childhood, Lewis Lahrman, Bldg. 6-1, has begun hitting the roads again that lead to the Western Horse Shows in the tri-state area with his registered palomino, Cross V.

Far different from his GE job of driving trucks, Louie's hobby grew along with him to reach a high point in 1952, which was the first year he owned his present horse. Last year, he and "Pal," which Louie calls his prize possession, won 33 ribbons, three trophies, and some prize money.

Growing up on a farm and having a father who was a horse trader brought Louie in constant contact with his favorite four-legged animal. A participant in horse shows since 1934, he has enjoyed every minute of his interesting pastime.

Owner of ten show horses before Pal, Louie prizes his present palomino more than any of the others. "He has a mind of his own," Louie says, and adds, "He knows more about what to do at the shows than I do."

Taking care of Pal, the proud owner spends much of his spare time grooming him and exercising the horse which is registered with the Palomino Horse Breeders of America, Inc. Pal was born in Glen Rose, Texas. Louie shows him in three classes, stock, parade, and pleasure.

Louie is a member of the Indiana Saddle Horse Association, Maumee Valley Saddle Club of Fort Wayne, and the Bar-None, an Auburn Club. From the Indiana Association, he receives a monthly magazine which keeps him posted on coming shows. Each copy brings with it the anticipation of a coming event for Mr. Lahrman, who also shows horses for other owners in the contests. Complete from the ten-gallon hat to the yellow leather boots, the western outfit worn by

The sheep section of switch assembly are all ready for summer now. The last of the flock, Sarah Moore, was sheared Saturday. . . . Cozette Walper should join the track team and get experience in running so she wouldn't miss the bus by just a few lengths. . . . The girls in switch section were really dazzled Monday morning by Louie at the shows gets plenty of wear.

Love of his hobby has rubbed off on his family. Until recently, his wife, Luella, also participated in the shows. Now, she goes along as a member of the cheering crowd. Even his three children are showing a great interest in the sport. His daughter Joan, who works here in Bldg. 8-1; Patsy, seven years old, and Tommy, nine years old, enjoy taking care of Pal and attending the shows.

In addition to Pal, Louie boards two other show horses and a pony at his home on R. R. 14.

From the interest shown when he talks of his favorite subject, you know that Louie will continue with his hobby for a long time.

the glare in the stock room. Come to find out it was Ed Willey's shoes. Keep up the good work, Ed. How about it, Tom Harber? . . . Virginia Buesching went to St. Louis Wednesday by train to visit her brother and family. She had a lovely time but had bad weather. . . . We welcome the repair section from 4x4 of Broadway. The personnel is as follows: Ray Smith, Walter Sollberger, Myron Evans, Orle Conner, Howard Mills, Bill Putt, Bertha Burnau and Betty Graft. Jack Payton and Ivan Ford will take care of the office work. . . . A certain person left kindergarten on a new job. We all think she grew up. Good luck, Cuddles. . . . We are happy to have Catherine Chilcote back with us. . . . Alma Vorndran and Ruth Peek spent three days last week at Linton. They say it isn't Louise Sinn that makes all the noise, for it was peaceful and quiet while Ruth was gone. . . . It's a good thing there isn't a shortage on hen fruit out where Beverly Numbers lives. She eats them by the half dozen. . . . Leonard Wiehl was so happy and proud of his new lawn mower and could hardly wait until it quit raining to try it out. He proudly followed it across the lawn and nothing happened. Guess what? No cutter bar. . . . Enno Richter, George Marshand, Bill Bron, Bob Fry, Harry Todd, and families, and Oral Emrick and wife attended a TV party Friday night at Lake Wawasee to view the prize fight at DeLos Martin's. All enjoyed the evening although TV wasn't so good and the fight short.

Congratulations to James Nagel on his new baby girl. . . . We wish to welcome the following on days: Rachel Milligan, Bill Pappert, and Josie Hardy. We hope you all will like us and decide to stay. . . . Fred Adams is willing to rent his birthday present out to whoever might want it. . . . Dick Graham has found out that if he kicks a tote box his shoe will land up on the rafter. . . . Bill Alt is back after spending his third week vacation. Bill says he painted. What a way to spend your vacation. . . . Gene Kelsey says he's back home again now that he has returned to Die Cast. . . . Eddy Howard will have to teach you that you can't play with gasoline and not get burned. . . . The girls are having an awful time getting along with Betty Schokey since she had her picture taken the other day. . . . We are glad to have Lela Line with us on days. . . . Hazel Ludwig is spending a few days in New York City. . . . When Peg Ballinger gets clipped he really makes a day of it. He took off Wednesday, went to Indianapolis, and really got clipped. His boy took his final exams for barbering. . . . Why does Virginia Reed's face color up when you mention coffee? It couldn't be because Saturday when she had her reports all made out, her coffee jug tipped over. . . . If you want a free coke just watch when Marg Ulrich goes to the coke machine. Then hold up two fingers and she'll bring you a free one. . . . Whether it rains or shines when the North Side track team is running you will always find Harold Mosshammer there. When Harold's boy runs around the track he is more exhausted than the boy.

A potluck supper was given Tuesday in honor of Dorothy Hart. She is leaving for a two-week trip to California. She wants to thank her co-workers for their kindness and thoughtfulness to her. . . . We wish Faye Patten's father a speedy recovery. . . . Dorothy Guiff and Norma Huff attended the time trials in Indianapolis Sunday. . . . Birthday wishes to Caroline Pressler and Mary Brown. They are winners on third shift. . . . We understand Rennie Phelps likes rhubarb pie. Several of the girls have been very thoughtful and have brought her rhubarb by the arm load. . . . Our sympathy to Ethel Crittendon whose grandfather passed away in Alabama. Ethel attended the funeral. . . . The other day Alma Bower came to work without any lunch and almost starved. Mary Epperson took pity on her and gave her an apple turnover. . . . Bonnie Heide is enjoying a new TV set. . . . Edna Peterson had company from Chicago Sunday. . . . Lois Yager, Donna Smith, Marge Rader are on the sick list. . . . Mary Rose is our round-a-bout. Mary went to Holland, Mich., to the tulip festival. . . . June Hines is quite a cake gal. You just tell her what kind of a cake you want and she will write up the recipe for you. . . . Coy Webber is now working for Harley Springer. . . . We welcome Helen LaRue and Mae Diel back to second shift. . . . We wish to welcome Lucy Kamm back to work. She has been on sick leave.

CHARTING THE COURSE—Mary Alice Keiler (left) and Roqua Wibel, Elex president, both of Bldg. 26-5, trace the route they will follow in Europe this summer on their three-week journey. The three-week tour will include visits to six countries, England, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and France. They will travel by plane, boat, train, and bus.

Reservation Deadline Nears For Elex European Journey

With the once-in-a-lifetime Elex European trip only nine weeks away, thoughts of GE women who are making the trip are already on the tour of their dreams.

And if the dreaming proves contagious, there is still time for anyone who wants to make the never-to-be-forgotten journey to sign up for the trip.

Pre-tour plans will reach a peak Thursday, June 4, when the group will be entertained at a Bon Voyage party at 7:30 p.m. at the YWCA. Invitations have been mailed to all those who have signed up. The party is planned as an opportunity for travel companions in this area to get acquainted, compare notes, and discuss other details of the trip. Decorations will be in keeping with the theme of the party and refreshments will be served.

For those who have not yet made the decision to go, Monday, June 1, is the deadline for reservations and Irene Meyers, Elex adviser, assures any late-deciders that there will be ample time after June 1 to make all the necessary arrangements.

Folders and other information may be obtained from Miss Meyers, or from Doris McKeefer, Elex travel consultant, Bldg. 18-1.

PASSPORT PENNIES—Hedwig Harrison, Bldg. 17-3, turns in her passport money in pennies she has saved for her passport to Irene Meyers, supervisor of women's activities and Elex Club adviser.

PENSIONERS IN PARIS—Mrs. Edward J. Braun and Mrs. Nora Coburn, both retired General Electric employees, find time during the day to compare notes over coffee.

PARLEE-VOO? Dorothy Jensen (left), and Ida Mugford, both of Bldg. 4-5, brush up on their French phrases during lunch hour. Those going on the trip have been attending conversational French classes, sponsored by the Club, this winter.

WINTER ST. JOTTINGS

Were you ever scared by your own feet? Beatrice Pender was! Walking into the ladies' rest room, she saw her own feet in a large mirror that was setting on the floor. She thought the feet belonged to an intruder, gave out a scream that made an Indian war-whoop sound tame, and then discovered, much to her embarrassment, that she was looking at her own feet. . . . Enjoyable weather, plenty of sunshine, and a wonderful time are our wishes for Carol Windhorst, who is California-bound this week-end for a two weeks' stay. . . . Arriving home from work, Paul Fremion was confronted with a horrible sight—his well kept, nicely growing grass had been mutilated. No, it wasn't king-sized gophers; the city is laying new pipes, and, therefore, the Fremion's grass must go. . . . A LUCKY WINNER: Eleanor Potter has assurance of attending the Roller Derby at least once during its appearance in Fort Wayne. Her husband, Joe, came up with the correct answer to a question on an early morning program and won two tickets to the Roller Derby for the Potters. . . . A big welcome is extended to Jacqueline Frey, a new addition to the accounting section. . . . Most likely, we will soon see Marge Aughenbaugh attired in a grease monkey outfit. Marge and Red have purchased a gas station in North Highlands. Any cars to be greased, washed, etc.? . . . POOR DOGGIE: When Elfrieda Doepke makes up her mind that her three-pound dog is going to stay in the yard, she really keeps him there. It would have taken more than a pack of wild horses or an elephant to break the chain that bound her little pup to the tree. The chain was so heavy, in fact, that the little dog didn't have enough strength to stand up under the weight. . . . As long as the supply lasts, Henry Snider will keep the Fairfield gang supplied with rhubarb. His generosity has enabled most everyone to have a meal which included this tasty dish. . . . HAVE FUN: It's vacation time for two tool room men this week—Carl Speckman is planning a trip to West Virginia to visit his daughter. Bill Sommers is going to Chicago to attend his daughter's graduation from nursing school. . . . A dual skunk was the bad deal that was dealt to Bob Branning and Bill Sommers by Art Hickman and Harold Bohde this week in the daily euchre encounter. . . . Bill Groves is very fond of, and has a special weakness for pies; so, the delicious pecan pie that Vera Pontius brought in to work and passed around really filled the order. . . . Just to be different, when springtime came and the nice warm weather, Millie Steward decided to buy an electric blanket. Oh well, Millie, you'll be all prepared for those cold zero nights that will come next winter. . . . GET WELL WISHES: Reports this week from our employees who are off ill are very encouraging. Larue Cunningham is progressing very well and expects to be back at work soon. Dale Thompson came through his operation with flying colors and will soon be home from the hospital. The men in the assembly room want Dale to know that when he gets out, they will have something waiting for him. We're hoping this inducement will hasten your recovery, Dale. . . . Charlie

Chevillot underwent his second operation last Friday. If the second operation is as successful as the first, Charlie should be back with Winter St. soon. Charlie is in Room 267 at the St. Joseph's Hospital. . . . JEALOUS: To prove that men do not appreciate the latest word in women's hair styles, we offer Margaret Motherwell's neat looking, short, curly hair as an example. All day long, she had to answer when the men addressed her as Shirley just because she had curls. The bald-headed men are just jealous, Margaret! . . . Ralph McKeefer's twin daughters have secured positions in Muskegon and have rented a cottage on cool Lake Michigan for the summer. Come winter, the girls are planning to travel to California. . . . Since a recent mishap, Earl Norris has been in the market for a car. Any Maxwells or Model A's will be given careful consideration. . . . ANY PROOF? The fish stories have already begun. Millie Steward's tale of her prize catch lists the fish caught as three trout and three suckers. Her doubting co-workers wonder if the score wasn't six suckers. How about it, Millie? . . . Rodger Pitzen can blame that sleepy, blurry-eyed look that he has possessed lately on the one thing—his newly acquired blue Ford. Sleep will have to wait just as long as these warm spring nights and that new Ford are beckoning. . . . GOOD LUCK: Winter St.'s bowling champs will compete with the other bowling champs of Allen County in the tournament which will wind up Sunday night. This group of champions on the Winter St. team will include Paul Snyder, Henry Luedeke, Elmer Gault, John Schwartz, and George Hagenjos. Best of luck! . . . WELCOME: A big welcome to Eleanor Daley who has joined the office forces on the second floor. . . . A thrill-packed week-end was in store for Don Lynch. Don traveled to the east and expected to spend much of his leisure time pursuing a favorite sport of his, skiing. . . . Ted Pemberton received a visitor at work last Friday. It was Ted's son Jim who has just finished his boot training and will spend a 14-day leave with his parents before he reports to the San Diego Naval Base where he will be stationed. . . . Marianne Royse had an after-hours job recently. She was a model in the style show for the Auxiliary Policemen's Style Show and Card Party. Reports say that Marianne filled the part very well. . . . It's a new daughter for the Mounces! The 8 lb. 10 oz. baby was born Thursday and will be

Thought for the Week: Courage is the art of being frightened without letting it show.—Pierre Veron.

FORGETFUL: Ruth Schafenacher does not like mowing the lawn, especially with a dull mower. The other day she decided it was time to do something about it, so loading the mower into her car she started for a repair shop. As she drove along everyone who passed blew his horn. Finally this began to irritate Ruthie. "Folks must be nuts," she remarked, "making so much noise." Finally someone drove alongside and pointed at her car. She looked—her purse was hanging on the door handle. . . . RUINED: It was a bad week-end for Jack Hively. It started Friday evening. The big fight was a flop and Jack was disgusted. Saturday he drove to Columbia City with his daughter, who would remain there over night. Returning late at night, he had hardly entered the house when the phone rang. He answered, and a voice said, "Dad, I forgot my purse; will you bring it to me?" Jack would and did, getting home to bed about 3 a.m. Sunday the weather was bad but cleared a little in the afternoon so Jack decided to go fishing. He caught three nice fish but fell in the river. After changing clothes he settled down to relax for the evening. Then the phone rang. He answered.

Al, to you and the Mrs. . . . HURRY BACK: Both Walter Brake and Burney Tomson answer to the name of "Edna" these days. Since Edna Kuhlman has been off, Walter and Burney have taken over her duties in blue prints. We hope Edna is feeling better and will soon be back. . . . We sometimes wonder if justice always triumphs—to wit, Paul Fremion drew Round 1 in the fight pool and crabbled all day about same. Then, he won. The fight was hardly over when he called up Kenny Betts to verify his win. Some of the boys say that Paul didn't even know who was fighting.

The daughter and her chum were stalled near New Haven. "Could he come?" He did and arrived home and got into bed about 3 a.m., again. For him the week-end was utterly ruined. . . . SURE WILL: Things will be different in the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Lind. They have just adopted twin boys, Jimmy and Johnny. We feel this is a wonderful thing to do and wish them all the happiness in the world. But things sure will be different. . . . WARNING: Monday noon Jim Stouder was walking down Broadway. A monument maker's truck drove along, and on it was a stone. On this stone was carved what Jim thought was the name, James V. Stouder. Worried, he took a better look, the James V. was right but the other name was not Stouder. Relieved, he continued to the restaurant. The department's evangelist, Pappy Archbold, reminds him, "That was a warning; you won't get many more."

Our so-called inspector, Ed Englert, is cracking the whip again. A. H. Topp & Company delivered a carload of sand. Ed's wife will spend the summer mixing cement again. . . . A. H. Topp expanded operations. He now owns a yacht on Hamilton Lake. All his friends are invited. (Nominal charges.) . . . Definition of pleasure: Keeping your wife in the house seven days a week taking care of the family and troubles, while you fiddle faddle among the Christmas trees, peas, apple orchard, and what have you. For more information on a happy week-end see Dave Mannix. . . . An unusually strong smell was noticed in Bldg. 26-4 Monday. It was finally located in Freeman's test. What were you doing, Tom, wading around in your swamp? . . . Paul Peterson and Dutch Norwalt are now going steady again. It is reported that Dutch is now Pete's darling. . . . Rolland H. Mennewich (the "H" is for Herkemer) is now back in Group 406. An expansion of the repair section is now contemplated. . . . Our leading comedian, William Fowler, received a phone call from the A&H Manufacturing Co. Tell us, Bill, what were they selling? . . . Clarence (Hogan) Rainey is in form again. He only threw one club the last round. He finally broke 100.

Dear Joe (And all our other friends in Service): We have been thinking much about you but doing little about it otherwise, so, our column this week is for you. . . . Fort Wayne is a beautiful city at this time of the year with the lilacs and tulips in full bloom at Foster Park, the roses in Lakeside coming to life, homes and yards being beautified. In general your own home town is looking up. . . . We are very busy in Bldg. 6-4 with the departments constantly being changed and improved. . . . Just now the girls on the hand winding machines in 1x33 are being moved into Bldg. 4-4 and will be missed by all. . . . Roy Brower, one of the directors and program chairman for the annual Memorial services at the flag pole in front of Bldg. 19, was just here asking for all who can to participate in this fine service on May 29 at 12:30. He especially has asked for all former Waves and Waacs. A short but fine program has been arranged. The GE Vets are in charge. This is an organization of former service people and you will want to join on your return. . . . We have the same foremen on nights: Frank Brindle, inspection and test, and Louis Becker, general production. Louis is the one who is so fond of gum drops, especially the ones with the anise flavor. Frank's wife is now in Florida and does he ever miss that good old home cooking. Guess he has tried about every restaurant in town but none can compare with the food his wife prepares. . . . As usual, strange and unusual things happen to our fellow workers that bring a laugh or two. For instance, just this week Simon Byrce was painting their kitchen. As he was coming down from the ladder he spilled the entire contents of a can of paint all over himself. Guess he is a human blotter as he said none reached the floor. . . . Then we have a couple of our people who are all puffed up about themselves, not proudly however. Ivy Mills and Marvin Gouker have been having molar trouble. . . . And today, our studious tester, Victor Wiegand is sporting a brand new pair of safety glasses. The boys are calling him Professor. He is a captain in the Air Corps Reserve, you know. . . . You probably have heard from the home folks that Fort Wayne will soon have a TV station. Ivy Mills along with many others are having new sets installed, GE ones, of course. . . . George Johnson, alias Mr. Walker, alias Walt Disney, is pretty clever in portraying various events happening on our floor by his clever cartoons. You would have got a kick out of one he had this week concerning the world's champion fight. . . . Victor Timmerman, one of our recently returned veterans, was proudly introducing his attractive bride to some of his fellow workers in the park this afternoon. Hope you too will soon be with us and establish your home in good old Fort Wayne. . . . Best of good wishes to you from all the Flying Highers in Bldg. 6-4.

Hams to Practice

The GE Ham League team will practice Monday and Wednesday, May 25-27, as Packard Park from 7 to 8 p.m., Manager Bill Schible announced.

Final Little League Practice Tomorrow at Hamilton Park

Tomorrow the last practice session of the Hamilton Park Little League will be conducted and final team selections will be made by the four teams in the league, Charlie Wilt, GE team manager, reported today.

Beginning at 9 a.m., the session will get under way at Hamilton Park. All boys who have been asked to return to tomorrow's meeting should do so, the manager stated.

With the picking of teams tomorrow, league practice will get going next week. Everett Collins has been added to the coaching staff of GE's team, Wilt announced.

Three previous practice sessions for berths on the teams have been conducted since the opening of the league for the 1953 season.

"Roe" Neibel isn't always in the good graces of his pet coon. He came to work recently pampering a hand that the coon bit. . . . Eva Penn and family enjoyed a trip to Holland, Mich., to see the tulips. Alice Robinson, too, enjoyed the week-end at the Tulip Festival. . . . To Ben Porsch who is ill, we wish a speedy recovery. . . . Mark Brindle has been on such good behavior we haven't gotten anything on his recently, but want you to know even though he is awfully quiet, he is still here. . . . Park Schemehorn made a masterpiece of lattice work for the sweet peas, but when he finished he had nailed his finger to it. He isn't sure if it is the "hurt" or "humiliation" which is worse. . . . With June just around the corner Aloysius (Al) Miller would like some advice on the most effective proposal. . . . Birthday greetings to Wilbur Meyers and Dorothy King. . . . Carl Plattner got a crew cut as the other half isn't there to cut. . . . Bill Roberts is putting a bright spot in the test section.

NEW SABRE JET—Successful first flight of the F-86H, fifth and latest in North American's series of sweptwing Sabre Jet fighters, was announced by the Air Force. The F-86H is powered by General Electric's newest and most powerful production jet engine, the J-73. This engine incorporates many advances in design engineering with considerably more thrust, yet it has the same frame size as the famous J-47. The cannon-like object protruding from the nose of the F-86H is an air speed boom used only in flight test work to make exact air speed calibrations.

Owls Open Softball Season With Win Over Harvester

By Howard Colby

The Owl team took their opener in league play Wednesday morning, May 13, at the McMillen Park, by downing International Harvester 8 to 3.

In the first inning, Harvester went scoreless, as the Club got four runs across the plate on six hits, with the entire nine getting a turn at bat. Leading the flurry of single base hits was Scherer, followed by Baker, Boyce, Etter, Taylor, and Crosley.

Harvester tallied a run in their half of the second inning by getting a triple and a single off the Club pitcher, Bud Hower. GE added two more runs in their turn at bat on two hits and a walk to make the score 6 to 2.

In the third inning Harvester went down 1-2-3, while the GE boys pushed another run across home plate as Saxton got a single and advanced to third on a wild throw by Harvester's third sacker, Harrington. Hower brought Sexton in to score when he got a base hit into center field.

The fifth inning found Harvester scoring two runs as Lanning hit a home run and Hower gave up two walks and a single to score the other run before the side was retired.

GE came back with another run in this inning. A base on balls put Blessing on first, he then stole second and crossed the plate on a single by Bud Hower, to make it 8 to 3.

The game ended after Harvester went down 1-2-3 in the top half of the sixth inning due to the time limit set up in league rules.

TOTALS

GE Club: 8 runs, 11 hits, no errors.
Harvester: 3 runs, 5 hits, 1 error.

GE NINE WINS OPENER 3 TO 1

GE defeated Capehart 3 to 1 in the opening game of the Main Auto major league season. Johnny Bright, Bldg. 17-2, pitched a two-hit game for the GE nine. Capehart pitcher Heisner allowed GE five hits and his home run accounted for Capehart's single tally.

GE's three runs came on a triple by Bailey with two men on, and a double by Bright with one man on base.

His ties are terrific! . . . "Jo" Mutchleener, who has been on pension the past several years, sends greetings to all. She reports her health good again. She looks it, too. We were happy to see her, as we are all of our pensioners.

Monday Golf League

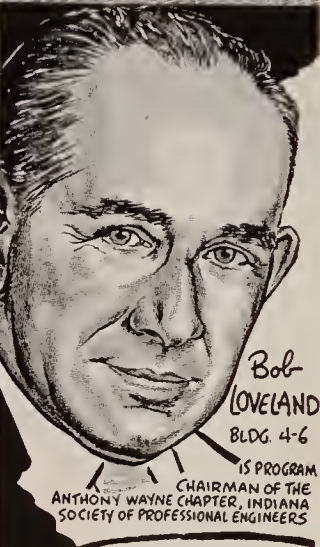

In the Monday afternoon golf league, the High Balls jumped from third to first place at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Divoteers. The Putters defeated Transformer by five strokes. The Wire Mill is now in third place after losing to the Financials by one stroke.

Low scores for the day were: Willie Adams, 38; Carl Saaf, 40; and Paul LeCoque, 42.

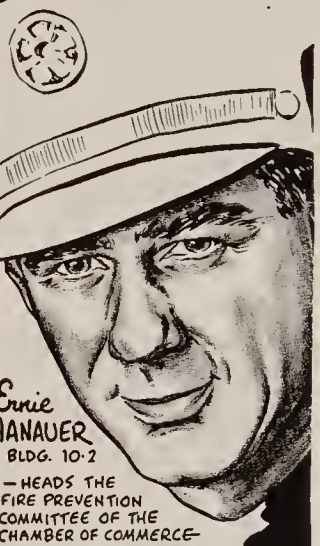

- Q. Do termites appear only at certain times of year?
- A. Yes; termites are observed only at the time they swarm, which is in March and April. At that time they may appear by the thousands in the basement, or occasionally in the first floor, of a house. They then have wings, which they bite off each other. Then they crawl into the ground nearby where they may start additional colonies. They are not noticed in the late spring or early summer.
- Q. How many young does an oyster produce?
- A. A single oyster may produce many millions of offspring, but most of them die because of the hazards of early life. The young leave the parent, swim about freely for a time, then settle down for the rest of their lives on some solid object.

If any GE boxing fans want an expert's opinion on the Marciano-Walcott holocaust, Dick Kent, Bldg. 18-5, has all the inside information. Dick was just walking down the aisle on a $12.50 ticket, as Walcott was counted (or short-counted) out.

Bill Rohe's new theme song is "How Much Is That Doggie in the Greenhouse?" He is having a few difficulties in keeping his dog at home since he broke his way into the neighbor's greenhouse. Everything is settled but Bill is wondering if plants will grow when they are patched in the middle of the stems. . . . Gloria Boling waited for a Taylor St. bus at Jefferson and Broadway. After two or three East Washington busses passed she began to realize she should have been standing at Washington and Broadway. . . . Bill Skinner has lost his voice and is having trouble finding it. If it can be located please return it to him as it will help reduce the use of his neck muscles when nodding or shaking his head yes or no. . . . The winner of the Harper Clifford safety award was Earl Rickey, Jr., not Earl Rickey, Sr. But that shouldn't keep Earl, Sr., from trying. . . . Frank Kilcoin believes all milk containers should be waxed paper containers instead of glass bottles. He was viewing the subject from the safety standpoint because toes can become painful when a gallon jug is dropped on one's foot. . . . As Ray Smith was out in the barnyard he spotted a pretty colored bird and pounced on it without the bird giving him a struggle. When he showed it to his wife she said it was a parakeet and he soon realized why it was an easy catch. . . . Everyone is asking Virgil Howell if the extra show goes along with the trip to Indianapolis and the 500-mile time trials. . . . Birthday greetings to Virgil Dennis, May 24, and Orval Fritch, May 27. . . . If anyone needs any advice on "How to Sell and Buy a House in One Week" see Steve (The Realtor) Bobay.

GIL BAKER

ABSENT-MINDED PROFESSOR: Now, Art Wilson, just because your name appeared in the paper two weeks in succession, don't get puffed-up. Who could resist reporting an item like this: Art wanted to call his home rather urgently. He couldn't remember his home phone number, nor did he have it on his person. He had to call for help from the division personnel files. . . . WELCOME, BOB: Meet Robert (Bob) Mee, drafting trainee working for Walt Whonsetler. He can be found at present beside Bruce Curley. We hope you will soon feel like a full-fledged member of our large family, Bob. . . . ENJOY YOURSELF: Bob Loveland is driving a new Chevie around Fort Wayne. Nice! . . . HURRY, HURRY, HURRY: We are sorry to report that, as of today (Monday, the 18th), Dick Heard is still on the sick list although recovering. We do miss you very much, Richard. We miss your foolish bantering, especially we gals. Please get well soon. . . . SPECIAL NEWS: Two familiar faces will be leaving our division today. They are Early Borner and John Evjen—our special A-Course men. John will continue in the advanced engineering program at Ithaca, and Earl at Utica, New York. They both were members of Max Barrows' group. They are A-Course graduates now along with John Biggs, Donald Knight, HAPPY LISTENING—Vernon Sturm (second from left) holds a radio which was the gift of his co-workers at his retirement party May 8. With him are (l-r) Paul Snyder, John Rockhill, and Arthur Kabisch. Mr. Sturm joined the Company in 1919 on transformer work and was a repair man at Winter St. before retiring.

John Craig, and Mack Hunt. We congratulate you. We also congratulate the wives of the married graduates, who also received diplomas from their patient husbands. Their diplomas read to the "Emaciated A-Course Widows," complete with furbished seal and ribbon. You see, girls, they thought a lot of you after all, to go to all the trouble. We understand the students also presented their instructor, George Woodward, with a very impressive diploma for putting up with the boys during the course. . . . A TRUE MAN: Bob Langdon was seen smoking a cigar like a real hobo. Why throw away half a cigar if you can find a way to smoke it? . . . BIG FEED: Several of the girls took Mary Ellen Hulvery to dinner at W&D's at Baer Field. She was presented with a lovely gift. . . . BIG TRIP IN SHORT TIME: How we envy Donnabelle Diegler. Last Thursday Donna left for a trip to Florida, for her cousin's wedding. The only catch to the trip is that it wasn't long enough, just for the week-end. It's kind of disgusting, isn't it, Donna, not to have had two more weeks? . . . BIRTHDAY TIME: A very happy birthday to our chief reporter, Gil Baker, yesterday May 21, and to Bob Huffman on the same day; and Jack Cochran today, May 22. Gil received an anonymous greeting from a fan in Bldg. 26-2 with the picture of Gil which appeared in last week's GE NEWS all bewhiskered and white-headed, still proudly displaying his trophy, 50 years hence. Gil was also seen displaying something else to fellow-workers in the drafting department last Monday. They were red plaid and he showed them from the waist. He also was wearing a bright green and white "sloppy" shirt. Well, Gil, guess you're only young once. . . . WELCOME: To Hilda (Tillie) Reising, who will be working for Perry Zahn. Tillie formerly worked in motor and generator department and the Fairfield Ave. plant. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Betty Swift, our little mail girl, on the lovely sparkler she is wearing. The lucky fellow is Jack DeBolt, who is now serving in the Army. Betty also will celebrate her birthday on May 25. . . . WHO NEEDS A RAISE? We have decided that out of kindness we should just give Bill Crane the check pool money every Friday.

At least with this he can buy his lunch and car fare. Bill, isn't it rather embarrassing to get on the bus and have to look the crowd over until you find someone you know that will lend you a car check? . . . ILENE HARDISTY will be enjoying the Roller Derby one night this week because she gave the correct answer to a question on the Bob Hill program Monday morning. You have to be up-to-date on current affairs to win. . . . FIRST, BUT OH BROTHER: We open by travelling with the camera around the drafting section on a typical day at 4:35 p.m. Everyone is quietly cleaning his desk, putting things in place for the coming morning. All of a sudden, the camera stops on Bill Manecke, not getting ready to go home, but sitting there calmly smoking his pipe. He cleaned up at 4 p.m. 4:36 Ringgggg!!! Swoosh—If you would have watched closely you might have seen Bill take off when the bell rang. He dashes out, gets his coat, and is the first one on the elevator, situating himself so he will be the first one to dash off. On one particular evening, Everett Letsinger was the last one on the elevator and asked the elevator man to let him off at the second floor. Bill didn't hear this. When the elevator doors opened, Everett attempted to leave, but was shoved aside by that fast moving Manecke. Bill got about 10 feet from the door when he realized his mistake. He rushed back into the elevator amid yells of "Close the door," "Leave him here," "Don't wake him up," and some rather loud guffaws.

Big News! Harold Wilkerson is buying a new car. It's new to him anyway. . . . Dick Reinking was all smiles when he came back from Alabama last week where he went to see his girl friend. She sure must be a nice girl to travel that far, Dick. . . . Married life must be hard on the pocketbook of some people around here. Myron has started a concession stand. What are you going to do with the four cents profit? . . . Welcome to the two new apprentices, John Waltemath, from Churubusco, and Joseph Kraft, from Fort Wayne. . . . Carl Johnson is the proud grandfather of a new granddaughter born last Friday. . . . Mel Guillaume is the star ball player on the girls' team.

We wish Louie Hoffman lots of luck on his new job as foreman on second trick. Bob George is back on first trick, replacing Louie. . . . Dick Gleim thinks that even a "doggie in the window" can bite. When he sends his suit to the dry cleaners he just has a coat to send. . . . Don Macon borrowed a mirror the other day, but it was just to doll up a machine. . . . Must be a Democrat in the crowd. The cage at the south end of the floor carries the sign "Donkey Barn." . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Clementine Dykes, Alberta Foulks, Dorothy Blume, and Margaret McInture. . . . When a feller needs a friend: How did Don Williams like the present the boys took out to his wife? Don't worry, Don, there are plenty of good dry cleaners in town. By the way, Don has a lot of fishworms for sale. . . . Due to the rain last week-end some of our fisherwomen got some of their housecleaning done. . . . Little Vickie Lynne is issuing her calling card from the Leland and Eloise Stetzel Beck home. The mama was a former co-worker. . . . Congratulations to Doris Lontz for having completed 25 years with the Company. . . . Shirley Click has left us to await a small arrival on the Storkline Express. . . . Floetta Zartman went fishing last Friday and caught a sun fish slightly under three inches in length. She sprained her wrist doing it, too. . . . Kate Weigle was on vacation last week. . . . According to the announcer on the 5 o'clock morning program on WOWO it isn't the heat it's the hum-a-ditty. . . . June Deck has left us this week. She and her small son will make their home in France where her husband is stationed. . . . Marylin Yates came to visit us and should be back at work in a week or two. . . . Janet Dillon and Marylin Travis go to the wrestling matches every Wednesday. Getting any good ideas, now that spring is here? . . . Glad to see Alice Dentit and Beulah Johnson back in the groove. . . . On our sick list is Maxine Hathaway, Doris Lontz, and John Gutermuth. . . . Ruth Lester spent the week-end in Bloomington visiting that certain someone at IU.

The younger generation will learn the value of money when it begins paying off our debts.—F. Robert Becker.

We have said good-by to a couple of good fellows, Charlie Jordan, of Bldg. 24, has retired. The boys and girls of Bldg. 26-1 and Bldg. 24 gave him a beautiful wrist watch and a wallet. We hope he has a very nice time from now on. Also, Claude Fryback retired on the same day. The boys gave him a drill set and a box of cigars. Happy times to you. . . . Paul Mueller came to work last week with a very nice shiner. His 14-year-old son pitched him a fast ball, and Pop, not being as young as he used to be, missed and got it in the eye. . . . Roy Redmon's son Bill was in last week to pay us a visit. He is stationed at Tinker Air Base in Oklahoma City, Okla. It was very nice seeing you, Bill. . . . We have had several birthdays in May and wish to say happy birthday to Lennie Janigon, Lawrence Slattevaite, William Guldice, Alva Parker, Arnold Horst-meyer, Charlie Jordan, Paul Noffze, and Martain Wells. . . . Waldo Greider is taking his vacation this week. We hope he has a very nice time.

by Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

That safety is our motto cannot be denied, but quite a bit of question has been raised about over-doing it. Such seems to be the case with a certain person in the carboly section who not only wears suspenders but a belt as well. That could commonly be known as not taking any chances. . . . While we are fighting for the cellar in both major leagues, at least the sun shines every once in a while. When it does for us—look out, boys, we're going to howl. . . . Flash: The poison ivy case reported last week was in error and now we learn that it was from getting stepped on in trying to retrieve a nickel. . . . Since Edna Ward gets such a fiendish delight in using cold water perhaps she did get that broken toe from having a chair thrown at her, instead of dropping a kitchen stool on it. Revenge is sweet, Edna. . . . In case you're interested, we have a celebrity with us—no one else but our own Jim (David Wayne) Smith. Jim says now that he has been recognized he is going on a diet—instead of using two pounds of butter to fry his mushrooms in, he will hereafter use only one pound. After all, he does have a reputation to uphold and the consensus of opinion is that he is already upholding quite a bit. . . . Monday we said good-by to Mert Allen, who left us to assume his new duties in Bldg. 19-3 as a planner. We hate to see you go, Mert, but you take with you our very best wishes for continued success. Do drop back to see us once in a while. . . . Alice Pfeuger extends an invitation to all to enjoy a ride in their rowboat with the new clothes dryer on the back. It's not everyone who can have a piece of machinery that serves two purposes. On advice from experience of boatmen they should take plenty of spare parts along on their trip to Wisconsin. . . . Not like Greta Garbo, who wants to be alone, Larry Reed prefers to have a lot of company. When he came in to work the other Saturday, he found hardly anyone else was here and became quite agitated by the thought of who would take care of him if he should suddenly take sick. He was told that if he passed out, he'd eventually come to; and if he dropped over dead, it wouldn't make any difference. But he failed to be consoled by that line of reasoning. . . . There will be a house warming at Alice Hahn's as soon as she can grow some grass. But if friend husband doesn't quit getting a charlie horse, it may turn in to be a mowing party. (She hopes for a stand of grass like that.) . . . Whether it was the liquid refreshments or the company at the party the other night, we find that Clarence Nussel now won't be allowed out at night—not only does he drive on the wrong side of the street, but he speeds and goes through stop streets. Of course, it could be that "in spring a young man's fancy," etc., but if he doesn't straighten up, the Huntington "flash" will lower the boom on him. . . . Don't crowd, fellows, but John Howard is selling choice lake lots—of course, the lake only appears when it rains. Perhaps with all this rain he figures that it might stay around all season. On the other hand, maybe someone stole it and John doesn't know it's gone yet. . . . Charlie Kensill extends his thanks to John Braden for answering his phone call from Mrs. Kensill the other morning. John says he is above fixing washing machines since he had a dream he was pitching for the White Sox. When do you leave, Red?

Bob Till was planting the garden with his little daughter as a helper when she suddenly cried, "Daddy, come quick! There is a big fish worm over here." Bob hurried over and saw a two-foot gar-t snake go slithering away through the grass. "Some fish-worm," thought Bob as he went back to his planting. . . . Carl Hattendorf could have had some good turtle soup if he had stopped long enough to catch it on the road last Sunday. The Hattendorfs like grilled hamburgers better. . . . Johnny Miles passed cigars around last week because he just couldn't bear to see half of the gang smoking. A good idea, like a match, is useless until you strike it into flame. Thanks, Johnny. . . . Our sympathy to Herb Lindenberg who has that dread disease, fishing pox. Herb says since nothing will cure it, he has become resigned to his fate. . . . Bill Lavine reports plenty of rain in Steuben county. The roof sheathing on his cottage is in full bloom. Might try cutting down the trees, Bill. . . . "Sneaky Passer" Nix is giving euchre lessons each noon. "No Trump" Ralstin has had too many lessons—he can make two points with no trump. . . . Congratulations to Eleanor Stolph who is now Mrs. John Franke, and to Bernice Frick a happy birthday. . . . Congratulations are also in order for Theron Kitchen who is a grandpa again. This time it was a boy and he's walking on air. . . . Section 14 welcomes Augustin Rodriguez and Cliff Bieber. . . . We are happy to see Mike Bustus back at work after his illness. . . . Marie McDougall went to Norfolk, Va., to visit with her brother who is stationed with the Navy. . . . Lowell Arnold and wife attended the Festival at the Coliseum. Right in the middle of the program an announcement was made over the PA system that someone's auto motor was running in the parking lot. Mrs. Arnold was quite upset to learn her husband had locked the car and forgot to shut off the motor. . . . Henry Carnall bought a television set and now he is enlarging the living room so the family can sit way back and get the proper perspective. . . . Was Slim Miller's face red when he demonstrated a tight motor to Ewald Stinsmuehlen. Slim thought the bearings were so badly damaged that he couldn't get the rotor out of the motor, until Ewald suggested Slim remove a nut from the clamp bolt. Slim remarked, "First time anything like this ever happened to me." . . . Paul Hitzeman is sure glad the bowling season is over. Now he is mowing the yard instead of mowing 'em down at the bowling alley. . . . Anyone knowing the whereabouts of a good retriever contact Gene Ralstin, who has made very little progress towards finding his drill index. . . . Herb Tons brought in a picture of his cottage at Lake Gage and also a picture of a very large turtle his wife had caught. Herb Kellmeier scooped up some frogs in a net attached to the front of his speed boat, so now we know there are frogs and turtles in the lake, but how about fish? When questioned along this line, Mr. Tons shyly admitted he only had two good catches last year. Even though Lake Gage is known for its beauty, it fails to satisfy the longings of avid fishermen.

"Ed blew up one day about my clothes crowding his and said he was determined to have his own closet!"

Decatur's Switch Without A Hitch

CAUSE OF THE ACTION—Parts of the new Form G motor move into the scene on one of the trays of the continuous conveyor that travels through both buildings at Decatur, while parts of the Form B, left, move out.

With cooperation the keynote, 725 employees of the Decatur plant are nearing the completion of the "switch without a hitch" from Form B fractional horsepower motor production to the new Form G motor.

Far from a push button move, the transition to the new General AC Motor Sub-Department product has involved a major overhauling of the plant's two buildings and installation of much new equipment.

During the time this change has been taking place, the 725 men and women maintained their regular high level production output of Form B motors. The gradual switch from manufacturing one product to another followed close on the heels of installation of new machinery and renovation activities.

Being able to carry on the regular work schedule while conducting a major move was quite a task, but proof of the success is shown in the production record of Form B's and by the new Form G's rolling off assembly lines.

Like living in one part of a room while carpenters rebuild another part, Decatur employees on regular manufacture worked side by side with others engaged in the multitude of tasks involved in the switch. Not only were manufacturing areas affected, but new offices were also installed.

The confusion which seemingly existed to the casual observer, also confronted employees, who found it difficult to keep track of sections and equipment at times, because of the swiftly moving program.

By-passing original plans to shut down the plant for the month of August and conduct the switch, the earlier period of the transition was set to meet increasing customer acceptance of the new Form G motor and to eliminate layoffs.

Soon, the observer will see, in both manufacturing and office areas, an almost completely re-modeled plant as proof of the success of teamwork.

MEMBERS OF THE CAST—Continuing with Form B production, Fred L. Brokaw operates a multi-spindle flange turning machine while near him, J. K. Eady (kneeling), and Kenneth Beard check installation of a new machine which performs the same operation as the machine in the foreground and also presses in bearings.

EXIT OLD SYSTEM—Base washing was performed for the Form B as shown by Fred Hurry.

ENTER NEW METHOD—One of the new machines installed during the switch to Form G is the new base washing machine operated by Milton Chronister.

For A More Pleasant Week-End

With the Memorial Day week-end starting at the close of work today, all employees and their families are cautioned to obey health and safety rules so as to enjoy this period of rest and recreation to the fullest extent.

Jaunts are being planned to the lakes and hills and automobiles will undoubtedly jam the highways, resulting in an increase in the number of accidents. People also have a tendency to over-exercise and over-eat while away from home, and with the swimming season getting underway, the sun-burn and drowning dangers move to the fore. Poison ivy and the drinking of impure water are among other summer dangers.

Be sure you drive carefully, exercise moderately, pay special attention to your diet and take every precaution in exposing your body to the sun's rays.

If you abide by these few health and safety hints you will be sure to have a more pleasant Memorial Day week-end.

Memorial Day—1953

The reverent custom of decorating the graves of the soldier dead of our Republic during the month of May was instituted in the South in the late 1860's, and soon thereafter was adopted by the northern states.

It is during May that flowers and blooms are at their loveliest in Dixie; on May 30, which became the official Memorial Day generally throughout the Union, flowers for decorating the graves are profuse in all the states.

The designation of "Decoration Day" is perhaps more widely used, for it has become customary to decorate all graves, civilian as well as military. But in almost every city and town on May 30, the flag will be at half-staff, a bugler will sound Taps, and a grateful nation will pause to honor the memory of those who gave their lives to defend our freedom.

STORIES FROM G-E HISTORY—No. 4

Start of Appliance Business, Apprentice Training Program

Sometimes when we rummage back for the beginnings of movements or policies that have been of supreme importance in the history of the Company we find that they do not seem quite as impressive as we would like them to be. That is how history happens and it cannot be rewritten in the light of hindsight. But if there is an invincible ordinariness about the events that are dug up from the past, they are all the more convincing on that account and all the more endearing as anecdotes—and they are certainly none the less significant.

At the beginning of the 1920's lamps and fans were about the only General Electric products sold to the public at large—in fact, few electrical products of any sort were on the market. General Electric products consisted principally of turbines and generators, motors and other apparatus sold mostly to industry, railroads and public utilities. Between 1925 and 1930 the Company devised and put into production many new electrical appliances, designed to help banish drudgery in the home. Refrigerators, radios, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and many smaller appliances were put on the market. As sales volume increased and improved methods of production were worked out, the selling prices were steadily reduced. At the same time vast improvements were made in the products themselves—they lasted longer and consumed less electricity, so that each year millions more families were able to afford them.

The decision that implemented this policy was one of the most important in the history of the Company, but the manner in which it appeared to the public was lacking any sort of flourish. As it leaked out in a bulletin issued to share owners in 1926 it was far from spectacular. Four out of the five pages of this bulletin were devoted to extolling the advantages of what were then called "convenience outlets." It was pointed out that these should be installed in absolutely every room. But the prospect of "convenience" to be obtained from these outlets was not very great because at the time the Company was hardly making anything that could be plugged into them. The list of appliances available occupied only half a page of the text of this little pamphlet. Anyone who followed the booklet's advice and had his home thoroughly wired with all the different types of outlets must have had to sit back for quite a while and wonder what happened next.

In the same way when we look back to the beginnings of the apprentice training course, started at Lynn 50 years ago, we find that the first announcements of it seem anything but inviting to us at the present time. Boys between the ages of 16 and 18 were invited to work for 56 hours a week, and the starting rate of payment was 6 cents an hour. The announcement went on to say that those boys who were to come along and work for $3.36 a week were expected to be of "respectable parents." Fortunately there were plenty of respectable parents around and plenty of boys who were willing to accept the conditions, for the Lynn apprentice course has turned out some of the leading men in today's business world.

On This Memorial Day

Throughout all America, Land of the Free,
Our homage, we pause here to pay—
To our dead, in appropriate tribute,
On this hallowed Memorial Day.

And to thus honor these departed loved ones,
Now gone to a realm for aye,
In an eternal peace they now slumber,
On this most solemn occasion in May.

Throughout our America, Home of the Brave,
Treasured memories, we now consecrate—
In silent tribute, we bow at each grave,
With our love, and our flowers, so dedicate.

From those Civil War days—at Fort Sumter,
And through Gettysburg—Blue against Gray,
Were engaged in a terrible conflict—
With their lives and blood, did so many thus pay.

In immortal words, did Abraham Lincoln
Voice high tribute, in what he had said:
"But the world will long remember
What they did here"—of those honored dead.

Years later—now recorded in history—
From the doom of the battleship Maine—
Brave heroes have died, on land and sea,
In many conflicts—then with Spain.

From a still later page in our history—
Of Flanders Field, and The Argonne, we've read,
Where noble men—who, for our liberty,
Gave their all—and today, lie dead.

Through the Somme, the Marne, and Verdun,
Our Doughboys had fought, side by side—
Through a war, to end all future wars,
Those comrades of ours bled and died.

Some of them were my buddies and schoolmates,
Most of them were happy and gay—
Then in France, they died for our freedom—
But, I can not forget them today.

Then—from that "black day" at Pearl Harbor,
Sad events—far too many to name—
Despite blood, and tears, and those heartaches,
World War Two went on—just the same.

And in Africa, Europe, and Asia—
On land, and on sea, and in air,
Someone's loved ones, in their bid for our freedom,
Nobly gave their lives, for us, over there.

For the cause of a just peace, and freedom,
They took everything in their stride—
While they fought for a victory, with honor,
And, for that victory, have they died.

From the bleak shores of far-off Greenland,
To Pacific Islands, far over the sea—
Hunger—hardships—death—and privations,
They endured there, to keep all of us free.

And now, that dread conflict in Korea,
Where our sons are engaged, side by side—
Fighting valiantly, that evil Red Menace—
Thus, in combat, have those dear ones so died.

That we may have a just peace, with honor—
That our dear boys come home, once again,
Is our fervent prayer on this Memorial Day—
And, that our dead have not died in vain.

Let us, therefore, give thanks for our blessings—
And, as we now pause here, to pay
Our respects, in memory of these dead;
To a most merciful God, do we pray:

"Almighty God, our Father in Heaven,
Bless our dead, wherever they lay—
We ask thee, for Thy Divine Guidance—
And, for a lasting peace, do we pray.

Thy blessings, we ask Thee, our Father,
For our loved ones, and others—today—
We pray Thee, to keep us together,
Until another Memorial Day."

Dorene Tully says the gypsies come out in the spring. So, she came to work Monday wearing four necklaces, strands of beads, three bracelets, four earrings (all mis-matched), rings, and a scarf around her head. People didn't know her and wondered whether to become alarmed, ask for a reading, or just what. But Evelyn Dougherty and Theresa Prime worked by her all day with many good laughs. . . . Vic Hall was discussing spelling one day recently. It was never the subject he excelled in, but he recalled once as a lad he would have won a spelling contest but for one word—"enuf." Just as he finished the statement he quickly added, "If you are the reporter I have said e-n-o-u-g-h!" . . . Alma Johnson has returned to work after several months' illness. . . . Oliver Bowman has been grandpa since December. He thought he was keeping it a secret. Finally co-workers decided it was time to let Oliver in on the fact that he had no secret and they thought it was time for him to treat. Oliver insists his purpose in the secret was that people might think he is older than he is if they knew he was a grandfather. . . . Harry Fawley reported to his foreman recently that catching a parakeet isn't easy and is expensive. He missed a day's work, and his little daughter a day's school, chasing her bird that took flight early in the morning. At 3:45 p.m. it came right down and sat on Harry's shoulder. Harry had scarcely enough strength left to return it to its cage but little Nancy was very happy. Now, if anyone can think of a better story for absenteeism we would like to hear it. Occasionally we need one, too.

MILKMAN STOPS ON BLDG. 17-4—A one-ton milk delivery panel truck came to Bldg. 17-4 recently where an electrical system which drives the refrigeration system compressor is being built and installed. Owned by the Allen Cooler Division of Production Planning Corp., the truck is being driven into the freight elevator by Bill Meek, model shop employee.

Two Parties, Rummage Sale On Elex Club June Schedule

Three June events have been announced by Elex Club officers. Thursday, June 4, a Bon Voyage party has been slated for all persons taking the European trip. Friday, June 5, a rummage sale will be conducted, and the second shift members have scheduled a June Breakfast, Tuesday, June 9.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the YWCA dining room will be the scene of the Bon Voyage party. The meeting has been planned to afford everyone taking the Elex sponsored trip the opportunity to become acquainted.

Refreshments will be served and favors presented. A bag packing demonstration will be staged by Helen Wood, Wolf & Dessauer travel consultant.

Invitations have been mailed to persons taking the vacation and reservations should be made with Doris McKeefe, Elex travel consultant, Bldg. 18-1, Ext. 454.

Monday, June 1, is the deadline for reservations for the trip, Miss McKeefe stated, and added that final payments must be made by June 15.

The YWCA will again be the site of an Elex function when the second shift girls convene there at 11:30 a.m. June 9 for their June Breakfast. Reservations may be made with the contact girls for $1.25 per person. Deadline for reservations is Friday, June 5.

Elex will conduct a rummage sale Friday, June 5, at 2028 S. Hanna St., Emma Vaughn, chairman, revealed. Persons who have items for the sale should leave them at the gates of the plant or contact the Women's Activities office, Bldg. 18-1, Ext. 555, or Evelyn Blakley, Taylor St., Ext. 2519 and the items will be picked up at their homes. All articles should be turned in by Wednesday, June 3.

Assisting the chairman with arrangements for the sale are: Luella Tarmon, co-chairman, and June Denny, and Helen Wagner.

A great philosopher once said: "A work well done never needs doing over." Wonder if he ever tried weeding his garden!

Local Firefighters to Stage Community Demonstration June 3 At Taylor St. Training Grounds

Wednesday, June 3, a Community Industrial Fire Prevention Program will be staged at the Taylor St. firemen's training grounds, Ernie Hanauer, GE fire chief, announced this week.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee, of which Chief Hanauer is chairman, the two-hour session will get underway at 1:45 p.m.

The program will include demonstrations of hazards of cutting and welding, electrical, solvents, chemicals, paint and varnish, and sprinkler protection. Right and wrong methods of fire prevention and extinguishing will be demonstrated also.

Approximately 12 employees of city industries will participate in the session. The six community organizations to have participants in the program are: General Electric Company, International Harvester Company, U. S. Rubber Company, Tokheim Oil Tank & Pump Company, Aircraft Gear Division of Dana Corp., and the Fort Wayne Fire Department.

Merle Morkoetter, GE battalion chief, is a member of the C. of C. committee in charge of the program.

Monday RSVP Deadline For Foremen's Meeting

Monday is the deadline for reservations for the Wednesday, June 3, meeting of the Foremen's Association. Tickets are $1.00 per person and may be secured from contact men.

Conducted at the Southwest Conservation Club, the meeting will begin at 5 p.m. Highlighting the program will be the initiation of new members by Ed Klomp, chairman; J. Wilmer LaVine, and Robert Hatfield.

Various outdoor sporting events will precede the buffet dinner. The pre-dinner program is being planned by William L. Paulson and C. William Hale.

All members joining the organization since April 1, 1951, will be included in the initiation ceremony.

er, who "makes 'em come to me." Not to be overlooked is our learned Solomon Kremer, 2nd shift traveler and "I've been there" lecturer. . . . A deep bow and doffing of the hat to Elmer Devaux, who not only sounds like Bing Crosby, but rivals him in his splendid attire. . . . Helen Fletters complains that she never sees her name in print—well, Helen, do something silly like the rest of us and it will all come to light. . . . Last Friday there were about umpteen loads of sawdust ordered. Cause: John (Red) Braden's attempt to prevent his ball game from being postponed, but it was all to no avail. . . . Even if your basement is above street level, it still doesn't keep water from coming in, says Charlie Kensill. . . . Speedy recovery to those on our ailing list—Norm Haugh, Ezra Garringer, and Ed Schneider. . . . The hex has certainly been put on Ray Bowers. In walking around his car the other day, he slipped, fell, and broke his wrist. He and his family certainly have had their share of bad luck.

Supervisors Plan Barbecue Picnic at Log Cabin June 11

The Log Cabin will be the site of a barbecue picnic planned for Thursday, June 11, by members of the Supervisors Club, Robert D. Hughes, Bldg. 20-2, and Arnold C. White, Bldg. 19-1, co-chairmen of the event, revealed this week.

Complete with a real barbecue over an open charcoal fire, the picnic will be staged outdoors unless there is rain. In this case, the meeting will be conducted indoors, the co-chairman stated.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m., dinner will be served. Facilities will be available for softball, horseshoes, and other outdoor sports before and after dinner. Refreshments and other entertainment have been included in the program also.

Monday, June 1, is the deadline for making reservations. Invitations were mailed to members this week and should be returned to Mr. Hughes.

Group 3 of the organization is in charge of this meeting. Members of the group assisting the co-chairmen are: Merle Morkoetter and Paul G. Dannecker, refreshments; Hubert Myers and Max Cotterman, sports; and Vic Barnes and Lowell Mason, grounds.

If you take to the highway this holiday week-end, be careful. We want to see you next week. . . . Sympathy is extended to Florence Fett in her recent bereavement of Mrs. Venis. The next morning Beulah met everyone at the door. At 7 o'clock, no raincoat. When it was time to go home Beulah had two coats and was she happy. Joan had come in to work a little late. . . . Elmer Debolt spent two days in Indianapolis. He said the time went much too fast. . . . Jim Hall says he wonders where everyone is going in such a hurry at 3:25 p.m. . . . SHOWS RETIREMENT GIFT—Charles Jordan shows a watch he received as a retirement gift from his co-workers on his last day of work at General Electric. Mr. Jordan joined the Company in 1917 as a hand winder. He was employed in Bldg. 26-1 before retiring.

TOOL BITS

by Don Clark

Bill Dafforn made one of his rare visits to the tool room last week. Bill looks good and says he is keeping plenty busy. . . . Straw Hat Day didn't mean anything to Charles Laymon. He had his hat working two weeks prior to the official day. Now we wouldn't be surprised if they don't move the date up next year. That's okay, Charlie—your hat really has class. . . . Ross Cohagen has a busy summer ahead. His program calls for applying two coats of house paint, removing five tons of coal from his basement, building a tool shed and taking two weeks' vacation. Boy, will he be a tired young man! . . . From all appearances Glenn Hoon should wear a football helmet when he sticks his head under the hood to investigate engine trouble on his Ford. The new ones are different, Glenn. . . . Bill Niles became an embarrassed fireman the other day. He reported Bob Bryan's machine on fire, only to find it was cutting oil fog. . . . Ron Blodgett must be mad at his wife. Have you noticed his noticeable mustache? . . . Harold Cutler really feels his age this week. He's become a grandpa again. . . . Dick Gecowets started digging his basement before Easter. Since then, the water he has pumped exceeds the dirt he has dug. Why don't you start on your well instead, Dick? Then you'll be glad when you start pumping water. . . . The second shift welcomed Gilbert Ricker, Kenneth Fry and Warren Spriggs. . . . We have two types of drivers in the grinder section. Paul Weaver is the hit and run type. He hit a skunk the other night and kept right on going. Lee Richardson wasn't so lucky. He hit a log and knocked the front wheels off his new tractor. . . . Lindy Bryant and Ray Laster have an after work car polishing service. Everything in the partnership went fine until last week when three hearses were brought in for washing. The owner casually remarked to Ray that one car contained a body for shipment. So Ray hurriedly went to work, but couldn't keep his mind off of the contents of the one machine. Finally he decided to peek to see if it was really true. Just as he looked in one window someone else's curiosity caused him to look in the opposite window and bingo the partnership was over. Ray saw a man's face looking at him and all the forces of imagination in Ray's mind snapped to attention as Ray's feet carried him speedily down the street. . . . It took Jim Buchheit the other noon to revive the old funnel-water-nickel trick. He was trying to convince Stewart Bohrer that Stewart couldn't tilt back his head, balance a nickel on his forehead, and by raising his head cause the nickel to drop into the funnel that was tucked into the waist line of his trousers. Stewart wouldn't bite, but much to his sorrow Erwin Wibke did. Just as Erwin balanced the coin on his forehead a glass of cold water into the funnel brought him to attention. The coin—it missed the funnel.

Specialty Motor Launches Diamond Jubilee Contest

A Specialty Motor Sub-Department 75th Anniversary contest for employees got under way last week as General Manager J. J. Clarkson outlined the program. Designed to strengthen the Company during its Diamond Jubilee, the contest will include competitive projects in three areas. They are: Project-Cost Reduction, Project-Engineering, and the Specialty Motor counterpart of the Company-wide "Diamond Derby" contest.

Approximately $1,500 in certificates good for the purchase of General Electric products will be awarded.

Project-Cost Reduction

Any employee or group of employees of the sub-department, except supervisory personnel, will be eligible to submit an entry. Nominations for the award are to be made by the chairmen of the cost reduction committees of each manufacturing section in cooperation with the section superintendent. The awards will be based on the amount of net annual savings and judging will be the responsibility of a committee consisting of M. R. Cameron, T. L. Staley, F. L. Gale, and W. A. Pringle.

Project-Engineering

All engineers, engineering assistants, and draftsmen of the sub-department, except supervisory personnel, are eligible to participate. Awards will be based on creative design, product improvement, cost reduction through redesign, and improvement in engineering efficiency. Anyone eligible in this field may make a nomination for an award with the approval of the interested engineering supervisor or supervisor of drafting.

Judging in this area will be by I. E. Ross, H. B. Carter, and C. M. Summers.

Project-Order Contest

In the Specialty Motor counterpart of the Company-wide "Diamond Derby" contest, all members of the sub-department will be eligible, except supervisory personnel and marketing personnel who receive an Apparatus Sales Division award for the same order.

The basis for awards will be: 1) the teamwork used in getting an order should represent the best utilization of the facilities of the sub-department; 2) the order should have a favorable effect on customer relations and future business opportunities; 3) the order must represent extra effort in terms of ingenuity, imagination, and industry.

The judging panel will consist of R. C. Hanna, J. J. Horan, R. W. Groot, A. L. Johnson, and F. D. Wilson.

The contest closes September 1. Additional information may be obtained from foremen and supervisors.

Rites Held Wednesday For Paul Stiverson

Services for M. Paul Stiverson, 45, were conducted Wednesday, May 27, at the C. M. Sloan & Sons Funeral Home by the Rev. George McMican. Mr. Stiverson, who resided at 2728 Rousseau St., died Sunday, May 24. Burial was in Prairie Grove Cemetery.

Mr. Stiverson joined the Company in July, 1942. He was a balancer at Taylor St. at that time. Since January, 1945, he has been in Bldg. 26-1 on set-up and punch and die work.

Surviving are his widow, Lucille, two sons, Kenneth Paul and Billy; one daughter, Elaine, and a brother, Raymond, with the U. S. Air Force, Sequin, Tex.

ATTENTION TO ALL WHO MAY BE CONCERNED: Due to the possibility that someone was inadvertently forgotten, please consider this an open invitation (to all whom it may concern) to come to the retirement party for Georgia Garrett, June 10, 1953. Contributions to her retirement gift and scrapbook are also welcome. For details on the above, contact W. Berkheiser, Bldg. 4-5, Ext. 2341, no later than June 4, 1953. . . . OH HAPPY DAY: Bells will be ringing for Mary Ellen Hulvey and Don Gottlieb on June 7 at 2:30 p.m. We bid farewell to Mary Ellen today. May you have all the happiness in the world. A personal shower was given last Monday evening in honor of Mary Ellen by Donabelle Degler and Marge Murphy. Games were played and a manuscript was read. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY: To Rita Alspaugh on May 29; Karl Feiertag, on May 31; H. P. Love, June 1, and Charley Wurm, June 4. . . . Speaking of birthdays, can you imagine anyone forgetting their birthday until they see it published in the GE NEWS? BEST WISHES: Today we bid farewell to Johnny Reuille as a member of the specialty motor engineering department. He has transferred to the specialty motor marketing section under J. J. Horan. We'll miss you, Johnny, and we wish you all the good luck in the world in your new assignment. . . . HI! We would like to welcome Patricia Lee Curtis, the new messenger gal taking Alma Shenfield's job. . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK: Leaving us today are three of our A-Course students, Donald Knight, from Max Barrow's group, whose next assignment will be in the A and O's department at Schenectady. Mac Hunt and Dudley McCurdy, who have been assisting Bob Loveland's group. Mac will probably sign up with A and O's at Schenectady, too, while Dudley is joining the Philadelphia switchgear division. Good luck to you all, boys. We won't forget you. . . . ENJOY YOURSELF? Dick Parker returned from a week's vacation at Louisville, Ky. . . . I'M A BIG GIRL NOW: Nancy Ingram left Saturday for a two week vacation. Nancy is making a wonderful trip and will visit the following places: Grand Canyon, Santa Ana, Calif., Los Angeles, Deming, New Mexico, Mexico, and Sweetwater, Texas. . . . HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN: Joan Michael is all smiles these days. Her fiance returned to the States after 17 months in Korea. He telephoned Joan from Denver, where he was awaiting his discharge. By this time he should be in Fort Wayne, and the wedding plans taking shape. Joan has been sailing on a cloud all week. . . . OUR EMBARRASSED SECRETARY: Lela Omspach has demonstrated, to her own satisfaction, and to a few who caught her in the act, that there are more ways than one to acquire binocular vision. When her new bifocals seemed to be causing her some unexpected discomfort, she decided that maybe they should be cleaned. So imagine, if you will, her great surprise, when removing them, to find one perfectly good bifocal lens and nothing but a hole where the other should have been. Yes, she found it in her case. Think of all she may have missed. . . . CONGRATULATIONS: And best wishes to Ted Hicks, who is celebrating his birthday today, May 29. . . . BILL CRANE is still maintaining first place in telling the corniest stories. Emmet, of course, is in second place. . . . PAUL HORSTMAYER is getting to be quite an experienced baby sitter. In case you find yourself without a gal some night he would probably be glad to substitute. Note: Paul has said that the production section never has any news in this column so we had to prove he was wrong some way. . . . A. J. ROSE is grandpa again. His youngest daughter, Marilyn, announces the arrival of Sylvia on May 19. Marilyn and Bob live in Marion. . . . TILLIE REISING is really getting great at golfing. Last Sunday she lost only one golf ball to the swamps. . . . VIRGINIA DAVIS will be leaving us today. A surprise (and I mean surprise) stork shower was held for her last Friday night at Ilene Hardisty's home. Ginny was speechless for a while, but she recovered enough to open all the lovely gifts. . . . Fred L. Jones, that popular gentleman from the deep South, bids farewell to Fort Wayne today, as he and wife and son leave for Fort Bliss, Tex., where he will serve as a second lieutenant in the Artillery Corps. The Jones family will visit in Mississippi before Fred joins the troops. Good luck and hurry back, Full Load.

Tomorrow is Memorial Day. Take it easy if you are planning a trip. Always be ready to give the other fellow a "brake." . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Ellen Grimes, Doris Lontz, Chester Hill, and Bill Orr. . . . Congratulations on the new blue-bootied addition at the Herman and Drucella Glass Mickle home. The mama was a former co-worker. . . . When Frank Beck gets his ears lowered, he really does a good job of it. At least he doesn't have any hair to wash, and less to comb. . . . Mildred Huntine went fishing last week and for a purse, of all things. . . . Was Beth Heersche surprised when she arrived home to find that she had some things from the drug store she hadn't purchased. . . . The girls on line 1 gave a farewell potluck for Esther Boddy, who left us last Saturday for a full-time house-keeping job. . . . Among those from our floor that attended the Roller Derby were Dick Gleim and Lorena Buuck. . . . Just eight weeks until vacation. We just know that those taking the trip to Europe are starting to count the days. . . . George and Fay Stockberger celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary last week. We wish you many more of them. . . . Hot dogs? Last Friday Eleanor Sellers was standing at her machine barefooted. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Ed Meyers, who is in the Lutheran Hospital. . . . Also, a speedy recovery to Mary McMonigal's mother, who has been seriously ill. . . . Our sympathy is extended to Walter Kryder on the loss of his mother.

Inquiring Reporter:

IF YOU COULD TAKE A TRIP ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD TODAY, WHERE WOULD YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL?

C. DOYLE JOHNSON
Bldg. 26-4
"I would like to take a trip to Europe. I think it would be a great experience to tour England and attend the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth."

MARTHA JANE ENGLERT
Bldg. 6-4

"Many people have traveled abroad on trips only to have a guide tell them there is something more beautiful in the United States. I would like to take my time and travel the whole of North America seeing each place during its best season."

CARL D. HOWER
Bldg. 20-1
"I am interested in South America because I have a daughter in missionary work there. However, my first choice for a trip would be Europe, especially Jerusalem and vicinity."

EUGENE KORNEILL
Taylor St.

"First of all, I would want to see as much of this country as possible. I've been in England and I've been on the east coast, but I've never been west. The Pacific coast would be my choice to see."

BONNIE L. GERBER
Bldg. 19-1
"I would like to travel through the European countries, most of all Switzerland because of its beautiful lakes in the mountains and its scenic valleys."

6-4 AIRLINERS

by ELLEN BAUER

We were told Millie Koehler paid out good money to see the big fight in Chicago. Did you get your money's worth, Millie? . . . Hazel Leonard wishes to thank all of her co-workers and the Elex Club for the wonderful things they did for her during her hospitalization. . . . Lu McCague tried to pay for her lunch by giving the cashier her empty tray. Really, Lu, there is a place for those dirty dishes, but they may let you wash them to pay for your lunch. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Ruth Baker. . . . If you don't think "money flies," you should see Esther Fagan. She can prove it. . . . If you noticed a lot of dust around town last week it was Glen Archibold and his wife kicking up their heels celebrating their fourth wedding anniversary. Belated congratulations to you both. . . . Note to Barbara Ternet: If you want to stop for refreshments after work you're either gonna have to carry your birth certificate or leave your jeans at home. You still look like a little girl. . . . We're sorry to lose Bob Keim, our 10 frame inspector. He is going on 3rd trick. . . . Welcome to Renee Colon. He has joined the 10 frame line. Now all the girls are learning Spanish. . . . If you tied Moe's hands behind his back, he couldn't talk. That goes for Andy Anderson, too. . . . Mac McCoy gave up smoking but it didn't last long. Did the gang get on your nerves, Mac? . . . We are glad to have Esther Bennett back among us. . . . Wava Miller seemed to be having shoe trouble last week. She came up missing one shoe for about an hour or so. Next time, leave your shoes on, Wava. . . . We hope everyone has a safe and happy Decoration Day. . . . Ruth Baker let her mother fix her lunch the other day. Ruth would have liked it better if she had cooked the eggs.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tarr, who were married last Saturday. Mrs. Tarr is the former Lois Ulrey of Bldg. 20-2. It was a beautiful wedding. Too bad more of her co-workers couldn't have seen it. . . . Arnold Landis had a surprise when he came to work last week. On his desk was a pencil sharpener with a 5 h.p. motor connected to it—a guaranteed time saver. . . . Stinie and Tucker, of Bldg. 10, are going to vacation together. They have special plans for financing the trip. How about a sneak preview sometime, fellows? . . . Everyone in Bldg. 9 wonders how Gerald Scott got the shiner, but until they find the other guy they will have to be content with the explanation that a ruptured blood vessel did it. . . . Otto Gessner and Ray Bailey are sporting new spring bonnets. They are very becoming, boys! . . . Did you know that Roland Eagleson can get Havana, Cuba, on his TV set? Come, come now. . . . We are glad to have Carl Furge back to work after being ill. Carl says a good way to get ulcers is to start building a garage and planning a breakfast nook. . . . Hello to Beverly Glass and Jean Roden-

'Caravan of Chemical Progress' to Visit Fort Wayne Thursday on Midwest Tour

The "Caravan of Chemical Progress," a specially constructed display of virtually every product made by the Chemical Division, will visit the Fort Wayne plant during its mid-western tour next Thursday, June 4. Containing more than 400 items in nine major product lines, the exhibit will be set up in the GE Club, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Arrangements are being made by J. J. Clarkson, general manager, Specialty Motor Sub-Department.

The Caravan's exhibits and accompanying presentations will bring to Fort Wayne a complete story on the products and services which the Chemical Division offers to all GE manufacturing activities. Invitations are being sent to management personnel in engineering, marketing, manufacturing and purchasing sections here.

The exhibit travels in a specially fitted trailer truck and consists of nine different display units featuring the following product lines: insulating materials, silicones, industrial laminates, molded plastics, plastics molding compounds and materials, foundry resins, GE Textolite decorative laminates, and resins and varnishes for varied industrial uses.

The Caravan is under the tour management of Howard L. Franks, manager of sales personnel and control for the Chemical Division, assisted by marketing trainee Donald H. McQuistion. They will be accompanied here by members of the division's administrative, marketing and engineering management who will make special presentations of those products having particular significance to Fort Wayne manufacturing activities.

beck, who recently came to work in Bldg. 20-2. . . . The story just comes out! During mushroom season Mel Bueeler did quite a bit of hunting but wasn't too sure of what he found. Just to be on the safe side, he gave them to a supervisor in Bldg. 6. After noticing that he survived, Mel tried the mushrooms himself. . . . Kenny Habecker was having a difficult day and was a few minutes late on one of the afternoon trips. When he got to the bus Art Rasor of the wire mill said, "Good morning, Kenny." When Kenny told him it was afternoon, Art said that it seemed that he had been waiting since morning and didn't realize it was afternoon.

30 YEARS AT GE—A 30-year anniversary as a General Electric employee was celebrated May 5 by Everett Hamilton (left). He was a clerk when he first came to the Company in 1918, and is now a leading operator in Bldg. 26-1. Shown with him are Frank Lemish (center) and Paul Broxon.

Bernard Shroyer and Ed Willey were so envious of the girls in switch section that they got sheared over the week-end. . . . If Gladys Pantizan could have found the right policeman she wouldn't have gotten lost in Indianapolis. She says the State finals of the track meet were really good. . . . Would someone tell Kenneth Brown when Decoration Day is so he won't have to worry for two weeks getting ready for it. . . . Bernadine Warner is riding around in a new Plymouth. . . . Max Turnbow (known as Tennessee Ernie) drove to Memphis, Tenn., over the week-end. He said there wasn't much traffic for he drove 600 miles in 10 hours. We know he must have flown low. He has a nice sunburn, or was it wind burn? . . . Veloris Shull came in all dressed up with a yellow bow in her hair. Who is she trying to impress? . . . Al Reidenbach and Sydonna Fox turned in the parking lot quickly when Al noticed he was going the wrong way on Berry St. . . . Otto Geiger is somewhat confused trying to lay asphalt blocks in his bathroom. We wish you luck, Otto, and hope your plumbing works out all right. . . . Al Geifert is reported to have been an excellent host at the Union party Saturday night. . . . We are happy that Wilbur Gray's son is on the mend with a broken arm. . . . We can't understand why Ed Bandt hasn't any news after being here 40 years.

To have a daughter getting married must be exciting. Katy O'Conner was seen picking up her lunch to go to the rest room instead of her pocketbook. . . . We are wondering if Peg drove 100 miles just to get a free shave and a haircut. . . . Mel Kestner and Bob Winkler had the fish story of the week. They reported they had caught their limit and then a sword fish came along and cut their anchor. . . . We wish to welcome Barbara Jean Klienknicht, Charlie Capps, Edna Archbold, and Jane Bennett to our section. We hope everyone of you like it here. . . . We are glad to see LeRoy Solf back after his operation. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Beverly Lockner who was in an auto accident. Also, to Doris Kennedy, who is ill with the mumps. And to Iris Storm, who has had an operation. We hope to see you all back in good health in the near future. . . . Rose Liby has taken up the hobby of raising fish. Now, when are you going to have a fish fry for everyone, Rose? . . . Doris Moon attended her girl friend's wedding Saturday evening. Does this give you ideas, Doris? . . . Barbara Daenell wishes to thank all the girls who bought candy from her son, who is in the Boy Scouts, to enable him to win a prize. . . . Wilma Williams and Charlotte Stanford are planning on taking in the races at Indianapolis this week-end. Have a good time, girls. . . . Ed Bandt received his 40-year ruby pin the other day and he brought it over to show Myrtle Crammer. We just don't know who was the most thrilled, Myrtle or Ed.

We wish the best of luck on his new job to Howard Musselman, former dispatcher, who after being absent from work quite some time due to illness, has returned to do stockroom work in Bldg. 19-B. . . . Congratulations to Carlton Peters on the recent addition to his household. We heard that they kept him up all night nursing them with an eye dropper. He had decided to name them Flopsey, Mopsey, Peter, and Cottontail. However, the fifth name was quite a problem. So, after much deliberation he named it Katherine for the time being. The new additions are five bouncing baby rabbits. . . . What two girls in Bldg. 19-2 have learned their lesson and will think twice the next time before they let their co-worker carry an umbrella for them? Their friend decided the bare-headed man walking behind them needed the use of an umbrella more than they did, and proceeded to share it with him. . . . We understand E. Allmendinger plants tomato plants at midnight by the light of a gas lantern. . . . Best of luck to Melvin Markley who has left Bldg. 19-2 to enter the Armed Forces. . . . For sale or trade, one or all of a litter of puppies at the Fred Friedman home. Come early and get your choice. . . . Welcome to the following new employees: Donald Adams, Albert Anspach, and James Porter, Jr.

Salute to GE Secretaries—

SECRETARY OF STATE—Diplomacy and friendliness in greeting visitors to the office is extended by Secretary Dorothy Bartholomew, Bldg. 26-2.

Typical Gal Friday Proves She's a One-woman Cabinet

This week has been proclaimed as National Secretaries' Week for 1953. Instituted last year by the nation's businessmen, the week has been designated "To honor the American secretary upon whose skills, loyalty, and efficiency the functions of business and government offices depend."

Tipping the hat to GE secretaries, we salute the gals who by the variety of tasks they perform are a one-woman cabinet for their bosses. Typical of these girl Fridays, Dorothy Bartholomew, Bldg. 26-2, is shown in some of the tasks she performs in her job as secretary to Elmer Paul, Bldg. 26-2, Specialty Transformer and Ballast manager of manufacturing.

SECRETARY OF LABOR—With the tools of her trade, shorthand pad and pencil, Dorothy takes dictation from Elmer Paul, Specialty Transformer and Ballast manager of manufacturing.

SECRETARY OF TREASURY—As part of her duties, Dorothy keeps tab on costs in her boss' section, giving him a current report of expenditures.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR—Keeping desks and conference tables clean and neat is a well known task to secretaries in their daily routine.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE—Contributing her part to commerce, Dorothy secures transportation to the Department's Danville plant for personnel.

We say good-by to Warren Arnold, 1x10. He is leaving us to open a Jewelry Store in Van Wert, Ohio. Good luck, Warren, in your new venture as a business man. . . . Rosie Diem took off several hours to go see her daughter Karen play at a piano recital. Poor Karen was disappointed because Mom got there too late to see her make good. She was promoted from the 2nd to the 4th grade music. Congratulations, Karen, keep up the good work. . . . The crew cut season is here again. Ralph Christman, Charlie Huffman, and Paul Stein look like they have had a power mower running loose on their noggins. Of course, the gals aren't going to let the guys get ahead of them. Thelma Kouders and Ginny Strait got themselves sheared, too. . . . All good things seem to come all at one time. The gals back in 1x36 had rhubarb, cherry, and pizza pie all in one night. . . . When you see Thelma Wise wearing those long yellow mitts don't think she is going to a formal dance, she is only getting ready to start working on the spinner. . . . We just found out who "The Lonesome Gal" is. It's Marie Johnson. Since the hand winders moved to Bldg. 4-4 Marie doesn't have anybody to heckle. . . . Clarence Roth's daughter and son-in-law, who are missionaries, are home on furlough from South America. Clarence is enjoying the visit very much, especially with the grandchildren. . . . All last week Vic Timmerman was muttering to himself. He had a presentation speech to make for the American Legion's Citizenship Award at the Spencerville High School Commencement. Warren and Ivy offered their services but Victor said, "No thanks." Guess he wanted a speech, not gossip. . . . You all remember Kathy Bobbett, she is now the proud mother of a li'l girl. She has been named Debra Ann. . . . Howard Bohnsted found it doesn't pay to get provoked at a cow, at least to the extent of giving it a poke with his fist. He has a splintered bone in his hand to prove it. . . . Have you noticed that blank, vacant look on Esther Weeks' face? Bob Helmke promised Esther some mushrooms and here is a story too good to keep. She told Bob not to deliver them until 11 a.m. The night before the delivery was to be made Esther dreamed that Bob brought the mushrooms at 9 a.m. and as she had told him to leave them on the porch. Her dream was so real that she went for them upon rising, but, lo and behold, they were gone. So she went around the neighborhood to see who had taken her mushrooms. In fact, she doesn't have any friendly neighbors any more. Well, at 11 a.m., as pre-arranged, Bob comes driving in with the aforementioned mushrooms. Esther is still in a daze. . . . Fireman save my Buick! Rumor is that Louie Becker believes nothing he hears, only what he sees from now on. Seeing is believing, especially when it comes to a smoldering back seat of that beautiful gray Buick, which ain't smolderin'. . . . Dewey Baumgartner's co-workers are wondering why he has attained the high honor of being known as, The Bird Merchant from Bluffton. . . . May we all pay tribute tomorrow to our loved ones who have gone before.

A dime is a dollar with all the taxes taken out.

REACHES 35 GE YEARS—Arthur C. Braun (center) receives congratulations on behalf of the Large Motor and Generator Department from R. M. Hartigan (left) and K. D. Strong. Mr. Braun reached 35 years of service with the Company May 19. He joined GE in 1918 as a tester, and is now supervisor of test in Bldg. 19-1.

John Pumphreys smashed his thumb last week and was keeping a band-aid on it. After he was at work for an hour or so he discovered he had it on the wrong thumb! . . . Ray O'Brien received a nice letter from Louie Clark. He says he is not getting to do much fishing as he is busy remodeling the house for Clara. . . . Our sympathy for a former co-worker, Golda Duff, on the death of her mother. . . . There are 15 less bluegills in Hamilton lake. They are in the refrigerator of Mary and Harvey Raub. . . . Ruth Theurer was surprised to get a parking ticket. She parked her car up town early in the morning, got a permanent, ate lunch, and went shopping. It's a wonder she didn't get the book of tickets. . . . Augusta Gallmeier's bird squawks so much the neighbors are beginning to wonder. Better tell them you've got the bird, Augusta. . . . Mary Alice Williams entertained some folks from Cleveland last weekend. . . . Ed Robbins came on days a couple of weeks ago as super sleuth. The first thing that he did was to hide the little push cart so that he would have something to hunt. He hid it so good that he couldn't find it for two weeks. . . . Another member of the removable chopper club is Fred Troutman. . . . Earl Sexton was trying to get into Jim Lenoir's band by coloring his face. But Jim saw through his idea and said, "No half-breeds allowed." . . . Willard Smith is off of Fords for good now. He got a free ride to the city limits and then the Ford stopped. Willard pushed and shoved about three blocks, then had to walk and get his trusty Chrysler to take the party home. . . . Eleanor Hoffman has taken over the duties of opening and closing the windows in section 1x22. When she puts her weight on those ropes something is going to move. . . . We welcome some more new folks: Sharon Pennington, Edna Niman, Marvin Harris, LaReith Hapner, Shirley Gaff, Phyllis Cochren, Nora Dudgeon, and Betty Witt. . . . Dorothy Hoffman spent the week-end in Vincennes. . . . Cerna Cook had to take a day off and rest up after the step-daughters' wedding. From all reports it was a very beautiful wedding. . . . Eileen Brown was glad she was at work when the lightning struck their chimney and knocked it down. . . . A speedy recovery to Rita McKeeman, who has the chicken-pox. . . . Claude Hoover is proud of his daughter's cooking. His wife is on a trip with some students visiting Washington, D. C., and he says his daughter is a whiz at cooking. . . . A speedy recovery to Max Buckmaster's wife, who had a major operation last week. . . . Temper, temper, control thyself! Homer Mc-

Maken let a shoe fly at his youngster and it went through a window. Need we say father cooled off quickly? . . . George Allen is now on crutches. He was in his garden planting peas, slipped and twisted his knee. . . . Birthday greetings to the following: Donna Lindley, June 2; Helen Engle, June 2; Janice Egolf, June 3; Frieda Knoche, June 3; Dale Lauer, June 3; Edith Schriener, June 4; Francis Harter, June 2; Ruth Abels, June 3; Eugene Haisley, June 5; Lorena Heiman, June 5; Bill Charleston, June 9; Doyle Espich, June 10; Hilda Barthold, June 12; Veva Healy, June 14; Maude Erhardt, June 15; Lee Lindeman, June 17; Albert Niswonger, June

ALL SET FOR RETIREMENT—Enjoying a cigar on his last day at work, Claude Fryback admires the gift his friends gave him on his last day at General Electric. He has been a GE employee since 1919 when he joined the Company as a helper in Bldg. 26-1. He was a shear operator in Bldg. 26-1 before retirement. Freeman Rohlfing looks on.

Birthday greetings to Bob Baals on May 29. Another cake for the Cake-Eaters' Club! . . . Tiny Wright and eight others from Uniondale went to the 500-mile time trials but ended up on a picnic. The nine of them cooked six chickens plus an enormous amount of side dishes and were off to the races. When they arrived they found that the trials were called off because of rain, so the excursion turned out to be more or less just a picnic. . . . Bill Irwin and his golf team had quite a surprise as Forrest Mann, the pro, let them down last week, shooting a 57, compared to a 46 the week before. We know he had been after Don Pappert to accept a handicap but he sure was lucky that his challenge wasn't taken. . . . Benny Penkul has a golf team in the Taylor St. League, playing on Monday evenings. They are Benny, Aussie Garman, Garnall Parkison, Harold Parkison, Dick Spice, Carl Saaf, Harry Arnold, and Ray Hills. . . . The office girls had a bridal shower for Mary Clark, May 19, at the residence of Betty Pickett. Betty served a really delicious supper and Mary was presented with a lot of nice gifts. . . . Barbara Konger has left her job to be home with her children. The cost unit certainly enjoyed her presence and would like to hear from her. . . . Steve Bobay had a dog follow him to work last week but he isn't having the troubles that Ted Goll has. Ted's dog jumped on him last week in a playful mood and Ted had to take a day off. . . . Ray Smith is having his share of trouble. He planted one row of corn with a two-row planter. When he thought he was all finished he discovered that one side of the planter was closed and instead of two rows planted he had only one. . . . I have some very good reporters who get the pressure put on them once in a while. Gloria Boling is trying to find out who told me about her standing on the bus waiting for the corner. . . . Jim Gargett was back for a brief visit with us Monday, having returned to Fort Wayne to complete arrangements for his move to Bridgeport. . . . Wonder who is responsible for the big thistle, that sprang up over night like Jack's beanstalk, in the girls' flower bed. Maybe we should say garden, as we have carrots growing in it, too.

21; Mary Nutc, June 24; Fred Couture, June 25; Geneva Worden, June 28; and Ruth Kilgore, June 28. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Virginia Reckweg and Mary Rupert. . . . Barbara Smith is leaving Section 1 to become C. B. Smith's secretary in Section 2. . . . Who is going to collect the profit from the concession window in Ginny Burkett's office? Mr. Spitzer is going to furnish the popcorn, so I guess they must be going to split any profit.

"Footprints left behind" usually mean someone has accomplished something good; fingertips, something bad; about lip prints, one never knows.

A psychiatrist says that talking will cure a lot of our troubles. We don't believe it. Talking was what started most of them in the first place.

GE LITTLE LEAGUE TEAM SELECTED

Greider Hurls No Hit Game For Works Lab

Arnold Greider led the Lab team to victory Wednesday night via the route of a no-hit game, as the Interdepartment League season opened. His wildness deprived him of a shutout, as he walked eight batters and hit three. He totaled 10 strikeouts.

Following scores are from Wednesday night, May 20.

Virginia Sweat and Joe Nelson are new employees and we want to welcome them to our section. . . Didn't Dale Brown look nice with the flower in his hair? . . . Mary Camos went home in a hurry the other evening and was back in 16 minutes. . . The girls on 11-21 frame line heard from Agnes Stansberry this last week. . . At last the Telschows were caught up with. Carol was caught driving the car with a Hollywood muffler and Al had to go down and pay the fine. . . We want to welcome Joan Carter from Churubusco. Joan has a beautiful suntan. . . Those were Grace Neitz' red shoes on the desk. Everyone was won-

Owl Golf by Earl Stauffer

Two times the Owl golfers tried to get the League under way and two times it rained. The weatherman has been a very uncooperative person. Finally last Thursday morning, after an all-night rain, the weather relented but gave out with 40-mile gales and the Owl "cow pasture pool boys" teed off.

The results were about as silly as the weather. One match ended in a forfeit; another has the outcome in doubt because of a missing player's lack of handicap score, and the third, which went off according to Hoyle, ended in a one-point win for Norm Wolf's team over Ken Stultz' lads.

The wind, plus the fact that the Brookwood layout was well rain-soaked, prevented any real hot scores. Paul Billman came in with the day's low, a 42. John Stark and Bud Hower each fired 44's to be next in line.

With better weather to come (we hope) the early season troubles should right themselves and the league will work smoothly. There are still some open places on the six teams. Anybody wanting to play golf should contact me on Ext. 636 or go out to Brookwood on Thursday mornings by 8:30 and see Dave Mumma or myself there.

dering who the Cinderella was. . . We wish Thelma Trent a belated happy birthday and want to thank her for the treat. . . We hope Beverly and Enid M. will like their new jobs. . . Stanley Nicholson received his draft notice and seemed very happy about it. Is it because Stan will be glad to get away from all these women yelling at him? . . . The 51 frame girls have all gotten cards from Dorothy Hart, who was in California. She even took in the sights in Hollywood. . . Rita Wolf just bought herself a car. Seems Rita enjoys racing already and she is just a beginner. . . Why is it Norma Huff gets so many phone calls from mysterious males which she does not explain? The rest of the girls would like the blond one's telephone number, but Norma won't give. . . How come Dorothy Guiff happened to be riding in the back seat of her car with sun glasses on and an umbrella over her head on a bright early morning? . . . Ed Hutsell sure is stingy with his new Olds. It seems his Dad wanted to borrow it to haul some black dirt for a flower bed, but Ed wouldn't give in. . . James Hamilton from Section 13 has returned from a visit in California where he visited several places of interest.

Nine Holdovers Return to Team; Play Opens June 15 with Inca

Members of GE's team in the Hamilton Park Little League and the League's schedule for the first half of the 1953 season were announced this week by Charlie Wilt, team manager.

The 15-member team is composed of nine holdovers and six new boys. The boys returning to the diamond under GE colors are: Jack Hoppe, Phil Schuman, Larry Biddlecome, Ed Roesser, Roger Head, David Schenherr, Richard Snyder, Chuck Wilt, and George McAfee. New members are: Gale Collins, Tom Bell, James Andrews, Norman Timmons, Fred Noll, and DeWayne Northcutt.

Opening Monday, June 15, league play is set up as follows for the first half of the season:

June 15—Inca vs. GE.	June 16—Patterson-Fletcher vs. Allen Dairy.
June 17—Inca vs. Patterson-Fletcher.	June 18—GE vs. Allen Dairy.
June 22—Patterson-Fletcher vs. GE.	June 23—Allen Dairy vs. Inca.
June 24—GE vs. Inca.	June 25—Allen Dairy vs. Patterson-Fletcher.
June 29—Patterson-Fletcher vs. Inca.	June 30—Allen Dairy vs. GE.
July 1—GE vs. Patterson-Fletcher.	July 2—Inca vs. Allen Dairy.
July 6—Inca vs. GE.	July 7—Patterson-Fletcher vs. Allen Dairy.

July 8—GE vs. Allen Dairy.
July 9—Inca vs. Patterson-Fletcher.
July 13—Patterson-Fletcher vs. GE.
July 14—Allen Dairy vs. Inca.

Officers of the Hamilton Park Little League are: Wilt, president; Lennie Brown, Inca, vice president; Lee Harter, Patterson-Fletcher, secretary, and Bernie Vanatta, Allen Dairy, treasurer.

Practice sessions at Hamilton Park have been slated for GE's Little League team at the following times: Tomorrow at 10 a.m., Tuesday, June 2, at 5 p.m., and Thursday, June 4, at 5 p.m. Thursday's session will be a practice game between GE and Inca.

GE Owl Nine Wins Again; Take Indiana Rod 6 to 3

by Howard Colby

With some mighty fine pitching by Kenny Zurbuch and good support from the entire team, the Owls won their second ball game in as many starts last Wednesday morning at the McMillen diamonds. The first inning went scoreless for both teams. In the second frame the Rod men scored one run on two hits to take a 1 to 0 lead. This was short-lived, as the Owls came back to score two runs on three hits with Boyce and Taylor both getting a single and scoring on a hit by Etter.

Wells hit a double for Indiana Rod in the third to no avail, with one out and the next two men going down. Scherer scored for the Club, as team manager Penkul drove him in on a solid base hit to make it 3 to 1 at the end of three innings of play.

The Rod boys scored a run in the top of the fourth, while GE went scoreless to make it 3 to 2.

The fifth was just reverse with Indiana Rod going scoreless and the Owls scoring a run on a steal by Somers.

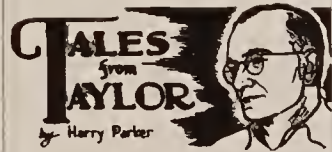

Indiana Rod came back in the top half of the sixth to score a run on two hits while the Owls scored two more on three hits and a walk, to make it 6 to 3.

With the Rod men going down in order in their half of the seventh it gave the Club its second win of the season.

For those who would like to see a good ball game, and can make it, come out to McMillen Park on diamond No. 4 next Wednesday morning at 9 a.m. when GE meets Aircraft Gear.

After selling his cottage at Big Long Lake a couple of years ago, and disposing of his high powered speed boat, Art Brandenberger is now longing for the open water with a speedy craft under him. He is seriously considering the purchase of a good used boat. We do not know upon what lake he intends placing it but one thing we are sure of, and that is the cottagers are going to be mighty unhappy trying to fish and listen to Art's whooping and yelling while operating the craft. . . George Cowan's new cottage at Lake Gilead is rapidly taking form. George took last week off in order to get it under roof but he came to grief while putting the shingles in place. He had the misfortune of throwing his knee out of joint making it impossible for him to get off of the roof. An SOS was sent to Sturgis and Angola and two rescue units were dispatched from these cities. Upon arriving at his place they had to use a portable crane to lift him off the roof. After he was lowered to the ground a quick yank on the leg put it back in running order. . . So delightful was Al Timme over the fact that his team won the high honors in the recent ABC Golf Tournament that he could hardly wait until the newspaper account was published, accompanied by a picture of the winning

Little League Dads Form Fathers' Club At Hamilton Park

The Hamilton Park Little League Fathers' Club, which was organized last month, has announced the following officers: John McMahon, president; Glen R. Adams, vice president; Jack Skevington, secretary; Harry Beddlecome, treasurer, and Ed Roesener, chairman of the ground committee. Assisting Chairman Roesener are Orin Lewis and Glenn Schimmele.

Club members have been busy at the park diamond getting it in shape for season play and they plan to continue taking care of it as the season progresses.

contestants. When it did appear Al bought all the remaining copies that the newsboy at the gate house had left, passing them around to his friends so that they also could enjoy his enthusiasm. . . Clarence Stove has purchased another boat. So far this spring he has acquired no less than five. Every time a boat is advertised for sale he rushes out and latches on to it. He will buy any type of tub, reconditioning them throughout. Why, we do not know, because he does not re-sell them. We are wondering if he is building himself a private navy.

Prejudice is being down on something which you are not up on.

Any veteran who has not joined the GE War Veterans Association, please see me for your membership card. . . . What's that rolling down the aisle? Whoops! Sorry, it's Bill Mills with his cue ball crew cut. . . . Lucille Orr spent last week-end watching the time trials at the Indianapolis Speedway. Our reports indicate she was watching the "human race" more than the cars. . . . Evangeline Baker is working bankers' hours (8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.) this week, while her husband, Jim, works third shift. . . . Thelma Kistler is working second shift temporarily. . . . We have some rugged people around here. Ceal Pranger was working with a broken finger without knowing it! . . . What's the name of the dentist Mary Blanchard goes to? It takes him a day and a half to fix one tooth. . . . The corn must grow big where Norma Smith lives. Norma stumbled over a corn cob and banged up a knee. . . . Gene Mettler has left the Company to go into the filling station business. We can't mention the name of the Company, but they sell Sunoco gas. . . . Lucille Orr enjoyed the championship fight like most of us. Lucille claims she glanced down at her shoes, looked up and the fight was over! . . .

"Clean-up Man"

You might call William Davis the D. A. of Bldg. 26-5. He didn't clean up the town but he cleaned up his workplace and was chosen Outstanding Housekeeper for the month of April. . . . D A F F Y DEFINITIONS: Grindstone — Where many a man keeps his nose, so wifey can turn hers up at the neighbors. Insomnia—The inability to sleep when it's time to get up. Left shoe—The one you always put on last.

APPRENTICE BROADCAST

by James Bird

We wish a speedy recovery to Carl McCartney. Carl is in Room 418 at the Lutheran hospital. . . . Last Friday was just one of those days when anything could happen and some funny things did. Things were going along normal until the lathe section heard Bob Rietdorf singing the anvil chorus. Lo and behold, there was Bob trying to pound off a stubborn chuck and singing to the beat. Gee, Bob, it's too bad that Harry stopped you. . . . Back in the mill section one of the new fellows invented a new cut. The new cut is called the "flying parallel." Better luck, next time, Jack. . . . What's the matter, Pinky, did you forget your elevator shoes last week? As usual they give the shortest men the biggest machines to work on. Pinky sure looked like a monkey climbing around that big machine. . . . Half of the students in Class K were missing for awhile one night last week. The fellows took the elevator down during a class break and it stuck between floors. This is the story they told. . . . What's the matter, Becker, too much homework or too much night life? It could even be spring fever or the hot class rooms that puts a guy to sleep, but it makes it mighty rough on the rest of the class, doesn't it? . . . Welcome to two new apprentices: Richard Buffenbarger and Jerry Aldrich. . . . Join the Club! The president of the Khunwa Country Club, Don Konow, announced that new members would be accepted. Big blow-outs are frequently held, but usually not publicized as to the exact time. Konow predicted the traps to be free of old 4.2 rounds and 155 crevices by mid-season. Let's turn out one and all!

Ramblings

by Julie Rice

Hey, look who's back! Jerry Vodde! Well, who do you know about that. The Army finally relinquished its claim on him and he's spending some time around Bldg. 31-2 again. Welcome back, Jerry. . . . In case anyone is as unobservant as I am, I might just mention the clipping that was posted on the bulletin board last week. It involved the fact that Harry Rife's son Don, a senior at South Side chose, from several, a scholarship to Yale. We hope he turns out to be another Larry Kelly, Harry. . . . The first rehearsal for Paul Hasler's wedding came off without a hitch last week-end (or so he says). Why have a rehearsal two weeks ahead of time? Well, you see, just to get an idea of the whole situation he was best man at his buddy's wedding. . . . Say, did you see that new buggy (a red and black hard top, that is) George Fridholm has been sporting lately. By the way, speaking of new cars, can you imagine a fellow trading in a new Buick Riviera for a mere Ford convertible? Well, if you can't, just look at Jim Preston. He's the man who did it. . . . It just shows to you that we have several hot rods in the engineering section. Among the thousands of rail birds at the time trials last week-end, we could find several of our engineers. For instance Ty Schuerman, Don Hilterbrick, Erv Aumann, Earl Elwonger, Charlie Brown, Ray Atkinson, Warren Brightly, and Dave Cook.

Q. How can astronomers tell when an eclipse of the Sun will occur when the light of a star takes so many years to reach us?

A. While it is true that the stars we see in the night-time sky are so far away that their light, traveling 186,000 miles every second, takes many years to reach us, the Sun is much closer, and its light takes only about eight minutes to get to us. However, an eclipse of the Sun is caused when the Moon comes in front of it. Since the Moon's distance is about 240,000 miles light only takes about 1.3 seconds to get from it to us. That is the extent of the delay in seeing a solar eclipse, due to the time it takes the light to travel. Because astronomers know quite accurately how the Earth, Sun and Moon are moving, they can figure out long in advance when the three bodies will be in such a position as to cause an eclipse. In predicting them, of course, proper allowance may be made for the time it takes the light to travel.

Q. What has caused rocks and minerals to be distributed as they are, for example, with marble in Vermont and iron ore in Michigan?

A. We cannot give a precise answer to this question but, under various conditions of heat, pressure and water content, different minerals may be deposited in different parts of the Earth's crust. Minerals that are soluble in water may be carried, through water-saturated rocks, from one place to another. The Vermont marbles were formed from limestones which recrystallized under certain conditions of heat and pressure. The limestones were formed as deposits of carbonate of lime from marine waters or by the accumulation of shells, containing lime, from marine organisms. Various chemical processes, extending over millions of years, have concentrated iron compounds to form the iron ore deposits in Michigan.

Q. Is the movement of the planets around the Sun subject to any scientific laws?

A. Yes; their movement follows Kepler's three laws of planetary motion, which are named after a German astronomer who proposed them in the 17th century. The first law gives the shape of a planet's orbit (an ellipse, with the Sun at one focus); while the second describes how the speed of the planet changes in different parts of the orbit. (It moves fastest when closest to the Sun.) The third law states how the time required by the planet for a complete revolution becomes longer the farther is its average distance from the Sun. After Kepler proposed these laws, Isaac Newton developed his theory of gravitation, and showed that they follow from it.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from the hospital, and returned to work:

Sick List

We extend our sympathy to Arnold Scheiferstein whose father died last week. . . . Mildred Messer and her husband have their old Greyhound bus in tip-top shape for the summer. They are planning on having a lot of fun driving around to the different lakes. If they don't always find a camping place that is convenient to the stores, Mildred says it will be O.K. because her husband has a small junior size bicycle that he is pretty good at riding. . . . Special Bulletin: Chuck Minnich, our third trick sawman, won $1,000 on the Walcott-Marciano fight. By the way, girls, Chuck is tall, dark, handsome, and single. . . . Our man of the week in the picture is Art Swain of Bldg. 19-3. Art is the ideal husband, always willing to carry his share of the load. Here he is watching the children while the little woman works the night shift at the steel mill. . . . That fellow you saw wandering around the parking lot Friday night, talking to himself, was our old buddy, Kenny Evans. Kenny hunted and hunted for his trusty Buick and then suddenly remembered that it was in the repair shop and he had come to work that morning on the street car. . . . Dick Bodkin's little girl ran away the other day and gave him quite a scare. Dick found her all right but he's not going to risk her running away again. He's going to fence in the back yard for her. Dick (being of a thrifty nature) doesn't want to spend too much on a fence so he is going to try and get by with 36 feet of wire, no gate, and four posts. . . . Jake Mattes has adopted a "devil may care" attitude lately. He has been seen on several occasions smoking cigarettes.

Dismissed from Hospital

Ralph Williams, Eber Gillespie, James Burris, Harold Dominique, Fidelis Birchmeyer, and Eileen Davis.

Returned to Work

WINTER ST. JOTTINGS

A two-way conspiracy was begun with Paul Fremion's purchase of a fluorescent light from the Employee Store. The purchase was placed in a huge sack, and Paul's mischievous co-workers got together and decided on this fiendish little plan—to have Earl Norris keep Paul busy while the men filled up the bag with miscellaneous shop items, and then have the superintendent, Clare Knepple, ask Paul if he was taking the whole plant home in the sack. Their clever little scheme was very successful; Paul was plenty embarrassed until he realized everyone knew it was a put-up job. . . . Second Chance; "Wrong Way" Scole will try again to prove that he can find his way out of Wayne-dale. After careful coaching, the use of road maps, and a compass, Pete will attempt to get back to Fort Wayne on the first try. . . . Excitement around the Viland farm has been great this week and most of it came in fives. First of all, Elinor's cat had five kittens. Then, investigating a noise in the field, Elinor was confronted by an angry coon that arched its back in anger when she appeared. Elinor went back to the house, got a flashlight, and went back to the field to discover the reason for the coon's worry—five little coons in a nest. Not everything came in fives, however. Elinor is the owner of one new green Ford. Very nice, too! . . . It's good to see Eileen Curtis back at Winter Street even if it is just for two weeks. Three other members of the Curtis family surprised us with a visit this week. They were Eileen's husband, Bud, and their darling twin daughters. . . . Florence Monnot was bubbling over with enthusiasm for the roller derby. Florence had her first taste of the sport last Saturday and is determined to witness another contest before the skaters move on. . . . Have a nice time: With paint brush in hand, Art Hickman is looking forward to a busy week's vacation(?) . . . Nick Treiner has been answering to the name of "Lucky" ever since he cleaned up the Walcott-Marciano fight. . . . You can brag about the type of television reception that you get, but it's doubtful that it would equal the booming reception at the Bob Branning home last Friday. Lightning struck the antenna for a real bang-up job. . . . Windmaker: George Kniss' wife decided that the foul weather had delayed their planting long enough, so she pitched in and really tore around the field with the corn disc. We're wondering if the speed that Mrs. Kniss had acquired, racing around the field, didn't cause the tornado scare around these parts. Sure was windy that day! . . . Any orders for rice? The men in the shop have thoroughly convinced Jake Stevens that the only way he can dry up the spring on his lot is to plant rice. So Jake is going to purchase some chopsticks and the rice he doesn't eat will be for sale, cheap. . . . After a stiff battle, in which the boat was pulled loose from anchorage, Millie Steward was rowed to shore and finally landed her prize "Lake Gage trout," a six-pound carp. This will leave one less for Vic Cartwright to clean out of the lake. . . . Vacation time finds Ray Dumford at home, planting flowers in the flower boxes and performing other miscellaneous tasks around the house. . . . Welcome back: After being absent because of illness, it's good to see John Fletter, filled with the boat racing fever, back at work again at Winter St. . . . The Earl Norris' will probably be heading for the open road on these lovely week-ends to try out their newly purchased '51 Chevy. . . . Reports on Dale Thompson tell of his returning home from the hospital. However, Dale won't be able to return to work for six or eight weeks yet. . . . A newcomer to the balcony this week is Susie Jones. Susie has transferred upstairs from her former job in the CW machine shop. . . . Get well wishes: Come last Saturday, Charlie Chevillot was homeward bound after his stay at the hospital. Charlie has been progressing very well. . . . Jack Herney has really been on the beam lately; he hasn't let the water tank run over in many moons. . . . We'll all know the reason if Leo Houser starts putting on weight now. He got his store teeth this week-end and the steak, apples, celery, and other items that had to be omitted temporarily will really be stowed away now. . . . The Three Musketeers, Ross Harter, Paul Fremion, and Kenny Betts, are on a milk shake diet. Come lunch time, the hunger pangs start and three minds turn to a single thought, a delicious milk shake. So, they're off for the ice cream parlor to satisfy their desire. . . . Audrey Fankhouser came to work last week with a new permanent. It's very smart, Audrey. . . . An exciting Canasta game has been started in the engineering section during the lunch period. Not many games are finished in this short period, however. . . . The drafting room's loss is engineering's gain: Curley Mannon has left the drafting group to become a permanent member of the engineering section. Good luck on the new job, Curley. . . . Has anyone a light? Howard Arnold never has a match. Maybe he is afraid of the nicotine habit, his cigar is never lit. This is a good system for making a cigar go a long way. . . . Surprise: Words couldn't express the surprised look on Pat Schrader's face last Friday when a man came through the wall near her typewriter. No, it wasn't the result of the high winds, it's all just a part of the remodeling plan. . . . It was "hail" and "farewell" this week. Welcome to Gerry Coyne, who transferred to the second floor from the Broadway plant; farewell to Madonna Ranney, formerly of engineering. The girls in engineering and drafting presented Madonna with a beautiful yellow shawl before she left last Monday.

Congratulations to the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Joseph. The bride, whom we all knew in Telegraph, is the former Joyce Hoffert. Best wishes for lots of happiness to both of you. . . . We enjoyed hearing from Mr. Wheeler. Fred informed us he is on the mend and plans to be back at his desk in the very near future. . . . Quite a number of people helped Mr. Uncapher initiate his new GE television set a couple of weeks ago. On the evening of the day it was installed, he got mysterious telephone inquiries as to how the set was operating, by people who were supposedly checking television sets in that vicinity. Then the next day, he was deluged by verses pertaining to all angles of owning and operating a set. . . . Happy birthday wishes are in store for Kathleen Conrad, Paul Thomas, Helen Brown, and Faye Christlieb. . . . Elmer Griswald sold Roscoe Grover some tomato plants last year and they turned out to be marigolds. Roscoe bought some more again this year from Elmer and he's afraid they may be rag-weed. . . . Dorothy McCoy is back again, having been absent because of illness for two weeks. . . . Last week, when he got a scare from the cyclone warning, Ed David hurried home and dug a hole in his yard so he could crawl in it. His problem now is whether to make an artificial lake or to have the gravel company fill in the hole. He is waiting for the weather bureau to assure him that there will be no cyclones. . . . Joe Rykowski was shocked, but pleased, when Paul Thomas offered to buy him a candy bar. Ed David was happy when Paul followed him around, when usually he has to hunt for him. They soon found out why. Ed's trouser pocket had worn through and he was losing all his money. Thus, Paul's generosity and devotion was accounted for. . . . Welcome to Victor Koepsell and Harry Limbach who joined the 2nd shift fellows in Bldg. 6-3.

Charles Staley certainly is an eager beaver. Magdalene Perrey hardly gets her bib and tucker off before Charley is in the office wanting some work material from her. . . . I notice several of the test fellows have been eating their lunches outside on the patio. They also can enjoy the scenery this way. Such scenery! . . . A very nice welcome is extended to Ralph Rockhill, who is back after a year's absence. . . . Jim Blake says he thinks his wife put their new baby up to it. The first time Jim saw the youngster she stuck her tongue out at him. . . . I notice Ed Marschand has been wearing cotton in his ear lately. Is this so you won't hear yourself think? . . . Joan King came into work Monday with a very beautiful diamond on the right finger. Lots of happiness from the whole gang, Joan, you deserve it. . . . Don (Lover Boy) Kees went fishing over the week-end and he says the only fish he caught was his brother-in-law. When Don went to throw his reel in it caught him on the head. That always helps to smooth family relations.

He doesn't happen to be a member of the "Polar Bear Club," but he still goes in for swimming. The swim that Charlie Zimmerman took the other night at midnight was something special. The tank contained 150 or more gallons of water, oil, and what have you. After Charlie emerged from the tank his clothes didn't exactly look as though he was going to be a model in a fashion show. . . . Now along comes Dora Mae Fairchild having another birthday. She says she hopes to celebrate it in a better way than she did last year. Last year she stepped from the car, down into the ditch. Yes, there was water in the ditch, too. Happy birthday, Dora Mae, and let us know if you have any interesting experiences on your birthday. . . . We hear Ed Warren had quite a time moving a jeep the other night. STAB MARKETING: For the benefit of you who failed to see "Lines and Angles" in last Monday's Journal, here is a reprint:

The Early Start

Some GE officials have a disconcerting habit of returning from New York early in the morning and going straight to the office. It is disconcerting to their co-workers who don't expect the boss in until a little later.

These officials arrive in town on the Broadway Limited at 6:32 a.m., go directly to the plant cafeteria for breakfast and get an early start on the accumulated mail.

That was the plan of Eddie Schor, manager of marketing for the specialty Transformer and Ballast Department under General Manager Carl Rinne.

Eddie had had two strenuous days of meetings in New York, and he may be excused if he neglected to take the Pullman porter into his confidence. But he slept soundly through the night and awakened thoroughly rested.

He raised the shade of his roomette and saw a familiar landscape gliding past his window. It was West Swinney Park retreating in the distance. And Englewood was the next stop.

Eddie got to work early the next day.

Last Monday night a picnic was held at Lakeside Park in honor of Joe and Lou Behm. Joe is being transferred to the Chicago office where he will be a specialty transformer and ballast specialist. Good-by and good luck to you both. We'll miss you. . . . A newcomer in the advertising and sales promotion is Tom Williams. Welcome, Tom, and we hope that you will like us. Tom was formerly in the advertising and sales promotion in Schenectady. He is married and the father of three children. . . . Belated birthday greetings go to Charlie McVoy of central planning.

Millham Named Lamp Div. Vice President

Donald L. Millham, of Cleveland, has been elected a vice president of the General Electric Company by the Board of Directors and will serve as vice president and general manager of the Company's Lamp Division with headquarters in Cleveland, GE President Ralph J. Cordiner announced today.

Gerald L. Phillippe, of New York, has been elected comptroller and will serve as comptroller and general manager of the Company's accounting services division, with headquarters in New York, Mr. Cordiner also announced.

Formerly comptroller, Mr. Millham was named general manager of the Lamp Division early in May. Mr. Phillippe succeeded him at that time in the capacity of general manager of the accounting services division.

Harl Bradley Granted Patent

Harl C. Bradley, a retired GE employee, has been granted a patent by the U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C. His third patent, the invention covers double flow lubrication for unit bearing fractional horsepower motors manufactured in Sub-Section 17, Taylor St. The invention made it possible to mount the motors in any position and increase the lubrication life of sealed unit bearing motors.

A graduate of Purdue University, Mr. Bradley received his engineering degree in 1909 and joined the Company the same year. He was an engineer in the contract service department for 10 years and then transferred to Fractional Horsepower Motor's model shop where he was engineering representative for 20 years.

Prior to his retirement in March, 1950, Mr. Bradley was a mechanical design group leader of Small AC motors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley live at 535 Wildwood Ave.

GE Movie 'Freedom and Power' Wins Award at Milan, Italy Fair

"Freedom and Power," a General Electric motion picture that depicts the importance of electric power in the American economy, recently won the Minister of Communications Award at the 1953 International Milan Samples Fair in Milan, Italy, it was announced here today.

186 commercial movies submitted by 70 companies from 14 nations.

Released by GE last year, the sound-color production was designed as a public-information vehicle to give people a better understanding of electricity's role in national welfare and security. It is the latest presentation in GE's More Power to America series of visual programs dedicated to the improvement of our way of life through the use of electric power.

The contest for excellence in advertising cinematography is a regular feature of the Milan Fair, largest exposition of its kind in the world. Last year another GE film, "Pipeline to the Clouds," received the Minister of Foreign Affairs Award. It, too, was produced by Wolff Studios.

"Freedom and Power," in 29 minutes of animation and live action, traces the development of the nation's power industry against the historic background of the colonists' struggle for freedom. It shows electricity in home, farm, and industrial use today, and gives a glimpse into the future when atomic and solar energy may be harnessed for power generation.

Written to appeal to all types of audience, the movie has been made available to electric utility companies, industrial firms, schools, trade and business associations, service groups, and clubs.

Four GE Scholarships Awarded Here

Four Ft. Wayne Employees' Children Share 1953 GE Scholarship Awards

Four children of Fort Wayne plant employees are recipients of General Electric scholarships. Totalling $500 each, the awards are for the academic year 1953-54.

The four are: Shirley A. Dickison, daughter of Donald H. Dickison, Bldg. 4-1; Floretta A. Ford, daughter of Joseph H. Ford, Bldg. 10-1; Jerry D. Pontius, son of Vera Pontius, Winter St., and Donald L. Rife, son of Harry F. Rife, Bldg. 31-2.

Announcement of the scholarships was made today by the Employee Benefits Services Department in conjunction with the 29th annual presentation of awards this year.

A total of 70 employees and children of employees are 1953 GE scholarship winners. In addition to these, 40 educational loans of $250 each have been awarded. Since the program was first instituted, almost $328,111 has been awarded in such educational assistance.

Shirley Dickison

Shirley Dickison, 17 years old, was co-salutatorian of this year's graduating class of Garrett High School. President of the student council, she was treasurer of her freshman class and secretary of the senior class. Shirley served as treasurer of the Y-teens Club and the Girls Athletic Association also. She was chairman of the dinner committee of the Junior-Senior banquet.

Active in community events, Shirley has been secretary-treasurer of the 4-H Club; secretary of Indiana Rural Youth organization, and treasurer, vice president, and president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. She was a Garrett representative at Hoosier Girls State in 1952 and is a member of the youth choir at the Garrett Methodist Parish.

Q-C to Stage 1953 Outing At Municipal Beach Sept. 12

The Fort Wayne Municipal Beach area is the site of this year's Quarter Century Club outing Saturday, September 12. Announcement of the new location and date was made today by club president, Wallace E. Beer.

With the hope of enabling more members to attend the annual affair than in previous years the board of directors reached the decision to change the location from Oliver Lake where previous outings were staged and choose a site closer to Fort Wayne.

More Prizes

Not only will the beach be more accessible for members, but funds previously used for transportation costs to Oliver Lake can be used to provide more entertainment, prizes, souvenirs, and other features for those attending, the board stated.

Selected as the best location in the city area, the beach is more private, outside the city limits, and has adequate facilities for sports, dining area, and parking.

In case of rain on September 12, plans have been completed to stage the outing in the exhibition hall of the War Memorial Coliseum, the board announced.

Board Visits Site

Plans to make the 1953 outing outstanding were begun this week as six board members visited the site to make arrangements for the various activities to be conducted. In addition to the president, the members and activities of which they are in charge are: Joe Henry, sports; Gordon Smith, entertainment; Harry Zimmerman, dinner; G. Ray Lindemuth, secretary, and Ford Zimmer, publicity.

Other chairmen of various parts of the program are: Mamie Allen,

Establishment of Direct Current Motor-Generator Dept. Announced

Establishment of a Direct Current Motor and Generator Department, with headquarters at the General Electric Plant in Erie, Pa., is announced by James M. Crawford, vice president and general manager of the company's Motor and Generator Division at Schenectady.

Appointment of Oscar L. Dunn as general manager of the department was also announced by Mr. Crawford. Mr. Dunn will make his headquarters in Erie.

Richard M. Hartigan was appointed Manager-Employee Relations for the department and will continue as Manager-Manufacturing, Fort Wayne. Mr. Dunn announced. Paul S. Stough was appointed Manager-Engineering for the department and will continue in direct charge of the Fort Wayne Engineering operation.

In 1925, Mr. Hartigan became a General Electric employee and entered the test engineers program. Upon completion of the course the following year, he entered plant engineering. In 1934 he became plant engineer.

Same Dollars

We sometimes wonder what happens to money when it gets into the hands of the federal government that makes it "expendable."

Money in the pocket or bank account of an individual is pretty important. Many men and women will deny themselves small comforts over long periods—cutting down on smoking, entertainment, clothes—just to save 25 or 50 dollars for a more essential purpose.

Don't blame government altogether. Many federal officials over past years have got into bad habits about money. The taxpayers have seemed to them a bottomless well of money that would never run dry. But that was partly because we ourselves thought of government money as "expendable."

We didn't keep a close enough watch on government spending and we didn't look federal gift-horses in the mouth. If we had, we'd have realized that the dollars the government spent so lavishly, and the dollars we scraped to save, were equally important—both being our own.

We Need Craftsmen

One of the things some old-timers like to talk about is that in today's emphasis on mechanization and push-button operations, the craftsman is vanishing from the scene.

We don't believe it. The nature of his craftsmanship may have changed. It's true we're more specialized now; there aren't many workers who take a single product through all its stages from start to finish.

On the other hand, modern production requires an exactness, a precision of fitted parts, that was undreamed of a generation or two back. Mistakes or carelessness in fabricating and assembling in fabricating and assembling can cause a heap more trouble today than when industry was far less complicated and less dependent on teamwork. The man who takes pride in his work and does it well can prove that craftsmanship is as important as ever—maybe more.

Deft Drivers

(The following poem was written by Ruby Flaugh, Bldg. 6-1, for the safety committee in their section.)

The driver who passes another car,
While on a curve or a hill,
Is like the big game hunters,
He likes to be in "on the kill."

The driver who depends on his driving skill,
And tries all the time to show it,
Will have a room full of beautiful flowers—
They'll smell sweet, but he won't know it.

The driver who likes to "do 95,"
And speed limits never consider,
Had better be real good to his wife,
'Cause soon she'll be a "wider."

I know this doesn't apply to you,
But you're much too young to die.
So while you're driving carefully,
Look out for the other guy.

STORIES FROM G-E HISTORY—No. 5

Curtis Turbine

"Achievement" is a nice comfortable word. Looking back at some of the achievements in the Company's history, we have to be careful not to get complacent about them. Reading the stories of a new invention in the process of development we are in the position of people watching a movie that they know is going to have a happy ending. The apparently insuperable difficulties that arise along the way leave us unmoved; we know that they are going to be overcome, otherwise there would have been no story to write up. It is hard to project ourselves back into the frame of mind of the men who did not really know whether they were going to succeed or not. They had a conviction inside them, but they could not prove that they were right. When someone asked them, "Are you sure this will work out?" They answered, "Yes"; but they could not have done so without butterflies in the stomach. That is the kind of excitement that is difficult to carry over into the story that is told afterwards.

This is the kind of thing that happened in the first experiments with the Curtis steam turbine. The principle—high speed rotation of a wheel by steam pressure—was acceptable enough, but the technical difficulties of putting it into practical operation cropped up one after another. Around the turn of the century, General Electric top management deliberated for a while before taking it up. Edwin W. Rice came out in favor of it, so they went ahead with experiments. They went ahead for two years, spending a lot of money and employing a lot of men, and always there was some little thing that prevented the turbine from working properly. At the end of that time there was more deliberation. William LeRoy Emmet stepped in to investigate. He found that the turbine was not working even up to the standard of the reciprocating engines of the time, though it was supposed to work better. But he still thought the machine had possibilities which should be investigated further. On his word the project went ahead again and, with the modifications of design that he suggested, operation was vastly improved and expectations were justified, but only after a further year of experiment.

As a result of this improvement, General Electric felt confident enough to go out and sell a steam turbine to the Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago, which was to begin operating in the fall of 1903. But the machine had to be built by men who were unfamiliar with this type of work, as indeed everybody was at that time. The year 1903 came along and a tentative delivery date was fixed. It had to be postponed, and then postponed again. Things looked bad. News was already beginning to leak out that the turbine generator would occupy only one-tenth of the space and weigh one-eighth as much as the reciprocating engines it replaced. The makers of reciprocating engines seemed to be looking on and rubbing their hands, watching eagerly for a failure.

Charles A. Coffin, the Company's first president and a man who well understood the selling power of good will, wrote in that the turbine MUST be completed on time. A few hours after his letter had been received a gathering of all factory superintendents was assembled in Schenectady. One question was put to them. "Who among our general foremen is 100 per cent qualified to complete the building of that turbine on time." A ballot was taken. Only one man on the list had 100 per cent marked after it by every man at the meeting. It was that of Billy Madigan.

When Madigan took over, the parts of the turbine were scattered all over the shop. Two wheels were to be machined over again because of flaws. Everyone who looked at them shook his head and said "six weeks at least." Madigan said nothing, but he started to take over. Like a general he organized his men, organizing their different operations. Repeatedly he stepped in and worked with his own hands. Everything he did was planned ahead. "When are you going to put steam into her, Bill?" they asked him. "March 7th," was his reply. Everybody swore that the estimate was too optimistic, but nevertheless, on his insistence, word was sent to Chicago that the turbine would be ready for inspection on that date.

March 1 arrived and Madigan, grimy with dirt and grease and red-eyed from lack of sleep, amended his final date to March 5. A few more days of unflagging work and on March 4, three days ahead of his first promise, Madigan told the test men to let in steam. On March 7 the turbine performed excellently for the president of Commonwealth Edison. The good name of General Electric had been saved. In the outside world the public learned simply of another solid achievement, but Madigan, looking back in later years would say that he never enjoyed anything as much as "that scrap with the turbines."

Three GE Drivers to Enter Annual Truck Rodeo Sunday

Three members of GE's driver fleet are entrants in the annual Truck Rodeo to be staged at Smith Municipal Airport, Sunday, June 7. The three men are Carl Wagner, John Malcolm, and Clyde Kreigh, all of Bldg. 6-1.

Sponsored by the Fleet Safety Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the annual contest is open free of charge to area residents. Professional truck drivers of Fort Wayne and the area will vie for top honors in the event.

J-47 Jet Display
Highlighting this year's meet will be a display of a General Electric J-47 jet engine. The engine is being transported from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio. One of the world's most powerful jet engines, the model on display will be cut away to reveal internal operation. An operator will run the engine through its complete combustion cycle explaining the intricate operation which is based on Newton's third law of motion: for every action there is a reaction equal in force and opposite in direction.

Designed to determine the participating driver's knowledge of safety, courtesy, efficiency, and first aid as well as his professional skill in handling a truck, the Rodeo puts entrants through a series of stiff competitive events.

Drivers eligible to compete must drive for a fleet entered in the Fleet Safety Contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Safety Council. In addition, they must have an accident-free record for the 12 months immediately prior to entering the Rodeo.

In addition to the jet engine display, there will be an equipment display by local truck, trailer, and tire dealers.

Supervisors Plan Barbecue Picnic Rain or Shine

Come rain or shine, members of the Supervisors Club will convene at the Log Cabin Thursday, June 11, for a barbecue picnic. If the weather is good, the picnic will be conducted outdoors. In case of rain, it will be staged indoors at the site, according to members of the committee.

Co-chairmen Robert D. Hughes, Bldg. 20-2, and Arnold C. White, Bldg. 19-1, have reported that facilities for softball, horseshoe, and other outdoor sports will be available prior to dinner, which will be served at 5:30 p.m.

Two softball teams are being composed by Jack W. Bendure, Taylor St., and Robert W. Dent, Bldg. 2-2. Any members interested in playing on one of the teams should contact either of the men. Mr. Bendure's extension is 2612 and Mr. Dent's is 2381.

Membership cards are available from contact men for 50 cents per person.

Expressing his gratitude for the cooperation of employees participating in the Memorial Day services by the organization last Friday, Robert Turschman, Bldg. 2-2, president, stated, "On behalf of the officers and members in charge of arrangements, I wish to thank each employee who participated in the War Memorial Service conducted Friday, May 29. Your cooperation helped make a fine program possible."

A meeting of the officers is slated tomorrow morning at the 48 et 8 Chateau at the corner of Masterson and Calhoun Sts. Beginning at 10 a.m., the group will make plans for the coming stag picnic, the president stated.

GE JET AT RODEO—A General Electric J-47 jet engine will be displayed at the Truck Rodeo Sunday, June 7. T/Sgt. William Storm operates the electric controls which drive the engine while M/Sgt. George Saylor and a spectator watch the demonstration which will be given at the Rodeo.

Bolson Named ACS Counselor

Harry B. Bolson, Bldg. 28-2, has been elected counselor of the American Chemical Society for a three-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1954.

Three other employees have been elected to offices in the organization also. Hubert L. Thomas, Taylor St., who became chairman of the Northeastern Indiana Section of the Society. Robert W. Geiger, Taylor St., was elected treasurer of the section, and Ralph D. Hodges, Bldg. 28-2, was renamed member at large of the executive committee for the second year. The four men are employed in the Fort Wayne laboratory.

tendent. He was appointed manufacturing superintendent in the same location in 1940. After entering Large Motor and Generator, he became manager of manufacturing in 1947 and held this position at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of Kansas State College, Mr. Hartigan received his BSEE degree in 1925. He received the Company Coffin Award in 1930 for his design of continuous testing equipment for transformers.

A Registered Professional Engineer in the State of Indiana, Mr. Hartigan is a member of the GE Squares Club, Foremen's Association, and Supervisors Club. He is a member of the city Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club.

A native of Indiana, Mr. Stough received a BSEE degree from Purdue University in 1923. Following graduation he joined the General Electric Company on test in Fort Wayne.

Upon completion of the Test Course, Mr. Stough was assigned to the AC Apparatus Engineering Department as a design engineer on AC and DC machines.

When the AC and DC operations were combined in 1937 into the Motor and Generator Division, Mr. Stough was appointed to special assignments including the line redesign. He continued on special assignments and later served as assistant engineer. In 1946, he was appointed division engineer.

In 1947, Mr. Stough was named manager of engineering for the Large Motor and Generator Division, and has served in that capacity until the present time.

He is a Registered Professional Engineer, a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers and the Fort Wayne Engineers Club, and serves on the Education Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Stough reside in the Van Buren Apartments.

Two Appointed Foremen in Training In Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17

Two appointments in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17 have been announced by P. Frank Peternell, sub-section superintendent. Herbert D. Fuhrman has been named foreman in training of all third shift winding and finishing. Carl Scott has become a foreman in training of 11-21 frame casting machining, assembly, packing and repairs on second shift.

Joining the GE ranks in 1942, Mr. Fuhrman entered the Winter St. plant as a machine operator. Later, he went on assembly work at the same location. In 1948 he transferred to Sub-Section 17 as a stockkeeper. In 1951 he became a dispatcher in the sub-section and had this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrman, who have three children, reside at 1429 Pemberton Dr.

Mr. Scott was a machine operator when he came to the Company in 1936. He became a P and J operator in 1942 and one year later entered the U. S. Army. After serving in the Army four and one-half years, two and one-half of which were overseas, he returned to GE and entered Sub-Section 17 as a machine operator. Prior to his present appointment, he was in planning in the same location.

Mr. Scott served as suggestion committee secretary in the sub-section in 1951 and 1952. He attends Purdue University Extension Center.

Herbert D. Fuhrman

Carl Scott

Mr. and Mrs. Hartigan have two sons and one grandson. One son, Richard C., is on the manufacturing training program at the Schenectady plant. The Hartigans live on R. R. 2, Fort Wayne.

Other department appointments announced by Mr. Dunn were: Francis J. Boucher, Manager-Manufacturing; Paul D. Ross, Manager-Marketing; and Louis E. Wengert, Manager-Finance.

SCIENCE QUESTION BOX
by SCIENTISTS OF THE G.E. RESEARCH LABORATORY

- Q. How does an X-ray machine work?
- A. Inside a glass (sometimes metal) tube from which the air has been evacuated, there is a tungsten filament like that of a small electric lamp, and an electric current flows through this to heat it. As it is heated, particles called electrons are given off in large quantities. High voltage electricity gives energy to these electrons so that they are hurled at high speed against a heavy target, also made of tungsten, in most cases. As the electrons are stopped by the target X-rays are given off, and emerge from the tube, so that they may be utilized. X-rays are similar to waves of visible light, but are thousands of times shorter.
- Q. Does a magnet pull on a piece of iron, or the iron on a magnet?
- A. The attraction between a piece of iron and a magnet is mutual; each pulls on the other. Which one moves the most depends on its weight, or mass. The heavier an object is, the greater is its inertia, which makes it harder to start moving when it is stationary. Thus, with a heavy piece of iron and a magnet that is much smaller, the principal movement would be of the magnet to the iron. If the magnet is the more massive, it would tend to move relatively little, and the iron would move toward it. A similar effect occurs with the gravitational attraction of the Earth. Theoretically, when a pin drops, the Earth comes up a little to meet it. However, because its mass is so vastly greater than that of the pin, the Earth's movement is so very small that it is far beyond the possibility of being measured.
- Q. If a machine gun, travelling 60 miles an hour, were fired to one side at a long wall, how far apart would the bullets hit?
- A. A typical machine gun, such as the Browning 50 cal., will shoot 400 to 500 times per minute. If such a gun were moving along a straight path at 60 miles per hour, or a mile a minute, and it were fired to one side of its line of motion without changing the aim, the 400 to 500 bullets fired each minute would be spread over a length of a mile. The average distance between the bullet holes would be about a 450th of a mile, or 127 feet.
- Q. Why does a hot piece of iron cool more quickly in water than in air at the same temperature as the water?
- A. The heat transfer in water is about a thousand times as good as air, on account of several factors. First of all, water is about 800 times as dense as air so, by weight, there is about 800 times as much water around the iron to cool it as there is of air. Furthermore, water soaks up heat better than air. It takes about four times as much heat to raise the temperature of water one degree as it

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

Millie Steward, thinking she had enough plumbing knowledge to repair a small leak in her hot water heater, gathered up her tools and set out to save herself a few bucks. The final outcome? The dripping leak became a trickle, then a steady stream, and Millie put out an SOS for a plumber.

Talk about a shrewd bargain!! Paul Fremion traded in his Mercury on a later model and got a television set along with the new car. . . . After work, Roger Grant was standing in front of the building, waiting for his wife who is usually so prompt, and wondering why she was late. Mrs. Grant had the car parked by the hi-bay driveway, watching the door, trying to figure out why Roger was so late.

Gerry Coyne spent considerable time preparing for the big wedding that took place on Memorial Day. Gerrie was a bridesmaid at her brother's wedding. . . . Get well wishes: Rosie Murphy was conspicuous by her absence this week; she was off ill most of the week. Hope you're feeling better, Rosie. . . . So-long: The CM Machine Shop bids farewell this week to Ivan Soles, who transferred to Bldg. 6-4 at Broadway. Best of luck on the new job, Ivan. . . . Making sure her muscles were in good form, Eileen Salmon donned her moving clothes and prepared to begin the tedious job of moving this week.

Many a nice summer day will be spent by Don Batchelder, cruising around in his newly purchased sailboat. Don plans to take the boat to the lake, place it in the rippling water, and let the wind take it from there. . . . NICE TO SEE YOU; A welcome visitor to Winter St. was Andy Troxel, pensioner. Andy just stopped in to visit with his former co-workers at the plant. Hurry back, Andy.

The sound of a pin dropping in the CM Machine Shop would have echoed all through the machine shop last Friday. The loss of voice that Whitey Michelfelder experienced has made it so quiet that many of his fellow workers have just discovered, after all these years, that machining operations are noisy. . . . Mary Leiter is hoping for a warm sunny week-end. She plans to go to the lake and would like to initiate the swimming season. . . . There's sad news today! Remember some time ago when Anita Slusher gave John Quaintance a rabbit for his birthday? Well, John took the little bunny home and, under his diligent care and guidance, "Pete," the rabbit, grew to be big and healthy. Since he seemed in the pink of condition, it was quite a shock when John went out to feed "Pete" the other morning and found him dead.

Welcome back to Dorothy Crawford. Dorothy has joined the Small Integral Motor Group on the second floor after having been at Broadway for some time. . . . Every year, thousands of dollars are spent by men trying the popularly advertised hair restorer. Then, we have Red (Curley) Mathes who probably has adopted the motto: "If you can't do a thing with your hair, shave it off." How about it, Baldy? . . . That forlorn look on Dave Berghorn's face he explained by the fact that his girl friend has gone to the West Coast for a six weeks' stay. Cheer up, Dave, six weeks isn't forever.

Farewell: For John Leininger, it's farewell to the procedures group and hello to purchasing. John will soon be transferred to this new group. . . . Looking forward to many happy, trouble-free miles, Burney Tomson will be gathering his family together to put a few miles on his newly acquired Studebaker Land Cruiser in the nice Hoosier weather that is coming. . . . Once again, the mumps have struck! The victims this time are Marvalene Butts' children. Marvalene had to play the role of nurse while waiting for their jaws to assume their normal proportions.

One week of Frank Mongraw's vacation was spent working, trying to get his new home ready. Aubrey Lash was spending his vacation in New York City, taking in the sights. Reports tell that the visit to the "big city" was a very enjoyable one. . . . LOST: Last Friday on the way to work, one set of slightly used stitches. Finder please contact Edna Kuhlman, who will identify same.

What kind of a special meaning does the song "Now That I'm In Love" have for Carol Calkins? Since a very "super" week-end, Carol (Sugar Throat) has been haunting all her co-workers with this little melody. She has written up copies of the words so that everyone can get into the act, and caused a sudden nosedive in the sale of this particular record. How long can this last?

does to warm the same weight of water a similar amount. In addition, water is a much better conductor of heat, so it carries away the heat more effectively to where it can be dissipated.

Q. Do all meteorites contain iron?

A. Yes, practically all meteorites contain some iron, though the proportion varies greatly. Some consist of as much as 90 per cent of iron, along with nickel and other elements. Others contain only 10-15 per cent of iron, alloyed with nickel, and distributed in small lumps

"I think the school tax should be increased as most of the schools are overcrowded now. Both the public and parochial schools should benefit from this increase."

MYRTLE F. BARFELL
Bldg. 4-5

"I do not think the board is justified in putting more taxes on property valuation. If the money that has been collected the last few years would have been spent more wisely, it wouldn't be necessary to add this tax. Schools need expanding but there should be a tax secured from another source as the taxpayers tax is high enough."

FIVE GET NEW SPECIALTY MOTOR POSTS

Five appointments in the Specialty Motor Sub-Department have been announced by Robert L. Spitler, superintendent of Sub-Sections 1 and 2. Robert T. Blee has been named general foreman in Sub-Section 1, Bldg. 4-3. Clarence A. Hartman has become general foreman of all second shift activities in both sub-sections. Carl J. Metker has been appointed general foreman in Sub-Section 2, Bldg. 6-4.

Albert L. Olson is mechanization specialist in Sub-Section 2 and Perry J. O'Neill is supervisor of production in the same sub-section.

In 1930, Mr. Blee came to the Company and entered the Winter St. plant where he was a welder. He transferred to Fractional Horsepower Motor Sub-Section 1 as a machine hand in 1935. Two years later, he was named an assistant foreman in the sub-section.

After moving to the planning section in 1939, Mr. Blee became a dispatcher. He became a foreman of armature winding in Sub-Section 1 in 1942 and three years later was appointed hand dispatcher and foreman of stockkeepers. Prior to his present appointment, he served as assistant general foreman in the sub-section.

Mr. and Mrs. Blee reside at 1132 Westover Rd.

Mr. Hartman joined GE in 1907 when he entered the general machine department. He served an apprenticeship as a toolmaker and became an assistant foreman in FHP Motor Department. Until 1942, he was a foreman in the same department and at that time he became an assistant general foreman in Bldg. 6-2. He had this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartman live at 2323 Indian Village Blvd.

When he became an employee in 1934, Mr. Metker entered the Winter St. plant as a duplicator operator. One year later, he moved to Broadway where he worked in production control and coil winding. He became a leading operator in Bldg. 4-5 in 1940.

Two years later, Mr. Metker was appointed foreman of armature winding in Bldg. 4-2. Until his present appointment, he served as foreman in heavy duty armature winding, Bldg. 4-3 on first and second shifts and on lines 3 and 4 in Sub-Section 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Metker reside at 2318 Old Trail Rd.

In 1925, Mr. Olson joined the Company. He graduated from the Apprentice School in 1929 and entered planning and wage rate section. He became leader of planning and wage rate in Sub-Section 15 in 1941. Appointed supervisor of planning in 1946, he was located in Sub-Section 13.

Moving to Taylor St. in 1948, Mr. Olson became supervisor of planning and wage rate in 1948 and had this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Olson lives at 901 W. Creighton Ave.

OVER OUR WAY

Clara Volz

George Zies has a weakness for apple pie. Every once in awhile he asks Margie to bring him a hunk back from the cafeteria.

While we're on the subject of food, Bill Billue must have been powerful hungry the other noon. He was hurrying all the fellows at the time clock so he could get going on his lunch. I'll bet your wife made something especially good that day. . . . "Oh, Go Way and Let Me Sleep!" We'll just call this fellow by the name of Clyde Enslin. Clyde runs the floor sweeper. He was kind of sleepy one morning so he drove the sweeper over in an unobtrusive spot and fell fast asleep while still on the truck. His foreman, seeing him asleep, thought he had better wake Clyde. So this foreman walked over to the truck, started up the engine, and this in turn started up Clyde. For a moment the poor fellow didn't know where he was. Let this be a lesson to you. If you are going to do any sleeping, don't do it on a high-powered sweeper truck. . . . Every time I see the Grimes brothers, I am reminded of that song, "Me and My Shadow." Whenever you see one you invariably see the other. . . . Stevenson just informed us that he was going to the lake, and would like to borrow a French bathing suit from one of the girls. I really don't think you are the Frenchy type, Homer. . . . Art Braun, Kenny Strong, and Dick Hartigan could qualify as the three "Polka Dots," judging from the polka dot ties they all had on in their latest pic-

TOOL BITS

Don Clark

Carl Schlenker and Gale Bowser deserve congratulations. On the 15th of this month they will journey to Bloomington to be present for their son's graduation from I. U.

Not only did Otto Rodenbeck's bed collapse at 2:30 a.m., but he also suffered a banged toe after picking himself up from his humiliated state. He says that it just proves that he's an early riser, but sometimes he has farther to rise. . . . Franklin Harter isn't nervous. It's just that Uncle Sam has his eye on him for Army duty some time this month.

Dick (Abey) Lee has revealed his interesting sideline—installing tile floors. . . . Besides getting a red hot sunburn helping his son-in-law pull stumps with a block and tackle, Art Dicke received a smashed finger when his son-in-law dropped a stump on it. . . . Mart Walsh has removed the trunk lid from his car, after a repeat performance recently. Yes, if you will notice on his forehead at the hairline, he is wearing a beautiful, medium-sized incision.

Bernie Byanski reports his Nash is in fine running order. It has only cost him $300 in the last three months for repairs, but other than that it runs swell and he gets 25 gallons per mile. . . . Frank Joiner claims that he goes fishing to get out in the fresh air. We can understand his saying that after seeing him Saturday returning from his fishing trip. It was all fresh air, but no fresh fish. . . . Bob Hirschman believes in solid comforts even to the point of wearing his house slippers to work. . . . Bud Dunlap did mention he needed a couple of cats out on the farm, but after Hank Whittber, Gene Denig, Walter Greiner all chipped in he had a total of eight. We understand that Marion More went out to the dog pound to get Bud a couple more, but Bud wouldn't accept them. That's sure a helpful group—they never let a fellow go without. . . . Don Martz says hiring someone to put your pier in at the lake can be dangerous. He claims the workmen left a broken bottle in the water and he was the unlucky one to discover it. A pair of badly cut toes ended Don's swimming for that day.

Paul Yentes, Gus Ormsby, Glenn Hoon, and Charlie Shipman were giving the Municipal Golf Links a thorough going over last Friday. Modest Paul Yentes outshot the others with a 45. Gus, with new clubs, bag, and shoes claimed the newness of his equipment was throwing him off. Glenn Hoon refuses to offer any alibis.

DIE PLANT: The strain of the 500 mile race was great but Gus Ausderan survived to collect his winnings from his buddies. . . . Carl Zion knows how it feels to be stripped. His ear turned up missing. He found it himself, but it was minus the sun visor, spare tire and fog lights. It's time to trade, Carl, when thieves won't even keep it. . . . THE LATHE UNIT welcomes Harold Buell. . . . Bob Bryan took time off from his home-making duties to view the race last Saturday. . . . Ed Gruber believes in real comfort. While working on his pier at Lake Gage he wore some highly prized shorts which became thoroughly washed before the job was done. However, so did his billfold. Now Ed is spending the cleanest money in town. . . . Kenny Smith had lots of luck last week, but it was all bad. First, his wife pumped all of the wash water out on the floor, flooding the entire house. Then Kenny knocked the glass out of his front storm door. . . . Kenny Sefton believes the early bird gets the worm as he was all ready to go home the other day—one hour early. He decided to stay, though. You can't buy much with worms.

38 YEARS IN BLDG. 17-4—Russell J. Noll, Bldg. 17-4 employee, walks down the aisle of the area in which he has worked 38 years as a model and tool maker. He has worked in the same 150 ft. by 25 ft. area of Bldg. 17-4 for that period of time and has been a GE employee for more than 44 years.

STORMY WEATHER

Bill Wright and Larry Reed

At first we thought that old age had finally set in when Clara Kleint was discovered knitting. Upon further investigation, it turned out that the result of her efforts will be a centerpiece for Hugh.

The grapevine has it that the bandage on Hilda Wolfe's ankle covers the wound she suffered from being kicked when she ordered T-bone steak instead of salisbury steak.

A welcome visitor on the floor was Charlie Crankshaw. Glad to know that you are feeling better and keep up the good work, Charlie.

One redeeming feature of the Vans' ballgame Sunday was the clock radio that was won by our second tricker, Earl Stauffer. . . . No, the dark glasses worn by Don Baker were not for disguising purposes, but because his regular pair had been broken. . . . Mike Lowe can make quite a little bit of change by reminding Gil Sloan, for 10 per cent of his winnings, that he had a winner. Don't you care, Gil, or are you really so busy you can't keep track of the scores?

You've heard of that expression, "You can't get blood out of a turnip." Ann Richard now wants to apply for that title since they couldn't tap her veins for any fair amount at the Blood Bank. Mike Lowe can now proudly display his pin representing donations to the amount of a gallon.

The old wheeze about "If it was a snake, it would have bitten you," can apply to Russ Noll when he accused everyone of stealing his scale and then discovered it under some papers. . . . We always understood that innerspring mattresses made wonderful sleeping, but according to Fred Devilbiss, he won't even give them bed room. Could it be that he has a preference for davenports?

If the dirtier you get means the busier you are, then Sandy Bennett certainly is a whirlwind. Seriously, though, Sandy is one fellow who really keeps wheeling along and we salute him.

We were very proud and honored to welcome Ernie Lenhart, who paid us a visit the other day. From all reports, Ernie was one of the finest and well-liked men in Bldg. 17-4, having retired from here 17 years ago. He is 87, going on 88, and in much better shape physically and mentally than Cy Seymour; and also has his own teeth.

"There are some honest people in the world," says Houston Williams. The travels of his nickel started at the coke machine. It jumped from there, rolled to the elevator shaft, fell into the cage which was at Bldg. 17-2 where no one would even pick it up, and then arose once more to Bldg. 17-4 where Houston was anxiously awaiting its return. . . . The ultimate in foolhardiness or being over-generous was reached by Ray Hoelle in loaning money to Clarence Nussel with which to play cards. Which one can claim that doubtful honor?

Quotation for the week—"Before God we are equally wise, equally foolish."

A lot of people with sunburns showed up at work Monday morning. Louie Barrow says he was helping his son-in-law build his house; Mary Reynolds, Mary Nute, and John Wilett got theirs fishing. The two Marys had a lot of luck fishing, but the fish didn't like the smell of John's sun tan oil and stayed away from him. Cecil Foer was out in the speed boat for two days to acquire his tan; Mildred Carpenter trimmed her hedge and apple tree to get her red face; and George Crickmore poured cement for sidewalks. He and his wife could walk on planks or wade the mud, but now that the baby needs someplace to pull her wagon, he gets busy and puts in sidewalks! . . . Fern Painter helped her husband plant corn and soybeans. She certainly got a beautiful tan. . . . Freda Farley spent Saturday at the boat races at Wawasee. She sure was proud of her nephew, Billy Hall, who came in first. Freda was so interested in the race she forgot the sun was shining.

Another June birthday is Bernie Lake's on the 28th of June. . . . Kathryn Gilbert's son Jim had a thrill that comes once in a lifetime, when he got his own car last week. . . . Jim Lindley got an overtime parking ticket. He has been parking at the same place, whether he was on days or nights, the past two years and they just caught up with him! Oh well, Jim, a dollar is cheap payment for two years parking. . . . Perry Esterline was satisfied with the first results of the 500-mile classic and not so happy when what he thought would be second turned out to be third. . . . The folks who went to Section 2 will be missed by those they left behind. . . . Ed Runion said he found out how to use his flyrod and made a killing on the bluegills at Crooked Lake. . . . Chauncy Buel ran into a door. He says that is how he got the cut nose and black eye. . . . Glen Castle is going bear hunting next week. He is taking running lessons so he can get out of their way. We suggest you take your new Kaiser with you to use in an emergency, Glen. . . . Sharon Pennington and Carmen Parrish are on nights now. . . . Sam Warren is back on days again.

Grace and Matt Ober were guests of Judge Ober in his box at the Indianapolis races Saturday. . . . Welcome to Mary Lou Williams, Virginia Cook, Sue Quick, Jeanette Cook, and Helen Hoedecker. . . . Congratulations to Beulah Imler on her new grandson. . . . Edna Hauser had a good time down at Dayton, Ohio last week-end. . . . Edith Juillaret had her whole family with her for a change. Her son, who is in the Navy, and her son-in-law, who is

The winding section's motto for the week: "A good cup of coffee at 9 o'clock."

Dorothy Dorothea spent a week in Flushing, New York, and has returned to Bldg. 26-4. . . . Eva Johnson has been admitted to Methodist Hospital, Room 508. Her co-workers can pay her a visit. . . . Violet Yarman has a new Oldsmobile, but G. Lordell has to ride around in her 1940 "Olds." Lucy Keller is now in Bldg. 26-3. She was the GE NEWS reporter for our Bldg. 26-4 news. . . . Congratulations to Dorothy Brown on her 16th birthday. . . . Our engineer took up smoking again. He is Don Moe. . . . Walter Eker is welcomed to first trick.

It has been reported that Al Topp's wife thinks Frank Keck is a sheep herder and lives in the country. She saw him going full tilt chasing some sheep across the meadow.

Be it known to all men! Richard Goller will now be known as "Absent Minded Goller." For further details of the forgotten umbrella, see Mildred Fast. . . . Doc (Cliff) Thompson and his able assistant, Degree Mennewisch, with their large hypodermic equipment, have the repair situation well in hand. . . . Our dear friend, Al Topp, turned up at work this Monday wearing the mark of a happy cottage owner. A sunburned face and back (also a slight stoop). He says owning a cottage is refreshing and restful.

Things to see in Bldg. 26-4: O. Heyser's art collection. . . . Orie Cagnet with a clean shirt and tie. . . . Noah Kuntz trying to look mad when he sees a foul up on the stockroom order sheets. . . . Bill Miller on his last look-see before induction into the Army. . . . Ralph Braden's worried look, to be or not to be, UHF or VHF.

IDEA EARNS $100—Yvonne Cecie shows Olin Lehman a method of eliminating the cleaning of transformers after treatment which recently earned her a $100 suggestion award. She is employed in Bldg. 26-4.

Rod and Gun Set 30-Cal. Dates

The GE Rod and Gun Club today announced the schedule for the 30-caliber matches at Sam Bowlin's farm in Huntington. Fort Wayne and Huntington clubs will compete in the matches. Qualification dates will be set later, R. C. Miller, Bldg. 19-1, reported.

Firing will get underway at 10 a.m., and all those competing are urged to arrive as soon after that time as possible. The following Sundays matches will be held on the following Sundays: June 7, June 28, July 19, August 9, August 30, September 20, and October 11.

OWL SOFTBALL

Last Wednesday's game, which was to have been played against Salisbury, was cancelled due to the temporary lay-off at their plant. This game will be played at a later date. Next Wednesday, June 3, the GE Owls will meet Magnavox on Diamond No. 4 at 9 a.m. at Mc-Millan Park.

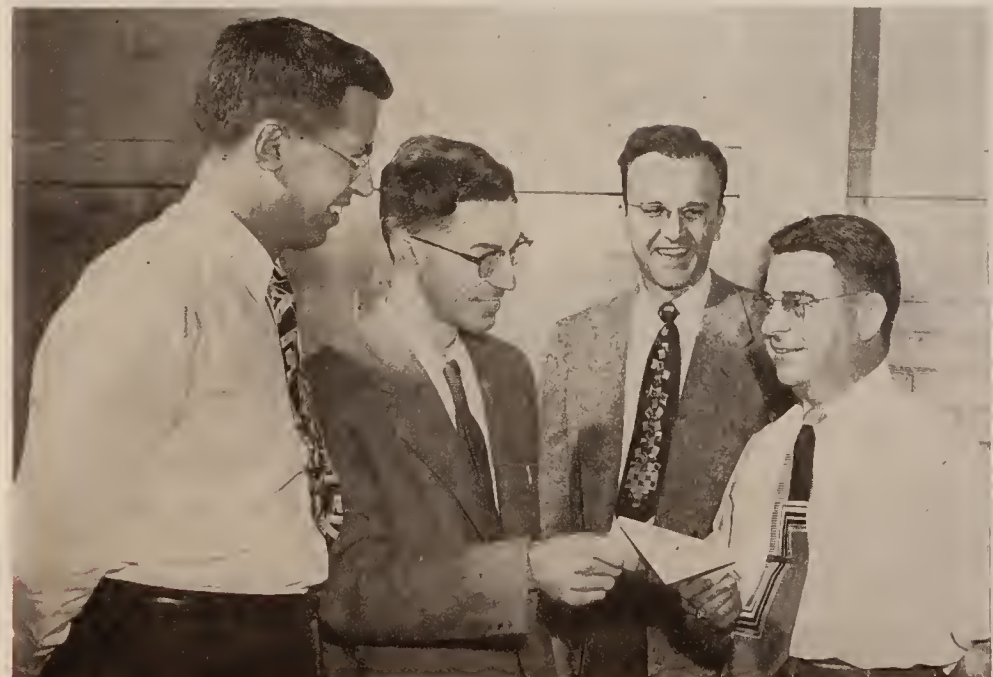

EXCHANGE CLUB ELECTS W. H. CONNOR PRESIDENT

Willard H. Connor, Bldg. 18-3, was elected president of the Fort Wayne Exchange Club at the regular weekly meeting last week. His term of office will extend through the 1953-54 club year. Prior to the election, Mr. Connor served as vice-president of the organization. He is manufacturing engineer in the Hermetic Motor Sub-Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Connor and their three children live at 4011 Wawona Tr.

A GE FIRST—With illumination supplied by arc lights of the Jenney Electric Co., forerunner of GE, the country's first night baseball game was played in Fort Wayne 70 years ago. Joe Henry, Taylor St., GE sportsman, decks out in an old vintage ball player's outfit to pose by an arc lamp similar to those used at the memorable occasion. Recording this game, the Fort Wayne Daily Sentinel stated in the June 4, 1883 issue the following account: "2,000 people were drawn together to witness what was advertised as a game between the Fort Wayne and Quincy Clubs. . . . The Jenney Electric Lights of which there were 20 burned brilliantly but cast shadows so that it was almost impossible to see the ball. Twice the lamps went out, plunging the park into darkness. Then could be heard a great deal of cooing going on in the grand stand, each loving swain taking advantage of the situation to lavish caresses upon his girl. Altogether there was lots of fun but the experiment is impracticable and will not be repeated with profit. The Jenney Electric Co. made quite a stake out of the entertainment and a big advertisement for themselves and their lamps all over the country. Seven alleged innings were indulged in by the boys. The score is of no importance."

ROUNDS OUT 35 YEARS—Robert A. Wefel (right), cost supervisor in GAC Section 17 at Taylor St., recently rounded out 35 years of service with the Company. Congratulating him are P. F. Peternell, Paul Deal, and M. R. Cameron. Mr. Wefel was a clerk in Bldg. 18-2 when he joined GE in 1918.

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

Starting with this column, we hope to give full coverage to the golf activities and keep up to date with the fine golf leagues sponsored by your GE Club and managed by the golf chairman, Harold (Red) Braden.

Most of the league play has already been under way for a few weeks, so about the only thing to do is to look at the league standings and then we can go on from there.

Last week in Charlie Briggs' Monday Afternoon League, the lads had quite a bit of competition from the wind, but Tony Wichman and Willie Adams of the Putters turned in rounds of 37 and 39. Paul LeCoque of the Highballs and Benny Penkul on the Wire Mill teams were close behind with 40's.

On Tuesday evening Fred Uhrick of the Optimists and Bob Dent of the Nineteenth Hokers carded the low 39's playing in a strong wind. The comment was made that the scores soared to undreamed of highs because of the stiff breeze. They say, "Just ask the old Red Head."

The Thursday Morning Owls played in perfect golfing weather. Warren Wickliffe, as per usual, was the pace setter with a par 36. Paul Billman, bad back and all, carded a 39, and Lloyd Grider came in with a 40. If Dutch Day would have gotten out of bed, the Owls wouldn't have had to have another forfeit match.

Stu Fisher's boys from Winter St. closed out the golfing week. Dick Szink, team No. 2; Jack Skevington, team No. 3, toured the nine in 41's. Hal Staley was next with a 42. He plays on team No. 4.

The league leaders in each league look like this. The Highballs with a plus 22 top the Monday Afternoon League. The Optimists lead on Tuesday with plus 31. Team No. 6 with plus 15 tops the Owls. Team No. 6 also is on top of the heap in the Winter St. group with a plus 24.

2-2 TALES

Old Sol sure treated Marinell Fry rough. He especially concentrated on her nose, which is now a cherry red. . . . Vern Castle looked right smart walking down the aisle with his daughter last Saturday. . . . We are about to say farewell to Dorothy (Mickey) Crawford, who is taking a job at Winter St. It just won't be the same around here without that red-head? . . . We want to say welcome to two new girls in the office. They are: Clara Nelson, in the shipping department, and Ilo Matter, in production. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Welch on their new little girl called Denise Elaine. . . . Sympathies to Hugh Reynolds on the death of his father; also to Walter Kryder on the death of his mother.

THE NIGHT WIND

Hazel Davis

We welcome Rosemary Haney to our 17x500 group. . . . Did you see the big smile on Violet Renkenberger's face? Violet has a new granddaughter named Pamela Kay. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Alice Bearicks, who was injured in an automobile accident. . . . Catherine Dull and Marclyn Filler celebrated birthdays with cake and ice cream. . . . Virginia Girod and husband have a new two-tone Packard, which was an anniversary present for themselves. . . . John McKee was surprised with a potluck supper on his birthday. We know John enjoyed the fried chicken and all the other food. John received a white shirt and tie for his birthday. . . . Jim Berry celebrated his birthday and also graduated from the Fort Wayne Bible School May 28. We wish you the best of success, Jim. . . . Delores Lee left us last week. She was proud of the bathinette the girls gave her. . . . Shorty Loudenback fished at Big Lake and Lake George over the week-end. . . . WEEK-END TRAVELERS: Mary Biehl visited at Cambridge, Ind. Ed Harris went to Kentucky over the week-end. Lola Christopher spent the week-end in Chicago. Vida Craft motored to Kentucky for the week-end. . . . Virgil Bowers is a handy man with a paint brush. If you get too close to him you may get some painted shoes. . . . Congratulations: The 21 frame assembly line is proud of their talented young singer, Dick Reidenbach. Dick recently won first place and a $65 prize over 60 contestants at the Decatur Amateur Talent Show. This led to a guest appearance on Jack Loos radio show Thursday in Fort Wayne over WOWO. . . . Marie Forst, who has just returned to work after being in the hospital, is thrilled over the idea of moving into her new bungalow. . . . Welcome Back: Dorothy Hart, of 51 frame assembly, and James Hamilton, formerly of Section 13, returned last week from the West coast. They visited in Mexico, Catalina, and Los Angeles. They called on Ruth Gunn's son at Burbank, Calif. They both enjoyed a wonderful trip. . . . Fay Patten's daughter Kay cut the end of her finger off while trimming hedge last week. We hope it will be all right soon. . . . A safe journey to Mark Belan, who is leaving the 51 frame to return to his home in Puerto Rico. . . . We welcome Ruth Bock back on the 51 frame assembly. . . . Rita Wolf has a new friend. A Chevrolet all her own.

RUBY ANNIVERSARY—Four 40-year men welcome Edward C. Bandt (second from left) to their ranks on his anniversary May 20. They are (l-r) George Bridges, Walter Prince, Fred Schafenacher, and Roy Rippe. Mr. Bandt, the newest wearer of the ruby service pin, joined the Company as a machine hand in 1912. He now works in Section 17 at Taylor St.

Ted Childs had orders from his wife to do some painting at home when he let her off at the plant last Saturday. He hurriedly bought a new stepladder and some paint. Ted's mind, however, was not on painting. He sat down to stir up the paint and with every stroke of his paddle he began to visualize and to dream. Soon the little pool before him began to deepen and widen, and with every bubble that broke on the surface, he saw a fish swimming a little farther down stream. He was out on the calm, placid waters now, his new motor purring softly, when he finally awoke to the realization that he had better hurry and get some painting done. So, with a stroke or two on the closet walls, he left to satisfy the longing to go fishing. . . . LITTLE SHAVER: Dale Irwin came to work with a face half shaved and the other half wearing that 5 o'clock shadow. His electric shaver went on the blink right in the middle of things. Might be a good idea to have an old-fashioned straight edge in reserve. Dale. . . . Paul Clendenen worked late one night and after he got his work all done, he wearily trudged over to the East gate, only to find it locked. He was mad enough to bite the lock off. He decided to save his teeth since his legs were wearing out, so he stumped all the way over to the West gate. Now, Paul Smith, planner, figures it is 1400 feet from Clendenen's desk to the East gate and 1200 feet from the East gate to the West gate. Or, a total of 2600 feet, which is one-half mile, roughly speaking. Paul Clendenen agrees that it is rough all right, but not from speaking. . . . We are happy to report that Becky Lisle's mother is out of the hospital and improving rapidly. . . . Gynith Baker is quitting to assume the duties of a housewife. . . . Several co-workers attended a stork shower given for Edna Marquardt and Irene Anderson, former employees of the winding section. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Marjorie Stapleton and Carl Reynolds. . . . Marie McDougal has a new Chevrolet and Florence Doege has a new son-in-law. Congratulations to both of you. . . . Our sympathy to Muriel Etehason on the death of her grandmother.

. . . Gene Fiedler, assembly, is coming back after spending two weeks in Naval Reserve Training. . . . Wellington Snyder is the papa of a 9-lb. baby boy. . . . Herb Toms got disgusted with those two old 1938 Studebakers and bought himself a much better automobile, a Kaiser, to be exact. . . . The person who admits he has a lot to learn has already learned a lot.

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Blanche Cowell

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks. It was a girl at the Lutheran Hospital on May 24. . . . Jim Feber went to the Indianapolis races. He didn't seem to enjoy them much. He said, "Never again that way!" . . . Rudy Rastenburg is back from vacation. . . . Gangway! Be on the lookout for Dorothy Whonseller. She just got her driver's license. . . . Welcome back: Joe Burton is back on the job after a bout with a virus. . . . Fred Buckholz is a proud owner of a new Kaiser Manhattan car.

THE BIG WIND

Rachel Mounsey

Gene LeFavour looked like a well done lobster Monday morning when he came to work. . . . Ilene Case spent her week-end playing golf. She was pretty sunburned. . . . We thought we had a new girl in the winding department, but it was Juanita Rhoades with bangs. . . . We all wish Loretta Rauche a speedy recovery from an emergency operation over the week-end. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to June Rennemen, who celebrated on June 1. She received a dozen red roses from the girls. . . . We are glad to have Della Zulch back with us again. . . . Nellie Wiggins enjoyed the week-end by going to the Indiana Michigan Dunes. . . . Congratulations to Millie Snyder. She won second place in the archery meet over the week-end. . . . WELCOME to Marjorie Ann Buger, who is new in our division. . . . Agnes Sarazien is really thrilled over her new grandson. . . . Lee Hatch is spending a few days in Birmingham, Ala. . . . Les Slusher went home to Kentucky over the week-end. . . . Kenny Martin's two daughters spent the week-end at home. . . . Doyle Sheets was wondering if Patty Cuttler had wet feet Monday morning as she had sandals on. Doyle thought she was drying her feet. . . . The girls in group 17x660 wish to welcome Anna Murphy. . . . We are sorry to see the 510-520 groups moved to Broadway. We'll miss you, girls, but we hope you like your new place. . . . FREE: A big meal is planned in the near future at Oscar Schelper's house for his group. His wife won a large ham at the Daisy game. . . . Did you ever hear Harry Kessler talk of picking chickens? Well, Harry really got picked over the week-end. He went to the races at Indianapolis. When he looked for his wallet it was gone. . . . Mary Satterwaite went to Indianapolis but she didn't go to the races. She went over to her mother-in-law's house and relaxed.

Bill Mills (that's the guy with the head) is looking for men interested in playing softball for the transformer team. See Bill for more information. . . . I was out to see the new home of Mary Jane and Walt Mertz. It's a beautiful place, but the service isn't too good. I was there for half an hour before I got a drink—Seven-Up that is. . . . Note to Agnes Reinking: You're supposed to get up when the alarm goes off, not shut it off and go back to bed.

The bushing section has formed the "I wish it Were Friday Club." To join you raise your right hand and take an oath wishing it were Friday. Naturally the oath is administered only on Mondays.

Welcome back to Marion Berger, who has joined the stamping group. . . . We will miss seeing Charlie Elzey, who has moved to Bldg. 26-3. . . . The award for the joke of the week goes to Al (see what I mean?) Tyson, who brings us the statement of a bum—"Can I have a glass of water, Ma'm, I'm so hungry I don't know where I'm going to sleep tonight!" . . . DAFFY DEFINITIONS: Patient Pedestrian—Of which if there were more, there would be less pedestrian patients. Alibi—Proof that a guy wasn't where he was and therefore couldn'ta did what he done. Bars—What some people think drinkers should be behind.

RETIREES WITH 34 YEARS OF SERVICE—Friends of Clifford R. Schwarz gathered to congratulate him on his retirement from the General Electric Company May 22. Left to right are P. M. Staehle, H. F. Ulrich, Mr. Schwarz, and C. H. Rinne. Mr. Schwarz joined the Company as a tester in Bldg. 19-4 in 1919. At the time of his retirement, he was employed in Bldg. 26-2 as a developmental tester.

"Lost" and "Found" articles must be cleared through the Plant Protection Office, Bldg. 10-2, or the Plant receptionist, who will place the Ad-let and otherwise advertise the article.

No ad will be received over the telephone.

Only one ad per employee may be inserted. Each ad must be limited to 20 words and cannot be repeated. All articles mentioned must be personal property of the employee. Ads will not be accepted unless accompanied by the name, pay number, and division of the employee. No plant building or telephone number may appear in any ad except transportation ads, only the home telephone number or address. Send all ads to G-E NEWS office, Bldg. 10-1.

FLYING HIGH

Ivy Mills

If any one has any old window shades, please deliver to Ginny and Ivy. The gals are acquiring that over-done look on their right sides, but look mighty pale on the left. Reason? The sun shines bright in the afternoon and they need something to cover up those windows. . . . Those funny notions Kenny Beery has been going through lately isn't a sign that he has lost his marbles, it's just Kenny reeling in that trout he is planning to catch during vacation, which is only 49 gruesome days away. . . . Julie Medsker blew a fuse the other night and the sparks just flew. Who ran? Not Julie, she is too calm. It was Helen Thieme who headed for the nearest exit. . . . Tony Mandra has a new profession. He is learning hair styling. Is that where Julie got her pig tails? . . . Wayne and Esther Johnson have a beautiful new house trailer and boat. They have the trailer parked at Randall Lake. We are all looking forward to a big fish fry. . . . Who is Sue McGahey? She is the doll that has that lovely collection of pedal pushers with a pair for every night of the week. She wears them well, too. . . . Louis Becker is the King of the Roller Skates. In fact, he is considering going professional. . . . Rain, rain go away, so that Bill Winders can finish his new house. Bill is the boss carpenter and Harry Hedglin is his helper. . . . Ben Farrington doesn't mind people taking sand away from in front of his cottage, but when they start taking the evergreens, too, that's going a lil' too far. . . . We were trying to find out the meaning of the letters R.S.V.P. and after inquiring around we asked Professor Wiegand. Why, it means: Respondez s'il vous plait. Come again? "Reply, if you please." Guess we should have studied our French a lil' harder when we were in school. . . . Margaret Rowllins goes to Detroit June 5 and 6 to bowl in the Women's International Bowling Congress. She is bowling on a team both singles and doubles. Her average is 146. We wish you lots of luck, Margaret. . . . On May 28 Clarice Fyock graduated from Art School. . . . If you have any old TV sets laying around please contact Doris Biltz. She has the antenna and booster stored in her living room. All she needs is that green lettuce so that she can buy the rest of the equipment. . . . We are sorry to hear that Eleanor Huffman has to enter the hospital soon for a serious operation. We wish you a

HERE 30 YEARS—Earl Sexton (center) reads a letter of congratulations on his 30th anniversary to Ed Kortum (left) and William Charleston. Mr. Sexton joined GE as a coil spreader in Bldg. 8-2. He is now a hand screw machine operator in Bldg. 4-3.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

George Winans

Happy birthday to me! Smokehouse Sayings is one year old. I would like to thank everyone for helping with the column for the past 52 weeks. I will try to give you a better column in the next 52 weeks.

News is kind of scarce this week as several of our favorite characters were absent. Castle has been gone all week and so has Red Juergens. Pappy Wright and Charlie Mowery were on vacation. . . . Jake Mattes wanted to lay-off last Friday and help get things ready for his daughter's wedding but his wife and daughter wouldn't let him. They said he would have to go to work as he would just be in the way around the house. It's a woman's world. . . . Why don't you drive out State Road 30 towards New Haven this weekend and stop at Floyd Brown's Gift Shop? Brownies' place is right across from the East 30 drive-in movie. He has the biggest collection of figurines, knickknacks, what-nots, and out-door ornaments that you ever did see. . . . Don Dresden has a new hard speedy recovery. . . . Any veteran, male or female, who has not as yet received their 1953 membership card for the GE Veterans Association please contact Harold Ely or Roy Brower at your earliest convenience. Roy also wants to thank all who helped make our Memorial Service last Friday a great success.

SPECIALTY MOTORS

Eileen Fitch

The office gals honored Mabel Staton with a bridal shower and dinner Thursday evening at the Colonial. Mabel, who "ties the knot" June 6, received some very nice gifts. A good time was had by all. Best wishes and lots of happiness to you and yours, Mabel. . . . Mr. Wheeler resumed his usual Monday morning schedule with a smile. Fred looks mighty fine and reports he is feeling "fit as a fiddle," and hopes, once again, to be a permanent fixture around the place. . . . We hate to say so-long to Jack Joseph, our "Jack of several trades" about the office. Jack was transferred to Bldg. 26. We hope you like your new job. Don't forget to stop and see us now and then. . . . Joe Rykowski looks strictly masculine, nothing weak or dainty about him. That's why Paul Thomas was so surprised when he saw Joe slyly polishing his truck with a small, soft chamois. . . . George Michel always waits to shed his jacket and heavy clothing until the last vestige of winter is gone. This year he got fooled. The weather changed suddenly and George had to get out his heavies again. Next year, he no doubt will wait until July. . . . With the coming of warm weather comes the lake season and fishing fever sets in. If you see Ed David or Tom Dent waving their arms in the air, and going through various motions, don't be alarmed. They're only demonstrating how they caught the big ones. . . . Welcome to Neal Fett, William King, and James Brooks. Neal and Bill join the shippers in Bldg. 6-1, and Jim will spend his time operating the elevator on second shift.

We want to say happy birthday this week to Harry Price. Many more future birthdays, Harry.

I hope everybody had a nice holiday week-end. With the warm weather and bright sunshine we can look for some nice sunburns. . . . We are glad to see Ann Lehman back at work after her recent illness. . . . Joan Lahman came to work with some beautiful gifts and a box of candy. Congratulations on your birthday, Joan. . . . We were glad to see Ross Domer's picture in the honorable mention for winning the Eagle award for Boy Scout leadership. Nice work, Ross. . . . Welcome to the new girls who have transferred to our line. Hope you like it here.

211 Employees Pocket $2,740 for Ideas

Dessie L. George Tops List With $255 Suggestion Award

The big suggestion guns boomed in April, firing $2,740.38 the way of 211 Fort Wayne plant employees, according to A. C. Hartman, secretary of the suggestion system. At the top of the list was Dessie L. George, Bldg. 4-2. She earned $255 for her suggestion which improved the method of assembly of the insulation to pole pieces.

Next in the line of fire was Robert F. Carr, Section 13 at Taylor St. He was awarded $125 for coming up with a more economical method of purchasing and treating music wire.

Two women from the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department shared in the awards. Yvonne Cecie received $100 for showing a method of eliminating the cleaning of transformers after treatment, Helen L. Schneider earned $85 for suggesting a method of salvaging coils which were formerly scrapped.

Other employees on the April suggestion list were: Edward N. Snyder, $44.50; Rolland F. Mennewisch, $45; Clayton E. Raquet, $33.34; Herbert Rapp, Robert L. RePine, Robert Green, and Frank Matthews, $35 each; Fred N. Shutt, Arlo R. Kissinger, Robert E. Carpenter, Gary M. Pequinot, and Stanley J. Tisovic, $30 each; Fred N. Shutt, Ralph Reinking, Joseph B. Howard, Leo M. Didier, and J. Virgil McKeeman, $25 each.

One hundred and ninety employees received awards ranging from $5 up to $25.

If anyone owns a Plymouth, be sure to see Sylvester Steele and compare operating costs. He boasts that he drives 1200 miles and doesn't lose a drop of oil. Then, too, I believe he must be running the car on steam as he can drive 120 miles on five gallons of gas. If all of his figures are right he will hurt the sale of new cars. Everyone will be buying old Plymouths.

EVELYN MARKLEY GETS $1400 FOR SUGGESTION Earns Largest Award Ever Paid at Fort Wayne

Taylor Street Winder Hits Jackpot On Fifth Suggestion Submitted

The largest single suggestion award ever presented to a Fort Wayne plant employee was awarded this week to Evelyn Markley, Sub-Section 17 Taylor St. employee.

A $1400 check was presented to Mrs. Markley for her idea to perform the interpolating of coils in the winding section instead of in the finishing section.

Present when Mrs. Markley received the award were J. J. Clarkson, general manager of Specialty Motor Sub-Department; Fred Seip, Sub-Section 17 foreman, and A. C. Hartman, chairman of the suggestion committee.

A winder in Sub-Section 17, Mrs. Markley had turned in four previous suggestions since she came to the Company in 1942, but this is the first to be adopted.

Prior to the $1400 award, the largest single suggestion check, which was $1100, went to R. Stoller in 1943. A joint award of $1100 was presented in 1947 to Carl Vizithum and Maurice Bennett, both Bldg. 4-6 employees.

Having no idea that her award would be this large, Mrs. Markley said that she would use the money to help pay for her new home. Mr. and Mrs. Markley and their son, Tiffy, reside at 307 E. Townley, Bluffton.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Suggestion System in Fort Wayne.

COMPANY OFFERS WAGE INCREASE

The General Electric Company announced in New York on Wednesday its new proposal to various unions for a general wage increase, plus additional wage adjustments for skilled and certain other classifications.

The IUE negotiating committee voted to accept the company proposal at a meeting with the company the same day.

The new proposals include a general wage increase in excess of 3 per cent for unions which have not accepted the company's previous offer made in March, and balancing increases for unions which have already accepted the company's earlier offer. The net effect will be for most employees to have a 12 per cent "adder factor" on top of their established base rate. The present "adder factor" for most employees is now either 8.74 per cent or 10.53 per cent.

An additional adjustment was proposed for skilled and certain other classifications. This adjustment consists of an additional 8 cents per hour to be added to the higher level base rates of Sept. 14, 1951, tapering off to one cent at the lower base rate of $1.65. The new 12 per cent "adder factor"

SETS SUGGESTION RECORD—If Evelyn Markley's handshake looks a little weak and her smile a little dazed, it's because she was surprised Wednesday morning with a $1400 suggestion check, which set a new high in idea awards for the Fort Wayne plant. J. J. Clarkson, Specialty Motor Sub-Department general manager, congratulates her.

Don't Hesitate

when you have a good idea turn it in before someone else does

If you were running a foot race with an expert, you would be just plain foolish to let him get a head start. You should get just as good a start in submitting suggestions. When you have an idea, think it out. Once you have your thoughts in order, hesitate no longer. Write up your idea and send it in to the suggestion people. Don't let anybody else beat you to that suggestion cash.

Bob Taylor is sure proud of his new Chevy. He also proved to us that it has a little snap. In fact, he has a pretty little red tag to prove it. . . . After working for six long months on his motorcycle, Reidenbach finally got it running. Of course, he has to prove it to us by taking the gang for a ride. When, old boy, when? . . . WHEEE: Luck at last for the softball team! They won a game last week. Fellows, let's see you keep up the good work. . . . June 14 is Schwartz' birthday. Gee, too bad it falls on a Sunday as you sure would have had a nice welcome. . . . Duke Doepke's is June 17, but Jake Auer is the only one who knows the date, and he promised Duke he wouldn't tell a soul. . . . During one lunch period Hofacker and Wilkerson showed Bair and Connor how to play cards. Hofacker says he is willing to give anyone lessons who needs them. . . . This weather would get anyone down and Don Bohner made himself a headband to keep the sweat out of his eyes. Jim Schwartz decided it would look a little better with some feathers and fixed it up so he would look more like a brave. A brave what? . . . Friedrich was having a little trouble seeing out of his safety glasses. What was wrong, old boy, the heat steam them up? . . . Poor Ron Davis had to do his home work twice in one day, as somehow the wind carried it out the window. It would have to be the hardest problem. Some guys just have all the luck, I guess. . . . And now for the big news: Our boy, Mahlon Hutchison, took the fatal step last Friday. He was married in the Waynedale Methodist Church. We all express our congratulations. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scheive on the arrival of a baby boy. Ralph is one of our apprentices who is now in the service in Korea.

Cloth Pinion

Albert Einstein, world's greatest physicist, has been known to say that "common sense" is often the name we give to prejudices acquired before the age of 18. In the smaller discoveries of science as well as the greater, the foremost ability required is often that of seeing things outside the categories in which they have been placed and in which people believe them to be firmly lodged and confined. And it is simply because they have done this that many original men have been called crazy; for many people do not like to see a disturbance in what they regard as the natural order of things.

Back in 1906, the gears on the direct current motors in Schenectady, meshing together one moment, stopping entirely the next, were subject to a strain that caused them to wear out rapidly and unevenly. And what was more they gave out a noise that was both deafening and nerve-racking. To a millwright named John Miller this was a challenge and he started out on his own with some experiments designed to eliminate the trouble.

He tried bronze for the gears, but it was too soft to last; he tried steel, but it made such an uproar that it was out of the question. So he went on, trying copper, laminated iron, wood leather, rawhide—all without success. Then he looked at a shiny spot on his coat sleeve—it was worn smooth. The idea it gave him almost made him doubt his own sanity, but he had to go ahead and try it. So he took some buffing wheels made of cloth sewn together in layers, pressed them together between clamps, cut out gear teeth and mounted them on a hacksaw.

Then he set it into operation. But for a time he kept quiet about it; he wanted to be quite sure before he went up with an idea like this. But sure enough after two months the cloth was still standing up to the test. It was operating silently, was wearing smooth and shiny like his coat sleeve and was getting so hard that you could scarcely tell it from metal. From the technical superintendent of the plant he got the expected answer of "you're crazy" when he went to tell him about it, but the superintendent could not help but be convinced when he saw the gear in operation. All the same he was very sheepish in notifying the Patent Department about this discovery; he was afraid that he would be called crazy himself. He even drew a humorous sketch representing GE scouts foraging among neighboring clothes lines in search of raw material for the "lingerie pinion."

Very soon, though, all concerned were taking the matter very seriously. The cloth gear proved to work smoothly and silently for three years. The best previous gear on the same job had worn out within a week. So it was that the company manufactured and sold cloth gears. The first step in preparing the original type involved placing cotton cloth under enormous pressure, and from this it was called Fabrolite. A later adaptation under the now familiar name of Textolite took its place as an essential part in the timing mechanism of automobile engines. And thus the "cloth gear" found itself going places all over America. It was worth being called crazy to find out something like this.

Now that the fishing season is here again we wonder if anyone can top this. Last summer Annie Barrick caught a nine-inch bass and sat on it till it measured a full ten inches. . . . Frances Fitch has a secret admirer. Friday she found a vase of beautiful roses on her desk. . . . Mel Braun was seen washing his paper basket after he attempted to shell an egg he presumed to be hard boiled. . . . Happy birthday to Bob Rose. . . . Don Martin was looking swell when he visited co-workers recently while on leave from the Navy. . . . The outboard motor, given by Tri-Lake Junior Association, was won by Ray Kohle. Walter Crampton wishes to thank all his friends who contributed donations to this project.

Spring house cleaning turns up so many things. Last week an anonymous person found a GE NEWS printed in January, 1934. We were much impressed with the progress in these 19 years. On one page we found these three people (copied from that paper) Oliver Bowman, Bldg. W1—$5 award making parts for selective assembly. . . . Another Mouth to Feed: Eddie Glusenkamp, Bldg. 4-5, returning from shopping the Saturday before Christmas, spied with his sharp eye what he thought was a turkey perched on a lamp post. Eddie shinnied the post to get his Christmas bird and made the capture. He received the gathered crowds' applause, and hastened home to discover that he had a fine owl. He now spends his time catching mice for his bird of prey and tips on how to cook an owl will be appreciated. . . . This next one was accompanied by a cartoon of a chicken in a car and a very surprised man. "Biddy Thumbs a Ride": Paul Kinnerk, Bldg. 4-4, could hardly believe his eyes. One day last week when unlocking his car at noon on the parking lot he be held one of his chickens contentedly brooding on the upholstery. Biddy had been locked in the car all morning at least, though how much longer can only be guessed. . . . All three men work in Bldg. 4-2.

Mystery of the week: How can Ed DeFevers keep a hair bow on a crew hair cut? . . . It's a happy birthday to Bud Junk. . . . Kate Weigle had to hurry home Friday. She wanted to get a fishing license. Catch any fish? . . . Glad to see Betty Blackburn and Lucille Bates back in the groove and ringing in their clock cards again. . . . Also, glad to report that Faye Kitt-ridge, Luella Knocke, and Clara Dixon are on the improved list. . . . Kenny Cook didn't care for any back slapping last week. The sun made him a pretty cranberry pink. We can look for Kenny to be on time now. He bought a new GE alarm clock and that should do it. . . . Virginia Henry's stomach must be on fast time. She was ready to go to lunch an hour early last Monday. . . . Lorena Buuck must have Saturdays on her mind. Tuesday she was stamping the work with a Saturday date stamp. . . . Last week in the cafeteria the co-workers of Thirsten Howell put their check stubs on his tray. He decided if he paid all of them he would have to help do the dishes for a week. . . . Life's darkest moment: Ida Sinn was going to make the 3:40 bus to New Haven. She got to the bus station on time, but didn't see the driver around any place. She dashed across the street to get some coffee. In the meantime the bus pulled out. Ida didn't make it. . . . Name Five to New Posts at Winter Street

Five appointments in the Small Integral Motor Department at Winter St. have been announced by Oscar L. Weitzman, manager of manufacturing and employee relations.

B. Franklin Burnham is appointed manufacturing engineer in charge of the manufacturing engineering unit. Max A. Tritch is named manager of the materials unit.

Alan C. Lord has been appointed supervisor of the employee relations unit. Frank C. Mason is supervisor of the quality control unit. Appointed superintendent of the manufacturing unit is Harold F. Staley.

B. Franklin Burnham

When he joined General Electric in 1947, Mr. Burnham entered the Manufacturing Consultant Division at Schenectady. Continuing as a consultant when the division was reorganized as the Manufacturing Policy Division and later the Manufacturing Services Division, he remained in the same location until June, 1952. At that time, he came to Winter St. and entered the Small Integral Motor Planning Study group on manufacturing. This was his location at the time of his present appointment.

In 1943, Mr. Burnham entered the U. S. Air Force as an air transport command pilot. He was discharged in 1945. Studying at Hope College, he majored in mechanical and industrial engineering for two years.

Mr. Burnham is a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit, Society of Plastic Engineers, Society of Automotive Engineers, American Society of Metals, American Legion Post 47, Supervisors Club, and the Newcomers Club. The Burnhams and their daughter live at 1823 Griswold Dr.

Max A. Tritch

In 1940, Mr. Tritch became a GE employee and entered the stock room in Bldg. 4-3. He entered production the same year and became production group leader in 1945 at Taylor St.

Entering the advanced production training course, group 9 in 1946, Mr. Tritch completed the course two years later and became staff assistant to the Specialty Transformer and Ballast manager of manufacturing. After transferring to Schenectady in 1948, he became production supervisor in the large motor division. He was named assistant to the production manager of the Schenectady Small and Medium Motor Department in 1950 and had this capacity at the time of his present appointment.

An International Business College graduate, Mr. Tritch completed the business administration course in 1937. He is a scoutmaster at the Trinity English Lutheran Church. Mr. and Mrs. Tritch and their three sons reside at 333 W. Fleming Ave.

Alan C. Lord

Joining the Company in 1945, Mr. Lord became a member of the advanced manufacturing program and received training at the Lynn and Philadelphia plants. Upon completion of the course in 1947, he went on special assignment in the Philadelphia Switchgear personnel division. He was in this location at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, Mr. Lord received his BA degree in English and history in 1939. He did post-graduate work at Rensselaer Polytechnic

GE Chorus to Sing at Flag Day Ceremony; Elect New Officers

Frank H. Fleischer, Bldg. 18-3, was recently elected president of the General Electric Chorus. Other new officers are: R. M. Knepple, Bldg. 4-6, vice president; Marjorie Feaster, Bldg. 4-6, secretary; and Carolyn Kohrman, Bldg. 4-6, treasurer.

The GE Chorus has been invited to sing several numbers at the Flag Day ceremonies sponsored by the Elks, June 15. This will be the first public appearance of the Chorus under the leadership of the new conductor, William Davies.

Rehearsals are held every Tuesday at 7 p.m., at the United Brethren Church, 3516 S. Wayne Ave. There are still openings in all voice sections, Mr. Fleischer reported, especially tenor and bass.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Tomorrow, June 13, marks the 88th birthday of E. A. Barnes, retired general superintendent of the Fort Wayne plant.

Mr. Barnes, who resides with his wife at 2401 S. Harrison St., is well remembered for his efforts in organizing the GE Club, the Volunteer Firemen's Association, the Elex Club, and the band.

Upon completion of 43 years of service with General Electric, Mr. Barnes retired in 1931.

Europe-Bound Elexers to Attend Dinner Style Show at Grand Leader

A dinner and style show invitation has been extended to all persons taking the Elex Escorted European trip this summer by G. A. Pendergast, manager of the Grand Leader Department Store.

The European bound vacationers will be the store's guests Tuesday, June 16, in the Grand Leader's Birchwood Room. Beginning at 6:30 p.m., the dinner will be followed by a style show of summer travel fashions modeled by members of the tour.

Persons attending the party have been asked to go in the Calhoun St. entrance.

Monday, June 15, is the deadline for payments on the tour, Doris McKeefer, tour consultant, announced this week. Final payments should be made with either Miss McKeefer, Bldg. 18-1, or Evelyn Blakley, Taylor St.

Further tips and departure times will be sent to those taking the two trips.

For persons not taking the trips but planning to go to New York City for their vacation, there are a limited number of reservations on the planes leaving Fort Wayne Saturday, July 25, Miss McKeefer stated. Available seats on the special planes for the New York round trip are $45 per person. Those going only to New York will leave with the European travelers. They will also return with them to Fort Wayne Saturday, Aug. 15.

Those who wish to make reservations should contact either Miss McKeefer or Miss Blakley.

ON 35TH ANNIVERSARY—A 35th General Electric anniversary was celebrated May 29 by Otto E. Rietdorf (left). Mr. Rietdorf, who is shown discussing the highlights of his GE career with Frank Obringer, is a production clerk in Bldg. 26-2. He came to GE in 1918 as a file clerk in Bldg. 19-2.

Wage Increase

already referred to would apply on top of this new base rate and thus augment the amount of the increase actually received by skilled employees under the new proposal. For employees in some of the higher classifications the general increase plus the additional adjustment, will total 15 cents an hour.

Under the terms of the offer, the effective date of the new increase will be the date of settlement with the various unions—with the resulting contract to run for a one year period.

In the case of IUE, the negotiating committee agreed to recommend acceptance of the company's proposal at a meeting of the union conference board scheduled for June 16. If accepted by the IUE conference board, the IUE modifications to the IUE contract will be dated June 1, with the wage increase effective on the June 10 acceptance date.

Employees not represented by any union will receive balancing increases as a matter of course to bring them up to the levels proposed by the new offer.

Although no official statements were available as we went to press, company officials indicated that application of the proposals to members of supervision was being given separate consideration in the light of past practices and what is right for all concerned.

The company's proposal also included six previously considered changes in the contract including provisions liberalizing overtime arrangements for exempt salaried employees; counting jury duty time and armed services encampments in determining vacation overtime; providing for automatic restoration of "continuity of service" for employees rehired after layoffs of up to three years; granting double time for hours worked in excess of 16 in any 24-hour period; and proposing certain termination payments in connection with plant closings.

The company also stated that increases comparable to the special adjustments to skilled employees would be granted to salaried employees up to and including grade 14, other than drafting employees. Drafting employees were also being offered increases on a comparable basis, taking cognizance, however, of any prior special increases already proposed or accepted for such employees.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list.

Elmer Sievers, Virginia Webster, Maynard Spade, William Wright, Loretta Rausch, Susie Wagner, Patricia Pepple, John Miles, Helen Rinehart, Vera Miller, Gean Quine, Eleanor Sellers, Charles Sessler, Roy Lautzenheiser, Kenneth Flesher, Robert Everding, Rachel Jackson, John Dennis, Richard Boyle, Marie Hayes, Clarence Hewes, Cecelia Joseph, Roger Haifley, Fern Hartman, Mary Henry, Lula Howley, Margot Espada, James DeFord, Pearl Honeck, Maria Cuellar, Hobard Friend, June Sullivan, Evelyn Bair, Sadie Dixie, Cleo Crews, Herman Curry, Catherine Schlup, Vera Beam, Josephine Hahn, McKinley Davis, Jr., and Carl Barber.

his wife's name was called at the Maumee Theater last week. She would have won a hundred dollars had she been there. We sympathize with her. Better luck next time. . . . Ted Childs caught a 27-inch pike on Coldwater Lake last week-end. It weighed 4½ pounds. Nice fish. Which brings to mind an item from Wildlife: "The offspring of a pair of walleyed pike may number as many as 50,000 in one season." So Al Graham says, "Fifty thousand walleyed pike-lings, finny little look-alikelings, hungry, all, if not voracious; all asquirm, if not pugnacious; teasing, poking one another; asking papa pike (or mother) why a walleyed pike is walleyed, why a whale seems not-at-all-eyed, why a seal is such a fatso, why is this and why is that so. Parent; When you get to thinking what parental woe is like, when you're sunk, or when you're sinking, think about the walleyed pike!"

DO YOU THINK THE GRADING SYSTEM ON REPORT CARDS IS OUTDATED?

BONNA LOU FAHL

"No. I do not believe the system is outdated. It shows the child's ability in school work. I do not think they should grade on a percentage basis as is done in many schools, but on the ability of each individual. Also, more frequent report cards and discussions between parents and teachers should be included."

Taylor St.

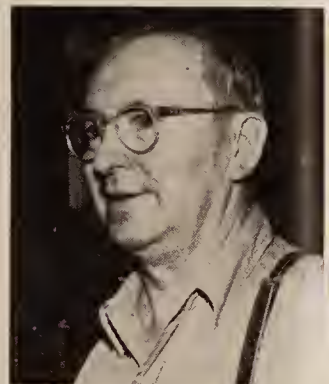

"No, I do not believe the grading system is outdated. By means of a grade, the children know their class standing, and I think parents and teachers can give special help to those who need it."

ERNEST R. LINN

Bldg. 19-2

"I do not feel the present grading system is outdated, but there should be more discussion between parents and teachers about the child's progress. I believe that the children's percentage grade should be shown on the report card each grading period instead of letters."

GENIE COYNE

Winter St.

"Yes. Grade a child by his ability and not by numeral grades. Some children progress more slowly than others and should be graded according to their ability."

MARY E. STEWART

Bldg. 4-5

"A child should be graded according to his own efforts and ability to learn and not on a scale including the entire class. The modern methods of teaching require a different method of informing the parents of their children's progress."

GE Engineers Aid Youthful Atom Smashers

Motor-Generator Electro-Magnet Unit Delivered To South Side High School Project This Week

Aiding South Side and North Side High School students in their project of building an atom smasher, General Electric engineers delivered a motor and generator electro-magnet unit this week to South Side High School.

A part of the community cooperation which is making this extensive project possible, GE engineers are aiding the students with their advice and design of some of the equipment necessary.

Since the project, which was organized to promote a desire for research and engineering careers among students, got under way about a year ago, Claude M. Summers, Bldg. 28-2, and A. W. Howard, Bldg. 20-2, have actively aided the students by giving them instructions on construction of the special room in the basement of South Side, necessary to house the equipment. The two GE men, along with C. W. Kronmiller, Bldg. 26-2, have not only offered "know how" in building equipment, but have made many trips to the school to supervise construction of certain parts done by students.

As the Fort Wayne Engineers Club endorsed the project last fall, other GE and civic engineers have helped in securing materials for the cyclotron, which will transmute elements by smashing atoms.

Taking the program very seriously, students have convinced civic organizations of their abilities to complete the task they have cut out for themselves and to operate the mechanism once it is completed.

Toward that goal, the students have organized The Fort Wayne High School Atomic Energy Association. The organization has rigid rules which protect the students and at the same time enable these interested in atomic energy to gain a sound background in the subject.

With work moving along on the project, the aim is to have the cyclotron completed in one year.

MOTOR GENERATOR STATIC

Thought of the Week: "If Moses had been a committee, the Israelites would still be in Egypt."—J. B. Hughes.

NEWS: A GE NEWS column, like the weather, is something about which people talk a lot but never seem to do anything. Sounds a little confused and complicated, doesn't it? It is! Almost as complicated as trying to publish a column without news. Last week Motor Generator Static did not appear in our GE NEWS. This brought forth the usual line of inquiries as to the cause of such an oversight. The answer is simple, no news turned in. It's up to you folks to provide news if we are to continue a column. Turn in your stories to Esther Dalman, Bldg. 31-1; Don Shultz, Bldg. 31-1; Pappy Archbold, Bldg. 19-3; Art Druce, Bldg. 19-1; and Bud Fisher, Bldg. 31-1.

MORE NEWS: We can always depend on Madonna Bailey, Jim Stouder, and Homer Campbell to provide us with news items, but we hesitate to use these names too frequently else they become household expressions. Besides, a steady diet of these three could become

DMM Picnic Tomorrow

Members of the Decimal Minute Men will steer their automobiles toward Rome City tomorrow morning to convene for their annual stag picnic at the Limberlost Golf Club.

Getting under way at 9 a.m., the program will include golf and fishing in the morning and softball in the afternoon. Prizes will be awarded for all three events, including a prize for the biggest fish. A blind bogey golf match has been planned. A country style chicken dinner will be served.

Chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements is George E. Hicks, Bldg. 4-6. He is being assisted by Carl Swaim, Taylor St., and Vernon Boyer, Bldg. 4-2.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

George Winans

We are sorry to lose our co-worker, Leon Kohne, and we extend a hearty welcome to the new second trick dispatcher, Jim Brake. . . . What happened? George Hatch has been coming in to work on crutches. We don't know what actually happened but several rumors have been floating around. Two of them are: he was hit by a truck, and, he had a slight disagreement with the little woman. I would choose to believe the latter. No truck could cripple a fellow up like that. . . . The Decoration Day parade was a huge success. The highlight was Officer Harold Smith who rode in the sidecar of a motorcycle. They had to use a shoe horn to get him in and a can opener to get him out. He wanted to ride a horse but the Humane Society wouldn't have it. . . . Did you know? That in his boyhood days Al Mason was a cash boy in a downtown department store and that he used to shoot bent pins at the society women's poodle dogs? . . . Jake Mattes' daughter Marilyn was married to Raymond Sorg Decoration Day in St. Andrews Catholic Church. This columnist does not have the vocabulary to describe such a beautiful wedding, so he'll just say it was really "sumpin." The reception was held in the evening in Hessen Cassell Hall.

Jake and Marilyn

Here is a picture of papa Jake and daughter at the reception. . . . Dan Ferguson's wife baked him a delicious cake the other day but Dan's afraid she'll never be able to bake another just like it. When she was half way through mixing the cake she stepped into the other room for a minute and while she was gone her little boy turned to another page in her recipe book. When she returned she just followed the directions on the new page and it came out beautiful. Dan called it a pineapple upside down coconut orange layer cake.

Partizan Plan Picnic

Tuesday, June 16 members of Partizan Chapter will head for McMillen Park where they will convene for a picnic. The meeting is slated to begin at 12 o'clock noon.

Chairman of the event is Mildred VanHorn. Assisting her with arrangements are Phyllis Wagner, Edna Berdelman, and Nora Coburn.

tiring after a short time. There seems to be a slight feud between Madonna and Jim. Madonna was quite happy the other day when Jim wore the wrong coat to work, and left his pencils, pen, and cigars at home. Jim said Madonna was observed gazing at a corn popper in a local restaurant. She stood enthralled, watching the white grains bouncing against the glass. Mr. Stouder claims Madonna thought she was watching television. . . . Homer does not get mixed up in feuds. He prefers to play lone wolf and howl by himself. His present trouble is a power lawn mower. Seems the spark plug opening in the engine head needed re-tapping. Homer took the necessary action and the report is that you could stand back ten feet and toss a plug through the hole. Just a slight miscalculation that was easily remedied. A new head took care of everything.

ROMANCE? This story concerns three people, a spring evening and an automobile. We will not mention the date, the make of car, or two of the people. Our old Pal Charley McAfee was the third. Charley has been married so long, the romance of spring is lost to him. So the other evening this young man asked the young lady to ride home with him. Charley asked to ride home with the young man. Complains the young man, "When we got to the car, practical Charley turned to the young lady, and remarked, 'I'll get in first as you get out first.'" "Bet he never thought why I asked her to ride with me," says the young man.

STORMY WEATHER

Bill Wright and Larry Reed

Decoration Day proved to be no holiday for Houston Williams, who became a father for the third time. He tried his best to beat the stork to the hospital, but lost the race half-way there. However, we are happy to report that mother and new daughter are doing very well; and we extend our congratulations and best wishes.

They say that Edna Ward cut a very dashing and charming figure in her white uniform in the Decoration Day parade. She says, though, that her back feels worse than Alice Pflueger's face looks—she means because of the sunburn, doesn't she?

Now that Bill Geist has a newer car, what will Paul Schlie do for spare parts to keep his Power-Glide going? It seems he kept his in good condition using the parts that spewed from Bill's car as it went past. Since all good things must come to an end, do you suppose Paul will have to buy a new one, too?

The winding section has decided that they will all help Ed Klomp with his painting, mounting, etc.; for as they say, if he doesn't get some help, the job will drag out all summer.

Take heed all you blondes! Be careful out in the sun, or you'll resemble that well known lobster as did Bonnie Lepper after returning from her Decoration Day holiday. Of course, we can't overlook Bob Lauer, who rivaled her for red honors.

We don't know who it was or what the trouble was, but a safety pin was in great demand by the carboly section the other day. Apparently, the need was met and the cause remedied, because nothing more was heard from that section.

The cause of the happiness on Charlie Kensill's face is well founded, for his boy has returned from Korea and by this time has been released from the Army. We're all glad for you, Charlie.

All the talk about concrete doesn't tie in with a 16-foot piece of lumber but maybe it has a connection. Anyway, Joe Prezbindowski is helping Cy Seymour with the project and all they could get to transport the lumber was an 8-foot truck. So in order to keep the wood steady, Cy sat on it and according to reports, he bounced up and down like an apprentice jockey. Now the biggest complaint is the soreness caused by the ride.

The foremen's picnic turned out to be a huge success, especially for Clarence Nussel. Not only did he take the boys for a goodly sum of cash, but made some mighty inroads on the "Sloppy Joe" sandwiches and beer. Then to top it all off, he proceeded to fill a bag with sandwiches and pickles and take off for parts unknown. Rumor has it that the parts weren't unknown and that a certain party was going to be treated to a picnic. Not content with that, he still insists that the duck dinner should take place; and Omer Mettler still says if Clarence has nerve enough to go out and eat it, he (Omer) will still pay for it. The old saying still goes, "Them that has, gets."

40-YEAR HUDDLE—Henry Gerdorn (left) gets into a huddle with Ralph Steward and Russell Dunten on his 40th anniversary as a General Electric Company employee. Mr. Gerdorn joined the organization in 1913 as a grinder in the Toolroom. He worked in the Winter St. toolroom for many years and in 1933 came to the Broadway plant. At present he is a cylindrical grinder in Bldg. 19-5.

Questions—Information Clinic—Answers

MOTOR-GENERATOR MOVING?

QUESTION:
I have heard all sorts of rumors that the Motor-Generator Department is being moved from Fort Wayne. The people would like to know the facts, and also, if correct, how does Fort Wayne plan to take care of all of these employees?

ANSWER:
Last year, a study team was appointed to analyze the operations of the entire Motor and Generator Division. Their recommendations included moving the Large Motor and Generator Department out of Fort Wayne.

Part of the reason for the recommendation was because the space Large Motor and Generator now occupies is required by other Fort Wayne departments for the expansion of their operations.

It should be emphasized, however, that such a move is a long-range proposition. The re-allocation of the space to other operations will require, in our judgment, about two or three years. No definite dates have been set for the move.

Obviously, some personnel will be needed by the Motor-Generator Department in its new location. In addition, present forecasts indicate that business in the other Fort Wayne operations will be considerably expanded during that time with resultant need for jobs to be filled.

MISSSES BENCHES

QUESTION:
I would like to know for what reason those benches between 16 and 17 and in front of Bldg. 2-1 have been taken away. As those benches have been there for the last seven or eight years, I don't believe there was anything wrong with those benches.

ANSWER:
We are unable to find any reason for removal of the benches you mention. The only explanation we can offer is that possibly some person moved them to another location, or that someone working in that area took them away. We can find no one in authority who requested they be removed.

EXOTIC TREE IN GE YARD

QUESTION:
I would like very much to know the name of the tree that stands at the southwest corner of the group of trees that stand across the street from Bldg. 17.

ANSWER:
The best information we can get about the tree you refer to is that it is a pomegranate tree, which stands along with other fruit trees in front of Bldg. 20. The trees were planted there by the persons whose residence once stood at that location.

If our information is correct that this is a pomegranate tree, the reason its fruit does not grow to the pomegranate's usual size (about the size of an orange) is because it is native to hot arid regions and requires a high temperature and dry atmosphere to ripen.

ASKS WHY CAFETERIA ITEMS ARE NOT TABULATED BY MACHINE

QUESTION:
I would like more information about why a system of ringing up the cost of each food item is not used instead of relying on the mental ability of the cashier and showing only the total cost of the meal. This would relieve all doubt of what's being paid out for each item.

ANSWER:
A system of individual registration of food items would require the replacement of all the cash registers as the present machines will not print a detailed slip.

A more serious factor is that the individual registration would slow down the lines. We are anxious to do everything possible to provide faster service for our customers and are frequently criticized because our customers say they are not able to get back on the job on time.

Our cashiers become proficient in mentally totaling the food items on the tray, but if there is doubt concerning their accuracy, they will gladly recheck for you. While we grant that a printed slip would be more desirable, we feel that we should retain the present method in the interest of the best service during the rush periods.

MBA CLASS B CHANGE STILL BEING STUDIED

QUESTION:
Why was the plan of increasing dues and benefits agreed upon by chairman and section chairmen of Class B MBA approximately a year ago dropped?

ANSWER:
We are collecting information for a new study of our Class B, MBA plan for dependents so we can make comparison with the up-to-date features of other insurance plans and their cost. Increased benefits would seem desirable although it is inevitable that premiums would have to be increased to accomplish this.

When the study is completed, the information will be presented to the General Committee for their approval and submission to the membership.

When the plan was under consideration last year, there seemed to be indecision as to the proper course of action. This resulted in no change being made at that time.

STOCK BONUS IS REPORTABLE INCOME

QUESTION:
I always use the short form for filing my federal income tax. Will I be able to continue this when I start receiving GE stock from the savings plan?

ANSWER:
The Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue advises that the GE stock bonus is not a gift and is reportable income. Tax Return Form 1040, either the short form or the long form, is to be used.

ASKS ABOUT SECTION 17 MOVE

QUESTION:
I would like more information about the Division 17, 51 frame, leaving Taylor St. The people are very worried and upset over this and supervision gives us no information other than it is definitely going to move.

ANSWER:
Moving the 51 frame motor line out of Sub-Section 17 at Taylor St. has been under consideration for some time in order to relieve the serious congestion now existing and to provide additional facilities for the manufacture of 11- and 21- frame motors, the demand for which has grown rapidly and is expected to continue to grow.

However, no decision has been made as to time or place, and we will give you this information if and when plans become more definite.

WANTS EXACT WORK LOCATIONS IN TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

QUESTION:
I would like to know why they don't put the division of where the person in the GE telephone directory works; as per example: 2441 Doe, J. W.—Div. 17—T. St. All it contains in the book is T. St.

ANSWER:
The primary purpose of the GE telephone directory is, as the title implies, to list the telephone numbers of the person to whom a call is to be made.

Many suggestions are received pertaining to additions that could be made to the telephone directory. Each of the suggested additions would be of value to only a few of the employees and each would require more time to compile the copy and publish the directory. Therefore, a rule was established to limit the directory to telephone information only.

As you know when personnel at GE change their work locations, their telephone number usually travels with them. Therefore the location in the directory as given is not always correct, but the person can still be reached by phone.

SOME COPIES OF PICTURES NOT AVAILABLE

QUESTION:
Recently a picture was taken of Test Brake No. 8 and myself, and I wondered if I could get a couple of copies. This was taken for an advertisement.

ANSWER:
We regret very much that we will be unable to obtain a copy of the picture for you. This particular picture was not taken for use locally, therefore the negative is not available here. Copies of any pictures which are taken for the GE NEWS or other local use are always sent to those appearing in the picture. If, at some time in the future, a copy of this picture should become available, we will make certain that it is sent to you immediately.

MORE ABOUT TV

QUESTION:
What is holding up TV in Fort Wayne. Fort Wayne is one of the largest industrial cities in the country and yet no TV.

ANSWER:
Since you sent your question in, there have been many developments in the Fort Wayne TV field, and your question has more or less been answered by the granting of a license to a local station.

However, in the "Information Clinic" of February 6, 1953, there was a discussion on UHF television in Fort Wayne, before the granting of local licenses. Therefore this seems like a good time to review this subject.

The previous article stated that "an indoor or built-in antenna will be all that is necessary to pick up UHF in Fort Wayne after a local station is located here."

This statement cannot be made without taking into account the technical limitations of the individual installation. In some sections of the city it may be true that only the indoor antenna will be needed to pick up one Fort Wayne station. In other locations the indoor antenna may be inadequate for dependable reception due to such factors as ground height with respect to the transmitting station, hills, or other large obstructions between transmitting and receiving antennas, etc.

In most cases even local reception is improved by the use of a special UHF antenna, and it is a necessity for dependable reception from more distant stations. For the person who already has an outdoor antenna and rotor, special UHF bars may be added to the present antenna since the mast, rotor, guys, etc., are already in place. Some success is being experienced in this area with a single antenna designed for both VHF and UHF, but the results are not consistent in all cases.

In summary, it is difficult at this time to make specific claims or state a general rule for antenna installations which will hold for all locations.

Incidentally, employees who are definitely planning to buy TV sets would be wise to avoid the last minute rush when the local station goes into operation. Local dealers are in a much better position to give service on installations at this time than they will be next fall.

DID NOT RECEIVE PENSION INCREASE

QUESTION:
When I received my social security increase it was taken off my GE pension and the GE NEWS informed me it would be returned May 1 at retroactive to October 1, 1952, but as yet have not received.

ANSWER:
The GE Pension Plan provides for a minimum pension of $125 per month to a man who retires at 65 years or a woman at 60 years who has completed 25 or more years of service.

In a number of cases the calculation of Company pension plus social security did not equal $125, so the Company had to add a make-up payment to reach that amount.

Thus, when social security was increased, the make-up payment was reduced so that the guaranteed minimum still remained at $125. In those cases where no make-up was necessary, the pensioner received the whole increase in the social security payment.

If you have not received any increase, you were in the former group, and thus not eligible for an increase.

The poorest, most poverty-stricken man or woman among us may be, and often is, the richest in the community in the giving of charity—for they have nothing to give to another but their love, their understanding, their sincerity, their unpretentious help which seeks neither recognition nor reward. And these are charity, in the real and true meaning of the word.

TOOL BITS

Don Clark

It was a great occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mettler last Saturday when their son, Allen, graduated from Dayton U. . . . We extend our deepest sympathies to Bob Truelove on the death of his father. . . . Cary Baker's son, Bill, recently received the bronze medal for gallantry in action in Korea. He is now stationed at Camp Atterbury. . . . Imagine driving down the road and coming face to face with a giant bull frog half as big as a dog. If you don't believe it, ask Walt Greiner. We forgot to ask him how big the dog was.

Bob Mosshammer was very much impressed by the TV broadcast of the coronation. He arose at 5 o'clock but after watching for a while dozed off in his chair and was late for work. . . . Russell Kensill's son drained the washer for his mother the other day. All he did was to make a swimming pool out of their utility room. . . . Bob Bryan hasn't changed much, boys. He still insists on going to the wrong parking lot looking for his car.

All Slicked Up

Carl Zurcher came to work one morning last week dressed in a new pair of trousers. They felt very comfortable, looked fine, and things went good for Carl until he had to sneeze. No—the pants didn't rip but when he pulled out his handkerchief he found himself wiping his nose with the material left over from his cuffs. . . . Someone pounded on Stewart Bohrer's front steps about 3:30 Sunday morning. Stewart responded very sleepily but he soon woke up smiling. It was his son coming home from the Army for 10 days. . . . Chet Reynolds has somehow trained his wife, whose nickname is "Happy" to take care of many of the decorating, moving, and minor carpenter repairs around their home. She was really surprised though when she moved and rehung a metal cabinet. In the transition a class ring her son had lost five years ago rolled out and fell to the floor.

Long Way Around

Keith Jamison and Art Wolf lost a new TV antenna which they were transporting in Art's car trunk. They back-tracked but could not find it. Finally several days later a trucking firm delivered it to Keith's sister's house 60 miles away. It seems he found it and took it to the nearest Jamison he knew. . . . Charley Gattson spent a big week-end with the Boy Scouts only to learn he's still a tenderfoot. . . . Carl Mosser must have finished his house cleaning. Did you see that reddish outdoor look on his extended forehead? . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elser on the new arrival in their home—a new baby boy. . . . Art Wolf's despondency comes from car trouble. Someone smashed in the side of his big Buick. . . . Harold Cutler is reeking out challenges to Glenn Ramsey. Says he will beat Glenn in a garlic eating contest any day in the week. We're sure they are both strong eaters—or at least strong after eating. . . . Whenever we think of boat riding we think of it as being an exhilarating sport. However, Clarence Brenner proved it to be otherwise at Dallas Lake last week-end. The big Chris-Craft he was riding in ran out of fuel at the far end of the lake and the boat had to be towed back to the dock.

GE Owls Win Third Straight; Down Aircraft Gear 10 to 3

by Howard Coffy

The GE Owls won their third straight ball game of the early season, downing Aircraft Gear 10 to 3. Ron Blodgett did a whale of a job on the mound, with some able support from the entire team who rattled the bats for 18 hits.

GE scored a run in the first inning on a hit by Baker who stole second and was driven in on a hit by Scherer. Aircraft Gear went down in order in their appearance to make it 1 to 0 GE.

The second and third innings passed by without either team being able to send a man across the plate. In the top half of the fourth the GE Club racked up 4 runs on 6 hits with the entire nine getting a turn at bat before being retired.

Aircraft Gear came back to score 2 runs on 3 hits before being sent to the field to make the score 5 to 2 in favor of the GE Club.

THE NIGHT WIND

Hazel Davis

We are all glad to see Ruth LaPradd back after over four months of illness. . . . The 51 frame assembly had a picnic at Dorothy Hart's place at Bear Lake Saturday. The day was enjoyed by all. . . . Bonnie Goodrich wishes to thank everyone in Sub-Section 17 for the Taylor-Tot and wool shawl she recently received. . . . The girls on the 13 frame line had a potluck dinner. Some of the girls will go to Broadway to Bldg. 4-3. We hope you like it, gals. . . . Helen Orr and husband motored to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to visit their son Allen, who is stationed there. . . . The quartet in the lead section has been practicing and are about ready for an appearance. . . . Harriett Palmer and husband have a new Kaiser automobile. . . . Verna Makin and husband went on a fishing trip to Canada. . . . Barbara Toles' daughter Rita, who is 7 years old, is going with her aunt to live in Germany for two years. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Mary Cuellar, who has been in the hospital, and to Thelma Harrison who was injured in a fall. . . . Jerry Ziegler thinks that taking the nut off of the oil pressure line is something like having a wildcat by the tail. He was afraid to let go. . . . Familiar sights in Sub-Section 17: Ray Laudenback with yellow heels, Bob McMillan with a black eye, Margaret Turney eating, Rowland Parker coming in late, Allen Telschow telling a fish story.

The Owls scored one more in the fifth with Etter getting a hit, and Blodgett helping his own cause by bringing Etter in when he dropped a single into left field. The Gear boys failed to score in this one, making it 6-2 GE.

The sixth inning was the straw that broke the camel's back as far as Aircraft Gear was concerned. The Club boys hammered out 4 more runs on 4 hits, and a couple of errors by the Gear men to make a total of 10 runs in their half of the sixth. The Gears could only muster up a single run to bring their total to 3.

With neither team scoring in the 7th the final score was 10 to 3 with the GE Club on top.

Blodgett, making his first appearance on the mound this season, did a bang up job, giving up only 3 runs, while striking out 7, and only passing out 2 walks.

Next week GE meets Eckrich at 9 a.m. on diamond No. 4.

Hams Score 32 Runs Against Harvester

The GE Club Ham team opened its season with a loss and a win this past week. They played Scotts Recreation and were beaten by the score of 13-9, although Tony Wichman and Carl Reiter, pitcher and catcher, both hit home runs; errors caused their downfall.

In the second game, the Club put on their hitting clothes and made 27 hits for a total of 32 runs. This was a game full of bad plays and errors by both sides. The Club finally beating the International Harvester by the score of 32-13.

The scores gave the weather report in the golf leagues. Those high scores that messed up the score cards last week took a tumble.

The old Red-Head gave all the boys a lesson by carding a one under par 35. Bill Kayser Monday Evening League just equaled par with a snazzy 36. Benny Penkul, playing on team four in the Owl League (he also plays on the Wire Mill team of the Monday afternoon group) and Kieth Guyot, Optimists, on Tuesday, each had 38's.

Elsewhere in the leagues finds Leo Almandinger's Putters a one point leader in Charlie Briggs' Monday Afternoon League. The High Balls who were on top last week dropped an eight-point decision to the Wire Mill. The Putters eked out a three-pointer against the cellar dwelling Divoteers. Financials picked up a five-point win over Transformer. Ray Hills carded the league low of a 39.

In the Monday Evening League, the Pros are way out in front with a plus 32, 12 better than the second place Turf Toppers. Bill Wickliffe and L. Lahrman of the Pros; Walt Sunier, of the Dark Horses, R. Hanna and J. Horan, of the Turf Toppers, all tied for league low at 42.

On Tuesday evening the 19th Holers plastered a 24-point lacing on the hapless Dubs and moved from third to the league top spot. "Me and Bill can do it—and did," said the Red Head.

Bob Black's Optimists were held on even terms by Harold Fanning's Gas House Tigers and as a consequence each were pushed down a notch in the league standings. The Forty Niners won by two in a good match from the Divot Diggers.

Only teams 6 and 1 show a plus in the standings of the Winter St. League. Shoaff and Irwin have their teams riding with plus 32 and plus 22, respectively. Stu Fisher's boys are in third spot with a minus 1. Jack Skevington, No. 3, and Bill Irwin, No. 1, Bill Garvey, No. 2, and Ron Doepke, No. 5, shared low 41's.

Team six leads the Owl League with a plus 26.

GE Golfers Play at South Bend June 21

Event Will Again Feature Annual Sunier-Holmes Duel

by Earl Stauffer

The South Bend Studebakers will host the cream of the GE Club golf leagues on Sunday, June 21, golf chairman Harold (Red) Braden announced today. The 18-hole layout on the campus of Notre Dame will be the site of this annual event. Twenty lads picked from the five GE leagues will try to overcome the home team jinx and beat the car manufacturers in their own lair.

A yearly feature of these matches has been the tussle between W. E. Holmes of Studebaker and Walt Sunier of GE. Holmes has had the better of the matches in the past few years, but Sunier stated: "I'm sure to beat Holmes this year because he is a year older."

All of the GE players will be notified by commissioner Braden or the manager of their respective leagues if they are chosen for this event.

FOR PLAYERS 15 TO 19 YEARS OLD

GE Club Will Sponsor Junior Federation Team

The GE Club has announced sponsorship of a team in the Junior Federation League. Previously, the club has co-sponsored a team for three years. Open to boys from 15 to 19 years old, the team consists of 15 players Getting off to a successful start, the boys won their first two baseball games, 17-3 and 7-0 against Monroeville and Churubusco. The team's next game is Sunday evening at McMillen Park, where all in-town games are played. Their opponents will be the DeMolay team. All the games are open to the public free of charge.

A member of the American Baseball Congress and the National Baseball Federation, the league, which has eight teams, is entering its eighth year in the Summit City.

The following is a schedule of the remaining games for GE's team:

- Sunday, June 14, Demolay
- Wednesday, June 14, General Motors Co.
- Sunday, June 21, Renners
- Thursday, June 25, City Light
- Saturday, June 27, Churubusco at Churubusco
- Tuesday, June 30, Butler
- Sunday, July 5, DeMolay
- Tuesday, July 7, Monroeville at McMillen
- Sunday, July 12, GMC
- Thursday, July 16, City Light
- Sunday, July 19, Renners bought them cokes and candy. Now when a dime leaves Ivy's pocket, that is a gyp. . . . There is an old saying, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." As you all know, Ivy bought a parakeet for her son's birthday. The Mills had Gabby for three whole days, and then five bucks flew out the kitchen ventilator. Now we have a parakeet fund at the Mills' household. . . . We can sympathize with any local editor when press time comes, after witnessing the confusion in securing and typing our column for today. Ivy left her notes at the Grand Leader, but with the able assistance of Eddie Massengill and others we finally made the date line.

THE BIG WIND

Rachel Mounsey

Congratulations to Mary and Moe Satterthwaite on their anniversary last week. Mary received a new organ for that new room they have been fixing up. . . . We have a new sheriff in the group up by the die cast section. It's none other than Tommy Williams. On her those badges look good, too. . . . Nellie Williams attended a picnic dinner in Ohio Sunday. . . . Rachel Milligan had her son with her while downtown shopping last week. When she met Myrtle Crammer, her son tried to hide and by mistake got in the wrong booth. . . . Clara Parnell has a new car and is now looking for a girl. So, all you available girls, make your appearance. . . . Reba Boyer is enjoying a two-week fishing trip in Minnesota. . . . Lena Stumpf attended a wedding of her niece in Little Rock, Ark. . . . Josie Hardy is all smiles. She is waiting for that new car she has ordered. . . . Congratulations to Wilbur Scott on a son born last Tuesday. His name is Gary Ward and he weighed 10 lbs. and 6 ozs. . . . Welcome to Thelma Onion on the 17x660 line. . . . The girls on 520 line all welcome Leona Beer back on her old job. The 510 girls presented her with a lovely send-off gift. It was really appreciated. . . . Clarence Meyers enjoyed a little meat with his popcorn. He was eating popcorn on his front porch the other night and the bugs kept getting in the way. . . . We are glad to hear Hazel Hardwick will soon be back with us again. . . . Gene LaFavor is going to start a new massaging business. So, all you tired people, see Gene for an appointment. . . . Katy O'Connor's daughter was married last week. Also, Mary Satterwaite's son was married last week.

GE Little League Season Opens Monday With Inca

Hamilton Park Fathers' Club Plan
5:30 p.m. Opening Game Ceremonies

The Hamilton Park Little League will open their 1953 season Monday at 5:30 p.m. The Fathers' Club, with Jack Bendure, Taylor St., as chairman, will be in charge of the opening day ceremonies.

Tim Meredith has left us to attend Indiana Tech full time. Guess Tim figures GE needs good engineers more than they do good testers. . . . Any special songs you want whistled? Just leave your request card with George Robb, he will gladly warble them for you. . . . The name Kewpie Doll has been given to Bea Webster, could it be because of that drape shape? . . . Pedro's wife and little girl have returned from Puerto Rico. The day before she was to arrive, Pedro was very busy cleaning up his four weeks' mess. His little girl, who is a year and a half old, is so confused she keeps calling him uncle instead of daddy. . . . DECORATION DAY brought in a couple of burned up gals, sun-burned, that is. Julie Medsker and Esther Weeks were a nice bright red. . . . Joan Hartman thinks she saw a mirage. She swears she saw Santa Claus on Washington St. this week. We all were sorry to hear of the illness of Joan's father. He is in the hospital and we wish him a speedy recovery. . . . ALL OILED UP: That well oiled appearance of Esther Weeks had this week was due to a new permanent. She used a half bottle of hair oil on her hair to tame it down and her purpose was well accomplished. . . . Louis Becker is living a fast life. When he writes notes to Ed Glenwith, he jumps the date from June 3 to September 4, 1953. Don't go so fast, Louis, we haven't had our vacation yet. . . . Saw our good friend Pete the other day. We never did say good-by to him when he transferred to Bldg. 4-3. . . . VICTORS, VICTORS: We have two testers named Victor. Seems these two guys can't make money fast enough, so they have started a little racket all their own, and their poor unsuspecting victim

Sarah Moore received a compliment on her new hair cut last week. She was told she looked cute as a little kewpie doll. . . . Kenny Brown looked like a little Easter flower in his new yellow shirt. . . . Bernadine Warner says from now on she will get her fish from the fish market after the severe sun and wind burn she received at the lake Sunday. . . . Sorry to hear that Pauline Settle had to take a 30-day sick leave and hope she will soon be feeling well again. . . . We hear Catherine Chilcote and Clarabelle Whiteman are painting their houses. They say Catherine is going to have to speed up a little, if she expects to make any money. . . . Mary Hopkins is working days in repair. She was working second trick on welding. . . . Ruth Peek spent Sunday at Crooked Lake. . . . Ed Bandt says he is starting on his second 40 years now. . . . Sydonna Fox and farming don't get along too well. She discovered some muscles she didn't know she had.

Dairy, sponsors of teams in the league, will have representatives on hand for the ceremonies.

In the first game of the season, GE will meet Inca at 6 p.m.

Officers of the Hamilton Park Little League are: Charlie Wilt, president; Lennie Brown, Incr, vice president; Lee Harter, Patterson-Fletcher, secretary, and Bernie Vanatta, Allen Dairy, treasurer.

GE's next game scheduled is with Allen Dairy, Thursday, June 18.

What Is Deficit Financing? When the government does not get enough money from taxpayers to pay its bills, it borrows money, which must be repaid later. This is deficit financing.

SLEUTHING in 4-6

IT'S A BOY AND ANOTHER TAX EXEMPTION FOR THE VAL ROWAN'S: On Saturday, May 30, 10:30 a.m., little 7-lb. 11-oz. Allen Ray joined the family of Mr. and Mrs. Val Rowan. Baby Allen has two brothers. Nice start for a baseball team, Val! . . . Since our column did not appear last week, we offer belated happy birthday greetings to Sue Walton Pears, Sunday, June 7, and Ruth Burris, Thursday, June 11. . . . JUST A REMINDER: Only six more weeks until the shut-down and it'll be here before we know it. . . . WELCOME BACK: Sam Moore and family have returned from a three-week vacation down South. Baby son, Phil, stood the trip better than Poppa and Momma. . . . SURPRISE ARRIVAL: That long distance phone call for Bonnie Leazier the other day had all of us excited, but it turned out to be a birth announcement. Her black Angus cow presented her with a heifer calf. Holding down an office job and being a big-time stock-raiser is quite a task, eh, Bonnie? . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK: Today we bid farewell to Millie Hartman, who has decided to leave us to become a full-fledged housewife and mother to her little son, Donnie. . . . NEXT TUESDAY we shall bid good-by to Georgia Garrett, who is retiring from her office duties. Georgie has been with us a long time, and it will seem strange not to have her in our midst. We know you will enjoy being a lady of leisure. . . . A WELCOME ARRIVAL: We are happy to announce the birth of Sheryl Lynn Snyder, 7-lb. 12-oz., born June 5 at the St. Joseph Hospital to Mrs. Gloria Snyder. Guess we knew what color to pick for you, Gloria. We're glad to hear that mother and daughter are doing fine. Keep us advised. . . . OUR SINCERE SYMPATHY to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baclawski, on the death of Joe's father, June 3, at Providence, Rhode Island. . . . THE NEW TE working for John Willsey at Taylor St. is Early Bullock. Early replaces Bill Borah who will be working with the marketing section at Taylor St. on his next assignment. Earl is married and comes to us on a summer assignment. He will graduate in 1954 from the Kansas State College and is striving for his degree in electrical engineering. His home town is Westmoreland, Kansas. . . . NOT HARD-BOILED: Leon Diegel brought his lunch the other day, which consisted of one egg and a few other items. He thought the egg was hard-boiled so proceeded to handle it that way. Was he surprised when he found it had not been cooked. . . . CLIFF DENNEY is rapidly becoming the most promising golfer in this part of the country. He scores in the low 20's, thanks to tireless practice and effort on his part. He intends to shoot the Brookwood Course before a crowd of approximately 100,000 people during an exhibition this summer. Just recently he learned how to take nine strokes off of his score by not playing the 18th hole. The date for the exhibition will be announced later by his golfer friends, and I do mean friends. . . . BELATED BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Jean Cirks, June 4; and Jack Wilson, June 8. . . . HELP! Anyone with a stray bottle of liniment might loan it to Jerry Duryee until after he gets his daughter moved. The old boxes need more lubrication than they did 10 years ago. . . . WELCOME to Professor D. F. Hang from the University of Illinois who will be with us for the summer in Mr. Goss' group. . . .

READS 35-YEAR LETTER—Herbert F. Mertens (center) reads a letter of congratulations on his 35th anniversary to E. C. Reese (left) and R. H. Bender. Mr. Mertens joined GE in 1918 and is assistant to the cost supervisor in Bldg. 31, at the present time.

Also welcome to two other summer assignment test engineers. They are Lit Ning Ma, reporting to Art Wilson. This is Lit's first test. He is attending Kansas U. Is single and will graduate in June of '54 with a degree in electrical engineering. He is an ROTC student. The other is Huey P. Duncan working with Bob Loveland. He is also single and is attending Louisiana State U. and will graduate in 1954 with an electrical engineering degree. His home town is Monham, La. This is his first test. . . . TWO-DAY SHADOW—or was it three? Bob Johnson appeared at work last Friday with a two or three days growth of beard. He was accused of trying to make like a real HE-MAN for the Engineers' Outing. But no, he said. His wife and son are visiting Mrs. John's folks in Pittsburgh, and in trying to make the adjustment for a stag-domain, he claims he forgot to shave. . . . Congratulations to Charlene Hewitt, who celebrated her birthday on June 2 and to Ralph Shoaff who celebrated his on June 3. Ralph has decided that he is too young yet to retire. . . . WELCOME to R. P. Helmick who is working in T. L. Staley's office.

Richard A. Heard, 35 Dies After Illness

Richard A. Heard, 35, design engineer in Bldg. 4-6, died Wednesday, June 10, at the Lutheran Hospital where he had been a patient for two weeks.

Services will be held tomorrow in Houghton, Mich. Burial will be in the Forest Hill cemetery at Houghton.

In January, 1942, Mr. Heard joined the General Electric Company and entered the Pittsfield plant as a student engineer. He came to the Fort Wayne plant on the test course and also traveled to the Erie, Philadelphia, and Bloomfield plants prior to completing the course. Returning to Fort Wayne in January, 1944, he became a design engineer in Bldg. 4-6 and was located in the Specialty Motor engineering section.

A graduate of Michigan State College of Mining and Technology, Mr. Heard received his BS degree in mechanical engineering in 1941.

Survivors include his wife, Gwendolyn; two daughters, Gwenth and Judy.

WIRE RAVELINGS

Art Rasor

Lucky Winner

Above is a picture of the most talked about foreman in the Wire Sub-Section today. He is Vaughn Sheets, who had the very good fortune of winning the new 1953 Dodge given away by the Kroger Company on June 2. Fellow members of the Foremen's Association extend their most hearty congratulations because they feel he will be able to attend all of the meetings from now on and perhaps furnish transportation to other members, including Aaron Schoenefeld. There is also the possibility that free transportation can be furnished to the Foremen's Picnic later this month. . . . Melvin Bill feels like a "Casanova" because he was approached by an attractive girl who wanted to know if he would take her home. However, it was as much of a surprise to the girl as it was to Bill because, much to her embarrassment, she had to explain that she thought Bill was her cousin John! . . . Benny Penkul's golf team gained eight strokes in the Taylor St. League and is one point behind the leader. Best score for the day was made by Ray Hills with a 39, followed by Harry Arnold, 45; Austin Garman, 46; and Harold Parkison, 53. . . . Bill Irwin's golf team picked up eleven points but remains in second place, ten points behind the leaders. Scores for last week were: Bill Irwin, 41; Dick Hensler, 43; Don (Slugger) Pappert, 47; and Ray Kirk, 48. . . . We have heard a lot about people locking their cars and leaving the motor running, but that's only half as bad as locking your car and leaving the keys in the ignition. However, things were quickly righted when Mr. Swift returned home for a second set of keys. . . . Congratulations to Leo Elward on his 25 years with the Company. He was relieved when the picture appeared in last week's GE NEWS. Leo also was a "Dinner Winner" last Friday. . . . Ora Harden is doing nicely following his operation, and will be in to see the fellows soon. . . . The boys are calling him "Eubertine" Logan since they found out Eubert Logan's driver's license records his sex as "female." . . . Steve Bobay had an increase of eight. His dog "Snooky" had another litter.

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Clayton Dafforn is back from a nice Florida vacation. . . . Our chronic complainer, Frank Kartholl, still is with us in body if not in spirit—circus days are here you know. . . . WANTED: A copy of "How to Budget" for Herb Wendt. . . . Maynard Spade is at the Lutheran Hospital in room 178, as a patient. . . . Forrest Reed is driving a Buick now. . . . Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cook attended a party at the Coliseum given for the employees of the Kinney Concession Co. . . . Curly McCormick went target practicing Saturday. It was reported his "off hand shooting" wasn't so good, but otherwise he did all right. . . . This IS news: Floyd Mutton fell out of a tree. We are glad it didn't prove more serious, but, Floyd, you will have to begin to act your age.

TALLIES 30 GE YEARS—Receiving congratulations on his 30th anniversary with the General Electric Company is Dennis McKering (right). Mr. McKering worked in Bldg. 19-B when he joined the Company in 1923. He is employed in Bldg. 20-2 at present. Elton Swank is shown with him.

Frank C. Mason

Mr. Mason entered the manufacturing training program when he came to the Company in 1940. After completion of the course, he entered planning and test and became quality control supervisor in the Air Conditioning Department in 1946. Last year, he transferred to the Small Integral Motor Planning Study group and was in this location prior to his present appointment.

Graduating from the Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1940, Mr. Mason received his BS degree in mechanical engineering. He is a member of the Fort Wayne Engineers Club, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and American Society of Quality Control. Mr. Mason resides at 418 Lenox Ave.

Harold F. Staley

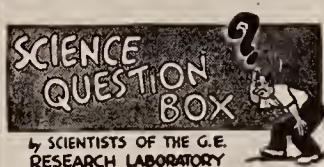

In 1934, Mr. Staley entered GE employ and joined the Apprentice School. After graduation in 1938 from the design-drafting course, he became a draftsman at Winter St. He entered the power drive division in 1941 when he was assigned to planning and tool design. That year he completed a one-year general course in mechanical engineering.

After entering the plant engineering section in 1946 as an engineer, he became general foreman in the hermetic section the following year. Later in 1947, he moved to the Bowling Green, Ky. plant where he was superintendent. He entered a manufacturing training course in 1949 and the following year went on special assignment at Winter St. Prior to his present assignment, he was supervisor of new product planning.

Mr. Staley is a member of the Fort Wayne Engineers Club, Indiana Engineering Council, and the Supervisors Club. The Staleys, who have three children, live at 4417 Spatz Ave.

Q. What can I do to restore piano keys which have turned yellow after the piano was closed for a long time?

A. If the keys are not too badly yellowed, it might help to clean them of surface dirt with soap or some mild cleanser, then follow this by careful use of a small amount of some bleach material. One of the common commercial bleaches, properly diluted, or even lemon juice, might prove beneficial. If, after cleaning, you leave the piano open, so that light can strike the keys there may be some further whitening effect.

Q. How much should a flat roof overhang a building?

A. Such overhang of a roof is usually intended to shade the windows from the hot summer sun, but to allow the winter sun to shine in. For latitude 40 degrees North, approximately that of the middle of the United States, the noonday Sun reaches a maximum altitude of 73 degrees on June 21. Its minimum altitude, on Dec. 21, is only 27 degrees. An overhang of slightly over three feet would keep the noonday Sun completely off a wall ten feet high, facing south, around June 21. To keep it off a similar wall from March 20 to Sept. 23, at which dates the noonday Sun would be 50 degrees above the horizon, the overhang would have to be about 8.4 feet. With such an overhang, however, the upper four feet of the wall would be shaded even in December.

Q. What is the source of fragrance of flowers?

A. The odor of a flower comes from glands, usually to be found near the base of the petals, which give off a volatile substance. We can think of the fragrance as composed of tiny droplets which, when they are inhaled in the nose, give us the perception of that particular odor. Insects seem to be able to visit flowers selectively by reference to such fragrances. Fortunately, many of these are also pleasant to man. However, there are some flower odors which humans find nauseating, but which attract certain carrion flies which pollinate them.

Q. Is there any simple method of melting up old bottles and using the glass to make vases, bowls, etc.?

A. To melt ordinary bottle glass requires a temperature of at least 2550 F., though solid pieces can be softened and joined together with a flame at somewhat lower temperature. Broken bottle glass cannot be remelted to get clear glass free of bubbles. Where such broken glass is used in manufacturing processes about 50 per cent of new raw materials must be added. This requires the use of special pots that will stand the temperature used, sources of heat, metal molds, annealing furnaces, and other special equipment, which do not lend themselves to any really "simple" process that might be carried out at home.

Q. What is meant by the statement that "nature abhors a vacuum?"

A. Many years ago, when men first tried to take air out of containers, they found it very difficult to do so, for the air rushed in to the exhausted space as soon as it found any opening. To explain this they said that "nature abhors a vacuum." Now we know that this is due to the pressure of the air, about 15 pounds per square inch at sea-level, which forces it into an evacuated space if there is a leak.

Q. Why do potatoes turn brown after they are peeled?

A. This brown color develops because the compounds in the potato called tyrosin and tyrosinase. A complex chemical reaction occurs when the inner layer of the potato is exposed to oxygen in the air, and leads to the formation of a pigment called melanin, which gives the brown color. Melanin is also responsible for the color of dark hair, brown eyes, and the skin of the colored races.

GE COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVE HMI AWARD

The General Electric Company received the Household Magazine Institute's third annual award for "outstanding achievement in industrial communications" at a luncheon meeting held today at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York City.

David D. Zingg, president of H. M. I. and director of publications at United Fruit, made the presentation to L. R. Boulware, vice president in charge of Employee and Plant Community Relations. Mr. Boulware accepted for R. J. Cordiner, president of GE.

Mr. Zingg, in making the presentation said the award was made to GE because of its "willingness and effectiveness in communicating with employees and the community."

Household Magazine Institute is an organization of editors and communications specialists representing more than 250 companies in the U. S.

The Month of May Was Indeed Merry...

Baseball got in full swing --

The weather showed slight indications of improving --

And 4,413 new subscriptions -- almost double any previous month in 1953 -- were recorded in the GE Employees Savings and Stock Bonus Plan.

All are matters of great importance, especially the last mentioned.

These 4,413 people know a good thing when they meet up with it.

Each dollar which they have invested in U. S. Savings Bonds will earn them a fine return.

In addition, for letting the Company keep their bonds on deposit for a five year holding period, they will receive a bonus in GE Stock equal to 15 per cent of the purchase price of the Savings Bonds.

The income accumulated on the stock bonus will be credited to their accounts, as well.

Are you one of the thousands taking advantage of this GE plan?

For as little as 75 cents or for as much as $10 a week you can start putting money aside for educational purposes, home purchases, retirement needs, and hundreds of other uses.

Just ask your supervisor, employee relations representative or local payroll people to help you to ENROLL IN THE GE SAVINGS AND STOCK BONUS PLAN.

Monday morning is here,
And I forgot my news,
So just a little poem
To fill the space I choose.
If we go to church on Sunday,
Then a picnic or show,
A new week is upon us soon,
And off to work we must go.
Then we greet the same faces,
That we left Friday at the shop,
We all feel rested from our jobs,
Although we didn't stop.

The stork paid a visit to the Leo Johnson home and left a bouncing big boy. . . . Sympathy is extended to the home of Goldie Delong on the loss of her brother-in-law. . . . Verda Deal attended baccalaureate services yesterday for her daughter Jean, who is graduating.

6-4 AIRLINERS

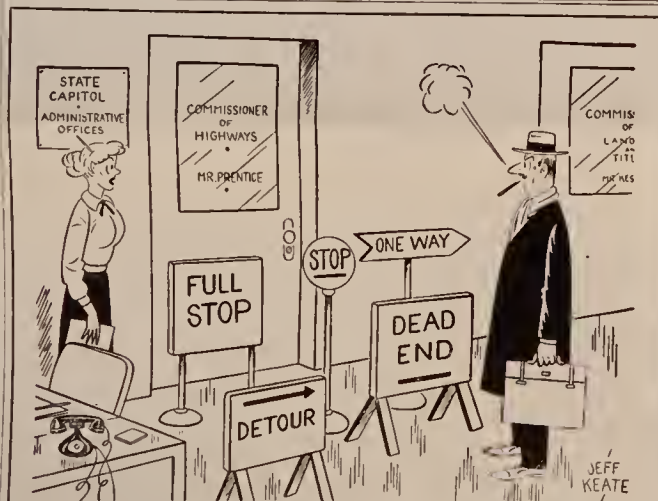

Ellen Bauer

Mr. and Mrs. Carl (Moe) Satterthwaite celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary last week. Best wishes and both and may you have many more happy years together. . . . We were sorry to hear that Carrie Edgar was in an auto accident. Hope she will be all right in no time. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Doctor, who had a new little bundle of joy come to live with them. . . . Charlie Hendericks seems to forget easily. He goes around one day with a string around his finger and the next with a washer tied to a button on his shirt. What next, Charlie? . . . A set of instructions should come with a pair of earrings. Poor Marcie Girodot was twisting the wrong way and almost ended up with pierced ears. . . . Looks like Fred Clark and Elmer Harshman are trying to see which one of them can find the loudest pajama tops to wear to work. . . . Seen: Ivy Mills running around with a cage one day last week. She was expecting someone to "give her the bird." . . . Move over all you opera stars, Laura is practicing up to enter the Met. . . . Favorite expression of Alice Flaugh, "Oh, he knows my brother." . . . The old saying goes, "Practice what you preach." Lillian Shaffer should do that. After carefully telling her daughter not to get lost going back to the car at the drive-in, she got lost herself and really had a time. . . . We are sorry to hear Ester Bennett sprained her ankle. Hope she gets better soon. . . . Nora Ridley has recovered from the mumps and is back at work.

PICK-UPS from 26-3

Jack Sweet

We want to welcome Jack Joseph to Ed Lauer's stacking section. Jack is a material handler. . . . We are wondering if it is true that Murray Sherman gets all of his (dull) shirts as cast-offs from Bing Crosby. . . . Bob Richardson has left our floor to work in Section 91 treat room. . . . Our sweeper, Tony, is back with us again. If you value your car, park it in the garage because Tony is learning to drive. . . . Harry Bailey had a nice vacation recently. Said he got plenty of rest. . . . Mary Williamson went to the east coast to see her daughter off to Europe. Her son-in-law is already over there. Mary said she saw quite a bit in New York City.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Evarts, but he said he would see nobody under any circumstances today!"

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

Would the fact that Audrey Fankhouser's husband went to work the other day and took her glasses, leaving her with his pair, have any bearing on the fact that Audrey came to work Monday morning with her dress on backwards. Audrey didn't know if she was coming or going that day.

While Millie Steward's little nephew looked on, Millie began the task of putting the dock in the lake. Playing on the dock, the boy slipped and made an unintentional entrance into the water. The folks at the cottage teased Millie, saying that she had pushed him into the lake. So, later in the day, when her nephew was relating his experience, he said, thoroughly convinced - - "and when Aunt Millie pushed me in the lake, etc." This proves the unlimited power of suggestion.

Since Paul Fremion bought that television set last week, with the car thrown-in, he has that half-awake look that is associated with all TV owners. Too many late hours, Paul?

Who was the lucky one to receive the red rose that Bill Reed had stored in his overalls pocket for safe keeping? Bill took the crushed little flower out of his pocket, unruffled the petals, and went merrily on his way to make the presentation.

Speaking of roses, few could compare with the beautiful bouquet that Verna Pontius brought in to Mary Leiter last Friday. Grown in Vera's own yard, too.

Out of the service again and back to visit Winter St. tool room was Don Konow. Don has resumed his apprentice course at the Broadway plant. Good to see you again, Don.

A week of restful, carefree living is our wish for Dick Graber. Dick is enjoying a week's vacation, just taking it easy. . . . It's happened; Emil Nord is seeing bats. After being awakened by the flapping of wings, Emil got sleepily out of bed, turned on the light, and had a maddening ordeal trying to kill the flying mammal. Emil finally came out of the battle the victor.

Mary Leiter came to work with a new look this week—a brushed back, cool looking hair style that has brought many admiring glances. Our very observing John Thomas has been heard to say as he struts by Mary's work table—"Love that woman!"

That beautiful '52 Cadillac has become the pride and joy of Walter Walker's life. His only problem, now, will be to try to keep close tabs on the new buggy. The Mrs. thinks it's real nice too!

The compressor room's spring chicken, Harold Reiter, got a crew cut. Harold will never let this younger generation get ahead of him. Neat and cool, too!

Anita Slusher could be spending her two days' vacation in one of two ways—either doing her spring cleaning or trying her luck at fishing. Somehow, we think fishing will be more appealing to Anita. . . . Suffering from an acute case of sunburn, being disgusted with the slow moving traffic, and experiencing a stiff neck, Dot Dobler wonders why ANYONE goes to the races.

The engineering and drafting group spread out the welcome mat this week for three newcomers: Mary Ann Miller, Bob Messner, and E. T. Lorenz. . . . Since it's spring cleaning time, Bob Grote has given his receded forehead a bright glossy coat of Glo-Coat. On a sunshiny day, keep your sun glasses handy, the reflection is blinding.

Word was received this week from Joe Rowan who is enjoying his vacation at Niagara Falls. Joe and his wife are taking a second honeymoon. . . . June 2 the drafting room employees were feted with cake. The occasion was Pat Roehling's birthday. Hope she had a happy day and many more of them. . . . Memorial Day was celebrated with various activities. Carole Calkins spent the day at Pokagon Park, complete with ants.

Amidst all the animals were found Patty Schrader and her husband, strolling through the Toledo zoo. . . . Despite the heat, Jan and Bud Conroy had a wonderful time at the Indianapolis races.

Wedding bells rang out on Friday for David Burnett, accounting section. Dave was presented with a lovely electric clock by his co-workers. Congratulations to the newlyweds!

OVER OUR WAY

Clara Volz

Andy (whatcha making) Einsidel and Don Kees both celebrated birthdays on the second and went around saying "Happy Birthday" to each other. . . . Joan and Helen of the Test office were hungry for doughnuts one day; so was Bill Hoelle. So they all pitched in their loose change and bought doughnuts. After the girls at theirs, and sold a few around, one lousy doughnut was left, which Art Braun ate. Bill came in ready to eat and to his disgust was told there weren't any more. Bill demanded his money back. . . . Erv

Moore retired from the Company this week. Take it easy and enjoy yourself, Erv. We'll all miss you. By the way, Erv passed on this cute story: An elderly foreigner went into a restaurant and asked the waiter the following: FUN-EM? SVFEM! FUNEX? SVFX! OKMNX. Note: M—ham X—eggs. . . . Duane Sutter and David Double are two new packers working in Art Druce's section. Duane is the son of our genial friend, Forrest. Welcome to the gang, fellows. . . . Note to Bill Hanne: I think before you put your John Henry on paper you should read what you are signing. A person can get in a lot of trouble this way.

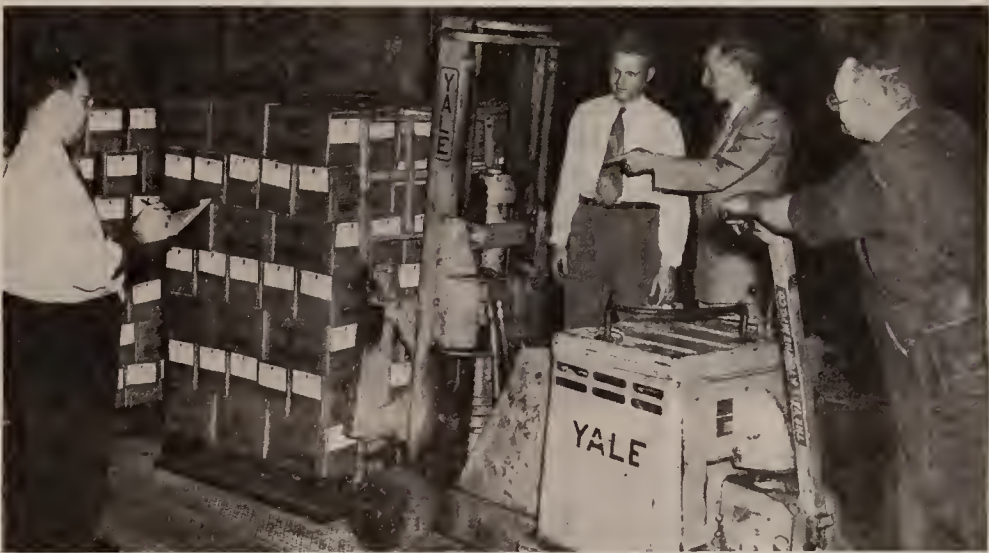

Electric Personalities

TWIN SYSTEM MODEL—Twins, Arlene Dellinger and Ilene Hardisty, both of whom work in Bldg. 4-6, point out the two temperatures of the new General Electric twin system refrigerator, which is on display in the Employee Store, Bldg. 8-1. Employee price of the model, which may be purchased from any GE dealer, is $280.22.

BACK AGAIN—on the Fred Waring Television Show is Margaret Wright, attractive blonde soprano. At the end of last season's TV schedule with Fred Waring, Margaret retired to her native Seattle to await the arrival of her daughter. When the Pennsylvanians toured the Pacific Northwest some weeks ago, Margaret attended the concert and promptly accepted Mr. Waring's offer to return to New York and finish out the 1953 season with the Fred Waring gang. The Waring show appears each Sunday at 9 p.m. over WCBS-TV.

SHIPMENT OF FIRST DECATUR FORM G'S— On their way to customers, the first Form G fractional horsepower motors produced at Decatur were shipped last month. On hand at the shipment were (l-r): Daniel Foreman, Roger Schuster, Roland Thompson, and Martin Hoffman. All are Decatur employees except Mr. Thompson who is located at Taylor St.

FIRE PROTECTION— At the community fire demonstration last week at Taylor St., the proper method of extinguishing a fire in a broken gas line and closing the pipe was shown by firemen. One man protects the other with a water spray while the latter moves in to close the pipe. About 250 representatives of industry attended the program.

THIS IS THE

NEW WAGE PROPOSAL

1. A general wage increase raising the "adder factor" of all eligible employees to a flat 12 per cent for employees whose unions did not accept the company's earlier offer. This wage increase offer amounts, on an average, to just over 5 cents an hour.

Balancing increases are being offered to employees who did accept the company's earlier increases, and for employees not represented by a union.

2. An additional adjustment upward for skilled and certain other classifications. This consists of adding 8 cents an hour into the base rates (of September 14, 1951) for the higher classifications, tapering off to 1 cent at the $1.65 base rate. The new 12 per cent "adder factor" applies on top of these additional adjustments.

3. Various contract changes — including provisions liberalizing overtime arrangements for exempt salaried employees; counting jury duty time and armed services encampments in determining vacation overtime; providing for automatic restoration of "continuity of service" for employees rehired after layoffs of up to three years; granting double time for hours worked in excess of 16 in any 24-hour period, and proposing certain termination payments in connection with plant closings.

4. The effective date for these wage increases will be the date of acceptance by the various unions involved — with resulting contracts to run for one year.

THE "GOING RATE"

General Electric is firmly committed to a policy of paying wages that are right in the light of all the circumstances.

We don't pay higher wages because of strikes or strike threats.

We don't pay lower wages because of the absence of these things.

We do make a sincere effort — on the basis of all the facts we can get from all available sources — to see that General Electric employees get wages that are right and fair for the work they do.

*This statement is intended only as a brief summary. Details are contained in letters of offer to various unions.

ELEX, VETS PLAN ICE CREAM SOCIAL

To Be Held July 9 in McCulloch Park;
All Proceeds for Defense Project

The annual Elex Club ice cream social will be co-sponsored this year by Elex and the General Electric War Veterans Association Thursday, July 9, in McCulloch Park, it was announced today by the two organizations.

Featuring booths selling hot dogs, cake, ice cream, coffee and soft drinks, the event will be staged from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. Proceeds from the social will be used to send boxes of food to GE employees serving in the Armed Forces.

Members of Elex' Partizan Chapter will operate a fish pond booth. Tickets, which are 10 cents each, will be available through contact girls and men of both organizations beginning next week. Tickets will also be on sale at the park July 9.

Employees who wish to donate cakes may do so by leaving them at any of the gate houses the day of the event or leaving them with Elex contact girls.

Dorothy LeBrecht, Bldg. 12-3, is serving as chairman of the social and officers of both organizations comprise the committee in charge of arrangements.

2nd Shift Foremen
To Meet July 26
At Lunz' Barn

Second shift foremen will conduct their first meeting of the 1953-54 year Friday, June 26, Harry Nickels, vice president, reported today. Lunz Barn is the scene of the meeting which is slated to begin at 12 midnight.

Initiation of new members who have joined the organization since 1951 will be conducted by Ed Klomp, Bldg. 17-4. Lunch and refreshments will be served and attendance prizes will be awarded. Leo Burkett, Bldg. 10-1, is chairman of the food committee.

Members should make reservations with contact men. The meeting is two dollars per person. The eight contact men are: Paul Boyer, Bldg. 4-5; Del Bucker, Bldg. 6-3; William Rodocker, Bldg. 20-1; Ralph Arney, Bldg. 17-3; Kenneth Zurbuch, Bldg. 19-4; Darrell Hirschfelder, Bldg. 26-5; Carl Sorenson, Sub-Section 17, Taylor St., and Joe Wyss, Sub-Section 13, Taylor St.

Wage Increase

As announced last week a new wage increase was made effective for all General Electric employees, except company officers, not represented by a union.

These wage increases and contract modification offers were also made to the many unions representing General Electric employees. This week the IUE accepted the company's proposal and completed an agreement for the next year. UE has accepted subject to ratification by their locals and completion of a definitive agreement. Many other unions have also indicated their acceptance of the company's offer.

FASCINATING HOBBY—of amateur radio operating is practiced by Ray Hupp, Bldg. 4-6, one of about 40 GE ham operators. Highlight for some of the men will be the annual Field Day this week-end at a transmitter site on Ferguson Rd. For more about the hams, see page 7.

CELEBRATES 88TH BIRTHDAY—E. A. Barnes, retired general superintendent, celebrated his 88th birthday Saturday, June 13. Among cards he received was the one he holds from his former co-workers, one of whom is Nick Little, Bldg. 19. A group of representatives of various GE organizations visited Mr. Barnes on his birthday to convey congratulations from employees here.

ACTION AT GE CLUB ALLEYS—Takes a different form in summer months as men get the alleys in condition for another season of kegler activity. Sanding the floors are Frank R. Jacquay and Wendell Behrer, both of the Deluxe Floor Sanding Service. Repairing an alley area are Paul Pegan and Charlie Wilt, of the GE Club.

Prosperity

To What Extent Does Prosperity Depend on the Government? How Much of our Present Prosperity Is Real? How Can We Be Even More Prosperous?

The Government can encourage prosperity by sound taxing, frugal spending and other policies which safeguard the value of the people's money and stimulate the release of their initiative, energy and productiveness. But, the passing of laws alone cannot create prosperity. People must work and produce if they are to be really prosperous and the more effectively they work together, the more things there are to eat, wear and enjoy, and the greater opportunity they have to provide their own security through saving.

Centralizing power in Washington does not build automobiles, refrigerators or television sets; an endless expansion of government jobs does not provide food or clothing; and astronomical national debt cannot shelter people from the elements. Whatever they have, they owe to their own productive energies and abilities and to the job opportunities provided by their own initiative and daring.

Politicians naturally claim credit for everything good which happens and deny responsibility for everything bad. However, the fact is that prosperity is the result of this nation's increasing mastery over science and technology and the art of mass production and distribution. Progress has continued at an accelerating rate throughout our history. There have been ups and downs, of course, setbacks in the rate of progress, but always the courage and energy of our people have carried them on to new heights. This has occurred under both political parties and often in the face of adverse government policies.

Our high standard of living today would be, in fact, considerably higher if the Government were not taking so much of what we produce in taxes. Every dollar the Government wastes through extravagances or unwise social experiments is just one dollar's worth of value subtracted from the overall living standard of the American people.

Many of the policies of the Government over the past 20 years have tended to inhibit the growth and expansion of production. An increasingly heavy tax burden year after year has hampered seriously the accumulation and investment of venture capital in new enterprises. Laws and regulations of doubtful usefulness have caused much involvement in red tape and drained the time and energy of businessmen—energy that could have been devoted to productive purposes. Suspicion and misunderstanding of business have made people reluctant to start new enterprises or expand old ones.

How much production has been lost because of such hampering restrictions, no one will ever know. It is certainly tremendous. However, the dynamic upsurge of invention, technology and industrial development which characterizes America cannot be stifled. It was driving to new heights in 1929 when over-extension of the economy caused a depression. The Government by tinkering with economic processes, hindered a rebound which otherwise would have been quick, and prolonged the depression beyond its normal course.

However, despite all the talk of a mature economy at the time of the depression, progress was resumed and today our productivity and production are the greatest ever in peacetime.

In the intervening years great new industries have been born; new processes and new devices have come off the drawing boards and out of the laboratories; new products have been placed on the market, old ones have been improved steadily and their distribution expanded. Despite the economic question marks caused by government policies and by war and threats of war, American individual enterprise has forged ahead to give us today more jobs, greater production, and a better standard of living than ever before.

We would be living in a fool's paradise if we failed to realize that some of our present prosperity rests upon easy credit, which is merely a synonym for uneasy debt. Easy terms for mortgages, for instance, mean uneasy debt on the backs of home owners; easy terms for installment purchases

Forrest Von Voorst

A former Bldg. 27 employee, Forrest Von Voorst is stationed on the Pacific Coast now, he writes. He states that he is enjoying his hitch in the Navy thus far and is happy to be serving his country.

Any of his former co-workers who wish to write him may do so at the following address:

San Diego, Calif.

A change of address has been sent in by William Edwards, former Sub-Section 17, Taylor St. employee. Bill is stationed in Missouri and writes that he enjoys keeping posted with GE events. His address is:

mean an uneasy bill to be paid each month. To the extent that the Government is expanding the national debt and our people are buying things against future earnings, our prosperity rests upon insecure ground.

To realize on the limitless future which is within their grasp, the American people must see clearly the situation which confronts them and realize that their best hope lies in giving free play and encouragement to their own energies and productive abilities. Only the people can produce; it is the role of the Government to maintain conditions which encourage production.

From the newspaper we see where Pat Murphy will be sharing the name of Murphy with Lucite Kingan. . . . Sun back dresses and tee shirts were very popular last week, but summer doesn't start until the 21st. . . . We hope that Zelma Wood's mother will be very much improved by the time this is printed. She will go to surgery this week. . . . Harold Dominique has been on our sick list. We hope he will be back soon.

After a physical examination of all of New York City's cops recently, it was announced that only 19 out of the 19,000 of them had flat feet.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, and returned to work.

Since Neil Hankey bought his house he has started a new occupation. This sideline is that of a junk collector. . . . Last week Ben Conner had a little trouble with his time. Somehow, unknown to his fellow workers, all the shop order numbers were missing. Ben, the boys assured me they knew nothing of it. . . . Every week some of the fellows have been taking tours of the factory, learning more of the actual shop practice. On one such trip, the leader of the group told them a wrong turn and Jack Latham ended up in a ladies' rest room. . . . We are glad to hear that Merrill Crew's wife has returned home from the hospital and wish her a speedy recovery. . . . We are sorry to hear that Vaughn Moore's small son is ill and in the hospital. We wish him a very speedy recovery. . . . The last few weeks the following new apprentices have been added to the school: Richard Bridge, Dewey Fields, David Harold, Max Gollmer, Richard Crum, Glen Pettit, Richard Poe, Ralph Scheimann, Virgil Curley, Robert Dafforn, William Scheimann, Jerry Aldrich, Francis Harter, and Paul Bridgett. Welcome to the school.

Warren N. McCroskey

Brake, Dunn, McCroskey Receive Small Integral Motor Appointments

Three appointments in newly established units of the Small Integral Motor Department were announced this week by J. Herbert Behm, manager of engineering.

Walter J. Brake has been named supervisor of drafting. George B. Dunn has been appointed supervisor of the product engineering unit. Warren N. McCroskey is supervisor of development and application engineering.

In 1928, Mr. Brake became a General Electric employee and entered Fractional Horsepower Motor as a draftsman. In 1937, he entered requisition engineering in FHP's series and DC motors section. He became supervisor of drafting in FHP's series and specialty motor section in 1943 and maintained this position until his present appointment.

Mr. Brake is a member of the Fort Wayne Engineers Club and the Supervisors Club. The Brakes and their son live at 4501 Anthony Wayne Dr.

Began as TE

When he joined the Company in 1941, Mr. Dunn entered the test engineers program. Upon completion of the course in 1943, he went into the Control Engineering Division, designing magnetic control.

After transferring to the electronic section of Control Engineering in 1945, Mr. Brake worked on design and development of industrial electronic control equipment. He moved to the Small and Medium Motor Engineering Division at Lynn in 1949 when he began design and development of polyphase induction motors. Last year, he came to the Winter St. plant where he entered the Small Integral Motor Planning Study. He was in this location at the time of his present appointment.

Vermont Graduate

Mr. Dunn graduated from the University of Vermont in 1941 with a BSEE degree. The Dunns and their two children reside in Zanesville, Ind.

After coming to GE in 1942, Mr. McCroskey entered the test engineers program at the Schenectady plant. When he completed the program in 1943, he went to the Oakland plant as a cable design engineer. In 1945 he entered motor engineering at the Oakland and San Jose plants. Two years ago, he transferred to the Lynn motor engineering section and came to Fort Wayne in 1952 when he entered Small Integral Motor Planning. This was his position prior to his present appointment.

A graduate of the University of California, Mr. McCroskey received his BSEE degree in 1942. He is a member of the Fort Wayne Engineers Club, Supervisors Club, FWAGEE, and AIEE. He is a registered professional engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. McCroskey and their four children reside at 4740 S. Anthony Blvd.

Employee Store Slates Inventory

The Employee Store at Taylor St. and Broadway, Bldg. 8-1, will be closed Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, June 24, 25, and 26, for inventory, Ray L. Fischbach, manager, announced today.

SPOT LIGHTS BLDG. 4-2 Estella Pettibone

The toolmakers had a farewell party for Fernando Crick Tuesday. He is retiring and going to continue to raise parakeets. He was presented many gifts, including a bag of parakeet food, nickels, chewing tobacco and a box of cigars, which were tagged "Do Not Open on GE Property." The fellows did not want to be tempted to help him smoke them. A book on how to operate a lathe, and a beautiful electric drill. . . . Our best wishes go with Wilbur Meyers as he leaves for the Army. Co-workers presented him with a "51" Parker Pen and a writing kit fully equipped. . . . "Mule Trader" Paul Monroe has his new barn nearly completed, so if anyone knows of a homeless mule, see Paul. . . . "Grandpa" Ira Shaffer came to work all smiles Friday

Chicago Motor Ready to Help Plan Vacations

As vacation time nears and plans for the two weeks with pay reach their peak, employees who plan to drive to their vacation destination via Chicago Motor Club routings have been reminded to notify the Fort Wayne branch of the club as soon as possible.

District manager of the local branch, Carl W. Rohert, has asked that employee members of the club call or go to the office and give their destination and any points of interest they wish to see along the way.

With this information, the club will provide a map with the route marked on it, giving detours and road conditions. Tour books describing areas, hotels, and rates are given members also. By notifying the club as soon as possible, members insure themselves of securing proper service, the manager stated.

The Fort Wayne office is located at 729 S. Harrison St. The telephone number is A-0108 and the office is open Mondays through Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. morning. A 9 pound boy made him a grandfather. Roy Bracht had to cue Ira that the parents do get a little of the credit, before we could find out that the baby was born to his daughter and son-in-law. . . . Poe Trentadue and his family enjoyed a 2,200 mile motor trip through four states. The two outstanding events in his mind are the beauty of the salt mines in Kansas and the fact he was permitted to pass Leavenworth. . . . For two years, co-workers thought Art Bottom was working on a bird cage in his spare time. Now they learn it is an "ultra modern bathroom" instead. To prove it, Art promised the fellows in group 15x65 that they could all come over for a shower as soon as it was finished.

Jack Morley

GE News to Offer Morley Cartoons

Starting July 3rd and continuing regularly, the GE NEWS will offer cartoons drawn by Jack Morley.

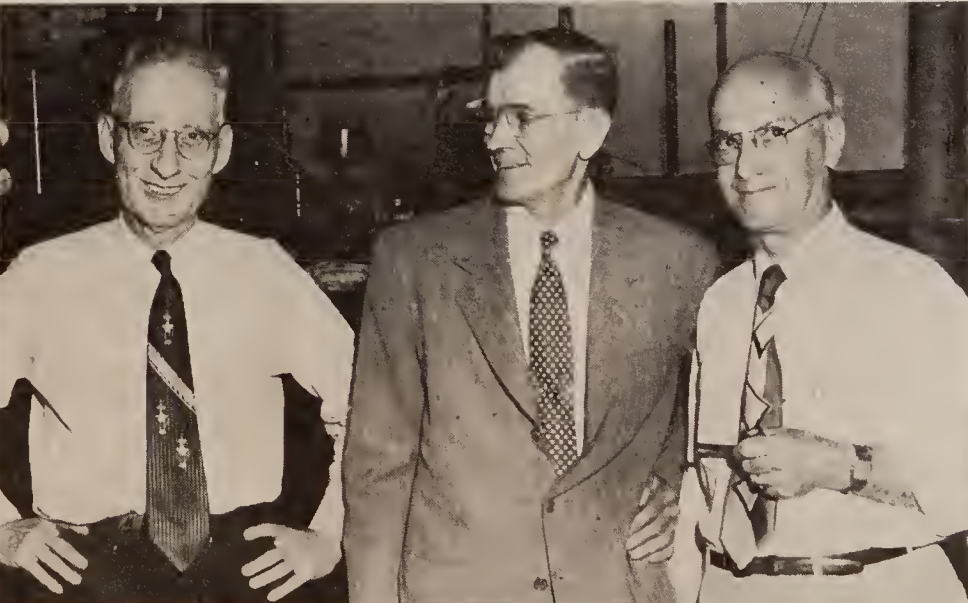

Mr. Morley, who is famous for his cartoons in "Judge" and other humor magazines, was also an editorial cartoonist for the New York American and the Milwaukee News. He has also done cartoons for the New Yorker, Saturday Evening Post, Colliers and other national magazines.

In 1946, Mr. Morley took over the nationally syndicated comic strip "Barnaby" and for some five years was parent and guiding hand for Barnaby and his imaginary Fairy Godfather.

The GE cartoonist was born in Barnesboro, Pennsylvania. He lived in Zanesville, Ohio; Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Lima, Ohio, being a high school graduate at the latter place. He studied art at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, for two years; then transferred to the University of Pittsburgh, where he completed a course in journalism.

Mr. Morley resides in Greenwich, Conn., with his wife, two daughters, and a son.

Last week he was on vacation, so the fellows hope he has it all ready for them. . . . Bud Neu purchased a garden cultivator and tried it just one evening. He reports that it works fine, but says he isn't going to use it anymore until he can get a harness for Mrs. Neu. . . . Ed Rodenbeck was in Chicago last week-end but he wasn't giving out any details. He said that would be like writing, Ed went to New Haven. Really he does get out of Fort Wayne occasionally and promises when he goes somewhere special we can write a story. . . . Happy birthday to Jane Steinbacher, Toni Laue, Gertie Markely and Al Runyon. . . . Gertie had a letter from her son. He is now stationed at Camp Knox, Ky.

WHATTA DAY!—Arthur M. McNamara (left) thoroughly enjoyed the celebration honoring his retirement from the General Electric Company, June 9. Mr. McNamara was presented with several gifts, including a bait can for those days of fishing ahead. With him are Fred Couture and Arthur Knoll. He worked in Bldg. 4-3 before retirement. He had been with GE since 1916.

We wish a very speedy recovery to Stella Evan's husband, who is seriously ill. . . . We extend our congratulations to Evelyn Markley on her large suggestion check. . . . Have you noticed the happy expression on Russell Clark's face since he became a godfather? We wish to congratulate him. . . . Mark Johnson has really turned into a real cowboy now that he has a horse. . . . Fred Adams has a new name and it fits him pretty well, Towel Boy. Do you get towels for everyone, Fred? . . . We are sorry to see Marjorie Berger leave us but we welcome Peggy Fields on days. . . . Irene Winnieki must have decided to take a day off after being here every day since March 4, 1951. Now you will have to start that string all over, Irene. . . . Happy birthday to Theo Olson and Louise Beamer. Also, Louise is back after a week's vacation. . . . Doris Moon is entertaining her sister from Denver, Colorado, this week. . . . Vi Minnick and husband went to Terre Haute to the Eagles' convention. . . . Olka Johnson attended a family reunion at Findley, Ohio, over the week-end. . . . We are glad to see Wanda Carter back. . . . Laura Krauskopf motored to Toledo over the week-end. . . . Della Zulch must have still been asleep the other morning when she came in to work. She started to enter the men's place. Gee, was her face red. . . . Happy birthday to Mary Gordan. . . . Ray Hills must have been born under a lucky star. Saturday Ray's daughter was married and the sun stayed out all day. In the evening Ray showed off his TV set and the reception was perfect. . . . Rose Liby's definition of a queer motor is when the shaft is in the wrong way. . . . We were wondering why Louie Boyer was talking to Bob Heingelman so much. The reason? Louie wanted to find out all about the Olds 88 before he bought one himself. . . . Bill Alt really gave his wife a thrill Sunday night. He took her to a Daisy game and was she surprised to see how those girls played. . . . If you see a car weave down the street don't be surprised. It's just Kate O'Conner taking her final driving lesson. Kate put her car beside the garage. There was a fence about 10 feet away and Kate forgot to stop. She took the fence with her. She claimed that she was lucky there was a tree there to stop her flight.

Robert Till was turning onto the State Highway the other morning, obstructing traffic and endangering the lives of others while trying to get into high gear. He has himself timed so he arrives at work at exactly the same minute daily. He must have been a couple of seconds behind schedule. Watch that, Bob. . . . A Beautiful Doll walked into Section 14 office the other day for an interview, complete with veil and long white gloves. The boys around here dusted off their glasses and really came alive for a change—all but Louis Shattuck. He had planned to be in a conference and all it required was two ears, so, he was having his glasses repaired and couldn't see a thing. What a revoltin' development. He's still doing a slow burn. . . . Speaking of beautiful dolls, we are losing one of ours this week. Lucille Salas is transferring to Bldg. 18-3 and we are sorry to see her go. Her co-workers presented her with a lovely nylon blouse and a white and gold earring and pin set. We wish her lots of good luck in her new position. . . . Talent Available: Section 14 is filled with talented and helpful people. If you need information on how to inflate an air mattress, please consult Hugh Neely. He'll have you in stitches. If you need information on financial juggling, see Norman Biddle, for he can really stretch a dollar bill. . . . By the looks of Cliff Beber's jaw, he has his snuff in the wrong place. For details on how to use snuff, contact Estel Grier or Dale Irwin, sniff-snuffers, oops, snuff-sniffers, from 'way back. Or is that a bad tooth, Cliff? . . . Several co-workers attended a stork shower for Ellen Northern, who formerly worked in Section 14x3B. . . . Everyone is glad to see Betty Beber back to work after a two-month illness. . . . Turtle Lehman has a novel way of measuring and weighing his turtles. He uses a rubber ruler and rubber scales. You can't beat Herman that way, Turtle. . . . Dick Nix and Bill Meiners have again paid their dues into the Euchre Club. . . . Herb Lindenberg has entered his Hot Rod in next year's "500". . . . Buck Sessler is coming back to work next week. . . . Ed Huhn is still on the sick list. Hurry back, Ed. . . . Dick Gottschall, our quiet apprentice, has nearly served his time. Keep plugging, Dick. . . . On June 14 John Miles celebrated his 48th birthday. We sincerely hope this day provided the incentive for getting well real soon. Happy birthday, Johnny, from the gang in the high bay area. . . . We would like to say hello to Ed Huhn, who has been off duty for some time. Ed's mechanical knowledge and sober wit has been missed considerably and we all wish that he were back on the job. It would seem more like old times again. . . . Very frequently a fight for what is right turns into a quarrel for what is left, and the only people you have to get even with are those who have helped you.

Heart Attack is Fatal
To Isidore M. Best

Isidore M. Best, 55, died Tuesday, June 16, after suffering a heart attack.

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Best came to the Company in 1919. He was an insulator in the wire mill at Taylor St. prior to his death.

Survivors include his wife, Wilma; one son, Thomas; one daughter, Joan; two sisters, Mrs. Clara English and Mrs. Lucille Reinhard, and five brothers, Walter, Richard, Leo, Frank, and Hubert.

Did you appreciate being able to come to work today? It's really a pleasure and we usually value it more after missing a few days work due to illness. Therefore, we express a sincere hope that Carl Schone and Wilbur Lane will recover from their extended illness soon and be back on the job again. We all miss you. . . . Also, we wish an early recovery for Vera Beam, who has undergone an operation at the Detroit Memorial Hospital. The office really misses your friendly daily contacts, Vera. . . . There was one thing Sharon Matthews didn't miss on her birthday. She pleasantly passed out the candy and found out that she was still young enough to be spanked. We won't say who did it, but one engineer was big enough to hold her and the other was ornery enough to administer the paddle. . . . Paul Richter has a pen that not only writes under water, but keeps on writing after he clips it in his shirt pocket. That's why he had to wash his shirt out last week. . . . Elmer Auman likes turtle meat, so Maury Sordelet caught a turtle and slipped it in Elmer's desk drawer. Did it snap? No, it was so young it had hardly learned to swim. . . . Hayden Rice tangled with a mighty powerful foe during our last storm and came out second best. Lightning struck his TV antenna and played havoc with his fuse boxes. . . . Catcher Harold Blauvelt and pitcher Kenny Zurbuch teamed up as battery mates in a recent softball game. Kenny's plenty faze and Harold has the black and blue marks to prove it. . . . Otto Rodenbeck's vacation was enjoyably spent with his son at Norfolk, Va. Otto was impressed with the great array of ships. He also saw his son embark for a Mediterranean cruise. . . . A hearty welcome to Paul Moore in the tool crib; George Drodgy in the mill unit; and Orval Minnick and Emil Fabian in the die plant. . . . The berries must look better on the other side of the line as Ned Greulich and Charley Fike ventured to Michigan to pick them. . . . Paul Greenlee says this vacation from classes is really fine as the apprentice classes end for the summer. . . . Bud Dunlap, Paul Yentes, and Gus Adamsby picked up an unidentified stranger as a fourth man for their golf game the other day. He dubbed a few shots on the first few holes and then talked them into a small wager for the remaining holes. You guessed it. His game immediately picked up and our boys sorrowfully paid off as victims of the "come on" game. . . . Ed Kammeyer had better grow a foot taller before voicing his opinion of the Vans baseball team in front of such a capable pair as Red Braden and Charlie Shipman.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

Joan Vorndran

The checks were given out and the pool was on, but Mary Schwartz couldn't understand how anybody could have three pairs. Was she getting gyped? Why, she only had five numbers on her check. Marie Buck then explained to Mary that she was using her clock card number instead of the serial number. "Oh, clock number!"

Car drivers beware! Berneta Welbaum has taken the final step! After finishing her driving lessons, she took her driver's test and passed. Berneta is now "bait" for a new or used car dealer.

Three tool room men are heading for a week of relaxation. They are Bill Kelsey, Wehler Porsch, and Tom Roberts. Hope you have a wonderful time! . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hixson on the birth of a six-pound thirteen-ounce daughter. The latest addition has been named Joann Louise. Joe is employed in the CW Section, and the Mrs. was the former Geneva Brockhouse, a past Winter St. employee.

It's crew-cut weather and three heads have received the "treatment" this week. Added to the list are Bob Pfeiffer, Bill Groves, Jr., and Ross Harter. Rumors tell that when the barber was cutting Ross Harter's hair, he didn't bother to look to see how much hair he was cutting off; he just watched the floor and when he thought there was enough hair on the floor, the clipping was over.

Someone with experience should explain to Bob Shoaff, in six easy lessons, the delicate art and the purpose for dropping an anchor. On a recent fishing trip, Bob dropped the anchor in fine fashion but neglected to fasten the end of the anchor rope to the boat, so the boat drifted on, past the spot that was loaded with fish. He loses more anchors and fish this way. . . . A scholarship to Central Catholic High School was won by George Haggenjos's son, who graduated from the eighth grade at St. Mary's this June. Congratulations! . . . News on our convalescing co-workers are all favorable. Progressing swiftly on the road to recovery are: Charlie Chevillot, Floyd Seitz, Dale Thompson, Rosie Murphy, and Vivian Curren. We are also glad to welcome Bill Groves back to work.

This week-end will find Chet Bradtmiller trying for the fish limit up at Jimmerson Lake. Good fishing, Chet. . . . Monday, Florence Monnot will bid farewell to ACD and hello to SIM. Hope you like your new assignment, Florence. . . . Colors are becoming to some people; but, in green, Gene Janney is a true "revelation."

After much struggling, Carole Calkins finally discovered why she couldn't get her typewriter back together. The spring hasn't sprung. With her mechanical genius and a minor adjustment, the machine was in working condition again. . . . A visit back home has been planned by Bill McKinley for his vacation. Bill's home state is Missouri. . . . Don Lynch celebrated his birthday last week; his 18th plus (?) . . . With the drafting room's help, Oscar Mensch has decided on the type of door that will be used for the new house that the Mensch's are building.

Jane Oberlin was in a very sad situation. It all began with loaded cigarettes, then progressed to itching powder, sneezing powder, and the disappearance of her worm shaped salt shaker, all of this left Jane in a state of bewilderment. With practical jokers around, she didn't know what to expect next. . . . Monday will find Loring Gotschall on his way for a lovely three weeks vacation in the state of Washington. Loring plans to visit his brother-in-law, Dick Cullen, the former paymaster at Winter St., who is now employed at the Richland, Washington, plant of the General Electric.

A big welcome is extended to Shirley Starkel, Dorothy Dobler's "little sis" who started working at Winter St. this week. . . . Gerrie Coyne believes in the old adage "an apple a day," but her purpose for the apple is to keep her figure trim. Looks like she is doing a good job, too.

June 15 marked a double celebration for the Kenny Betts' family. First of all, it was the Betts' wedding anniversary. Secondly, it was Kenny's birthday. The wedding anniversary was the 32nd, but the birthday is Kenny's deep dark secret. Congratulations to Kenny and the Mrs.

Don Anderson really made a prize haul on his evening fishing trip last week. Included in the catch were dandy crappies, catfish, and bluegills. Anybody hungry for a good fish fry? . . . Is it true that Frank Lemish is thinking of pulling up stakes in Fort Wayne, and moving to Kendallville? How about it, Frank? . . . There was a big celebration at the Mahlon Hutchison's house last week-end. Hutch's son, Mahlon, Jr., was married and a huge reception was held.

Things look different up there, Eddie. . . . Don Alcott is considering erasing his name off of his golf balls after hitting a beautiful slice into an open garage door across the road at Municipal. Don hit another slice on the next hole, but it hit a stone wall across the road and bounced back directly in front of the green. Don refuses to tell us if there was a car in the garage on that first slice.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF SOUTH KOREA'S STAND ON THE TRUCE NEGOTIATIONS?

ANNA M. LEHMAN

Bldg. 8-1

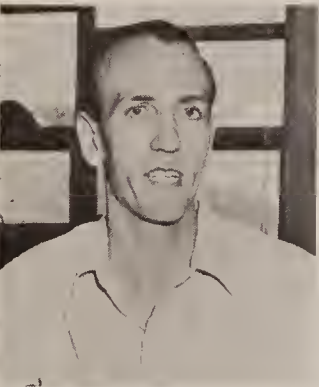

"Yes, President Syngman Rhee's government should sign an armistice agreement and not continue a fight against the Communists. I believe that all free nations must stand together or they shall fall separately."

CARL W. LOMMATZSCH

Taylor St.

"The people of Korea like so many in the world today have forgotten all too quickly how much is being done for them. I think South Korea should be thankful that they at least have their own half of the country, thanks to the UN. They should be more than willing to accept the truce terms."

EDWARD G. BOEDEKER

Bldg. 19-4

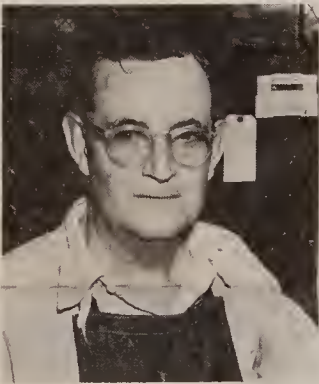

"I think their stand is an honorable one. No peace loving people would care to share their country with an oppressor. But I am opposed to it unless they can attain it on their own. I think our boys have done their share."

CHARLES E. ELZEY

"I think South Korea should go along with the UN command on truce negotiations. If South Korea's president Syngman Rhee had to spend a few weeks in foxholes with C rations as the soldiers do, he would have no opposition to a speedy truce."

IMO E. FOLEY

Bldg. 31-1

"It would seem that the present proposal should be agreed upon. However, in view of the struggle that has been made to wipe out communism in Korea and to insure them of a definite end of the conflict, more consideration could be given so that the terms of the truce can be mutually met for complete unification by all concerned."

GE Engineer Develops
Perpetual Calendar

This perpetual calendar, the brain-child of Arthur A. Merrill, a General Electric Company engineer, looks complicated at first glance. After all, it's quite a trick to be able to tell the day of the week for any of 112,129 days . . . in a matter of seconds.

Try a problem, however, and see if some of the complication doesn't disappear: On what day was the Declaration of Independence signed (July 4, 1776)? Start with the left-hand table and go down the left column to the first three digits of the year "177". Then go across to the column headed by the fourth digit, "6", and obtain the key letter for the year 1776, "H". Still with us?

Now, in the right-hand tabulation find the month of July and move straight across until you strike the "year key letter," already determined to be "H". Drop down immediately and follow the chute to the calendar which shows us what July looked like in 1776. This tells us that the Declaration of Independence was signed on a Thursday. It's as simple as that.

Work out a few examples of your own—like what day your hundredth birthday will fall on if you live that long, or how many weekend holidays we'll have in, say, 1966. After a couple of tries you'll

SCIENCE
QUESTION BOX

by SCIENTISTS OF THE G.E.
RESEARCH LABORATORY

- Q. What is the principal difference between incandescent and fluorescent lighting?
- A. In the incandescent lamp an electric current passes through a fine tungsten wire, which offers considerable resistance, raising the wire to white heat.

Thus it gives off light, as well as a considerable amount of heat. In the fluorescent lamp, the current passes through a tube containing mercury vapor at low pressure and causes it to glow with a faint bluish light. It also generates large quantities of invisible ultra-violet rays. These strike fluorescent powders called phosphors, coated on the inside of the tube. These powders convert the invisible rays into visible light, which can be used for illumination. This process is considerably more efficient, as a smaller proportion of the energy is lost as heat.

- Q. How can I remove a hard deposit that has formed in my teakettle?
- A. Put a mixture of vinegar and water in the kettle and warm it. If the deposits are compounds of calcium, as they usually are, they should be loosened by the acetic acid in the vinegar and may then be rinsed out.
- Q. Why is the planet Mercury very cold if it is nearer the Sun than the Earth?
- A. The planet Mercury turns in such a way that it always keeps the same half toward the Sun, just as the Moon does toward the Earth. The hemisphere that faces the Sun is not cold, but is very hot, about 700 degrees Fahrenheit. The opposite region, where the Sun's rays never reach, is very cold; perhaps 450 degrees below zero. Mercury has no atmosphere. If it did, currents of warm air might be carried from the light to the dark side, making the difference in temperature less extreme. Mercury is 36,000,000 miles from the Sun, compared with 93,000,000 for the Earth.

- Q. How is the speed of a ship measured?
- A. Originally it was measured with the log, a specially-shaped piece of wood at the end of a long line, which was thrown overboard from the stern. At regular intervals on the line knots were tied and the number of knots paid out in a fixed time, usually 28 seconds, were counted. This gave the speed in knots, equivalent to nautical miles per hour. (One nautical mile measures 6080 feet.) More modern logs measure the speed of the water going past the ship by means of a small propeller. Depending on the design of the ship, it requires some correction, so it is usually calibrated in trial runs, where the ship is actually run past fixed points on shore a known distance apart.

- Q. How many volcanoes are there?
- A. Geologists recognize somewhat more than 400 active volcanoes on the Earth and a great many more inactive ones. Occasionally one of the latter becomes active. In addition new volcanoes sometimes are born. The best known recent birth of a volcano was at Paricutin, in Mexico, on Feb. 20, 1943, when an Indian farmer, working on his plot of land, heard rumblings and then saw white smoke rising from a depression that appeared in the ground. This quickly developed into a major volcano, which has been very completely studied by scientists. Both the nearby town of Paricutin and another more distant were engulfed in lava, and had to be abandoned.

A FIELD DAY FOR HAMS

This week-end 17 GE men and other area ham operators will participate in the annual American Radio Relay League Field Day at a transmitter site on Ferguson Rd.

Part of a larger group of some 40 employees who are amateur radio operators, the 17 will be tested for their ability to carry on communications with low power in the event of an emergency at the Field Day.

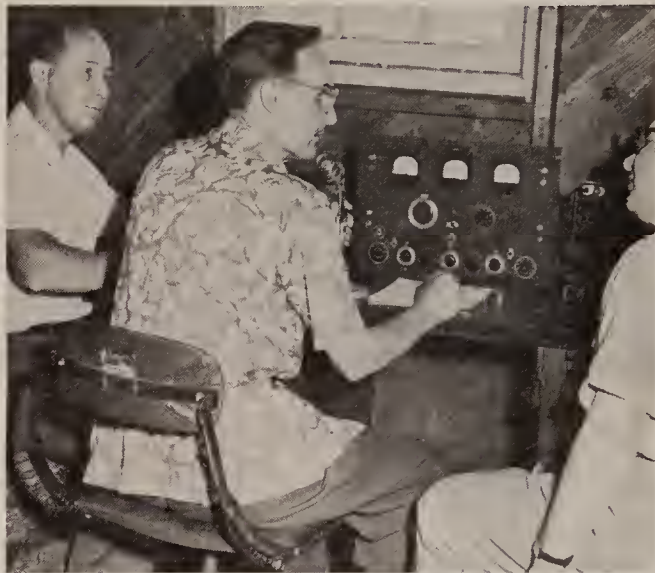

In addition to the enjoyment of an interesting hobby, the training and knowledge ham operators gain through their pastime prepares them for emergencies.

At present, many of these 40 are participants in the city's civilian defense program. As such, they are members of the Volunteer Communications auxiliary and work with the City Signal Department. Their main task in this group is the routing of traffic.

Not only are GE ham operators engaged in civilian defense work, but their experience has been called upon and is available in other area emergencies such as floods and breakdown of telephone lines in case of storms. Also, they work with the Sheriff's Department at Halloween.

To perform these jobs, the men have mobile and portable transmitters and receivers which they use and carry in their automobiles.

Ham operators today have the PORTABLE UNIT—of a ham operator is operated from the trunk of an automobile by Ray Hupp, Bldg. 4-6, an assistant director of the American Radio Relay League, and Max Kimble, Bldg. 26-2.

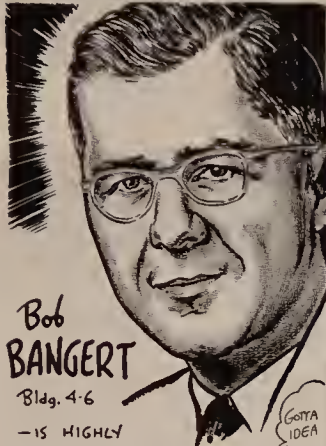

FIELD OPERATION—With a portable transmitter and receiver is conducted by George Fann, Bldg. 17-4, and George Graue, Winter St., a director of the Fort Wayne Radio Club. This is a familiar scene when ham hobbyists get together.

A HAM AT HOME—Three ham operators gather at William Enslen's home to engage in their favorite hobby. John Plummer, Bldg. 26-5, records the operation in the log book; Mr. Enslen, Bldg. 26-5, tunes in a station, and Arthur Benien, Bldg. 26-2, is set to broadcast.

pleasure of making contacts with sports in the far corners of the world, but this was not so, many years ago, as William Enslen, Bldg. 26-5, points out. Mr. Enslen, who began his hobby in 1916, states that at that time he was able to send a distance of two or three blocks on a partially home-made set.

All operators are registered with the Federal Communications Commission and are given call letters by the organization. They must keep logs of all connections made with other operators.

Keeping up to date on ham news, some of the men do this by joining the American Radio Relay League, Fort Wayne Radio Club, and Indiana Radio Club Council. The GE Tube Department, Electronics Division also aids amateurs with a bi-monthly publication, "Ham News", published by the department and available to amateurs throughout the country free of charge.

GE OWLS DOWN MAGNAVOX 11 TO 5

by Howard Colby

With the Owls still hitting the ball in the clutches and scoring the runs when they are needed, they came through with a win over Magnavox last Friday morning by the score of 11 to 5 to make it four in a row.

The club scored a run in the first inning when Scherer, the first man up, got a base on balls and was driven across home plate on a hit by Zurbuch.

This was all the scoring until the top of the third, when Boyce scored on a double which was hit by Hower. Boyce had been put on first base on balls by Canfield, the Magnavox pitcher. This made the score lead 2 to 0 in favor of GE.

The bottom half of the third provided a head-ache for the Club's pitcher, Don Hower, who was touched by Magnavox for three singles, a double, and a home run. They totaled five runs before being retired to make it 5 to 2 in favor of GE.

In the top of the fourth, GE came back to score seven runs on 6 hits, with Baker, Blauvelt, and Etter each getting singles; Bob Brosley, a double; and home runs by Boyce and Paul Billman, who replaced Hower on the mound in the fourth inning. GE Club was again in front 9 to 5.

GE scored their final two runs in the sixth as Don Taylor was given a walk; Bob Taylor hit a single, and both boys scored when Gene Etter slapped a double into center to make it 11 to 5 in favor of GE.

Paul Billman who came on the mound in the fourth to make his first start of the season for the Owls really had the stuff on the ball allowing only one hit, while he struck out nine men in the four innings he pitched.

Next Wednesday morning GE meets Zollner, who have a 4-1 record in league play, at 9 a.m., on diamond No. 4 at McMillen Park.

With a record of three wins and no losses this season, the GE team in the Junior Federation League faces Renner's Truck Service team Sunday, June 21 at McMillen Park. Game time is 8 p.m.

Staying in the win column, GE's team downed DeMolay, 14-0 Sunday, June 14 in an afternoon game. Pitcher Darrell Blanton struck out 16 batters and allowed only three hits. Highlights of the encounter included catcher Mike Melchior's two doubles and one triple play.

After meeting Renner's Sunday, GE's team will play City Light Thursday, June 25 in a night game. They met General Motors Co. team Wednesday evening.

Congratulations to Rita Wolf and Claude Sigman on their graduation. . . . Margaret Kenyon was so afraid her Father's Day card might not get to her Dad on time she stopped her work, cleaned up, and took the card to be mailed. When Margaret came back she found out she was a week early. . . . Opal Snyder was going to come in an hour late last Monday and didn't get here until Wednesday. Could it be she wanted her name in the GE NEWS? . . . Willa Mae Bryant, Rosemary Squires, and Dorothy Gerhard enjoyed birthdays. Dorothy also celebrated a wedding anniversary. . . . Harley Springer attended his daughter's graduation at North Side. Congratulations, Joan. . . . Thelma Dammeier says her twins have graduated from kindergarten to the first grade. With the "man of distinction" honor went to Herb Buck on June 8. On that day he celebrated 30 years of service with GE. Omer Mettler and Carl Hattendorf presented him with a letter of congratulations from the manager. In the same vein of words Omer, we all pay tribute to a man who not only has the most even disposition on the floor, but who also has the ability to do any job that is given him and do it well. For this and for many more reasons we are all proud to have known not only a good workman, but also a good fellow. So to you, Herb, we offer our sincerest congratulations and an earnest wish that the future will hold nothing but the very best for you.

Anyone interested in swimming lessons please contact Ed Klomp. He showed his versatility the other day at the Indian Guide outing when he attempted to take his grandson for a canoe ride and succeeded in upsetting and getting himself completely wet. However, the one redeeming feature of the outing was Ed's fine KP showing as a dishwasher.

We extend a very welcome hand to Jim Schwartz, who is returning to his old job after two years in the Army.

This overtime work is really getting Herb Uffiel down. The boys he rides with have a pretty hard time getting him awake in the morning when they come around to pick him up. That's a sign of old age, Herb, when night life begins to get you down.

It would be so much easier to use the time clock to ring in instead of the GE NEWS box. Wilbur Sexton found that out the other morning when he tried using the box for that purpose. Could it be, Wilbur, that you can't unglue your eyes that early in the morning?

That was a beautiful bunch of white roses that showed up in the south office, but to date too many people have been given the credit for the gift. Nevertheless, they were well received and duly appreciated.

What at first seemed to be a strange face turned out to be that of our old faithful tester, Bill Roberts. We are glad to welcome him back to the floor.

The sight of the week was John (Red) Braden jumping up and down after the weather bureau had told him it would rain off and on for the remainder of the day, so he proceeded to postpone his Van's game. You guessed it, the sun came out and it was clear and hot for the remainder of the day. PUNCH and DRAW

Bonna Lou Fahl

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald George on the arrival of a bouncing baby girl Saturday, June 13. Hope mother and baby are doing fine. . . . Also, to Al Campton on the arrival of his first granddaughter, born June 12. . . . Some of the boys in group 112 have been wondering why Gus Koons hasn't been around to visit with them lately. We found out that he has a new granddaughter and it's the first. Where are the candy bars and the cigars, Grandpa? . . . By all the noise in Bldg. 26-B we all know Charlie Arnett is back from his cruise with Uncle Sam. He docked here Sunday. Glad to see you back, Charlie. . . . Walt Wolf is enjoying a nice week's vacation at Houghton Lake taking in a little fishing and some of the beautiful sunshine. . . . Remember the Walcott fight not so long ago? Well, Howard Fritz was all set to watch it on his television set when something went wrong with the antenna. So, Howard climbed to the roof and fixed the trouble then came down to watch the fight. Much to his dismay the fight was over. Better luck next time, Howard. . . . Happy birthdays to Gerald Crum, June 5; Nick Pennick, June 14; Russell Gullivar and Luther McConnehey, June 25. Many more, boys.

Warren Wickliffe leads the Owls with an average of 38.0. Paul Billman follows with 40.3 and Oz Bunch is next with 40.7.

There was no report from Charlie Briggs' Monday afternoon league nor from Stu Fishers Winter St. group.

Thanks to the old Redhead for the standings in these two groups.

On to South Bend and let's bring back a Studebaker scalp!!

and-a-Half Garringer" back to work and see that the rest has done him a lot of good. Keep it up, Ezra, ol' boy.

QUOTATION FOR THE WEEK: "The grand essentials of happiness are something to do, something to love, and something to hope for."

Business surveys show that people want bright-colored cars nowadays. Only 10 per cent of the autos sold last year were black, compared with 26 per cent in 1941.

SHORTS and SNORTS

GENERAL SERVICE

Mary Saxton

Why is Kenny Habecker being called "Gobble?" Could it be because of his friend he keeps in the garage? . . . George Goeglein is very proud of the Company he works for. If you drive around Pretty Lake, you can't miss the Goeglein cottage. . . . The Somers boys, Forest and Dan, had a little lunch trouble when Dan first started working at Taylor St. Forest not being a growing boy anymore, had Dan's large lunch and vice-versa. After a short phone call everything was straightened out. Dan could feel the hunger pains just looking at the size of his dad's lunch. . . . If Scotty, Bldg. 9, takes as long to see the places on his vacation as he has deciding what to see, we won't see him till after vacation next year. . . . Wonder why Carl Wagner rushed out of the transportation office when the boys started talking about roping a calf? . . . Did you know that a famous place in Chicago is still looking for a fellow blowing a whistle, one wearing a rubber mask and two with toy water machine guns? Do you know who they might be, Bill Grush, Merl Morkoetter, Bill Schible and Charlie Wilt? . . . We have found out that they are quite a few reasons (or excuses) why a person might miss a fly ball. Bill Schible missed an easy foul fly at a Daisy game because smoke got in his eyes. Better stick to the Ham League, Bill. . . . M. J. (Steve) Stevens, Bldg. 20-2, bought a house recently. In a few days a fellow came to the door with a rent receipt and asked when he could get possession of the house. Now Steve wonders if he has the right house, if the guy had the wrong house, or if someone is having fun with both of them. . . . Oscar (Sugar) Beaty will never melt, the way he has people trained. One recent rainy day Mrs. Beaty brought him to work and when he got there Kenny Habecker held an umbrella for him until he was safely inside the building. Hope we never have a tornado or everyone will have to help to get Oscar out of a storm cellar. . . . The summer sport shirts at Taylor St. are really terrific. Ralph Latham is way out in front for having the loudest. Arnold Landis accused him of getting up late and not taking off his pajama tops. After looking at Arnold's shirt he told him that at least he was wearing his P.J.'s and not his wife's. . . . Art Everett took Arnold Landis spear fishing. Neither one will admit what kind of fish they were spearing. . . . Wallace Geller has a catch in his back from planting a garden. Bet it wouldn't have bothered him near as much if he would have gotten it from sitting in a boat fishing. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bricker. A daughter was born to them last Friday. . . . Wish the boys at Taylor St. would leave the wild life out where it belongs. So far this spring I have received many gifts. A mouse, a toad, and a bat. Maybe I'm the odd ball but I appreciate flowers much more.

NICE PEOPLE WHO HELP OTHERS—It will probably be of interest to everyone that Bldg. 4-6 is blessed with its share of "Good-fellows." During the recent Boy Scout Camporee held here in Fort Wayne, a certain Scout Troop would probably not have been able to participate had it not been for the help of some very fine men; namely Herb Osborne, Leon Diegel, and Karl Fiertag. The Scoutmaster they so generously helped, will always remember their kindness and a "deed well done!" Oh Yes! The Troop won all award ribbons that were given. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Ruth Epperson on June 20, Leon Diegel on June 24, Nancy Starke on June 21, and Donnabelle Degler on June 23. THE EYES OF TEXAS are upon the marketing section with the addition of two Texan test engineers to the crew. Gene St. John, a Corpus Christi native and fresh from the University of Texas, is busy selling aircraft motors while Ivan Winsett, of Greenville, Texas and Texas A&M graduate, is new in the shaded pole motor section. . . . NEW FAD—Is it a new fad to wear mis-matched earrings? Shirley Doster spent most of one day last week wearing two different earrings. We agree it would be a boon to those gals who have lost one of a pair of lovely earrings. Were you trying to start a new fad, Shirley? Judging from the embarrassment Shirley experienced when one of her friends discovered it, we are forced to believe it was a slight error. Now Shirley is blaming her better half for not noticing it at the breakfast table. . . . WOMAN DRIVER—Norma Miller appeared at work last Monday with scratches and bruises. Norma claims she will learn to ride a motorcycle or else. I don't know if meeting a barbed wire fence in the attempt is worth it. Is it now, Norma? Next time you try it, try to hang on tighter. . . . We would like to welcome Irv Cirks to the Floor Sitters Club. He took a liking to his brand new chair and decided that in order not to get it worn out, he would occasionally call off and let it rest. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to the proud parents, Barbara and Jim Simpson, on the arrival of a daughter, Robin Dee, born at 1:25 a.m., June 15, and weighing 7 lb. 14 oz. . . . HOW-DEEDO to the two new T.E.'s in Specialty Motor Engineering. They are: Bill Hermanson, (single until June 21) on his first test. He holds a BSEME from the University of Michigan. He calls Ypsilanti, Mich. his home town. He reports to Max Barrows. And joining John Wilsey's group is Norman L. Kendt, 1953 graduate of Valparaiso University with a BSME degree. He is single and his home town is Gary, Ind.

We have a few health conscious employees, who have organized a club known as the "Sunshine Boys." Anyone interested in learning of the many hidden virtues that "Ol' Sol" possesses, such as the invigorating benefits derived from just absorbing some of the bright sun rays "Ol' Sol" sends down to earth, probably would be interested in becoming a member. They say the club offers many outstanding advantages, too numerous to mention here. So contact Howard Sauers, Louie Manz or Roscoe Grover for full details. . . . Needle Guild Candidates: Ed David displayed a beautiful wool afghan which he proudly claimed he crocheted. Ed, who seems to have quite a reputation for spinning long yarns around the shipping department, hasn't been very successful in convincing us that he spun the afghan. Ed said his feelings were hurt that anyone would doubt his word for even one minute, and that he intends to bring a ball of yarn and a crochet needle so he can actually demonstrate his crocheting ability for those who insist. Mrs. David certainly makes beautiful afghans. . . . Congratulations to Mabel Fisher who celebrated her birthday Sunday. . . . Everyone wishes a complete and speedy recovery to J. Clifford Fell. . . . It's "Farewell and Good Luck" to Genevieve Romos and Freddie Prince. Genevieve is leaving us to

George Winans

Kenny Evans says Bouncy Becker is the most prosperous man in Bldg. 22. Kenny visited the Beckers the other day and Becker was showing him his big new GE refrigerator. Kenny says it was really jammed full. . . . Paul Gruber and Dick Bodkins and their wives were at the lake the other week-end and they took a motor boat ride. As they were coming into shore Paul was poised prettily on the deck when Dick cut the motor then turned it on again wide open. Paul came within an inch of being dunked in the lake. . . . Al Mason and wife are up at their cottage at Skinner Lake and Al has been driving back and forth to work. Mrs. Mason caught a mermaid up there but she didn't know what it was so she threw it back. We think it was a mermaid, that is. Al drew up a picture of the thing and that's what it looked like to us. . . . The other morning our office girl, Mildred Messer, worked a new angle on the old drop the handkerchief gag. As she came down the street past the wolf pack she threw her pocket-book down. Only trouble was it was too early in the morning and all the old duffers were still asleep so none of them retrieved it. . . . Pat McCutcheon had a garden tractor that he never could get in high so he sold it to Johnny Sowers. Johnny had a little trouble with it at first but the other day it accidentally dropped into high for him and took off like a hot rod in a feature race. Before he got it stopped he had plowed up three neighbors' lots, tore down two fences, and trimmed a hedge. . . . Sorry, Mrs. Castle, no news about Charlie again this week.

become a full-time housewife. Freddie will attend Tri State College to study electrical engineering. . . . Caught in the Web: Two big suckers were caught in the net which was put up on the dock as a safety measure to keep workers from cutting through where trucks are being unloaded. Frank Parker and Bob Younghaus walked directly into the net. Were their faces red. . . . Ruby Flaugh was our "Arkansas Traveler" last week-end. Ruby made the journey all the way to Arkansas to attend the wedding of her niece. . . . Al McDaniels celebrated his birthday by presenting his girl friend, June Hines, with a beautiful engagement ring.

DECATURITES

Pony rides, sawdust scramble, speling bee, roller skating, quiz program, bingo. Did you ever see such entertainment all for one picnic? And prizes! There will be piles of them: balloons, pen and pencil sets, cameras, thermal guest sets, handy snack stands, picnic baskets, folding buffet trays, boat seats, toasters and mixers. Of course, no picnic is complete without food, and this item has not been overlooked. Everybody should keep July 11 open for this big event. Seb'n come leb'n. . . . Are you finding any missing letters for the picnic contest? . . . Junior Lake is sporting a nice, shiny new car, a real pretty blue one. There is one person very happy about it because the door on the old one was so "doggone heavy." For shame, Junior, three pretty members of the "weaker sex" and you didn't open the door? . . . It must be nice being such good friends as Clark Flough and Herman Keller. It seems they always tell one another when anyone says anything about the other, good or bad. The latest is Herman telling Clark how his (Clark's) dealing with "Pure Oil" gave his deep dark secret away. . . . Harvey rides again: That bucking broncho that Harvey Hileman rides around while sweetly kicked up its heels recently. Harvey wanted to go forward, but his mount decided it was going in reverse. Harvey yelled "whoa," but it said, "no"—so back they went. Results: Just a few things knocked over onto the floor. . . . We should see quite a few sunflowers blooming in and around Decatur this fall. From the amount of sunflower seed given by Bob Miller to his friends. Attention: George Buckley. Better contact some of these growers now, as sunflower seed is very nice for the birds in the winter months. The cardinal or redbird especially likes these seeds. . . . The farmer's wife really swings a wicked foot these days. Seems as though Doris Poling resented having the cow kick the calf, so Doris just kicks the cow in return. Ouch, my poor toe. Could be the cow's leg was more solid than Doris' toe. Anyway, the toe turned a very dark shade and was very sore. . . . Strawberry King: They really grow them big around his neighborhood. And how! Walt Tester says that he refused to sell a fellow a quart of strawberries the other evening, for the reason that he hated to cut a strawberry for just one quart. Just how large do those berries grow and how many quarts can you get from just one strawberry, Walt? . . . Betty Reichert has joined the ranks of new car owners. She is now driving a new Packard. You timed it just right Betty, so that you would have a new car in time for the vacation trips. . . . Sing out, now: Bring out our imaginary cake and put on the candles. Lenore Little has a birthday this week, now all together—Happy birthday, Lenore. . . . Belated greetings to Ada Owens who celebrated her birthday last week. Ada treated all the gang to candy bars. Sorry we missed you last week, Ada. We hope you had a very happy birthday anyway. . . . Doris Garboden and Edwina Stuckey are now enjoying their new apartment. Practice up on your cooking, girls, and then we will drop in for a visit. . . . Um-yum, those delicious red, ripe strawberries. Dale Johnson brought in some sample berries from his patch. It sure wouldn't take very many of those jumbo size berries to fill a quart basket. A good old-fashioned strawberry shortcake would taste mighty good about now, Dale. . . . Little Leaguers: Much enthusiasm is being shown in the Little League Baseball games and the minor league games in this first season of operation of Little League Baseball in Decatur. It would be impossible to single out any individual for exceptional recognition, but we of GE are especially proud of our fellow employees who are giving of their spare time to help our little friends. Those of you who haven't yet attended some of the games are missing the time of your life. The Little League games are being played each Tuesday and Friday evenings, while its minor league affiliate games are being played in the mornings. All games are played at Worthman Field. . . . At this writing, our golf team is still riding along in second place in the Adams County Golf League. The players who are holding up our GE prestige are: Kenny Gaunt, Johnny Bauman, Dwight Girod, Tom Haubold, and Paul Hancher. . . . Wedding Bells: Bonnie Roe and Bob Noll were married last Sunday in Fort Wayne in a very lovely ceremony. Congratulations and best wishes to you, Bonnie and Bob, we know you will be very happy. P. S. They were last seen driving northwest. . . . The second wedding of the week was that of Norma Johnson, of the office, who became the bride of Roger Gentis in a very beautiful ceremony at the United Brethren Church Sunday, June 14. Congratulations and best wishes to Norm and Rog and may you have many more years of wedded bliss.

18-3 SALES: Mary Henry is home once more from the hospital. She is recovering quite rapidly. This makes Mary's second trip into the realm of cute nurses, and handsome internes. We realize that internes are quite magnetic, Mary, but please hurry back as we all miss you! . . . At present the sales department of the hermetic section in Bldg. 18-3 looks rather deserted. Bill Abel, Don Frederickson, and John Smaxwell left our fair department to pursue their arduous tasks in Bldg. 4-6. Best of luck, fellows! . . . Lt. Commander George Wedel is now on a two-week tour of duty in the Navy. George is cruising around "somewhere on the Atlantic" in a little old aircraft carrier. Oh, for the life of a sailor. . . . Fore! Guess who has the golf fever? We won't mention any names, but her initials are Marjorie Hanley. Her instructor's name is D. S. Can golf be taking the place of square dancing in Marjorie's life? . . . ENGINEERING: Dwight Willits and Ray Lindemuth, of Bldg. 18-5, recently attended the quarterly drafting conference held at West Lynn Works. . . . It was with much regret that we said good-bye to Helen Wyss. Helen left us to take an extended trip West. Simultaneously we wish to welcome Lucille Salas into our group. Lucille was formerly in Sub-Section 14 at Taylor St. . . . We wish to welcome Ronnie McDougal as a newcomer in Dwight Willits' group. Ronnie is the youngest son of Hazel McDougal. Glad to have you with us, Ron. . . . PURCHASING: Don Bender is a welcome asset to purchasing. Being a tall man, he relieves the shortages of the strenuous task of reaching up to turn on the fans. Welcome, Don. . . . Louise Eggleston, who has also recently joined our family in the production unit office, is diligently studying Gregg's latest. Anybody need a good secretary—about six months from now? . . . By the way, the gang is going out to "Papa" Leider's house for an old-fashioned picnic next week. . . . Dick Goetz and friends have completed their plans for their trip to exotic Hawaii this summer. Sounds like a marvelous vacation with plenty to see, including the mountains, hula girls, volcanoes, hula girls, tropical flowers, hula girls, beautiful beaches, hula girls! . . . Congratulations to Marguerite Fenner. She made that final payment on her trip to Europe with the Elex. We imagine that the next few weeks will seem like months to Marguerite. . . . Welcome to Clarann Chadwick, a newcomer toiling away in Mr. Irish's office. . . . We welcome Dorothy Connor to file section in Bldg. 18-5. . . . Don Hensler is leaving reproduction for the Marines. . . . Dick Jenkins is that new boy pushing the paper around in Bldg. 18-5. . . . That new grandson in Merced, Calif., brings a big smile on grandma Hazel Rowe's face. . . . Olive Smith tried to shorten the week last Wednesday. She put her time card away. . . . Everyone sends his best wishes to Venus Fann, an appendectomy patient at St. Joseph Hospital. . . . That requiem you heard was for Janet Redding's pet cat. . . . Mr. Fowler, formerly of the data bureau, paid us a visit last week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lenz welcomed Mary Margaret last Thursday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Kline now answers to grandma and grandpa. A new grandson arrived in Louisville, Ky.

Adam Farrell, you haven't been very observant the past couple of weeks, have you? Frankly, I don't think you give a hang. . . . Joe Krider's wife wanted a cake painted. Seeing as how Joe works in the Paint Shop, he brought it in. The fellows said only on one condition. It had to have a cake in it. Mrs. Krider obliged the boys, and we also got in on the nice treat. . . . Erma Thiele has left us after several years of nice association. We'll all miss you, Erma. Come around any time. . . . All you fishermen can take a back seat. Dick Miller's youngster caught seven crappies out at Franke Park. How about that? . . . I hear Ed Marchand is quite a fisherman, too, judging from the haul he made a while back. How about a hand-out sometime, Ed.

Double Sparkle: The sparkle in Juanita Hughes' eyes is the reflection from that pretty new sparkler on the third finger, left hand. . . . JOHNNY HAPPEL visited us last week. His life of ease is certainly agreeing with him. . . . Did you guess that this sleepy-eyed fellow was Mrs. Hinsch's little boy, Georgie? . . . It just doesn't do for Louise Hayes to have a day off. She had to burn her hand. . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Mildred Reynolds, Ruth Lemert, Cecil Phillips, and Jimmie Hughes. . . . Glad to see Shirley Hershberger ringing in her clock card again. . . . Barbara Monroe has left us for a full time small garment making job. . . . On our sick list is Edith Gephart, Dorothy Ford, and Mary Foreman. Hope to see you back soon. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Barbara Dennis, who was in an auto accident. . . . Our thoughts are with our former co-worker, Florence Hawk, who is seriously ill.

Of course, it was nice for Ruth Wiedick when the window came down and broke out the glass and her umbrella. It looked like a giant toadstool. . . . We didn't know if we were having another Easter parade or a circus when we saw the final inspectors and testers all wearing bright colored shirts. Next time please warn us so we can wear our colored glasses. . . . We were sorry to hear Clarence Nahrwold's little girl Suzanne was operated on. Hurry up, Suzanne, and get well. . . . Daisy Ford brought in a beautiful birthday cake and it was delicious. Belated greetings, Daisy. . . . Lillian and Ira Shaffer are the proud grandparents of a nine pound baby boy. Grandparents and baby are doing nicely. Congratulations to the parents and grandparents. . . . Little Moe (Clyde) Satterwaithe won the senior State champion speed skating Saturday at Marion. Chester B. Smith to Head New Specialty Sub-Section

A new sub-section for the manufacture of small aircraft motors has been established in the Specialty Motor Sub-Department, Adolph J. Rose, manager of manufacturing, announced today. Chester B. Smith has been named superintendent of the organization, which is Sub-Section 2. The major part of the manufacturing facilities will be located in Bldg. 6-4.

In 1935, Mr. Smith came to the General Electric Company and entered the test engineers program at the Schenectady plant. While on the program, he worked in that location and at the Pittsfield plant prior to completing the course in 1937.

That year, Mr. Smith came to Fort Wayne and went into Fractional Horsepower Motor Engineering on design in Bldg. 4-6. He entered production methods and procedures the following year and in 1940 became supervisor of order service in Bldg. 4-6. In 1941, he held the same post in the Large Motor and Generator Department.

In 1942, after moving to Bldg. 18-4, Mr. Smith became supervisor of production methods for the Fort Wayne plant. He was named supervisor of inventory control in 1944 and was appointed assistant to the production manager in 1946.

After serving as assistant to the FHP production manager in 1947, Mr. Smith became FHP supervisor of procedures in 1948. The next year, he was appointed assistant superintendent of Sub-Section 1 and had this position at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of Iowa State College, Mr. Smith received his BSEE degree in 1934. He is a member of the AIEE, Fort Wayne Engineers Club, GE Squares, and Supervisors Club. He is an instructor in Effective Presentation.

The Smiths and their three children reside at 1145 Oakdale Dr.

GIVING THE 'GIFT OF LIFE'

New GE Blood Donor Program Gets Under Way This Week

A reorganized Red Cross blood donor program began here this week, Kenneth W. Michael, manager of plant community relations, announced today.

Under the new set up, the quota for GE employees is 27 pints per week. Employees who have donor cards on file will be called to select a convenient time to donate blood at the Red Cross Chapter house, 406 W. Berry St. Times set aside for GE donors are Tuesdays from 9:30 a.m. until 12:45 p.m. and Thursdays from 3 until 6:45 p.m.

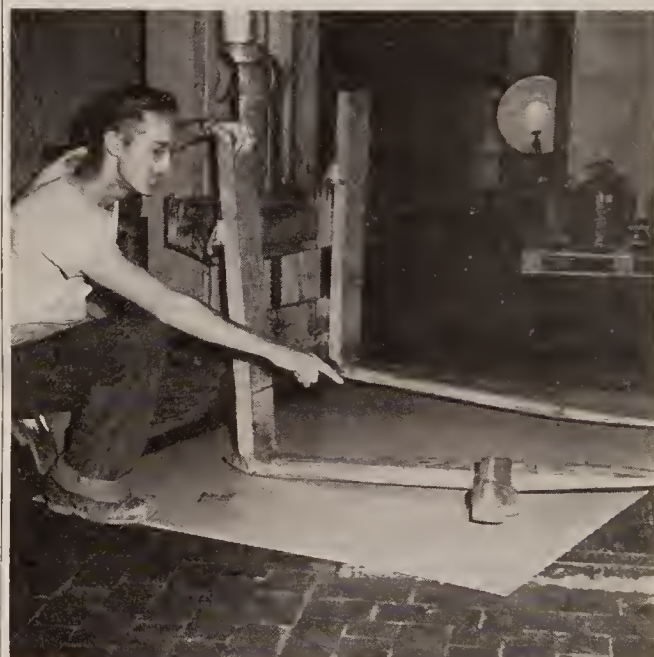

Three employees, Lois Miller and Lillian Sainz, both of Bldg. 18-1, and Marybelle Armstrong, Bldg. 16-3, will contact donors. Those who have cards on file that need to be brought up to date should contact Miss Miller on ext. 454.

Any employees who have not signed donor cards and wish to do so may join this program by contacting Miss Miller.

Those who wish to join this program may fill in the blank printed on page 4 and send it to Miss Miller, Bldg. 18-1.

Employees should not contact the Red Cross Fort Wayne Chapter to make pledges, but are asked to do so through the plant-wide program.

Qualified to donate blood are persons less than 60 years old and in good health. If an individual is less than 21 years of age, he must have the consent of his parents or guardian. Persons may donate every eight weeks.

Elex Club, Vets Announce Change In Social Hours

A change of time for the 1953 Ice Cream Social sponsored by Elex Club and the GE War Veterans Association Thursday, July 9, has been announced by the officers of the two organizations.

The social will open at 3:30 p.m. and close at 9 p.m. McCulloch Park is the site of the annual event. Booths selling cake, ice cream, hot dogs, coffee, and soft drinks will be featured. Partizan Chapter of Elex will sponsor a fish pond booth.

All proceeds from the social will be used to send boxes to GE employees now in the Armed Forces.

Contact men and women of both organizations will have tickets, which are 10 cents each, to sell, or tickets may be purchased at the event.

This marks the first year that the Veterans organization has joined with Elex in conducting the event.

Quarter Century Club Announces Outing Arrangements Committee

Committee chairmen in charge of arrangements for the Quarter Century Club outing Saturday, September 12, were announced today by Wallace E. Beer, president.

The committee, which met Thursday, June 18, to plan for the outing, are: Ed C. Reese, Bldg. 31-1, grounds and reservations; Harry Zimmerman, retired, food and playing cards; Joe A. Henry, Taylor St., sports. Mamie Allen, Bldg. 4-5, women's activities and prizes; Gordon L. Smith, Taylor St., entertainment; Alma Witte, Taylor St., attendance prizes.

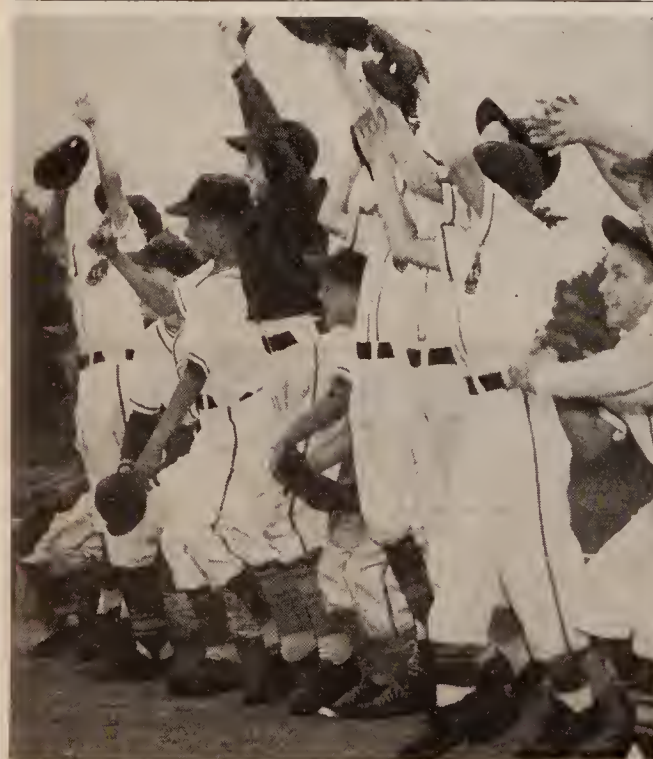

Carl Hattendorf, Bldg. 17-4, refreshments; Kenneth Redding, Taylor St., transportation; Carl V. Bobay, Taylor St., public address system.

John Lare, Bldg. 20-1, grounds equipment and facilities; Bernie English, Bldg. 6-1½, music, orchestra; Leon C. Swager, Bldg. 18-2, management program.

Ray Lindemuth, Bldg. 18-5, invitations; Ford C. Zimmer, Bldg. 18-5, publicity.

The annual event for all employees and retired employees who are QC members will take place at the Fort Wayne Municipal Beach, just east of the War Memorial Coliseum.

WHAT'S THE SHOUTING ABOUT—It's the opening of another season of Little and PONY League baseball. See feature story, pages 6 and 7.

We Can Take Care of Peace, Too

Nothing strikes dread into the hearts of any nation more than the prospect of war. Youngsters have to fight it and risk death or maiming. Their parents have to sit home and wait—and hope.

War wastes the lives of our best product—our youth. It wastes steel, oil, precious resources of all kinds; it wastes our savings and our efforts to provide for the future.

Yet there are people who would have us be afraid of peace.

This fear seems, at first glance, to have some reason behind it. A good many plants, a great deal of money, are being devoted to production for military purposes. What would happen if a truce comes in Korea and the need for immediate arming for defense could be scaled down?

We don't say that a change in emphasis on production—if it came—would not bring with it some readjustment; some temporary shifts in job and production.

But at the same time, we can look back to the years that followed the end of World War II. In that war, practically all of our facilities were given over to war production. Economic experts in government were quite sure that the return to civilian production would mean a recession and unemployment.

The dark predictions of these experts did not come true. Americans were glad to have a bad job over with and turned to peacetime production with a vitality and will that astounded the world and confused the pessimists.

There were people who needed things—people willing to work for them—others able to invent and devise products that would give jobs to thousands and create demand by consumers.

There was no "peace recession" after World War II. On the contrary, jobs reached new peaks; so did production, earnings and savings.

If the really sharp change from all-out war to what we thought would be all-out peace after World War II did not produce an economic recession, why should there be any pessimism now about the possibility of gradually-reduced armament expenditures?

Industrial surveys show that there are thousands of companies ready to bring out new products when the availability of materials and a lessening of the burden of taxation make it possible. There is no lack of work to be done in the world; no lack of new things the public will want and will work for and buy.

Electronics, air-conditioning, plastics, better housing and roads—these are only a few of the fields in which more jobs and more goods are waiting only for the opportunity that will come when the American people can use their energies and their money and time for peacetime uses instead of for war and defense.

If there is any fly in the ointment, it does not represent the realism of America's capacity to produce, to invent, to work and to keep things humming generally, but the midge of pessimism can spoil things out of all proportion to its size.

Are we afraid of peace? To pose the question is to ask if we are worried about spending our working hours and our money on automobiles instead of tanks, on TV sets instead of guns, on tropical suits instead of uniforms.

Let's remember that the only money the government has to spend our money. Being afraid of peace is something like being afraid you'll have to spend your own money and work for yourself, for a change.

WHERE'S MY SHARE OF THAT SUGGESTION MONEY?

The latest thing in a new "coiffeur" is a close shave worn by Floyd Brown. Brownie even received a cute little hair ribbon from an anonymous observer, so he can tie his hair back. . . . Joe Rykowski took a big load of steel to Bldg. 6-1 basement and then he checked the delivery tag. Said Joe, (and I quote) "My, my, this steel should be delivered to Bldg. 1. I hope I can sneak through Bldg. 6, so the boys don't see me." . . . If you see George Michel with a string tied around his finger you'll know it's only to remind him not to forget to bring his lunch to work with him. . . . We thought Al McDaniels was doing a lively version of the "Mexican Hat Dance" when he ran through the office, waving a large straw hat, and jumping over the desks. But when we saw Bob Younghaus and Heiny Brueggeman following on Al's heels, we knew it wasn't part of the act. They were threatening to light the fringe on his hat with a cigarette lighter. . . . We are trying to contact Harold Stirlen, Ed David's next door neighbor at Lake Waldron, and a fellow GE worker, to find out if it is actually true that Ed built a garage and then was unable to get his cement mixer out of the door.

It's pretty lonesome this week with Bldg. 22's two noisiest characters (Charlie Castle and Ralph Garrett) up in Wisconsin for their annual fishing trip. We hope they catch a lot of fish, but judging by all the bluegills that Erv France caught up there a couple of weeks ago there may not be any left. . . . MILDRED MESSER and family are settled for the summer. They have their old Greyhound bus parked on Cain Lake at Rome City. Loon Lake's loss is Cain Lake's gain. . . . LUCKY GUY: Adam Farrell is all set for the summer with a shiny new Chevrolet. . . . Summer is officially here now, as the boys have all moved their seats outside so they can oggle the girls as they go by. Ferroll (Cupid) Hill is equipped for the season with a set of sun glasses. We might add he looks mighty distinguished, too. . . . OPEN HOUSE: Dick Bodkins, our inspector, has a new private office complete with desk, chair, telephone, flowers, and a picture of Whistler's Mother. He held open house the other Friday and had many visitors. Someone smeared some grease on the drawer handles to make them work easier. Dick wasn't the one who was surprised. Bill Hale came over to wish him well and just couldn't resist looking into the drawers. Oh well, it will wear off in time, Bill. . . . CHARLIE MOWERY had quite a scare Wednesday when he lost his check. After looking all over the building for it, he found it in his pocket. . . . Red Juergens has the best TV reception in the Fort Wayne area. Absolutely no snow at all. The secret? Simple. He's using his wife's aluminum ironing board for an antenna. Later on he'll just point one leg towards Waterloo and one towards Fort Wayne and he's all set for UHF.

Old Ed Englert had a farm, Ei, Ei, O. And on this farm he had four-legged ducks, Ei, Ei, O. . . . We wish at this time to welcome Mr. John Miller to the test in the east end of Bldg. 26-4. . . . Congratulations to Johnny Mueller and wife on the arrival of their new nine-pound boy! . . . It has been brought to our attention that "Golden Boy" Hyser is in the repair section now. . . . Happy days at the Mennewisch domicile. Rollic buys a 15-cent can of gas and wins a Zenith TV. Congratulations, Rollic! . . . Tom Freeman is now getting his sun-tan at the lake instead of a sun lamp. Tom, at long last, spent a week-end at the lake with his wife. . . . Our star production man, Raymond Feller, in a recent trip to his lake with a trailer load of bed blankets, etc., ran into a rain storm. Thinking fast, as usual, Ray quickly loaded the blankets in the car and made the family ride in the trailer. Fast work, Ray! . . . The sun now takes a back seat for Dutch Norwalt's very red face. Dutch made several untimely remarks to Dock Gordon, only to find he was talking to Dock's twin brother. Better get new bifocals, Dutch!

Two Appointed Foremen In Large M-G Department

Two Large Motor and Generator employees have been appointed foremen in the manufacturing section, Kenneth D. Strong, superintendent of the shop, revealed this week.

James F. Kocher is a foreman on third shift and Joseph E. Kramer is a foreman in Bldg. 12-3 with responsibility for insulation.

In 1923, Mr. Kocher came to the Fort Wayne plant and entered the Apprentice School. After graduation in 1927, he entered tool drafting in Bldg. 16-3. When he moved to Bldg. 4-4 in 1930, he worked in mechanical inspection. In 1939, he entered Large M-G design drafting and later went into tool planning.

Mr. Kocher transferred to plant engineering in 1950. That same year he returned to Large M-G tool planning and the following year became equipment planner in the department. This was his position at the time of his present appointment. He is a member of the Fort Wayne Engineers Club, Indiana Engineering Council, and the Apprentice Alumni Association.

The Kochers and their two sons live at 2521 Hubertus Ave.

Also an Apprentice School graduate, Mr. Kramer came to GE in 1929 and entered the school. After graduation from the machinist-toolmaker course in 1934, he went into material listing, Bldg. 18-5.

In 1939, Mr. Kramer went to Bldg. 12-B as a machine operator in the insulation office. He entered planning the following year in the same section. Prior to his present appointment, he was foreman of the mica section.

Mr. Kramer is a member of the Foremen's Association and the Apprentice Alumni Association. The Kramers, who have six children, reside at 2610 Brooklyn Ave.

THANK YOU!

Mr. E. A. Barnes extended his thanks this week for all the cards and best wishes he received from employees and friends last week on his 88th birthday.

Mr. Barnes said he was very grateful to be remembered by so many of his friends, former associates, and representatives of GE organizations.

Squares Name Committee Chairmen for 1953, 1954

Eleven chairmen of committees in the GE Squares Club were announced this week by Donald C. Reek, Bldg. 4-6, president.

The men who were selected by the board of directors are: John W. Taylor, Bldg. 4-6, house; Harold W. Fisher, Bldg. 26-2, membership; Stan J. Antal, Bldg. 26-2, contact; and Robert W. Ritchey, Bldg. 4-6, test engineer contact.

Others are: Frank Ondrovik, Bldg. 26-2, new house; Dean Burgemeister, Taylor St., athletic; Ralph Huwe, Bldg. 26-2, bar; Robert G. Rescorla, Bldg. 16-3, publicity; Frank H. Fleischer, Bldg. 18-3, nominating; John C. Willsey, Bldg. 4-6, by-laws; and Joseph P. Coughlin, Bldg. 26-2, social.

Mr. Coughlin has named the following committee to assist him with the various events during the 1953-54 year: David W. Day, Bldg. 26-2, dance; James H. Capps, Taylor St., stag; and Robert K. Drake, Bldg. 28-2, mixed parties.

The first event on the organization's summer schedule is the golf tournament, which is slated to be conducted in July.

Johnson Appointed To Large M-G Cost Reduction Position

Thetus J. Johnson

Announcement of the appointment of Thetus J. Johnson as cost reduction specialist in the Large Motor and Generator Department was made by Richard J. Watkins, supervisor of administrative practices.

At the time Mr. Johnson became a GE employee in 1929, he went to Bldg. 4-1 stacking stator irons. Moving to Bldg. 4-2 in 1930, he was a punch press operator, set-up man, and then went to the bearing section.

In 1940, Mr. Johnson transferred to Winter St., where he was subsequently a general machine operator, foreman in the machine shop, and general foreman of the second shift.

Entering Large M-G in 1952, Mr. Johnson was named a foreman in the light machining-milling and bearings section. He was on this job prior to his present assignment. He is a member of the Foremen's Association.

The Johnsons, who have one son, live at 3217 Lafayette St.

TOP SPEAKERS—In the 1953 spring class of Effective Presentation are (l-r): William A. Garvey, Winter St.; J. Emmett Mills, Bldg. 4-6, and Robert E. Kallmeyer, Bldg. 4-6. Mr. Garvey took top honors at the concluding banquet of the session last week. Mr. Mills placed third and Mr. Kallmeyer was second place winner.

Garvey, Richards Take Top Effective Presentation Honors

William A. Garvey, Winter St., and Francis L. Richards, Bldg. 16-3, are first place winners in the 1953 spring class of Effective Presentation. At the concluding session last week, Mr. Garvey won top honors in the speaking division with his entry entitled "National Resources." The winning paper, written by Mr. Richards, was "Attention Industry."

The 57 entrants in the class, instructors, and judges convened at the Van Orman Hotel Thursday, July 18, at a banquet to hear the six finalists in the speaking division. Second and third place speech winners are Robert E. Kallmeyer and J. Emmett Mills, both of Bldg. 4-6. Other finalists are: Charles H. Penn, Taylor St.; Fenton E. West, Bldg. 31-1; and W. C. Hopkins, Tiffin plant.

Judges of the oral and written presentations were Ab Martin, Bldg. 18-3, chairman; Richard M. Hartigan, Bldg. 31-2, and Frank Ondrovik, Bldg. 26-2.

Eugene C. Pauley, Bldg. 31-2, was toastmaster and the following committee was in charge of arrangements for the banquet: Charles E. Mereness, Gaylord P. Morris, Francis L. Richards, and Michael M. Brayer.

The banquet concluded a 32-hour course lasting 16 weeks.

Complete Course

Four Specialty Transformer and Ballast engineers have completed work in a Purdue University Extension graduate course, Automatic Control Mechanism. They are John Popa, Emerson G. Downie, Ralph A. Huwe, and Ray E. Anderson, all of Bldg. 26-2.

HIS GE ANNIVERSARY—William C. Moellering (center) totaled 30 years with the Company June 12. He is shown on the occasion receiving best wishes from Ira Aughpurger (left) and John Cramer. Mr. Moellering was employed in Bldg. 19-5 when he joined General Electric. He now works in GAC Sub-Section 13 at Taylor St.

Robert J. Shirey

Robert J. Shirey Appointed GAC Cost Supervisor

Appointment of Robert J. Shirey as supervisor of cost in General AC Motor Wire Sub-Section 30 has been announced by F. A. Arnold, superintendent and engineer of the sub-section.

In 1935, Mr. Shirey joined the company and was a messenger. Two years later, he became a production order clerk in Bldg. 4-6. He entered the U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps in 1941 and after serving in the Mediterranean Theater for two years was discharged in 1945.

Returning to the company, he became a raw material clerk in Sub-Section 13 and subsequently held positions as cost clerk, a leader in cost, cost analyst in the same location. After entering the Fractional Horsepower Motor financial section in 1951, he became profit and loss analyst and had this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. Shirey completed the higher accountancy course with LaSalle University Extension and attended Indiana University Extension four years majoring in accounting subjects. In 1950, he completed a three-month GE course in economics.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirey and their two children reside at 4218 Bowser Ave.

Dr. Baker Voted Man of the Year By Radio, TV Managers Association

Dr. W. R. G. Baker, GE vice president and general manager of the Electronics Division was awarded the 1953 Medal of Honor by the Radio & Television Mgrs. Association for his outstanding contribution to the radio-television electronics industry.

Dr. Baker was presented the Medal of Honor during the association's industry banquet Thursday evening June 18th which climaxed the 29th annual convention of the RTMA in Chicago.

In recognition of the occasion GE brought Fred Waring and 60 of the Pennsylvanians to the convention headquarters in Chicago where they presented a very enthusiastically received concert before the convention banquet at which the award was made. In traditional Waring style the concert program included music for every taste from popular to classical and from folk songs to spiritual arrangements.

The award was presented to Dr. Baker by RTMA president and board chairman A. D. Plamondon, Jr., of Chicago. The honor is bestowed annually to the person or organization which has, in the opinion of RTMA, contributed most to the advancement of the industry and is made by the RTMA director in behalf of the association members.

After pointing out that the RTMA award committee had no difficulty in coming to a decision, Mr. Plamondon declared "the timing of this award is fortunate in that Dr. Baker is now at the zenith of his career in industry leadership. I refer to the fact that he is chairman of the National TV System Committee, which is about to complete development of the proposed standard for a compatible color television system."

"Dr. Baker has received many awards in his 30-odd years in the radio and television electronic industry. But I am sure he will recognize the RTMA Medal of Honor as being the highest tribute that his colleagues can bestow on him—a single honor from the men best able to assess his achievement."

"It is for his service to our industry and the public," Mr. Plamondon said, "that we in RTMA wish to honor him tonight. Dr. Baker is an outstanding example of an executive of big business who has made free of his time and talent for the benefit of all, especially the small manufacturer."

Accepting the honor Dr. Baker offered his congratulations to the "thousands of engineers, scientists and businessmen who have created the fastest growing, most dynamic industry existing in the world today," and pointed out that "in six short years we have brought television out of the laboratories and into 23 million homes as a dependable product that furnishes a wealth of entertainment and information."

will star in the opening show of the series titled, "Ride the River," a western adventure with a surprise ending, Sunday night, June 28th.

Others in the cast are Skippy Homeier, Virginia Gregg, Helene Stanley, Neville Brand, Francis McDonald and Will Wright.

General Electric Company, sponsor of the program, plans to present 13 of these dramatic plays this summer based on a wide variety of themes. Fred Waring is scheduled to return Sept. 28.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY—Jesse W. Haffner (center), stockkeeper in Bldg. 4-5, reminisces about his 30 years at General Electric with William Henninger (left) and Henry Reidenbach. Mr. Haffner did clerical work in Bldg. 4-4 when he first came to GE in 1923.

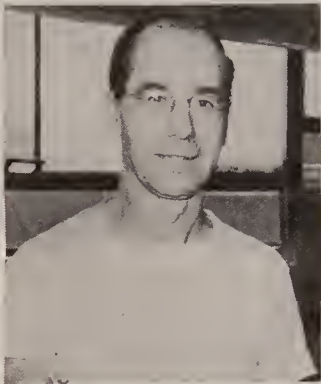

FOND MEMORIES—Mrs. Georgia Garrett shows the memory book presented her at retirement last week to her husband (left) and I. E. Ross. Mrs. Garrett first came to GE in 1918 as a draftsman in Bldg. 18-5. She was a drafting detailer in Bldg. 4-6 before retirement.

The Carl Noland family finally made the grade. A baby girl, Fay Elizabeth, was born on June 12. Mother and daughter are doing fine. So are the proud grandparents, Albert and Dorothy Camp-ton. Al works in Bldg. 26-1 and Dorothy works on our floor. The father, if you remember, is Carl Noland. Carl used to work in the packing section. He is now serving with the Armed Forces in Germany. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Frenchy Chicote! He recently celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary. . . . Farewell to Bill Borden, who left us to return to his home state of Alabama. Bill will be working for the T.V.A. in Stevens, Ala., which is close to his home in Cherokee. . . . Lucky Lee Knapp recently took a weeks' vacation. The vacation season must be in for Al Rieman's men. . . . Gertrude Kummerant has been proudly displaying a hand bound book that was written and illustrated by her cousin who lives in Switzerland. Only 100 copies were printed. The book, entitled "Ethiopia", was written by Helmut Knorr and has been printed in English, German, Italian, and Spanish.

WHAT GENERAL ELECTRIC PRODUCT HAS CONTRIBUTED THE MOST TO THE LAST 75 YEARS OF PROGRESS IN BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY?

"The high speed steam turbine that replaced the reciprocating engine for generator power made for lower operational power, resulting in cheaper electrical and manufacturing cost to business and industry."

ALICE M. BROCKMEYER
Bldg. 2-2

"I would say the lighting system has contributed the most to business and industrial progress in the last 75 years. Along with this, the larger and better motors and generators which supply more electrical power are outstanding in this period also."

WALTER H. BUESKING
Winter St.

"It is my opinion that the incandescent light has contributed as much to progress as any other single item. This enables people to work in shifts around the clock. It increases production and reduces prices so that everyone is able to enjoy the conveniences of living now which were available only to the rich class before."

VERL H. OHMART
Bldg. 26-2

"I would say the light bulb with all its developments make it essential to business and industry."

ANNA R. MURPHY
Taylor St.

"I believe the light bulb has contributed the most to the last 75 years of progress. Its importance was great enough years ago that the General Electric was called 'The Lights' because of its production of this product."

It was rather warm, but everyone did his best to keep cool and help Mary Clark celebrate her marriage to Gerald Johnson. The reception, held at Gerke's Barn, was highlighted with a square dance, with music furnished by the Rhythm Rascals. TEAM PLAY PAYS OFF!

Little and Pony Leagues Help Build Better Ball Players, Better Citizens

MAN BEHIND THE BOY—in Little and PONY League ball is the coach, whose volunteer efforts build good citizenship among today's boys.

GIVE A BOY A BAT—and show him how to use it, as Little League coach, Irv Huth, Bldg. 20-2, does with Dick Snyder, as Roger Head and Chuck Wilt watch.

Building good citizens and Americans by providing good foundations for today's youth is a task set up for managers and coaches of Little and PONY League baseball teams throughout the country.

Through their volunteer efforts, the managers and coaches of GE's teams in the two leagues teach the boys fair play, discipline, team work, self respect, and competition.

At the same time, tomorrow's adults are enjoying themselves at play in this national favorite pastime and securing a strong background of baseball knowledge.

Specifically keyed to the two age groups, the two leagues are well organized to provide a game equal with the boys' abilities.

Behind every headline of Little and PONY League stories is a large amount of work on the part of managers and coaches. But the most important story is the unrecorded one of the number of boys that are being groomed for adulthood by these men.

THE VOLUNTEERS—in these leagues are the coaches and managers who give their spare evenings and Saturdays to training the boys and then go to the games to watch the results of their training as PONY League coaching staff above. They are (l-r): Bob McClelland, manager Sam Macy, Bldg. 26-4; Warren Wyckoff, Bldg. 26-4, and Ed Mosley, Bldg. 12-B.

TIME FOR BASEBALL—As soon as a boy grabs a bat and ball and heads for the fellows on the corner lot, you know the season has arrived. In Little and PONY Leagues, the boys get the same thrill and enjoyment of the sport under constructive guidance.

PROTECT OUR NATION'S YOUTH—the slogan from which PONY League gets its name is carried out in part by providing protective headgear, which manager Sam Macy, Bldg. 26-4, adjusts on Jerry Kramer as David Lang and John Reese watch.

WORTHWHILE PROOF—to coaches that their effort is well spent is the enthusiasm with which the boys attend practice sessions, participate in games, and cheer on their teammates.

30-YEAR SMILE—June 16 was a day for smiles in Bldg. 4-5, as William J. Vachon, Jr. (right) celebrated his 30th GE anniversary. Willis Dillman and Pat O'Brien congratulate him on behalf of his co-workers. Mr. Vachon was a messenger in Bldg. 4-4 when he came to GE. He is now an inspector in Bldg. 4-5.

Don't forget—Seb'n come leb'n! If you have not already marked July 11 on your calendar, do so right now. A big picnic like this is too good to pass up. A big time is in store for the whole family. . . . Have you been looking for missing letters? There is a radio to be given away. . . . Jim Harkless is not as good a ball player as he is at his job stamping stators on the 7-50 line. He suffered a broken finger while playing ball one day recently. Tough luck, Jim, hope you will soon be back with us. . . . HE WAS SO TIRED. Ralph Roop and wife are taking a week's vacation at the lake. Yes, they intend to do a lot of fishing but we wonder. So much to do before they could leave home. Bet they were almost too tired to even fish. Hope you return to work well rested and can prove that you caught plenty of fish. . . . WEDDING BELLS were ringing in June, even 30 years ago. So, we extend our congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Eady, who recently celebrated their 30th anniversary. That sporty looking shirt worn by Francis last week was "in honor of that occasion," or so said Francis. . . . ANOTHER DISAPPOINTMENT? Erman Johnson thought that at least the Welcome Wagon would call on him an honor his birthday. It was his 16th birthday too, but no one knew about his birthday until he told it. Sorry Erman, but we do wish you many more birthdays and may they be happy ones. . . . We have been informed that one of our well-known employees is very much disappointed. It seems we never mentioned his name in the GE NEWS when he returned to work after his stay in the hospital. Well here it is, and we are glad to welcome Clem Snell back to the job again. Are we forgiven, Clem? . . . Who is the fellow who has a new theme song? Could there be a good story connected with the song. The tune sounds a lot like the once popular "Good Night Irene" plus other well known tunes. Some melody. . . . HELLO to Alice Durbin, who left the second trick to become a day time worker. . . . MORE BELATED BIRTHDAY WISHES. Our greetings may be late but we hope that you all had a very nice birthday; Virginia Diehl and Lenore Little treated with candy and Virginia Raudenbush provided cookies for the gang.

The supervisors of Sections 1 and 2 and their wives had their annual picnic at the R. L. Spitler's last Saturday. Castor's "Never Sweats" were defeated for the first time in three years by the Jacobs' two-inning Specials by a score of 10-4. Cannon-Ball Smith came through with a homer again. Merle Keesler and Bill Charleston were seen wrestling in the hammock. It was a draw. Mardo Tobias has a pair of hobbyjeans for sale. Never again, says Mardo. Bob Spitler and son were running the scooter-bike concession. Everett Lindeman was the last to leave the party. When last seen, he was riding the bike up and down the highway. Elmer Robbins, Mrs. Castor and Mrs. Parent won the attendance prizes. The swimming, they said, was excellent. . . . Ginny Burkett has a new sister-in-law as of last Friday. She was just a 7-lb. 10-oz. little girl, who answers to the name of Debbie Jean. . . . Tillie Hautch spent last week at Lake George. . . . Barbara Smith will accept all the scrap iron anyone has on hand, as they told her at the blood center that she needed iron in her blood. . . . John Figley is going fishing up in Michigan where they catch those 3-lb. bluegills. . . . Ginny and Vern Burkett will celebrate their first wedding anniversary Saturday. . . . A job well done last week when Section 1x10 showed they had a heart with a gift of money for Mike Romary, son of Buss, for their proposed trip to the hospital at Denver, Colo., for some treatments for his leg which was crippled by polio. . . . Harry Kaehr had a hard time last week. The machine was throwing grease on the handles, water was running over the edge of the table down into his lap, and the oil began to smoke on the drills. Just one of those days, Harry. . . . Ed Kirschner had a big surprise the other day when all he got was the stick on the ice cream bar and it cost him 10 cents. Better days are coming, Ed. . . . Abe Reichter has a new style as far as pants are concerned. He likes his down around his knees. He has some help sometimes to keep them there. . . . Virginia Reckeweg surprised us all when she told us she had been married since June 6. We still offer our congratulations. . . . Arnold Lower must have thought he could help the fans move faster when he blew

. . . GREETINGS ALSO to Marcile Trisel, who celebrated her birthday last Friday by treating the gang with candy. . . . Yep, even the men have birthdays in June. We hear that Tibi Gehrig will celebrate his on June 27, while Soby Lord will wait until the last day of the month for his. Happy birthday, fellows. . . . The annual clam bake of the Foremen and Supervisors Club was an event of Saturday, June 20 at Russ Owens' cottage on Lake Wawasee. Reports indicate many of those attending spent a good deal of time fishing or playing cards. There were no winners reported and only one fish hooked and it got away. However, judging from the amount of food consumed, and the number of sunburns received, the party was very much a success.

Sun and Studebaker Down GE Golfers in South Bend

by Earl Stauffer

The Studebaker AC and the Notre Dame links were just a mite too tough for the 16 GE golfers who traveled the 90 miles to South Bend last Sunday. The final outcome was 35½ to 12½.

The sun-drenched bone-dry 18-hole layout with its tricky greens and nasty sand traps was more than a match for the GE lads, not to mention the keyed-up competition.

Warren Wickliffe and Walt Sunier kept all of the day's honors from remaining in South Bend. Warren was the only GE entry to gain a three-point win over his opponent by shooting a 74 (38-36). Walt, after a very long dry spell, won over his rival of many years, W. E. Holmes, by the score of two to one. Sunier carded an 84 (39-45) and Holmes shot an 87 (44-43). Walt commented that a sandstorm ruined his game on the back nine.

John Green of Studebaker playing against the old Redhead Braden was the day's medalist with a 71. Red came in with a 79.

Ray Hills tied up with another Auto maker opponent who was plenty tough. Jim Shaw fired a 72 against Ray's 78.

Match Notes

We understand that everybody between South Bend and Fort Wayne knows that Benny Penkul won two golf balls. . . . The marble orchard that bordered the links to the south had its spooks scared stiff by hooked tee shots by Herb Koch and Tony Wichman. . . . Did you ever four-putt a green? Well I did.

GE Little Leaguers Open Season; Win 2, Lose 1

GE Club Wins No. 5 and 6 To Lead Owl Softball Pack

Getting off to a fast start, Little Leaguers on the GE team started their 1953 season with two wins and one loss in the first week's schedule of games.

Opening play in the Hamilton Park League Monday, June 15, saw GE's boys defeat the Inca team, 7 to 6. Sewing up the game in the second inning, the winners scored 6 runs on 5 hits. Hoppe, Schenherr, and Head had doubles in the inning. Ed Roesener was on mound duty until the middle of the fifth, when Snyder relieved him.

Returning to the diamond Thursday, June 18, The GE'ers clashed with Allen Dairy and rang up a victory to the tune of 10 to 1. The teams were evenly matched until the fifth inning when AD changed pitchers and the little boys from GE lowered the boom on the opponent's pitcher Schim-mele and scored 7 runs in that inning. GE's Phil Schuman was the winning pitcher and also helped the cause by hitting a homer over center field fence with one man on.

At the Monday, June 22, meet with Patterson-Fletcher, the little boys lost 3 to 1. The line score for the victors was 3 runs, 5 hits, and 2 errors, while GE had 1 run, 5 hits, and 1 error. Snyder was GE's pitcher and Lewis got the win for PF.

"I'll never forget the day I played an entire hole with just one ball!"

The GE Owls are leading the pack without a loss in the YMCA Softball League. They won games No. 5 and 6 this week with one more game to go in the first half.

Wednesday morning, the GE Club team handed Eckrich a 14 to 0 loss. It looked like a tight game up to the fourth inning when GE really opened up on the boys from Eckrich.

GE went scoreless until the top of the third, when Baker hit a single and stole second. He was helped into home on a hit by Boyce to make it 1 to 0. Kurtz, who pitched for Eckrich, had things looking tough for the Owls.

In the fourth inning the roof fell in for Eckrich, as GE scored six runs with Baker, Etter, and Blodgett each getting a single, while Schere and Blessing each got a double. They were helped along by two Eckrich errors and three walks given up by Kurtz. It made the score 7 to 0.

Ron Blodgett gave up one hit in his four innings on the mound for GE Club, and was relieved in the fifth by Paul Billman, who repeated the performance by allowing only one hit in the remainder of the game.

The fifth inning paid off for the Club to the tune of 5 runs with short stop Harold Baker getting a home run.

The scoring in the sixth was taken care of by Somers, the Owl catcher, who hit a homer with the final run being scored in the seventh when Blauvelt hit a double and was brought in on a hit by Ray Schere to make it 14 to 0.

Game No. 6 was played Friday morning with Salisbury. This was a rematch due to the layoff and cancellation of the May 27 game.

Paul Billman shut out Salisbury by pitching a one-hit ball game. The Owls took this one by the score of 6 to 0.

GE scored a run in the third inning on a hit by Billman who scored when Harold Somers, the Club's catcher, slapped a double into center field.

Bob Taylor got a double in the fourth and scored when Etter brought him in on a single.

With Etter on first, Jim Blessing was given a base on balls, and pitcher Billman helped his own cause by bringing them both in when he hit a double into right field, to make it 4 to 0.

GE scored the final two runs in the sixth as Schere and Baker scored on a Salisbury error when Somers hit into short left field, to make the final score 6 to 0.

GE PONY LEAGUE ENTRY FIRST HALF

GE's team meets the following teams in the remainder of the first half of league play:

Monday, June 29, Security Cartage.

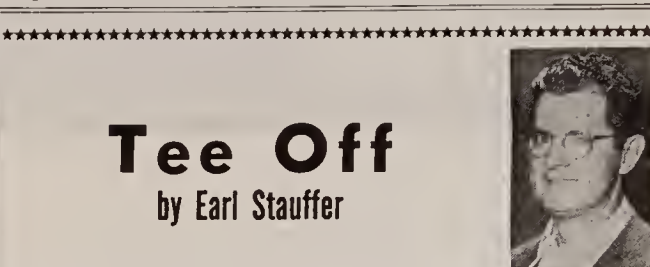

Wednesday, July 1, Transport Motor.

Monday, July 6, Adams Indians.

Thursday, July 9, Security Cartage.

Monday, July 13, Allen Dairy.

Tee Off by Earl Stauffer

The old-timers say that during "Dog Days" anything can happen and usually does. The same applies in the GE Golf leagues. Two league leaders of a week ago, who had what they thought was a comfortable margin, and one who was treading on thin ice, saw themselves pushed rudely out of the cat bird seat.

Only the Pros, of the Monday Evening League, and the Putters, of the Monday afternoon group, held the top spots. The Putters' lead is a skimpy three points, while the Pros are 24 tallies better than their nearest rivals.

Old Pro Bill Wickliffe, of the Monday Evening Pros, gave all the youngsters a lesson in carding an even par 36 for the week's low.

Monday Afternoon League
Benny Penkul's Wire Mill team knocked the league leading Putters off their high horse, beating them by seven points. Ray Hills carded a 38 to lead the way. (Benny, by the way, didn't play.) Willie Adams and Tony Wichman shot 40's toward a losing cause. Boedeckers' High Balls eked out a one-pointer over Financials with the help of Paul LeCoque's 39. Seven points were picked up by Transformer over the Divoteers.

Monday Evening League
The Rovers are the toast of this league because they held the high-flying Pros even. Bill Wickliffe needed the 36 to save his team the chagrin of defeat by the fifth place team. Last week's cellar dwelling Lost Balls didn't like the surroundings on the bottom so they slapped a 21-point pasting on the third place Dark Horses. The loss dropped Dark Horses into the basement. The Rough Riders moved up into the vacated third spot with a 14-point win over the Turf Toppers in a mild upset.

Tuesday Evening League
The Optimists took the Red-heads into camp to the tune of nine points and thereby took over first place in the league standings. The pace setters of last week, the Gas House Tigers, were clipped by five points. The clipping was administered by Jack Jennings' Divot Diggers. Bill Rutledge's band of Forty Niners took no pity on the last place Dubs in lacing them by 18 points.

Burgemeister, of the 49'ers; Kayser, of the 19th Holers, and Uhrick, of the Optimists, shared low ball honors with 40's.

RACONTEUR

SUB-SECTION 14 TAYLOR ST.

Mary Whitelock

Section 14 Office welcomes Barbara Murray and Erwin Hattendorf to the Production Department. Barbara was married just a few weeks ago and her tall, dark and handsome husband works in the Taylor St. Lab. Erwin worked in Section 17 at one time and has lots of friends there who will be glad to know he is back at GE again. . . . Congratulations to Carl Kloepper, who is now in the Grandfathers Club. Her name is Rebecca Anne, 8½ pounds and she looks just like Gramps—yung!

. . . Outdoor Lovers: Kathleen Jencks and her husband are poaching along the rivers in and around our fair city. They take a canoe trip almost every nice week-end and somewhere they have a grub-stake on an unsuspecting farmer's land. They planted cucumbers and radishes but, so far, haven't reaped much because the muskrats beat them to it. Sometimes you can't even lay up a radish, eh, Kathleen? . . . Anna Ruth Clements and Dorothy Money were going through the guard house past the glassed wall next to the parking lot, when they noticed the windows had been removed. "I wonder why they did that," wondered Dorothy. "Oh," said Anna Ruth, absent-mindedly, "They're probably going to put in screens."

. . . 45-Year Man: Otto Dobler celebrated 45 years with the Company last week. On hand to congratulate him were L. W. Kuttner, N. S. Tilman, James Oman and Lisle Hodell. After the customary picture-taking, F. H. Campbell and Carl Reynolds treated Otto to lunch. . . Clayton Culver says he is real busy these days, taking his little granddaughter out to the airport. . . Paul Clendenen is back, rested and tanned, after a week with his family at Pokagon, just camping out and fishing. . . Congratulations to Mrs. Fred Campbell, who celebrated her birthday June 20. . . Blue Boy: Eldon Bell had the "blues" last week. Bright blue slacks and a tie to match. A man in blue trousers robbed the Glass Bar and several people are wondering if Eldon was the guilty party. . . Beck Lisle keeps singing, "Oh, Where is a Doggie for the Window?" Arf, Arf. . . Good-bye to Joneal Gunkel and Sylvia Cearbaugh who are leaving 14x3B to be full-time housewives. . . Former co-workers of Ruth Wappes will be glad to know she is the proud owner of a 7½ pound baby girl. . . We are sorry to report Joan Gibson is in the hospital, but hope she has a speedy recovery. . . Happy birthday to Dorothy Kell. . . Surprise: Marie Wickelman's relatives tried to have a surprise birthday party for her at Coldwater, Ohio. Marie, having a "mind of her own," decided she wasn't going home so had to be told they were having a chicken supper for her. But it was still a surprise, for instead of the 10 guests she had expected, there were 20. A wonderful supper and a lovely evening was had by all. . . Earl and Ray Fredericks are justly proud of their parents, who celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary June 14. Open house was held at the Frederick's home on the Sand Point road and many friends and relatives called to offer their congratulations. We should like to do the same and wish them many more happy days ahead. . . Get a Horse: Oscar Fleming had a unique experience with his car on a recent fishing trip. It seems that after leaving Orland he could not EARN $100—Yvonne Cecie (center) receives a suggestion award check for $100 from W. H. Heniser. Her idea was for showing a method of eliminating the cleaning of transformers after treatment. Her mother, Vera Everett, also of Bldg. 26-4, is shown with her.

THANK YOU! THANK YOU! Georgia Garrett wishes in this manner to thank each and every one of you who helped make her retirement open-house party such a huge success. Approximately 300 friends called to bid Georgia "Best of Luck" on her last day with us, June 16. . . CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK is Donald E. Stapleton, son of Glen Stapleton. Don is a brand-new employee of the Company. He is getting a week's preliminary training in the drafting school and will join specialty motor drafting force some time this week. Glen asked his son if he was registering his card properly, to which Don replied he rang it in the morning and out at the close of the day. He didn't register in or out at noon because he didn't leave the plant. Live and learn, Don! . . . HELLO to our new TE's in specialty motor engineering. They are: Fred Asmus, single, working for Max Barrows, a graduate of Michigan University in 1953 with a BSME degree. His home town is Kalamazoo, Mich.

get it out of reverse. The "durn" thing wanted to go home. Six hours and $12.00 later, he arrived at his favorite spot on Lake Pleasant, content to try for a few of the big ones before the sun went down. What a day!

30 YEARS OF SERVICE—The 30-year service mark was reached June 12 by Henry B. Parrish (second from left), a dispatcher in the Large Motor and Generator Department. Congratulating him are (l-r) R. M. Hartigan, H. L. Stevenson, Walter Gerdorn, and Paul Bohn. Mr. Parrish did transformer work in Bldg. 26-2 when he joined the organization in 1923.

THE BIG WIND

SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST.

CONGRATULATIONS to Ruth Leverton and Keith Haiflich, who were married a couple of months ago and have just announced it. . . . Naomi Longworth is all smiles over that new grandson. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Sarah Moore who underwent a very serious operation last week. . . . We offer our congratulations to Richard Gigen on his recent engagement to Jo Ann Smith from Richmond. . . . BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Nellie Williams and Marjorie Ford. . . . Reba Boyer has returned from her fishing trip to Minnesota. How many fish, Reba? . . . Miller Snyder went to Columbus, Ohio, over the week-end to visit Alice and Ed Lasher, former employees of GE. . . . We wish a very speedy recovery to Vera Fletcher, who underwent an operation. . . . We are sorry to see Vetta Grey leave us, but we hope her appointment with the stork will be just what she wants. . . . Ruby Stucky and Emma Vaughn are just counting the days until they go to Europe. Gee, girls, you still have a month to wait. . . . MARIE WILSON has returned after her third week of vacation and we want to wish her a happy birthday. . . . Laura Krauskopf and husband celebrated their 33rd wedding anniversary by going on a picnic over the week-end. . . . Lela Line was all hepped up Monday morning because her son-in-law was going to give her a ride in that new "Olds." . . . Sarah Pulver is going to clean her lettuce the night before, instead of in the morning so she will be sure she is awake so she finds the little bug before she puts it in her lunch. . . . FLYING LOW: If you see anything flying low between Fort Wayne and Roanoke it's just Dallas Patton and his new that it proves Florence still loves him, but we have our own opinions. . . . SOME VACATION: Carl Starke was on vacation last week, but no fun. He had to enter the hospital for observation. We wish you a speedy recovery, Carl. . . . WEEK-END OUTINGS: Ilene and Will Hardisty spent Sunday at Russell's Point, Ohio, while Sally Collins, with her family and friends, enjoyed the day at Pokagon Park.

Plymouth. . . . We found out why Betty Lindemuth took up swimming. She wanted to learn how to hold her breath under water. . . . Kate O'Conner is really strong. She tightened a screw up the other day so tight she had to have Oscar Schelper loosen it for her. . . . Tom Kraft found out it doesn't pay to give Red Harter odds in any kind of sports, because if you do, Red always beats you, no matter how slim his chances are.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, and returned to work:

CONGRATULATIONS to Zelma Wood whose birthday is next Saturday. Our thoughts are with her while she spends many hours with her mother, who is ill. . . . Verda Deal says since she got her new fan that she doesn't want to go home. Maybe it wouldn't be safe anyway, for we understand it had been keeping a very important person in our division cool until he went on vacation. . . . LEO JOHN-SON was very much surprised when he was presented with a gift from the gang. It was a piggy bank and a box of money to help fill it. The job is yours now for that, big boy.

"Lost" and "Found" articles must be cleared through the Plant Protection Office, Bldg. 10-2, or the Plant Receptionist, who will place the Ad-let and otherwise advertise the article.

No ad will be received over the telephone. Only one ad per employee may be inserted. Each ad must be limited to 20 words and cannot be repeated. All articles mentioned must be personal property of the employee. Ads will not be accepted unless accompanied by the name, pay number, and division of the employee. No plant building or telephone number may appear in any ad except transportation ads, only the home telephone number or address.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

Joan Vorndran

With her usual promptness, Jan Conroy answered Walt Buesking's phone and bounded out to scour the factory for him. Three-fourths of the way through the factory, a thought struck Jan. "That person whom she had walked past when she started out in the factory to look for Walt, could that have been Walt who was sitting at Walt's desk, smoking Walt's cigar, and doing Walt's work? Could be! So, trying to keep this embarrassing mistake a deep dark secret, Jan pretended she was still looking for him. She took the long way back to the office, went up to his desk, and told Walt, who had been sitting there all the while, to answer his phone.

Beatrice Pender just can't adjust herself to the latest inventions. Driving in a car the other day, she had the desire for a cigarette. She got the lighter from a friend with which to light it, lit the cigarette, blew out the flame, and threw the lighter out the car window. Bea, only matches are used but once; lighters can be used over and over again.

This is a new cure for an old ailment. Harold Bohde's doctor told him to quit smoking because Harold's feet hurt. Harold did quit for a few days and then started smoking again. Reason? He had to start smoking again to prove that he had the will power to quit.

With great anticipation, Ray O'Keefe is looking forward to his vacation next week which will be spent at the "Straits", visiting relatives.

Winter St.'s Sir Galahad, John Thomas, was Johnny-on-the-spot to assist Thelma Proxmire when she made an unintentional three-point landing, falling off her work chair.

Last week, Ray Dumford's tool crib had another modern convenience added! It came "complete with running water." The water was the result of Jake Stevens running his truck into a water-filled drum.

Jack Herney wouldn't have to get up at the break of dawn to find an "early time" cure for his fisherman's blues. Jack is swearing off the fishing sport (?) forever.

This guy Paul Fremion really has a way with animals and everyone must know it. On Paul's work table, he found a gift box containing a shaggy little mouse that was suffering from an acute case of malnutrition. Later that week, with Paul's able assistance, a frightened fox squirrel was ushered through the shop and made his way to freedom through the high bay. A friend indeed!

Mrs. John Rockhill's purchase of six nylon shirts, each one a different color, has made Johnny a well-dressed man for summer. Opal Miller thinks that John should buy one more shirt, a pink one, so he will have every striking color shirt available.

An after hours combination swimming and fishing party at Millie Steward's cottage proved a big success on a warm evening. Vera Pontius, Susie Jones, Margaret Motherwell, Mary Leiter, and Millie enjoyed a plunge in the cool water. Then Mary and Millie went on a short fishing trip, but came home with only one that "didn't get away."

With regret, we bid farewell to several of our Winter St. employees this week who transferred either to Broadway or Taylor St. Some of those receiving our good-byes and best wishes are: Walter Shady, Al Lepper, Irv Schlotterback, Jesse Millican, Joe Carrier, Joe Vargas, Dick Smith, Bob Bauch, and Bill Grove, Jr.

Back again, filled with renewed energy, we find Bill Franke who spent last week vacationing.

After spending a week-end at Limerlost Cabins at Oliver Lake, Carole Calkins acquired a healthy "pink-look" from Old Sol that was very becoming, but rather painful. A wonderful time was had.

Agnes Manz's new hair-do was the subject of much admiration this week. She had her hair cut very short, which gives it an up-swept look.

John Fletter is in fine spirits again. His son Jack came through a serious operation this week with flying colors and is recovering very rapidly.

The fish at Big Long Lake had better proceed with great caution this week. Fred Feber is spending his third week's vacation there, intent on a daily supply of fresh fish.

Congratulations to Anita Slusher on her 18th wedding anniversary last week. Anita enabled her co-workers to join her in the celebration by treating them to delicious cherry flips. John Quaintance is keeping this anniversary date in mind for next year with the hope that more of those tasty "flips" will be on the menu.

Last week-end was a time for many parties. The first was a gala affair that was held at the New Haven Conservation Club. A picnic supper was attended by members of the Financial Section and their families, after which, softball, hadminton, and many other games were on the agenda. Another was a stag at Harold Fremion's cottage at Pretty Lake. The reason for this party was to join Harold in celebrating the birth of a son; the little boy has been named Mark. Congratulations to the Fremions! Last, but not least, was the Draftsman's stag that was held at Paul Berghorn's cottage at Dallas Lake. Like the other two parties, this one was also very successful.

Three more additions to the third floor office this week were: D. Shanz, R. Davidson, and W. Bergman. We bid you "welcome."

What a welcome for Wayne Bergman! As is the custom, Harold Fremion passed out cigars when his son was born, but Wayne happened to get a loaded one. Thinking he'd have a before-lunch smoke, Wayne lit up and had the whole deal blow up in his face.

It's enough to scare a gal out of 10 years growth! Marvelene Butts was up to her old tricks. She was trying, and doing a very good job of it, to convince Pat Roehling that she had parked her car on the street once too often and was the target for a parking ticket. What a relief to find her windshield "ticket-free."

Mr. Frank B. Calkins, Bldg. 19-5, would like to have it known that his daughter Carole acquires her ingenious mechanical ability from no other person than her father who does wonders with a hammer, wrench, saw, etc. How about a hair pin to fix a typewriter. Mr. Calkins?

All Don Batchelder's dreams of an all-day sailing trip were quickly drowned by a gust of wind. Don took his newly-made sailboat on her maiden voyage last week and the failure of his sailing partner to hear his shout of directions caused the boat to tip over, throwing both sailors into the lake. Very refreshing, no?

Any new tongue twisters? Try them on Bob Bienz. He had quite a time saying "lift slit coils." Try it again, Bob!

The power of suggestion is so overwhelming to Eileen Salmon, that when someone had been talking about a drink that had a "kick like a mule," she typed "Indishnapolis, Indiana" when she resumed her typing job. Just talking about drinks leaves Eileen in this "condition."

Some people like to scare their wives when out driving by turning the switch key off and on while driving, causing big explosions. Only $15 for a new muffler. Pretty expensive scare wasn't it, Bob Taylor? . . . We wish Sarah Moore a speedy recovery and hope she will soon be back with us. She is really missed in the switch section. . . The girls in switch section wish to take this opportunity to thank Cuddles Watt for the delicious pecan pie. . . Clarabelle Whiteman hopes the farmer's chickens start laying eggs again real soon so Gladys Pantizan can bring her a surprise package each morning. She never knows if it is going to be soft, medium, or hard boiled eggs. . . BELATED BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Virginia Buesching, Betty Graft, and Ray Smith. . . Harry Knafel and wife spent Sunday at Turkey Run. . . Catherine Chilcote and Louise Sinn say they were happy to see Royle Sheets move into the monkey cage last week. They say someone should lock the door and lose the key now. . . Congratulations to Mrs. Everett Smith, who was formerly Ruth Peek. . . Ralph Keller looks pretty sharp with his new trousers and shoes. . . Alitza Rhimhold sure thought Monday was a long day. They were expecting their new car to get in that evening. . . Fred Young worked in the attic Saturday storing furniture. It wasn't hot enough outside so he found a warmer place. . . We wish Hilda LeCoque and son Jerry a speedy recovery from tonsilectomies. . . Herb Richter cheated himself out of a cherry pie Sunday by climbing in the tree and breaking it down. We are happy you suffered no injuries in your fall, Herb. . . Could it have been the hot weather Saturday that caused Leo Miller to leave part of his purchases in the store? . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harber on the birth of a new son.

Mrs. Magley's boy, Johnny, gets a lot of mileage out of his nylon shirts. He says that it is just a swish, swish, and they are ready to put right back on again. . . On vacation this week is Bob Esterline. Back from vacation are Vance Burnau, looking rather red faced, and Bill Eisenacher, who just rested. . . It took a temperature of 95 degrees to make Dick Lare shed his white shirt and tie. . . Thanks: Marty Weeks says that even though she is a hum cook, she still knows what to do with those swell sauce pans that she received for a wedding gift. . . Virginia Philo couldn't be coaxed from her chair after a rubber stamp did a perfect job of stamping her dress with, "Repair and Return." Ginny, being the swell sport that she is, just laughed with the rest of us but I'll bet that she is careful whose desk she sits on after this. . . We say good-bye to three swell people, Marty Weeks, who is being married, and moving from the city; Gertrude Butler, who is moving to Cincinnati, where her husband has a new job, and to Harold Struver, who is going on pension. We say "happy leisure days." We also say happy housekeeping to Ruth Susdorf who left last week.

NURSE MULVANE RETIRES—Mae Mulvane, nurse in the GE dispensary since 1940, left the Company June 16 on retirement. Mrs. Mulvane receives best wishes at the celebration in her honor from Dr. H. W. Garton and Minnie Fryback, retired employee.

STRANGE MALADY HITS BLDG. 17-3! Last week we had a strange disease hit some people in Bldg. 17-3. It was called "strawberry stoop." Did you find out that you had muscles you didn't know you possessed? . . . Our "WE WISH YOU HAPPINESS" mat is out for Juanita Likens and Dale Dusing. Also for Marjorie Jewell and Roosevelt Tubbs! We wish both couples many years of wedded bliss. . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Juanita Hughes, Esther Reiter, Mabel Clark, and Ida Mae Ernst. . . IT'S A LUXURY? Mildred Pfaller bought an alarm clock and of course had to pay a tax on it. She can't see why you have to pay tax on it, because all the blankety blank thing does is wake you up early in the morning and that's no luxury. . . CONGRATULATIONS on the blue-booted addition at the Mueller home. Helen was a former co-worker. . . Congratulations to Mabel King on being a brand new grandma. . . Cecil Phillips is the proud new aunty of a nephew. . .

ANOTHER INDIAN BIT THE DUST: Eddie DeFever will be leaving the ranks of unmarried eligibles. He gave his girl friend a diamond last week. . . WANNA DOG? Dorothy Blume has some little dogs that need a home. . . We bid farewell to Neva Jamison last week. She is taking up a full-time housekeeping job. . . Shirley Click wishes to thank all her co-workers for the pretty gift. . . I'M HOME, MA! Iva Bixler's son arrived in the States from Korea. . . Dick Gleim is taking up a new hobby; horseback riding. . . GET WELL SOON WISHES: Florence Hawk, who has been seriously ill at the St. Joseph hospital cannot have visitors, but a cheer-up card would help. . . We extend sympathy to Laura Starner on the loss of her father. To Mabel Clark on the loss of her father-in-law. To Arlene Winebrenner on the loss of her mother-in-law.

- Q. How small are the depths of snowfall that are reported?
- A. The smallest snow depth ordinarily reported is a tenth of an inch. Normally snow is caught in a standard rain gage. After its actual depth is measured it is melted, to determine the equivalent amount of liquid water which well as snow. Ordinarily the water is about a tenth as deep as the snow, though this may vary with the fluffiness of the snow. Thus, a report might be given of a hundredth of an inch of melted snow, corresponding to an actual depth of one to five tenths of an inch on the ground.
- Q. Sometimes it is said that the Earth must be a ball because that is the only shape that would cast a circular shadow on the Moon at a lunar eclipse. Isn't it possible for some other shape, like that of an egg, also to cast a circular shadow?
- A. Yes, if the light is coming from certain particular directions an egg will cast a circular shadow, but this will not be the case with light from other angles. The point is that the Earth's shadow is always circular, no matter what direction the sunlight is coming from, and only a sphere will always cast such a shadow.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT—Tomorrow we honor the Spirit of '76 and all Americans who have given us our freedom. Johnny Maxwell, two and one-half year old son of Robert Maxwell, Bldg. 4-3, holds the symbol of freedom which Artist Willard immortalized in "The Spirit of '76."

Dirty Clothes Ignite; Start Fire in Bldg. 4

Spontaneous ignition of a boxful of dirty clothes caused fire to break out at 9:15 a.m. Sunday in a wash room of Bldg. 4-1.

The fire, which charred wood over a 15-foot area but otherwise caused no damage, was discovered by Clifford Geller, Power House employee, as he made his morning rounds.

Employees' greasy and discarded clothing had been wadded together and put in a corrugated box in the wash room, E. M. Hanauer, GE fire chief, reported. The high temperatures during the past week apparently contributed to the combustion, he explained.

The damage was relatively minor because Bldg. 4 is a fire-resistant building. In some other location, the results might have proved disastrous, Chief Hanauer warned.

As a result of the fire, the GE Fire Department announced that any clothing not hanging neatly on hangars, properly spaced, anywhere in the plant, would be disposed of by the fire inspectors.

VETS OUTLINE PICNIC PLANS

Saturday, July 18, a stag picnic will be staged by the General Electric War Veterans Association at the Rose Manor, Robert Turschman, president, announced today.

Beginning at 10 a.m., the picnic will be an all-day event. Entertainment, sports, food, and refreshments are included on the program. Tickets are $1.50 and are available now from contact men. Thursday, July 16 is the deadline for securing tickets.

Hourly Employees To Get Wage Hike In July 15 Pay

Plans for payment of the new wage increase for all employees except company officers were announced this week by the various department paymasters. The new increase which went into effect June 10 will be received in paychecks this month.

Hourly rated employees will receive the increase in their pay Wednesday, July 15. The retroactive portion back to June 10 will also be paid on that date.

Weekly salaried employees will receive the increase in their Friday, July 3 paycheck. The retroactive portion back to June 10 will be paid Friday, July 10.

Monthly salaried employees will receive the increase in their July 24th pay, just previously to vacation shutdown.

The increase includes a general wage adjustment in excess of 3 per cent for unions which did not accept the company's previous offer in March, and balancing increases for unions which had accepted the company's earlier offer.

Site of the stag affair, Rose Manor, is at 3525 N. Clinton St. extended.

Another July event in which the organization is participating is the Ice Cream Social, which they are co-sponsoring with Elex Club. The social is scheduled for Thursday, July 9 in McCulloch Park.

In effect, employees will have a 12 per cent "adder factor" on top of their established Sept. 14, 1951 base rate. The present "adder factor" for most employees is now either 8.85 per cent or 10.53 per cent.

An additional adjustment will be made for skilled and certain other classifications.

No. 27

To many of us, it is just the Fourth of July—another holiday. It's been around a long time—177 years; we incline to take for granted that it will always be around.

But it will not be if we forget, in the Pursuit of Happiness, that Liberty has a price—and that is eternal vigilance. The enemies of freedom hope that we will get so soft and bemused that we will forget, and fail to be vigilant, both at home and abroad.

The enslaved millions behind the Iron Curtain, who look to us as their only hope of salvation, should be a warning and a challenge to us this Independence Day. They have learned their bitter lesson, the hard way. We can lose our liberty—the soft way.

Why Shouldn't It Pay?

Sometimes you'll hear people say, "Oh it pays them to do it," when a company puts out time, money and effort to improve the working conditions and the future of employees. The thing the company does might be providing extra safety equipment; it might be affording additional benefits in the way of pensions, vacations, health protection.

To anyone who objects to the idea behind "it pays to do it," we'd like to ask what good thing he ever received that didn't cost something—if not in money, then in time, effort or self-denial. It has been said that no transaction is any good unless both parties to it get something they want.

Those who pretend to be above the "profit motive" may seem to be putting idealism first. Actually, it doesn't work out that way. If you don't want the other fellow to get some benefit out of a trade, then there is no reason why he should make it. Both lose an opportunity and gain in one thing only—selfishness.

Words by Walt

FREEDOM

When I think of Independence Day,
This thought occurs to me:
With our cherished independence,
Are we really, truly free?

Ask yourself this simple question,
And then think for just a minute,
And you'll find our independence,
Hasn't much real freedom in it.

I don't mean, as galley slaves
We cringe beneath a captor's whip;
We're not chained to oars propelling
Any foreign tyrant's ship.

We're a nation independent,
But that doesn't mean we're free.
We still have our obligations
And responsibility.

Freedom means, unbound, unhindered,
Unimpeded, unrestrained,
Unconfined and unobstructed,
Unsubjected, unconstrained.

I am sure in this, it's evident,
We cannot qualify,
For we live by God's Commandments,
Given man on Sinai.

We are bound by laws and edicts
Given us by God and man.
Freedom's first restriction came
In Eden, when the world began.

This may sound unpatriotic,
But it really seems to me,
That the gang now ruling Russia,
Comes more nearly being free.

They're unbound by any treaties,
That with others they have signed.
They're unhindered by agreements,
Honor, never cramps their kind.

Unimpeded, unobstructed,
Blotting out, those who offend
Unrestrained, unchecked, untrammelled
They are free to gain their end.

"Thou shalt not" is more important
In our rules for decent living
Than a freedom unrestricted
Which I'm glad we weren't given.

It was freedom unrestricted,
That an English King demented,
Used to tax a group of Colonies,
That weren't represented.

And it led to much resentment,
Followed by a revolution,
Which gave us our Independence
And protecting Constitution.

We are free to live and prosper,
But that freedom has restraint.
We are free within the law
And have but little real complaint.

"Thou shalt not" has been our motto,
And all tyrants, this should heed,
"Thou shalt not" and Independence
Are two things we really need.

Thou shalt not offend thy neighbor,
Even though that's how you feel.
Thou shalt not for selfish profit,
Plan an underhanded deal.

Thou shalt not, upon the highways,
Drive like one declared insane;
Thou shalt not inflict on others,
For your own enjoyment, pain.

Thou shalt not do unto others,
What from them you would resent.
Thou shalt not expect forgiveness
Unless you also repent.

Thou shalt not, on Independence Day,
Assume you have the right,
To drive at ninety miles per hour,
When coming home at night.

Thou shalt not, before your leaders,
Be required to bend your knees
That's the special kind of freedom
That our country guarantees.

Freedom from man-made oppression
Is the only kind we've got;
But so long as we have that,
I guess we still have quite a lot.

Espionage Is Not Fantasy

Mr. Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense, recently made the following very serious remarks concerning industrial security. They should not be ignored and cannot be taken lightly.

"I am deeply concerned over the number of security violations occurring recently. Responsible military opinion has established that the nature of information so compromised has seriously affected the national security of the United States. Furthermore, I am informed that intelligence evaluation confirms that such information, both in the aggregate and in detail, has provided vital intelligence to countries hostile to the United States.

"In view of the general international situation . . . I am impressed with the clear necessity of affording the utmost protection to our scientific, technical, and military advantages. The expenditure of lives and of the wealth of our citizens in the present defense effort makes it mandatory to insure that our military secrets are not dissipated.

"It must be concluded, as to the reasons for this condition, that indoctrination in security regulations generally is being handled in a perfunctory and haphazard manner. Other indications exist that sensitive staffs and agencies lack the detailed working knowledge of security practices and procedures established for safeguarding classified information. . . . I believe that the debriefing of civilians . . . leaving the employment of Department of Defense contractors having classified contracts, must incorporate positive instructions against unlawful disclosures of classified information."

We must assume that Mr. Wilson's deep concern over the presence of espionage in this country is well founded on facts—facts that for security reasons cannot be divulged at this time. We must not assume that the General Electric Company possesses any immunity to this danger. Our large proportion of defense production, coupled with our great scientific research and development, makes us a prime, natural target for enemy agents.

Remember that progress will be our most important product only so long as security remains a well used tool.

Russell E. White,
Security Coordinator.

Just four more weeks of waiting
Till vacation time is here.
Are the memories of the last one
Something you still hold dear?

Are you shopping for a trousseau
So to look your very best?
Or will you need some fishing togs
So you can fish or rest.

You must be getting anxious
As we most all seem to be.
Will you be any nearer ready
When your waiting weeks are three?

Everyone's thoughts seem to be on vacation so I wrote the little poem to express everybody's senti-

New Engineering Training Course To Be Given in Fort Wayne This Fall

Formation of a new training course for engineers, and others with technical training who have recently joined the Company on the Test, Chemet, and Physics Programs, was announced this week by the Technical Education Services Section at Schenectady.

Known as the Advanced Technical Course, the program is designed as a transition from engineering work in college to that encountered in design and development engineering sections.

The course consists of both analytical and creative work in all the major fields of engineering and aims to provide the student with a logical and integrated approach to engineering problems.

Begins This Fall

First half of the Advanced Technical Course will be presented this fall. At the conclusion of the first part, students may elect to continue with the course until June or apply for one of the Advanced Technical Programs: Advanced Engineering, Creative Engineering, Process Technology, or Modern Physics. The latter programs have been given in the past but will start in January instead of the customary September.

The course will serve as a "prep course" for the Advanced Technical Programs but will also be a complete course in itself. Henceforth, a requirement for enrollment in one of the Advanced Technical Programs will be successful completion of the first semester of the newly-established course.

Classes will be conducted at Fort Wayne, Ind., Erie and Philadelphia, Pa.; Schenectady and Syracuse, N. Y.; Lynn, Mass.; and Evendale, Ohio.

Basis of Selection

Applicants for the course will be selected on the basis of an entrance examination and a personal interview. Important considerations in the selection are the man's interest in original engineering work, his college record, and his performance on assignments in his training program. Further information on these points may be obtained from program supervisors.

L. W. Warzecha, University of Texas graduate, is supervisor of the new course. Walt Powell will instruct the course in Fort Wayne. Mr. Powell, who has just completed the Creative Engineering Course in Schenectady, will come to Fort Wayne next month and will be located in Bldg. 16-3.

CHESS PLAYERS

Interested in playing chess?

A Chess Club for General Electric employees was announced this week by Robert L. Bechdolt, Jr., Bldg. 20-2. Any employees interested in the game should contact Mr. Bechdolt on ext. 401.

Plans are to begin the club in September. Its purposes will be to further knowledge and ability of the game and to provide opponents for chess fans.

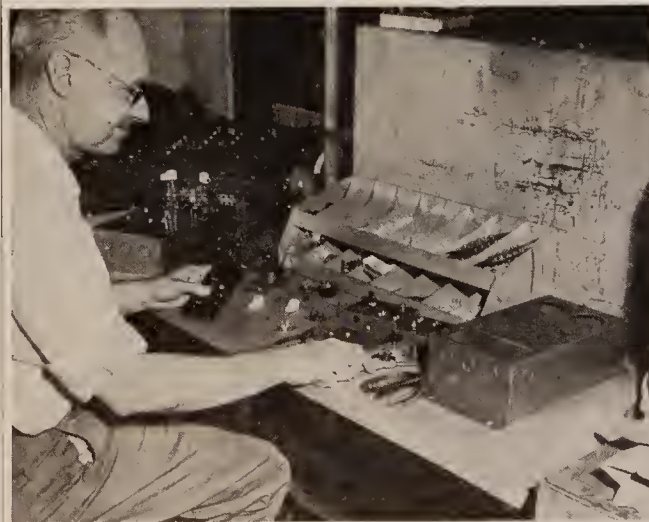

RECEIVES 75TH ANNIVERSARY AWARD—Donald E. Porter, Bldg. 8-1, received a 75th anniversary award of a desk pen last week for his plan to make available greatly improved service to users of fluorescent lamp ballasts. The award, made by the Service Engineering Section, with headquarters in Schenectady, is part of a program of monthly recognition being conducted by the section. Rad P. Cheesman, Bldg. 8-1, congratulates Mr. Porter who will be eligible for recognition in the Company program, in which 75 diamond watches will be presented those selected by a judging committee.

Bldg. 26-3's 'Dimmer' Solves Old Fluorescent Lighting Problem

The answer to a 15-year old problem confronting the lighting industry can be found today in a product rolling along production lines in Bldg. 26-3. It is the General Electric Fluorescent Dimmer.

Since the introduction of fluorescent lighting 15 years ago, engineers have searched for a smooth and efficient method of dimming these lamps. This year, the answer was reached

237 SUGGESTERS GARNER AWARDS

Kenneth Guisinger's $155 Tops List; Others Share $3,223 During May

Despite heat, humidity, and vacation planning, 237 GE employees managed to earn $3,223.77 in suggestion awards during May. Heading the list was Kenneth L. Guisinger, Specialty Sub-Section 15. He earned $155 for suggesting an improved method of grinding dies.

Norman S. Biddle, GAC Sub-Section 14 at Taylor St., added $90 to his vacation fund also with a suggestion for the improvement of grinding dies.

Two employees earned $75 idea awards. Dallas F. Smith, of the General Tool Section suggested the omission of wear plates on stator winding machines, and Louis H. Hoffman, Hermetic Sub-Section 16, devised a punch change in slot separation which saved set-up time.

Two $70 Awards

Archie Evans, Hermetic Sub-Section 16, received $70 for improving the method of bushing on the stator broach. Another $70 award went to William Fowler, Specialty Transformer and Ballast, for his idea for treating certain transformer coils.

Receiving $50 suggestion checks were Zella T. Disler, STAB, and David Guthrie, Large M-G. Mrs. Disler improved the method of insulating transformer cores, and Mr. Guthrie suggested a more thorough control of wire stock by a running inventory system.

Don Clem, of the Winter St. plant earned a $42.50 award for suggestion regarding the testing fixture used for testing TW porous frames.

The following suggesters also received awards in May:

Glen Archbold, Spec. Sub-Section 1, $42; Arnold Wendell, Spec. Sub-Section 1, $36; Howard R. Louthan, Spec. Sub-Section 1, $33; Hayden B. Rice, General Tool Section, $29.40; Levi Carpenter, STAB Section 93, $45.

Receiving $40 awards were: Gilbert Walker, Walter G. Blomberg, and Howard C. Taylor, all of Spec. Sub-Section 1, and Gladys M. Cleland, Spec. Sub-Section 15.

Bessie M. Nicholson, STAB Section 94, earned $35; Edward G. Heckler, Hermetic Sub-Section 16, $30; and Doyle D. Miller, STAB Section 91, $30.

The following were awarded $25 awards: Fred Schrader, Louis C. Kintz, Paul LeCoque, George A. Stockberger, Doyle D. Miller, and Noah E. Kuntz.

There were 211 awards of under $25.

PICK-UPS from 26-3 Jack Sweet

Willard Lenz will spend his vacation at Chapman Lake next week. Willard expects to catch his limit of fish. We wish him good luck and hope he and his family have a nice time. . . . Frank Schultz has replaced Earl Barthling as a dispatcher. Earl will go to another floor and work in inventory control. A pot luck dinner was held for Earl last Thursday. . . . Harry Brittain is replacing Frank Schultz as a leading operator for Al Reiman. . . . Eugene Hoffman is the new stockboy working for Ed Lauer. Eugene replaces Jack Joseph, who in turn replaced Philip O'Shaughnessy as a treat expeditor. Philip left the Company to return to school. Philip is taking a pre-dental course at Indiana University. . . . Congratulations to Dorothy Campton. Dorothy received a $90 check as a suggestion award last week.

J. H. Campbell and H. E. Schultz of Nela Park. It was adapted to production by William H. Abbott, Bldg. 26-2.

It seems the other fellow couldn't stop quick enough when the light changed. . . . Chuck Laughman either got his hair singed at the annealing oven or he stopped at John Figleys for a hair cut. We are sure they wouldn't cut hair

COUNT OFF SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Marguerite Stahl

We are happy to hear that Sarah Moore was released from the hospital Saturday and hope she will soon be able to be back with us. . . . Maurice Roe is on vacation this week and plans to paint his house. But as we know Roe we imagine he hopes it will rain part of the week so he can go fishing. . . . We were all very happy to see "Pop" Slater last Friday when he stopped in to visit us. . . . We wonder why Gladys Pantazin is wishing she had a double these days. Could it be because she is building a new home? . . . Did Rosie Johnson hypnotize the potato bugs she had in a glass jar so they wouldn't crawl out? We wonder if she is saving them for pets. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Alberta Watt. The girls are still looking for a birthday cake. . . . Louise Sinn says it won't be long until she will have enough pullet eggs for all the GE employees. . . . Doyle Sheets was looking at Elmer Scheer's calendar because he heard Christmas was in June and was about ready to start his shopping. . . . Herb Richter has really been having bad luck. After not getting any cherry pie last week he lost his hub caps in Kendalville. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Bob Taylor's wife on her little scheme to get Bob to take their son and her out to dinner. Why does Bob have bricks under his wheels?

like that at Silver Lake. . . . We suggest that Sam Warren change brands of cars. A Plymouth is much more comfortable. . . . Moe Moffitt's paint sprayer must have slipped and hit him across the upper lip. But then it could be a mustache. . . . Birthday greetings to the following people: Louis Sauers, July 7; Mardo Tobias, July 8; Fred Schrader, July 9; Frances Rose, July 10; Esther Walborn, July 15; and Flo Gilmore, retired, July 29.

Raymond C. Brown

August W. Weisenburger, Jr.

Two Foremen in Training Named in GAC Sub-Section 14

Two appointments in General AC Motor Sub-Section 14 have been announced by Fred H. Campbell, superintendent of the sub-section.

Raymond C. Brown has been named foreman in training over field winding operations on second shift. August W. Weisenburger, Jr. has been appointed foreman in training over rotor and stator core and shaft operations on second shift.

When he joined GE in 1928, Mr. Brown started as a set up man in Bldg. 26-1. He became a leading operator in Bldg. 4-2 in 1938. After moving to Bldg. 17-3 in 1941, he was named assistant foreman and leading operator. Later, he moved to Bldg. 17-2 tool room.

Worked in Tool Room

After transferring to Taylor St. Sub-Section 13 in 1948, Mr. Brown entered the tool room. He went into Sub-Section 14's tool room in 1950 on developmental work and was in this location prior to his present appointment.

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Brown is a member of the Foremen's Association also. The Browns have two children and reside at 1722 Purdue Dr.

In 1923, Mr. Weisenburger became a General Electric employee and entered the Apprentice School. After graduating from the machinist-toolmaker course in 1927, he went into the plant construction office on mechanical installation. He moved to Bldg. 27 in 1933 as a drill press operator.

Joins Sub-Section 14

After entering Taylor St. Sub-Section 14 in 1937, Mr. Weisenburger became a turret lathe operator. The following year he entered the tool room and in 1941 became a planner in the sub-section's planning area. This was his position prior to his present appointment.

Mr. Weisenburger is a member of the Foremen's Association and the Apprentice Alumni Association. Residing on Sand Point Road, the Weisenburgers have seven children. Two sons, John and Thomas, are serving with the U. S. Navy.

Paul Richter gets his exercise by walking to and from work. He even refused a lift offered by his fellow workers, insisting that the daily jaunt is just what he needs. Now we understand Paul drives his car on occasion, but the route he takes to get from his Scott Ave. address to Bldg. 6 is via Indiana Ave. which puzzles us. Perhaps the scenery makes up for the exercise he loses when he drives. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thomas, the proud parents of a baby boy, William Paul. Paul Sr. still has a rather dazed expression and keeps repeating the phrase, "kitchy, kitchy, koo." He thinks that if any candy or cigars are passed, it should be to him, not from him. But the fellows feel that they have a reward coming for just humoring him until he gets back to normal again. . . . If you press the button at the south end of Bldg. 6 for the elevator and do not get immediate service, just be patient. Art Koeneman not only lets the ladies off at the proper floor, but in case they are unacquainted, he serves as a guide. If it's anyone of the male gender, he merely points his finger in the general direction. . . . Dorothy McCoy is stamping transportation bills and also stamping her foot to-day. She's a little impatient for her two weeks vacation to start. . . . Mr. Wheeler is enjoying just that very thing this week and next. Fred is taking the family to Rome City to spend his two weeks vacation. . . . Come one, come all, ye square dancers. John Brothers is doing the calling tonight at Hill-Top Hall in Rome City. How about it, fellows and gals? See you there?

More women are "odor-blind" than are color-blind, say research workers for perfume manufacturers. That's why, they add, it is important to have fascinating names for their bottled fragrance.

ROUNDS OUT 40 GE YEARS—A big service mark was reached June 18 by Frederick J. Reed (center), when he rounded out his 40th year at General Electric. Mr. Reed first came to the Company in 1913 and is now employed as a plater in Bldg. 2-1. Congratulating him are Carl Hattendorf, and Bill Walt.

G-E DEATHS

Edwin Meyer, 61, Dies After 7-Week Illness

Edwin G. Meyer, 61, died Monday, July 29, at the Lutheran Hospital after a seven-week illness. Services were conducted Wednesday in the Klahn Funeral Home by the Rev. J. H. Woodward. Burial was in Concordia Cemetery. The Home Lodge 342, F&AM, held services Tuesday, July 30, at the funeral home.

When he joined GE in 1928, Mr. Meyer went to Bldg. 17-1 as an assembler. He was a record clerk in 1929 and a drill press operator prior to becoming an inspector in Bldg. 17-2 in 1939. This was his location when he took a leave of absence for illness May 13, 1953.

Survivors include his wife, Jeanette; his mother, Mrs. Barbara Meyer; one son, Robert; two brothers, John and Arthur, and one grandchild.

Rites Held Monday For Charles Braun

Services for Charles F. Braun, 65, retired employee, were conducted Monday, June 29, at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home. The Rev. F. E. Schoenbohm officiated. Mr. Braun died Friday, July 26, at the Elmhurst Hospital, Angola. American Legion Post 47 also conducted graveside services. Burial was in St. John's Evangelical Cemetery.

Joining the Company in 1919, Mr. Braun was an assembler in Bldg. 19-5 then. He held positions as a winder in Bldg. 26-2, leading operator in Bldg. 19-5, and tester at Winter St.

In 1942, Mr. Braun became supervisor of inspection and test in Bldg. 4-5 and later was a resident inspector. He retired Jan. 1, 1946.

A member of Post 47, Mr. Braun was a veteran of World War I. He is survived by three brothers, William A., George C., and Andrew J.; and a sister, Mrs. Louis Gollmer.

They always say that women are the biggest talkers, but if they gave a medal for talking, they should go to Walt Richardson and Vi Elliott's husband Steve. Believe me, I know. . . . Marie DeVaux believes in throwing her money away. She laid a dollar bill on her bench and it went up the ventilator. The next time, please tell me and I will wait for it at the other end, Marie. . . . Sorry to have Joan Patton on sick leave. . . . Merle Kessler will think twice the next time he goes out in the yard without his shoes on. Bees will sting when stepped on, Merle. . . . We are sorry to hear that Bill Garton is on sick leave. Hurry back, Bill, we miss you. . . . We want to welcome Nancy Blee to 2 x 35, also glad to have Doty Clinger with us for awhile. . . . Sorry to see Delores Germano go on the night shift. . . . Ed Glenwith was so proud of his new cap that he dove in the water at the foremen's party with it still on his head.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rouner

This week we start our column with a great big "THANK YOU" to Joan Vorndran who has been our column writer for quite some time. Joan you did an excellent term of writing for us. Our hats are off to you. . . . We wish lots of luck to Carl Brokaw an employee of Fairfield Plant in his newly elected post as Commander of the American Legion Lincoln Post No. 82 which is located at Hanna and Lewis Streets. Congratulations, Carl.

We wish Shorty Redding a speedy recovery from his recent operation. . . . Fairfield Ave. Gang send their sympathy to Carl Miller and family in the recent death of their son, Ray, who was an electrical engineer for the GE Company. . . . Congratulations and best wishes go out to Rosalie Fortman who is to be married July 11—she received a beautiful diamond recently.

We wish also to congratulate Ronnic Doepke who recently became a father of a baby boy, Cary Lynn—Congratulations also go to Elfrieda now an Auntie. . . . So sorry to hear about Beatrice Pender's granddaughter. Do hope she is up and about real soon, Beatrice. . . . Ellis Bleke's wife forgot to remove the price tag on a recent article which she purchased for hubby. Seems as though hubby found it. Darn it. Seems as if a gal can't get away with a thing.

Mr. F. Burnham answered Howard Arnold's plea for a light. He didn't give him just a single pack but a whole carton. Howard had quite a time distributing them. . . . Everyone has his favorite color schemes. Seems as though some people have just one color and like anything as long as it is blue. Now isn't that right.

With the closing of this week we found out that Bill Sommers, R. Brown, and J. D. Brighton were on vacations. Do hope you had an enjoyable time and come back safe and sound. This week we have Otto Figel (who is leaving us for Broadway on his return from vacation) and also Robert Messman will be on vacation. Pleasant sailing, boys. Come back safe and rested.

Wm. Knoche left us last Friday. He is now enjoying a restful summer at the lake and going to enjoy a warm sunny winter in Florida. With his leaving his many friends they presented him with a beautiful Coolerator (fan). We all wish you all kinds of luck and wonderful health. . . . Jack Boeh left us last Friday. Jack has been on a training program here in Fort Wayne. He was transferred to Evendale Plant (Lockland) on a manufacturing assignment. . . . Another one of our boys who left us last Friday was William Cullem. Bill is returning home for a wedding, his own. Lots of good luck and loads of happiness to you and your bride to be, Bill.

The Pickle Room seems to be quite the place for having unusual pictures on their walls. . . . Some of our boys are sporting around in new autos. P. Snyder has himself a Bel-Aire two tone Chevy and W. Walker was seen driving around in a beautiful Cadillac. Both proud of their investments. . . . J. Fletter really invested his money and made himself cool. That "crew cut" really looks keen and we bet its nice and cool, too. . . . Margaret Motherwell is grandmother for the third time to a new granddaughter (Sally) Congratulations, Margaret, from all of us.

We welcome back Dale Thompson who has been off on sick leave. . . . Speaking of people investing money into things, Stan Marquardt is going to have himself a tractor. Really now, Stan, it's not that far from the door to your place of work. . . . It's been said that some people delight in making others suffer. Someone caught a pretty good size moth the other day and really enjoyed himself giving it its last fling. They like air not water, Paul.

You know up till now Ed Hazelett has sworn off women. Something must have changed. He was seen down talking on his knees the other day. Tying your shoe string, Ed? . . . The New Haven Conservation Club was the scene of a stag party Friday evening for the manufacturing and employee relations supervision. A wonderful time was had by all and incidentally presented a golden opportunity for the fellas to say good-bye to Jack Boeh.

Al Stoner, it's told you have such a business-like voice on the phone. Would you really like to be a telephone man? Audrie seems to think you would do all right. . . . J. Bowen celebrated having a good time last Friday by treating all the girls to a peak of "Sweet Delights," in reality a small facsimile of a snake. . . . Otto Mensch really likes to do things the hard way. Such as going into cottages through the windows instead of walking through the doors. Oh well, everyone to his own way. . . . The draftsmen's party at Dallas Lake was a tremendous success. A gay time was had by all.

P. S. Joan Vorndran is turning the column over to me, yours truly, Mary Jane Rauner.

WHAT GENERAL ELECTRIC PRODUCT HAS CONTRIBUTED THE MOST TO THE LAST 75 YEARS OF PROGRESS IN THE HOME?

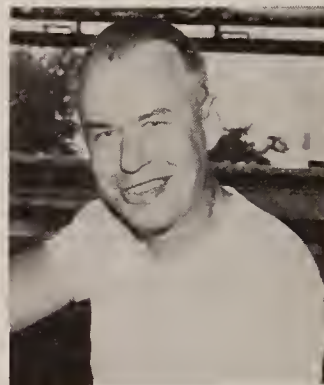

CLARA E. SMITH
Taylor St.

"I think the electric light bulb has contributed the most in the home. From the glow of Edison's first bulb, General Electric has spread light into every nook and corner of our homes. Its contributions to our lives are many."

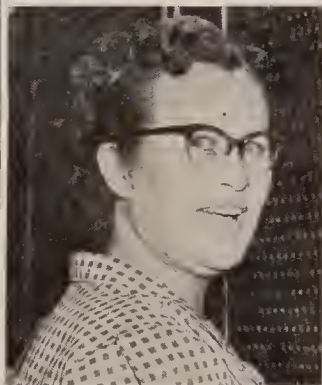

ELMER E. HAZELETT
Bldg. 26-2

"In my opinion, the light bulb would rate first and the motors that run all electrical appliances in the home would be second."

EDITH S. CHILDERS
Bldg. 2-2

"The electric motor has brought about the greatest progress in our homes, I believe. The production of automatic washers, dryers, refrigerators, freezers, and air conditioning units has supplied the housewife with every means of convenience. The application of motors in the home are too numerous to mention."

FRED O. FRIEDMAN
Bldg. 19-2

"The light bulb is my choice. It introduced electricity into the home as a source of power and made it possible to develop many labor-saving products."

EILEEN R. SALMON
Winter St.

"I believe the heat pump is GE's most revolutionary contribution to better living. With only the use of electricity and air, it economically provides year-round comfort and a healthful atmosphere."

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnel on their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Arnel is a former GE employee and some from our floor were co-workers with him. . . . Congratulations! 'Twas the first day of summer and also Father's Day that the 8 lb. blue bootied tax deduction made his debut at the Eddie and Barbara Bienz home. Mother and sonny are doing fine. The daddy is on the improved list. . . . There is also a blue bootied addition at the Eugene and Florence Miller home. The mama was a former co-worker. . . . MEET THE CHAMP: Dorothy Blume's son won the Junior Golf title in the 14-15 age division. . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Margaret Pape, Leona Scott, Maggie Kelley, and Purl Hite. . . . BEST OF LUCK to Mary Maxwell. She is wearing a diamond on that certain finger. . . . Beth Hearsche always thought a stator was just a bunch of iron punchings, until she found out that they could pinch. . . . Fay Stockberger believes in comfort. She came to work wearing her houseslippers last Saturday. . . . The broad smile on Ethel Keller's face was caused by a new granddaughter. . . . Ruby Shinnaberry is looking at the world with rose-colored glasses. Her hubby is on his way home from Korea. . . . Glad to see Marge Hiton's ringing in her clock card again. . . . Also glad to report that Helen Schiffler is on the improved list. . . . Bill Ort had quite a time getting George Hinsch and all his GE NEWS home the day his picture was in the paper. Did you give them to all the neighbors? . . . At first we thought we were seeing things when Mary Schlau had a cup of coffee. It is the size of a soup bowl with a handle. At least you don't need many refills. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Faye Kitteridge, who had another operation last Monday. She is at the St. Joe hospital. . . . We are sorry to report that our co-worker, Clementine Dykes, is entering Irene Byron. Clem's husband has been there for sometime. We wish to thank everyone for the generous donations toward helping take care of her two children. Anyone in any other department wishing to help can contact Violet Brower, Rose Fuhrman, or this reporter. We will be glad to see that they get it. . . . We extend sincere sympathy to Jeannett Smith and also to Violet Adams on the loss of their fathers.

No one was any happier to see Charlie Castle get back from his vacation than Bouncy Becker. Beck said it was so quiet on the east side that he just couldn't get his mind on his work. If he could have found a phonograph record of a tobacco auctioneer he would have brought in a portable phonograph. . . . Have you noticed Paul Miser since he's had his choppers pulled? He looks just like Gabby Hayes. . . . Paul Gruber has a new refrigerator to keep those summer beverages cool and Charles Mowery has a new TV set. Just in case some of you missed seeing them, Kenny Evans has a new pair of shoes. . . . The $64 question: What in the world happened to Joe Ostrowski? This is one time,

Retired Employee Collects Honors For Rare Breeds of Cats as Hobby

In the span of two and one-half years, Lillian Magner, retired employee, bought a pedigreed cat, joined a cat club, opened a cattery, and has become well-known in the country for her champion cats.

The swiftly moving events in Lillian's hobby began a few years ago with the purchase of a Siamese cat as a pet. After securing the animal, Lillian joined the Fort Wayne Cat Club as a charter member and got the idea of raising the felines for show.

After the purchase of her first show cat, a male Siamese named Shawnee's Image O' Monkey, Lillian secured a few other Siamese and opened the Ammon Ra Cattery. In addition to the Siamese, she secured a male and female Abyssinian and is the only Hoosier to own any of this breed, which is more rare than the Siamese.

During the two years that Lillian has been showing her cats, she has received 70 first and winner ribbons and 35 rosettes, which are for higher honors than the ribbons. Last year, her female Abyssinian, Ammon Ra's Little Fawn Da, took the All-Midwestern title for best cat in a show.

Among her feline friends, Lillian has several championship winners who have become single and double champions and are on their way to winning a triple championship. With the number of cats competing in a show determining the number of points a winning feline receives, the champions must earn 10 points under three different judges to receive the top honor. Lillian's champions have received publicity in books and national magazine articles concerning cats.

In operating her cattery, she sells the animals for pet and show purposes both. At present she has 18 Siamese and 4 Abyssinians, which she gives daily care. The specially-built cages are cleaned twice a day and the felines are fed special food two times each day. Also, Lillian can be found many times during the day playing with the friendly little animals.

Each of the cats born at Lillian's cattery will be registered with a name beginning with Ammon Ra and the owner selects the remaining part of its name, she reports.

Besides being a member of the local organization, she is a member of a South Bend club, and three national groups. Her cattery name, which is registered with these, is the name of the main god of ancient Egypt. This is the land where Abyssinians originated, and where they were the sacred cats of the ancient country.

Joe, that we'd believe that story about seeing who could lean out of the window the farthest. . . . On the way home from the lake the other Sunday I stopped at Ernie Brown's house. Most of you know Brownie but to those of you who don't he's an ex-member of the Smokehouse gang and is now employed at Taylor St. Brownie said to tell the boys that he works close to their old buddy Rollo Braun. When I asked him if Rollo was any fatter, Brownie said of course not. "After all," he says, "there's a limit to everything." "You can get just so big and that's all." "There ain't room for more."

There's a village named Two Eggs in Florida. Population, 100.

PRIZE FELINES—Lillian Magner, retired employee, watches her family of Abyssinian cats at play. She holds the male, Sunglow, while the female, Selene's Sunbeam, a double champion, cleans one of her two-week old kittens.

Our ball team had a good game last week—that is, until Andy Chryster and an umpire ran into a little difficulty on a play. Gee, Andy, the rest of the game wasn't much good anyway—so you left at a good time. . . . Tuesday most of us got a big surprise when John Drupar (T.E.) started handing out cigars. We were told that he had gotten married Saturday. Congratulations and best wishes, John. . . . We would like to welcome a new Test Engineer, George Bauer, to the school. Hope you like it here. . . . The school has been growing by leaps and bounds the last few months. The enrollment is now up to 110 students with a lot of new fellows and some of our older apprentices returning from service. . . . New fellows to enter the school last week were William Cox and Thomas Best two new high school graduates who entered the machinist-toolmaker course. Jack Harshman entered the draftsman course and Oliver Brueck was welcomed back from the service. . . . The past week

Dick Reinking has been all smiles. His bride-to-be flew in from Alabama for a short visit. . . . Bad Luck rode with a couple of the fellows last Thursday evening. Harold Wilkerson hit another car head-on and did considerable damage to his car and got banged up a little. Ben Conner tangled with a taxi cab, but he said it got away and he didn't have to pay the fare. . . . Friday it looked like rain so one of the fellows brought his umbrella. Someone got the bright idea of hanging it on the ceiling.

GETS $70 CHECK—William Fowler (right) found ideas pay off recently when he received $70 for his suggestion for a method of treating certain transformer coils. Dick Goller congratulates him. Mr. Fowler is employed in Bldg. 26-4.

Our deepest sympathy to Rillan Anselman upon the death of his mother. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hensler upon their new arrival. Her name is Janice and she weighed in at 7 pounds, 5 ounces on June 24th. . . . John Powner and Carleton Towns brought their lunches in paper sacks and sat them side by side, which led to Carleton eating John's lunch. Since Johnnie knew what he had in his lunch, he was the one to discover the switch. He asked Carleton if he ate it. Carleton explained that it was a mistake, but that John should mention to his wife that "The cake was delicious." Carleton also said that he would see about having pigeon holes installed with name-plates to eliminate any future trouble. . . . Have you heard Joe Taylor's "Live Town Show?" It's a chance for anyone who would like to display his talent. You can arrange an appearance by sending Joe a card. Just drop him a line at WGL Radio Station and he will notify you when to appear. . . . Bill Irwin's golf team dropped seven points this week. Don Pappert had four over par, which is a bit difficult to explain. Before teeing off on the 13th hole Don had a brief chat with another golfer (a girl), which seemed to upset his approach. After a healthy swing, the ball came to rest exactly 18 inches from where it started. The voice from behind said, "I saw that!", but Don continued and finished with a 50. Other scores were: Irwin, 40; Ray Kirk, 47; Clarence Kreischer, 52. . . . Why is Harold Worley staying away from the cafeteria for lunch? Maybe he has a good reason, or, as he explains it, he enjoys the walk across the street. . . . Fred Bergman kept hearing a sluggish sound as he was driving along and thought he would have to tear the carburetor apart to make some changes, but he discovered that he had a few wires crossed on the spark plugs. . . . The Wire Mill golf team picked up nine points as Dick Spice regained his form and played the nine holes with 46 strokes. Shooting an identical score was Harry Arnold, with the other two scores being as follows: A. Garman, 44, and Harold Parkinson, 48.

Happy birthday to Phyllis Faulkner on Monday, July 6. . . . Welcome to our two new drafting apprentices, Don Koenig and Les Fanning. . . . Friends of Margie Schwartz will be happy to hear she has a brand new son, David Craig. David has two sweet little sisters, Cindy and Dianne. Margie formerly was Mr. Clarkson's secretary. . . . Arlein Yates was surprised with a lovely birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Harry Connor. Thank you again, Mrs. Connor and Harry. . . . What not to do while on vacation. If you are taking movies, be sure the film is exposed before you send it in for processing. A certain engineer, with the first name of Sam, sent in a brand new role of 8 mm. colored movie film. He thought he remembered taking only four rolls, yet this one looked like it had been opened. Rather expensive, eh, Sam? . . . Caution—Anyone who doesn't have his life insurance paid, get off the streets. Marge Murphy has a new hot rod and after getting her diploma last week is out on the prowl. . . . That red tomato in the developmental section isn't one that comes out of a Heinz can, it's Lois Reed. She has now shed her outer skin and looks natural again. She had a very interesting experience while acquiring her red complexion. After anchoring the boat she was fishing in she discovered that she kept moving about. After a bit of investigating, she discovered the opposite end of the rope holding the anchor hadn't been tied to the boat. Her only comment was, "Well, the boat I used last year had the anchor tied." "These inconsiderate boat renters." . . . Welcome to Clovis Linkhouse, an engineer working for Fred Suhr. He is married and has completed the "C" course; Andrew Itzov, test engineer, works for C. J. Herman; Dick Neher, an apprentice, working for Duryee; Darrell E. Kirkendall, test engineer, works for Wightman. Graduate from University of Missouri. . . . Farewell: Bob Mills is now working in Bldg. 19. . . . We received some very nice cards from Jack Wilson while on vacation. . . . L. Diegel decided to play like an Eskimo. On a hot day last week, all you could see was the top portion of his head. If you explored a little farther, you could see he was setting on the floor in front of his desk fan. That's one way to cool off in hot weather. We also want to take this opportunity of thanking the

He comes from second trick to first as our new saw man. . . . Over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Pat Christie and son David attended the Midwest Antique Auto Show, sponsored by Studebaker at South Bend, Ind. They went in Pat's 1924 Dodge touring car. There was a parade Saturday morning and a swanky banquet at Hotel Oliver in the evening. Claude Hurrow, a guest club member, took it all in. Otto Pflueger and wife, also, went to see the Antique Auto Parade. . . . Russ Nierieter and family have returned from a southern vacation trip. They visited the Virginia Beach, The Skyline Drive, and the Natural Bridge. They stopped to see Larry Larenitis, who is enjoying retirement to the fullest in a beautiful home at Silver Lake, W. Va. He looks the same as always and would enjoy seeing and hearing from any of his friends here. His address is Box 283, Thomas, W. Va. . . . Clarence Weist sniffed the air the other day and said he smelled skunk. Walt Niemeyer strolled over to clear himself and passed inspection, hands down. They chatted a bit and finally Clarence mentioned he'd been out to the farm the night before and found a mamma skunk and four little skunkers, and while playing with one he had been sprayed. Then the light broke through and he said, "Say, do you suppose that's me I smell?" . . . Abe Oyer had a trick candid camera and was busily pretending he was taking pictures when Marie Winkelman walked by. Marie wanted her picture taken, so Abe pointed the camera carefully and squirted water right in Marie's face. Niemeyer says he isn't working at all, just mingling with the laboring class. . . . Vern Daseler, influenced by his wife and the car pool, is getting a new Pontiac. He also wants to be sure and get to work on time. . . . It is rumored that Earl Greenlee has a DeSoto on order. . . . Art Bear was asked where he was going on his vacation and he said he didn't know because his wife hadn't made up her mind yet. . . . Hugh Neely purchased a new boat and after a few easy lessons he has his wife loading it on the trailer. . . . Truck 1030 is sometimes a rowboat for Carl Hattendorf. Pinic day is drawing near! We now have our lucky Seb'n—the month of July and seb'n big points of intrests come-on-leb'n!! You come on too—load the family in the old jalopy and get out to Sunset Park for a full day of fun-fest and frolic on July 11, 1953. Folks, don't forget those seb'n big features - food - pony rides - attendance prizes - speling bee - quiz program and roller skating—come leb'n! . . . Most folks don't have any trouble getting dressed to go fishing. But Walt Lister is an exception. Last year Walt dressed to go on a trip with a friend only to find to his amazement that he had one dress shoe and one work shoe on. P.S. He dressed in the dark, or so he said. This year he turned the light on, he wasn't going to do such a stunt this time. So a-fishing they did go. The friend later said he noticed that Walt's shoes were mates this year. Walt said, "sure, cause I turned the lights on and could see them this time." The friend laughed and said, "Well, it didn't help too much, because I see that one sock is on wrong side out." Walt declares that next year he is going barefooted and play safe. . . . Wanted—one wild animal trainer. Must be strong, brave and speedy. While fishing recently Lloyd Myers was lucky enough to catch a turtle. But, oh, what a turtle. After the hook was re-

OWLS END FIRST HALF WITH NO LOSSES

GE Team on 7-Game Win Streak Edge Second Place Zollners 5 to 2

By Howard Colby

As the first half of play ended last Wednesday morning in the YMCA Owl softball season, GE defeated Zollner 5 to 2 for a perfect record to remain on top in league standings.

With Paul Billman doing his usual fine job on the mound for the Owls, Zollner was held scoreless in the first inning with the first three men going down in order. GE drew first blood in their turn at the plate with Harold Somers belting a double into center field. He crossed home plate when Chuck Boyce singled, to make it 1 to 0 GE.

Neither team scored in the second inning. GE scored a run in the third inning when Harold Baker crossed the plate after getting on base with a double to make it 2-0.

Zollner received their first hit of the ball game in the 4th on a single. Chuck Boyce scored for the Club in the 4th, hitting a double, stealing third, and scoring on a long fly ball by Bob Crosley, making it 3 to 0.

Zollner scored a run in the fifth when their short stop, Tyler, hit a fly ball to right field. GE's Bud Hower, running in to make the catch twisted his knee and the ball rolled far into right field. Tyler completed the circuit to score a run.

GE came back to score two more runs in the fifth with Billman and Baker scoring to make it 5 to 1.

Zollner scored their final run in the sixth as Prifogle scored to make it 5 to 2 with GE making it seven in a row.

Pistons Slate GE Night July 16

The Thursday, July 16 game between the Zollner Pistons and Adrian Industries has been designated as General Electric employees night, Kenneth W. Michael, manager of plant community relations, announced today.

Beginning next week, 6,000 tickets for the doubleheader will be available to GE employees through Elex Club contact girls and at the GE Club. The tickets are redeemable along with ten cents each for reserved seat tickets at Vim Sporting Goods Store, 1027 S. Calhoun St., or Zollner Stadium, N. Anthony Blvd.

Both teams are member of the National Industrial Pastball League.

STORMY WEATHER BLDG. 17-4

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

Another victim was claimed by television. Clara Kleint succumbed at last and is now the proud owner of a new set and we are all anxiously awaiting an invitation. The girls will even furnish the refreshments if the invitation is extended! . . . It's not everyone who can be lucky enough to win an attendance prize as did Rollie Miller at the Van's game the other night. He is quite proud of the gift he received and is only too glad to show it off.

Now we know what they mean by an occupational disease. Alice and Ray Pflueger went strawberry picking and after many hours in a squatting position, Ray was unable to straighten up without help. That, he says, ends his career as a berry picker. . . . Congratulations to Edna Ward on the beautiful pin she received in token of her work as commander of the Disabled Veterans for the past two years.

While we have learned that Ann Richard is eligible and available, but the latest word received is that she can't cook. Advance at your own risk, fellows! . . . A lot of tall tales have come from fishing trips, but Houston Williams' tops them all. While fishing from a bridge, he hooked and brought in a gasoline lantern. Not only was it captured in ten feet of water, but it was also lit. However, the big question is who was really lit—Houston or the lantern? . . . There is no one who enjoys his milk more than Ray Pflueger, but he draws the line when the cows start producing ice water instead of milk. Hereafter he demands proof that the container holds what it says.

The luck of the Irish held true when Howard Brooks knocked off the pool which had been riding along without being hit for two weeks. "Shure, and he must be a carryin' a four-leafed clover?" . . . Never let it be said that Bill Hurtt . . . does . . . anything . . . half-way. When he was crashed into by another car the other Saturday in Chicago, it couldn't have been by an ordinary civilian—it had to be by a State Policeman no less. At least he can console himself by having that dubious distinction. From all reports, he really blew his top and to date he still isn't very happy.

It's not often we have the honor of being able to display that handiwork of Cy (The Great) Seymour, but the jaws on the shearing machine in the tin shop are a mute but convincing testimonial of his ability. . . . Art Blume was justly proud the other day when his boy won the golf championship in his class.

QUOTATION OF THE WEEK—
"One may talk too much on the best of subjects."

Tee Off by Earl Stauffer

Most of the leagues are giving out with that mid-season golf. To be on the top of the heap is just a temporary status. Also to be on the top makes that team the target for the rest of the league.

Paul Billman of the Eagles in the Owl league was the week's medalist with a one under par 35. Dick Szink in the Winter St. group carded a 36.

Monday Afternoon League

Only 11 points separate first and fourth place in this league. Benny Penkul's wire mill team is on top with plus 17. Transformer has 16 and the Putters have 15.

Tuesday Evening League

Big "Red's" 19th Hokers tanned the Gas House Tigers by nine points and squeezed into first spot over the Optimists by a point. Bob Black's boys only picked up six from Bill Rutledge's 49'ers. The Divot Diggers tied the Dubs. The old Redhead was low with a 38.

Winter St. League

Last week Bill Irwin's team was a two point leader and Bob Shoaff's lads were a mere two behind. Tail-end Skevington's team dumped Irwin by seven and Dick Szink's boy beat Shoaff by five. The sum total leaves Irwin's and Shoaff's tied for first with a plus 22.

Stuart Fisher's boys picked up nine from Leo Houser's team.

Thursday Morning Owl

It was hot and windy Thursday morning, but it didn't bother Paul Billman and his Eagles. They stomped over Mo Runyon's Bogeys for 14 points. Bud Hower's Pars picked up five from Norm Wolf's Birdies. The 48 that 1 shot was about the difference. The champs picked up 10 on a forfeit from the Aces.

GE Club Ham Nine Split Two with Magnavox

The GE Club Ham team split two games last week, beating Magnavox 9 to 8 in a real slug-fest. The Club came from behind and scored two runs in the last of the seventh inning, after two men were out. Bill Holloway and Mel Kestner were the heroes in the rally.

In the second game, the Club was shut out, for their second loss in this half by Scotts. The score was 7 to 0. The Club got only one hit, a two base blow in the first inning by Byers. This was one of the shortest games played, lasting only 46 minutes.

Both events were well attended and enjoyed. Charles Laymon showed the planners how to play Hawaiian ball—that's softball played barefooted. You see, we needed his sandals for bases. For eating Don Hoffman had a very small plate. At least that was his reason for so many trips to the table for refills. Most of the little kids had fun, too—especially, after they found out that Mrs. Chet Burgette was ticklish. . . . Ed Steward, our handsome and happy retired grinding foreman, never claimed to be a champion fisherman, but he does have the distinction of catching a brand new rod and reel off the bottom of the lake. Fishing or swimming we might as well mention that Woody Hursh hit a snag while casting recently and tipped the boat slightly. Within a few seconds the boat was resting on the bottom of the lake and Woody was looking for land. There is a possibility that Ed hooked some of Woody's submerged equipment. . . . PLANT ENGINEERING BEGINS DECENTRALIZATION

The first step in the decentralization of plant engineering and general service took place this week with the appointment of plant engineers for three Fort Wayne departments and a buildings and utilities engineer.

Donald D. Brayer has been appointed plant engineer of the Specialty Motor Sub-Department, Adolph J. Rose, manager of manufacturing, announced. Mr. Brayer will have responsibility for the east Broadway area.

A. Wallace Howard has been named General AC Motor plant engineer with responsibilities for the west Broadway area. The Taylor St. area, Leo W. Kuttner, manager of manufacturing, reported.

John L. Lare has been appointed Specialty Transformer and Ballast plant engineer with responsibilities for the west Broadway area. The appointment was revealed by Elmer Paul, manager of manufacturing.

Robert L. Whitaker has been named to the post of buildings and utilities engineer, according to an announcement by Robert Wylie, manager of the GAC contributing manufacturing section. Mr. Whitaker will have responsibility for buildings, grounds, and utilities of the Fort Wayne plant.

Donald D. Brayer

When he became a GE employee in 1928, Mr. Brayer went into plant engineering as a civil engineer. He entered Specialty Transformer and Ballast planning in 1931 where he was a planner. Later in 1936, he returned to plant engineering and went to Taylor St. in 1941. He was named assistant plant engineer in 1944 and became plant engineer in 1951. This was his position at the time of his present appointment.

A graduate of Purdue University, Mr. Brayer received his BSCE degree in 1928. He is a member of the Foremen's Association, Supervisors Club, Fort Wayne Association of General Electric Engineers, Fort Wayne Engineers Club, and is a registered professional engineer in the State of Indiana.

The Brayers, who have one daughter, reside at 2922 S. Anthony Blvd.

Wallace Howard

Joining the test engineers program when he came to the Company in 1929, Mr. Howard entered plant engineering. Upon completion of the program in 1930, he went into electrical engineering. From 1933 until 1937, he was located in the test and inspection section in charge of the waste and spoilage program.

In 1942, Mr. Howard became assistant plant engineer. He went on special assignment in 1946 when he was on the construction problem of the Tiffin and Danville plants. In 1949, he became section leader of plant engineering's electrical section and was in this location until his present appointment.

A University of Colorado graduate, Mr. Howard received his BSEE degree in 1929. He is a member of the Supervisors Club, FWAGEE, AIEE, NSPE, and Fort Wayne Engineers Club. He is director of the Citizens Council of Fort Wayne and Allen County and a Boy Scout commissioner in Allen County.

The Howards have four children and live at 4126 Hazelhurst Dr.

John Lare

Mr. Lare joined the Company in 1922 and entered the Apprentice School. After graduation from the Apprentice course, he went into plant engineering in 1925 on plumbing and heating work. In 1932 he transferred to the power plant as an operator.

In 1934, Mr. Lare became foreman of the power plant and in 1936 returned to plant engineering where he did material handling work. He became assistant superintendent of the general service section in 1941. He was named superintendent of the same section in 1951. He had this position prior to his present appointment.

GE organizations of which Mr. Lare is a member are Foremen's Association, Supervisors Club, GE Squares, and Apprentice Alumni Association. He and Mrs. Lare, who have one daughter, reside on R.R. 13, Bethel Rd.

Robert Whitaker

After joining GE in 1924, Mr. Whitaker became an assistant structural engineer. In 1932, he went into grounds and building engineering. He has been in plant engineering as a construction engineer since 1948.

In 1924, Mr. Whitaker received his BSCE degree from the University of Michigan. He is a member of the Supervisors Club, Quarter Century Club, American Society of Civil Engineers, Fort Wayne Engineers Club, and is a registered professional engineer in the states of Indiana and Michigan.

The Whitakers, who reside at 4230 Beaver Ave., have a son and a daughter. The son, Duncan, is a senior at Yale University.

All Employees to Receive Scrapbook History of GE

An illustrated scrapbook history of General Electric's 75 years of progress is being mailed to all Fort Wayne plant employees and pensioners next week. The 48-page booklets are being sent to the homes by employee relations managers.

Part of the 75th anniversary program, the booklets contain a commentary and pictorial view of the highlights of the Company since its beginning.

Giving the reader an idea of the vast growth in one industry during the past three-quarters of a century, the 8 by 11 inch booklet has interesting pictorial coverage of GE leaders of the past and present, types of products and their improvement, applications of products, and plants of the Company.

Arranged in a scrapbook form, the history bears a color picture of Edison and his associates in 1879. Its variety in recording GE's growth includes reprints of old newspaper clippings, early financial statements, and sketches.

The 75th anniversary program will hit its peak in the Company's 131 plants throughout the country on October 15, date of the anniversary.

Ice Cream Social To Be Thursday From 3:30 to 11

A change of time for the Ice Cream Social, co-sponsored by Elex Club and the GE Veterans Association, has been announced by club officers. The social will open at 3:30 p.m. and close at 11 p.m., Thursday, July 9.

Proceeds from the annual event will be used for boxes sent to GE employees in the Armed Forces. There will be ice cream, cake, hot dog, coffee, soft drink, and fish pond booths. Tickets are ten cents each and may be secured from contact representatives of the two groups or at the social in McCulloch Park.

Any employees wishing to donate cakes may do so by leaving them at any of the gate houses the day of the social.

Taxpayers Assn. Elects M. H. Mayo to Board

Maurice H. Mayo, Bldg. 18-2, manager of finance for the Component Products Division, was elected to the board of directors of the Fort Wayne Taxpayers Research Association recently.

Mr. Mayo has been in his present position since coming to the Fort Wayne plant in January this year. Prior to that time, he was in the Accounting Services Division at Schenectady, where he was in charge of budgets and management control data. He joined the Company in 1937.

GE CLUB ANNOUNCES ELECTION SLATE; BALLOTS IN PAYCHECKS NEXT WEEK

Squares Club Announce Two July Events

Two July events for GE Squares Club members have been announced by Donald C. Reek, president. Monday, July 13, a stag picnic will be staged at Voigt's Retreat. The organization's annual golf tourney has been set for Saturday, July 18.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the picnic will feature a challenge baseball game between Specialty Transformer and Ballast members and Fractional Horsepower Motor members. Other sports will be available. Refreshments, entertainment, and lunch are included on the program also. Jim Capps, Taylor St., is serving as general chairman of the stag event.

Brookwood golf course will be the scene of the Blind Bogey golf tourney, Homer E. Porte, Bldg. 4-6, chairman, reported. All members interested in participating in the event are asked to contact Mr. Porte on ext. 621.

Prizes for high and low score and other phases of the tourney will be awarded. Milt DeJean, Bldg. 4-6, is assisting the chairman with arrangements for the contest.

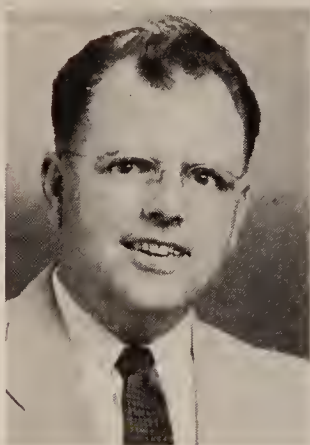

Employee Earns Courtesy Contest Driver's Award

The third winner in the current Courtesy Campaign sponsored by The News-Sentinel and the Chicago Motor Club, Joseph J. Horan, Bldg. 4-6, was honored Wednesday, July 8, for his courteous and considerate driving.

Relieving a traffic jam, Mr. Horan was observed giving four drivers the opportunity to enter a southwest shopping center from a street with a great deal of traffic.

Leaving the center, Mr. Horan was waiting for a break in traffic and when it came he yielded the right of way to the other four waiting drivers.

A winner's sticker and a cash award of $5 were presented Mr. Horan, who will also have the opportunity to vote for the most courteous and neatly dressed traffic officer.

SAM MACY

WILLIAM SCHIBLE

Ballots for the 1953-54 GE Club election of officers will be distributed with pay checks to all employees next week, Erv Huth, chairman of the nominating committee, announced today.

Candidates for president are William Schible, Bldg. 20-1, and Sam Macy, Bldg. 26-4. Other nominees for offices are:

First Vice President

Les Shroyer, Bldg. 31-2

Earl Stauffer, Bldg. 17-4

Second Vice President

Mary Saxton, Taylor St.

Charlotte Stanford, Taylor St.

Secretary

Charles Winans, Taylor St.

Joe Gardt, Taylor St.

Director

Betty Puff, Bldg. 4-6

Voyce Brumbaugh, Taylor St.

Hourly rated employees will receive ballots Wednesday, July 15, and salaried employees will be given ballots Friday, July 17. Everyone voting should place their completed ballots in boxes placed at all time card machines.

Deadline for returning votes is Tuesday, July 21. Members of the nominating committee in addition to chairman Huth are: Jerry Duryee, Helen Wagner, Gordon L. Smith, and Sam Baumgartner.

Specialty Motor Trio Nominated For Diamond Derby Order Awards

The first Diamond Derby award nomination involving the Specialty Motor Sub-Department has been made in Newark, N. J., in connection with an order for type KC Miniature 49 frame motors for use in calculating machines.

Dick Carter, Newark office salesman, Bob Groot, and Bob Richey, both of the Specialty Motor Sub Department marketing section, have been nominated for the award after they closed an order for the KC motors to be used in calculators made by the Monroe Calculating Machine Co., Orange, N. J. The first calculating machine customer to use GE built-in, series regulated motors, the Monroe Co. is now switching over to the miniature induction motors just recently put into initial production.

The Diamond Derby awards are being made during the company's 75th Anniversary observance for employees and are given by the Apparatus Sales Division to salesmen for their work on outstanding orders.

Approximately $1500 in certificates for the purchase of General Electric products will be awarded in the Specialty Motor Sub Department's 75th Anniversary contest which consists of competitive projects in three areas: 1) Cost Reduction 2) Engineering and 3) Marketing.

According to contest rules announced in May by General Manager J. J. Clarkson, any employee or group of employees of the sub-department except supervisory personnel are eligible to submit an entry.

Amount of net annual savings will be the basis of Cost Reduction awards which are being judged by M. R. Cameron, T. L. Staley, F.

DIAMOND DERBY NOMINEES—Dick Carter, Newark office salesman, right, and Bob Groot, Specialty Motor Sales Manager, discuss a Monroe Calculating Machine Co. order for KC Miniature motors. In recognition of the close team work and extra effort of Carter, Groot, and Bob Richey over a period of two and a half years on the Monroe account, the trio has been nominated for a Diamond Derby award in the Apparatus Sales Division's portion of the company's 75th Anniversary observance.

Decatur Plant Family Picnic Is Tomorrow

Tomorrow Decatur plant employees and their families will convene at Sunset Park for the GE Club annual family picnic. Charlie Cloud is serving as general chairman of the event which will get under way at 11 a.m.

Part of pre-picnic publicity, a Missing Letters Sentence contest is being conducted through the news column "Decaturites" and bulletin boards in the plant. Employees are to use missing letters left out of the past month's GE NEWS columns and form a sentence. This should be written on the entry blank printed on page 4 and turned in at the picnic tomorrow by 1 p.m.

Entertainment for the entire family will include a quiz for adults, two spelling bees for youngsters, and a game, the Sawdust Scramble, for the small fry. There will be pony rides and games also.

Assisting with arrangements for the outing are the following committees: food—Jake Eady, chairman, and Herman Keller; dinner—J. K. Staley, Mina Stevens, Ada Owens, and Rene Holthouse; hot dogs—Clarence Brunnegraff and Ed Noonan; soft drinks—John Baumann and Mary Miller; ice cream—Wanda Bailey and Emma Lou Kukulhan.

Coffee—John Schurger; entertainment—J. J. Baker; registration booth—Betty Moran, chairman; Mary Maloney, Lloyd Kreischer,

Highway Hypnosis

Many vacation bound motorists will be traveling one or more of the country's newer super highways for the first time this summer.

These uninitiated drivers will soon discover the thrill of covering long distances in a short time at sustained higher speeds. But many of them will also discover a deadly driving hazard that has already claimed a number of lives. It's called "highway hypnosis."

According to the Institute for Safer Living, this is a comparatively new driving menace and is a sort of "wide awake" sleep induced by the monotony of traveling long, level ribbons of roadway where the driver has little to do but stare straight ahead while his car eats up the miles. The swish of passing cars and the steady purr of the motor complete the process of drugging his senses, to a point where it is often impossible for the driver to meet a sudden emergency.

The Institute offers the following suggestions for safer super highway travel:

Do not fall into the habit of following the car ahead blindly. Be prepared for a sudden stop or a change of pace.

Change your rate of speed frequently. This helps to prevent the senses from becoming sluggish and aids in releasing physical tension.

Take a short rest stop every 50 miles or so. Coffee, a light snack, or a brisk stretch and stroll will help to ward off driving hypnosis and fatigue.

Keep plenty of fresh air circulating through the car.

If your mind becomes sluggish or you feel drowsy, turn on the car radio, or converse with fellow passengers. However, never permit your attention to wander from the serious business of driving.

Generally, there are fewer traffic regulation signs and control devices on fast highways but the ones you do encounter should be obeyed to the letter.

Be prepared to act quickly in any driving emergency. Remember that the faster traffic tempo of super highways may allow you only seconds in which to avert a tragedy.

Finally, when you leave the super highway, slow down immediately to the speed that is safe for the type of by-road on which you then find yourself. Driving hypnosis may delay your recognition that highway conditions have changed.

HOT RHYTHM

In consulting Mr. Webster,
Which I do an awful lot,
I find that heat has been defined,
The state of being hot.

I also found some other things,
He said about this stuff,
But being hot, at least to me,
Is plenty good enough.

I've always found that heat and hot,
Go pretty much together;
Without the heat, I'm positive,
We'd never have hot weather.

Now that's a fine example
Of the thinking you will find,
Coming from a woody poet,
When the heat affects his mind.

And if that does not convince you
What the heat can really do,
Here's another thought, "When hot,
It's just the heat that's burning you.

When you sweat, you're just perspiring,
Surplus moisture oozing out;
It's the heat and since it is,
Of course, you're hot, without a doubt.

I've always liked the heat that's cool
And not the kind that's hot;
But while I sit here writing this,
That isn't what I've got.

By looking cross-eyed down my nose,
I find that on the tip,
This oozing moisture, forming drops,
Has now begun to drip.

Should a sudden freeze envelop me,
The least of all my fears,
I'd have a well formed crystal ball
On each of my two ears.

Along my spine, it seems that nature
Formed a natural track;
For sweat, from higher places,
To go streaming down my back.

My undershirt and shorts, which I
With ease can always doff,
Now cling as if a part of me,
And have to be peeled off.

My feet, encased within my shoes,
Sure take an awful beating;
They look much like they'd been embalmed,
Succumbed, from over heating.

My eyes are red, because, it seems,
The drainage isn't right.
The perspiration from my brow
Runs in and dims my sight.

I've thought a plastic cave-trough,
Hanging just below my brow,
With a down spout might be helpful,
It, I'm sure, would help me now.

I have thought of using blotters,
Or sponge rubber shorts and shirt.
I have thought of going bare foot,
But the stones, I'm sure would hurt.

I have thought of hibernating
In some deep-freeze locker room.
But my cold and chilly memories,
Make this little thought go boom:

I have thought of many other things,
But find my surest bet,
Is to sit beneath a fan,
And then go right on wiping sweat.

When you're reading this, the weather
May have turned a little cooler,
But don't sell your fan, because you see
This may be just a fooler.

Anyhow, my weight's reducing,
Which if yours is still all right,
But my clothes, though seeming looser,
Still are sticking awful tight.

But I'm feeling rather thankful,
For one thing that's awful nice:
I don't have to shovel snow,
Nor slip and slide upon the ice.

SLEUTHING in 4-6

Gil Baker

The new T.E. in Max Barrows' group is Clarence Bode. Clarence is still single and calls Chesterhill, Ohio, his home town. He is a 1951 graduate of Ohio University and has a BSEE degree. This is his third test, having served previous assignments at Owensboro Tube Plant and Louisville, Ky. One of his hobbies is 35 mm. color photography. . . . NOSE TROUBLE, surgery that is. Gwen Bray was back at her desk bright and early last Monday morning after being absent, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of last week. She spent part of it in the St. Josephs Hospital where she underwent minor surgery. Although, from Gwen's description, we'd say it wasn't exactly minor with all the mallets, chisels, and only a local anesthetic to boot. We'd say you were a very brave gal. . . . WELCOME BACK TO 4-6: Margaret Taylor is back with us again after having been absent for several weeks due to illness. You're looking grand and we're happy to see your smiling face again. . . . SURF-BOARD AMATEUR: Phyl Faulkner took a few lessons in surf-board riding over the 4th. She only fell off four times she said, but always went back for more until she gained confidence in herself. (P.S. She was wearing a life belt.) She'll probably be trying water skis next. Anyhow—she has a lovely tan to prove it. . . . LOVELY VACATION: Ruth Burris spent two wonderful vacation weeks in New York, New Jersey, and Washington, D. C. Ruth visited all the spots of interest. From her description we don't think she missed anything. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Tom Staley who is celebrating his birthday today, July 10. . . . FEELING BETTER: We are glad to report that F. L. Gale is recovering very well after his operation. . . . STILL ON THE SICK LIST is Carl Starke, hope you feel better soon. . . . WELCOME to Arthur Kabisch in Mr. Pugh's section. Art formerly worked at Winter St. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY next Monday, July 13, to Charlie Pennell. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Wes Goss on July 11, 1953. . . . Paul Motter must have fallen asleep while in the barber chair. He says there is nothing like a crew cut in the summer time. . . . Belated welcome to our Hoosier test engineer by the name of Harry Badger, who hails from our capital city of Indianapolis and attended college at Terre Haute. This is his first test. Hope we were not too hard on you, Harry. He is single and drives a big black Cadillac. . . . Welcome; Lewis Bolyard is now a permanent man working with Fred Suhr's group. . . . Joan G. Michael became the bride of Harry E. Hodde on Saturday, July 4 at 9 o'clock nuptial mass at St. Andrews.

Pardon me for tooting my own horn but I just have to tell you that we have a new baby boy at our house (our ninth child). So what if there isn't room for me at the table any more and I have to eat off the cabinet, you can't have everything. . . . Well, the boys (Charlie Castle and Ralph Garrett) got back safely from their fishing trip way up north. As you might expect they have a lot of stories to tell. I don't want to say who caught the most fish but Ralph brought in a lot of bluegills and was feeding all the gang, including yours truly. Castle brought a can of sardines in his lunch. One story Ralph tells about Castle is about the day they were fishing and Castle was catching all little ones, and we do mean little. "The next blankety blank minnow that I catch," says Castle, "I'm going to bite his head off." No sooner had he said it when, bang, he had another bite. When he landed it, sure enough it was a little one and he was a man of his word. Another incident was when Garrett was awakened at 4:30 a.m. by the alarm clock. He leaped out of bed, grabbed the phone, and yelled, "hello, hello, Garrett speaking." . . . The candidates for the meanest man in Bldg. 22 have been narrowed down to two, Ferroll (Cupid) Hill and Art Thompson. Thompson's wife wanted a TV set but he bought her a tractor instead. He was seen during the recent hot spell fanning her with his hat when she became overheated from too many grueling hours in the sun. Hill took his 80 year old mother fishing with him and whenever she got a bite he would take the pole away from her and land the fish himself. "Well, gee whiz," says Hill. "I never get a bite, and besides it's my boat, isn't it?"

MAIN OFFICE CONTENTS BLDG. 18

We welcome Margaret Whonsetler to 18-5. She is the daughter of W. L. Whonsetler, Bldg. 4-6. . . . Jim Harvey has returned to work in 18-5 after several month's absence. . . . Happy Birthday, to Eloise Kartholl, 18-4. We thank you for the cookies and nuts. . . . Betty Herbon, of Data Bureau, is leaving us the 14th. Her husband Tom, who is vicar at St. John's Lutheran, is returning to seminary at Capitol University, Columbus, Ohio. Co-workers in the data bureau entertained Betty at dinner Thursday evening. . . . HELLO AND GOODBYE: Hello to Rose Marie Hart, who is replacing Lillian Sainz in Bldg. 18-1. Lillian is leaving to resume her full-time housekeeping duties. We hope Rose Marie likes it here and we are sure Lillian will enjoy being with her children. . . . GET WELL WISHES go to Ceal Romary. The library just isn't the same without Ceal. SIM Dept. Finance Section Reveals Four Appointments

Four appointments in the Small Integral Motor finance section were announced today by Martin L. Kresge, manager of finance.

Paul A. Berghorn is supervisor of the newly established procedures unit. Andre S. Docos is supervisor of the accounting unit. Edwin F. Heemsoth is named specialist—budgets and measurements. Everett A. Lane is supervisor of the cost and payroll unit.

Joining the Company in 1925, Mr. Berghorn entered the Apprentice School. After graduation from the course in 1928, he became a draftsman and later leader in Fractional Horsepower Motor engineering drafting section.

In the same location, Mr. Berghorn was named requisition engineer in 1937 and two years later became supervisor of requisition engineering and drafting. Two years later he continued with these duties and also had charge of material procurement, planning and production scheduling.

In 1943, Mr. Berghorn became a mechanical design engineer and was named group leader in FHP engineering later that same year. Prior to his present appointment he was on special assignment in engineering planning study of SIM.

Mr. Berghorn is a member of the Apprentice Alumni Association, Quarter Century Club, Fort Wayne Engineers Club, Fort Wayne Association of General Electric Engineers, and is a Registered Professional Engineer.

The Berghorns, who have three children, live at 4005 Buell Dr.

When he entered GE in 1948, Mr. Docos went on the business training course at Electronics Park in Syracuse. He has held various assignments in accounting, cost and commercial service sections. In November last year, he transferred to the SIM Planning Study as an assistant to the finance consultant. This was his position prior to his present assignment.

A graduate of the University of New Hampshire, Mr. Docos received his BS degree in business administration in 1948. He is married and has two children. The Docos' reside at 2022 Oakland St.

In 1928, Mr. Heemsoth became a GE employee and was a messenger. Later, he transferred to Winter St. and set up the first messenger service in that location. The following year he became a payroll clerk and in 1933 joined the cost section as a clerk.

Continuing in cost work until 1945, Mr. Heemsoth was named assistant supervisor of order service. In 1946 he became supervisor of costs and in 1950 was appointed plant cost accountant. He had this position at the time of his present appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Heemsoth and their two daughters reside at R.R. 2, New Haven.

General Electric to Spend 5 Million For Education Responsibilities in 1953

More than $5,000,000 will be spent by the General Electric Company this year to meet what it believes is its responsibility to education, it was revealed recently.

The figure was disclosed when two General Electric officials discussed the moral and economic responsibilities of American business toward education at a meeting of 75 outstanding scientists, engineers and businessmen who obtained part of their education through GE Coffin and Swope Fellowships.

The special gathering is concluding a two-day session observance of the Company's diamond anniversary. The Coffin and Starting with the Company in 1941, Mr. Lane entered the Lynn River Works Apprentice Course. From 1943 until 1946, he served in the U.S. Air Force. After being discharged from the Service, he returned to the Apprentice Course and later went into the motor cost section at Lynn. He had various assignments in this section. After graduation from the course in 1948 as a machinist-toolmaker, he went into the Business Training Program. Last year, he moved to SIM Planning Study as an assistant to the financial consultant and had this position until his present assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane and their two children live at 4214 S. Monroe St.

Dear Friends,

It is a pleasure to extend greetings to your fine group from the General Electric Company of Fort Wayne. I think your proposed trip to Europe is a splendid idea. You will find the experience tremendously interesting and beneficial, I know.

Such trips as yours are of inestimable value these days, for it is highly important that you young people become familiar with the international scene and take an active part in establishing understanding and good will.

My best wishes to you for a successful journey.

Mamie Dowd Eisenhower

Swope Fellowships were established by GE to honor its first and third presidents, Charles A. Coffin and Gerard Swope. About 218 individuals have received 263 Coffin and Swope Fellowships since the program was begun in 1922.

The huge GE educational program includes 35 fellowships to outstanding college graduates, 100 scholarships to college juniors, 70 scholarships to employees and children of employees, 200 summer fellowships for high school science and mathematics teachers, and five weeks of on-the-job training for a selected group of more than two dozen college engineering professors.

In addition, more than 25,000 GE employees across the country are enrolled in courses for advanced engineering, manufacturing, marketing, advertising and sales promotion, training for apprentices, foremen, draftsmen and laboratory assistants.

GE Vets Set Ticket Deadline

Thursday, July 16, is the deadline for securing tickets for the General Electric War Veterans stag picnic. The outing will take place Saturday, July 18, at Rose Manor beginning at 10 a.m.

Included on the program of the all-day event are baseball, horseshoes, entertainment, refreshments, and food.

Tickets are $1.50 and may be secured from the organization's contact men in the east and west side Broadway, Taylor St., and Winter St. areas.

Rose Manor is located at 3525 N. Clinton St. extended.

All engineers, engineering assistants, and draftsmen are eligible for engineering awards which are based on creative design, product improvement, cost reduction through redesign and engineering efficiency. Judges are I. E. Ross, H. B. Carter and C. M. Summers.

The Marketing contest, the counterpart of the Apparatus Sales Division Diamond Derby competition, is being judged by R. C. Hanna, J. J. Horan, R. W. Groot, A. L. Johnson and F. D. Wilson. Awards are based on teamwork, favorable effect on customer relations and future business opportunities, and extra effort in terms of ingenuity, imagination and industry.

Q. What is the greatest age that a person has been known to live?

A. According to one authority on vital statistics, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, the greatest age attained in modern times for which the records seems reliable is that of a Dane named Christen Jacobsen Drakenberg. He was born Nov. 18, 1626, and died Oct. 9, 1772, so he almost completed 146 years. In 1773, at the age of 111, he married a 60-year-old widow, who died a few years later.

Q. Can you tell me something about "Planet X," the tenth planet from the Sun, which I understand has recently been discovered?

A. Only nine major planets, of a size at least comparable with the Earth, are now known. This does not include the tiny asteroids, of which there are many thousands. The last discovery of a major planet of 3,666,000,000 miles from the Sun. Its existence was suspected prior to its actual discovery, and it was occasionally referred to as "Planet X," but the letter X stood for the unknown, and not the number 10. Perhaps there are other planets, even farther out than Pluto, but they would be very difficult to locate.

Q. Is a person safe from lightning inside a metal trailer?

A. A person inside a metal trailer should be quite safe from lightning, for if it struck it would jump over the rubber tires to the earth. It might also cause a short circuit in the trailer's electrical wiring, but proper fuses would take care of this. If there is a water supply to the trailer from a metal pipe, the pipe should be connected to the metal of the trailer by a copper wire. Special precautions should be taken in getting in and out during a thunderstorm, for if a stroke should occur when a person has one foot on the ground and the other on the trailer, he might get a severe shock. If one has to go in or out during a storm it is best to jump.

Q. Is there an animal in South America which is link between the birds and reptiles?

A. Probably what you have in mind is the hoatzin, a bird that lives along the rivers of Venezuela. According to the American Museum of Natural History, this bird, when young, has hooks on its wings, which enable it to climb trees. Thus in this respect, it resembles a reptile, though actually it is not close to the reptile family. An extinct link between birds and reptiles is the fossil archaeopteryx, which once lived in what is now Bavaria.

Earl J. Gebert Joins Specialty

Earl J. Gebert

The appointment of Earl J. Gebert to the position of foreman of the commutator and mica insulation sub-unit in Specialty Motor Sub-Department has been reported by Frank T. Gamec, superintendent of Sub-Section 15.

Mr. Gebert joined the Company in 1912 and since that time has worked in the insulation section. He has done work in molding, process control, and gauging mica rings. Prior to his present assignment, he was a foreman in Bldg. 12-3.

A member of the Quarter Century Club and Foremen's Association, Mr. Gebert is married and has three sons. He resides at 220 McKinnie Circle.

Harry Meyers tried to pull a fast one on his kids, but they didn't like it. They wanted to go to McMillan Park to see the fireworks, but Harry didn't want to get in the jam so he pulled into the parking lot at the Coliseum and watched the fireworks from Zollner Stadium. The kids said they were OK, but next time they wanted to go where they wanted to. . . . Sam Warren is on third trick. He said he wanted to get away from everything. . . . Shirley Gaff had a minor operation last week, but is able to be at work again. . . . James Stauffer is home from the Service, this time for good, for which he and his family are very happy. . . . Glen Schwartz didn't know that they were going to have fireworks in the big town of Uniondale, so he made plans to go to Muncie to see them. Glen, you shouldn't let your hometown down like that, you should support all the civic activities. . . . Stella Mailand didn't have much luck fishing on Wawasee over the weekend. . . . Jessie Hamilton is spending her week-ends at Pretty Lake, now that they have their own cottage. . . . Eva Shaffer is a patient at the St. Joseph hospital. A speedy recovery, Eva. . . . Betty Froebe is on the sick list. She will be going in for falsies one of these days—teeth, we mean. . . . Robert Fate is the new man in 1 x 29. . . . Leonard Floyd is spending this week in Canada. He went along for the ride while his wife does the fishing. . . . Agnes Grosjean is leaving on retirement July 10. The evening of the ninth, the girls had a party and dinner for her at the Colonial. She says she is going to take it easy for awhile and visit all the folks she hasn't seen for a long time. . . . We do hope you enjoy your retirement, Agnes, and do come and see us once-in-awhile. . . . Caroline Becker is very happy because after all these years of having only one child, she now has two. Her daughter was married last week. . . . Last week I reported that Marie Griffin was in Terre Haute but here is an interesting happening she didn't let me in on. It seems her room was across the hall from Helen White's and after Marie turned the water on in the bath tub in preparation of taking a bath, she stepped out in the hall to say something to Helen. The wind blew the door shut leaving her in the hall with the water running in the tub. Evidently it must have been a large tub as the bell-hop came to the rescue before it ran over. . . . Bill Charleston is on vacation at Tri-Lakes this week. . . . Paul Ealing has a new bright red Buick convertible. . . . Do you suppose Malinda Behrman will ever ride the automatic elevator again? Malinda and about a dozen others were trapped for a half hour on it. . . . If you're underweight, contact Mary Lu Williams. Her mother fried nine chickens for the 4th and her girlfriend gained four pounds. . . . Bea Davis had a wonderful time up at Lake Erie over the 4th. . . . Bob Erickson is learning how to build a house. It won't be long till he builds his own. . . . Maureen Drake caught some swell fish on their trip up in Michigan. . . . Fern Painter's husband Harold caught a 16-inch bass at Big Long Lake. . . . Was Ernie Kalb ever speechless when he stooped to pick up a spool of wire! His wife had warned him that the seat of his pants was weak. The girls were very helpful, however. One had a hat pin and another a needle and thread. He didn't have to wait too long, till his son brought him another pair of pants. . . . Dorothy Mollet is sorta lonesome this week. Her daughters are vacationing at Youth Camp. . . . Welcome to Ernie Laurote who is the new set-up-man assisting Ray Soest. . . . We are glad Leah Coolmans' daughter is better after having the measles. . . . Happy birthday to Mildred Gaffer, Grace Stone, Kathryn Hepker, Lorinda Byerlein. . . . Geneva Moody visited at South Haven, Mich. recently. . . . Earl Sexton wasn't too hungry one day last week so he carried the bucket from force of habit. . . . Don Ertel is getting pretty disgusted with the drive in to Fort Wayne. He just got a nice shiny car after many years. Last week he got it in the back, and this week a fellow backed into the front. . . . No big fish stories from Palmer Lake from Russell Rose after a week's vacation up there. . . . Since Walter Frain moved to Waynedale from Fort Wayne, he needed a town and a country car. He got a new Dodge.

The blistering heat we have been enduring brought to light several remedies on how to keep cool when the temperature soars around 100 in the shade. Eloise Hoehn and Bonnie Johnson wrapped wet paper towels around their heads. They looked like a couple of nurses-aides working around the office, but insisted they were cooler that way. Ralph Heminger came through with a sure cure. First thing in the morning, he checked with the weather bureau to make certain we were in for another scorching day. Then with the necessary papers, etc. needed for business at air-conditioned Taylor St., he bade us farewell with one last reminder about the expected high temperature for that day, but hoping we wouldn't have too much trouble keeping cool. Helen Risser, who is enjoying a weeks vacation, felt certain that Canada was the solution to beat the heat, so the Risseres decided to motor in that direction. . . . When we heard Paul Merkert ask Ed David, "Did you bring him a glass of milk or anything", we didn't know to whom he was referring. But he was kind enough to explain that Ed has his new GE fan insured by Lloyds of London, and that they keep a mid-gest stationed in a cabinet near the fan. . . . George Michel will be back next week to tell us all about his vacation. George spent one week at Snow Lake, fishing, and one week at home just relaxing. . . . Frank Parker says fresh creamery butter applied locally is a sure-fired remedy for the chiggers. . . . When Joe Rykowski upset a load of steel, all the friendly fellows gathered around to give him kindly advice on "How not to spill a load of steel". Joe said, he certainly appreciated everyone's interest. . . . Our condolence to George Mayer on the death of his father.

Our "We wish you happiness" mat is out for Charlie Tutt and Mary Maxwell who said "I do" last week. . . . Former co-worker, Johnny Williams paid us a visit last week. His life of ease is certainly agreeing with him. . . . How-dee-do-de to all our newcomers. The welcome mat is out for you. . . . Glad to see Dorothy Ford back in the groove again. . . . The Jesse Hahn's are breezing by in a new Ford. . . . We bid farewell to Beulah Johnson. She is expecting a visitor on the Storkline Express. . . . Virginia Pelz was cleaning dresser drawers and decided to discard some of her husband's old shirts. She cut the buttons off of them, but it wasn't off the old ones. She had to sew them all back on again. . . . And another way to blow a fuse is to have a hot day in the factory, go out to the parking lot, and find that the bucket of bolts has a flat tire. How about that, Helen Pickett? . . . It's a happy birthday to Violet Brower and Lillian Hergenrother. . . . Louise Melvin spent last weekend in Liberty, Ind. . . . TALL STORY OF THE WEEK — Bill Martin tells us that after the rain last Wednesday, the farmers down Bluffton way were plowing their corn from row boats. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to the husband of Edith Childers. . . . Jewell Mayer, who has been on the sick list, is improving and hopes to be back soon. The Bldg. 19-2 field coil section lost one of its most efficient operators when Willis Bunyan was called to his eternal reward a few weeks ago. Quiet, soft spoken, and unassuming Mr. Bunyan was singularly proficient in a trade requiring a high degree of skill. May we extend to Mrs. Bunyan and his surviving relatives our most sincere sympathy for their loss. . . . A camping trip up north is being planned by Homer Hebler for his vacation. The north shore of Shoaff Lake in Franke Park, that is. . . . To Edward Glazier we offer belated best wishes and congratulations on the occasion of his wedding. . . . Dick Nelson says that the price per pound of the fish that he has caught so far this season, compared to the cost of his extensive equipment is somewhere in the neighborhood of $40. He hopes his luck improves during vacation period. We suggest he try the old cane pole and worm method. . . . John Ehresman and William Fair are recent new employees in Bldg. 19-2. . . . After spending her first day at vacation Bible School, Glen Bice's small daughter was telling her mother of her experiences. She said that a number of other children there hugged and kissed her. When her mother asked her if she would let anybody kiss her, she said no, just the boys. . . . Best wishes to Lois Sinkson on her birthday. She received a present of a blouse on this occasion. . . . Inquiring Reporters:

DO YOU THINK THE U.N.

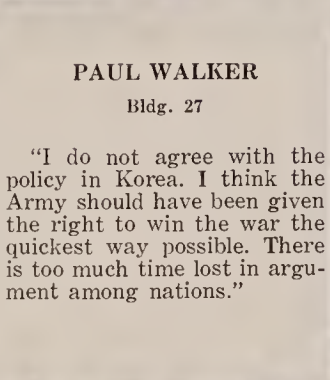

IS DOING A GOOD JOB? AND WHY?

ROBERT H. SILK

Bldg. 19-4

"No. The main purpose of the United Nations is to establish and maintain world peace through peaceful means. But for the past three years, they have been trying to stop aggression by fighting in Korea. Neither their words nor their actions seem to be obtaining the desired results."

PAUL WALKER

Bldg. 27

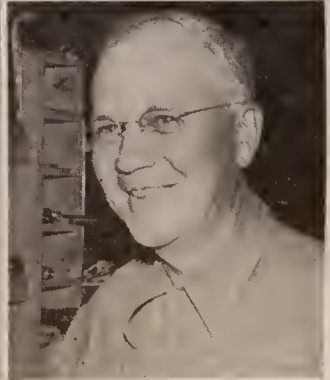

"I do not agree with the policy in Korea. I think the Army should have been given the right to win the war the quickest way possible. There is too much time lost in argument among nations."

EILEEN GOEHRINGER

Bldg. 4-6

"Yes, the U. N. is doing a good job, not because its members are solving all the ills of the world, but because it offers a sounding board for nations large and small to voice their opinions. It circumvents the formal diplomatic procedures and intrigue and brings the facts out in the open for debate. By the facts being presented before the world, the offender must recognize his own guilt."

LAWRENCE F. HOELTJE

Taylor St.

"Yes, I think the U.N. is doing a good job. The Security Council has succeeded in settling different problems such as those concerning Israel and Kashmir matters. Also very good is their educational exchange program. We have to look to the U.N. today to get things settled."

William Oswalt Gets New Post In Connecticut

William F. Oswalt has been named general manager of a newly-established General Purpose Control Department at Schenectady, N. Y., it was announced in Plainfield, Conn., by W. C. Wichman, vice president and general manager of the General Electric Company's Industrial Power Components Division.

Mr. Wichman explained that the new department will assume all responsibility for the general purpose control business formerly assigned to the Switchgear and Control Division.

Mr. Oswalt has been with GE since 1929 when he entered the apprentice training program at Fort Wayne, Ind. In 1934 he was assigned to the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Departments there.

During World War II, Mr. Oswalt was supervisor of general planning for the company's Supercharger Division at Fort Wayne. He served as manager of the company's Danville, Ill., plant from 1945 to 1948, when he returned to Fort Wayne to become manager of manufacturing for the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department. In 1948 he was appointed assistant manager of manufacturing for the Control Department in Schenectady.

Mr. Oswalt was appointed manager of manufacturing for the Industry Control Department in 1952 and has held that post until the present.

His home is at 1539 Regent St., Schenectady.

Art Braun almost knocked himself out while he was taking a shower in his basement. He slipped on the floor of the shower compartment and in trying to catch his balance, hit his forehead and nose on the blanket, blank thing. Maybe you'll buy that rubber mat you have been threatening to for the last three years now Mr. Art. . . . Someone informed me that she saw Russell Mennewisch in a Kroger store waiting his turn to ride the pony. . . . Jim Blake brought in some colored pictures of his baby daughter, and they certainly were cute. I do believe Jim's chest goes out six inches everytime he talks about Barbara. Can't blame the guy though. . . . Paul Schladenhaufer is building a new home, and the latest report is that it will be painted a vivid lavender on the outside. Any way you are doing a swell job, Paul, and you'll have something to be mighty proud of when you are done. . . . Speaking of homes, it seems that Ed Marchand has put in air-conditioning at his place. That's what I call real classy. . . . Leave it to Ed Harrison to do the unusual. He stuck his ice cream bar in his cup of coke. What would Emily Post say to that? . . . You all remember Jerry Holtsclaw who used to work for Walter Gerdorn. She is a very sick girl in the Lutheran Hospital. I thought I would mention it, and perhaps someone of you would care to send her a card to cheer her up. I know she would appreciate your kindness.

Four Appointments Announced In Hermetic Motor Sub-Section 16

Archie L. Evans

Louis H. Hoffman

Basil J. Pearson

Hugh M. Tigges

Four foremen appointments in the Hermetic Motor Sub-Department have been announced by Eldon J. Vosburgh, superintendent of Sub-Section 16. Archie L. Evans has been named foreman on second shift in integral placing. Louis H. Hoffman is a second shift foreman in field winding and finishing. Appointed a foreman in training, Basil J. Pearson is located in multiple blanking, stock area, receiving, and material handling on first shift. Hugh M. Tigges is named foreman in training on second shift in integral winding and finishing.

In 1942, Mr. Evans became a GE employee and entered the supercharger on set up. Later he became a lathe operator in Bldg. 6-2 and in 1947 entered the tool division in Bldg. 17-2 where he was a tool checker. This was his location prior to his present appointment.

Has Two Sons

Mr. Evans is a member of the Foremen's Association. The Evans and their two sons reside at 111 Norfolk Ave.

Starting as a messenger, Mr. Hoffman joined the Company in 1930. Three years later he went to Bldg. 4-3 as a finisher. Later he was a stacker and hydraulic press operator. In 1941 he became a set up man on winding machines in Bldg. 17-3 and had this position at the time of his present assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman and their three children live at R.R. 11, Illinois Rd.

In 1929, Mr. Pearson came to General Electric and entered the Winter St. plant where he was an inspector. Later he moved to Broadway as an inspector and in 1949 entered raw materials work in Bldg. 4-B. This was his job until his present appointment.

Served in Army

From 1921 until 1925, Mr. Pearson served in the U. S. Army. He is a member of the Foremen's Association, the Musicians Association, and the St. Joe Athletic Club.

The Pearsons have six children and live at 814 E. Berry St.

Starting with the Company in 1933, Mr. Tigges was a lathe operator in Bldg. 17-2. He was a grinder and in 1941 went to the Taylor St. plant where he was a set up man on P & J machines.

In 1945, Mr. Tigges moved to Bldg. 17-2 as a grinder and in 1950 began work in the naphtha wash room, Bldg. 17-3. This was his location prior to his present appointment.

Mr. Tigges completed the manufacturing training course in 1941. He is a member of the Foremen's Association. The Tigges and their three children reside at 4402 S. Wayne Ave.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Millie Rietdorf. The coke and candy were delicious. Millie spent two days in the hospital. We hope to see her back to work soon. . . . Too bad Irma Beard's eyesight is getting so poor. Maybe Irma needs new glasses. She was looking for her tweezers and they were right in front of her. . . . Clara Koomler and family had a picnic and watched the fireworks at McMillen Park the 4th of July. . . . Barbara Toles got a bang before the 4th from a loaded cigarette. . . . Virginia Girod attended the funeral of a brother who was drowned in a lake in Michigan. . . . Edith DeMuth and Shirley Freund both look mighty nice and cool with their new permanents. . . . We are sorry to hear that Opal Snyder's husband is in the hospital. We hope he gets better soon. . . . Faye Patten and family were guests of Dorothy Hart at Bear Lake. . . . Ruth LaPradd celebrated another birthday. May you have many more, Ruth. . . . Who is the young lady named Mattie Lou who can eat one pound of bacon and one-half dozen eggs for mid-night snack, and a girl friend who can let all the big fish get away? . . . Tracy Bartle is busy getting ready for a trip to California during vacation. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Martha Graves, who was married the 4th of July. . . . Adele Weitfeldt is all prettied up with a new permanent and pierced ears. . . . We are glad to see Norma Hicks back at work.

PUNCH and DRAW BLDG. 26-1

Bonna Lou Fahl

We wish to welcome John Wallin to the heat treat room. John hails from Winter St. Good-luck, Johnny. . . . Clara Ringenberg had a birthday June 26. We want to send a belated happy birthday greeting to her. Also, Virginia Jones had a birthday in June. To her a happy birthday. . . . Augusta Hoopengardner retired June 1. She has been ill for two months. We wish her a speedy recovery and lots of fun on her retirement. . . . Quite a water battle was going on the other day between William Guldice and Bonna Lou. Pappy Guldice poured a cup of coke down her back so she was dared to throw a cup at him. "Her did," right smack in the face. It was all taken very good naturedly. We have more fun. . . . Paul Noffze is holding down two jobs so the boys think he should wear a tie when he is doing the one so they can tell which one he is doing. Good idea Paul. . . . Speaking of ties, we think George Horner should wear one now that he is a planner. To be successful George you must wear that tie. Good-luck on the new job. . . . Happy birthdays to the following people: Adam Ragan, July 9; Max Holycross, Harry Tinnel, and William Yeiter, July 15; Don Huffman, July 21; Jerome Jacobs, July 22; Herman Gebert and Jacob Lorenze, July 24; George Higgins, July 8; and Sam Rhoades, July 30. We forgot Dorothy Ann Carpenter. Her birthday was June 26. So here is a happy birthday to you, Dot, a little late.

From what I can see, talent isn't everything a girl shows to get on television.—L. S. McCandless.

TOTAL 30 GE YEARS—Lester A. Huhartt rounded out his 30th year as a General Electric employee June 26. He came to the company in 1923 as a stacker in Bldg. 4-1. His present position is foreman of inspection and test in Bldg. 4-6. Shown with him are Carl Metker (left) and Ted Bain.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

This week Winter St. Jottings starts off with the theme, "Transfers are breaking up the old gang of ours." We wish good luck to each and everyone of you. We do hope you like your new locations. . . . Frank Lemish is quite proud and our congratulations go out to you. Frank was made grandfather last week for the fourth time. . . . Speaking of what people are being called, we have two new nicknames around Winter St. "Upper Lub Pitzen" and "Snap-happy Linton."

Three more of our boys have left us and are going to Bloomfield. They are R. Klotz, H. Knepp, and D. J. Traster. We wish you all the luck in the world and lots of success on your new ventures. . . . This week we have a few more who are enjoying the great outdoors on vacation. Mary Garrard, do have a good time and come back safe and rested. . . . Charlie Lammiman is enjoying this week plus two more weeks of vacationing. Have a real good time, Charlie. See you in three weeks.

We are sorry to hear of Wayne Cook having need for medical care. Wayne is in the Lutheran Hospital, Room 276, recuperating from a serious operation. You know, just a word or a little card from all of you would go a good ways in cheering him up and making his hours that much shorter. Hurry and get well, Wayne, you're missed.

You know the short hair-do's seem to be still the rage especially in this warm weather. Gerry, you sure look pert. . . . Wayne Leeka starts off each day with a swim. Wayne has a cottage at Round Lake, you know. He seems to enjoy his morning dip tremendously. That's where he receives that get-up-and-go he always seems to have in the morning. We bet that is what causes B. Branning to be so conscientious in his singing. Are we right, Bob?

How about it? Has anyone seen that classy new Ford of R Brown's and J. Rowen's new station wagon. "Mighty fine", boys. Lots of safe happy driving hours. Speaking of driving, how many like to drive with gloves on, and how many like to drive with gloves off. The question is how many like to wear gloves? Only can see one hand raised?

It really takes some thinking and figuring to come to a logical conclusion on some things. If anyone has any questions about the New York Yankees, ask Dave Berghorn; and about the latest in refrigeration devices, just ask Jan.

Thought of the Week: "I pay less attention as I grow older to what men say. I watch what they do." —Wilfred Peterson.

It's Here! — Summer is here! June 30, George Murray removed his coat. That can be taken as proof positive. . . . Also Summer: Last week L. G. Reuss went to sleep on the bus going home and rode beyond his stop. He finally awakened, got off the bus, and began the trip home. This is another effect of summer. . . . Spring is Passed: Some weeks ago we wrote of Charley McAfee, a young lady, and a young man. That was spring. Now summer is with us and things are different. The other evening the young lady and young man drove home from work. When they arrived at the young lady's home the young man noticed traffic was very heavy. "Hurry up and get out," he remarked. "Well!" remarked the young lady as she strode away with her nose in the air. (P.S. The young man had a lot of explaining to do.)

REACHES 30-YEAR MARK—Lawrence C. Jentzsch (center) rang up his 30th year with General Electric June 26. Mr. Jentzsch, who is a spring winder in GAC Sub-Section 13 at Taylor St., first came to the company in 1923 as a bench hand in Bldg. 4-3. Ed Stute (left) and Walter Kreig congratulate him.

STORMY WEATHER

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

When we say that something rivals the rainbow, you only have to look at Des Walker's hobby jeans. One day he wears a green pair, and the next, a brilliant yellow. We're anxiously awaiting a new color. . . . John "Red" Braden will gladly offer his services to anyone needing hedges clipped. The only drawback is that there must not be any poison ivy near to it, as he received that very red and swollen eye from the poisonous weed. At least, that's the story he gives; or could it be that he was talking when he should have been listening?

"What a long tail our cat has Dept." in the same box at the Van's and St. Louis Browns' game were seen Mr. Figel, Mayor Baals, and our own Mr. Klomp and Mr. Sloan. Could be political aspirations? . . . We extend greetings to our shut-ins, Jimmy James, Ray Greek, Ray Bowers, and Marion Sprague. Get well fast, fellows. . . . A lot of credit must be due for the Van's victory to the very efficient coaching from the dugout by Omer Mettler.

It seems a shame that Don Thomas has to pay more taxes since he has notified that his wife is now 65 and receiving social security. Most of the fellows feel that he will be creating quite a hardship on her by taking her on that camping and fishing trip. Remember advanced age, Don, and that you can't teach an old dog new tricks; but perhaps on the other hand she is in better condition than most young people. . . . It isn't necessary to have a scale when you go fishing according to Phil Lydy, for whenever you catch a 12-inch bass, it will weigh 4½ lbs. and he says he can back up the statement. . . . Was it too cool to leave or did Norm Haugh really get stuck between floors in the elevator the other morning? That's one we haven't thought about yet, and maybe the possibilities should be investigated. . . . It took a heat wave last week to get Alice Louise Hahn to remove the jacket to her sun dress. Why so bashful, Alice; we thought the result was very cooling and attractive.

The belated Christmas wish of Jose Gutierrez came true after he had sung "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth" for so long because now he is proudly displaying his new porcelain choppers. . . . We extend our very deepest sympathy to Ray Hoele on the death of his father.

Floyd "Sandy" Bennett is now available for all types of service including funerals, weddings, etc. We always felt he was a man of diversified abilities. . . . For a preview of Ed Klomp on his vacation, look out the window in the southwest end of the floor. We mean the signboard. . . . QUOTA-TION FOR THE WEEK — "A highbrow is a person who can use the word "whom" in conversation without feeling self-conscious."

The 4th is over but vacation is only two weeks away and everyone is planning his or her way to occupy the time. Many will stay home and have a few fishing trips. Some will be at the lake for one or two weeks, and a few will take long trips for sight-seeing or to visit someone. Whatever you do, be sure to plan things so you will have plenty of time to enjoy yourselves and there will be no need to hurry. . . . Ray Kierspe is enjoying the week on a fishing trip in Canada, and if he catches a lot he will tell us how good a fisherman he was. But, if he has had luck he'll tell us how poor the weather turned out. Either way it will be a tall fish story. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Ted Goll on July 2 and to Steve Bobay on July 3. . . . Barbara Cross has a summer job as an instructor at Camp McMillen, located between Roads 27 and 427, about seven miles north of Fort Wayne. . . . Pappy Rasor was seen at the Bluffton Conservation Resort and it was reported that he was having difficulty leaving the monkey house because he was getting such a "bang" out of the little fellows. . . . Charlene Knispel spent a few weeks at home before returning to Quantico, Va. to rejoin her husband. . . . Guy Oberlin made a brief visit this week and tells us of the fish he is catching while enjoying himself at the lake. . . . Ora Harden has returned to work after his siege of illness. He will be working in the spool section.

Owls Trounce Harvester For 8th Win

By Howard Colby

Wednesday morning, July 1, the GE Owls stretched their winning streak to eight in a row at the expense of the Harvester nine. GE scored four runs on four hits in the first inning, while they held Harvester scoreless.

Baker, the first man up for GE, reached first on an error, stole second, and scored the first run on Scherer's single. Scherer then stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball, and scored when Gene Etter fled out to center field. Bob Taylor put a double into right field; Crosley walked, Paul Billman singled, loading the bases, and Bill Sexton singled to score Taylor and Crosley before the side was retired to make it 4 to 0 in favor of GE.

GE failed to score in the second, while Harvester pushed one run across to make it 4 to 1.

In the third inning GE scored two more runs as Bob Crosley singled, Billman walked, and Sexton clouted a double to score both men. Harvester went scoreless.

The fourth inning found the GE Club scoring twice again with Gene Etter leading off on a single, moving to second on a wild pitch, and scoring as the Club's pitcher, Ken Zurbuch, singled. Ken then scored as Bob Taylor laid down a single before the side was retired. Harvester failed to score making it 8 to 1.

In the fifth, GE scored one run as Billman walked, went all the way to third as Sexton singled and scored on a long fly ball by Scherer. Both teams went scoreless in the sixth.

Benny Penkul started the seventh with a walk, Paul Billman singled, then Bill Sexton, the power house of the day, stepped up and greeted Harvester with a home run scoring three more runs.

GE LITTLE LEAGUERS WIN 2, LOSE 1

GE Foursome to Compete In Midwest Golf Tourney In Ohio August 15-16

Twenty of the top GE golfers will tee off tomorrow in the first 18-hole qualification round to determine the four representatives in the Midwest Industrial Golf Tournament. The Eighth Annual Tourney will be held in Middletown and Hamilton, Ohio, Saturday and Sunday, August 15 and 16.

Play will be held at Middletown's Wildwood Golf Club and at Potters Golf Course, located 12 miles away in Hamilton. Medal score will determine winners in both team and individual play, USGA rules governing the competition.

More than $500 in trophies and merchandise awards will be presented ten low medalists and six low-scoring teams.

The second leg of the qualifications will follow a week later with the eight low of the first week in contention. Summer rules will be enforced in the medal play. (Summer rules prohibit teeing up anywhere except the tee.)

The qualification play, which will start promptly at 8 a.m., will play in foursomes as follows.

1. W. Adams, K. Guyot, R. Wickliffe, P. Billman.
2. R. Hills, R. Szink, L. Lahrmann, V. Foulks.
3. W. Kayser, J. Skevington, R. Dent, O. Bunch.
4. W. Wickliffe, D. LaFuze, D. Burgemeister, C. Holmes.
5. R. Braden, T. Wichman, P. LeCoque, C. Saaf.

All of the above golfers have been notified and are requested to be on time.

The following night, July 1, the GE'ers returned to the park and clashed with the Patterson Fletcher team.

The first 5 innings was scoreless ball. Baseball fans and proud fathers and mothers witnessed an outstanding ball game. One of the best of the year so far.

P. Schuman started on the mound, striking out 5 in the first 2 innings. He was relieved by D. Snyder in the 3rd inning. Snyder struck out 8 batters in his 4 innings. Up to the top of the 6th inning it was scoreless ball. However, in the top of the 6th inning, the P.F. team scored 2 runs to win the ball game. G. Collins was behind the plate for GE.

Winning pitcher—Lewis. Losing pitcher—Snyder. July 6th started another game at Hamilton Park. The GE Little Leaguers acted as the visiting team and Inca as the home team. The GE boys handed Inca a defeat by a score of 8 to 4.

Inca scored no runs and no hits in the first 4 innings, while the GE'ers scored 8 runs on 8 hits. However, when the dust had settled and the scoreboard was brought up to date in the 5th inning, the Inca team had scored 4 runs on 2 hits.

On the mound to start, Schuman held Inca to no runs and 1 hit the first 4 innings, striking out 8 batters. However, in the 5th inning, Schuman ran into difficulty and Snyder was called in to put out the fire. Snyder took over by striking out 3 batters.

Schenher and Biddlecome came up with outstanding hitting, both getting doubles. Pitching for GE, Schuman-Snyder; Catcher, G. Collins; Winning pitcher, Schuman. Pitching for Inca, Love and Adams. Losing pitcher, Adams. Catcher, M. Onion.

GE Little Leaguers will meet head on with Patterson Fletcher again July 13 at 6 p.m. at Hamilton Park.

GE Holds Lead In Jr. Fed. Circuit

League leaders in the Federation circuit, the GE team marked up its tenth win Sunday, July 5 over DeMolay by a walloping score of 14-0.

The first place Federation League team downed DeMolay at McMillen Park. Third baseman Ware of GE's players hit two home runs to bring the final tally to 14-0.

Tuesday evening, July 7, Monroeville's team traveled to the Summit City to meet the league leaders and Sunday, July 12, General Motors Co. ballmen will oppose GE at McMillen.

the league with an average of 38.7. Bill Kayser with 40.2 is second and Bob Hursh is third with an average of 40.3.

Owl League

The Owls had themselves a day! According to the weather man gusts of 26 to 36 miles per hour were making it almost impossible to get a toe hold on the turf. The wind was coming straight down number two fairway.

The league leading Eagles sharpened up their games without hurting their averages by picking up a ten point forfeit win from the last place Aces. Don Hower's Pars, with the help of Ken Stultz's 39, whipped the Champs by one point. John Stark played the kind of game he should. In carding a 40 he helped Norm Wolf's Birdies pick up a five pointer from Mo Runyons Bogeys.

Warren Wickliffe, Paul Billman, and Vern Foulks lead the Owls with average of 38, 39.2 and 40.3 respectively.

There was no report from Monday Evening League or from Winter Street.

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

Crafty Ray Hills, of the Wire Mill team in Charlie Briggs Monday afternoon league, spun a neat one under par 35. Ray's putter was red hot, when he had birdies on 13, 14, and 16. Les Glougie, of Financials in the same league, provided the "wha-hoppen" story. On 15 Les' tee shot struck the iron is in third spot with an average of 41.2.

Tuesday Office League

The most unsafe place in this league is the top spot. Last week the Nineteenth Holers held a slim lead, but that didn't last long. The Optimists bounced the hapless last place Dubs with an 11 point lacing while the 19th Holers had to be content with a three pointer. Now the rose glasses boys are on top by eight tallies. The Gas House Tigers felt the sting of defeat at the hands of the Forty-Niners by five points.

The old Redhead Braden leads

Monday Afternoon

The Wire Mill team held the first position with a nine point win over Winkler's Divoteers, who are in last place. Becker's Transformer picked up a six point win over the High Balls. Tony Wichman fired a 39, but it wasn't enough to keep the Les Glougie Financials from winning by three points. What would have happened if Les hadn't shot the 12 on 15?

Ray Hills is the league leader with a 38.6 average. Willie Adams, the ex-Foster Park caddie master, is next with 39 and Tony Wichman Edwinna Stuckey really knows how to do a quick change. However, she doesn't care to do it often. . . . Junior Lake had to wear an apron one day and now he likes them so well, he wears them most of the time. . . . Just why does Orey Brentlinger make such a nuisance of himself? . . . Want to play checkers? Francis Eady takes the checkerboard with him—a beautiful checked shirt. . . . Frank Conn is now allowed to take passengers in his plane. Recently he invited Bob Noll to go for a ride. Everything was going smoothly, nice take off, clear weather, beautiful scenery and no one to bother them. All of a sudden there was a big explosion. Frank and Bob (their story) thought the end was surely near, but the faithful plane never faltered. When Frank and Bob were able to move, they discovered a paint can half full of paint had exploded. . . . Bob Duras, better known as "Tubby", is going to have to reduce unless, of course, he wants to buy all new clothes. That's expensive, "Tubby."

I had an opportunity to study up on my French when Lavin Lanzer wore a dress designed with sentences from a French rhyme "Mon Fiere Jacque." You might say it was "french dressing." Ouch! . . . During one of those recent sudden thunder showers, Zella Clutts rushed to the windows with a "window puller downer." Thinking she had it hooked on the top, Zella gave a terrific pull and almost went through the floor to Bldg. 26-4. . . . Ceal and Eddie Pranger decided not to buy a motor for their Ford. They are going to trade it in on a car. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Kay Meyers, who had a birthday recently. . . . Lois Coleman not only yawns like Tarzan sounds, she's even flexing her muscles. . . . OVERHEARD: "You'll never hear another laugh like Mary Smoth's, thank heavens."

. . . BEST WISHES to Betty Lup-ton, who was married recently. . . . DAFY DEFINITIONS: Bunny—A little critter that grows the fur other animals get credit for in a lot of instances. . . . NEW FACES: Virginia Bradley, Dorothy Johnston, Jacqueline Gay, V. Dailey, Darence Stuckman, Lucille Reinhard, Maradean Bucher, Eloise Gerig, Edna Purkiser, Brad Stevens, Charlie Ostrander, Edgar Weidenhoeft, Paul Clifton, Robert Fabera, Joe Torrez, Richard McDougall, Eugene Barksdale, Eugene Lamson, Michael Kelleher, James Bowser, Robert Karch, Phillip Gregory, Willie Curtis, Sylvester Reinig, and John Langohr. The above people have joined us recently and we hope they like it here. . . . WONDER IF Norb Sordet found out who ordered the sawdust? Norb said he had a whole hopper full, enough to start a sawmill, and couldn't find who it belonged to. . . . OUR SYMPATHY to Gertrude Reichard and Harold Trautman, on the recent deaths in their families.

TOOL BITS

BLDG. 19-4 AND 5

Don Clark

Visitors to the tool room last week were Bill Dafforn, Bill "Honey" Milledge, and Dick Wagner. Dick has received his Army discharge and is back to stay now. . . . Carl Einsiedel, who loves to pick cherries, was found picking himself up under the old cherry tree. The ladder slipped, Carl grabbed a limb, skinned up his legs trying to maneuver the ladder and eventually like all bad cherries, fell to the ground. We're glad you weren't disabled, Carl. . . . Don't be surprised if Lowell Welker carries an overnight case to work with him. He occasionally finds it necessary to launder his unmentionables at work. . . . DIE PLANT—The boys welcome Neil Hankey. . . . Safety-minded Bob Roy took his car to the garage to have the brakes repaired and then rode to work with Ed Stahl. He enjoyed riding in a safe car so much that he paid for Ed's dinner. . . . Ren Getty, well-known fisherman, was really thinking about catching some big ones. At least, he was seen in the parking lot looking for his car that was parked instead on the street. . . . Frank Armstrong for the first time in years found that he was heading the line waiting for the lunch wagon. In fact, he was the only one in line. Suddenly he remembered that it was Saturday and the wagon wouldn't show up. He had brought his lunch anyway. . . . Carl Ahlsmeyer bought two new golf balls last week, but couldn't find his golf clubs. They possibly made a recent scrap drive. . . . Woody Hursh's crew hair cut is attracting a lot of attention lately. We hear that Woody went to sleep on the back porch and his son Tommy, decided to learn the barber trade. . . . Mrs. Lloyd Welbaum is home recuperating from surgery she underwent in New York City. Lloyd is the chief cook and bottle washer these days. . . . Barney Weber visited us last week and spun some more of his tales of fishing at Miller Lake. . . . Mart Walsh claims limping on his right foot has nothing to do with his cow getting her head caught in a five-gallon bucket, causing Mart to give chase all over his back 10 acres. . . . In our recent drought, we noted several GE farmers and Kurt Martin hoping for rain. We understand that Kurt has four tomato plants and a row of peas in his agriculture project. . . . Harold Knox likes butter on his sandwiches, but he said that he would rather have it on the inside of the bread than the outside. . . . Jake Dennis saved the seven barrels of gas that his Dodge is supposed to save, but he had to walk back and carry some of it to put in the car. . . . Dan Cupid and Dan Baker got together last Saturday and bade farewell to carefree days. Our hope is for a blissful calm on the matrimonial sea for him and his bride. Congratulations, Dan.

SHAFT SHAVINGS

Blanche Cowell

Mr. McCormick, our boss, is back from a vacation. He spent it at his lake cottage and he said it just seemed all too short. Ray Wiese took over while Mac was gone. . . . Tracking raccoon in dry weather over a hay field is a new hobby for Kenny Hart. . . . New theme song for Russ Nier-eiter is "Cool, cool water." . . . Otto Bright was retired last week. We hope he enjoys a nice long vacation. . . . We are happy to welcome William Clevenger to the detain section. He's from 19-2. . . . We welcome Kenny Highland back

Sure nice to have Joe Orbin, and his great big happy laugh, in the office. . . . Frank Conley has a keen looking sister, who is an airline stewardess, flying from New York to Washington, those Government men have all of the luck. . . . On vacation this week is Ralph Arney, who says that he is just going to sit and sit. . . . thought only the female of the species, did that. . . . We welcome to the office, Richard Fry, who is in the Cost Department. . . . Wally McKay really pulled a fast one on Mel Keissling and Joe Orbin. He walked the boys up to a classy new Pontiac, pretending to be looking it over, only to pull the keys from his pocket and invite them to take a ride in his new car. . . . And talking of new cars, Ken Hyman is just about to dig out the old bank roll and buy a new Buick. . . . And now that Herb Koch has a little glass office, where most of the time he is alone with no one to talk to, Herb is about to start talking to himself. . . . Last week we lost a good friend, who always had a kind word and a big smile for everyone, Ed Meyers. And to his wife, Jeannette, we say, keep that Meyer smile alive, and carry on, for we are all back of you. . . . Marty Weeks Wichman was in to say hello to us, this week. Marty and her new husband are now living in Defiance, Ohio.

after a week's vacation. . . . Malcolm Bender and family were on a fishing trip over the 4th. He will display the size of fish to any one who will listen to him. . . . John Redmerski is one of our true Daisy fans. . . . Glen Goshorn picks the baseball teams that have 13 runs twice in a row. . . . Terry Bowman is still the flaming youth of our office force. . . . Herman Zuber is very thankful for the week-end rains. They sure helped his pumpkin patch. . . . We say goodbye to Albert (Bert) Pequignot, who leaves us to go on retirement, today. Good Luck, Bert! . . . The Michel Angello of 19-3 West, is none other than Charles Irvin. . . . Mike Sorgen and Frank Kartholl remain the best of friends even though Mike got the best of the bargain on a tomato catsup deal recently. Mike got five bottles and Frank only two. But Frank wouldn't get out of the check out line to go back for the rest of his bargain.

CHALKS UP 35 YEARS—Edna Rohrbach (seated) totaled 35 years as a GE employee last month. Miss Rohrbach was a bench hand in Bldg. 17-4 when she joined General Electric in 1918. She now is on motor parts repair work in Bldg. 4-3. Viola Metker and James Pugh offer their congratulations.

FLYING HIGH

BLDG. 6-4

Ivy Mills

"Flying High" is a little on the low side this week. Everyone is a lil' blank as 6-4 is the hottest spot in town—we aren't speakin' of entertainment either. . . . We had some excitement the other night when Herb (Hot Rod) Pryor went skiddin' down the aisle. Ole Hot Rod is a sheet metal worker 1st class, and he was mighty stuck on himself, too. Coming down a ladder, he stepped on a sturdy looking barrel and sank knee deep into a barrel of glue. His overalls and shoes didn't need any support from Herb from there on in. "They Walked Alone" stiffer than a board. . . . After two years of driving with a beginner's license, Ginny Curtis finally got up enough courage to take her driver's test. After much knocking of the knees she passed with flying colors and her husband is sure glad, as he will now get to drive the car once in awhile as Ginny won't have to practice any more. . . . We were glad to see Jack Tomlinson. He came up to visit us while on leave. He is stationed in anti-aircraft or Ack—Ack. Jack said they have a tent city within two blocks of the main part of Detroit and that it was as though they were miles from nowhere. He will be leaving soon for El Paso, Texas to learn to be a radar technician. When Jack worked here, he was one of our available bachelors. Now he says he is an old married man of one month. . . . There is nothing like a week's vacation. Alva Biggs enjoyed himself immensely. The first two days he spent putting in cement steps at his cottage. The third day he couldn't get out of bed. Seems Alva had a hitch in his sciatica and after two days in bed he was able to get around with a cane. Alva is one person who got a couple of days rest anyway. . . . Harold and Hannah Stith saw something in their window the other night and it wasn't a doggie either, it was a face. It's a good thing Harold didn't catch that prowler because if he had, there would have been one more obituary in the newspaper. . . . Anybody wanna buy a duck? Julie Medsker has been cleaning and picking and picken and picken one. She got seven of them ready for the deep freeze and has eleven more to go. She will gladly sell them so she won't have to pick anymore. . . . Joan Armstrong is now the proud owner of a '47 Chevy. She is considering going to school to learn to be a mechanic so she can take care of that bucket of bolts. . . . Clarence (Chip) Hartman, who is one of the best dressed foremen in GE, was seen wearing a loud printed yellow sport shirt this week. WOW! We could see him a block away, which is good since he is general foreman of our shift. . . . Elmer Sievers has been week-ending in Missouri and now is considering buying a farm there. . . . While playing in her childrens' wading pool, Sue McGahey, got a nice sun burn. Sitting on a sun burn is quite uncomfortable, Sue says. . . . The latest fad is candy ear rings. Joan Hartman made some out of hard candy and they are really snazzy. I asked her what she did when the flies started buzzin' around all that sugar, "I put clear nail polish on 'em, silly," she replied. . . . Dewey Baumgartner's sons are all coming home and they will have a reunion plus a wedding. This will be the first time all of them have been home together since 1941. One lives in California, one in Michigan, one in Colorado and one in the Navy. They also have a little sister six years old. She really is a doll.

Then he'd eat a big slab of watermelon and it would be time for a nap which required moving the umbrella back over to the reclining chair again. You should see his blistered hands. . . . We would like to take this opportunity to welcome the following new faces to our Section: Anna Tredway, Bonnie Campbell, Dolores McIntyre, and Jean Deal. Vacation Fever Hits GE

EMPLOYEES INCLUDE SAFETY IN THEIR PLANS

With that annual malady, vacation fever, hitting its peak among employees this month, plans for those two-weeks with pay begin to look more real.

With relief for this fever not due until August 10, the best remedy available now is to make certain that all the necessary arrangements are completed before July 24 rolls around. Accomplishing this feat you will be able to relax for two weeks knowing that you haven't forgotten to stop milk delivery, turn out all the lights, or some other detail.

A very important part of this happy vacation is safety. Including it in these plans insures everyone of a good time.

Pointing out items to be remembered in vacation planning, five employees remind us of some of the details necessary for a fun-packed, carefree vacation.

PLANNING AHEAD—After picking her vacation destination, Doris Doehle, Bldg. 6-4, decides the route she wants to travel and the places she wants to see along the way.

SAFETY INSURANCE—That your home will be there and your possessions in tact upon your return can be secured by making certain that all doors and windows are locked and appliances disconnected. Betty Zollars, Bldg. 4-3, reminds us. With the locking of the last door you can be insured of having taken care of all arrangements if you plan now.

SET FOR THE BIG CATCH—Making sure that he will be ready for that big fish, Clayton Dafforn, Bldg. 19-3, makes repairs on his fishing equipment in anticipation of a happy two weeks with pay.

READY FOR EMERGENCIES—Gerald Uhl, Taylor St. employee, gets repair equipment for his automobile ready so that he will be prepared for any difficulty during his vacation driving.

CLUB DISCLOSES SPORTS AWARD BANQUET PLANS

Plans to conduct two yearly athletic banquets honoring winners of GE Club sponsored athletic events were announced today by William Schible, club president.

In making the announcement president Schible stated, "The GE Club officers and board of directors feel fuller recognition should be given employees winning honors in the various Club sports activities. By inaugurating a fall and spring athletic banquet, we believe this recognition can be given."

325 Earn Awards

Making arrangements for the first banquet which is slated for this fall, the board announced that winners of summer athletic, softball and golf, will be honored. In addition to the fall dinners, spring banquets will be conducted to recognize top athletes in bowling, basketball, and volleyball.

At each of the recognition dinners, three types of awards will be presented. Major awards are jackets with the GE monogram on them; minor awards are sweaters or windbreakers with the GE monogram, and token awards include trophies, tee shirts, belt buckles, and bracelets.

Fall Banquet

Approximately 325 employees are recipients of the various awards each year, but no formal recognition has been given them in previous years, the board of directors stated.

Top athletes in the Owl industrial golf league and the inter-division golf league will receive special recognition at the first banquet this fall. Softball winners to be honored at that time will represent the Owl Industrial softball team, Main Auto Major team, Ham League team, and Interdepartment Softball League.

Operating schedules for the Fort Wayne and branch plants during vacation shutdown were announced today by Robert Wylie, manager of contributing manufacturing, General AC Motor Sub-Department.

With no manufacturing scheduled for the two-week period from July 25 through August 9, a total of 802 employees is listed to work during the first week and 760 the second week of vacation.

These employees will handle maintenance, repair, shipping and receiving, accounting and payroll, service engineering, plant protection, medical service, telephone and telegraph, marketing, engineering, and mail service. Other sections will have personnel listed on call.

To contact any section, persons may call either the guards, telephone, or telegraph operators.

Precautions and rules to follow in preparing the plant for the shutdown have been issued and should be followed closely to prevent damage.

Vacation pay will be made automatically by the payroll sections of the departments for the actual number of days employees are eligible for as of August 9, 1953 to a maximum of two weeks.

The vacation payment will be included with hourly checks distributed.

STAB Ships First Order Of Mine Load Centers

With the shipment of two 6,500-pound copper and steel giants this week came the climax of almost one year of smooth work between a GE customer and the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department in filling a new type of order for STAB.

Working on a rush basis, the department shipped the first two of 16 mine load centers Wednesday, July 15, to the White Pine Copper Company of northern Michigan. The units will be used to operate machinery for digging and loading ore.

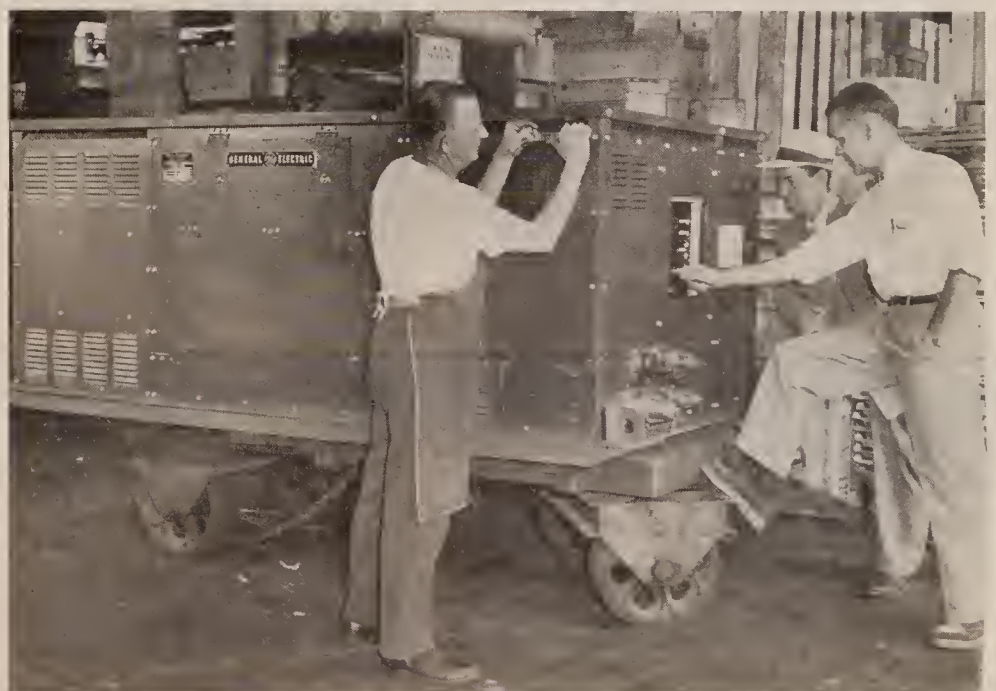

The first order of this type received by the department, the 12-foot long, 42-inch high units represent several months of working with the customer securing specifications and making estimates on the job.

When engineers and marketing men completed this work, purchasing agents, production employees, and engineers took over and the order moved into actual manufacture some three months ago.

When materials and parts were not at the immediate disposal of the department, working on a rush basis was a big obstacle overcome by employees. Almost all of the parts needed from outside were secured from other GE plants.

Observing the order at various stages, customer representative, J. E. Doyan, chief electrical engineer of the Western Knapp Engineering Corp., commented that the enthusiasm shown by all employees in filling the order was impressive.

In completing this order, STAB employees continue to keep pace with progress by providing an intricate pattern of electrical equipment which moves the days of pick and shovel mining into the back-ground and replaces them with machinery.

Don't Sit It Out!

Poor Joe sits on the sidelines and just dreams of sharing a waltz with the beautiful blonde. He'll make no time at all as long as he just sits. Of course, he's free to cut in anytime, but he hesitates so long that some one beats him to it. Don't you be as slow in sending in your suggestions. You can cut yourself in on some additional cash by coming up with an award winning idea.

* * *

Just A Wheel . . . But

I'm just a wheel—a steering wheel—and you're my captain. Behind me, you're the lord and master of a miracle. You can make me take the kids to school. You can turn me down the sunny road to town. With me you can guide your goods to market . . . You can rush the injured to be healed . . . you can go, in minutes, to places that once were hours away. You can do magic.

Yet, in the blink of an eye, in the tick of your watch, I can turn deadly killer. I can snuff out the life of a kid still full of life—maybe your kid.

I can twist a smile into tears. I can wreck, cripple and destroy. I can deal out death like the plague.

And I'm no respecter of persons . . . a child, a grandmother, even you, my friend . . . it's all the same to me.

I'm sensitive. I respond instantly to the hands you give me. Give me calm hands, steady hands, careful hands . . . and I'm your friend. But give me unsteady hands, fuzzy hands, reckless hands . . . then I'm your enemy, a menace to the life, the happiness, the future of every person, every youngster riding, walking, playing.

I was made for pleasure and usefulness. Keep me that way. I'm in your hands. I'm just a steering wheel. And you're my captain. Behind me you're the lord and master of a miracle . . . or a tragedy. It's up to you.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

With vacation almost here the tempo has slowed down considerably in old Bldg. 22. The boys all have that far-away look in their eyes as they dream of landing those big ones. Ralph Garrett wants to go back to Wisconsin but he can't find his way without Charlie Castle. Garrett was going to a stag party at the log cabin the other night when he met a woman driver at an intersection. Both of them just sat in their cars staring at each other as the traffic began to jam up behind them. "Well, back up, you old goat," screamed the woman. "I'll sit here till the tires rot off this jalopy," says Garrett. "I was here first." Finally the woman gave up and backed up but not before she had given our hero a big piece of her mind. Garrett was so excited when he went on his way that he turned the wrong direction and was several miles away from his destination before he realized his mistake. . . . Pat McCutcheon severely injured his hand the other night. We hope it doesn't hurt too much, Pat, and that it gets better soon. . . . Don Voorhees was drinking tomato juice the other morning. "No hangover," says Don, "I just like the stuff." . . . Officer Tieman has one of those new picture-in-a-minute cameras. Now when he catches a law breaker at some dastardly deed he just pulls out his camera and flash, he has the evidence right there. Only thing is, he is pretty well loaded down carrying all of his equipment (camera, flashbulbs, film, club, gun, star, etc.) around with him. . . . A big night hawk flew in the building the other day and someone caught it and put it in Office Curry's dinner pail. When Office opened his pail it flapped its wings and took off like a jet, scaring him out of three years' growth. Office is still looking for the guy what put that "boid" in his lunch pail.

Since Don Mason bought the "Big Ben" he hasn't been late for work once. We think it was a good investment. . . . We have a celebrity in our midst and one day we may see her on TV. She is in a film made by Galbreath's studio. Her name is Margaret Detwiler and we wish her the best of luck. . . . Ed Runion has "purty" shoes on these days. He sure keeps a good shine on them. . . . Jerry Pierce's wife is stocking up on canned fish to take along on their fishing trip to Wisconsin. Guess she doesn't want to go hungry! . . . We saw John Figley and Avery Spade looking at a map together. We wonder if they were looking for the way to New Haven or Waynedale. . . . John (Spotsy) Stamper should tell you all about the big carp that got away. . . . Caroline Becker is all ready to leave for four weeks in Germany, other points of interest in Europe, and to see lots of friends and relatives. Bon voyage, Caroline. . . . Cecil Onion is new in Section 1. . . . Congratulations to the Arnold Lower's on their new girl, Sharon. Mother, father, and brother are all doing just fine with the new arrival. . . . Wonder where Dave Miller was during the game when the St. Louis Browns played here? He got there in time to see them pitch the last ball for the last strike out. Maybe that bucket of bolts he drives for a car fell apart! . . . Nice pictures of Edna Rohrbach, Jim Pugh, Betty Zol-lars, and the Metkers, Carl and Ardola, that made the last edition of the GE NEWS. . . . Congratulations to Edith Schriener on her 30 years with the GE. . . . Betty Froebe and Ruby Cunningham are both off the sick list and we are glad they are back at work again. . . . We are glad to hear that Eva Shaffer has left the hospital. . . . Arlene Lytal is the new girl in 1x29. . . . Leonard Floyd said he didn't know if it was a 24-inch or 24-pound pike he caught in Canada.

Marguerite Stahl

WELCOME to Eddie Williams in repair and return. We hope he enjoys his work with us. We also hope Wayne Olson and Connie Fernandez like their work on second shift. . . . Mason Smith woke up at exactly 9:30 a.m. Monday morning. . . . Ruth Smith was very happy to have her husband, Everett, fly in from Clovis, New Mexico on a week-end pass from the Air Force. . . . Sgt. Roy Weigman visited his co-workers last week. He is stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky. . . . Peggy Bandt is taking a week of vacation and entertaining her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Bandt and children, from Wisconsin. . . . Laura Gerber is counting the hours. She starts on vacation to California Thursday. She has been singing "California Here I Come." . . . Beverly Numbers spent Sunday at Lake Webster. . . . We wish Ollie Ragen's husband a speedy recovery and hope he will soon be home from the hospital. . . . We hear Max Turnbow is a very fast horseback rider. . . . Otto Geiger and family went fishing at Adams Lake over the week-end. His daughter caught two fish and Otto didn't get any. . . . Carl Reidel has a safety note: At night a driver perceives an unexpected object only half as far away as an expected one; also, strangely enough, the faster you drive at night, the more you reduce the distance at which you can recognize danger ahead. For each increase of 10 m.p.h. there is an average 20 ft. loss in perception distance. Next week we will have a stopping distance chart for your vacation safety driving.

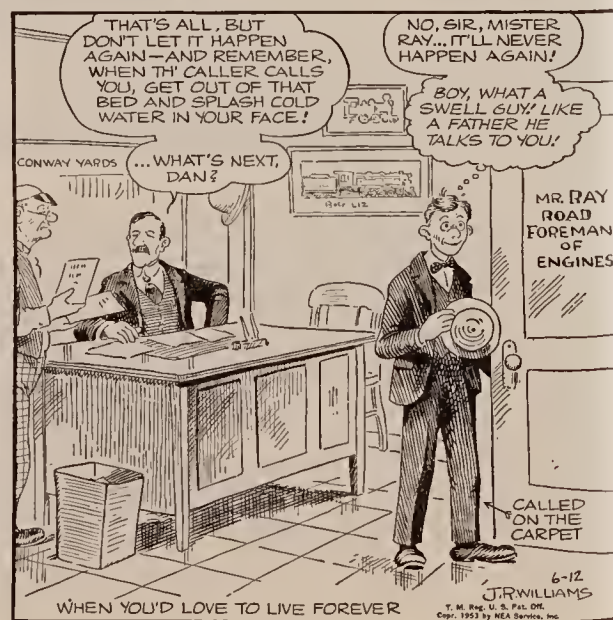

MOTOR GENERATOR STATIC

Thought of the Week: "A nation must make up its mind before it can make up its morals."—V. Ogden Vogt.

Our Best: Our best reporter this week is Pappy Archbold. To "Old Hot Shot" from Bldg. 19-3 our sincere thanks for this week's stories. . . . Good Housekeeping: Mike Sorgen has taken Motor Generator's good housekeeping program seriously. He was observed dusting off and polishing armatures in the accumulation area. However, as Pappy Archbold, Motor Generator's philosopher, remarks, "To get ahead you must polish apples, not armatures." . . . Too Much Gas: Homer Campbell seems to be blessed with an abundance of gas, and we don't mean on his stomach. The other day his phone rang. Homer answered and a voice inquired, "Are you the Campbell who parks on the lot?" "That's me," Homer replied. "Why?" "Well, your car has been sitting out there all morning with the motor running," came the answer. "Doggone," Mr. Campbell remarked, "it could have run all day, the tank was full." . . . Lost: The other evening Bill Kayser was observed wandering aimlessly on the streets near this plant. Seems he had forgotten where he parked his car. . . . With Our Travelers—Made It: Bud Fisher has returned from his annual trip to the Smoky Mountains. On several previous trips he was unable to make it over the top to the other side. On those occasions he reported the natives told him there was nothing worth seeing on the other side. We are happy to report that this time he made it over and decided the natives were wrong. He says it was mighty pretty over there. . . . Ho-Hum: Jim Stouder spent part of the week-end taking in the sights at Markle. Ho-hum! . . . Yes? Bill Kayser remarks, "Anatomy is something both sexes have, but looks better on a girl." . . . Going in Business? The phone in Bldg. 19-1 rang and Margie Messer answered. "Mom," said her son's voice, "I bought a white mouse." "Oh, no!" Mom remarked. "Why?" "Because it was a bargain," her son replied. "What do you mean, bargain?" Margie inquired. "It only cost 50 cents and the man said it was going to have babies," came the reply. Things like this can develop into business enterprises.

State Forest Site of DMM Family Picnic

Wells County State Forest at Bluffton has been set as the site of the 1953 annual family picnic of the Decimal Minute Men. The all-day event will take place Sunday, July 19. In addition to the dinner, which will be served at 1 p.m., the day's program will include games for the various age groups and prizes for all games. Refreshments of ice cream and soft drinks will be served during the day also.

Serving as chairman for the picnic is George E. Hicks, Bldg. 4-6. Assisting him with arrangements are Carl Swaim, Taylor St., and Vern Boyer, Bldg. 4-2.

The picnic is the final event of the organization's 1952-53 club year. The coming year's calendar of meetings will be announced this fall.

Q. How does the saltiness of Great Salt Lake compare with that of the ocean?

A. A good average for the saltiness of seawater can be taken as 3.5 per cent, although in some isolated seas such as the Red Sea, where there is considerable evaporation, it may be as much as 4 per cent. The average saltiness of Great Salt Lake is 17 per cent, about five times as much as the ocean, though it does reach 23 per cent. The Dead Sea, in Israel, is even saltier, with a maximum of nearly 26 per cent. In all cases the dissolved salt is mainly sodium chloride, ordinary table salt.

Q. Does an angle worm feel any pain when impaled upon a fish-hook?

A. No one knows. The angle worm has a nervous system and it does react to stimulation. However, pain is a subjective matter. An individual person has certain reactions, which are called feelings or sensations, but he can never know whether other individuals have the same feelings. It is presumed that they do, since their nervous systems are alike and they behave in the same way in response to similar stimuli. This same assumption can hardly be extended to angle worms, which have a different nervous system, and no brain, as we know it.

Q. Should television be viewed in a lighted or a darkened room?

A. Eye strain results when the retina attempts to adjust between a bright picture and a dark room surrounding it. For that reason, the proper operation of a television receiver includes the use of a soft light, so that the set is not surrounded by darkness.

Robert L. Dicke

Robert L. Dicke Appointed to New Large M-G Post

The appointment of Robert L. Dicke as cost reduction and manufacturing loss control specialist in Large Motor and Generator's financial section has been announced by E. C. Reese, supervisor of costs.

When he became a General Electric employee in December, 1941, Mr. Dicke entered M&G cost. The following year, he entered the U. S. Air Corps. After being discharged in February, 1945, he returned to the cost section as a clerk.

Mr. Dicke entered Indiana University in 1948 and received his BS degree in business administration in August, 1949. That same year, he came back to the company and went into M&G cost doing estimating. Later, he entered the accounting section where he worked in sales accounting and accounts payable. This was his location at the time of his present appointment.

The Dickses and their son reside at 4433 Wilmette Ave.

July 21 Final Day To Cast Ballots For GE Club Slate

Tuesday, July 21, is the last day on which employees may turn in their ballots for 1953-54 GE Club officers, Erv Huth, nominating committee chairman, reported today.

Ballots were distributed to all employees with their pay checks this week. Votes should be placed in special boxes located at time card machines throughout the plant.

Members of the nominating committee will collect votes and tabulate the results which will be announced the week following vacation in the GE NEWS.

Nominating committee members are: Jerry Duryee, Helen Wagner, Gordon L. Smith, and Sam Baumgartner.

GE Produced Atomic Energy Cartoon Opens at Palace Theatre Thursday

"A is for Atom," an animated cartoon about atomic energy produced by the General Electric Company, opens at the Palace Theater Thursday, July 23.

Shown along with a regular movie program which continues through Wednesday, July 29, the ten-minute film is an entertaining and understandable explanation in every-day language of what an atom is.

Produced in Ansicolor, the film shows how energy can be released from certain kinds of atoms and the possible peacetime uses of atomic energy. The cartoon introduces an amusing character called "Dr. Atom," who explains his own structure and compares it with our solar system. Dr. Atom then takes the audience on a tour of "Element Town," introducing some of the 92 natural element "families" and the isotope members of those families.

Reviewed by Phil M. Daly in his column "Along the Rialto," the film is tagged "just about the best motion picture on the atom that has yet come along." He goes on to say that those who see the movie "will know far, far more about the atom, fission, reactors, radioactive isotopes, and the latter's myriad of uses than before. . . . And they will comprehend what the narrator means with his final words: . . . 'On man's wisdom, on his firmness in the atom's superpower depends, now, the future of his children and his children's children in the new world of the atomic age.'"

In an electrifying sequence during the short film, an uncontrolled chain reaction (an A-Bomb explosion) is graphically depicted. Then, slowing down the fission of a uranium atom a billion or so times, the splitting process is clearly explained.

The picture goes on to illustrate the operation of a reactor "pile," showing how a chain reaction is controlled to supply power for a peacetime world. Factual and precise, the picture deliberately avoids the A-Bomb-scare approach.

Partizan Group Plan Family Picnic For July Meeting

Members of Partizan Chapter of the Elex Club will gather at Franke Park Tuesday, July 21, for a picnic. The outing, which is the group's regular July meeting, has been planned for members and their families.

The meeting will begin at 12 noon. Chairman is Myrtle Lauer and assisting her with arrangements are Eileen Pearson, Bea Helms, and Lillian Wolf.

GE TV Show Features Supernatural Wonders

"Thirteen O'Clock," an enchanting tale of the supernatural, will be the play featured on the General Electric Theater this Sunday, July 19, over the CBS network (8 to 8:30 p.m. CDT). The drama tells the story of a poor Dutch clock maker, Wilhelm Van Brundt, his ambitious wife Hula, and a mysterious fellow called "Herr Gunther" who, it develops, is none other than Satan himself. Through the use of a very remarkable clock which he brings in for repair, "Herr Gunther" draws out the greed in the clock maker and his wife lures Wilhelm into a struggle for his soul.

The GE Theater, a series of half-hour plays, will appear each Sunday evening during the summer months until Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians return this fall.

ELEX THANK-YOU

Extending appreciation to employees who aided in making the annual Ice Cream Social a success, Irene Meyers, Elex Club adviser, expresses the thanks of club members to the GE Veterans club for their assistance, to employees who donated cakes, and to those who worked at the booths and on arrangements.

The total profit earned from the social, which was conducted July 9, will be announced after all bills are received, Miss Meyers announced. All profit will be used to pay for summer boxes sent employees in the Armed Forces and for the club's defense program.

CLOWN IN ACTION—Clown Bud Curtis, Bldg. 4-2, entertained the kiddies at the fish pond during the Elex Club Ice Cream Social last week. The social was held in cooperation with the GE War Veterans Association with all proceeds going to provide summer boxes for GE employees in the armed forces.

tributed Wednesday, July 22, and with salary checks distributed Friday, July 24. Deductions will be calculated as though each week of vacation pay was paid separately.

Employees who work during vacation shutdown will receive their pay checks in the usual manner. Employees who have checks to pick up during the shutdown may do so only on Wednesday, July 29, and Wednesday, August 5, at the Broadway West Gate house from 8:30 until 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 until 4:30 p.m. Afternoon hours when Motor and Generator employees may pick up checks on these two days are 1:15 until 4:15 p.m. Checks will be distributed to the employee only. He must have positive identification.

Employees picking up checks at these times may park along Broadway while they get their checks. A. R. Vegalues, head of plant protection, announced. They are asked not to park in front of any of the gates.

There will be no Employee Store or cafeteria service and the GE Club will be closed. The cafeteria will resume operations with the noon meal Monday, August 10.

Nursing service will be maintained at the Bldg. 21 dispensary during the first shift only Monday through Friday.

STORMY WEATHER BLDG. 17-4

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

Much to his disgust Elmer Brown, after having had his watch completely overhauled, proceeded to lay it down on a permanent magneto. The result, well, that speaks solely for itself. . . . After weeks and weeks of playing the baseball pool without winning, Jim Smith gave up on his ticket; and Tiffin, and Linton, will observe vacation shutdown at this time also and will have skeleton crews working. Danville and DeKalb will not be on vacation during this period and will operate on their regular schedules.

Insurance benefits will be mailed without interruption to employees who are ill.

The following gate schedule will be observed at the Broadway and Taylor St. plants during the shutdown:

Lindley Ave.—Open 24 hours each day.

Broadway, West—Open 24 hours each day.

Fairfield Ave.—Open 24 hours each day.

Broadway, East—Open 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Closed Saturday and Sunday.

College Ave.—Closed from 12 midnight Friday, July 24, until 6 a.m. Monday, August 10.

Taylor St., West—Open 24 hours each day.

Taylor St., East—Closed from 7 p.m. Friday, July 24, until 6 a.m. August 10.

Ann Richard took it. You guessed it. She hit the pool for two days' winnings. Could it be that ticket was jinxed at the start, Jim? . . . Don't let it be known that you may dig a cistern on your vacation or you might receive the same threats that Jerry Holgreve has heard. He was told someone might come along with a bulldozer and fill it in, with him at the bottom. The suggestion was also made if you wanted to get even with your wife, just put her at the bottom and hope for the best! . . . Hilda Wolf has taken us to task for failing to recognize that she is still on the eligible list. From all stories, comments, etc., we naturally assumed she was well spoken for; so now we apologize, Hilda. Fellows, now hear this! She is available. . . . We're glad to see Ray Bowers back, mended wrist and all. . . . Another night owl has joined our group. Sleepy, but happy, Bob Todd. . . . The latest lamb to the slaughter is Jose Gutierrez, who has taken that fatal leap and is now a happily married man. Seriously though, we offer our heartiest congratulations to Jose and his blushing bride. . . . When it comes to toasted sandwiches, Ed Martin excels. Especially when one side is well toasted and the other side is exceptionally well toasted. As a matter of fact, he likes that kind so well he even puts part of it in his shirt pocket. Isn't that a case of having your cake and having to eat it, too, Ed? . . . As long as Dorothy Raucci takes her medicine it's all right. But the one perplexing point is, should it be taken before or after meals? She can't seem to remember just what the directions are. . . . You never get too old to play baseball, says Don Thomas. But upon further investigation, we find the extent of his playing consists of helping the catcher on and off with his equipment; and on top of it all, it is Little League. . . . According to Max Decker, it doesn't pay to hurry while driving and run a red light. Much to his disgust the cops waylaid him and put the pinch on him for doing that very thing. . . . Everyone not only had a good time at Charlie Koomjohn's retirement party, but they were well fed, too. In fact, they even supplied Clarence Nussel with a huge luncheon the next noon. It came as a big surprise to him—the surprise being who swiped all of it from him in the first place. Oh well, it looks like a hard winter ahead so maybe it is wise like the squirrel to lay in a stock of food. . . . Quotation for the Week: "Generosity is not bound to give prudence a why and a where for."

BOARD CHAIRMAN HERE—Philip S. Reed, chairman of the board of General Electric, (right) talks with (1-r) W. L. Ayers, dean of science at Purdue University, Miss Marie Miller, North Side High School math teacher, and H. A. MacKinnon, vice president of the Component Products Division. Mr. Reed addressed the teachers at a banquet last week in the Van Orman Hotel during one of their visits to study the Fort Wayne operations.

MATH TEACHERS STUDY GE OPERATIONS HERE

The 50 high school mathematics teachers studying under GE fellowships at Purdue University this summer paid their third visit to the Fort Wayne manufacturing operations Wednesday.

The teachers coming from 11 states in this area are enrolled in a six-week program which includes refresher work in mathematics combined with field trips to use and familiarization with the General Electric Company.

This week the 50 fellows were addressed by C. M. Summers, manager of the laboratory. G. R. Walrath, of the laboratory spoke on "How Math is Used in Research and Development." R. M. Hartigan, manager of manufacturing in the Large Motor and Generator Department, previewed a tour of Large M-G manufacturing operations.

Last week a special banquet was held for the group at the Van Orman Hotel, when Philip D. Reed, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, spoke to the teachers. Mr. Reed pointed to the increasing demand for science-trained persons and stressed the teachers influence in the young people and on the future of the electrical industry.

House of Magic
K. W. Michael, manager of plant community relations, presented the HOBSON course to the teachers at Purdue last Friday. Tuesday, W. E. Beer, supervisor of employee services, will present a guidance talk to the fellows at Purdue, and the "House of Magic" show is scheduled for presentation tonight in the Purdue Music Hall.

Graduation exercises will be held at Purdue July 31. There will be a banquet at the university and L. C. Swager, manager of employee and plant community relations, will speak to the graduates on behalf of the company.

Ted Ranier, our roving cowboy, was in a rodeo at the Bluffton, Ohio Centennial, and at Fostoria, Ohio. He did all right for himself, too. . . . The latest fad in boxes is being used by Laura. When she brought over her work there just weren't any boxes. She was told to use sacks, which Laura so nicely did—then the new boxes came in. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Barb Ternet. . . . Everyone thought Bldg. 6-4 was going up in smoke when Pondo Vlasheff started to use his brake and a car bomb exploded. By the way, Pondo, that was a nice picture in the paper and we will excuse you from the game Wednesday. . . . Talk about your sunburned backs! This floor really had them Monday. Anyway, I guess we all had a fairly safe 4th. Joe Adam had an accident last Friday and we hope he gets along OK. . . . Freddie Sarasiens seems to have trouble deciding how to wear his shirt. It has been voted that you should wear it tucked in, Freddie. . . . Sometimes being a good Samaritan just doesn't pay. Rita Sherwood dropped a quarter while trying to get a coke the other day and Les Franke came to her rescue. About five minutes and two dirty hands and arms later, Les finally reached the coin. But upon close examination he discovered all he had come up with was a nickel. Must be a short change artist under there, Les. . . . Sight of the week: Maxine Root trying to figure out a dainty way to eat a Tootsie Roll. . . . Carlton Kirbach has returned from his third week's vacation. He spent it painting his house. Some vacation, huh, Carlton? . . . The new planner in Bldg. 6-3 office is Ralph Obringer. Welcome to our group, Ralph. . . . Correction in last week's column: Evelyn Partee celebrated 25 years of service and Les Hubartt celebrated his 30th year. We are sorry, Evelyn and Les.

General Electric Company Sales Hit Record Total For First Half of 1953

Sales of the General Electric Company for the first six months of 1953 were $1,560,448,000, a record total for the period, and an increase of 33 per cent over the sales total of $1,171,202,000, for the same period in 1952, President Ralph J. Cordiner announced today.

The first half earnings for 1953, estimated on the basis of extension of the excess profits tax, amounted to 4.8 cents per dollar of sales (a total of $75,417,000) compared with 4.9 cents a year ago.

A total of $569,420,000—or 36.5 cents per sales dollar—went to General Electric employees in the form of wages and the cost of benefits, etc. More than $256 million—16.4 cents per sales dollar—was taken in direct federal, state, and local taxes during the first half of 1953, again assuming an extension of the excess profits tax. Outside suppliers got 42.3 cents per dollar of sales—a total of $658,764,000.

The increase in overall sales volume was attributed by Mr. Cordiner to improved business in virtually all the company's operations. "Three factors in particular stand out," he commented. "The first of these is the steady progress in our heavy apparatus business, reflecting both the continuing expansion of the nation's electric utilities and General Electric's increased production facilities enabling us to meet the demand better. The second factor is marked improvement in consumers' goods sales compared with this time last year. The final factor is a further increase in the output of defense products."

The company's sales for the second quarter of 1953 total $782,629,000, compared with $777,819,000, during the first three months of the year and with $610,645,000 during the second quarter of the last year.

A dividend of 75 cents a share of common stock will be paid July 25, for the second quarter of 1953, making a total of $1.50 a share declared this year, which is the same amount as declared last year. This is the 225th dividend on General Electric common stock and will make a total of approximately $43 million declared as dividends this year or 2.7 cents per dollar of sales. Approximately $33 million was reinvested in facilities for growth and development.

Appointment of Russell D. Grove As STAB Gen'l Foreman Announced

Russell D. Grove has been appointed a general foreman in Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, William H. Crouse, superintendent of Sub-Section 94, revealed this week.

In 1922, Mr. Grove entered GE and became a timekeeper in the FHP Motor Department. After moving to Bldg. 19-5 in 1923, he became a tester. In 1927, he moved to the standardizing section.

When he transferred to Winter St. in 1928, Mr. Grove entered experimental test and in 1933 became a service engineer. He was named a foreman at the Taylor St. location in 1942 and in 1945 moved to the Danville plant where he was an assistant general foreman.

After returning to Fort Wayne STAB in 1948, Mr. Grove became a foreman. He was named supervisor of training in Sub-Section 94 in 1951 and had this position prior to his present one.

Mr. Grove is a member of the Foremen's Association. The Groves, who have three children, live at 826 S. Jersey St., Bluffton, Ind.

DO YOU THINK THE UPRISINGS IN EASTERN GERMANY WILL MEAN SERIOUS TROUBLE FOR RUSSIA?

MADELYN H. STROUD

Bldg. 4-6

"History has proved that subjugated or oppressed peoples will not remain so forever. I feel that these uprisings in Germany are the first rumblings of the storm of revolution that will inevitably follow in Russia."

ALBERT E. KORN

Taylor St.

"I think the uprisings in Germany and Poland will mean serious trouble for Russia. It may mean freedom for these two countries."

CHARLES D. GIBSON

Bldg. 27

"In my opinion yes because the ones who have escaped the Reds and the ones left behind the iron curtain could set up serious underground and sabotage tactics."

LELA F. WHITE

Bldg. 26-5

"I'll say that without military assistance to the anti-Communist element in eastern Germany from the outside, their uprisings alone are probably easily controlled by Russian military power."

ARTHUR DICKE

Bldg. 19-4

"No, I do not think eastern Germany itself can give Russia serious trouble at this time. But I do believe eastern Germany will continue giving Russia trouble until they get their freedom."

PICK-UPS from 26-3

There are still some left! That's the report Willard Lenz gave after a week at the lake fishing, etc. From his tan you would think that he had spent a week in Florida. . . . The Summit City Ramblers, our own little band, were practicing in George Mannisto's back yard a couple of weeks ago. Fred Leinker was giving his fiddle a workout when a lightning bug landed on his fiddle. Fred took a deep breath to blow it off and he ended up spitting lightning bug for five minutes. . . . Edna Mapes came out of her daze after she realized that she had crawled into the tub with her slippers on. . . . Helen Lehman has yet to learn the difference between lettuce and endive. Helen's mother asked her to go to the garden and pick some lettuce. Helen returned with endive. . . . THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Men are born with two eyes, should see twice as much as they say; but from their conduct, one would suppose that they were born with two tongues and one eye; for those talk the most who have observed the least.

Max Oberkiser wanted to know how to get his name in the G-E NEWS. He was told he had to do something spectacular—so he got a crew cut. . . . Anna Ruth Clements has been gaining a few ounces each week lately. One day she hopped on the scales in the High Bay and her eyes got bigger and bigger as she kept pushing the gizmo farther and farther to the right. Finally, the weight balanced and she said, breathlessly, "You don't suppose I could gain six pounds in one week, do you?" Then she looked around and caught Lloyd Grim easing his foot off the platform. . . . Clarence Weist must have some Indian blood in his veins. Every time he swats a fly he lets out a blood-curdling whoop. . . . Bonnie Campbell, who wears her husband's shirts to work (they say), is busily making butterfly nets to take down to Turkey Run. She is studying botany and needs lots of insects to examine. Wonder how she overlooked Niemeyer? . . . Au Revoir to Joan Workerger, who is leaving to be a housewife. Same to Eleanor Franke, who is leaving to be with her husband in the service. Best of luck, girls. We will miss you. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Mary May, Wilda Gibson, and Beulah Conrad. . . . WELCOME to Rhoda Whittymore and Jean Bradtmiller. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Helen Keim on her tenth wedding anniversary; to Lu Byrd and his wife on the arrival of Diana Margaret, 6 lbs. 14 oz.; to Jeanette Lehman, a former employee, on her new son, Stephen Allen, 7 lbs. . . . We are happy to welcome Joe Monahan back to the Switch Dept. . . . Wanda Hunt plans to send her husband to cooking school to learn how to make coffee, or at least how to put the coffee pot together properly. . . . Oscar Fleming says you don't have to go to Wisconsin to catch big bluegills. His wife has been pulling ten-inchers out of Lake Pleasant. When do we eat? . . . Art Bear will be traveling to Minnesota; Carl Hattendorf will travel through northern Michigan and Canada; Ted Brockmeyer will go west and north during the vacation period. All will have with them their respective spouses, a companionship they will treasure ere this long trek is over. Have a good time. . . .

Otto Brandt will stay home and catch up on his farm work. . . . Instructions for not getting to work on time, by Rhoda Whittymore: Take the wrong bus and go to State Street instead of Taylor. Better luck next time, Rhoda. . . . We hear Katie Auker was slightly upset last week. Who were you falling for, Katie? . . . Dorothy Money calls her car "Nappy," short for Napoleon. Here's a little ode we'll dedicate to both of them: Rattle, rattle, in my car, How I wonder where you are. In the door? The dash? The seat? Near my head? My hands? My feet? Are you inside? Are you out? Do you, maybe, move about? Rattle, rattle, in my car; Are you near or are you far? Are you metal? Are you glass? Will you linger? Will you pass? Are you bolts, or springs, I sigh. Are you nuts, or else am I?

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Jones on the arrival of a baby daughter. . . . Welcome to the three new apprentices engaged last week: Clifford Creason, Charles Sloan, and Dean Burman. . . . LUCKY FELLOWS: Ten of our apprentices are spending two weeks in Wisconsin (with the National Guard.) . . . The question of the week is: Why do they call Bob, Boat Anchor Doelling? . . . Harry Eckenbarger took his small son fishing one night last week and Donnie was real pleased that he caught some fish. After they arrived home Harry started to clean the fish when Donnie started to cry. He didn't want his daddy to kill the poor fish. So, late that night Harry was out hunting a creek to put the poor little fishy in. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reed on the arrival of Jimmie on July 8, weighing in at eight pounds, seven ounces. . . . Birthday greetings to Ralph Hoover on the 20th, and belated birthday greetings to Pat Thrasher on the 14th. . . . The Wire Mill golf team lost 12 points last week, and will have to bear down to gain on the leaders of the league. They have two more matches to go and one will be against the leaders, which will gain two points for each stroke they win. Scores for last week were: Blackie Garman, 42; Dick Spice, 50; Harry Arnold, 51; and Harold Parkison, 52. . . . Bill Irwin's team, in the Winter St. league, will play the leaders in their league. They will have to gain nine strokes to take the title. They are seventeen points behind and a nine stroke gain for Irwin's team against a nine stroke loss for the leaders will place Bill's team one point in the lead. Scores for last week were: Ray Kirk, 42; Don Pappert, 48; Dick Quinn, 52; and Clarence Kreischer, 53. . . . Bob Morris watched his brother at the Sam Sneed Exhibition for 15 holes and returned to the clubhouse for a rest and the final hole. By doing so he missed the best

Andrew J. Nichter

Andrew J. Nichter, 57 Dies in Vets Hospital

A Quarter Century Club member, Andrew J. Nichter, 57, died Thursday, July 9, at the Fort Wayne Veterans Administration Hospital. He had been ill since February.

Services for Mr. Nichter, who resided at 520 Lavina St., were conducted Saturday, July 11, at the Getz & Cahill Funeral Home and St. Paul's Catholic Church. The Very Rev. Msgr. John F. Nadolny officiated.

Burial was in the Catholic cemetery.

When he came to the company in July, 1925, Mr. Nichter entered Bldg. 17-4 to work. Later he became a tool sharpener and in 1950 transferred to Bldg. 4-2 where he was a bench machinist. This was the position he had when he took a leave of absence in February this year.

Survivors are his wife, Anna M.; four daughters, Mrs. Richard Alt, Mrs. Max Wittrein, and the Misses Joanne and Marianne; one son, Ralph; five sisters, Mrs. Harry Weber, Mrs. Harry Pickett, Mrs. Elliott Meyers, Mrs. Ed Follmer, and Mrs. John Bahlinger; two brothers, Herbert and Edwin, and three grandchildren.

shot of the game as Bob's brother missed a hole-in-one by two inches on the 16th green, which drew a lot of "Oh's" from the crowd. He explains that next time he will take a complete rest before the game so he can complete all eighteen holes. . . . That loud rooting you hear down the first base line at Memorial Park is from a couple of ardent Daisy fans. We know them as Ora and Mrs. Harden. . . . Ray Kierspe came in Monday morning with a beam on his face, all prepared to tell about his fish stories while vacationing in Canada. Everyone asked about the fish fry but all he could talk about was the moose they saw and that they took pictures of him. I guess there shouldn't be too much to worry about because there are plenty of fish left. . . . Howard Smith is still pestering Nolan Riley and Merle Armstrong to be chauffeur for them on their vacation trip. He's trying hard, and one way or another he is going to work his way to California. Of course, he has to be up bright and early to leave at 4 a.m. Sunday, but best of all, he will have to ask for an extra week's vacation.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

Celebration has certainly been the theme of this week at Winter St. Ed Ehrman, foreman, tool room, celebrated his 40th anniversary with the company this last Thursday, July 9, 1953. Our congratulations to you, Ed, that is really an accomplishment. Ed has really been in the spotlight, not only has he celebrated his 40th anniversary but he was elected Vice Commander of Post 47 of the American Legion. At the presentation of the ruby pin to Ed it was discovered that five of the men (40 years service or more) within the tool room had with their services, totaled 211 years with the company. Also, eleven of the men in the tool room total services equal 316 years with the company. These eleven all having twenty-five years service or more. We are mighty proud.

Thursday evening, at the Phi Delta Hall, a party was given by the men in the tool room in honor of two of their boys who are going on pension. Namely, Carl Speckman and Mart Thullen. The party started about 8 o'clock and ended when the first three to five robins were beginning to be seen. There were about 75 in attendance, which was composed of two of our pensioners (both fifty year men) Bill Woehrs, and John Shoedel, and also members of our supervisory staff. While Ed Ehrman did a fine job as master of ceremonies, the music and entertainment was supplied by talent from their own group. Bob Branning and Dale Weaver were quite the ones to be seen in their outfits and handlebar mustaches, and exaggerated noses. Bob and Dale, you are to be commended on the splendid arranging and planning. The music was supplied by Dale Weaver's nimble fingers over the piano keyboard, and Harold Bohde's gusto and talent on the accordion. Entertainment in the way of works of magic was supplied by Tom Rockhill and Ed Gallmeier. All in all, everyone had a wonderful time and the party was a HUGE success. Carl and Mart were each presented with a coolerator fan and an electric drill outfit.

This last Friday another three of our boys left on pension. They were Ralph J. Wilkinson, John D. Fletter, and S. LaRue Cunningham. These three had services with the company amounting to 101 years. Congratulations, boys, lots of good health and good luck.

While we are on the subject of pensioners, the latest report of Walter Knoche (on pension since June 25, 1953) is doing fine (in his recuperating period) in the Lutheran hospital, room 251. We do hope Walter hurries and gets well real soon.

Vacations: Ed Ehrman is on vacation for the next two weeks. Also Bob Branning and Carl Speckman, Bill Sommers, and Ray O'Keefe. Have a safe and wonderful vacation, boys.

The saying, "Watch your pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," is not only a saying but is a reality for our Charlie Brooks. Charlie has been saving dimes for quite some time now, and just this month purchased for his home a new television set. It was purchased with the dimes Charlie had saved. Congratulations, Charlie, we are proud of you.

All heads turned Friday morning when Millie Stewart appeared for work. My, oh, my! Millie had a new suit on, new hair-do, and new shoes. Millie, those whistles were really called for. You looked nice.

Radio reports caution us about tossing cigarette butts from our automobiles as we are driving along in the city or in the country, or even around parks. It really could be dangerous and cause the loss of some part of our clothing or even a blanket. We know Pat Roehling will agree with us. Safety first should always be our motto. . . . Speaking of safety, a certain gentleman in Bldg. 1-3 one day last week wanted to be sure that he would and could have his lunch in peace at his desk. It's better to be safe than sorry. We agree with you, Bill Garvey.

Also, we have some new faces in SIM. Welcome to Wilmer Bock, and William Hassenplug. We do hope you like your new home. So nice to have you with us.

The photogenic picture, complete with teeth, that Eileen Salmon took for the Inquiring Reporter, together with her revealing an interesting explanation of the heat pump, has won for her the title of Winter Street's "Miss Sump Pump of 1953." Eileen is very proud of her newly acquired title.

MAD MODELERS—Working on a model to enter in Sunday's model airplane contest at Smith Field are Robert Wickstrom and Joe Donahoo, both of Bldg. 4-6, and both members of the city's Mad Modelers Club.

GE Model Airplane Builders Prepare for Annual Contest

Making last-minute adjustments and tests on their model planes, three employees have been busy this week preparing for the Seventh Annual Fort Wayne Plymouth Model Airplane Contest at Smith Field. The contest, which gets under way at 9 a.m., Sunday, July 19, will have approximately 300 participants.

The three GE entrants, Robert Wickstrom, Bldg. 4-6; Joe T. Donahoo, Bldg. 4-6; and Robert Hartweg, Taylor St., along with 13 other employees are members of the Mad Modelers Club. Meeting weekly during the summer months, the members have been getting ready for the contest and trying out the planes which they make themselves. Another employee, Jack Faust, Taylor St., is on the panel of judges for the contest.

Having a mutual interest in aviation on a small scale, the Mad Modelers meet throughout the year to further their knowledge of model planes through movies, discussions, construction, and actual flying practice.

Like others throughout the United States, the local group is sponsored by the Plymouth Aero League. At present, Mr. Wickstrom is serving as secretary of the local club.

At Sunday's meet, which is open to the public, the three men and other entrants will see the results of many hours of work take flight to soar gracefully and hopefully toward a first-place award.

It may be that was what was the matter with that cow. Especially if she ate the billfold. His ice cream social tickets were in it, too. Do you think he was right in asking the girls for a refund? . . . Jean (Marilyn Monroe) Havens would like to bring her husband in to show him off to all the gals. Better keep him home, Jean, he wouldn't be safe around here. . . . Sheriff Wohlford had a wonderful trip to Florida on his first week's vacation. The least you could have done, Walt, is to have brought us a crate of oranges. . . . We welcome Roy Hinen to group 1x10. He transferred from first to second shift. . . . Our eager beaver is Helen Powers. She is so used to having everything in order when the children come into the class room she can't get out of the rut. At 3:15 Helen has her apron on and is rarin' to go. Guess she expects those staters to come racin' past her hollerin, "Mornin' Miss Powers." . . . March in July: It was a pitiful sight watching Jerry Kramer munching an ice cream cone at the Elex Social the other night. A cold breezy draft didn't add to his comfort either. A Visitor: Fred Reinking, who is retired, came back to visit us. We were glad to see him. Retirement certainly agrees with him. . . . The Midas Touch: A lucky streak—or what? Floyd Mutton seems to have it. Every time he wins, it's free cokes to the office girls. . . . Jim Feber, our office sleepy head, is at Great Lakes taking two weeks Navy training. He is in the Reserves. . . . Thanks very much, Sherry Warner, for digging up the news from the West End. It is greatly appreciated. . . . Ludwig Stetter is sure adding color to the detail section with his loafer pants and bright sport shirts. . . . Harry Charles is always ready for volunteers for a barber shop quartette. . . . Bill Bryan is a great imitator of some of our popular radio singers. We aren't quite sure who! . . . Elmer Wagner is the proud owner of a new television set. He claims snow in the summer time. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Burckett, it's a new daughter! And to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kopp—James Michael arrived last week. . . . Kenny Wyatt came to work with his eyes swollen shut. He said a deer fly bit him. Skinny McGary said it's the first time he ever heard of a deer fly having knuckles. . . . Arnold Landis wants to charge 10 cents to stand on a stool and turn slowly around to show off his loud shirts. Leo Didier wouldn't pay, he told Landis he would just walk around him. . . . Chet Schwartz was always a moderate driver until the speed laws were enforced. When there was no limit on the highways he drove around 50 or 55 m.p.h. Now (at least once) he knows his car will go more than 65 m.p.h. After a small contribution to the hoys in blue, Chet is now back to his old speed, and condemning reckless drivers. . . . Bill Schible says the rumors aren't true. He was just making change for the boys in the garage. . . . Wonder if Wayne Marquardt will explain what a "Honky Tonk" tinner is supposed to be. . . . Bill Schible was delayed getting from one side of Broadway to the other because he was making like a gentleman. He saw a woman on Broadway trying to change a flat tire and stopped to do it for her. GE Little League Team Defeats Allen Dairy; Lose to P-F Nine 7-3

The GE Little Leaguers did it again. They defeated Allen Dairy by a score of 9 to 2. Two-base hits were gotten by Chuck Wilt, Jr., and Dick Snyder.

Snyder started on the mound and held Allen Dairy to one hit for the first four innings; he was relieved by E. Roesner in the fifth.

Totals for the game were:

Losing Pitcher: Arney.
Time for the game: 1 hr. 33 min.

July 13 at 6 p.m. the GE Little Leaguers squared off against the Patterson Fletcher team and for the first five innings the score was tied 3 and 3. However, in the last half of the 5th inning, things began to happen.

The Patterson Fletcher team batted once around in the 5th inning and when the last man was out, the score had changed to 7 to 3. Scott for the Patterson Fletcher team hit a long home run over left field fence. Snyder started the game and pitched the first 4½ innings, at which time he was relieved by Schuman.

The GE Little Leaguers are playing heads-up baseball. The next game the GE Little Leaguers play is at Hamilton Park, July 17, at 6 p.m., when they will play Luca.

Three Interdepartment Teams Tie For First Half Softball League Lead

With one night of the first half left to play, there are three teams tied for first half lead in the Interdepartment Softball League. If all three of the teams tied for first win their one remaining game Wednesday, there will be a play-off to decide the first-half winner. A flip of the coin has already been made which would pit Works Lab against the GE Vets, Monday, July 20, at 6 p.m. on Diamond No. 3 at McMillen Park. The winner of this game would play M. T. P. team at a later date for the first half championship.

Following are scores of games played July 8, team standings, and game schedule of July 22, which is the start of the second half.

THE NIGHT WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Hazel Davis

Everyone enjoyed the 4th of July and we still have some things to tell about. Hazel Dilworth had company from Merced, Calif., and June Hines and husband went fishing in Michigan. Bettie Johnson says digging a well was enough fourth for her. . . . Mary Rose and her Shermie went to Houghton Lake and spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bill LaCocque. . . . Remember Bert Herman? He used to be test foreman of Section 17 before he retired to raise ducks. Anyone wanting a nice fat duck should see Bert at Columbia City. . . . Marge Radu and Eva Webber sure bake lovely cakes. . . . Lora Schroeder and Tracey Bartle are a little nearer ready for vacation. They both have new permanents. . . . Dorothy Winners attended a wedding at Defiance, Ohio, Saturday.

VACATION TIME
We are nearing our vacation time. For joy, fun, and pleasures fine. But let's be careful, all of you. When driving or what e'er you do.
We want you hck all safe and sound. When working days again roll around. We hope you have a fine vacation. Wherever you go in our nation.
Now here are a few of the places fine. We expect to enjoy from the 31 line. So go with us for two weeks please. As we travel along enjoying the breeze.

51 FRAME VACATIONERS
Charley Prine is our foreman. His vacation he hasn't planned. But hope when some of us reach Tomahawk, Wisconsin Charley will be on hand.
Fay Patten goes to Wisconsin. To fish and be at ease. Andy, they say that Tomahawk Is just the place to do as you please.
Bob Hursey also goes to Wisconsin. To fish and possibly swim. But please, Bob, change to a bathing suit. Before you go in.
Robert Barkley will visit folks in Ohio; Ed Williams at Hazard, Kentucky; Ed Hutsel to Minnesota, he says to get married. Now we think that is ducky.

Owls Rack Up Win No. 9; Wallop Indiana Rod 9-4

by Howard Colby

At the expense of Indiana Rod and Wire the GE Owls made it nine in a row to remain undefeated in league play. GE posted 9 runs on 9 hits, and no errors, while Indiana Rod scored only 4 runs on 6 hits, and 1 error.

GE scored their first run of the ball game when Ray Scherer was given a base on balls in the first inning and later crossed home plate when Chuck Boyce doubled, giving the Club a 1 to 0 lead.

Rod and Wire went scoreless in the first three innings as did GE in their half of the second. The top half of the third paid big dividends for the Club team when they collected four runs with the entire nine batting before being retired.

Scherer started off with a single; Somers singled, Boyce reached first on an error; Bob Taylor flied out to left field; Sexton walked; Billman and Bob Crosley singled; Gene Etter went out second to first; Harold Baker walked, and Ray Scherer, up for the second time, flied out to right field. For the score books it totaled as four hits and four runs to make it 5 to 0 in favor of GE.

GE scored a run in the fourth as Chuck Boyce slapped a home run far into left field. Indiana Rod and Wire scored two runs in their half of the fourth to make it 6 to 2.

Both teams went scoreless in the fifth, as Ron Blodgett replaced Billman on the mound for GE. In the sixth Ray Scherer was sent to first as the result of being hit on a wild pitch. Harold Somers sacrificed; Boyce scoring Scherer, advancing to third on a passed ball, and scored on a long fly ball by Bob Taylor into center field. Rod and Wire scored two runs in the sixth to make it 8 to 4.

GE wound it up in the seventh by scoring one more run, as Ron Blodgett crossed home plate, after getting a single, going to second as Gene Etter was hit by a pitched ball, stealing third, and scoring as Baker was being thrown out pitcher to first.

Tee Off by Earl Stauffer

The big golf news of the week happened in the Monday Evening League where the Pros have been dominating the top slot since early in the season. "In the Rough" Walter Sunier and the rest of the Dark Horses saw to it that the Pros were going to earn their laurels. Even a six under average effort by Harold Dimke wasn't enough to help the Pros' cause.

Monday Afternoon League
Benny Penkul's Wire Mill team was bumped from first to third place by Paul Boedecker's High Balls by means of a 12-point lacing. Allmandinger's Putters squeezed into the league lead plus 29 from third with a 17 tally conquest of the Divoteers. Ed Becker's Transformer lads are just one short of the loop lead with plus 28. They held second place by beating Les Glougie's team by six. Tony Wichman of the Putters carded the low score of the league, a 40.

Ray Hills holds the individual league lead with an average of 38.6. Willie Adams is second with 39 and Tony Wichman is third with 41.

Monday Evening
Only one week remains in this league since no rainout or other postponements occurred. The Turf Toppers will have the task of holding on to their slim four point lead over the Pros in second place. The Rough Riders are not to be counted out. A good game could put them in the cat bird seat.

It is up to the Rovers and Lost Balls to follow the lead of the Dark Horses to make life tough for the leaders.

Bill Wickliffe of the Pros with an average of 40 for seven games leads the league. Hanna is second with 40.8. Lahrman is third with 41.4.

Tuesday Office League
Bob Black's Optimists and Red Braden's 19th Holers are down to the wire, neck to neck. Both teams have a plus 56. The Optimists held a share of the lead with a eleven point conquest of the Gas House Tigers. The Club House boys with the old Redhead shooting a 39 ran rough shod over the Dubs for 18 points and a tie for the lead. Keith Guyot paced the Optimists with a 38. The Forty Niners and the Divot Diggers rounded out the action with with a 16 point win for the explorers over the sod cutters.

Braden, Bill Kayser, and Keith

Guyot hold averages of 38.8, 40.2, and 40.6 to lead the league.

Thursday Owl
The Owl action was limited to two games. The league leading Eagles eked out a one point win from the Champs. Paul Billman and Vern Foulks led the way with 40 and 41. Jim Sternberger carded a 37 for the Owl low of the day in the losing Champ cause.

Warren Wickliffe still leads the Owl as well as all of the GE Leagues with an average of 38.5. Paul Billman and Vern Foulks follow with 39.3 and 40.4.

SLEUTHING in 4-6

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Ed Whipple, July 21, and to our very good friend, Harry Connor, today, July 17. Mr. and Mrs. Connor will spend their vacation in New York City, visiting their children and grandchildren. Harry will leave next Thursday. Many more happy birthdays and have a pleasant vacation, too. . . . LUCKY PEOPLE: Starting their three weeks' vacation today are Bill Pringle, Jerry Zehendner, and E. M. Stanbery. For the rest of us just one more week; seven more days, then—oh, happy days. . . . WEDDING BELLS will be ringing in St. Theresa's Catholic Church, in Alhambra, Calif., for our own Bob Mee on Saturday, August 1. The lucky girl is Kathy Leithauser. Bob is leaving today to complete plans for the wedding. That's a long drive, so take it easy, Bob. On their honeymoon they will visit Las Vegas, Boulder Dam, Painted Desert, Grand Canyon, and then back to Fort Wayne and terra firma. . . . SHOW ME THE WAY TO GO HOME! Dan Geary lives at Bear Lake (and has for more than 10 years) and often goes fishing at the early hour of 4:30 a.m. as he did Saturday morning. Of course, he usually can find his way home without rowing around the whole lake. Saturday he claims there was a heavy fog and it threw him off his course so he had plenty of exercise rowing back home. Maybe next time you should not go so far from your regular fishing place. He caught two fish. . . . WONDERING why some of the boys in the corner of the room are dressing up so much here of late? They are: Paige Thompson, Harold Dimke, and Darrel Kirkendall. You really look nice with all the fancy shoes, bright shirts, and flashy neckties, and Dimke shaves almost every morning. I guess they wanted their names mentioned in the GE NEWS. . . . We are glad to see Wade Reed back with us again after a short time in the hospital. . . . AND THEY TALK ABOUT THE ABSENT-MINDED PROFESSOR! What is this we hear about Gil Baker frantically hunting for his car in the East Fairfield parking lot and not being able to find it? After a period of delirium he woke up to the fact that he had parked it on the street, for a quick get-away.

Birthday greetings to Ruth Walda and Ralph Calvert. . . . Frank McCague is back in the swing of things, after being off several weeks with an injured arm. . . . Congratulations to Walter and Mrs. Guschung. They have a new baby boy. . . . Ruth Michelfelder received a bouquet of beautiful roses from her husband on their 16th wedding anniversary. We think that is a good example for all of you fellows, eh? . . . Tuesday evening George Seabold had just made himself comfortable in his favorite chair in the basement of his home, when he saw many legs passing his window. They weren't clad in nylon hose, but long trousers. The door opened and there were the top brass of our department, including Mr. Gamec, Mr. Bruce, and Mr. Sonday descending his stairs—22 in all. George had a grand time receiving many ties he had previously given. He noticed several fellows had endurance enough to wear ties on the warm evening. George being the perfect host requested them all to remove them. In fact he made the request so strong, he showed them just how sharp his tin snips were by removing Al Rondot's tie just below the knot. Incidentally, Al is his "boss." The party lasted several hours. Mr. Sonday reports "all had a - - - good time." Thursday night was another party for George. In describing the setting for it Jimmy James said, "Just say a gang of about 70 fellows," top brass and riff raff were there. No one was wearing bars or stripes, not even their Sunday manners. Earl Gebert, our own accomplished pianist, accompanied the fellows while all sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Mr. Gamec gave a talk. The topic was "George." He gave such a splendid speech, he was nearly finished before George knew it was he who was being discussed. Tom Rockhill, the magician from Bldg. 4-1, was there with all his tricks. He proved at the moment George could not count even to three. Vern Boyer tried to out-do Tom but found it impossible to light a wet cigarette. We hear he has settled that score with Andy Lee. Although Andy is quite small, he is capable of upsetting a table. It is suggested Fred Hagadorn and George get together for a little practice card playing. The fellows always hate to take their money. Seems as if Gene Foster and George Miller were kept busy watching Andy, too. In fact, as I hear the different versions of the party, I began to wonder if Andy sort of stole the show from George, but he said "never!" George just needed him for a breath catcher. Charlie Curtis and Joe Kramer were the photographers. Park Schemehorn and Ed Sonday were observed sitting on the piano bench, Park playing sentimental music. The $65 question is: Was Park serenading Mr. Sonday or was Sonday singing a solo? If he was singing a solo, it was so low Herb Franke couldn't hear it. George, the department does wish you the best of everything in your retirement and we do hope to hear from you occasionally. . . . Our deepest sympathy goes to the family of Andy Nichter who passed away. Also to Ida Bulte-meier whose husband passed away.

If you see a lot of sleeveless nylon blouses walking down the street looking for new owners, chances are they came from our office. It is surprising how all of those pretty thin blouses disappeared from the office after we got our air-conditioning. . . . Now we know why Joyce Horstmeier didn't see anyone uptown the other night. She was on her way to buy her wedding gown. . . . Barbara Houser doesn't know her own strength. She bore down so hard on her pencil that she broke the quarter inch glass on her desk. . . . If Vern Castle ever gets his pump in working condition at the lake we will all go up to get a drink of water. . . . Harold Hohman is thinking of changing his name to Gwendoline, and going to Europe with the Elex girls. Isn't it fun to listen to all of the vacation plans? All of those wonderful trip talks make you almost forget your own plans. . . . A little Hello to Ceal Romary. Hurry back, Ceal, we miss you.

I understand G. McCormick was trying to get a call through on the phone by dialing a drawing number he happened to be looking at. It's a funny thing but I seem to remember Pat Bond asking for a folder in the office one day and giving his clock number, instead of the shop order. Should we just blame it on the heat, fellows? . . . The fellows in Bldg. 19-B want it to be known that they have cleaned the place up and they don't want any cigarette butts strewn around. So don't say I didn't warn ya! . . . Andy Leeuw done went and bought himself a new Chevrolet. That's what you get for saving your pennies. A few dollar bills kicked in help a lot, too. . . . Ed Branning, I don't know if you know it or not, but we girls in the office think you look much younger when you have your cap off. I really shouldn't say that. After all, you never did bring in that hunk of surplus beef. . . . Any of you fellows who need a quick hair cut in between shifts, see Leo Lambert of second trick. He'll fix you up good and proper. . . . Most people I talk to are just counting the hours until vacation time, but not Jim Grogg. Instead he is anticipating the time when he can come back to work again after vacation. I could say something about here, but on second thought maybe I had better hold it until I see you.

Otto Rodenbeck likes his morning Journal and claims there is none better. He even has his dog trained to go down to the road and get the paper every morning. The only hitch is that the dog deposits it in the dog house instead of on the porch, and Otto retrieves it there. He wants to be sure you greet him every morning, Otto. . . . Congratulations to our courteous driver, Richard Burns, who won a five dollar award for courtesy in driving. In spite of your envious friends saying that you won because the engine in your Mercury went dead at the right time, we are proud of you for your Hoosier hospitality. . . . Herl Thiele doesn't usually mix with politicians much but we hear he met and had an interesting chat with the Noble County sheriff while driving to his cottage last week. MAIN OFFICE CONTENTS BLDG. 18

Eloise Kartholl always wanted to join the Floor Sitters' Club. So she applied for membership. . . . Harold Daniels, Bldg. 18-5, is enjoying a two weeks' cruise with the Naval Reserve. . . . We were all pleasantly surprised when Cora Polhamus came into work recently with a diamond on the important finger of the left hand. We all extend our hearty wishes for future happiness. . . . Glad to report that Ceal Romary is back in our fold again after a recent illness. . . . Also, welcome back to work, Mary Henry.

DECATURITES

George Laurent

Doyle Gehres would like a map of the office. Since he has moved he can't seem to find the right door. . . . Lank Linn is now sporting a bow tie. Did the others wear out, Lank? . . . George Buckley eats so many eggs he has decided to start raising chickens. He has already learned to prepare the eggs, but he would like to master the art of breaking the egg and separating it from the shell with one hand (to save time). So far all he has accomplished is a mess and very little egg left to fry. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Hilda Staley, who recently treated both lines in honor of the occasion. We hope you have many more happy birthdays, Hilda. . . . The wind blew and blew. Down came the limbs from the trees. Along comes Carl Smith to remove a large limb, all moved along satisfactorily. Oh, oh, not now! The end of the limb accidentally removed the top from a hive of bees. As you might guess, a few of the bees came in for a landing on Carl. Yes, they stung him—the ungrateful things. P. S. Carl replaced the hive but not until after dark. . . . Machine trouble does not keep Erman Johnson away from his job. Especially on Fridays. He does not want to miss getting his copy of the GE NEWS. We wonder why? . . . Did you see Bob Kenworthy strut last Friday morning? Well, he had a very good reason to do so. Yes, it was a blue booted arrival at their home on July 9. It is the second child but first son. The mother is the former Ruth Keifer. Congratulations, Ruth and Bob. . . . Leona Krick took advantage of the extra time at home one day recently and baked cookies. Rumor has it that the gang really enjoyed the cookies and wonder if they could be a pre-birthday treat. Don't try to rush birthdays like that, Leona, you will find yourself growing old too soon. . . . It was such a nice night for sleeping, really cool for a change. Even the alarm clock took advantage of the fact and failed to ring to arouse Lois and Ron Ballard. Results? Lois and Ron arrived to work rather late, but at least they did get here for most of the day. . . . Circumstantial evidence points to the fact that she had a mighty powerful right (or was it a left?) Anyway, Mary Fennig's husband, Buck, appeared recently with a discolored orbit or what is commonly called a black eye. Of course, he would not want it known that a hammer held in his own hand could be the real culprit. So much easier and more fun to just say, "the wife hit me." . . . One morning last week a train held up traffic on a local street. The first car in line was that of a young couple who were apparently on their honeymoon or something of that nature. Immediately behind them was the informant of this story and a friend. The young couple in the first car were taking advantage of the train across the track and the men in the second car were amusing themselves by imitating the first car; when, much to their surprise, they happened to look behind them. Lo and behold, there sat Ada and Forest Owens in a clinch. The $64 question is—were Ada and Forest mimicking the men in the second car, who were mimicking the couple in the first car, who were enjoying the situation? Maybe we'll never know, but who said it wasn't fun to wait on trains? . . . We wish to express our deepest sympathies to Woodson Ogg upon the death of his wife. . . . Our GE Club golf team beat the third place Mies Recreation team last Monday by a score of 4 to 1. GE now leads the Adams County Golf League with a percentage of .732 based on 29 wins, 12 losses, and 4 ties. The Schafer Co. team is lodged in second place with a percentage of .684. John Baumann with a 40.7 and Kenny Gaunt with a 41.0 are the one-two league men in the individual average race. Other GE Club golfers with their corresponding averages are: G. Laurent, 44.7; D. Girod, 46.5; Tom Haulbold, 49.4, and P. Hancher, 56.9. . . . The Annual GE Club picnic played to a total of more than 1,650 people. The weather was ideal and some 4,000 soft drinks helped to keep the dust out of throats and to wash down the more than 1,200 hot dogs that were served. The children managed to consume over 1,500 popsicles in addition to some 1,700 ice cream specialties. 1,700 box lunches were distributed in addition to several hundred ham sandwiches and gallon after gallon of beans and potato salad. The entertainment starting at 12:30, and continuing throughout the afternoon, kept both the adults and the children laughing and on the go. The pony ride, skating rink and quiz program proved to be the highlights of the schedule. The spelling bee and sawdust scramble finished close seconds. Everybody had a busy afternoon and was ready to call it a day right after the last of many door prizes were awarded. The more than 125 people that served on the various committees can feel proud of a job well done.

Tommy Williams is all smiles over that new Chevy they have now. . . . Florence Wiemer is back with us again after being on a fishing trip. . . . Carmelita Flough was surprised Monday morning when she was presented with a birthday gift. What are you going to get on your real birthday, October 1, Carm? . . . Ruby Stucky is really hepped up for her trip, now that they have received their tickets. . . . Norm Sherman was looking all over for his car keys the other day, and even walked out to the parking lot to see if he had left them in the car. After not finding his car he happened to remember his wife had the car and the keys. . . . Ruby Shine was seen in the police station the other night. Another parking ticket, Ruby? . . . Marion Horman is back to work again after being off ill for a week with a bad sunburn. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Lillian Felt and to Freda Meyers. . . . Red Huffman sure looked sharp in that peek-a-boo dress she wore Monday. . . . Hulda Steffen asked if Georgia wasn't some place in Texas the other day when she heard one of the many moving rumors. Texas isn't that big, Hulda. . . . Glad to have Mildred Travis back. . . . Charles and Bertha Myers' daughter, Joyce, became the bride of Marvin Neilson Thursday night. Congratulations and good luck. . . . Betty Schockey can lay in bed now and watch the stars. Betty had the misfortune of a fire last week that burned the top story of their house. . . . Phyllis Arkwright is back after spending three weeks in Montana. . . . Bob Mock spent last week at Houghton Lake. . . . A very speedy recovery to Arveda Neal who is in the Lutheran hospital. Hurry back, Arveda, we miss you. . . . Pat Miller has joined the second truck and Jennie Turner has come on days. Hope both of the girls will like it. . . . Lela Line celebrated her 24th wedding anniversary Monday. . . . About all we hear is vacations. Gene LaFavour is going to a lake in Ohio. Hazel Hardwick is going to California again. Evelyn Markley is going to visit friends in Michigan and Wisconsin. Lenora Brown is planning on going to the upper peninsula in Michigan.

IT'S VACATION* TIME AGAIN...

-mind if we make a few suggestions?

HERE'S HOPING you and all the family enjoy your vacation to the fullest, wherever you go and whatever you do.

Be careful though, won't you? Because unfortunately, statistics show that vacation time is accident time too—that there is a far higher accident rate in the summer months than at any other time of year. To help keep your loved ones safe and sound, here are a few safety tips to remember.

WHEN YOU'RE DRIVING, observe the rules of the road. Don't take chances. Make sure your car is mechanically okay—especially brakes, tires, steering. Change drivers or stop and rest every two hours on long trips. Don't speed. It's better to get there a little late than not at all.

IN SWIMMING, pick a place where the bottom slopes off gradually, so the children won't step in over their heads. After eating don't swim for an hour. Don't swim offshore: it's just as enjoyable swimming parallel to the shore, and a lot easier to get back. Have someone responsible for watching the children every minute. Don't swim at night or alone.

SAILING OR CANOEING, keep a weather eye peeled for squalls. If you see a storm coming up, don't try to be a hero; go ashore. Wear life jackets when crossing open water. If you capsize, stay with the boat—it's safer.

WATCH YOUR WOODCRAFT. When hiking or climbing take care to avoid falls. Be sure of your footing crossing swampy places. Treat snakes with caution. Coach the children on how to recognize poison ivy. Tell them not to pet the kitty with the white stripe down its back. Tell them not to eat wild berries without asking you first.

IN THE SUN, watch out for sunburn. Fifteen minutes is enough exposure your first time out; then cover up. Avoid over-exertion and over-eating, especially on hot sunny days. Sun-stroke's no joke.

MISCELLANEOUS TIPS. Be sure to put camp fires out. Careful of smoking in the woods. When thunderstorms get very close, seek cover; but if you're caught in the open or on the beach, lie down flat. Take along plenty of insect repellent. Don't neglect the smallest cut or burn. Have a first aid kit handy. In camp or at home, if you're using a ladder to make repairs, check the ladder and use it with caution. Ladders are always dangerous.

WHEN YOU LEAVE HOME, notify the police that you're going away and for how long. Don't draw the shades down; this is a tip-off to prowlers that nobody's home. That's about all we have to say, and we hope you didn't mind all the advice. When we stop and think that it's six times safer on the job at GE than it is at home—and that we're even less safe on vacation—it seems to us a good idea to publish these safety hints.

SUGGESTERS SET NEW RECORD HERE

Employees Submit 4,203 Ideas;
Collect $26,942

A new record for the number of suggestions received and awards paid has been established here for the first six months of 1953. A. C. Hartman, secretary of the suggestion system, reported this week. A total of 4,203 ideas was submitted during the six-months period and $26,942 paid to employees in awards.

The single highest award this year was paid to Evelyn Markley, Taylor St., for suggesting the interpolating of coils be performed in the winding section instead of in the finishing section.

Awards totaling $5,999 were paid during the month of June to employees in the Component Products Division. Walter C. Eker, STAB Section 94, suggested an improved method of repairing Permafil transformers for a $150 award.

Two Earn $130

Two $130 awards appeared on the June list. Everett E. Moring, GAC Sub-Section 15 at Taylor St., earned his suggestion check for reducing the number of Bellville washers used in motor assembly. Morris A. Peters received $130 for a suggested change in the method of testing motors. He also received two other awards for a total of

Top Fort Wayne Customer Pays Special Visit To Hermetic Employees at Recent Meeting

An unusual happening in normal customer-supplier relationships occurred last week when a customer came to call on Fort Wayne General Electric instead of the other way around. Even more unusual was the fact that his business was not concerned with sales people or orders, but was a personal call on Hermetic Motor Sub-Department employees.

The unique event came about when Ray Herrick, president and general manager of the Tecumseh Products Company, of Tecumseh, Mich., and Hermetic's largest single customer, flew into Fort Wayne to talk with employees about their mutual business interests. Mr. Herrick's firm manufactures compressors for window and room air conditioners and refrigerators in use all over the world, and Hermetic supplies fractional horsepower motors for his compressors.

In introducing Mr. Herrick to assembled employees, Ab Martin, Hermetic general manager, said the unexpected treat was arranged when Mr. Herrick expressed a personal desire to talk with the employees at one of their periodic are extended Ray Herrick, president of the Tecumseh Products Company, by H. A. MacKinnon (right), vice president of the Component Products Division, and Ab Martin, general manager of the Hermetic Motor Sub-Department. Mr. Herrick, one of Fort Wayne's largest and best customers came here last week to talk with Hermetic employees. Another picture appears on page 12. The captain of Mr. Herrick's plane stands at left. The Tecumseh Products president also visited the Tiffin plant prior to his Fort Wayne visit.

Gala Send-off to Europe Slated For Elex Tour Tomorrow at Airport

With visions of majestic Alps, sidewalk cafes, and foreign countrysides packed in their suitcases, employees taking the Elex European Tour will meet at Baer Field airport tomorrow morning.

All persons taking the trip have been asked to be at the airport at 6:30 a.m. for pictures to be taken by Look Magazine and Paramount news reels. Irene Meyers, club adviser, announced today.

A bon voyage breakfast for tour members and their invited guests will be served in the Lookout Room at 7 and 8 a.m. The breakfasts are compliments of Wolf & Desauer. A cordial invitation to all employees, relatives, and friends of the European bound vacationers has been extended by the club, Miss Meyers stated.

Two special Trans World Airlines planes will start the vacationers on their journey. The first flight leaves at 8 a.m. and the other departs at 9:30 a.m. to travel to New York City's Idlewild Airport for the first stop.

Employees taking the trip are asked to check their luggage at the GE Club this afternoon between 2:30 and 10 p.m. They should be sure to take their passports to the club to be checked also, Miss Meyers reported.

Two representatives from the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co. will be in the Women's Activities office, Bldg. 18-1, this afternoon to sell travelers checks to any employees who wish to secure them. This service is available to all employees and not just those taking the European trip.

Allan Lichtenberg, son of retired employee, Col. Chester Lichtenberg, is bringing in one of the planes to be used on the special flight. Edward Bradley, son of Helen Bradley, Bldg. 17-3 employee, will direct the band which will be part of the send-off at the field tomorrow.

CREDIT UNION OPEN DURING VACATION

The Fort Wayne General Electric Employee Credit Union will remain open during the vacation shutdown, Lee Cupp, secretary-treasurer, announced this week.

During the next two weeks, the Credit Union office will be open Mondays through Fridays from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

EXTRA $150 Walter Eker has an extra $150 for his vacation because of his idea for an improved method of repairing Permafil transformers. Pete Heniser is shown at left. Mr. Eker is on air cooler repair work in Bldg. 26-4.

Vacation, U. S. A.

There are many nice things about a vacation, and one of them is that you're not supposed to think about the plant or the office or anything else but having a wonderful time, wish you were here.

But just before setting off for same, it might well occur to any American that the very fact of a vacation sort of epitomizes our land and its freedoms—we can go where we want, when we want, make our own plans, our own decisions. The boundary lines of our 48 great states—and of our neighbors, Canada and Mexico, too—are imaginary: no barriers, no bayonets, no censors of words spoken or written.

Good thing, too, for we are a restless people, with notions of our own and cars, planes, trains and buses to satisfy them at our will. City folks head for the open country; folks in the open country head for the city and its sights—it wouldn't make sense to anyone but an American!

Here's an easy way to swell your bank account. At GE we pay folding money for worthwhile ideas—your ideas. Write your idea on a suggestion blank—you can get one at the nearest suggestion box. Your supervisor will help you with the wording if you find it difficult. Then, just drop your idea in the suggestion box. The suggestion people will study it. If it's acceptable, you'll receive a cash award.

TOOL BITS BLDG. 19-4 and 5 Don Clark

Louise Hegerfeld, Virginia Simon, and Phyllis Jacquay have an interesting trip planned to Washington, D. C. . . . George Spittler is quite excited about that European trip—his daughter is taking it. . . . Gerry Widner, who intends to paint his house, is thinking about trips, too—the trips up and down the ladder. He says his wife will paint the upper part, since he can't stand heights. . . . Northern Michigan will find Chet Reynolds and John Stetler's families present. . . . Russell Sage is taking his family to a ranch in Montana, while Gus Wiedlemane ventures to Canada. . . . John Neukam was glad to see Harry Beck do that neat job of laying the new office wall. He even borrowed Harry's trowel to do a job at home. . . . The Vernon Burks have extensive vacation plans: Chicago, Cleveland, Smoky Mountains, and home. . . . John Inches' new Packard stalled on Calhoun St., five blocks from the agency. . . . Bob Pickett bought a new Pontiac and sent his wife down to get the license changed over. He was just one year behind, he sent the 1952 registration. . . . Walt Esterline is back to work after spending two weeks at Ann Arbor, Mich., where his wife went through the University of Michigan Clinic. We all hope that she continues to improve. . . . According to my secret information, Bob Mosshammer has installed a light in the trunk of his car and bought a gross of used comic books. He's going to make his youngsters ride in the trunk on his Florida vacation trip. . . . Henry Frey has a new method of folding up folding chairs. He simply batters them up and down on the closest table. Some of the card players objected but Henry said it was surprising the amount of change he picked up off the ground after the pounding. . . . Walter Greiner had a birthday recently. He's not telling anyone how old anymore—he claims he feels younger that way. . . . Swede Mosser and Joe Mettler are spending their vacations in Northern Michigan again, as is Woody Hursh. . . . Dick Poehler thinks Kenny McCague should wear a skirt with those soft soled shoes. Fire Chief Kenny claims he can get to fires quicker, and besides, Dick is jealous because he can't wear shoes like that. . . . Walter Greiner's Die Section held their annual picnic at Gene Denig's farm. A professional wrestling match was put on by the two greats of the television circuit, Joe Mettler and Ross Vaughn. Bob Truelove emerges as horseshoe throwing champ. Mart Walsh, as usual, got his picture taken, and what he won't do to have it taken. Kurt Martin performed a nice job of cooking. Elmer Sauerwein claims Kurt could be a great chef if he wasn't always trying to put onions in the food. . . . Clyde Spangler has given up barn building since his first failure when the walls caved in. He hired five carpenters and now he is planning a barn dance to dedicate the structure. . . . Cary Baker was in New York City on his third week vacation. He took a tour through the Queen Elizabeth Ocean Liner and says it's a sight to behold. . . . Gus Ormsby, who received golfing instructions from Patty Berg, should feel better now. We apologize for the misspelling of his name in a recent column. . . . The weather was right and Charley Shipman felt good. With that combination nothing could stop our Charley from pitching a three-hit shut-out for the Vans—congratulations! . . . Harold Blauvelt, driving home from work the other night, had to wait while a long midnight freight train passed so he turned off his engine. The wheels must have pounded a musical tune on the rails for Harold went to sleep. At three o'clock he woke up, hurriedly drove home, and tried to explain his tardiness to his worried wife. I wonder if that one has ever been used before! . . . Vacationists Glenn Kline and James McFeely will see St. Paul, Minn.; Herb Mennewisch has his map inked for Florida; Wayne Winters expects to see Texas and California; Gale Bowser has picked Alabama for his destination; Charlie Bracht, who likes unusual things, expects to occupy a block house on Mackinac Island for his two weeks' rest. . . . Bill Trumbower wasn't showing off riding that pony to work. They just won't let him drive his Pontiac until the brakes, lights, horn, windshield wiper and steering mechanism are repaired. . . . The odds are in your favor—enjoy yourself—don't become an accident statistic—just take it easy.

2-2 TALES Belle Buchan

One person who is sure going to enjoy our air-conditioning when he gets back from vacation is Wally McKay, who is taking his family to Arkansas, where it really gets hot. The same goes for Dorothy Askren, who is going with her parents to Florida. . . . Susan Greenlee is saying goodbye this week. Susan has a full time job at home making a layette for the little stranger who is coming to her home. . . . We are a little late, but welcome to Jim Smetana, who comes from Texas. Jim is a trainee in our office. . . . Elmer DeBolt sure adds a touch of color to the office with bright yellow shirts. . . . When Ralph Arney first came on the first shift, he went around with his eyes half closed, but by now he can see properly again. . . . Happy birthday to Audrey Hickernell and Marinell Fry. Audrey says that she doesn't count candles any more, but she still has birthdays and passes the candy. . . . And now we have with us those two swell weeks we look forward to all year. As we all go our various ways, let us be very careful on the road, at home, or wherever we may be, so that we will all be back on the job, healthy and happy, after vacation.

SHAFT SHAVINGS BLDG. 19-3 Blanche Cowell

Well, it's here at last—vacation time. We wish everyone a happy and safe time. . . . Calvin Gase says Jerry Stanger is getting his hair cut too often, the reason for his gray hair. Calvin is 10 years older than Jerry and has black hair. . . . Wednesday seems to be an unlucky day for Fred McClure. The last two Wednesdays he has sawed his measuring tape in two. . . . Everyone in Bldg. 19-3 is wondering why Sharpie Wendt doesn't go to the ball games. Is it because of Babe, Joe, or Johnny? . . . Congratulations to Kenneth Buckmaster, who is going to take the big step soon. . . . The Ringling Bros. Circus has been here and gone but Frank Kartholl is still with us. He attended the circus and stayed with them until the last train load pulled out of town. He said it was a sad feeling to be left behind. . . . There were two sacks on the table, one was Melvin Green's lunch, the other, dry bread for the neighbor's chickens. Guess which one Melvin brought to work? That's right. He had dry bread and water for his lunch. . . . Here is a letter from one of our servicemen:

16 July 1953

Hi Gang:

Just back from three months of clerical and administrative schooling at San Diego, California, and thought I would drop a line to see if I could get a little fan mail from anyone at the General Electric and also my fellow workers in the Large Motor and Generator Department.

I am holding down the job of Senior Training Yeoman now here at Tongue Point, Astoria, Oregon. It is sure nice along the Oregon coast here now, everything is green, along with all the mountains and evergreen trees to touch it off.

I am still holding down the rate of Yeoman Seaman, but hope to advance to YN3 this November. Better close now, and hoping to hear from some of you soon and will try to answer your letters.

A fellow employee,

TWO-FINGER LIFT—The four instructors in the fire school's rescue training classes perform a two-finger lift on Bob Rogers, Bldg. 4-4. The four, who are members of the Ansul Chemical Company's rescue squad, are (l-r): Jim Van Dornick, Bob Aubry, Joe Banach, standing, and Jeff Ravet. GE Fire Chief Ernie Hanauer, assists.

UNIQUE IN THE U.S.—The truck and equipment for rescue work carried in it shown have been devised by members of the Ansul Chemical Company's Rescue Squad, the only organization of its scope in the country. Much of the equipment shown has been devised by the volunteer members of this rescue group which has won respect and national recognition for its humanitarian service.

Rescue Training Ends School For 350 GE Volunteer Firemen

Concluding with classes conducted by the only rescue squad of its kind in the country, the 1953 GE Volunteer Firemen Training School wound up this week for a class of 350 employees of the Fort Wayne and branch plants.

From the time the first class got under way May 5, 144 two-hour sessions were conducted in four phases: classroom, plant tour, fire participation, and rescue work.

In addition to the employee volunteer firemen, 93 city firemen from 6 of the 11 Fort Wayne stations took part in the program. These men represent stations making calls on the Fort Wayne plant.

As a part of the school, training was also given volunteer fire eaters at the Linton, Decatur, Danville, DeKalb, and Tiffin plants.

Ansul Rescue Squad

Highlighting this year's school were classes conducted by four members of the Ansul Chemical Company's Rescue Squad. The only one of its kind in the United States, the squad is a volunteer organization of 27 individuals interested in first aid and rescue work.

The uniqueness of the group lies in the methods and equipment used by the men in performing all types of rescue work. The four who came to the Fort Wayne school from Marinette, Wisconsin presented to employees the manner of operating which has gained for them the respect of a community and of doctors.

Part of their training which they work at regularly is given them by doctors. Also, they have realistic practice drills in such phases as mines; floods; and accidents in industry, homes, and on highways.

193 Calls

The squad's motto might be termed the constant seeking of better methods of performing their volunteer humanitarian duties. Through their experience (they have had 193 calls so far this year) the members get ideas to effect an even better service in emergencies. Then some of the men get together and work out the design of the equipment or methods and they work it into a usable part of their service.

One of the products of such thought is the life bag, one of which was made by the men for GE's fire department. The bag enables a rescuer to remove an injured person safely from many types of conditions.

Begun as a small company unit five years ago, the squad keeps itself an alert working organization ready to answer a call immediately and prepared to perform rescue work in a great variety of cases. The men have regular jobs with Ansul in addition to their rescue work. They can answer calls in as few as two seconds.

The unit is the only such group listed in the Congressional records and has received the 1952 Freedom Foundation Award. Individuals on the squad have refused three National Safety Council presidential citations because the squad accepts any honor as a group and not as individuals. Through this teamwork the men have built a place in their community and in the nation.

COUNT OFF SUB-SECT. 17 Marguerite Stahl

Thanks to Selma Dinibar and Clyde Helms for our treats. "Happy birthday to you both." . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Rose Currey and Helen Howell. . . . Fred Jackson is spending a week in New York City attending a convention. . . . Congratulations to Basil Bear who will be married Saturday, July 25. "Good-by bachelor days." . . . Gladys Pantizan spent her week of vacation doing odd jobs at her new home. . . . Carl Riedel and family will spend their vacation camping at Sault Sainte Marie and Tahquamenon Park. . . . Rose Johnson was in Chicago over the week-end. . . . Bernadine Warner went to Coldwater Lake. While there she decided to try out her new swimming suit. . . . Peggy Bandt has returned to work after a week of vacation. . . . Altiza Rienbolt spent the week-end in Latty, Ohio, at a reunion. Each furnished her own entertainment. . . . Ruth Smith and Goldie Waikel left Thursday for California. . . . Beverly Numbers spent the week-end in Louisville, Ky. . . . Al Seifert, Herman, Red Yout, and Howard Householder attended the Veterans Stag Picnic. From all reports everyone had a good time. . . . Your news reporter and family left last Friday evening for California to visit her son, sister, and family. . . . Everybody have a good time on vacation but be careful!

SPECIALTY MOTORS Shipping—Receiving—Order Service Eileen Fitch

We've all heard about the fellow who built a boat in his basement, only to discover he couldn't get the finished product out of the basement. We think Del Bucher has that one topped. Del (just a big carpenter at heart) made a cabinet for Bill Switzer that was to extend from the floor to the ceiling in Bill's kitchen. All went well with the construction, and in no time at all, Del was at the Switzer's door with the cabinet ready to install. The cabinet, being eight feet high, had to be turned lengthwise to get it through the kitchen door. This didn't stump our handy man, but it seems a unit eight feet high and 14 inches deep requires approximately one inch plus its own height to allow for the arch needed when tipping the unit back on its base. With an eight foot cabinet lengthwise in an eight foot kitchen (and Bill's kitchen to boot) Del extends his sympathies to the man with the boat in his basement. . . . Ed David has learned that a "stop" sign means to bring your car to a complete stop. His instructor was one of our local police officers, and the class was held at 5 o'clock in the morning in the vicinity of Main and Fulton Sts. The entire course cost Ed about $6.75, complete. . . . Jim Vevia got an early start on his vacation. He is spending this week at Jimmerson Lake and then plans to go to Washington, D. C., and points east.

Happy vacation to everyone! Here's wishing you two weeks of fun. Take "Old Man Safety" along with you. Let him join in all you do.
On the highways, let him guide.
On the beach, stay at his side.
In the forest, or on the plain.
We want you and yours back safe again.

Suggestions

A STAB employee, Norman Voelker, won $120 for an idea concerning checking turns on coils before assembly. Also receiving a three-figure award was Robert H. Stute, of the Large Motor and Generator Department. He earned $100 for suggesting that tubing be assembled over leads in place of hand taping leads.

Raymond M. O'Neil, GAC Sub-Section 13, earned a $95 award for suggesting an improved method for matching shafts. Two other employees both of STAB Section 94, shared a $95 award for a suggested change in the rods used in high voltage bushings.

Better Job

An idea which produced a better job and cut down on rejects brought $90 to Dorothy M. Camp-ton, STAB Section 93. Her idea changed the pigtails on transformer coils. Another woman employee, Gertrude Wolf, Bldg. 18-5, earned $85 for an improvement in Employees of the entire General Electric Company and its affiliates were awarded a record $578,947 during 1952 for 27,432 useful suggestions accepted under the company's suggestion award program.

The previous high was $523,816 awarded for 25,605 accepted suggestions during 1951. Since the program was initiated in 1922, General Electric has paid out $4,321,000 for suggestions accepted from employees.

Suggestions submitted during 1952 totaled 82,092, amounting to approximately 382 suggestions for every 1,000 employees. Approximately 33 per cent of the suggestions submitted were accepted for an average of 128 suggestions per 1,000 employees. The average award paid was $21.10.

the method of microfilming documents.

Frank E. Wolter, Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17 at Taylor St., received $75 for a suggestion dealing with the preparation of motors for finish. Robert L. Sowards, of the General Tool Section, is $65 richer for his suggestion on changing the method of machining guide pin bushings.

There were 210 awards in June of under $25.

THREE RETIRE AT WINTER ST.—Three Winter St. employees with total services of 101 years retired this month from the General Electric Company. Left to right are S. Larue Cunningham, Ralph J. Wilkinson, and John D. Fletter. Mr. Cunningham with 37 years of service, was an inspector; Mr. Wilkinson, with 34 years of service, was a parts washer, and Mr. Fletter, a 30-year man, was on repair work for condensers and compressors.

Two employees earned $55 awards. They are Morris H. Peters, Specialty Sub-Section 1 and Carl A. Rohlof, STAB Section 91. Mr. Peters suggested the pre-grinding of brushes before assembly into motors, and Mr. Rohlof suggested stamping the nomenclature on transformers.

Fifty dollar awards went to the following: Loretta Runyon, GAC Sub-Section 14; Clarence Doctor, Specialty Sub-Section 15; William J. Saylor, STAB Section 91, and Waveland Bernadin, GAC Sub-Section 14.

Other awards paid were Marion C. Williams, $47.50; Herman F. Lepper, $45; Richard C. Nix, $45; John L. Laymon, Sr., $40; Paul G. Rowan, $35; Eugene F. Berg and Carl J. Miller, $30, and Hayden B. Rice, $27.50.

The following employees received $25 suggestion awards: Paul G. Hitzeman, Warren W. Locker, Maurice Roe, Donald W. Meyer, Harold Jamison, Arthur C. Garner, Max A. Kimble, William F. Fowler, Virgil L. Fogle, Forest E. Grim, Oscar L. Fleming, and Beulah Conrad.

Moe Satterthwaite really believes in the old saying, "It's better to be seen than heard. He painted his Packard a purty yellow and black only to have it scratched up in the parking lot. Careful, Moe, or you won't make it to Lake Erie for your vacation. . . . We're happy to see Ruth Reed have such a happy birthday and to be assured of enough lingerie on her vacation. . . . Vacation time will find our Bldg. 6-3 office personnel widely scattered. Perry O'Neil goes to California, Mr. and Mrs. Konow to Florida, Barb Smith and her daughter to Boston, Mass. Carol Sanderson is spending her vacation in Alabama. Carolyn Girvin is splitting her two weeks between Kentucky and Illinois and Naomi Cosner will spend a few days visiting family and friends in Ohio.

Marie Kable says anyone interested in helping remove wallpaper, painting, and refinishing floors during vacation is sure to get the welcome sign at her house. Marie, that's like saying, "I've got poison ivy to give away." . . . Doris Weinman's husband will be home on leave during vacation and they are planning a trip to Niagara Falls. . . . Birthday wishes to Marie Kable on August 8 and Frank Laieroon, August 10.

We wish a speedy recovery to Mrs. Walter Dreyer who was badly burned on her back and arms when her dress caught fire recently. In addition to this accident, Mrs. Dreyer fell and broke her wrist two weeks ago. . . . On July 29, Walter Konow will celebrate his 35th year with GE. We'd all like to wish him many more happy and prosperous years ahead. . . . The shirt that Merl Keesler was wearing so nicely the other morning belonged to none other than Warren Jackson, who had just forgotten to take it home after buying it a few days earlier. We must admit, Merl, you could have used a size larger. . . . Have a splendid vacation, everyone, and with God willing, we'll be seeing you August 10.

Clara Meyers Retires

Catching up on her leisure activities, Mrs. Clara L. Myers, Bldg. 26-2 general clerk, retired this month. Her co-workers honored her at a party recently and presented her with an electric roaster.

In October, 1928, Mrs. Myers joined General Electric. She entered meter work in Bldg. 19-4 at that time. Later she went into credit work and in 1931 she became a clerk in Bldg. 27. Since 1941, she has been a clerk in Specialty Transformer and Ballast drafting section.

Vacation is Here: I hope to see all of you back August 10, just as healthy and happy as you are now. It may not be so much fun coming back as it is to go, but I hope all of you have lots of fun and good times on the two weeks off. . . . There are some new faces in our department, and one back from several months with Uncle Sam. We are referring to Eddie Taylor. He is back working in Bldg. 26-1, west end. . . . We are losing one of our office girls, Dorothy Ann is leaving to become a full-fledged mother and housewife. Good luck to Dottie, we will miss her. . . . We wish to welcome June Haines to our east office. June is taking Dot's place as blue-print girl. . . . Happy birthday to Harry Rible, July 25. . . .

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK: Abe Lincoln once said, "God prefers the common man; he made so many of them." . . . On all current United States coins there is engraved the following words: "In God we trust." According to the way most of the people of the world live today it should read, "In this God we trust." . . . Also, the road to hell is paved with good intentions.

THE OPTIMIST CREED

Promise yourself - - -

- To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.
- To talk health, happiness, and prosperity to every person you meet.
- To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.
- To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.
- To think only of the best, to work only for the best, and to expect only the best.
- To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own.
- To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.
- To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.
- To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others.
- To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and to happy to permit the presence of trouble.

—Christian D. Larson.

See all of you after vacation. . . . Thanks to Dale Niemeyer for helping to get some news this week.

DECATUR PICNIC DONGS—At the Decatur GE Club family picnic Saturday, July 11, employees and their families gathered for a sunny day of recreation and relaxation. At right: the line forms for food which was pre-prepared box lunches. Corwin Beeler's twin sons, Bob and Bill, in center, register their pleasure of the annual event. Mr. Beeler works in Decatur's Bldg. 1. At left: one of the many presentations of prizes for varied contests and games takes place.

G-E DEATHS

Frederick Somers

Frederick Somers, 57 Dies of Heart Ailment

Frederick Somers, 57, internal customer contract man in Fractional Horsepower Motor central marketing in the Chicago district, died Tuesday, July 14 following a heart attack.

Services were conducted Friday, July 17 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Angola, by the Rev. Andrew Maas. Burial was in Circle Hill Cemetery.

Survivors are his wife, Mildred, of Angola; and a son, William, of Chicago.

Joining the Company in 1927, Mr. Somers became a sales engineer in Bldg. 26-3. The following year, he transferred to the Chicago office and in March this year went into the position he had prior to his death.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Orest Gottschalk

Orest A. Gottschalk, 61, of 1121 W. Packard Ave., died Monday, July 20, at the Clinic Hospital, Bluffton. He was taken to the hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Yesterday services were conducted at the Jahn Funeral Home of Bluffton by the Rev. S. P. O'Reilly. Burial was in Six Mile Cemetery in Wells County. In 1924, Mr. Gottschalk became a GE employee and started as a carpenter.

He transferred to Winter St. in 1933 as a packer and later operated the washing and drying machine. Since April, 1952, he was a packer in Bldg. 26-4.

Surviving are his wife, Vada; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gottschalk, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Schlagenhauf.

Owen Cartwright Dies After Long Illness

Services for Owen Wilbur Cartwright, 61, were conducted yesterday at the Beech Grove Church. Mr. Cartwright, who lived near Roanoke, died Tuesday, July 21, at the Lutheran Hospital following a heart attack. He had been ill for several months. Burial was in the IOOF Cemetery at Roanoke.

Becoming a GE employee in April, 1934, Mr. Cartwright entered Bldg. 20-1 as a machinist at that time. In 1946, he transferred to Bldg. 17-2 on the same type of work and retired November 1, 1951.

Surviving are his wife, Ethel; one daughter, Mrs. Esther Coomer; one son, Donald E.; one sister, Mrs. Julia Burtch, and five grandchildren.

Q-C Employee Dies In Lutheran Hospital

A Quarter Century Club member, Albert Schroeder, 75, died Friday, July 17, at the Lutheran Hospital. Services were conducted at the Third Presbyterian Church Monday, July 20, by the Rev. Robert J. MacDanel. Home Lodge

No. 342, F. & A.M. conducted services at the Wellman Funeral Home Sunday. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

Joining the Company in 1901, Mr. Schroeder was an instrument maker in the meter department. In 1921, he was named a foreman and later was a router. Prior to his retirement in 1940, he was in the suggestions section.

Survivors include his wife, Cora E., and a brother, Theodore, Crawfordsville, Ore.

Rites Held Yesterday For Clifford DeVault

A Bldg. 26-3 employee, Clifford DeVault, 62, died Monday, July 20, at St. Joseph's Hospital where he had been a patient for two weeks.

The Rev. Darrel Taggart and the Rev. J. E. Lawshe officiated at funeral services yesterday at the C. M. Sloan & Sons Funeral Home. Burial was in the Lindenwood Cemetery.

When he entered the Company in 1942, he worked in Bldg. 26-3. Prior to his illness he had been a stock station attendant in Bldg. 26-3.

In addition to his wife, Maud, survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Lucille Staal and Mrs. Phillip Stevens; two stepchildren, Clark Rondot and Mrs. James Skevington; two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Wheeler and Mrs. Homer Dine, and seven grandchildren.

News from a former Decatur inspector was received recently. Joe Adams, who worked at the Decatur plant until 1951, when he entered the Navy, writes a thank you to Elex and the Geode Clubs for the boxes they sent him. He says that the thanks are also from his buddies who were on hand when the boxes were opened.

During his hitch in the Navy, Joe has traveled to Cuba, Puerto Rico, Colon Republic of Panama, and Casablanca French Morocco. His new address is:

Joseph E. Adams BT 3/C B Division USS Muliphen AKA 61 c/o Fleet Post Office New York, N. Y.

A former Bldg. 19 employee, Chester Eugene Golembrewski, writes from overseas that he enjoys getting the GE NEWS and especially liked the recent article on ham radio operators. He is working on electronic gear in the Navy now.

Sending a big "Hello" to everyone in Bldg. 19-1, 19-2, 19-3, Chester says that his time in the Service has shown him "what a great country we have and we should do everything possible to uphold its grand and glorious heritage."

Chet's present address is:

Inquiring Reporters:

WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE CAUSE OF THE MANY PRISON RIOTS STAGED RECENTLY?

JACK D. MOSSBURG Bldg. 4-1

"I believe the recent prison riots are due to the crowded conditions in the prisons and improper diet."

EMILIE J. DROEGE Bldg. 19-2

"I think poor prison administration and inadequacies in facilities that lead to misunderstandings between inmates and management are the most important causes of prison riots in the United States."

ROBERT DEERWESTER Taylor St.

"Probably severe punishment for minor infractions of rules at the particular prisons and failure of these prisons to modernize their regulations are the cause. The inmates probably figure they have everything to gain by the riots, thereby bringing their side before the public since no other recourse is open to them."

WALTER E. HISTED Bldg. 28-2

"Overcrowding, with the resulting idleness of many inmates, has probably been the major cause of prison riots. The failure of authorities to use firm measures in the control of such riots (example: Southern Michigan prison) has undoubtedly encouraged inmates at other prisons to try to gain concessions by rioting."

BARBARA A. DETRO Bldg. 26-3

"After some of them have been in so long they start thinking about getting out and I believe this unrest is the cause of the riots."

STORMY WEATHER

Will wonders never cease? At long last the Daisies can count among their faithful following a real convert, none other but the great John (Red) Braden. We felt that he would finally succumb to those feminine wiles . . . All you hunters please stand and give a low bow to Sol Andorfer, who not only got six squirrels, one possum, and one coon from a single tree, but performed this amazing feat by using only six shots—shades of Daniel Boone! . . . You've heard the expression, "Draw him a picture of it." Well, Karl Soest even had the picture and it still went over his head. Is there a little English blood somewhere back in your line, Karl? . . . Never let it be said our work isn't the very best. Charlie Kensill brought in a casting from his boat motor and had it brazed; in fact, there was more brazing than casting. With the casting back on the motor, it proceeded to come in second in a race. What would have happened if the entire motor had been repaired—a second Gar Wood or Guy Lombardo? . . . If Herb Ufhiel isn't in a receptive mood just whistle for him and he'll gladly do any job you want. On the other hand, John Braden gets so upset at whistling he can't hardly stand himself—just goes to show the difference in personalities . . . We all have birthdays, but only Larry Reed can have one and get so many salutations—especially when he received a shower with almost every greeting. He was a good sport though and set 'em up all around . . . Those gifts to all the members of the Elex who are taking the trip to Europe are not only very useful, but attractive too. That should create quite a bit of good will for TWA who was responsible for those very nice bags. . . . John Howard probably moved the fastest in his life the other night on the way home. From all reports he was right in the middle of the train crossing when down came the gates and a train headed his way. Perhaps that's why he has been so quiet—it really must have chilled him. . . . We bid a very reluctant farewell to our pleasant and efficient cost supervisor, Gil Sloan, and wish him well in his new duties in 4-6. In the same breath we offer a welcome hand to his successor, Carl Alter. . . . The company caught up with Buck Lydy at last: he received his cheek which amounted to 25c. . . . It seems a shame that Ray Hoelle has to be so late in getting up that he doesn't have time to take off his pajama top. Very colorful, we must say . . . FLASH: Bill Hurtt finally got his car back from the garage in Chicago. Now maybe we can all settle down to a normal life again. . . . Now may we wish everyone a most pleasant and enjoyable vacation and leave you with these familiar words, "The Lord watch between me and thee, while we are absent, one from the other."

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

INTERESTED IN FARMING? Harry Smith planted some mangoes a little late in the season. One thing wrong, Harry is unable to tell the mangoes from the weeds. . . . Gene Janney created quite a sensation last Thursday when he walked into the office wearing the purtiest white nylon shirt. Mm, Mm, the gals sure like it.

WANTED—A good name for a sailboat. Frank Mason has offered a free ride to the person who can properly name his boat. Incidentally, his cottage is at Lake Wawasee, very easily located as his name is painted on the garage. . . . Hey, gals, need any mending done? Ellis Bleke proves quite capable with a child's sewing machine. . . . Song of the week: "Doggie In The Window." Florence Monnot seems to think it isn't much just to have two doggies. Last week Florence was out looking for two more puppies.

THE WRONG SPOT AT THE RIGHT TIME: We always hear about the big ones that get away. Recently when Sno-Ball Liebig was enjoying himself fishing at Big Long Lake he received word that the game warden was on the lake. After pulling anchor Sno-Ball took off for his cottage. We might say that the heat being put on Sno-Ball melted down his courage, to where he thinks it's cheaper to have your license with you at all times.

Last Friday was the day for the final farewell to Mart Thullen, who left us to go on pension. We wish him all kinds of good luck and good health. . . . Best wishes to Wayne Bergman, who recently underwent surgery. Do hope he is on his feet and back with us real soon. . . . It's real nice having Oscar Menseh back with us again after making a short trip to North Carolina.

FINE THING! When Don Lynch stepped sprightly out of the tailoring shop with new suit on, he met one of his fellow co-workers. Seeing Don come out of the tailoring shop he told Don, "Why don't you put on a new suit, and give us all a break." . . . A new twist has been given to the Drive-In. A new experience has been added. A manager of a Drive-In Theater runs up against all types of experiences! At 2 o'clock in the morning, a plea for help was given to the manager to help three ladies in distress, who discovered they had a flat tire when the last show was over and everybody else had cleared out. A flat tire at 2 o'clock in the morning with two girls, no jack, or other necessary equipment, could happen to not other person than our own Eileen Salmon. This was Eileen's excuse for a sleepy look on Monday morning. . . . It was good to see Rosemary Murphy back visiting with the Winter St. gang again.

We wish a Bon Voyage to Marcella Koehn, who is leaving tomorrow with Elex to go abroad. Have a wonderful time and come back safe and rested.

Thought of the Week: Feminine charm is like garlic—heavenly if not overdone.—Oren Arnold.

SMART FOLKS: After reading Bill Kayser's smart saying in last week's GE NEWS, the boys and girls have come up with several choice bits. Our award of the week goes to Esther Dalman who bumped her head and came up with this honey. "Inflation is stuff you suddenly ain't got when that old tire blows out." . . . THE CIRCUS COMES TO TOWN! Last week the circus came to town but something was missing. Each year when the circus arrived Jim Stouder arose early and went down to watch the unloading. This year old age took its toll. Jim stayed in bed and the circus had to unload as best they could without his assistance. . . . HE DID! Bill Kayser made another mistake. Last week he forgot where his car was parked. The other evening Bill and your writer walked out from work together. After walking about a square, Bill suddenly stopped. "He! He!" he laughed, "Am I glad Ben Stiegler and Pappy Archbold didn't see this. I am not parked over here," and away he went to find his car. The next morning, after looking at the GE NEWS, a thought came to him. "I can see I made a mistake in saying anything to you," he remarked. . . . DIDN'T KNOW! One can always depend on good old Homer Campbell to provide a news item when news is scarce. Homer turned to a fellow planner last Friday morning. "I don't know whether it is safe for me to go home or not," he remarked. "What do you mean?" his buddy inquired. Homer explained that the night before he was sprinkling his lawn when he noticed a wasp nest under the eaves of his home. Our hero decided to wash it down with a stream from the hose. When the water hit their nest, some very wet and very angry wasps swarmed out and started for Homer. Homer gave the hose a toss as he ran and the stream squirted into the neighbor's bedroom window. "I don't know if they were in bed or not," he reported, "and I am not sure whether it is safe for me to go home tonight." . . . HAPPY VACATION: Have a happy vacation, and when you drive remember, "When you forget to be careful, you're not driving your car, you're just aiming it."—Mark Beltaire.

Wilhelmina Beeth

YIPPEE! It's here. Happy vacation, everybody. Art and Gertie Maske will be pulling in the big ones in Wisconsin (so it says here). . . . Elizabeth Wert, Jenny Zimmerman, Frances Eckrote, and Mildred Gronau will vacation in Florida. . . . Mildred Hunting is heading for California. . . . Edith Gephart is going to Washington, D. C. and points east. . . . Dick Gleim will probably come back from Texas wearing a ten gallon hat. . . . Mary Baxter is visiting her daughter in Denver, Colo. . . . Mary Murphy is going to Kentucky. . . . Rosie Adams is visiting in Illinois. . . . Rose Fuhrman is another Denver vacationer. . . . Breaking in that new Buick, Roy and Violet Brower will just ride and ride. . . . Margaret McInturf is Missouri bound. . . . Lucky gal! Lena Schaper lined her purse with a little extra vacation money by winning on the quiz show last week. . . . It will be hup, two, three, four for LeRoy Dawson, who is leaving us to be on Uncle Sam's payroll. . . . Farewell to Mary Potter, who is leaving us to move to Ohio. Also to Ardena Kiscadon, who is taking up small garment making. . . . Jesse Wilcoxson was up for a visit last week. . . . Beth Hersche has joined the new car class. It's a Dodge. . . . We light another candle on the cake and sing out Happy Birthday to Laura Starnier and Ruby Wickliffe. Also for those having vacation birthdays including Mary Zirkle, Pauline Kirchner, Mildred Schoenlein, Ocea Allen, and Charlie Rice. . . . Congratulations to Laura Gross on being a new grandma. . . . When Ida Sinn dropped some hot solder on her foot burning a hole in her stocking, she decided that was an easy way to trim her toenail without removing her hose. . . . Did you notice George Kissell modeling the latest in straw hats? . . . Mysteries of the Week: Everyone is wondering what happened to Joe Bell's glasses, including Joe. . . . Also, why was Walter Kryder so anxious to get a call through to the city dog pound? . . . Sympathy to Bell Martin whose mother died.

Vacation is here and everyone will start to make his or her plans for the next two weeks: to travel, fish, work around home, or just plain rest. It is the time of the year that everyone looks forward to, so be as careful on vacation as you are on the job. . . . Ray Kierspe will get a son-in-law next week or maybe he will lose a daughter. . . . Everything is turning to 3-D, even wire in the rectangular section. Herb Thompson discarded his glasses as they were the wrong type but Joe Taylor was the one who came to the rescue. It's no telling what will be next. . . . Ask Slim Walters why he needs his lunch box chained to his workbench? Do you suppose he has fish worms inside? . . . Bill Irwin's golf team lost to the leaders in their golf league, placing them second. Benny Penkul's team only gained 6 points, to place them in third place in their league. Neither team has any schedule. They will have to call it quits until next season to try again for a first place team. . . . Have a good time and we'll see you in two weeks.

Four GE Men Donate Time, Services To Help Keep County Highways Safe

Serving their community, four GE employees are members of the Sheriff's Emergency Reserve Motorcycle Squad which will be patrolling the highways the next two weeks to bring about safer driving for the many vacationers.

The four men, who volunteer their services, are Otto Hans, Taylor St. employee and sergeant in the squad; Gerald Platt, Taylor St. and corporal in the unit; Roy Weick, lieutenant in plant protection, and Raymond Horstman, Bldg. 12-1.

With at least one year's service each on the squad, the four are part of an eight-man unit which assists the sheriff's department. In addition to being part of the wolf pack which patrols highways, they perform other duties as their main object. They do escort work, assist with traffic and parking in the city, and are on duty during holiday seasons such as Halloween.

Each of the men is qualified to give first-aid. Providing their own motorcycles, the four wear grey colored uniforms when on duty.

With everyone getting enthused about vacations, the most enthused is Edith Bohde, for she will go on her honeymoon during the two weeks. The lucky guy is from our section also. We wish the very best always to Edith and Carl. . . . BIRD TALK: I guess Irene Hockenberry is supposed to get tickled since she received a letter from Africa with some pretty colored feathers in it. Anyway, she didn't get the bird. . . . Awaiting the stork, Wilma Snyder and Donna Cozart leave us this week. . . . Pauline Kent is also leaving to spend her eight hours a day at home. . . . We hope everyone has a wonderful vacation and we'll be seein' you August 10.

GETS $85 AWARD—Gertrude Wolf, Bldg. 18-5, receives a suggestion check for $85 from Dick Kent. Mrs. Wolf suggested an improved method of micro filming documents in the reproduction section.

The Bldg. 26-4 office management has taken a big step forward—they transferred Walt Pohler and replaced him with Earl Bartling. . . . Lloyd McNamara at long last has loosened up. He big-heartedly gave his wife the Packard to drive (after he wore it out, of course). Mac is now sporting a new Nash Rambler. . . . Al Topp is really getting sharp. Al says to his boys, "Let's get up to the lake Saturday early and get that porch built." Come Saturday morning, "Sorry, boys," says Al, "my foreman just called me into work." When Al got to the lake the porch was built and the hammock was waiting for Al to take his nap. . . . Our foreman, Richard Goller, has reached an all-time low. He was seen carrying bottles of milk and straws to Paul Peterson. . . . For cut-rate gas see Lloyd McNamara. He has gallons for sale after each and every trip to Fort Wayne in his new auto. . . . Col. Walter Pohler will bravely attempt to drive his 1934 Dord to Denver on his vacation. Better put in an early request for a return reservation with Bret Young, who is making the same trip with more modern methods. . . . It is reported that Tom Freeman may lose the garbage concessions at Lake Wawasee. Some of the rich cottage owners are complaining of unsanitary conditions. . . . Anyone wanting free information on living and fishing in Florida, see Jim Voirol, our enthusiastic exponent of Florida sunshine. . . . Does Bob Altevogt know the difference between butter-scotch candy and proxpeal? He'd better ask his buddie, Vic Scheele. . . . Three Teams Tie for League Lead In Interdepartment Loop First Half Wednesday, July 15, ended the first half of the Interdepartment Softball League with the GE Vets, M. T. P., and Works Lab, tied for first place with 6 wins and one loss each.

Monday, July 20, the Vets and Works Lab meet in a play-off game. The Vets team avenged an earlier defeat by downing the Lab team by a score of 7 to 4. This victory entitles the Vets team to play the M. T. P. team for the first half championship, which is scheduled to be played after the two week vacation shut-down.

GE Jr. Fed Nine Take League Title

Bringing home the bacon, GE's team in the Junior Federation League captured the championship title for the third straight year as league play closed last week.

In the last week of play, the GE boys had their only defeat to end the season with a 13 won 1 lost record. Last week's games saw GE defeat Renner's by a score of 9 to 4 and wallop City Light 21 to 10. Butler stepped in to mar a perfect season by defeating GE by a 3 to 2 score.

Entering the playoffs this week, the eight teams in the league will vie for the chance to represent the Summit City in the two national tournaments slated for the latter part of next month. The American Baseball Congress will sponsor playoffs in Niles, Mich., and the Junior Federation League National Tournament will take place in Altoona, Pa.

The local double elimination playoffs will be conducted at McMillen Park, scene of the league's season action.

With the winning of the championship, the GE team adds another trophy to the two now on display in the GE Club.

DECATURITES George Laurent

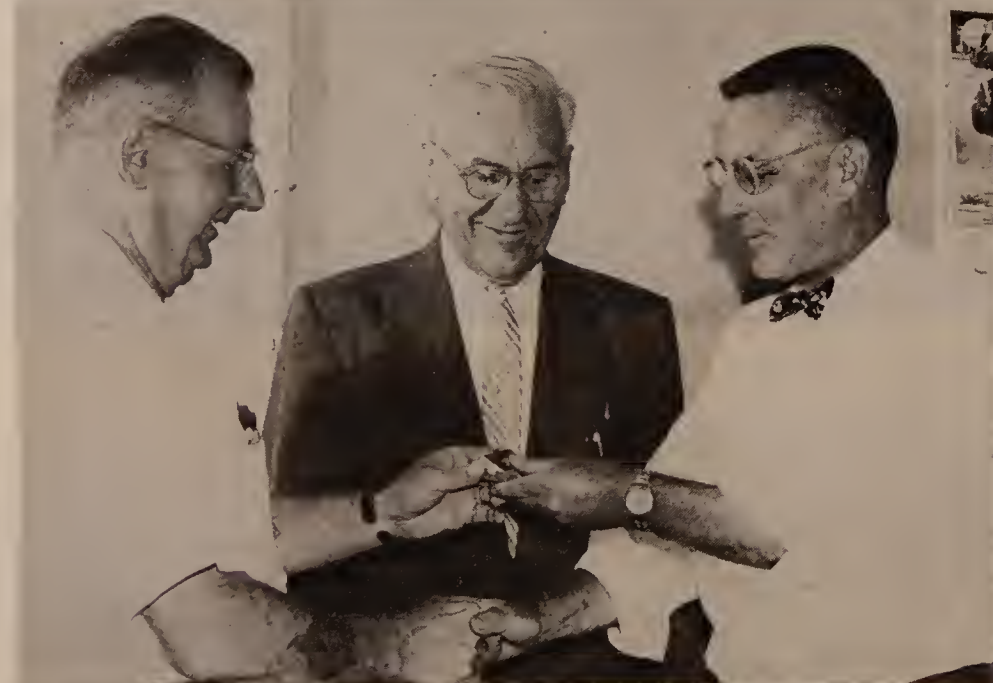

Wedding bells rang on Saturday, July 11, for Doris Resh and Jim Chilcoote. May their wedded life be a long and happy one. . . . Birthday greetings to Leona Krick who celebrated her birthday July 22. . . . Sure was some scrap while it lasted. The team of Little and Amick, of the maintenance gang, engaged in a bout with a gang. What a tough gang it was. Our two fellows didn't look quite the same for some time afterwards. With arms and ears growing larger by the second; they didn't feel so good either. The gang? We didn't interview them. They were a nest of hornets. . . . To whom it may concern: Anyone having information as to the anonymous sender of the lovely earrings received recently by Ina Noack, would you please express to them her sincere thanks? They were greatly appreciated and add much to the collection of earrings she now has. . . . East and West, North or South, how they do scatter for a couple of weeks. Nyla Wilkinson left July 18 for California. She will spend three weeks visiting relatives and just viewing the sights. . . . Arf, arf, woof, woof. Not the little doggie in the window but the big red doggie in the car kept Joe Garner from using his car one morning recently. Yes, the dog remained in possession of the car and Joe drove another car to work that day. We wonder, was the dog trying to steal the car or was he just trying to adopt Joe for his master? . . . We wish to express our deepest sympathy to Charlie Cloud upon the death of his father. . . . Tragically struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Gray when their son, Robert, drowned last Saturday in a gravel pit near Elwood, Ind. We extend deepest sympathies to the bereaved family. . . . In wishing each and everyone a very pleasant vacation, Decaturites asks that all of you drive safely, play or work safely, and return safely after vacation so that we will have many pleasant times and experiences to include in our past vacation news column.

Hams Lose Two

The GE Club Ham League team lost two games this past week. The first went to Harvester by the score of 6 to 2 in a game where our boys only got three hits. Those were bunt hits by Konow, Esterline, and Kestner. Norv Nahrwald was very fast for Harvester.

In the second game Magnavox beat the Club in the longest game ever played in the Ham League. The game went twelve innings and the score was 5 to 4. Arnold Konow saved the game several times with long running catches but Magnavox won with a pinch hit down third base line.

EARNs RUBY 40-YEAR PIN—Ralph Craig (right) reached the 40-year mark in General Electric service this month and earned the right to wear the ruby pin. Mr. Craig joined the company in 1912 as a finisher in the Laboratory. He is now supervisor of power plant operations. With him are Ed Klomp (left) and Robert Wylie.

GE Team Wins 1, Loses 1 In Little League Action

The GE Little Leaguers and Inca stood toe to toe ready to slug it out last Friday evening, July 17, but the first inning had only got underway when the rains let down. The game was called and played Saturday at 1 p.m. Again the war cry was heard and the Little Leaguers played a good ball game.

The Inca team managed to cut off several attempts of the GE team to score and were very conservative in dishing out the hits. Ed Roesner started on the mound for GE and was relieved in the 4th inning by P. Schuman.

Wilma Robinson is going to Fort Knox, Ky., to visit her brother who is stationed there, and then she will go to Canada. . . . Adele Wietfeldt will enjoy her vacation watching her new TV set. . . . Pauline Tracey and Blanche Milligan will vacation in the sunny south. . . . We will be thinking of Jessie Wass as she flies to Europe with the other Elex people. We know she will have a wonderful time and we will be anxious to hear of her experiences.

Salisbury Deals GE First Defeat After Nine Wins

GE Owls were defeated for the first time last week by Salisbury, after nine straight wins. GE posted four runs on four hits and one error, while Salisbury scored five runs on seven hits and two errors.

GE scored two runs in the first inning. Baker walked and scored as Salisbury threw the ball away on Scherer's bunt. Scherer scored on the same over throw.

Salisbury came right back and scored two runs. Johnson hitting a home run over Etter's head with a man on.

No score for GE in the second inning. Salisbury scored three runs on two walks and two hits, putting them ahead by the score of 5 to 2.

No more scoring till the top of the fifth inning. Billman walked for the Owls, and Baker followed with a home run, making the score Salisbury 5 and GE 4. That was the final score for both teams played heads up ball for the rest of the game.

Four GE Golfers To Participate In Midwest Tourney

by Earl Stauffer

Warren Wickliffe, the old Pro out of the Owl League, will lead the quartet of GE golfers to the Mid-West Industrial Golf Tourney to be held in Ohio Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16.

Wick finished in the first spot after the 36-hole qualification cards were turned in. He coupled a 78 with his 70 of the first week for a total of 148.

Ray Hills was in second place with a 75-75 for 150. Paul Billman shot 73-77 for 151 for third. Dick Szink rounds out the team. His score was 81-74 for 155.

The aggregate score of 604 could be very tough according to golf chairman Harold Braden. He stated that 591 total won the meet last year.

Keith Guyot was chosen as alternate.

BOX SCORE
Final Qualifications
W. Wickliffe	70-78	148
R. Hills	73-75	150
P. Billman	74-77	151

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

Hail the champions! For the first time in many years the golf leagues went through their schedules without one single postponed game. Several of the winners have had to fight their way out of ties or hold on to slim leads for dear life.

Monday Afternoon League

Leo Allmandinger and his Putters made sure of the league crown in Charlie Briggs' Monday Afternoon League by brushing aside the High Balls by a 10-point count in the final action. The second place Transformer team of Ed Becker's got clipped out of contention by the Wire Mill. The latter winding up in the third spot.

The boys went all out in the final week's firing. No less than nine birdies were carded in Charlie's league. Mosshammer picked up one on 10; Almandinger, on 13 and 16; Boedecker, on 18; Hills, on 13; Saaf, on 16 and 18; Penkul, on 12, and France, on 18. Ray Hills and Carl Saaf paced the league by carding 37's.

Monday Evening Group

Shooting an average of 39.7, the Pros walked off with the crown in the Monday Evening League. Last week they had been shoved into second by the Dark Horses, but made up their minds that it wouldn't happen again. Only by going all out did they pick up the precious four points from the last place Lost Balls. The Dark Horses were the thorn in the leaders' side again by smashing a 12-point lacing on the leading Turf Toppers. 37's by Sunier and Smoley aided in the rout. The Rough Riders copped second place with a 11-point conquest of the Rovers.

Tuesday Office Group

The old Redhead's Nineteenth Holers picked up a squeaky two-point win and wrapped up the league laurels. The optimists who were tied with the 19th Holers last week were stung by two tallies and that was the picture. An oddity of the final day's play was that each winning team picked up two points and each losing team lost by two. Bill Rutledge's Forty Niners won the third spot. Bill Kayser paced the league with a 37.

Winter St. League

Bob Shoaff's team made a run-away of the Winter St. League. They wound up the season with a plus 52 which is 30 points better than the second-place team of Bill Irwin's. The final week Shoaff's proved their worth by beating Irwin's boys by seven points.

Dick Szink's third placers disposed of Manager Fisher's team by 15 points despite Stu's 39. Leo Houser's team wound up the league action by beating Jack Skevington's cellar dwellers by three points.

Don Lynch, playing for Szink, and team number two, shot a 44 which in itself doesn't seem so much, but the lad has an average of 54. Boy, oh boy, that kind can kill you.

Thursday Owl

For the Owls the league is just getting down to business. The league with its morning playing time can play without darkness setting in, so the league this year has a 15-game schedule.

The Eagles, Champs, and Pars are making a three-team race out of it. The Pars are gaining the name of spoilers. They handed the Eagles a 10-point lacing and shaved the leader's lead to five points over the second place Champs and only 10 points over the Pars.

The Champs with Warren Wickliffe leading the way with a 37 posted an 8-point win over the Birdies and Norm Wolf.

The Modoc Runyon Bogeys picked up a 10-point arm chair forfeit win.

Don't forget the blind bogey, Saturday, Sept. 19.

Thanks to the league managers for their fine cooperation in making this column any kind of success.

Morton G. Pugh

Morton Pugh Named to New Specialty Post

Appointment of Morton G. Pugh as supervisor of inspection and test in the Specialty Motor Sub-Department has been announced by J. J. Clarkson, general manager.

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Pugh joined the Company in 1923 as a tester in Bldg. 4-4. He served as foreman of inspection and test in Bldg. 4-1, 4-2, and 6-4. In 1942, he entered the central inspection office in Bldg. 16-3. Mr. Pugh was named assistant supervisor of inspection and test in 1947 and had this position prior to his present appointment.

A graduate of Ohio Northern University, Mr. Pugh received his BSEE degree in 1923. He is a member of the American Society for Quality Control, Supervisors Club, and the GE Squares.

The Pughs, who have three children, reside at 925 W. Wildwood.

SLEUTHING in 4-6

Gil Baker

HURRAH! It's here—Vacation! Judging from the absent-mindedness of many of us, we need one badly. Bob Huffman came to work one day last week without his desk key. Nothing left to do but call for the lock picker. Then Art Wilson proceeded to throw a perfectly good paycheck in the wastebasket. Later he was searching madly for it—finally locating it just where he had inadvertently thrown it. Cal Wheeler is walking around in a daze, forgetting papers here and there. Ted Ross practically needed a blue print to lock his own desk, Lee Omspach giving young Stape, big Stape's check, etc. . . . HOT WEATHER got 'em down! Crew cuts might be comfortable, but that's about all we can say for them. Some of the convicts are: Harvey Von Gunten, Charlie Wurm, and Gil Baker. Glen Stapleton has a half and half, or else the barber fell asleep. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Charlie Thomas, July 30. . . . A FRIENDLY HELLO to the new TE in Bob Loveland's group. Eugene F. Beeler, married and a 1952 graduate of Purdue University with a BSEE degree. His hometown is Indianapolis, Ind. This is his fourth test. . . . THE MORE THE MERRIER: Welcome, Mary Shields, to the Floor Sitters' Club. By falling and taking the telephone, wastebasket, and dictionary with you it seems as if there should be some award for an achievement such as that. George Winans

SO LONG to Adam Farrell. Adam leaves us this week to go to Lynn, Mass., to train for a position a few rungs higher on the ladder of success. To those of you who don't know him, Adam is motor generator's general foreman. The General Electric Company is to be commended on their choice. It is our belief that there is no office that Adam cannot succeed in. Yet, no matter how high he goes he will never get too big to give the employees under him a helping hand. He is a leader among men, he has a bark like a bull dog and a heart of gold. He is never too busy to listen to your troubles or to try and right a wrong. Our loss is their gain. We'll miss him, your friend and mine, Adam Farrell. . . . A happy and safe vacation to all, and remember, Mildred Wells, that the season is off for mink in Canada. (She caught one last year.) . . . Harold Smith was seen the other Sunday relaxing in the breeze-way of his home while his wife was raking the yard. . . . A big bouquet to Mrs. Ferroll (Cupid) Hill. Her kindness and generosity is overwhelming. The other day when a poor hobo came to her door she not only fed him but she gave him a pair of Hill's good shoes and socks. The shoes were white and the poor fellow didn't care for white, so she dyed them black for him. "I tried to get her to dye them for a year," said Hill, "that fellow sure must have been a smooth talker."

Q: What happens to a mixture of ice and water at exactly 32 degrees?

A: At 32 degrees F. water is in equilibrium with ice. That is, 32 degrees is both the temperature of freezing water and of melting ice. If you put a piece of ice at 32 degrees in water at the same temperature, the ice will not melt nor will the water freeze. If heat is added to the mixture (and it is well stirred to assure that it is uniformly distributed) the ice will melt, but the temperature will remain at 32 until the ice is completely gone. That is why a cold drink stays cold, even on a hot day, as long as there is ice in it. On the other hand, if you cool it, or take heat away, the piece of ice will grow until all the water is frozen. Once again the temperature will remain at 32, until all the water is frozen, then the temperature of the ice will begin to drop.

Q: What actually causes bad breath?

A: Bad breath or halitosis results from several causes. A common one is the decay in poorly cleaned mouths of particles of food, particularly the proteins, which break down chemically into malodorous products. Good mouth hygiene helps to eliminate this. In addition certain foods (such as onion, garlic and horseradish) contain odorous compounds which may actually enter the blood stream and then be released in the lungs to the exhaled air. This is a true breath odor rather than a mouth odor. Also, certain diseases may cause particular odors, such as the so-called "acetone breath" of certain diabetics whose disease is not properly controlled.

Q: Is there gold in the ocean?

A: Yes, there is an enormous amount of gold in all the oceans of the world but it is so thinly distributed that it is not economical to get at it. In a cubic mile of sea-water, which weighs about 4,700,000,000 tons, there are some 55 pounds of gold.

Q: How is it possible for a person to get shorter in old age?

A: This may happen with the partial disappearance of discs of cartilage between the vertebrae, thus decreasing the length of the spine and making the whole body somewhat shorter.

Brink Appointed Planning Sup'visor In Sub-Section 1

Edward T. Brink has been appointed supervisor of planning in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 1, Robert L. Spittler, superintendent of the sub-section, announced this week.

Entering General Electric employ in 1948, Mr. Brink joined the test engineers program at the Schenectady plant. He took tests at Lynn, Bloomfield, DeKalb, and Fort Wayne. Upon completion of the program here in 1950, he entered the manufacturing training program.

When Mr. Brink completed the training course in 1951, he entered wage rate in Sub-Section 17 at Taylor St. In September last year, he transferred to Bldg. 6-4 where he worked in the planning section until his present appointment.

In 1948, Mr. Brink graduated from the University of Colorado with a BSME degree. He is a member of the ASME, Decimal Minute Men, and the GE Squares. Mr. Brink and his wife, Lori, who works in Bldg. 4-6, reside at 4406 Atwood Dr.

W. F. Konow Appointed Sub-Sect. 2 Planning and Wage Rate Supervisor

Announcement of the appointment of Walter F. Konow to the position of supervisor of planning and wage rate in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 2 was made this week by Chester B. Smith, superintendent of the sub-section.

In 1918, Mr. Konow came to GE and entered the Apprentice School. Upon graduation from the machinist-toolmaker course in 1923, he entered the general tool section where he was a toolmaker. Continuing in the section, he went into planning and became supervisor of planning in 1938.

After transferring to Winter St. in 1940, Mr. Konow was named supervisor of planning in the power drive division. He returned to Broadway where he was supervisor of planning in Fractional Horsepower Motor development section. In 1950, he transferred to Sub-Sections 1 and 2 on the same job and was in this location prior to his present appointment.

Mr. Konow is a member of the GE Squares and Supervisors Club. The Konows have two children and one granddaughter. They reside at 126 W. Fleming Ave.

We were very shocked to hear that Oscar Schelper was taken to the hospital Friday night after suffering a heart attack. We wish him a speedy recovery. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Gordon Gilbert and Eva Garrison on their wedding of July 11. . . . Doris Moon sang at a wedding over the week-end. . . . Anna Murphy is going to say her vows July 25, and Barbara Franklin is also being married. Congratulations, and best of luck. . . . Evelyn Jackson is all smiles now that her husband is home again. He was gone two weeks taking his National Guard training in Minnesota. . . . Martha Powell is all smiles over the new grandson her daughter presented her with. . . . Mary Sayen drove to Cleveland just to put miles on that new Pontiac. . . . Although there was no names mentioned the pretty little girl in last week's GE NEWS fishing with the clown was Twilla Whitlow, daughter of Billie Whitlow. . . . Joyce Shroyer and family left last Friday for Oregon and California. . . . Kenny Martin's wife says he can leave on vacation now that he has his basement all cleaned up. . . . BELATED BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Nadeen Reece. . . . We are sorry to see Maxine Tonkel leave us but we hope she will be happy in her home as a housewife. . . . WELCOME to Roger Crickmore, who has started on the 11-21 line. . . . Bob Boone has a new vocation. Instead of training horses he is now training dogs. . . . Edna Archbold is back to work after being off sick. . . . Grace Nitz had quite a scare the other morning when her car caught fire. Lucky there were some men to come to her rescue. . . . Barbara Wright went to Pokagon State Park over the week-end and was almost rained out of her supper. . . . Several of our co-workers are leaving on trips. The West should be well represented by Indiana. Pat Cutter is going to Washington and California. Esther Schlackinkuffer leaves Thursday night for Los Angeles. Alka Johnson leaves Sunday for Grand Canyon and California. Marilyn Davis is going to Texas to visit her mother. Lela Line is going to Arizona. . . . Nellie Wiggins went to Buck Lake Ranch Sunday and saw Pee Wee King. . . . We found out that Kate O'Conner got her driving license on Saturday. Kate didn't work so she was doing light hauling. She was seen pulling a trailer behind her car with furniture in it. . . . Bob Johnson was seen Friday cleaning his paint brushes out. The reason? Bob was going to paint the town red Saturday night. . . . As you know Clarence Gardt isn't a very big fellow but he sure got excited when he rushed home to change trousers. He had a nice rip in the ones he was wearing. Clarence had to find someone to drive him home since he thought he hadn't driven to work. On his arrival home Mrs. Gardt asked him why he didn't drive home and Clarence said he didn't drive to work. She had to take Clarence to the garage to show him the car was gone. . . . Louise Reinhart is going to the states of Oregon and Washington. She also hopes to get to see the California redwoods. Sarah Plufer is going to Illinois for a few days. . . . Dick Graham had a beautiful mustache started but he got so excited about going to the show he shaved it off by mistake. It must have been an awful shock afterwards. . . . We hope everyone has a very nice vacation.

To all the personnel in our department we wish a safe happy vacation.

A GOOD CUSTOMER COMES TO CALL

"state of the business" meetings in the GE Club. Mr. Martin characterized him as not only a "big customer" and a "good customer" but as an outstanding individual in his own right. Mr. Herrick is one of the very best friends GE has ever had, Mr. Martin stated.

Personal Thank You

"It's like a homecoming to return to Fort Wayne," Mr. Herrick greeted employees, "and I would like very humbly to thank each and every one of you girls and boys for the job you have done."

Above all else, Mr. Herrick had high words of praise for the company and its employees through whose cooperative efforts the heavy shipments which he had required throughout the first half of 1953 had been met.

"After all, you're GE," he told employees. "It isn't the big shot in the front office, it's the gals and guys like you that keep our orders moving."

The fiery president of Tecumseh Products, who bears a marked resemblance to President Eisenhower, typifies the Horatio Alger success story. Starting with $10,000 in cash (the savings of 21 years) in 1932 at the outset of the depression, Mr. Herrick with integrity, determination and courage, weathered early reverses, trials, tribulations, and mortgages to reach his present high level of success.

Power of Faith

The 63-year-old industrialist has a "trust in God and keep your powder dry" philosophy which underlies his success. "Only things built upon faith will carry through," he asserted, and his own experiences verify the power in his beliefs.

According to Mr. Herrick, both his personal and his company's life are founded on four main principles: Belief in God Almighty; belief in and love of America; work hard and mind your own business; and try to leave the world a better place for having lived in it.

These four tenets are the foundation of Tecumseh Products, he said, and because of them he sees Tecumseh as an ever-growing organization even though it could now rest on its laurels.

Explains Principles

"You can't succeed without God on the job, and you can't reach a high level of success in any other country of the world, or without working as hard as you know how," he explained.

When these principles are followed sincerely and honestly, the outcome of any individual's efforts has to be successful, he declared.

Mr. Herrick was accompanied by his son Kenneth and three representatives of General Electric's Detroit Sales Office. Prior to their Fort Wayne visit, they spent the morning in the Tiffin Plant which is also part of the Hermetic Motor Sub-Department's operations.

Gate Schedule During Vacation Announced Again

In addition to the operating schedule announced last week for the vacation shutdown, the following list of procedure during the next two weeks has been reported:

The west Fairfield parking lot will be closed a portion of the two-week period for installation of new guide barriers.

Bus service to Waterloo will be discontinued as of tomorrow and resumed Monday, July 10.

For any special trips, transportation may be secured by calling extension 347.

Employees picking up checks during the shutdown at the Broadway West Gate house may park along Broadway while getting their checks. A. R. Vegalues, head of plant protection, reported. Employees are asked not to park in front of any of the gates.

Lindley Ave. — Open 24 hours each day.

Broadway, West—Open 24 hours each day.

Fairfield Ave. — Open 24 hours each day.

Broadway, East — Open 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Closed Saturday and Sunday.

College Ave.—Closed from 12 midnight Friday, July 24, until 6 a.m. Monday, August 10.

Taylor St., West—Open 24 hours each day.

Taylor St., East—Closed from 7 p.m. Friday, July 24, until 6 a.m. August 10.

OVER OUR WAY BLDG. 19-1 Clara Volz

John Rushart paid us a visit last week. Nice to have him drop in. . . . Edward McClure showed us some nice pictures of his daughters. Also, Charles Staley has a good-looking 14-year-old daughter judging from the telephone calls. Papa answers in request for Barbara. . . . As of today we will be losing our very well liked general who goes by the name of Adam Farrell. Adam is taking a position at the Erie plant. We all want to wish him the best of luck. He will be missed by the many friends he has made here. Good luck to Carl Schafianski who is replacing Adam. . . . Vacation Plans: Magdalene Perrey, visit relatives in Chicago; Annette Thomas, take it easy at her cottage; Bill Kaiser, do some fishing at Rome City; Al Phillips, said mama wants the kitchen painted; Herb Waltemath, visit in Ohio; Roy Lautzenheiser, take it easy; George Zies, Texas, here I come; Rose and Bill Billue, no definite plans, just do as they darn please; Jim Grogg, rent a cabin way up in Michigan and do some sight-seeing; Walt Gerdum, fish up at his cottage; Charles Waltemath, since he already lives at Blue Lake I expect he'll go to Rome City to catch some fish; Charles (Sugar) Fisher, visit in Wisconsin; Luther Abner, catch some fish way down in Kentucky; Otto Ruch, visit New Jersey and Atlantic City.

Q-C OUTING INVITATIONS OUT MONDAY

Invitations to the 1953 annual Quarter Century Club outing will be distributed to more than 2,400 members beginning Monday, August 17, Wallace E. Beer, president, announced today. The annual event will take place at Fort Wayne Municipal Beach Saturday, September 12.

Employee members will receive their invitations through their supervisors and retired GC members will receive them by mail. Those invited to the outing include persons eligible for membership this year.

Any member who does not receive his invitation by August 21 is asked to contact his supervisor or the QC secretary, G. R. Lindemuth, Bldg. 18-5, Ext. 535.

To make reservations for the picnic, members need only sign the invitation and return it in the self-addressed envelope included with the invitation. Wednesday, August 26, has been set as the deadline for making reservations.

Distribution of programs, dinner tickets, identification badges, and souvenirs will be made at the registration booth at the beach the day of the outing.

Plans for the day's program as set up by the various committees include baseball game between men and girls, one hour show presented by professional entertainers, basket shooting, badminton, table tennis, horseshoe, bait casting, motorboat races, and games for the ladies.

STAB SPLIT ANNOUNCED

Jonesboro, Ark. New Specialty Motor Plant Site

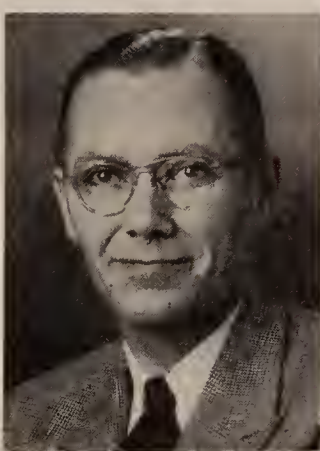

To meet rapidly growing demands for its products, Specialty Motor Sub-Department will construct a modern manufacturing plant at Jonesboro, Arkansas. Announcement of plans for the new plant was made by Harold A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of the Component Products Division.

Employing approximately 300 people, the Jonesboro plant will manufacture small blower and fan motors for refrigerators, air conditioners, and other equipment, Mr. MacKinnon stated.

Construction of the plant on a 30-acre plot is to begin almost immediately and is expected to be completed sometime in 1954. Except for a very small group of technical and administrative personnel, the company expects to recruit its employees from the Jonesboro area.

The sub-department will maintain its headquarters in Fort Wayne, Mr. MacKinnon said, and while a slight dip in employment is expected here, it will be only temporary. Expansion of other lines of motors produced by the sub-department will take up the slack created by the move, he added.

Site of the new plant was selected.

Globetrotters Return Saturday From Whirlwind European Tour

The first group of Elex Club globe-trotters arrived back in Fort Wayne last Saturday night after a two-week whirlwind tour of six European countries.

Of the eight girls returning, four were from Fort Wayne and four from Schenectady, N. Y. The Fort Wayne travelers were: Emma Vaughn, Ruby Stucky and Dorothy Faulkner, all of Specialty Motor Sub-Section 17 at Taylor St., and Virginia Molden, Bldg. 18-1.

"Tired but Thrilled"

"Tired, but thrilled with their vacation," was the general reaction of the group. By general agreement, Switzerland was the favorite country and the trip through the Alps the highlight of the trip.

In their two weeks of Europe the girls managed to hit the high spots in every country they visited. They toured London, visited the Holland dikes and a cheese factory, watched castles on the Rhine from a Rhine steamer, toured the Alps, ate wiener schnitzel in Germany, spaghetti in Italy, and sipped champagne in Paris. They also found time to swim in the Mediterranean Sea and have Parisian haircuts.

135 Arrive Tomorrow

The remaining 135, strikes in France notwithstanding, will arrive in Fort Wayne tomorrow morning at 10:24 a.m. by Trans-World Airlines at Baer Field. Reports yesterday stated that TWA planes were still taking off from Paris despite the general strikes there which have disrupted transportation for the past two weeks.

The large group on the three-week trip chartered special planes in Nice, France, in order to make Paris on their tight schedule.

Move Creates Separate Ballast, Trans. Depts.

The formation of two new GE departments, a Specialty Transformer Department and a Ballast Department, was announced here today by H. A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of the General Electric Company's Component Products Division.

Another step in the company's decentralization program, the move divides the former Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department in two separate organizations.

In announcing the change, Mr. MacKinnon said that "these departments represent operations grown big enough to be conducted as individual businesses in their own right. They can do a better job with separate managements devoting full time to the development and improvement of designs, manufacturing methods, and commercial coverage."

Establish Marketing Department In CP Division; Hanna Named Mgr.

The establishment of a Marketing Department in the General Electric Company's Component Products Division and the appointment of Robert C. Hanna as manager of marketing was announced here today by H. A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of that division.

Mr. Hanna joined the General Electric Company in 1929 when he was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering. His first assignment was in Schenectady, N. Y., as a student engineer under the company's test program.

Transferred to Fort Wayne in 1931, he was assigned to the Engineering Division of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department. In 1953, he entered sales, where he worked on application engineering and sales problems. Later he was placed in charge of the home laundry motor line.

During 1941, Mr. Hanna received special assignments related to motors for the armed services, and in 1942, he was loaned to the War Production Board first for a three-month special assignment, and then in 1943 as chief of the fractional-horsepower motor section of the WPB.

He returned to GE in 1945 and was named assistant to the sales manager of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department. Two years later he was appointed assistant manager of sales for the department and in 1950 became manager of sales, the position he held until the present time.

2469 Q-C INVITATIONS—for the annual outing are prepared for mailing to members next week by Opal Cook, Bldg. 18-5; Wallace E. Beer, QC president, Bldg. 18-1; and G. R. Lindemuth, QC secretary, Bldg. 18-5. The outing is slated for Saturday, September 12.

Better Here

The real obstacle to communism always has been the existence of a vigorous and prosperous middle income group—even though communists direct most of their epithets toward "the rich capitalists."

Americans don't like to divide themselves into classes. It would be difficult to do so, not only because most of us are both workers and capitalists, but also because Americans have the opportunity to move upward (and downward, too) in the earning and owning categories.

Unfortunately, this is less true in some other countries. An American who recently returned from a visit to his native France was impressed, and saddened, by the vast gap in living standards between the lower-income groups and the rich. The "middle class" he found non-existent.

We wouldn't recommend gloating over how much better off you are than people abroad as a good way to find happiness. To the generous and sympathetic, it's more apt to be depressing. But whenever you feel things are bad in America, it may change your view to do a little comparing.

FAREWELL to Jo Ann Locker, who is leaving today to become a full-time housewife. . . . WE WISH a speedy recovery to Dick Seely. . . . MARGE MURPHY and DOROTHY BRUBAKER spent over a week in New York visiting Mary Ellen Hulvey Gottselig. While they were there they went sightseeing in New York City and saw the musical, "Wonderful Town." . . . BOB HAUELA, JR. is stationed at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. Guess what he's doing? Drafting! . . . WE'RE ALL GLAD to hear that Ruth Epperson's husband, who is stationed in Korea, is recovering from his illness. . . . A GANG OUT OF THE DRAFTING SECTION will be off to the Big City to see Cleveland vs. New York next week-end. The plans are all made. Cliff Denney will carry two bushels of pop-corn; Herb Osborne, a wagon load of fresh vegetables; Jack Wilson, a hundred pound jar of mustard; Jerry Duryee will bring the 500-pound tarpon he caught while in Florida; Karl Fieretag will bring along his new invention, an endless hot-dog; Skeets Lehrman wants to take along the steak he won from Paul Motter and Jack Wilson. All in all, with pop-corn, mustard, tarpon, hot dogs, and steak, the boys should have a nice time. . . . WELCOME to Warren Ray and Larry Norquist who joined the floor-sitters club lately.

WIRE RAVELINGS TAYLOR ST.

A very successful fishing trip to the lakes of Northern Minnesota was completed by nine fellows, with Bill Skinner acting as guide and cook. The group included Herman Bertsch, Don Pappert, Dick Quinn, Bob Baals, Bob Pickett, Howard Keppler, Bill Sexton, and Danny Skinner. The meals included fish for breakfast, fish for dinner, and fish for supper, and there were always plenty of fish on hand for dessert. The largest bass, caught by Bill Skinner, weighed three pounds, with Bob Baals and Don Pappert sharing honors by catching a 4½ pound pike apiece. A highlight of the trip was when Herman Bertsch tried to get friendly with a cub bear and found out the mouth was quicker than the eye. He now has a couple of teeth marks to prove it. Another highlight was when Herman Bertsch was on shore holding a guide rope on the canoe as Bill Skinner was trying to ride the rapids. His timing was off and Bill was thrown into the water as the canoe hit a rock and turned over. Bill got a bit wet and bruised while Herman had a good laugh on shore, but the moral is not to laugh too hard because when Herman's pack was opened he changed his expression when he discovered the water had ruined his camera and meter. . . . Vaughn Sheets went fishing on his trip to Michigan and figured his fish cost him about $19 a pound. He discovered Kroger's had them at home for 39 cents a pound. I'll bet they tasted good! . . . Birthdays for the first half of August are: Lois Connett, August 6; Aaron Schoenefeld, August 11, and Herb Scherer, August 16. . . . Since Francis Fulk has the new Oldsmobile which doesn't require shifting he forgets that his machine needs its gears changed. He suggests that they be run on fluid drive. . . . Jack Heiniger and Herb Thompson broke in new cars during vacation. Jack ventured his Chevy to Florida,

Canada, and back, and Herb's new Dodge carried him on a few trips around the neighboring cities. . . . Forrest Mann is breaking in a new mode of transportation. He has a new motorcycle to convey him back and forth to work. . . . We hope Melvin Yates didn't have to spend any of his vacation nursing a sore toe. He was seen hobbling around before vacation started. . . . It's a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Jacobs. She was born August 1 and weighed 5 pounds, 12½ ounces.

Well, it is over, (vacation, I mean) and the gang is all back from the four corners of this tired old globe, looking mighty fine and just rarin' to tear into 50 more weeks of that super production Bldg. 22 is noted for. I'm kind of worried about the boss (Al Mason) though. At the time this column was written he wasn't back yet. I got a card from him from Yellowstone National Park with a picture of a bear on it. The writing was a little dim, like maybe Albert wrote it from inside the bear. Come to think of it, that bear did have a smug expression on his face. . . . Many thanks to Roy Brown, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., for the nice card he sent me. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey on their new arrival, a fine baby boy. . . . Our friend, Ferroll (Cupid) Hill, lost another dime in the ice cream machine the other day. It upset him so he went out in the yard, along side of Bldg. 20, and ate a half bushel of sugar pears. . . . Did you hear about the time Dick Bodkins took his first ride on a big airliner? The plane took off at night and after being up about half an hour Dick summoned the stewardess. "What's the matter," says Dick, "how come we're not making any time?" "I've been watching out the window and we've just been circling the airport for a half hour." "See, says Dick, pointing out the window, "there is that little red light blinking off and on atop the airport." The stewardess looked out the window, and then with a smile she patted our little hero on the head. "You can stop worrying," she says, "that's no airport, that is the light on the end of the wing."

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK:
"The pursuit of truth shall set you free—even if you never catch up with it."—Clarence Darrow.

IT'S NEWS: You have often heard it said that when a dog bites a man that is nothing, but when a man bites a dog that is news. We have one we feel is equal to, or surpasses, the facts mentioned above. People often chase a bus but our story deals with a bus chasing a man. The week before vacation a young lady mentioned she had observed an odd happening that morning. She further related that this happening was Bud Fisher running down the middle of Washington St. with a bus following, almost on his heels. . . . GOOD-BY: Mrs. Vera Garber left the service of this company the week before vacation. We all extend our best wishes for her success, health, and happiness. Mrs. Garber requested that we publish this letter of appreciation to her friends. "During the past two and one-half years I have worked with you and made many friends in this division. Together we have viewed sunshine and shadow, joy and grief, and my life has been enriched from knowing you. Now that the time of parting has come, I thank you for these wonderful memories and the events associated with them. I appreciate the high honor you have conferred upon me by being my friends and am deeply touched by the kindness and good-will expressed by the beautiful going away gift. And now in parting I pray that "The Lord watch over thee and me, while we are apart, one from another." . . . THANKS: Ed Foley, who recently retired on pension, extends thanks to all his friends who gave him a very nice retirement gift. We are happy to report that Ed's condition is improving and we hope he will soon be as good as new. You just can't keep a fighting Irishman down. . . . SMART: After the wise sayings by Bill Kayser and Esther Dalman, numerous gems have come to our attention. This week's laurels go to Jim Stouder, who defines an "Angel" as "A pedestrian who jumped too late." . . . JUST A DREAMER: It's funny how a coming vacation can affect some people. Helen Hanley was observed, just before vacation, walking down Calhoun Street with her head in the clouds bumping into parking meters.

GE to Build New Plant On Bloomington, Ill. Site

A five million dollar General Electric plant will be built in Bloomington, Ill., to manufacture general purpose controls for industrial use, it was announced by William C. Wichman, vice president and general manager of the GE Industrial Power Components Division.

Speaking before the Bloomington Association of Commerce, Mr. Wichman said that construction of the new facilities will start this year on a 66-acre tract where U. S. Route 66 crosses the Illinois Central Railroad tracks about two miles from the center of the city.

The new GE plant will consist of a manufacturing area, including warehouse, laboratory, cafeteria, and personnel facilities, and an attached modern office building. More than two million dollars worth of equipment will be installed in the plant.

To Be Headquarters
Bloomington will be the headquarters for the company's General Purpose Control Department. All engineering, sales, and manufacturing operations will be located here under the direction of William F. Oswalt, general manager of the department.

According to Mr. Oswalt, total employment is expected to reach an approximate level of 1,600.

The plant will produce a complete line of electric controls, including starters for motors ranging up to 200 horsepower, push-buttons, compensators, and many other devices used in industry.

Up to now, these products have been manufactured at the GE Schenectady, N. Y., Works, but Mr. Oswalt explained that the increasing demand for general purpose controls required expansion of facilities not practicable at that location.

All Under One Roof

"The new plant here will enable us to consolidate all manufacturing and other business functions under one roof, with obvious resultant economies," he said. "The department will be able to introduce new production planning and scheduling concepts, and will be in a better position to improve service to its customers."

Operations will not begin at Bloomington until late 1954 when construction of the plant is scheduled to be completed, Mr. Oswalt pointed out. Operations at Schenectady will continue until full-scale production is reached at Bloomington, he said.

Bloomington is the county seat of McLean county and is located in the central part of Illinois about 40 miles east of Peoria. Including the adjacent town of Normal, total population is about 44,000.

Richard C. Sebold

Richard C. Sebold Named Foreman In Sub-Section 1

Appointment of Richard C. Sebold as a foreman in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 1 has been announced by Robert L. Spitler, superintendent. Mr. Sebold will have charge of miscellaneous machining and assembly in Bldg. 4-3 on first shift.

In December, 1941, Mr. Sebold joined General Electric and became a punch press operator. In 1942, he entered the Apprentice School. The following year he went into the U. S. Air Force. He served 32 months in the South Pacific theater of action and was discharged in December, 1945.

After returning to the company, Mr. Sebold resumed work in the Apprentice School and graduated from the machinist-toolmaker course in 1949. He went on special assignment in administration under the works manager and in 1950 entered the manufacturing training course. Upon completion of the course in 1952, he entered planning in Sub-Section 1 and was a methods planner until his present appointment.

A member of the Apprentice Alumni Association and the Series and Specialty Sub-Section 1 Supervisors Club, Mr. Sebold attended Purdue University Extension one year.

Mr. and Mrs. Sebold and their daughter live at 3914 Manoto Blvd.

an amateur within the continental limits of the United States.

Candidates must hold an amateur radio license issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

Nominations must be postmarked not later than January 3, 1954, and must include the name of the candidate, his call letters and address, and a full description of the services performed.

Decisions of the judges will be based upon (1) the greatest benefit to an individual or group and (2) the amount of ingenuity and sacrifice displayed in performing the service.

No employee of the General Electric Company is eligible to receive the Award.

Nominations should be addressed to the Edison Award Committee, Tube Department, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, N. Y.

Virgil Day Appointed GE Union Relations Manager

Virgil B. Day, of 119 Edgemont Road, Scarsdale, has been appointed manager-union relations for the General Electric Company, Lemuel R. Boulware, vice president, Employee and Plant Community Relations Services Division, announced today.

The post carries responsibility for negotiating national union contracts and advising on local contracts as well as managing the Union Relations Services Department.

In his new position Mr. Day succeeds George H. Pfeif of 27 Snowden Avenue, Schenectady, who retired last Friday after 48 years with General Electric.

Mr. Day has been assigned to the department he now heads since January 1. He was formerly manager of employee and plant community relations for the Receiver Department of the Company's Electronics Division in Syracuse.

A native of Alabama, Mr. Day was graduated from Northwestern University in 1936 and from Northwestern University Law School in 1939. While in law school, he was an editor of the Illinois Law Review and was elected to membership in the Order of the Coif.

Mr. Day practiced law in New York from 1939 to 1947, except for four years service with the Army in World War II. He joined General Electric in 1947 as counsel to the Employee and Plant Community Relations Division in New York and two years later was named assistant manager under Mr. Boulware.

Mr. Pfeif, a native of Terre Haute, Ind., joined GE in 1905, after graduation from Rose Polytechnic Institute in Terre Haute. He worked first in the Test Department, later became associated with the office of general superintendent in Schenectady and in 1913 was named secretary of a newly formed committee to recruit college graduates for positions in the Test Department. The late Charles P. Steinmetz, great GE scientist, was committee chairman. Mr. Pfeif was made director of industrial relations for the Schenectady Works in 1922 and in 1936 was appointed supervisor of personnel for all GE plants. Nine years later he was named manager, Employee Relations Section, GE Executive Department, and in 1952 was appointed manager-union relations.

Foremen's Assn. To Meet Aug. 26

Wednesday, August 26, has been announced as the date of the Foremen's Association regular monthly meeting by Leonard G. Reuss, president. Beginning at 6 p.m., the meeting will be staged at the Southwest Conservation Club.

A fish supper will be served and a business meeting will be conducted. The agenda will include entertainment also.

Tickets are $1.00 per person and may be secured from contact men. Friday, August 21, is the deadline to secure tickets.

Whitmyer Named IGE Treasurer

Russell E. Whitmyer has been appointed treasurer of the International General Electric Company, according to a recent announcement by W. R. Herod, IGE president.

After being graduated from Amherst College in 1936, Mr. Whitmyer joined the Business Training Course of General Electric in Schenectady, N. Y. After completing the course he was transferred to the auditing department and among his assignments spent a year and a half prior to World War II visiting IGE's South American affiliates.

Served in India

Following four years' service in the U. S. Navy, Mr. Whitmyer went to Bombay, India in June, 1946, as secretary-treasurer of International General Electric Company (India) Ltd. Returning from India in May, 1947, he served as traveling auditor and was assigned to a number of General Electric units, including the Hotpoint Company, General Electric Credit Corporation and Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd.

In July 1950 he was named supervising auditor for General Electric's affiliated and associated manufacturing companies, the GE Realty Corporation, the GE Treasury Division, GE Pension Trusts and the overseas affiliates of IGE. In March, 1951, Mr. Whitmyer went to Bloomfield, N. J., as comptroller of the GE Air Conditioning Division. In November, 1951, he went to Evendale, Ohio, as manager of finance for the Aircraft Gas Turbine Division and in November, 1952, was appointed manager of program development for the AGT Division, the position he left for his new appointment.

Mr. Whitmyer will make his headquarters in New York.

Partizan Club to Hold Final Summer Picnic

Members of Partizan Chapter of Elex Club will conduct the last of their summer picnic meetings Tuesday, August 18, at McMillen Park. Members and their families will meet at 12 noon. A business meeting will be conducted and entertainment has been planned for the program.

Mrs. Ruth Grogg is serving as chairman of the meeting. Assisting her are Mrs. Burnis Cramer, Mrs. Anita Tobias, and Mrs. Louise Heine.

Mail call is what U. S. fighting males like best.

GE Begins Nation-Wide Search For Outstanding Ham Operator

A nation-wide search for the amateur radio operator who performs the outstanding public service of 1953 was announced today by the General Electric Company Tube Department.

The winner, who will receive the Edison Radio Amateur Award, will be announced on February 11, 1954, Thomas A. Edison's 107th birthday anniversary. Edison was a founder of GE.

Last year, in the first such quest for an outstanding deed by a radio amateur, the Edison Award went to 20-year-old Don L. Mullican, Searcy, Ark. He stuck to his short-wave for more than five days—almost without relief—to bring emergency aid to tornado victims in two nearby towns.

In 1952, four other amateurs received special citations for non-disaster public services. One maintained radio contact between personnel at polar weather stations and their families, and another transmitted radio messages to and from soldiers in Korea.

A third taught amateur radio to a group of blind students, and a fourth developed methods and techniques for reducing interference in television receivers caused by amateur radio transmitters.

In announcing the 1953 Edison Award, J. Milton Lang, general manager of the GE Tube Department, pointed out that "the acclaim for these five who were honored in 1952 was a tribute to the important and unselfish efforts of amateurs everywhere.

"The 1953 Award will bring recognition to a new trophy winner," he added, "and again will dramatize amateur radio's achievements in the public interest."

"The Award will focus public attention on thousands of radio amateurs, who, in their day-by-day activities, are contributing so significantly to the development and maintenance of vital communication facilities," he said.

Judges for the Award, selected because of their interest in amateur radio activities or public service, are: E. Roland Harriman, president of the American Red Cross; George E. Sterling, a member of the Federal Communications Commission; Goodwin L. Dosland, president of the American Radio Relay League; and Gardner Cowles, president and editor of "Look" magazine.

The 1953 eligibility rules, as outlined by Mr. Lang:

Nominations may be made by any individual or group familiar with the service performed.

The service must have been performed during 1953 while the candidate was pursuing his hobby as CHUTE SUGGESTION—Waveland Bernadin receives a suggestion award for $50 from Clifford Witham. Mr. Bernadin is an employee in Section 14 at Taylor St. His idea provided a chute for the washer to eliminate handling of parts.

Carl H. Rinne, formerly general manager of the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department, has been named general manager of the Specialty Transformer Department which will have its headquarters at Fort Wayne. General manager of the new Ballast Department will be Charles P. Hayes, who will have his headquarters in Danville, Ill., where the ballast plant is located.

Announce Staffs

Concurrent with their appointments, the new managers announced the following staffs for their departments: Ballast Department—Gordon C. Harvey, manager-engineering; Elmer F. Paul, manager-manufacturing and relations; Edmund C. Schorr, manager-marketing; and Ralph M. Hensler, manager-finance.

Specialty Transformer Department—Everett J. Thomas, manager-engineering; Richard J. Keyser, manager-manufacturing; Joseph P. Coughlin, manager-marketing; Eugene H. Henry, manager-finance; and Stephen R. Capps, manager-employee relations.

Mr. Rinne joined GE in 1930 and worked in the accounting department at Schenectady while a member of the Business Training Course. He served as a traveling auditor from 1933 to 1936 and then joined the company's Executive Department in New York City as a member of the president's staff.

In 1938 Mr. Rinne became affiliated with the International General Electric Company and later joined the GE Air Conditioning Department in Bloomfield, N. J. He returned to Schenectady in 1942 to work on war projects accounting and remained there until 1947 in the apparatus accounting organization.

He then came to Fort Wayne as assistant works accountant and later that year was named accountant for the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department. In 1951 he was named general manager of the department, the position he held until the present.

North Carolina Native

Mr. Hayes, a native of Asheville, N. C., was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1932 with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering. That same year he joined the GE Test Course at Bloomfield, N. J., and after completing the advanced engineering program in 1935 was transferred to the Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department at Fort Wayne as a design engineer.

He served in various capacities in that department and the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department until 1950 when he was moved to the Small Apparatus Division headquarters at Lynn, Mass. In 1951 he was appointed manufacturing engineer in the Manufacturing Services Division before being assigned to the marketing organization of the Major Appliance Division in Louisville, Ky., where he has been until the present time.

lected after an exhaustive survey of many communities in recent months. J. J. Clarkson, general manager of the sub-department, said Jonesboro was selected because "we liked the city, its facilities, and especially the progressive attitude of its citizens."

Mr. Clarkson added that special arrangements were made through Dr. C. E. Reng, president of Arkansas State College, to help provide the suitable vocational training which will be required as the plant gets into operation.

WOMEN BOWLERS

Bowling chairmen are starting formation of their leagues for this fall. Any woman interested in bowling in the Monday Night League should contact Winifred Scheurich, Ext. 344, Bldg. 31-1.

Women interested in bowling in the Tuesday Afternoon League at 3:30 p.m., should call or mail their names to either Mary Nute, Bldg. 4-3, Ext. 646, or Charlotte Stanford, Taylor St., Section 17, Ext. 2554.

CHALKS UP 40 YEARS—Carl H. Dicke (left) reached an important milestone in his GE career last month when he chalked up his 40th year of service with the company. Congratulating him are (l-r) K. D. Strong and R. M. Hartigan. Mr. Dicke is employed in Bldg. 19-3.

REACHES 40TH GE YEAR—Edwin C. Van Horn (seated right) looks at the ruby service pin he received on his 40th anniversary with the General Electric Company. At the presentation were (l-r) J. H. Oman, H. C. Grueb, and William G. Dempsey. Mr. Van Horn is employed at Taylor St. He worked in Bldg. 6-1 when he joined GE in 1913.

G-E DEATHS

Martha Naugle Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Martha A. Naugle, 54, died Tuesday, July 28, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Beams, Tipton. Services were conducted Thursday, July 30, by the Rev. Richard Howell in the C. M. Sloan & Sons Funeral Home. Burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

A part-time employee in the Bldg. 16-1 restaurant, Mrs. Naugle came to the company in 1946 and took a leave of absence for illness in December last year.

Survivors include her husband, Walter; two daughters, Mrs. Beams and Mrs. Walter Sitcher, and two sons, Dale and Roy.

Edmond Couture Dies In Veterans Hospital

Edmund Couture, 61, of Roanoke, died Thursday, July 23, at the Fort Wayne Veterans Administration Hospital after a five-month illness. Mr. Couture was a machinist in Bldg. 20-1 prior to taking a leave of absence for illness in February. He joined the company in 1941.

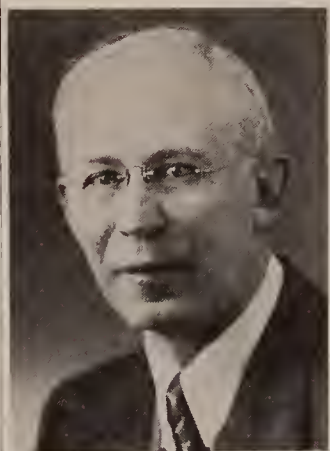

Survivors include the wife, Odelia; one son, Cletus; one daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Anderson; four grandchildren; four brothers, Fred, George, Homer, and Eugene; and three sisters, Mrs. Eva Warne, Mrs. Ruth Tholen, and Mrs. Rita Riccius.

Fred W. Schaaf, 66 Dies in Retirement

A retired employee, Fred W. Schaaf, 66, 4515 Tacoma Ave., died Sunday, July 26, at his home. Thursday, July 30, services were conducted at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home by the Rev. Erwin L. Tepker. Burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Joining the General Electric in April, 1913, Mr. Schaaf was a drill press hand at that time. Prior to his retirement, April 1, 1952, he did lay-out motion castings in Bldg. 4-1.

Included among survivors are his wife, Frieda; one daughter, Mrs. Gordon Parmelee; one son, Robert P. Schaaf; three grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Ann Alleger, and Mrs. Ernest Bultemeyer, and three brothers, Adam, George, and Henry.

A Bldg. 4-3 stockkeeper, Walter Fagg, 58, died Monday, August 10. He collapsed while walking near the intersection of State Boulevard and Crescent Avenue Monday evening. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Services are scheduled to be conducted today at the C. M. Sloan & Sons Funeral Home by the Rev. William J. Ratz. Burial will be in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Fagg joined the GE in 1920 and became an inspector in Bldg. 4. He took leave of absence for illness in April this year. He was a member of the Quarter Century Club.

In addition to his wife, Elizabeth, survivors include two sons, Donald and Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Howard Timmis; his mother, Mrs. Edna Hall; two grandchildren; one brother, Emil; and three sisters, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Fred Zink, and Mrs. Eleanor Dunn.

Alfred Rebber Dies In Lutheran Hospital

Services for Alfred T. Rebber, 50, of R. R. 2, St. Joe Road, were conducted at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home Saturday, August 1, by the Rev. H. A. Blanke. Burial was in Covington Memorial Park.

Mr. Rebber died July 28 at the Lutheran Hospital.

Surviving include his wife, Margaret; two brothers, Ervin Rebber and Gerhardt Rebber; and a sister, Mrs. Paul Werling.

In 1922, Mr. Rebber became a GE employee and prior to his death he was a cylindrical grinder in Bldg. 4-3.

Rites Held July 29 For Dorothy Marks

A former General Electric employee, Mrs. Dorothy Schaefer Marks, 1416 Third St., died Sunday, July 26, at St. Joseph's Hospital. Services were conducted Wednesday, July 29, at the Tom Mungovan Funeral Home and the Most Precious Blood Church. The Rev. S. J. Kremer officiated. Burial was in the Arcola Catholic Cemetery.

Mrs. Marks was employed here from 1925 until 1938 in the Broadway cafeteria. She left due to illness in November, 1938.

Surviving are her husband, Er-

THE NIGHT WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Hazel Davis

Vacation is over and most everyone is glad to be back. . . . Pauline Tracey and Blanche Mulligan must have looked very nice in their brown bathing suits in the sunny south. . . . Helen Kessel motored to North Carolina to visit relatives. . . . We haven't a report yet as to how the fish were biting in Michigan. Grace Anderson, Clyde, and Cindy enjoyed a fishing trip. . . . Helen Reichard took in the sights of Yellowstone National Park. . . . Ruth Gunn had a grand time visiting her family in North Carolina. . . . Magdaline Laughlin spent some time in Canada. . . . Corrine Whitbridge motored to the Smoky Mountains. . . . Hillis Colby's dog, Dusty, sure likes to chew gum. We are told it is entertaining to watch him sit up and chew. . . . Mr. Hare enjoyed a trip through Northern Michigan, Wisconsin, and Chicago.

THE BIG WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Rachel Mounsey

We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to the following people in their recent bereavements: Trancille Heenkervious on the death of her father; Stella Evans on the loss of her husband; Art Vachon on the death of his mother, and B. B. Gausepohl, whose mother-in-law died. . . . We are glad to see Ethel Kuntz back again after a year's illness. Ethel says she's really glad to be back, too. . . . Jerry Stier's father presented him with another sister, weighing 9 pounds 4 ounces. This now makes 18 in Jerry's family. . . . Ed Bierley decided, after a week at his cottage, that he wasn't getting any vacation. So, he locked up and went to Michigan to enjoy himself. . . . Emma Vaughn is back from her trip abroad and has a lot of interesting things to tell. She said that home is the best after all. . . . Some of our people were traveling. Tommy Williams went to New York and Texas. Lena Stump went to Chicago and Detroit. Marie Wilson was in Chicago and Wisconsin. Geneva Harter was in the southern part of Indiana. Martha Bennett visited Chicago, Boston, and New York. Theo Olson went to the Rockies. Ruth Bonahoon attended auto races. Doris Moon went to New York and all points East. Jerry Fredrick went to Oregon and Washington and Norma Joy was in Michigan fishing. Myrtle Cramer went fishing in Minnesota. Mary Gordon visited New York and Barbara Wright also went to New York. . . . Jennie Mathias had her vacation at home catching up on her sleep. . . . Bertha Steele missed the factory so much she visited other factories in Marion. . . . Congratulations to Barbara Franklin, who is now Mrs. Richard Boyles. . . . Elsie Dunfee was in an accident in Tennessee. She received a broken leg. We wish her a speedy recovery. . . . WELCOME to Mary Camos and Lela Evan, on days. . . . Doris Garr was happy to get home again, after sleeping on such a hard mattress in their trailer.

SHOULD GERMANY BE ALLOWED TO REARM?

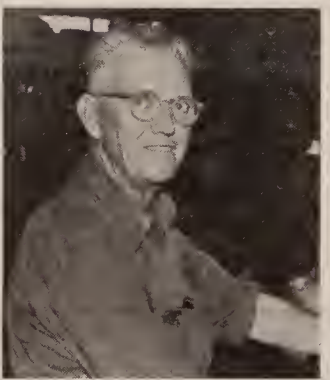

EMMA R. MEYER
Bldg. 26-3

"No, I do not think that Germany should be allowed to re-arm for the reason that I don't think their economic condition would permit them to do so and I am afraid that they would side in with Russia."

CLARA S. KRAUSKOPF
Bldg. 19-2

"Under present circumstances I think Germany should be allowed to re-arm. It will help her economic condition against Asia if they would go against her. It helped Japan and if Germany is one of our allies why wouldn't it help us also. As long as the world thinks they have to fight instead of being Christianized, then Germany should be re-armed under the UN supervision."

RALPH W. BRUNS
Bldg. 28-B

"Yes. Germany should be capable of her own national defense. However, every effort should be made to keep the control of the military out of the hands of political 'hot heads', such as the proponents of the Communistic doctrine and the would-be revivers of the old Nazi ideologies."

GEORGE A. SCOTT
Taylor St.

"In the event of an all-out war, it would be a necessity. Right now, I feel that the German youth have a lot of Hitler's ideas. Let them grow a few years under the watchful eye of freedom and peace-loving people before rearmament."

TREVOR C. WOLF
Bldg. 4-1

"I don't think Germany should be allowed to rearm ever. She re-armed after World War I and look what happened in 1942. So why make the same mistake."

Well, here we are back at work and only 50 more weeks until vacation. . . . A lot has happened in the past two weeks and fish stories are always present. Gene Miller (in the tool crib) had the best luck as to catching the sly little things. He claims he caught his limit most of the time, but Harry Ecenbarger just doesn't believe him. Harry's luck wasn't so good. . . . Wedding bells rang loud and clear during vacation time. Five of the boys came back to work with "Friendship Rings" on their fingers. We would like to congratulate the following: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reinking, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olinke, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCartney, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ronnell Allen on the arrival of Debra Leah. . . . Congratulations are also extended to Harold Wilkerson, who graduated as a machinist toolmaker on August 7, 1953. Harold was the first apprentice to graduate since February, 1952.

It's so nice to have you back. We love the smiling faces. Of the guys and gals that stayed at home. Or went to far-off places. We're the crew that stayed and worked. While you were on vacation. At first we thought we liked it fine. This decrease in population. But things have been so quiet. That we've come to the conclusion. We're so glad to have you back. We welcome the confusion.

And back they are from the four corners of the globe. Katie Minehart toured the cooler spots on the map, Niagara Falls, Montreal, Quebec, Maine, Connecticut, reporting the scenery was beautiful and the weather in that direction was simply grand. . . . Eva Westrick saw lots of sights and excitement while traveling through the great Smokies. . . . Eloise Hoehn returned with all sorts of stories about the "wild west," and declares the wildest things in the west are the California drivers. . . . Ralph Heminger and Paul Klage brought back practically all the fish that the state of Michigan possessed. . . . Helen Brown motored through Michigan and then to Kewaunee, Wis., and the Upper Peninsula. . . . Mable Keppeler also found Michigan was a very nice place to spend a vacation. . . . Ivan Doster decided that Florida was the place to be. In fact he was so inspired, he would like very much to buy the state. . . . Dorothy Porter also reported she, too, found Florida very exciting. . . . Evelyn Kissinger took in the sights in Canada. . . . And then the people who found that "Home Sweet Home" was a pretty wonderful place on the map to spend a vacation. . . . All in all everybody seems to be rested up and all ready to tackle another 50 weeks. . . . We think the terrific heat around town just about got the best of Ruth Schroeder and Viola Haiber. Seems each caught the other one in a very embarrassing position at one of the local dime stores around 10 o'clock on a Wednesday morning, they both had forgotten that Fort Wayne's downtown stores don't open until noon Wednesdays. . . . Paul Thomas didn't pass cigars when his new arrival came, but the fellows noticed him smoking cigars labeled, "It's a Boy." . . . Art Koeneman thinks he deserves some overtime pay. He operates the elevator all day long, and then goes home and dreams of operating it at night, too. We think that you'll have to dream up the extra pay, too, Art.

Listen carefully and you may hear the ringing of bells. Those wedding bells are soon to ring out for Deannie Liechty and Kenneth Noll. Deannie is a winding machine operator and Kenneth is a farmer at the present time. We haven't heard just when the wedding will take place. . . . Sorry to be late but we just heard that John (Forrest) Owens celebrated his birthday on July 20. Belated greetings, John, hope that you had a cake with candles and all the other trimmings that it takes to make a birthday. . . . We hear via the grapevine that Ezra Brandyberry celebrated his birthday August 2. We all join in saying Happy Birthday. We hadn't seen Ezra's name in the GE NEWS for so long that we were beginning to wonder if he was still here. . . . Vacation time found several of our employees heading for the wide open spaces of the far west, Oregon in fact. Doris and Jim Chilcote, along with Mary and Ralph Welch, planned to see part of California. Sure made a nice honeymoon trip for Doris and Jim. . . . The annual vacation is now just a memory; of course, the feature item of comment is the European trip by the Elex and Geode Club members. At this writing the group is still in Italy on the final lap of the tour before returning home. We hope to be able to give our readers some details of the trip in our next column. . . . While motor trips, baseball games, golfing, and fishing expeditions accounted for the major part of the pleasures of our employees, the vacation time also had its sadness for others. We wish to extend our sincerest sympathies to Arthur Zehr upon the death of his wife; to Otto Wefel upon the death of his brother, and to Mr. and Mrs. Winston Rawley upon the death of their baby. . . . We are happy to welcome back Lester Geyer and James Pollock, who have been serving Uncle Sam for the past two years. . . . Homer Liby has returned to work after an extended illness. Welcome back. . . . Richard Rumschlag has also returned to work after a serious emergency appendectomy. We hope both Homer and Richard will enjoy the best of health. . . . Plant employees will again be privileged by the annual visit of the Indiana State Board of Health X-Ray Mobile Unit. This project is paid for from the funds raised by the sale of Christmas seals and is provided free to all employees. The Mobile Unit will visit our plant on Wednesday, August 19, 1953, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The schedule for each section will be announced in due time. We hope that each and every employee will take advantage of this fine service.

We were all shocked to learn of the untimely death of our co-worker, Al Rebber. May we extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Rebber. . . . WEDDING BELLS rang for Paul C. Lange and Birdene LaLone at Bethlehem Lutheran church August 1 at 6:30 p.m. Congratulations and best wishes to the bride and groom. . . . WEDDING CONGRATULATIONS are also in order for Virgil Rollins, who was married August 1. . . . Mary Raub spent several days at Niagara Falls unexpectedly during vacation. . . . Perry Bahde was singing "bears keep away from my door" while on vacation in Gaylord, Mich. Several times the bears carried the garbage cans away. . . . Ernest Kalb attended Paul Christensen's choir school at Bemidji, Minn., during July 26-August 5. . . . Edith Minnich had a delightful trip by train to California. En route she met a fine person of the masculine gender. . . . In painting the house Clarence Renschler got more paint in his hair than on his house. . . . Ralph Waikel caught a bird on his fly rod while fishing at Crooked Lake. . . . Emily Niernan reports catching a good sized bass, and those that got away. . . . Lloyd Clark's vacation started in fine shape. He was doing some painting on an extension ladder. The ladder got to moving around so much that Clark had to come down. Lloyd is going to put a safety belt on the next time. . . . FAMOUS LAST WORDS: The biggest one got away.—Gus Rutz.

Congratulations to Annette Thomas on completing 30 years of loyal service to the company. They say the first thirty years are the hardest. . . . Ding-a-Ling! That's the phone ringing in Hanke's office. 5827665 AE-485, that's Magdalene Perrey talking as she answers the phone. It seems Maggie was really flustered the other day. I couldn't blame her though with two handsome men like Marschand and Sorgen hovering around her and demanding her undivided attention. . . . Sorry to hear about Orlando Surface's wife being ill. Hope that she gets along fine after the operation. . . . Lucile Schelper has been on the sick list for over a month now. . . . Some of the fellows pulled a good one on Adam Farrell before he left camp. They took him to the English Terrace for lunch, and to show their hearts were in the right place, presented him with a gift. When Adam opened the package he brought out a lunch bucket with a ham sandwich, too. . . . This is a general invitation to everyone that Joan King would like to have you attend her wedding that is being held in South Whitley, Ind., August 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the United Brethren Church. The reception will be held at Collamer, Ind., at the Conservation Club.

SCIENCE QUESTION BOX
by SCIENTISTS OF THE G.E. RESEARCH LABORATORY

Q. If men ever have to work in outer space in connection with building a space station or on an airless planet, why wouldn't their space suits explode with ordinary air pressure inside and none outside?

A. It is true that if men are ever able to travel through space, and they have to work on a planet without any atmosphere, or in space itself, they would need to wear some sort of pressure suit which would enclose them completely. Perhaps it would not be necessary to maintain inside it the normal atmospheric pressure of 15 pounds per square inch, for some lower pressure, like that on a high mountain, might suffice. If this were not balanced by outside air under similar pressure the suit would tend to burst. Therefore it would have to be made strong enough to withstand this outward pressure. Scientists who have studied this problem believe there would be no essential difficulty in making the suit sufficiently strong.

Q. Are all insects bugs?

A. No, the terms "bug" and "insect" are not synonymous. Technically, the true bug is a member of one particular family of insects, the Hemiptera, which includes over 55,000 known species and over 4,000 from North America alone. Most of them feed on plants, and have well-developed piercing and sucking mouth parts which are characteristic. Not all bugs have wings but if they do the wings overlap when they are folded to form a letter X on the back. Popularly, the term "bug" is used to include all insects, and even spiders and other animals which are not insects at all.

Q. How can I waterproof a poster which is to be outside for a considerable time?

A. A simple means is to use a solution of white shellac, which is brushed on the poster and allowed to dry. Also sprayed lacquer bombs are now available in hardware and department stores. With one of these you could spray a transparent lacquer on the poster, and when it dried it would give a waterproof finish.

Q: Do the stars move?

A: Yes, but they are so far away that it takes many years before these motions are easily apparent. The stars have what are called proper motions," which are across the sky, and cause a radical change in our constellation figures over the ages. For example, fifty thousand years from now our familiar Great Dipper will have a very different shape. Also, the stars may be moving towards us or away from us. Both these movements can be measured by astronomers and then the real motion of a star in space can be found.

Q. How far does the light of a candle extend, that is, enough to see an object in otherwise complete darkness, and how far does the light of the Sun extend?

A. This cannot be answered very exactly, since the sensitivity of the eye varies so greatly. However, when fully dark adapted, the eye may just perceive objects with an illumination of a millionth of a foot candle. This would be given by a standard candle at about 1,000 feet, and by the Sun at 12,000,000,000,000 miles, which is about half the distance to the nearest star. The illumination in a well-lighted room may be about 50 foot candles, and that out of doors at noon on a summer day about 10,000 foot candles.

Q. How often is a baby born in the United States, and in the world?

A. According to the Population Reference Bureau, a baby is born in the United States, on the average, every 8.5 seconds. This is based on estimates made for 1952 by the National Office of Vital Statistics. Figures for the entire world are less certain, but the latest international statistics available, compiled by the United Nations, indicate that one birth occurs every second, somewhere on the Earth.

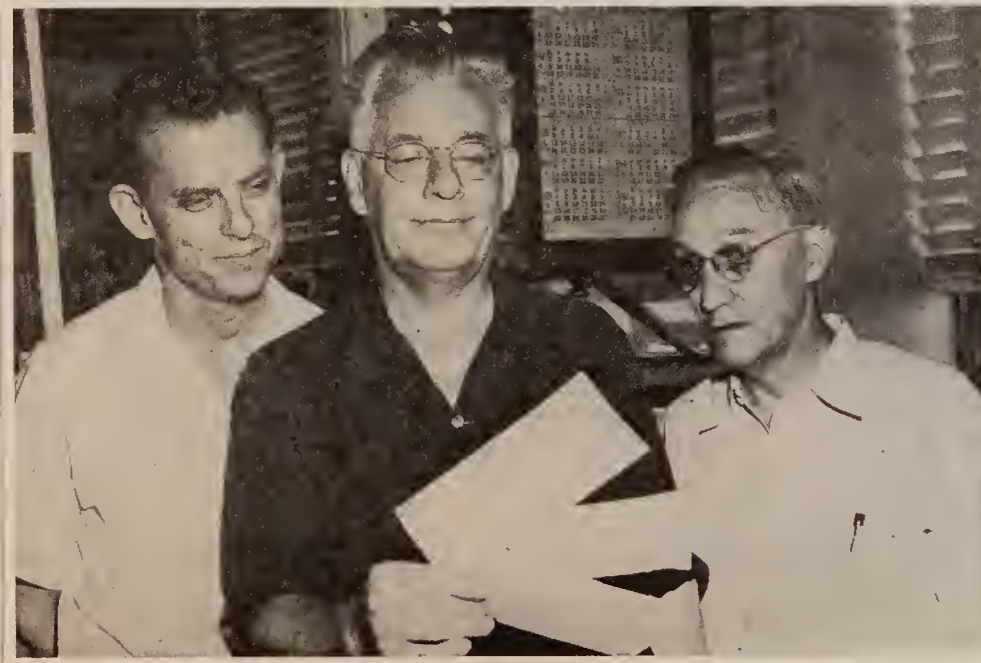

Q. How can I remove the hard deposit that forms inside a tea-kettle?

A. Such a deposit usually consists of salts of calcium or magnesium, which are soluble in acids. A fairly safe method of removal is to put some vinegar (which is a mild acid) in the kettle, and let it stand for several hours. This tends to loosen the deposit, which can be removed by thorough washing and rubbing. Use of one of the stronger acids involves some hazard, and also may cause damage to the kettle itself.

Q. What are "rare earths"?

A. These are chemical elements of numbers 57 to 71 in the list of elements. Actually they are not very rare, but because of their chemical similarity it has been very difficult to separate them from each other. As a result, their production and study has been rather limited. The series includes lanthanum, cerium (used as a "flint" in cigarette lighters), praseodymium, neodymium, samarium, europium, gadolinium, terbium, dysprosium, holmium, erbium, thulium, ytterbium and lutetium.

THREE AWARDS TOTAL $215—Morris Peters (center) received awards for three suggestions totaling $215. His largest award for $150 was for a change in the method of testing motors. Lester Hubbart (left) and Frank Brindle offer him congratulations. Mr. Peters is a leading operator in Bldg. 4-3.

Now that all of the GE golf leagues have finished their seasons, with the exception of the Owl group, we will revert back to type and cover that activity.

The pre-vacation Owl action was one filled with surprise and torrid golf. Birdies and pars were a dime a dozen.

Cagy orn Foulks of the Eagles bettered par in carding a 35. Paul Billman, Johnny Stark, Jimmy Sternberger, Lloyd Grider, and Ray Stanger all came in with 38's.

Ray Stanger, the ex-Foster Park caddie, fired a neat 38 in his first league action of the year, and only his second nine since an operation. He just couldn't make any mistakes.

Of the 15 lads who met in league play (one match was forfeit), seven birdied the last hole, No. 18. In one foursome, of Penkul, Foulks, Stark, and Stauffer, all bettered par on No. 18.

The Eagles were nestled in the cat bird seat with a comfortable margin just two sessions ago, but took two in a row on the chin—first from the Pars by 10 points, and then by the Birds, by five, and now they are in third spot.

The Champs took over first place vacated by the Eagles by beating Mo Runyon's Bogeys by seven tallies. Sternberger and Grider were the big assault guns in the attack with 38's. Stanger paced the bogeys with his 38.

Bud Hower's Pars moved into second spot with an arm chair 10 point forfeit win.

The Owls doff their hats to Warren Wicklife and Paul Billman, who won the right to play for the GE entry in the Midwest Industrial Golf Tourney. Two out of four—not bad—not bad at all.

Herb Franke can't see how it could have been so dry here when at his cottage, forty miles away, it rained eight straight days. . . . Mark and Mrs. Brindle drove through Illinois and Wisconsin, and brought home his 10-year-old niece, Judy, for several days. . . . Bessie Potts went fishing and didn't catch many fish. She did bring back a beautiful ton. . . . Lola Whitacre, Alfrieda Lambie, her husband and mother, enjoyed a 3,000-mile trip through the southwestern states. Alfrieda's mother, who is 84 years young, was the best traveler. . . . Jean France has always wanted to raise birds, but after playing "nurse maid" for about 50 canaries and 12 parakeets last week, she has changed her mind. . . . Helen Tescula enjoyed a 15-day Vanderbuilt tour. She enjoyed every bit of it but was most thrilled with Canada. . . . Ruth Michelfelder and her husband saw Niagara Falls. . . . The biggest fish story came from Ted Heath. He reports the people at Somerset, Ky., don't swim. The fish in the lakes are so large the people are afraid of them. . . . We are happy to report, as yet, we have not heard of any of our people having their vacation spoiled by an accident.

GE Pony League Wins Final Game From Transport

Winding up their 1953 season, GE's PONY League won their final game from Transport Motors by a score of 11 to 3 on August 3. The win brought their season average to 8 wins and 8 losses.

The boys of GE executed two double plays in the final game which saw scoring limited to two innings. The victors scored four runs in the second inning and held the TM team to three runs in the fifth while they romped over home plate seven times in the same inning. Stager was the winning pitcher and Lang the catcher. Line score for GE was 11 runs, 13 hits, and no errors. TM had 3 runs, 5 hits, and no errors. Stager was winning pitcher and Lang the catcher.

The first half of season play in the North Division saw GE win 4 games and lose 5 while they came back in the second half to drop three while winning 4 games.

Playoffs between the north and south divisions gets under way this week and matched GE against Security Cartage of the South Division Wednesday evening.

PICK-UPS from 26-3

Congratulations to Patsy Ann Garee, who was married to Donald Dennis at the St. Patrick's church on July 28. Pat and Don honeymooned for a week in Florida. They will reside at 908 Rockhill. . . . The marriage bug must've bit hard during vacation. Dave Gilbert wound up in chains, too. May all of your troubles be (the pitter-patter of a) small one's (feet). Good luck. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Reising, and their little daughter Kathy, vacationed at Crooked Lake their first week and Lake Gage the second. Joe was attempting to make the rounds to get the "feel" of his new car that he purchased before vacation. . . . Jack Joseph and Clarence Penick had a very enjoyable and relaxing vacation. Jack spent his two weeks training with the 9th Rifle Co., M.C.R. Clarence trained with the National Guard for two weeks. . . . Welcome back to Darrence Overmeyer, who has been off for some time recuperating from a hernia operation. . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Key took their three children to see the wonders of the Toledo Zoo during vacation. . . . I received a letter from Bob Thomas, who is now stationed at the Fuchser Ordnance Depot in the Far East. Bob would like to let everyone know that he is the proud father of a baby daughter, Debra Ann. Debra was born July 8th and she weighed 8 pounds and 4 ounces. Bob is a mail clerk and there is one thing he misses and that is mail for himself. So, if you get time, write to Bob. I am very sure he would appreciate it. If you want his address contact me or the GE NEWS office.

SHIPPING: Helen Elbert is on vacation this week, spending part of it in Warsaw visiting her new granddaughter. . . . They usually return to work with a big fish story. Not Dutch Wilson, he came to work and told about catching a real big turtle. . . . What's this we hear about Ed David building a shower at his lake cottage. . . .

TELEGRAPH: While visiting in Rockford, Ill. over the week-end, our newest addition to the Telegraph Section, Joan Rausener, acquired a beautiful diamond. When is the big important day? . . . Cholene Anderson is back at work after a big vacation including a trip to Pike's Peak. . . . Mary Ann Laurent spent one week of vacation "just resting." . . . Tootie Durnell is really keeping the Armed Services from getting lonesome. She spent one week-end visiting Tom in the Navy and next week-end visiting her brother Glen in the Army. . . . We wonder where Lucy Werling is planning to go? She bought a new lavender bathing suit. . . . MAILING: Frank Goetz took a 2,000-mile auto trip west to the Mississippi River in Iowa and north along the river to St. Paul, from this city to International Falls, Minn. In Minnesota he visited the Iron Ore Mine, in Hibbing, Minn., which is over 400 feet deep and covers 1,300 acres—the biggest hole man ever dug. . . . Fred Kramer left us last Friday to go to New York to school.

Little Leaguers Drop 2, Win 1

July 24, at 6 p.m., at Hamilton Park, the crowd witnessed another of those ding-dong battles between the GE and Patterson Fletcher Little League teams. In the first inning it looked like the GE little men were off to a win. D. Schenher came through with a hit to left field. P. Schuman hit a home run over the right field fence, driving Schenher home ahead of him. Roesner scored on two over-throws and the inning closed with GE leading by three runs.

However, at this point, D. Lewis was brought in to pitch for Patterson Fletcher. The tide turned. Collins was hit by a pitched ball and Schenher got a hit to center field, driving in Collins to score. In the third inning, Schuman got a solid double to the center field fence, but failed to score. Snyder pitched for GE and did a splendid job of holding them to five hits.

GE	4 4 4
PF	5 5 2

Pitcher for GE, Snyder; catcher, Collins, Hoppe.
Pitcher for PF, Lewis; catcher, Shoppe.

On August 2, the GE Little Leaguers met the Allen Dairy team at the Park.
At the end of the third inning the score was 1 and 1. However, in the 4th and 5th innings the team collected 6 hits and scored 6 runs to end the game by winning 7 to 2.

SUB-SECTION 14 TAYLOR ST.

Section 14 was really buzzing Monday morning with everyone saying hello and what did you do on your vacation? Here are the names and doings of a few: Carl Fuller went to Michigan and visited the locks at Sault Ste. Marie. . . . Gene Ralston and Robert Al- been went to National Guard camp at Grayling, Mich. . . . Paul Hitz- man went to Washington, D. C. . . . Dick Nix went to Toledo. . . . Theron Kitchen, Buck Sessler, Herb Lindenberg, Hugh Neely, An- sel Beck, Connie Standish, and Walt Niemeyer all went to Cana- da but not in the same car. Walt got to see all the five Great Lakes. . . . Joseph Robinson went to Cana- da, too, and came home via the New England States and saw Ni- agara Falls on the return trip. . . . Lou Ann Beauchamp says she was in Canada and got a peek at the Falls. . . . Margaret Cowan went to South Dakota. . . . Bill Lavine spent his vacation at Jimmerson Lake and Fred Harris (who lives at Portland) walked downtown to the races once. . . . Bernice Frick went to Hamilton Lake, Rosella Koons "jumped around from here to there," and June Spillner spent her time scouting around in Ohio. . . . Lowell Arnold fished at Lake George; R. Bobay went to Ridin- ger; Mike Brayer went to Irish Lake; R. Frey went to Pretty Lake, and got "plenty" of fish; John Burnett loafed and got tan at Pretty Lake; Milt Marks vis- ited the Indiana Dunes State Park; Jerry Uhl went to Lake Gage; Clarence Weist went to Wisconsin to fish and the biggest one got away with his bait and line; Polly Line went fishing in Minnesota; Theron Kitchen putted a few win- dows and took off for Michigan; Dick Gottschall went on his honey- moon (lucky boy); Kathryn Erwin went to Ohio; Bill Ward and Abe Oyer went to Florida. Abe says he spent quite a lot of time on the beach but didn't look at any of the girls! Willie Rathert is still down there enjoying three weeks in the Sunshine State. . . . Robert Alley went to Michigan and Wis- consin; Bill Weber went to Texas; Bill Householder went to Califor- nia. So did Dorothy Money and she is still there enjoying her third week. . . . A lot of smart folks just stayed home and took life easy. Some of them are Mary En- sleigh, Erwin Korte, Henry Carnall, Earl Greenlee, and Paul Smith. . . . Then there're always a few who have a bit of a rough time. Bob Till wrecked his car going to a fire (he's a volunteer fireman in Washington Twp.); Herb Tons was building a new bathroom at his cottage at Lake Gage. A hammer fell down, hitting Herb on the head and it took six stitches to close the wound. . . . Otto Dobler started on his trip and broke out with a rash on his hands and arms. Had to return home. Ralph Fish- back spent most of his vacation in the hospital at Ann Arbor and was unable to come to work Mon- day. We sure feel sorry about these unfortunate incidents and sin- cerely hope all concerned have bet- ter luck real soon. . . . When we asked A. A. Ralston where he went on his vacation he fell right over, chair and all, and said "No comment." Never had anyone fall so hard for me before. . . . With the exception of a few short trips, the Walter Holloway's, Herb Kel- lermeier's, George Angel's, and the Elmer Jockel's rested quietly at their lake cottages while the Carl Miller's, Everett Mullen's and Fred Harris' traveled extensively through the western and northern states. The rest of the high bay area men remained at home, en- joying a well-deserved rest.

The Florida travelers report a fine trip but car trouble. Beth Jacobs, who ventured as far as Cuba, reported some car trouble but also met some very fine peo- ple who were willing to help three ladies in distress. . . . Bob Moss- hammer visited Clearwater and had a wonderful time, except for a broken oil line while coming home. . . . Something new has been added to the production unit. Loide Luebke is wearing a dia- mond on that important ring fin- ger. . . . Wilbur Lane was looking good on his recent visit here and we hope he will be back working soon. . . . Charley Bracht took time to send me a card from Mack- inac Island where he vacationed. It was a picture of the Grand Hotel —hmm—I wonder where he pitched his tent. . . . Phyllis, Lou- ise, and Virginia report that their vacation in Washington, D. C. was wonderful in spite of hot weather. Virginia was disappointed because she didn't get to meet a senator, but she did enjoy riding in those Washington taxi cabs. Wanting to go out for dinner she left the ho- tel, hailed a cab and after a twenty minute ride arrived at her destination. After dinner, however, she decided to walk back. Her hotel was only two blocks away! . . . Walt Hazelet was so anxious to go on his vacation that he was obeying his subconscious impulse and preparing to close things up two days early. . . . Eldon Mee was certainly the most traveled fellow in our division, going nearly 7,000 miles in three weeks. First he went to Los Angeles for his son's wedding and then visited Texas, Mexico, Washington, and Yellowstone Park before coming home. . . . Bob Truelove, our old New York Yankee fan from way back, journeyed up to Detroit dur- ing vacation to see his beloved Bronx Bombers slaughter the Tig- ers. . . . All that moaning and groaning in the southwest corner of Bldg. 19-4 was Woody Hursh telling about the damage that heavy hail stones and rain storm did to his beautiful tomato and pickle patch. In fact he thinks President Ike ought to declare it a disaster area. . . . Joe Mettler and Swede Mosser were so far north in the wilds of Michigan fishing that Swede got lost and wandered into a neighbor's cot- tage by mistake, much to the con- fusion of the neighbor ladies and his own embarrassment. . . . One way to spend your vacation was executed by Hank Frey. He was seen chopping away on a defense- less tree. . . . Hank Whither, our railroad man, rode the local to Huntington and hitch-hiked back. . . . Elmer Sauerwein claims he almost lost Mart Walsh in the deep forest of Northern Michigan. Mart insisted he wasn't lost—just stuck in some sand and besides, the fish- ing was lousy in the puddle that Elmer took him to. . . . Leo Schlaudroff tells us his speedom- eter isn't giving him correct read- ings these days—that's why he made the court news last week.

Ron Blodgett

. . . Ron Blodgett, the boy with the mustache, wanted to celebrate Bourbon's Centennial. You can imagine how much celebrating his newly acquired wife has been do- ing. It's a reluctant bride who walks down Fort Wayne streets with Ron, so we snapped this pic- ture before she clipped him. . . . Congratulations to Bob Roy and wife on the arrival of a new baby boy, and to the Bob Palmer fam- ily for a baby girl. . . . Keith Jamison's empty canary cage is plenty full now—his son won two little ducks.

FLASH! Our vacation was put to very good use, for upon our re- turn, we found Hilda Wolfe very proudly displaying a beautiful dia- mond (which really didn't surprise us). Now that her name has been stricken from the available list, we extend our congratulations and very best wishes. . . . One thing we can say about Don Baker—he isn't afraid of work. In fact he will lie right down beside it and go to sleep. We have it on good authority that on becoming bored with work on his new house, he proceeded to buy a reclining chair, stretch out in it, and go sound asleep. . . . All the talk about pre- cautions must have gone over Ray Hoelle's head, for during the first week of vacation he slipped in his bathtub and bruised four ribs, then rushed out and bought a rubber mat to put in the tub. That's a case of locking the barn after the horse is stolen. . . . For a study in utter relaxation, ask Ed Klomp to show you the snapshot taken at the going away party for Gil Sloan. That, brother, is really liv- ing. . . . Ray Pfueger was very fortunate on his trip through Wis- consin, for he didn't damage his "Beautiful Bel-Airc" or his "little jewel," although the latter did re- ceive some bruises. . . . Because Mrs. Seymour injured three ribs on their fishing excursion, the boys accused Cy of trying to get rid of her. But Cy says not when he has someone who baits his hook, pulls the fish in, and takes them off the hook. In other words, Cy doesn't believe in working at all on a vacation. . . . Larry Reed is still looking for the culprits who called him out of bed when he was tak- ing his third vacation week. He should have known better and left the phone off the hook. . . . Day- light must be attractive for an- other night owl, Charlie Hunt. He has joined our sunshine group. . . . QUOTATION FOR THE WEEK: "A married woman is as old as her husband makes her feel."

A Pleasant Bunch of Tourists

European reaction to the Elex Club "ambassadors" of good will who just returned from Europe is enough to make every American beam proudly. How the Europeans felt about our GE women touring their countries is reflected in a report from a London correspondent to the Newark, N. J., Star-Ledger.

"Europe is now shaking hands with the easiest-to-please and pleasantest bunch of American tourists to hit these shores since the steamboat was invented.

"Hailing largely from Fort Wayne, Ind., and composed mostly of girls who work for General Electric there, the 144-person group that hit London recently was a refreshing sight.

"They were all happy about everything they did, saw, heard, or ate.

"Unlike most tourists who make a continental tour, they had tried hard to learn a few words of the foreign languages they might need.

"They also had studied maps of London, Amsterdam, Cologne, Wiesbaden, Lucerne, Milan, Rome, Paris and the Riviera region, which were included in the trip.

"They looked trim and fresh and far removed from the European's idea of the 'proletariat' when they began to circulate the British capital.

"They were nicely dressed according to any standard and the questions they asked were intelligent. . . ."

Congratulations, gals, we're all proud of our ambassadors. Certainly, your smiles, your enthusiasm, and your good humor were a tribute to your country.

Why Records?

For years your company has maintained records—production, cost, time, wage, tax, etc. It is all a necessary part of business—to know our position in a competitive market. We wonder how many employees keep records, that is, records of facts and figures that will show their position and worth in dollars and cents.

Recently we talked with C. H. Luecke, who is manager of the social security office in Fort Wayne. He serves this company and others in the area on matters that pertain to your Federal retirement and survivors insurance. Mr. Luecke remarked on the record keeping of the Social Security Administration. They're the folks who handle the largest bookkeeping operation in the world. They maintain more than 100 million accounts. Your account is in there too, and that's why records are important to you.

On the basis of our own experience, we're recommending that you start this record habit, because you never know when you might need some information about your personal work and earnings. For instance, do you have your social security card? Where is it? Does your family know where to find it and other papers in case you leave this world suddenly? Of course, we hope you live to a ripe old age and enjoy life after retirement. Tied in with GE's company pension plan, you'll get social security insurance payments. The Social Security Administration is going to ask for your social security card and some other records, too, when you retire and apply for monthly old-age payments.

Are you sure all of your wages have been correctly reported to your social security account, not only by us, but by any other firm you have worked for? When was the last time you checked up? This social security man is a pretty helpful fellow. He tells us they have a post card form you can send in to get a record of all your work for the past 16 years. There is no charge for the service either.

Since social security payments are geared to your earnings in work that counts toward old-age and survivors insurance, it is a good idea to make sure that all of your wages have been posted to your account. And if you find everything in order, that should make you feel better. That will be better for us too, because when you feel good, we're all ahead. Tell your family about this record business too.

Dear Mrs. Bennett:

For a long time your delicious baking has formed the background for some very enjoyable "tomfoolery" among the group where your Harry has been employed.

Seldom a day has passed, when one of the group hasn't "swiped" the cookies and other delicacies you have placed in Harry's lunch! Of course he NEVER caught the culprit, nor did any of the guilty ones "squeal" on another—but it has been a foregone conclusion that Harry wasn't to eat those goodies!

Perhaps this sort of thing sounds childish when you try to explain or write about it, but

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. WILLIAMS

Joseph Orbin to Supervise Hermetic Employee Relations

The appointment of Joseph P. Orbin as supervisor of employee relations in Hermetic Motor's Fort Wayne manufacturing sub-section has been announced by Eldon J. Vosburgh, superintendent of the sub-section.

In 1950, Mr. Orbin joined the company and became a labor relations trainee in the GE affiliated manufacturing companies organization. He transferred to the Locke Department, Baltimore, that same year and was named a foreman in the glaze and dry press section.

Mr. Orbin went on special assignment in wage rate in the same location in March, 1952. In May, he was appointed general foreman of the assembly section at Baltimore and had this position until October. At that time, he transferred to Fort Wayne and joined the labor relations staff as a negotiator. This was his position until his present appointment.

An Indiana University graduate, Mr. Orbin received his B.S. degree in industrial relations in June, 1950. A member of the U. S. Air Force from 1944 until 1946, Mr. Orbin served in 33 countries. He

SHIPPING: Edna Turnbaugh and Evelyn Mayfield spent Thursday evening attending the Daisy ball game. . . . Marie Dunn and her husband are spending the next two weeks vacationing either in the southeast or southwest. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Martha Newell, who celebrated her birthday last week. . . . Congratulations also to Peggy Ford, who celebrated hers yesterday, and to Carol Thurber next Thursday. . . . MAILING: Wesley Grover spent his vacation in New York City. Clint Sorenson went to New York and Wisconsin. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Tony Settini. . . . Gary Kuhn visited the mailing department while on leave from the Air Force. He is stationed in Texas. . . . Eddie Blotkamp and family spent their vacation in Canada.

2-2 TALES

Belle Buchan

Ho! Hum! Everyone is trying to rest up from vacation. Wally McKay needed an extra day to catch up. . . . Fred Fenner is happy to have his daughter, Marguerite, back from Europe. After the girls were delayed in France, Fred was afraid that he was going to have to learn French. And for Freddie, with his Dutch-English, that would be hard to do. . . . When Joan Murphy drinks a coke, she does it the hard way; while falling downstairs. . . . Clara Theisman Pray was in to say hello, and to tell us that she is living in the country trying to raise all sorts of things, including her cute little daughter. . . . Bob Turschman feels pretty frisky since vacation. He goes around rolling up his sleeves, trying to find a sparring partner. . . . This week we say welcome to three girls in the time clerk section. They are Iris Hiles, Joyce Ahner, and Donna Guiff. . . . Also this week we say good-bye to Helen Papiez, who has a full time job making a layette for her first little tax exemption.

DEATH TRAPS: It could happen to one of ours—the recent tragedies where children trapped themselves inside of discarded refrigerators should make everyone of us vigilant so that such a tragedy doesn't occur in any of our neighborhoods. . . . One of our biggest men had a larger than usual chest measurement last week. Ed Schafenacker's first grandson arrived. . . . Another of our big men, Norm Jackemeyer, felt mighty low after the fan went through the radiator of his 1923 Dodge truck. Norm claims that you just can't depend on anything anymore. . . . Harold Cutler would have had a better vacation if his dog hadn't chased and caught a friendly skunk just outside his cottage door. . . . Elmer Fuhrman had a bee sting him on the upper lip, but guess what part became swollen. His eyes were completely closed. . . . Jack Schemehorn's red, white, and black checkered hobby jeans felt mighty comfortable on his trip down south. One Florida native passed him, turned around and said, "Man, see those crazy pants!" . . . DIE PLANT: A hearty welcome to Stanley Reidenbach and Richard Reisinger. . . . Gus Ausderan finally has a modern car. It's a Nash with all the windows intact. . . . It was a return of childhood memories when Ed Stahl, Chet Rennecker, and Bob Sowards took part in the threshing machine demonstration last week-end. . . . Mrs. Ed Bashop failed to enjoy the Blue Ridge Mountain Tunnel. The low clouds filled the tunnel and when they emerged Ed was driving on the wrong side of the road. . . . Stewart Bohrer's smile comes from one thing—a new grandson. . . . While Chet Reynolds slept on their first day of camping at a north Michigan river, John Stetler went out and caught a four-pound trout. He wouldn't tell Chet where or how he caught it and Chet spent two weeks trying to duplicate the catch. . . . Seeing a huge amount of bubbles at the threshing machine show, Russell Sage ran to get his camera. It was only a man blowing bubbles. . . . After landing 29 big dog fish, Maury Sordelet was approached by a man who was slightly inebriated and wanted to know where to catch some bass. Maury pointed out a place, and made the tipsy boy happy by giving him six of the big ones he had caught. . . . Max Baron likes gifts so was especially pleased to receive a gift package containing two beautiful fox tails. He credits Ralph "Daniel Boone" Foust for the gift but wants future donors to know that he also likes to eat squirrel. . . . Estel Kester can be plenty proud of Jimmy, his 10-year-old son. He won first prize awards with his lambs, steer, and chickens, at the 4-H Fair. We congratulate you, Jimmy.

Jim Zehendner had a smashing blow to his ego during vacation when he ordered his dinner in French and the waiter brought him a cheese omelet! . . . We want to congratulate Carl Warford on finally hitting his wastebasket with his empty coke cup. He's been trying to hit it for months. . . . Jackie Keller has entered her tomatoes in the Allen County 4-H Fair. She swears they are the reddest and the most bouncing of any grown in the county this year. Her chief assistant was Thelma Purdue, who watched over them while Jackie was on vacation. . . . "Just call me Wrongway Corrigan," says W. Richardson. Walt was supposed to meet his wife at the Lindley gate and he ended up at the Fairfield entrance. . . . Belated greetings to Fred Sarasion. He claims he is only 39. How many more shall we add to that? . . . Gee, doesn't Hazel Leonard look chipper? Glad to see her back. . . . We wish to extend our sympathy to Roxanna Miller. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Harold Ely, Bldg. 6-3 office, who celebrated his birthday August 118. . . . Mr. Konow returned Monday from Florida where he was vacationing. . . . Perry O'Neil spent his three-week vacation in San Diego, Calif.

Apprentice Alumni Discloses Autumn Program of Events

Events for the remainder of the Apprentice Alumni Association year were announced this week by John Leffers, publicity chairman. Starting off the autumn season, a stag will be staged Wednesday, September 2, at Voigt's Retreat.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the meeting will include lunch and refreshments, entertainment, sporting events, and attendance prizes. Tickets are $1.50 per person and may be secured from any of the contact men or at the door the day of the event.

Assisting with the program are Dick Burns and Marc Junk. Other activities lined up in coming months include a tour of the Studebaker plant in South Bend in October and a Halloween square dance the same month.

The fall hanquet has been set up for November and election of officers will be held at the same time as the hanquet.

FIVE GET POSTS IN SIM MARKETING

Five appointments in Small Integral Motor Department's marketing section have been announced by L. Dean Fowler, manager of marketing. Clyde G. Grant has been named manager of product planning and marketing research. Sherwood B. Gaylord has been appointed sales manager-agent of distributor and user sales. William G. Lee, Jr. has been named sales manager-equipment, manufacturers and internal sales.

Frederick E. Junker has been appointed supervisor of marketing administrative services. Edgar B. O'Hara has been named supervisor of advertising and sales promotion. The appointments are in five new units established by Mr. Fowler.

In 1946, Mr. Grant became a General Electric employee and entered the test engineers course. Later, he went into medium induction motors as a proposition engineer. After two and one-half years of training in this division and on a sales course, he transferred to Portland, Oregon as a sales engineer. This was his position prior to his present assignment.

Graduating from Washington State College in 1941, Mr. Grant received his B.S. degree in electrical engineering. He served four and one-half years in the U.S. Army. Mr. and Mrs. Grant have one child.

Mr. Gaylord joined the company in 1937 and entered the test engineers program at that time in Schenectady. The following year he entered the lighting division in sales engineering. In 1941 he moved to the agency and distributor division and later was manager of agency sales.

In 1951, Mr. Gaylord transferred to the Detroit office as a sales engineer. In addition to this position, he was district educational authority. This was his location at the time of his present appointment.

A University of Nebraska graduate, Mr. Gaylord received his B.S. degree in 1935 in electrical engineering. The Gaylords have one daughter and reside at 4835 Fairfield Ave.

Mr. Lee joined GE in 1925 and entered the test course at Schenectady. The following year he went on a sales training course. In January, 1927, he went to Philadelphia as a traction horsepower motor specialist.

In 1929, Mr. Lee transferred to the San Francisco office where he was FHP motor specialist. He was named sales engineer in the Oakland office in December, 1948 and had this position until his present appointment.

A graduate of Stanford University, Mr. Lee received his AB degree in June, 1925. He served as president of the San Francisco Quarter Century Club in 1951-52.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee have two daughters and one son.

Mr. Junker entered the test engineers program when he came to the Company in 1937. He had assignments in Erie, Schenectady, Pittsfield, and Lynn. In 1939, he entered the Motor Engineering Division at Lynn River Works.

After entering sales at Lynn in 1941, Mr. Junker was placed in charge of AC general purpose and special purpose motors, handling customers in the machine tool industry, pump and compressor as well as those making material handling equipment. He had this position until the present assignment.

In 1937, Mr. Junker received his B.S. degree in electrical engineering from Rutgers University. He is a member of an honorary engineering society. The Junkers have two boys and one girl.

Mr. O'Hara entered General Electric employ in 1946. He became a project supervisor of visual education in Apparatus advertising and sales promotion in Schenectady. He held this position at the time of his present appointment.

In 1939, Mr. O'Hara graduated

Survey Reveals That Office Workers Should Observe All Safety Practices

The other day a secretary jumped up from her desk, tripped over an open drawer—and plunged headfirst to the floor. Result: Broken arm.

Another dropped a dictionary on her toe. In rushing downstairs to the rest room to tend her wound, she caught her heel in her skirt. Result: broken leg.

A third young woman tried to "fix" a machine which stuffs bills in envelopes. When she accidentally hit the "start" button, the gears sprang into action. Result: gashed finger.

All this, according to a national survey, proves that white-collar workers are getting banged up on the job at an alarming rate.

Safety officials worry about high heels, dangling cords—and secretaries in a hurry to get to lunch as much as they are used to worry about unguarded machines in factories before safety campaigns made industrial jobs safe.

There is an imposing list of case histories to back up an appeal for more caution in offices.

For instance, there was the pretty teen age clerk who took one last look at herself in the mirror as she headed out of the locker room. Looking sideways, she did not note the open locker door ahead. Boom! A knee out of kilter for keeps.

Not all the injuries involve women.

Joe R. was holding a telephone in one hand, a sharp pencil in the other. The phone slipped. Joe made a grab, punctured a palm which later became infected. One employee strained his side lifting a sack of coins. Dangling telephone cords have tripped up more than one boss.

It's fairly routine for office workers to knock typewriters over onto their toes, stick their fingers in electric fans and jab themselves with letter openers.

The only way to remedy the situation is to watch yourself and the other fellow, too. If you see anyone about to get into a dangerous situation—warn him in time!

Two Transformer Men Attend GE Seminar

C. E. Derbyshire and H. E. Lantz, Bldg. 26-2, attended a value analysis seminar for engineers and designers at Schenectady July 21 and 22. More than 100 engineers and designers attended the meeting which was conducted at the Edison Club. The purpose of value analysis is to reduce the cost of the product and to obtain the best value for each dollar spent.

Mr. Derbyshire is a design engineer in Specialty Transformer Department and Mr. Lantz is a design draftsman in the same department.

New Partizan Slate

Martha Zehender was elected president of Partizan Chapter of Elex Club at the group's August 18 meeting. Other newly elected officers for the 1953-54 year are Nora Coburn, vice president; Luella Tarnon, secretary and Bea Helms, treasurer.

The new officers will be installed in September and assume their duties at that time.

Charlie Castle says it isn't a vacation to go on a fishing trip with Ralph Garrett. On their recent little exploit in Wisconsin Charlie had to do the driving, catch the fish, do the cooking, housecleaning, and even had to comb Ralph's hair for church on Sunday morning. While driving on several occasions when Ralph's ancient legs got a charley horse, Castle had to stop the car while Ralph got out and ran up and down the berm. Ralph said Castle got quite a scare up there one day. While out fishing he noticed a fellow across the lake watching him through a big pair of binoculars (Ralph calls them minopolers) and he thought it was a game warden. His fears were unfounded though, for it was a photographer from some wildlife magazine taking pictures of him. Maybe he heard how Castle bites the little fish in two before he throws them back. So watch your favorite outdoor magazine, folks, for pictures of our hero. . . . I bought a second hand Hudson before vacation, of which I am pretty proud, and I was figuring on doing a little boasting right about here. But since vacation I find that Charlie Castle has a brand new Bel-Aire Chevrolet, Dick Bodkins has a new Olds 88, and Mildred Messer has one of those new European Studebakers. Gosh! . . . Pappy Wright's wife has a pet name for him. It's Perry Gene! . . . Art Druce, foreman in Bldg. 19-1 paint shop, is well loved by his employees. They are always bringing him gifts to show their affection. Art got on the bus the other night with a peck of pickles. "Aren't they beautiful?" says Art, jamming one under the nose of the woman sitting next to him. They were a gift from Honest Red Sutter. . . . Those new milk machines that were installed during the shutdown are surely swell, and everybody is getting more than their minimum daily requirement of milk now. But like everything else, they are not perfect. Those little paper cartons with the pin hole on the side are the hardest things to drink out of without straws that I ever saw. After drinking a bottle of milk a fellow looks like he had been blowing up hot water bottles.

but also the negatives. The girls all make this request, "Whoever found the envelope, please—yes, pretty please, return it without looking at the pictures." . . . SMART! Not to be outdone by Kayser, Dalman, and Stouder, our friend Pappy Archbold adds his contribution to our wise sayings. His gem—"The Great Divide is Uncle Sam, 75; me, 25."

We welcome back Donna Smith and Mary Cueller, who have been on sick leave. . . . Congratulations to Walter Koehlinger and wife. They are blessed with a bouncing baby girl. . . . Edith DeMuth reports a fine trip to Colorado. She saw many lovely sights. . . . The lonesome look on Helen Merren's face is because her husband is now with Uncle Sam. He is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. . . . Kathy Traugher celebrated a birthday on August 13. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Mae Diel. Mae wishes to thank her co-workers for the beautiful flowers she received while in the hospital. . . . Bob Huhn says he won't be quite so smart now. He had a wisdom tooth pulled. . . . Margaret Turney and husband had a fine time in Chicago seeing ball games and taking in the night life. . . . Lora Schroeder had a wonderful vacation. She attended her nephew's wedding in southern Alabama. Then flew back to Chicago to meet friends and drive to Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., for a week. Lora saw some beautiful, as well as some desolate, country en route. Lora flew home tired but happy. There were many interesting things to do and see in Portland and surrounding country. Mt. Hood and other snow-capped peaks were in the background. . . . Congratulations to Johnny Craighead on the birth of a baby boy. . . . The 51 frame wishes Dale Brown the best of luck as he goes on a day job. . . . Dorothy Hart had a birthday Tuesday. . . . The 51 frame assembly wishes Thelma Harrison and her mother a speedy recovery from their accident.

The Apprentice School has grown by leaps and bounds. Our enrollment is up to 116. We would like to welcome three new machinist-toolmakers: Gene Seider, Charles Beitel, and Richard Goshorn. . . . We also welcome two MT's who are in the school on assignment: Bob Kapske and Jack (Little Dusty) Faulkes. . . . Last week we thought we had congratulated all our newlyweds but found out we missed two couples. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Creason and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fields. . . . Bob Rietdorf is the "Boy of the Week" and should get the yellow ribbon. It was just one of those weeks that nothing goes right. Bob was helping Ron Davis pour coolant in a grinder, but was watching the wrong tank level. On the other side of the machine the coolant was pouring over Ron's feet. Bob is also a new member of the Boat Anchor Club. . . . Harold Wilkerson is happy that he got his car back and from what I hear, so is his brother, since Harold was using his car. . . . Duke Doepke sure has a hard time keeping track of his lunch lately. Last Thursday he bought his lunch and later in the afternoon found his lunch paid. . . . We are sorry to hear that Dick Neher had to have another operation on his knee and hope he will be back with us soon. . . . Frank Houlihan is a proud owner of a big car, but I guess it was just too big for him. Somehow one of those little Chevys got in front of him, and bang! . . . Ron Davis got himself another "hot rod" and this one has really got it.

Inquiring Reporter:

ARE YOU IN FAVOR OF THE PROPOSED U.S. PLAN TO INCREASE AID TO FRANCE IN COMBATING COMMUNISM?

NELLIE M. WIGGINS

Taylor St.

"No. I am not in favor of greatly increasing aid to France. I think that we should increase our efforts on combating Communism in our own country before it gets out of control."

ROBERT P. SLAGAL

Bldg. 19-3

"I believe in aiding France to fight Communism, but the aid should be given by the United States buying more French goods."

RICHARD F. SCHULTS

Bldg. 20-2

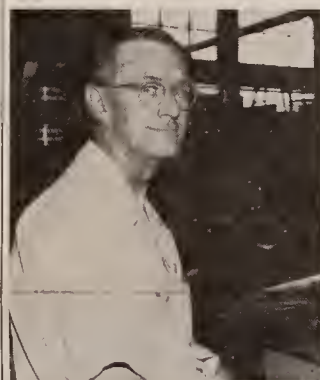

"This money would be very wisely invested. We cannot honestly expect the French people to appreciate fully our cause and intentions when we are being libeled by the most vicious and deadly propaganda machine the world has ever known, if we don't present them with the actual facts."

LLOYD L. RUNYON

Bldg. 17-4

"Yes, I believe we should increase aid to France as much as we can. We must keep our freedom of religion, speech, and democracy at all costs. Money means nothing if we lose these things."

DORIS A. DOEHRMAN

Bldg. 26-5

"No, France must help herself before she will be deserving of foreign aid. If the French nation would display the will to resist Communism by trying to avert it, the United States would then be justified in lending aid. Until then, our dollars should be used where they will be most effective."

Rites Held Wednesday For Clement J. Houser

Services for Clement J. Houser, 67, were conducted Wednesday, August 19, at the D. O. McComb & Sons Funeral Home and St. Jude's Catholic Church. Mr. Houser, of 2509 Woodward Ave., died Sunday, August 16, at the Lutheran Hospital after a five-week illness. The V. Rev. Msgr. Charles F. Girardot officiated at the services. Burial was in the Catholic Cemetery.

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Houser joined General Electric in October, 1908. He became a machine operator at that time. Later he was a toolmaker in Bldg. 19-3 and in 1932 became a bench machinist in Bldg. 26-5. This was his occupation at the time of his retirement in October, 1947.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Edgar A. Nelson and Mrs. Robert J. Keller; four sons, Leo J., Edward J., Raymond J., and Joseph C., and 11 grandchildren.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "He who would climb a tree must grasp its branches, not the blossoms."—Thackeray.

WE ARE SORRY: In last week's GE NEWS we reported Bud Fisher's flight down Washington St. pursued by a city bus. We are sorry, we did not know at that time Mr. Fisher had company in the race. We learned that Helen Hanley was about two jumps ahead of Fisher all the way. Just another case of youth forging ahead. . . . WOW! We bet someone exclaimed "Wow" when they picked up an envelope full of pictures on a local bus. Helen Hanley, Dorothy Hanley, Mary Ann Goodman, Bernice Fortman, Bernadette Fortman, Suzie and Janna Johnston spent their vacation at Hamilton Lake. During this period the girls took numerous pictures, many of which were described as work of art. Being by nature shy and retiring, the girls refused to show the pictures at work and entrusted them to Helen Hanley for safe keeping. Helen got on a bus, placed the envelope under her purse for safe-keeping and rode to her destination. When Helen got up, the envelope slid from under her purse and fell to the floor. She did not notice its absence until after arriving at work—then it was too late. Not only are the pictures lost,

Europe! It was wonderful, thrilling, inspiring, depressing, historical, exciting, too cold, too hot, but above all—EXHAUSTING.

That will give you a rough idea of the enthusiasm the touring GE people on their trip to Europe. Baer Field probably never saw a tireder, but still smiling, bunch of tourists as the group arrived back home Saturday after their three-week adventure in six European countries.

On their return they bucked a strike in France and a hurricane in the Atlantic, but all 144 of the travelers returned safely without a casualty.

The biggest thrill or the favorite spot depends on whom you talk with, of course. The Tower of London seemed to awaken the most interest in England. (Everyone agreed she wished she had studied history a little harder in school.)

One of the great shocks of the trip came in Holland, when the girls first saw the famed dikes. For some reason, most had expected cement and stone, and many refused to believe that the gentle grass mounds were the dikes of Holland.

Singing Down the Rhine

The first view of a bombed out German city sent a silence over the group and a depressed feeling which they never quite lost in that war-torn country. However, they were singing their way through Europe again when they boarded the Rhine steamer for the journey to Rudensheim.

At Rudensheim, most famous for its Rhine wine, the group was greeted by the Wine Queen and her attendants. She presented Roqua Wibel, Elex president, with a huge goblet of wine, which Roqua in turn passed around to the whole group. After the festival in their honor there, the singing Americans headed for Switzerland.

Probably the favorite spot of the travelers, Lucerne welcomed them with costumes, and flowers. Shopping in Switzerland was first on the agenda. Swiss merchants reported as the girls left that the watch and clock business had boomed in Lucerne as it never had before.

The highlight of the venture into Italy was the special audience with Pope Pius XII. He received the group, despite the fact that it was not one of his regularly scheduled days for audiences, spoke to them in English and personally blessed and greeted each member of the audience.

America's lady ambassador, Clara Booth Luce, also made a special trip into Rome from her summer home to visit with the Elex travelers. In her pale blue dress and with a red rose pinned to her shoulder, the girls agreed PARIS ETCHING—The mayor of Paris presented Irene Meyers with this etching as a souvenir of her visit. The etching shows famous Parisian landmarks, including Notre Dame Cathedral.

GE TOURISTS FIND OLD WORLD IS WONDERFUL, BUT HOME IS BEST PLACE AFTER ALL

she was far lovelier than any of her pictures.

At Nice on the beautiful French Riviera, the mayor held a garden party on the shore of the Mediterranean for the entire group. The champagne and glamour of the Riviera was a never-to-be-forgotten moment for the girls.

On the day the group was to leave the Riviera, they learned that no trains were running, because of the general strike. After much negotiating, they managed to charter planes to fly to Paris for most of the tour members, but a few were required to take a Belgian plane to Brussels and from there to Paris.

In Paris they were received at the City Hall by the mayor. They in turn presented the mayor with a mounted fractional horsepower motor suitably inscribed and a letter of greeting from Mayor Harry Baals of Fort Wayne.

They took in the Folies Bergere, the Lido night club, with one of the finest floor shows in the world, consumed more champagne, and saw the sights and, once again, shopped.

The strike only affected their post card mailing and on the last day, the water was turned off in the hotels. Many of them came back with mail from stranded Americans which they mailed in New York.

The first words of Irene Meyers, Elex Club adviser, as she de-planed at Baer Field, expressed the sentiment of all "Home's the best place after all, America is just wonderful." But every member of the entire group agreed they "would go again in a minute." They had stored enough memories for a lifetime.

IN THE ETERNAL CITY—A group of Elex vacationers pose in Rome as they return from an audience with His Holiness, Pope Pius XII.

STORMY WEATHER

BLDG. 17-4

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

Larry Reed and John Braden didn't give the poor little bat that showed up on the floor a very good reception. As a matter of fact, they stayed as far away as they could from the flying mouse. . . . We're very happy to report that Hilda Wolf's father is progressing nicely, and we all wish him a speedy recovery. . . . Our sympathies are extended to Dick Seidel and his family on the death of his father-in-law. . . . It might be a good idea to trail Walter Lorenz around. Since he has a hole in his pocket he is constantly losing money. . . . New York is indicated for Bill Robert's next vacation. He says the updraft at the Empire State is not only entertaining but very revealing, too.

Things always run much better when they are put in right, as Dick Seidel found after assembling the "Do-All" hackwards. Of course, he received a lot of help from favorable and unfavorable comment. . . . We've been very patient and at last our waiting has brought forth results. The first real tall tale of fishing has come to light. According to John Howard, on his fishing trip during vacation they kept nothing under 7 inches and they were as high as 12 inches—bluegills, that is. Or, come now, John, without the usual visual proof we are forced to believe that your fan belt is slipping. . . . Once more John Braden takes his North American Vans to the tournament at Wichita. You take with you our very best wishes and hopes—bring back the bunting to Fort Wayne, Red.

Our cost department is sporting a new face, Irene Henline. Welcome to the fold. . . . No, they aren't colds, it's just the hay fever season that is causing Maxine Baker and Bob Lauer to honk and blow. . . . Another poor soul is ready to take the leap—Mel Guillaume slipped a ring on his girl's finger over the week-end. The only questionable part of it is that he was seen shopping in the 10 cent store Saturday. Should we draw our own conclusions? . . . It's with a great deal of regret that we bid good-by to Hilda Wolf, our very charming and personable time clerk, who is leaving us to become a lady farmer. . . . Quotation for the Week: "When children sound silly, you will find that it is in imitation of their elders."

Our deepest sympathy to Ilene Case on the recent death of her father. . . . Phyllis Aumiller got a new car during vacation. Saturday she had the misfortune of get-

GE and City Old Timers Meet Sept. 1 for 7th Annual Classic

On Tuesday, Sept. 1, the seventh annual ball game between the GE Old Timers team and the City Old Timers team will be conducted. Dwenger Park will be the scene of the annual tussel which has seen each team win three games in the previous six years of competition.

The game will get under way at 8 p.m. Elmer Wagner, Bldg. 19-3, is manager of the GE team and Red Carrington will manage the rivals. Any GE employees interested in playing on the team are asked to contact Wagner on Ext. 2108.

Tickets for the fray will be available for 50 cents per person. Members of GE's team, who will be announced later, will have tickets. The admission charge is used to pay for injuries sustained by players, Wagner stated.

The annual civic event has its lighter side when the teams play jokes on each other and bring unusual props into the action.

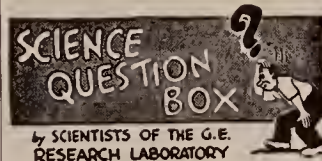

RETIREMENT DAY—Anthony P. Eckart (center) retired this month after more than 30 years as a General Electric employee. Elmer Witte (left) and Ralph Dolan offer best wishes. Mr. Eckart was a crane operator in Bldg. 27 prior to retirement.

This year the Fort Wayne city bowling tourney will roll at the Club alleys. The week of January 9, GE bowlers will participate in the tourney.

Bowling information may be secured from either Charlie Wilt, GE Club, Ext. 742; Les Shroyer, Bldg. 31-2, Ext. 2112, or Joe Kramer, Bldg. 4-5, Ext. 2180.

The 15 leagues, times of bowling, and secretaries of each are listed at left.

Q. What was the largest forest fire in the world?

A. There are reports in Russian literature of a huge forest fire in Russia in 1915, which covered some 24,700,000 acres of land (more than the whole state of Indiana) and caused a loss of over 200 billion feet of timber. If this is correct, it was greater than anything on record in the United States. According to the U. S. Forest Service, the largest known to have occurred in this country was one in Maine and New Brunswick in October, 1825. This swept over three million acres and caused the loss of 160 human lives. Even more calamitous was the Peshtigo fire in Wisconsin in October, 1871. It covered 1,280,000 acres and wiped out several towns and settlements, with 1500 people killed.

Q. Why is it that people who live in tropical countries where there is much sunshine are generally dark-skinned, when it seems that a light skin would reflect the rays?

A. Apparently the black or dark skin acts as a trap, catching the incoming heat at the surface and thus preventing its penetration to deeper body tissues where it might cause damage. As perspiration forms, on the surface of the skin, it helps to remove the excess heat. In very sunny regions, dark clothing may actually be better than white, reflecting clothing. This was long ago learned by the Bedouins of the Near East deserts, who wear dark, thick robes that insulate the body from sun, heat and wind.

Gil Baker

Today we bid farewell and good luck to Sue Walton Pearson. She and her husband will call Bloomington, Ind., their home while her husband attends Indiana University. . . . WE WELCOME Carl Seyboldt and Gerald Moore, new TE's working for John Willsey, and E. M. Stanbery, respectively. This is Carl's fourth test, having worked previously at Fitchburg, Mass., Lockland, Ohio, and Plant Engineering at Fort Wayne. He is married and has a degree in Mechanical Engineering from Valparaiso. His home town is Defiance, Ohio. Gerald is also married and has a BSEE from Rose Polytech. Brazil, Ind., is his home town. This is his first test. . . .

HAVING COMPLETED EXTENSIVE THREE WEEK VACATIONS in the West, we have with us Charley Wurm, who now can tell you all about California. And Ruth Oetting Richey, who met her new in-laws for the first time in the state of Washington. Also back safely is Bob Mee—now a married man. He reports a very successful trip, having visited all the spots of interest on their honeymoon which they had originally planned, and even more. Mrs. Mee likes Fort Wayne, which is a very important item. . . . DELORIS GILTZ can tell you very interesting stories of her vacation in the deep Southwest. They went through the Navajo and Apache Indian Reservations, among other exciting spots of interest. . . . THE STANBERRYS can also tell you about California. . . . The Bob Johnsons spent three weeks in Florida and the Southlands. . . . By this time we should all have our feet firmly planted and our nose back to the old grindstone for another year. . . . SYMPATHY: We would like to express our sincere sympathy to Bruce Curley and family on the recent death of Mrs. Curley, which occurred during the shutdown. . . . WE WANT to thank Paul Motter and his wife for the cake she baked, and Paul for decorating it. It was almost too pretty to cut. It was as good as it looked. . . . BETTY PUFF is back from Europe. She said she would have brought back a Frenchman but all of them weighed more than 44 lbs. She had a wonderful time. . . . BELATED BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Paul Motter, August 9; Pat Boling, August 19; Wade Reed, August 20, and Dan Geary, August 25.

GE HAMMS WIN PLAYOFF OPENER

The GE Ham team won their game from International Harvester 12-9 in the opening round of the Ham Softball League playoffs last week.

The GE nine scored 12 runs on 16 hits, with three errors. Harvester tallied their 9 runs on 10 hits, with seven miscues.

GE Vets Swamp M.T.P. Nine 16-1 In Interdepartment League Playoff

The GE Vets came out on top in a three way playoff for the inter-department first half championship, Monday, Aug. 17, by downing the M.T.P. team by the score of 16 to 1. Superior hitting told the story as the Vets scored freely in every inning and the M.T.P. teams avoided a shut out by scoring their lone run in the last inning. League Leading GE Owls Win Over Zollner 11-2

by Howard Colby

With the regular season nearly over GE added another victory to keep them in first place standings in the YMCA Softball League by handing Zollner a 11 to 2 defeat last Wednesday morning. This gives the Owl's a 10 win and two loss record.

Zollner drew first blood when they scored a run in the top half of the first inning. GE took their turn in the bottom half, with the entire nine getting a chance at the plate. They cashed in four runs on six hits to shade Zollner 4 to 1.

Both teams went scoreless until the fourth inning when Ron Blodgett, the Owls pitcher, started it off with a single. Harold Baker reached first on an error, Gene Etter singled, and Chuck Boyce nailed a solid hit for a total of three runs on three hits, and a GE lead of 7 to 1.

Zollner scored one run on two hits in the fifth as GE went scoreless to make it 7 to 2. The Owls waxed warm in the sixth as Gene Etter led off with a single; Chuck Boyce hit a home run; Boy Taylor singled as did Ray Scherer, Ken Zurbach, and Ron Blodgett to net four runs on six hits before being retired, to win the ballgame, 11 to 2.

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

The Owl League is now definitely a three team race. The Champs have a plus 51, the Eagles are second with a plus 48, and the Pars hold down third spot with plus 38.

With only two weeks of league competition left only a complete cave in by any of the three toppers can change the final outcome.

GE Golfers Fail To Place High In Midwest Tourney

The GE entry in the Midwest-Industrial Golf Tourney held in Dayton last week-end topped the list of Fort Wayne teams, but failed to place high in the standings.

Ray Hills carded twin 78's for a 156 total to lead GE. The outgoing nine was the "toughie." None of the Club entry broke 40.

Wright Field from Dayton was the winner with an aggregate total of 585 strokes. George Victor of the Dayton Victor Products provided the big tourney thrill in carding a 63. His outgoing nine was a two over par 36, but he really blazed the back side with nine straight threes for an amazing 27.

Besides GE the other local entrants were Zollner, Salisbury, Pennsylvania RR and Capehart.

The GE scores were as follows:
Ray Hills	78—78—156
Dick Szink	79—78—157
Warren Wickliffe	80—79—159
Paul Billman	80—82—162
Total	634

Bowling Notes

All last year's captains in the Owl Bowling League will convene at the GE Club Monday, August 24, for a meeting beginning at 2 p.m., Joe Kramer, bowling secretary, announced today. All Owl captains are urged to attend the meeting.

Women interested in bowling in the Friday Night League at 6 p.m. should call or mail their names to Virginia Mollet, Bldg. 31-2, Ext. 2311.

Johnny Stark carded a 39 for the Birdies which went a long way in the one point win over the Pars. Woodie Treese of the Pars led his team with a 41.

Paul Billman and the Eagles pasted the Bogeys at the tune of 14 points. Paul was low with a 40. Mo Runyon came in with a 44 to lead his Bogeys.

DECATURITES

George Laurent

The Gecode Girls have returned from the Elex European trip. They report having had a wonderful time; much better than was anticipated. Everything was planned to the last detail and they were all treated like kings and queens; including breakfast in their rooms and having their feet admired. The highlight of the trip seems to be the Follies Bergeres in Paris. The choice of countries was Switzerland, with Holland second in choice. The Alps were considered the most beautiful. Rome was the most unusual with the many historical ruins. They had an audience with the Pope, saw the opera Aida, and took a two-hour buggy ride in Rome. The flowers in Holland were out of this world. Dorothy Schnepf tells us her favorite guide of the whole trip was a Countess in Paris, who was most gracious and kind. Dorothy had the privilege of meeting Clara Booth Luce, our Ambassador to Italy at the American Embassy, and shaking hands with her. She also talked personally to Mr. John B. Crane and got his autograph. Her pride and joy which she brought back was an umbrella from London and a hat from Paris. The strike in France caused little excitement, but did make things unhandy. The girls were in Nice a day longer than was scheduled, but thanks to the American Ex-

National ABC Playoffs This Weekend At Elkhart with Other State Champs

The GE Club team in the Junior Federation League won the local federation league championship, the American Baseball Congress junior division local playoff championship, and the ABC state title. This week end the winners are facing other state champs in the national ABC playoffs at Elkhart, Ind. The national event is a double elimination tourney.

Yesterday morning, the GE nine were scheduled to face one of the finalists in the first game of the four-day series.

Qualifying themselves for the national tourney, the GE boys won the state ABC event Sunday, August 16, at Dwenger Park by defeating South Bend and Monroeville. They won over South Bend by a score of 9 to 0 and defeated Monroeville 5 to 0.

GE won the north division of the Junior Federation League in the city playoffs. This put them in the state ABC meet. In regular season play, GE copped the league championship and received a trophy for this as well as the south division championship and the state championship of the ABC to net them three trophies thus far.

At Sunday's games, a Cleveland Indians scout, Mr. Ross, was present to watch the boys, Elmer Wagner, Bldg. 19-3, secretary-treasurer of both the JFL and the ABC locally, reported. He also stated that scouts of every major league will attend the national tourney this week-end.

press and TWA they were flown to Paris and lost no time there. In fact, Eloise Noll was quite happy about the flying. She was on a plane that went to Belgium and then to Paris. Belgium was not on the schedule. . . . The Decatur girls want to thank Irene Meyers who made this trip a dream come true, the Elex girls, American Express and TWA who contributed so much toward making the trip a huge success.

Red Braden's 36 Leads Creaking Hermetic Hackers

Creaking bones, sore backs, blisters and high scores have been prevalent for the past three weeks in the Hermetic Hackers' duffer golf league. Top honors for highest score posted go to Fred Grunst—71, low honors for lowest score posted go to Red Braden—36.

After the first night's golf held on July 20, "Hap" Leider who came back with a score of 55 had this comment to make: "If it hadn't been for the trees, I would have had 40—cut them down by morning."

Ab Martin was spotted one stroke by Dent and Koch and came in with a 42, Dent had a 43, and Koch had a 43. The winner by a stroke—Ab Martin.

Brookwood has been a fine place to fire up some of the private feuds of the Hackers. One of the notable ones to-date is Conley auditing Kowalski's score and Kowalski auditing Conley's score—net results—both had higher scores than they had ever recorded before.

Vacation time found Joe Orbin practicing every day to improve the first nights score of 82. Any errors in the scores posted in this article will be corrected next week.

A hearty welcome to Dorothy Reinking, the new file girl who joined the gang in the shipping office. . . . Belated happy birthday to Dorothy Portor and Tony Koorssen. This week we wish a happy birthday to Jimmy Gray, Jim Vevia, and Bill Engle. . . . Mel Schrader has a method all his own when it comes to catching sea gulls. While out fishing for bass, Mel cast his line into the water (which had an attractive red bobber fastened to it) then settled back to wait for that big fish to strike. Finally he had a strike and Mel knew he had hooked a whopper. Not until he had almost all the line reeled in, did he notice a sea gull soaring down from the sky with the red bobber on the line, held in its beak. We have to admit, casting for bass and reeling in sea gulls is a new one on us. . . . When Viola Halber went shopping on dollar day, her friends from receiving and shipping were very concerned about Vi being in the stores with all the bargain hunters. So they supplied her with a pair of safety shoes and glasses for extra protection. Need we say, the shoes were old scuffed men's safety shoes, and the glasses were made of copper wire with cardboard lenses. . . . We heard we should have added Sarah Harris to our list of gals who tried to shop on Wednesday morning during vacation before the stores were open. It must have been quite crowded. . . . After Ed David completed his garage (with the cement mixer inside and too big to get through the door) he still was without a place to park his car. But not for long. When it comes to size, the California Redwoods have nothing on the birch trees that grow around Ed's lake cottage. They are gigantic. So large (says Ed) that he chopped a tunnel through the tree trunk and now parks his car inside the tree, out of the weather. . . . Marie Renz bought a new hat while in Chicago last week-end.

CONGRATULATIONS, POP!—Walter F. Konow (center) is congratulated by his two sons, on his 35th year with General Electric. Mr. Konow's sons, Walt, Jr. (left) and Don are also GE employees. Mr. Konow joined the Company in 1918 as an apprentice. He is now supervisor of planning and wage rate in Bldg. 6-4.

We bet it's a doozy.

I pirouette daintily on my toes. With wings like lightning, you flutter by.

Isn't that a lovely picture. Of Tom Dent chasing a butterfly?

Tom was only trying to free the captive insect to the great outdoors. However, the telephone rang and the person calling got the wrong impression. When told that Mr. Dent was busy chasing butterflies, he remarked, sadly, "Oh, oh, that's too bad."

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

The purchase of new cars has become highly contagious within the last few weeks. Some of those fortunate people who are sporting brand new or late model cars are Oscar Weitzman, Pete Liebig, Bob Branning, Dale Weaver, Browne, Ray O'Keefe, Harold Bohde, Dale McCombs, and Joe Rowan. Also on the market for a new car will be Joe McClain, whose car fell victim to an acute side swipe accident.

After listening to himself sing for several months, Rodgers Pitzcn has finally come to the conclusion that it will be cheaper and more pleasant for him to buy a radio for his car, than it would be for him to take singing lessons.

Late in the afternoon the quitting whistle blew and, with purse in hand, Jane Cusenberry was on her way. But, hold on a minute! Remember the office force quits at 4:30 and only the factory gets off at 3:30. So, back to work for one more hour.

The thoroughly planned vacation trip of John Leininger was just so much paper work. Starting out for Lake Louise, John reached his journey's end in Estes Park and toured the southwest. Although the trip didn't go according to plans, it turned out to be a very enjoyable one.

It was an unhappy Kenny Betts who was initiated into the new department by losing a quarter in the vending machine. But Kenny was again restored to his usual good spirits when his money was refunded. Usually the money wouldn't have made much difference to Kenny, but these vacations are costly and leave a guy's pocket-book in a sad condition.

There's never an ill wind that doesn't blow someone some good; at least this is Aubrey Ingraham's idea on the situation. Maybe the telephone strike has really gummed up communications, but it affords an ideal way for Aubrey to get acquainted with the girl strikers, who picket across the street from his home. Toby Tyler has just returned from a fishing trip in Michigan. When asked how the fish were biting Toby gave no comment. Just a very disgusted look. . . . Walt Brake found Michigan's fishing a little more satisfactory. In fact, after spending one week fishing, Walt found it necessary to return a second week because the "one that got away" was too tempting a dish to pass up. . . . Having spent two weeks vacation in California, Carole Calkins has decided that San Diego is the city for her. . . . Another vacationer returning from California last week-end was Edna Buhlman, who spent her two weeks visiting her son.

Did you notice the beaming smile on John Andrew's face this week? The reason was very obvious—anticipation of a two weeks' vacation trip to the east. . . . Winter Street wishes a speedy recovery to Mary Jane Rauner, who is ill. Hope she'll be feeling "fit as a fiddle" real soon. . . . Taking it upon herself to adjust her chair to the proper height, Jerry Coyne got off the chair and proceeded to turn little knobs, buttons, etc., which looked as though it might be the vital one. Suddenly, a spring sprung from out of nowhere and shot across the room. Bolts and nuts dropped from the bottom of the chair and it looked like the chair was doomed. But, with the assistance of Charlie Lammiman, the pieces were collected and returned to their proper positions and the chair left at the same height.

After taking a lot of kidding about his latest crew cut, Melvin Linberg has finally named the culprit. The blame can be placed on the dull blades of the lawn mower. . . . John Rockhill has been applying his skills at his cottage at Loon Lake. The cottage was built last year; so, this year, John is finishing the job on the inside. . . . Congratulations are in order because wedding bells will soon ring out for Vera Pontius, who will be married on September 4. Our best wishes to Vera and Dale!

Spending a very successful fishing trip in Minnesota, the Harold Reiters would have had enough fish to eat for many a moon if they had just had the services of an ice box, in which to store the fish. . . . After the vacation shut-down, many new faces were added to the cozy group of girls on the second floor. Some of those joining this gang were Mary Leiter, Vera Pontius, Bernice Klembek, Mayme Carney, Opal Miller, Edna Koester, Marjorie Smith, Helen Blumenberg, Norma Woods, Wauneta Brockmeyer, Pauline Denney, and Avis Rodermund.

The tool room offers a belated welcome to Davey Jones, manager of the apprentice baseball team. . . . It'll take Neil Daley a long time to recuperate from the big wedding celebration, which was held for his daughter Joan. . . . By this time, Dorothy Dobler and husband Paul are "deep in the heart of Texas" for a two week vacation. . . . Mary Ann Royce spent last week resting at Pretty Lake, soaking in the sunshine. . . . While purchasing a new suit recently, Gus Grant met two of his fellow workers, Fred Junke and Tom O'Connell. They offered valuable assistance in helping Gus select just the "right" suit. Later in the day, when questioned about the suit, none of the three could remember what kind it was, or even the color. A very helpful bunch. . . . We hope to have Frank Mongraw and Ted Lorenz back with us very soon. . . . A big welcome to Alma Elliott, who joined the personnel section on the second floor this week

Monday morning found Marc Kochn back at work after spending a very interesting and exciting trip touring Europe with the Elex Club. The trip was a very enjoyable one and one that will never be forgotten. Marc said it's sure good to be home again.

Something must be done! Bill Lavine has more steaks than he can eat. . . . Herb Lindenberg takes the prize for the best hard luck story after vacation. He went to Canada to fish and relax but the fish wouldn't bite. It got so windy he couldn't come home (?) and he was a day late for work. . . . Vacation was just a big headache to Herb Tons. . . . We have heard no fish stories from Bill Lavine, T. Kitchen, M. Vonder Haar, or Paul Hitzeman. Wonder why? Walt Holloway says he had the wrong kind of bait. I guess that is as good an excuse as any. . . . Carl Reynolds has quite an orchard at his place. He specializes in midget fruit trees. The pear tree has about 40 years on it but so small Carl has to keep the limbs propped up or it will collapse. His peach tree is loaded with dozens of peaches—but they're about the size of marbles and about as tasty. Carl just can't figure what happened. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to June Spillner, who is now 19. Same to Bert Witte, Florence Doege, and Wanda Hunt. They didn't mention their ages. . . . Art Bear went to Minnesota to fish for mountain trout but couldn't find any mountains. . . . Cleon Oyer visited relatives of Kathryn Erwin and says he is still picking fleas. Sand fleas, surely. . . . GOOD-BY to Ellen Northern, who is leaving to be a full-time housewife. So-long to Lamont Klein, who is leaving to join Uncle Sam. Good luck. . . . Our deepest sympathy to Ann Tredway, who lost her mother. . . . Shirley Ann Fishback, daughter of Ralph Fishback, was married to Donald Hess of Bellefonte, Pa., in a very beautiful ceremony at St. Paul's Sunday. They went to Canada for their honeymoon and will locate at Norfolk, Va. We wish them much happiness in the future. . . . Welcome to Marilyn Smith, who comes to our office from Broadway. We hope she will like it here. . . . Fred Heinkel was driving his new Buick through the Bad Lands of South Dakota when a '98 Olds passed him with an Indiana license plate and a cloud of dust. He hurried to catch up and was flabbergasted to see Ewald Stinsmuehlen in his Merry Oldsmobile. Of all people and of all places! It's sure a small world. . . . We are wondering what Millie Woolum was thinking about when she let her husband go to work the other night with a brown shoe on one foot and a tan shoe on the other. . . . CORRECTION: We were misinformed when we reported Willie Rathert in Florida for a three weeks vacation. Was our face red when she showed up bright and early Tuesday morning. Her husband has a badly injured foot from the power lawnmower and we were sorry to hear about it. . . . Anne Ruth Clements and Dorothy Money are back from their vacations and it's certainly good to see their sweet, smiling faces again.

Harry Tucker, FHP Senior Salesman Makes Final Trip to Fort Wayne

Making his last trip to Fort Wayne before retiring this month, William H. Tucker, senior salesman of fractional horsepower motors, came to the Summit City recently for a final get together with his friends and co-workers of many years.

Joining FHP sales in 1916, Mr. Tucker, known as Harry to everyone, has been in charge of FHP sales in the New York district office since 1922. During this span of years, he has secured such accounts as the Underwood Corporation and was district manager when Remington Rand and International Business Machines accounts were secured.

In the period when work on the Form G motor was in the planning stage, Mr. Tucker was a member of the group that formed a link between customer wants and engineering designs.

In November 12, 1907, Harry entered GE and became a student engineer in the Fort Wayne plant.

Prior to joining the sales section, he went to New York as a construction man. While on this job, one of his assignments was the installation of the first electric chair at Sing Sing prison. On the job, he sat in the chair for the joke of being the first man to sit in Sing Sing's famed seat.

His joke backfired a few weeks later when his small son told his first grade classmates and teacher of the incident, leaving out the fact that Mr. Tucker had just installed the electrical equipment. Soon afterward, when the teacher met Mrs. Tucker she expressed her sympathy to the bewildered Mrs. Tucker.

Mr. Tucker's son, William H. Tucker, Jr., is now employed in the Atlantic district office of the Lamp Department. Mr. Tucker has two grandchildren.

Retiring to his home in Westfield, N. J., Harry plans to devote his time to gardening and furniture refinishing.

While vacationing in the mountains, Dewey Wisner developed what he thought was car trouble. He asked a passing motorist if he would stop at a filling station a short distance back and have them send a mechanic. No help came, so Dewey turned his car around and headed back toward town. The filling station operator explained that he didn't have help and wanted to know what his trouble was. Dewey said he was going downhill and it felt like his brakes were holding. The operator smiled and informed Dewey that he hadn't been going downhill at all, but uphill. He explained that Mother Nature was playing a trick on him. GE TV Equipment Is Satisfactory For Color Broadcasts

G-E has announced that its television transmitting equipment will satisfactorily rebroadcast network color TV programs under the compatible system now being recommended to the Federal Communications Commission by the National Television System Committee, without any additional equipment, provided the network signals arriving at the local station are of reasonable quality.

Present transmitters and antennas will transmit NTSC color signals for black and white reception with no changes whatever. For color reception, only minor changes must be made to existing equipment.

The equipment includes a color stabilizing amplifier, gamma amplifier, color monitor, and several modification kits.

Membership Drive $25,000 Top Award To Open Elex Year

Booklets Mailed to All Employees Today

With initial plans for the coming season completed, the Elex Club will open its 1953-54 year with the annual membership drive Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Previewing the drive, which continues through Sept. 21, two kick-off sessions will be conducted for all Elex contact girls Sept. 8, in the Bldg. 16-2 dining room. First shift girls will meet at 9 a.m. for a breakfast and the second shift group will convene at 2 p.m.

Invitations to the sessions were distributed this week. Reservations should be made before Sept. 3 by calling Ext. 555.

Every woman employee at Broadway, and Taylor St., and Winter St. will be contacted by the girls during the drive. Employees who join during this period will be able to vote in the annual election next month.

New employees and those who are off for illness during the drive may become members within two weeks after they begin or return to work and receive their first pay

This year's officers and contact girls will be honored for their service at a dinner at the Baer Field Lookout Room. First shift girls will attend a dinner Thursday, Sept. 3, at 6:30 p.m. A luncheon beginning at 12 noon, Tuesday, Sept. 1, has been slated for second shift girls.

A revised Suggestion Plan that will go into effect Tuesday, Sept. 1, has been announced by the Employee Benefits Services Department. Basically similar to the former plan, the revised plan contains some changes in rules, awards, eligibility, and responsibility.

The result of several years investigation of the plan, the changes will be of direct benefit to all employees. A. C. Hartman, head of the Fort Wayne Suggestion Plan, stated.

Ten rules have been approved to cover the operation of the plan. These rules will be printed on the reverse side of each suggestion blank. A top amount of $25,000 has been set as an award for any suggestion including all applications of ideas embodied in the suggestion.

Under the revised plan all employees of the Company other than supervisory, professional, and methods and planning personnel are eligible to submit suggestions and to receive awards for those beyond the scope of their assigned duties which are adopted.

A new booklet, "The General Electric Suggestion Plan," is being distributed to employees of the Fort Wayne plant beginning today. This booklet describes briefly the operation of the Plan and contains the complete set of rules which now govern the submitting of suggestions and making of awards.

Suggestion blanks which should be used in submitting all suggestions are available at time clocks and bulletin boards located throughout the plant.

Since the Plan was begun in Fort Wayne in 1923, more than one-half million dollars has been paid out in awards.

Sorry, No Chocolate Till Cooler Weather

In reply to the many requests from employees for chocolate candy in the GE Club vending machines, Bill Schible, Club president, said today that during the warm weather, there are no facilities for storing chocolate.

Mr. Schible reported that the candy is purchased in large lots and even after one or two days in storage turns white. As soon as the weather becomes cooler, chocolate candy will again appear in the vending machines. He also pointed out that there is no economy in putting non-chocolate candy in the machines.

Supervisors Slate Boxing Humorist For Sept. 15 Meet

Opening their fall activities, members of the Supervisors Club will meet Tuesday, Sept. 15, at the Squares club rooms, Charles E. Gable and Gordon L. Smith, co-chairmen of the meeting, announced this week.

Getting under way at 7:30 p.m., the meeting will feature the professional entertainer, Freddie Caserio. Former National and International Golden Gloves champion, Caserio has turned his talents to entertaining as an M. C. and dialogue story teller of the fight game. Currently appearing at various clubs in New York City, he has appeared at hotels, conventions, and club meetings in many locations in the United States.

Invitations for the meeting are being mailed to members this week. Reservations should be made by returning the signed card enclosed with the invitations to Mr. Gable, Sub-Section 13, Taylor St. Deadline for returning reservations is Friday, Sept. 4. Refreshments and lunch will be served at the meeting.

In addition to the initial fall meeting, three meetings remain on the organization's 1953-54 calendar. October and November meetings are slated and the annual meeting will be conducted in January.

Arthur Vinson Is Elected GE Vice President

Arthur F. Vinson has been elected a vice president of the General Electric Company, GE President Ralph J. Cordiner, announced today.

Mr. Vinson will serve as vice president-manufacturing, and as general manager of the company's Manufacturing Services Division, with headquarters in New York City. He succeeds Vice President Nicholas M. DuChemin, who will carry out special assignments for GE President Cordiner.

Mr. Vinson, long active in engineering, manufacturing, and employee relations work, was formerly manager of the Wage Administration Department of the company's Employee and Plant Community Relations Services Division.

A native of Plainfield, Ill., Mr. Vinson received a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from Michigan State College in 1929. He joined General Electric as a student engineer in the test course at

Taxes Can Reduce Risk-Taking

For every job that exists today in private business, someone has had to assume a risk. Every time an employee in private business steps up to get his paycheck, it means that somebody's risk is paying off in benefits to that employee and less directly, to the country's economy in general.

There is nothing original about these observations. But plain as they are, it is well for us to remind ourselves of their truth—because a good many people seem to be forgetting them in their desire to get on the defensive; on the "security" side.

Pessimism Won't Help

For years government spokesmen, labor officials, and even business economists, have been forecasting some kind of recession—anywhere from mild to severe. Recently a leading industrialist noted that businessmen themselves, possibly because of the pessimistic attitude of so many others "have been guilty of seeking security rather than planning for progress."

However, most of the country's outstanding business leaders do not appear to see a recession in the making. And all businessmen know that they must continue to be the chief risk-takers of our economy—and that no individual business firm can be guaranteed security in a free competitive economy. If there were any way of doing that, it would certainly mean the end of economic progress.

Since our competitive economic system is founded on risk-taking, and has proved its virtues by making us the most productive nation in the world, the American people can rely on businessmen's continued willingness to take a risk.

Effect of Taxation

There is an aspect of all this, however, that should be realistically faced, more so than it has been, by American people in all walks of life, including government. This is the fact that businessmen, although accustomed to risk-taking, are less inclined to venture as the hope of reward for risk-taking goes down—as our burdensome tax system has been making it go down for a long time.

It is not, as some people would have us think, simply a matter of the heavy taxes of recent years taking "a little more of business' profits." If that were all there was to it, business leaders probably would not have been so outspoken in protest against heavy taxes and over-expensive government as they have been.

Where the real point of the tax problem lies is whether our tax system is going to encourage and allow business to expand, as it must in order to take care of the needs of our growing population, or whether it is going to prevent and discourage business expansion.

We have an Administration in Washington that has shown indications of understanding the need of business to have the funds to expand, to grow. The new government is making sincere efforts to carry out its pledges of federal economy.

But government cannot solve our problems by itself. For a real job to be done in economy and revision of our tax system, it is necessary that all Americans understand that if business is starved of funds for growth the progress and prosperity of all must suffer.

Shirley Clark acquired a dog and is now moving to Columbia Ave. so the pooch will have a yard to tear around in. . . . John Burnett is touring the New England states this week for an extra vacation. . . . We would like to welcome the following new folks to our section: Harold George and Paul Lehman to hi bay; Blanche Mountz and John Holloway to the switch section; Vera White, Georgia Beamer, Carol Stier, Maude Coomer, Dolores Egle, Ruth Ellenberger and Charles Russell to the winding section. . . . We are sorry to learn that Geneva Pickering is in the hospital and that Herb Kellermeier had an appendectomy. . . . Our sincere compassion for Loretta Runyon who lost her brother. . . . Jim Bentley left us for a little vacation before entering pre-med at Indiana University. . . . Marie Wickelman and Kathryn Erwin each received a pair of earrings and a dinner ring purchased in Rome by one of our GE European travelers. . . . Bob Steele's mind isn't on his work when he takes flanges to the switch section. When he came out of his trance, someone had walked off with his truck. . . . Horace Grim was absent from work because of Knot-Hole Day at Crosley Field. Cincinnati played Milwaukee. The score? Ask Horace. . . . Carl Hattendorf caught the most beautiful bass he ever saw in Northern Michigan. Wonder if he ate it? . . . Ray Fredericks traded in the old Ford for a late model Dodge during the vacation period. His wife (we understand) brought it about. . . . Tommy Kunder and his family spent a week in Chicago and Lloyd Foulks visited with relatives in Gary, Ind. . . . Everett Mullen and his wife made an extensive tour of the State of Colorado. It has the highest mountains in the United States (he sez) and ranks second to California in gold mining and first in silver and other ore. Cripple Creek, where 50,000 people once lived, has dwindled to 1,000 people and is now practically a ghost town. Many of the old buildings still remain. Even the balconies from which the ladies used to flirt with the visiting miners on a Saturday night are still intact. . . . Art Bear caught fish so rapidly in Minnesota (and we are still quoting, understand) that he was forced to cover up his bait can in the boat. Turned out to be so much work, it ceased to be fun! . . . Ted Brockmyer claims he got lost in the mountains on his trip to Montana, but would still like to live there some day. . . . Ray Lahrman and his wife did not remain in Miami very long. The city was overcrowded and he could not talk the language, so he left sooner than he expected to. . . . The Carl Millers enjoyed their trip to California very much. His contact with the Mexican people was quite amusing. He would live there if his wife can dispense with three of the seasons she loves so well in Indiana. . . . Happy birthday to Henry Carnall, Clyde Holmes, John Burnett, Cliff Bieber, Dorothy Klug, and Walter Holloway. . . . Becky Lisle's little boy, Steve, is home again and everything is back to its noisy normal. . . . Dorelyn Forde rode home in George Ridge's Lincoln. This made Richard, the B. F., in the mood to buy a '53 Studebaker Club Coupe with two steering wheels, as she does most of the driving. . . . Doris Rhonemus lunched out with her husband Saturday noon and took in a show afterwards. . . .

Dorothy Klug braved the highways Sunday and drove out to Baer Field to watch the big planes come and go. She was really feeling her Cheerios because she got the car up to 50 miles per hour for the first time since she bought it. . . . Anna Ruth Clements went to several social events over the week-end. All were standing affairs and she was quite happy to come in Monday morning and sit down for the day. . . . Lou Ann Beauchamp entertained relatives from good ol' Alabama. Some of her "you all" cousins, I believe. . . . Cliff Bieber, Lu Byrd, Doug Campbell, Bill Williams, and George Ridge attended a party for those studying under the manufacturing training program and all enjoyed the movies very much. . . . We are glad to see Kathleen Jencks back at work after a week's illness. . . . Erwin Hattendorf entertained his two grandsons, ages 7 and 4, over the week-end. Wonder if anything is left of the place?

Howard Louthan wishes to thank his co-workers for the lovely gifts they gave him for the new arrival at his house. We say, "congrats, and you're welcome!" . . . Now that Moe Satterthwaite is back on the job, Clyde is also back. Yes sree, it takes the old man to keep the kid on the job. . . . We're glad to hear that Pinkie Barnes' daughter won second prize in a speech contest in South Bend. . . . Ellen Bauer is back in the hospital. We're all pulling for you, Ellen. Hurry and get well. . . . We're sorry to hear that Ruth Elmer was involved in an auto accident during vacation. Ruth is a former Bldg. 6-4 employee. . . . Fern DeGraw, Bldg. 6-3 office, left August 21 to become a full-time housewife. Mona Hirschbiel is the new girl replacing Fern. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Harold Dalman, who celebrated his birthday August 24. . . . Congratulations to Hamilton McCoy on his 30th anniversary with the company. . . . Fall Class Schedules Announced At Local Educational Centers Schedules and registration times of fall classes at Purdue University Center, Indiana University Fort Wayne Center, and the Department of Vocational and Adult Education at Central High School building have been announced.

Purdue Center has a variety of classes that offer technical training, adult education, or regular college credit classes. Persons interested in enrolling in any of the classes should do so on September 17, 18, or 19 at the Center, Jefferson at Barr Sts. A bulletin listing the fall classes will be posted on bulletin boards throughout the plant tomorrow. Classes begin September 21. For further information, persons may inquire at the Center or call A-3171.

Approximately 130 types of regular courses and 18 special classes are being offered at I.U. Center this fall. Enrollment is from September 9 through 12 at 1120 S. Barr St. A 57-page program listing the classes may be secured by contacting the center on telephone A-7452. Both credit and non-credit classes get under way September 14.

The vocational and adult education classes which are conducted at the Central High School Building, open September 14. Courses in apprentice-related, business, distributive, general interest, high school, home-making, and trade extension are being offered this year. Persons may enroll in rooms 160-162 of the high school or call A-2225.

Copies of the three bulletins issued by the schools are available in the education office, Bldg. 16-3.

A record number of approximately 1500 reservations for the Quarter Century Club outing, Saturday, Sept. 12, has been received, G. R. Lindemuth, secretary, reported at press time.

Deadline for returning reservations is this week. They should be mailed to Mr. Lindemuth, Bldg. 18-5.

The professional act of Bobby Kuhn and the Midnite Sons has been booked for the outing at Municipal Beach, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, announced this week.

The versatile quartet presents an act which combines instrumentation, vocals, solos, barber shop harmony, a capella, torch, samba, and other types of entertainment. The group has performed in many locations in the midwest and has played in several spots in Chicago. Bobby Kuhn was associated with the Camel Caravan Show for several years. Other acts will be announced later, Mr. Smith stated.

Starting off the day-long event will be a softball game between QC men and GE girls. Any members interested in playing on the men's team are asked to contact Otto Rodenbeck, Bldg. 19-4, Ext. 2236.

Specialty Motor Develops Motor Designed for Business Machine Use

Development of a new fractional horsepower motor of the induction type has been announced by the Specialty Motor Sub-Department.

Answering the demands of most business machine manufacturers, the new motor will be for use in typewriters, adding machines, small bookkeeping machines, recorders, and other similar products. The motor is expected to meet the size, voltage, and frequency requirements of 95 per cent of the business machine industry.

In Production

Now in production, the new product is being manufactured in Sub-Section 1. The first shipment is expected to be made in September, A. J. Rose, manager of manufacturing, reported.

Other applications of the FHP motor include movie projectors, communications equipment, defense projects, and dispensing machines.

A type KC miniature 49-frame motor that does not require a speed regulator, the new unit is expected to replace the long-used series motor in many applications.

Because of its quietness and low temperature rise, this motor can be operated continuously, thus eliminating radio frequencies which interfere with UHF and VHF television, transmission line relaying, and other types of high-frequency communication equipment.

The new motor is almost noiseless in the average office.

Louis Webert and Vicky Gehrig

Decatur Tester Saves Child's Life; First Aid Training Course Pays Off

An example of the good neighbor policy was exhibited last week by Louis Webert, Decatur plant employee, when he saved the life of neighbor Vicky Gehrig, one year old.

Training received in GE artificial resuscitation classes paid off for Mr. Webert when he was called to the Gehrig's back yard by screams of Vicky's mother. Vicky, daughter of GE employee, Howard Gehrig, became entangled in her father's shop apron which was hanging on the clothes line. She was discovered by her mother shortly after the accident hanging from the apron.

Mr. Webert rushed the baby back to his house and began artificial respiration immediately. By the time the doctor arrived, Vicky was breathing and the doctor credited Webert with saving the baby's life. Vicky was taken to Adams County Memorial Hospital for further care and observation, and is fine now.

As a member of the first aid course for electrical test employees, Louis, who is currently an electrical tester, learned methods of artificial respiration. The course is given all employees dealing directly with electricity.

Mr. Webert has been employed at the Decatur plant since 1937.

Vicky is the granddaughter of Tibi and Annabelle Gehrig and Alvena Lindeman, all of whom are Decatur plant employees.

H. A. MacKinnon To Open 1953-54 MPT Class Sept. 8

H. A. MacKinnon, vice president of the Component Products Division, will open the 1953-54 Manufacturing Training Program Tuesday, Sept. 8, with a talk on company organization.

The course, consisting of 72 classes, will begin September 8 and conclude May 17. The 30 trainees enrolled in the program will meet twice weekly in Bldg. 16-3.

In succeeding weeks, C. H. Rinne, general manager of the Specialty Transformer Department, will speak on company history, and Ab Martin, general manager of the Hermetic Motor Department, will discuss the organization of local operating departments.

GE THEATER—Charles McGraw finds himself somewhat uncomfortable in the presence of this unfriendly lady in scene from whodunnit thriller, "The Cat with the Crimson Eyes," next half hour presentation over the General Electric Theater. The play which blends the proper amount of romance, jewel thievery, and murder to produce an exciting mystery drama, will appear over the CBS network August 30 from 8 to 8:30 p.m. CDT. In addition to McGraw and Inez Palange (shown above) the all Hollywood cast will include Rita Moreno, Richard Benedict and Claudia Barrett.

Chick Kortum got dressed in such a hurry the other morning that he didn't watch what he was doing. He limped to work on one leg. After so long a time he discovered he had on two different colored shoes, one with a large heel and the other with a small heel. . . . Willard Smith has a brand new Chevrolet. . . . WANTED: Squirrel hunters to help rid a farm of squirrels. Clyde Alberson went hunting the other day and had to take two shots at a squirrel before it finally fell from the tree. When he examined it he found two places where the bullets had glanced off. Clyde would like to get a new stock as the old ones are getting too tough to kill. . . . Our sympathy to Chick Kortum on the death of his mother. Our sympathy also to Eleanor Currie on the death of her nine-month-old son. . . . Joe Roop's alarm clock (his one-year-old son) over slept a few mornings ago. Results? Joe was late for work. . . . Doris Briner, a former co-worker, was married last Friday. Hazel Stauffer was the organist for the wedding. . . . Lavon Nesbit is seeing good lately. She has a new pair of glasses. . . . Everett and Lee Lindeman moved into their new home over the week-end. It is reported that Everett wore the wood-work out trying to put the drapes up. . . . Good luck to Bob Fate, who left for the Army Thursday. . . . Tom Boyce is back at work. He was absent due to an auto accident during vacation. . . . Keith Guyot's kid brother, Phil, became the Junior City Golf Champion. He is following in his big brothers footsteps. Keith won the title a few years back. . . . Claude Gill is back from a months vacation in the South. . . . Caroline Becker is back from her four weeks trip to Germany. . . . Clarence Hartman is on the sick list. . . . Lorenz Korte was getting tired of standing so he "accidentally" cut both of his feet. He can now sit at his desk. . . . We are all glad to have Carrie Edgar back with us in 1 x 55. She has been in Bldg. 6-4 for sometime. . . . Helen Franklin had a busy week-end. She attended her niece's wedding on Saturday. . . . Hazel Neazim returned to 1 x 50 from Bldg. 4-4. Hope she stays a long time. . . . Martha Bulleit spent most of last week with her daughter, who is in the hospital. . . . Helen Boedecker wishes to tell everyone "hello". She said she has graduated from crutches to a cane. . . . Gus Rutz has a new television set. . . . Abe Reichter and Floyd Truelove have new Studebakers. Abe's is a '51 and Floyd's is a '53. . . . Willford Kinsey was in Wisconsin on his third week of vacation.

conducted September 23, 24, and 25. Candidates for office will be announced in the GE NEWS. Ballots will be distributed to all members.

Installation of the officers will be conducted at a tea Sunday, Oct. 11. The following day, the first regular meeting of Elex will take place in the GE Club. The Purdue University Glee Club has been booked for this meeting.

Apprentice Alumni To Stage Stag Sept. 2

Apprentice Alumni Association members will meet at Voigt's Retreat Wednesday, Sept. 2, for a stag. Beginning at 6 p.m., the event will include entertainment and sporting events such as volleyball, softball, and horseshoe, in addition to a lunch, refreshments, and attendance prizes.

Contact men have tickets, which are $1.50 per person. Tickets may also be secured at the door Wednesday evening.

"You're charged with throwing your mother-in-law out of the window. Guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty, your honor. I did it without thinking."

"That's no excuse—you might have hit somebody on the head."

SPECIALTY MOTORS Shipping—Receiving—Order Service

Eileen Fitch

We welcome Tony Settimi to the shipping office. Tony will operate the label and the fluid machines.

Happy birthday wishes to Ora Ramey, Floyd (Brownie) Brown, and Ruth Ann Bentz. . . . Chicago seemed to attract several motorists from the shipping office last week-end. Eloise Hoehn and husband attended a golden wedding celebration in Chicago, and Bonnie Johnson and family took in the sights at the Brookfield zoo. . . . Today we say farewell to Bonnie. She is leaving us to make "Home Sweet Home" sweeter for husband and little Cindy. . . . We are glad to hear that Bill Brown is recovering nicely from a recent operation. . . . Ed Trabel, Tom Dent, and Paul Merkert presented Ed David with a rack to keep his casting rods on; so he would be better prepared to pull in the big ones when he is at his cottage on Waldron Lake. . . . Paul Thomas has changed his brand. He was strictly a Ford man, but now he has a new Chevy. He waits in the parking lot until everyone else has left and the dust is settled, before he leaves. Then he hugs the curbing all the way home, to lessen the chances of getting any scratches on his car. . . . Art Heckber brought in a great big, red tomato for Tom Dent. Tom placed the tomato in his desk drawer for safe keeping. When his back was turned Ruth Schroeder removed the tomato and put a much smaller one in its place. Tom was really surprised when he discovered the trick, but somehow he found out who the guilty party was. When Ruth stepped out of the office, Tom exchanged them again. It was Ruth's turn to be surprised when she reached in the drawer to get the nice big juicy tomato.

N. Koreans Release Former GE Employee

A former Bldg. 20-1 employee, Cpl. Glen L. Householder, will return to the United States tomorrow after being released from a North Korea prisoner of war camp August 14.

Cpl. Householder will return aboard the transport Gen. W. F. Hase. When he arrives in Fort Wayne, he will be welcomed by his family at a homecoming.

In 1944, Householder became a GE employee. The following year he entered the U. S. Army.

Two Specialty Motor Customers Visit Here

Marvin A. Kagan, chief engineer, Mitchell Manufacturing Co., center, discusses a motor application problem with John G. Smaxwell, Bldg. 4-6, application engineer, and William Speth, Chicago sales engineer. Kagan and Speth visited the Specialty Motor plant last week. Mitchell now uses GE shaded pole motors on its line of room air conditioners.

These eight heads got together last week in Bldg. 4-6, to discuss future markets for ironers and to coordinate production and delivery of shaded pole motors to the Ironrite Corp., Mt. Clemens, Mich. Members of the all-day confab were left to right: Robert W. Richey, Bldg. 4-6, and Joseph F. Jamison, Bldg. 4-6, Specialty Motor application engineers, Hugh A. Folsum, Detroit sales engineer, H. B. Tomlin, Jr., Greenville, S. C., sales engineer, J. Uhlig, director of purchasing, Ironite Corp., J. Copping, manager of engineering, Ironite, James H. Draska, Electric Sink and Home Laundry application engineer, and Robert W. Groot, Specialty Motor Sales manager.

G-E DEATHS

Ernest R. Spaulding

Services Held Monday For Ernest Spaulding

Services for Ernest R. Spaulding, 49, were conducted Monday, Aug. 24, at the Mungovan & Sons Mortuary by the Rev. Robert J. McDanel. Mr. Spaulding died Friday, Aug. 21, at his home, 2122 Broadway, after a one year illness. Burial was in Lindenwood Cemetery.

In May, 1923, Mr. Spaulding joined General Electric as an apprentice draftsman in Bldg. 26-5. He entered drafting in Bldg. 18-5 in 1926. Later he went into Bldg. 4-6 drafting and was an assistant supervisor of drafting prior to July, 1952, when he took a leave of absence for illness. On November 1 of the same year, he retired on a disability pension.

Mr. Spaulding was a member of the Quarter Century Club, Supervisors Club, and GE Squares Club. Surviving are a brother, Tom, of Fort Wayne, and a sister, Mrs. O. Mohler, also of this city.

Heart Attack Fatal To Decatur Employee

A Decatur plant employee, Anselm Hackman, Sr., 55, died Friday, August 21, as the result of a heart attack. Services were conducted Monday, August 24.

Entering GE employ in 1942, Mr. Hackman served several years as a plant protection officer. For the past few years, he has been employed in the packing and shipping section.

Survivors include his wife, Christine; one daughter, Mrs. Raymond Meyer; and six sons, Leo, Patrick, James, Anselm, Jr., Edward, and Alvin. Leo, James, and Mrs. Meyer are employees at the Decatur plant.

ELEX THANK YOU

The Elex Club members and friends who took part in the European tour wish to express their thanks to everyone who helped make the trip such a success. They especially are grateful for the telegrams, gifts and interest in their tour.

Isaac Bird, 70, Dies Tuesday; Rites Today

A Quarter Century Club member, Isaac Bird, 70, died Tuesday, August 25, at his home, 1705 Fletcher Ave. Services will be conducted today at the Getz & Cahill Funeral Home at 8:30 a.m. and in St. Andrew's Catholic Church at 9 a.m. by the V. Rev. Msgr. Henry Horstman. Burial will be in the Catholic Cemetery.

A retired employee, Mr. Bird joined the company in 1911 and entered shipping and receiving. In 1939, he became a freight handler and held this position until his retirement Nov. 1, 1938. He was a native of Fort Wayne.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Catherine Minnick, of Fort Wayne; one brother, William, of Arcola, and several nieces and nephews.

TOOL BITS BLDG. 19-4 and 5 Don Clark

How's this for preparedness? Max Lindsey, with an eye on more successful fishing during next year's vacation, has purchased a new outboard motor. . . . John Fleischer's third week vacation was just like the first two—lots of water but no fish. . . . Bob Kahlenbeck, who places little restraint on his desire to sing while he works and has great ability to noisily drop wrenches, must be unhappy at home. How else could that two-month-old youngster ever get any sleep. What happens when daughter excels Dad? . . . Jim Steven's expert tutoring in ice skating has enabled his eight and ten-year-old daughters to surpass him in all departments. We hope they skate into plenty of blue ribbons this year. . . . Dale Edington, Ren Getty, and Kenny Zurbuch are staking out all the good rabbit grounds. They really know how to get them. . . . Dick Lee didn't mind looking through his tool box, drawers, and pockets for his car keys, but was humiliated when he found them. They were sticking in the door of his car. . . . Dick Gecowets isn't minding the dry spell—it's excellent weather for new houses with no roofs. . . . Gus Berghoff has a hard-headed lamb, and can show you a fractured right arm to prove it. . . . Everyone was teasing Art Dicke about his haircut until he finally, but reluctantly, revealed that he had been helping a friend shear sheep out in Cedar Canyon. Draw your own conclusions. . . . Soon after Willie Garman rented out his cottage for a week he received a call from the tenant who had lost a motor in the lake. Willie proved to be the perfect landlord by driving 50 miles, donning his diving outfit, and retrieving the motor; all for free. . . . While the Walter Greiner's vacationed at the lake a water line broke loose in his back yard, releasing an abundance of water. Walter had enough water at the lake so it looks like he'll be shoveling dirt till he gets that beautiful lawn back in shape. . . . Mart Walsh takes bids on straw from bickering GE farmers, and then casually buys from the lowest bidder. This time the sucker, we mean seller, was Bob Truelove. . . . On their vacation up North, Joe Mettler and Swede Mosser stopped at an eating place. The waitress spilled a large glass of tomato juice all over Swede and it pleased Joe so much

SPOT LIGHTS BLDG. 4-2 Estella Pettibone

Ed Gluskamp was invited by a group of friends on a one-day fishing trip. They were to be ready at 4 a.m. and were to eat breakfast before leaving home, so they could get an early start on the lake. There are some natives who live at the lake who don't appreciate "foreigners" from Fort Wayne fishing their lake to the extent they drive stakes in the boat channels and shoot over the fishermen's heads. Ed was the only one who was hesitant about agitating the people. As for the other fellows, fishing on the lake is very good and really isn't private so Ed was persuaded to go. Mrs. Gluskamp got up early and prepared him a big breakfast. The other fellows arrived one by one and admitted they had not had time to eat, but were willing to sacrifice food to fish early. About five miles out of town Ed began to worry about his buddies having no food so he persuaded them to stop at a restaurant. Gluskamp was the first to order. They were fishing about two hours before the neighbors were up, and apparently the fish were sleeping, too. At long last Ed's cork began to bob. With great anticipation he waited for it to sink. Bang! The neighbors fired a shot right over the boat. It is a good thing some one caught Ed as he was going down as he would have gotten awfully wet. We are sure he wouldn't have drowned as he was careful to wear his life preserver, since he doesn't know how to swim. . . . BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Kenny Stinson, Tom Vator, Lola Whitacre, and Alice Robison. . . . Jeane Conrad is well and back with us again. . . . To Oliver Bowman, who became ill while on vacation, we wish a speedy recovery. . . . Oliver Tracy has sold his home in Waynedale and is moving to his farm near Hudson. He also has a new grandson. . . . Louella Guy spent the third week of her vacation putting her clothes in order. When she finished she was surprised, she didn't know she had so many. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Kenny Stinson. He is the proud father of a baby boy.

that he tipped the poor embarrassed girl 50 cents extra. . . . Bernie Byanskie is convinced that Woody Hursh's fish lake, up by Fremont, does have a few fish left. He claims you need a life preserver when you risk your life riding in those submarines they call rowboats. . . . If you want to buy a good farm don't try to buy Ed Schafenacker's. Already 15 real estate men have beaten a path to his door. From the tone of Ed's voice the next time there might be something beaten besides a path. . . . We hear that Jack Schemehorn will now go swimming if you ask him. He refused Glenn Hoon's and Elmer Sauerwein's invitation, so they picked him up, beach chair and all, and threw him fully clothed into the cool refreshing water of Portage lake. What else could you do with a fellow that wears black, white, and red checked hobby jeans? . . . Kurt Martin has trained his German police dog very well. In fact, Kurt has taught this dog to obey his command in either English or German. Prince brings Kurt his newspaper, house slippers, and pipe. He even carries meat home from the butcher shop without eating it. But even with all this training Kurt forgot to teach Prince the difference between a fire hydrant, a tree and Merwood Dunlap's pants leg.

Inquiring Reporter:

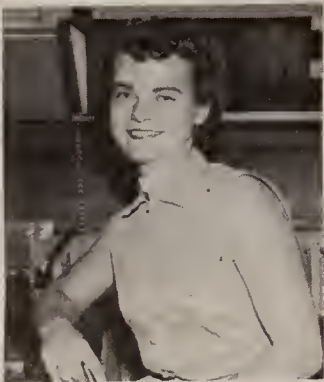

SHOULD POSTAL RATES BE INCREASED TO HELP CUT DOWN THE POSTAL DEPARTMENT'S OPERATING DEFICIT?

DARLENE E. BRIDGE
Bldg. 26-5

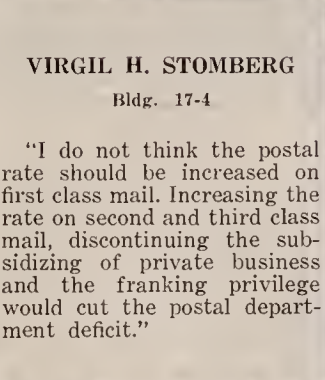

"I do not think postage rates should be increased unless they give the servicemen in the country better rates and charge the Congressmen more instead of letting them send everything for nothing."

LAWRENCE J. BRESLER
Bldg. 19-3

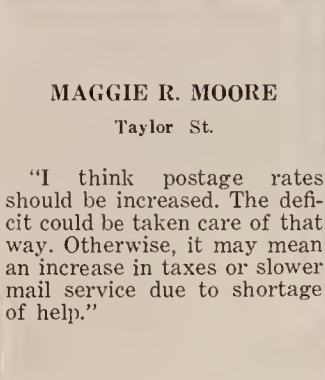

"Yes, I believe that all Federal departments should be self-supporting as nearly as possible. Increase in postal rates will not bother the individual financially. Large corporations, especially those engaged in postal advertisement, will share a large portion of the postal department's operating expenses."

VIRGIL H. STOMBERG
Bldg. 17-4

"I do not think the postal rate should be increased on first class mail. Increasing the rate on second and third class mail, discontinuing the subsidizing of private business and the franking privilege would cut the postal department deficit."

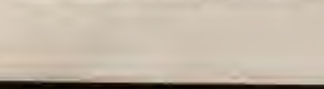

RALPH A. ESQUIVEL
Bldg. 20-2

"Comparing 1953 with 1940, the purchasing power of the dollar is now one-half (which means cost-of-living has doubled), but income payments have, with increased taxes taken into account, more than doubled. Postage rates, however, have not changed substantially. I'd say yes, increase postal rates if their efficiency cannot be increased to lower costs."

MAGGIE R. MOORE
Taylor St.

"I think postage rates should be increased. The deficit could be taken care of that way. Otherwise, it may mean an increase in taxes or slower mail service due to shortage of help."

Six Recent 30-Year Service Anniversaries Are Celebrated in Fort Wayne GE Plants

JOHN M. HABERKORN (right) talks over his 30 GE years with Ira Augspurger and William Moellering. Mr. Haberkorn is played in Section 13 at Taylor St.

GE Lamp, Iron Celebrate 40-Year Anniversaries

CELEBRATING 40 years of service, a GE iron is shown being used by Mrs. Perrey as she has used it since receiving it in 1913.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS BLDG. 22 George Winans

Life is sure full of disappointment. Take that poor old garage attendant up North for instance. When our hero, Don Voorhees, drove into his place in his big limousine, naturally the old fellow thought he was in for a big tip. Don had a tire he wanted fixed so the old-timer got right at it. When it was finished he wiped off our hero's windshield, checked his oil, radiator, and tires, and gave him an armload of his best road maps. "Would you mind wiping off the hood?" asked Don. "Certainly," said the old man. So after 45 minutes of polishing, the old man threw open the garage doors for Voorhees to be on his way. "How much do I owe you," asked Don. "Just 40 cents for the time," says the old man. The tired old fellow held out a knarled hand for the money. Voorhees placed some money in his hand, patted him on his grey head, and was off in a cloud of smoke. (Cigar smoke, of course.) The old man slowly unfolded his fingers and counted the money, 40 cents. . . . Huntington residents were startled last week to see a Cadillac with no driver going down the street in reverse. It belonged to Pat McCutcheon, who had stopped at the store in a hurry, throwing it in reverse but forgetting to shut off the ignition. The fellow who said Cadillacs practically drive themselves wasn't kidding. . . . Emma McCormick, formerly of Bldg. 22, and now of Bldg. 31-1, has the best looking cellarway on Bowser avenue. The designs on the walls and steps are out of this world. And the best thing about it is our ingenious little Emma did all the decorating herself. What would have taken an artist days, or perhaps week, took her but a few minutes. She just took a can of bright green paint, removed the lid, and kicked it down the steps. . . . I see where a finance company is looking for a theme song for its radio program. How about "I'm Walking Behind You?"

17-3 NEWSIES Wilhelmina Beeth

Our "we wish you happiness mat" is out for Fred Kiel and Dorothy Ford. They recently said, "I do." . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Ruth Pequignot, Stella DePree, Nancy Bryant, Virginia Longardner, Kenny Cook, and Dick Gidley. . . . BELATED CONGRATULATIONS to Hallie Hosler on her 35th wedding anniversary. . . . Among the new Ford owners is Ron Offord. A new red convertible. Girls, he's eligible, too. . . . We bid farewell to Jo Ann Qualls and Marilyn Yates. Also to Ruth Lester, who is entering nurses' training. . . . So long to Marilyn Hauptert, who will be very busy getting ready for a tiny visitor. . . . All was quiet in the restaurant at Uniondale when someone started the machine that makes milk shakes. Purl Hite almost broke the pedestrian speed law getting outside. She thought it was the fire alarm. . . . For once in his life, Bill Martin has had all the fish he could eat. It really takes the women to bring them in. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Martha Rice Overholt on the loss of her husband.

Proving that they come from a long life line, a GE lamp and a GE iron celebrated their 40th anniversaries of service this month.

Owned by Mrs. Ada Perrey, sister-in-law of retired employee, Ezmark Bolt, both products are still in working order.

Recently, Mrs. Perrey, who resides at 2947 Central Dr., retired the light bulb from active duty on her porch where it served since the house was built in 1913. However, she still uses her iron, received as a wedding gift 40 years ago. Mrs. Perrey states that she likes it better than any other and has used it regularly since receiving it.

STORMY WEATHER BLDG. 17-4

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

Perhaps there is just a little envy in it, but we certainly admired the beautiful watches and music box that Elizabeth Reed and her husband brought back from Switzerland on the recent tour. From the stories and descriptions given, the trip certainly was worth every penny and the time spent. . . . There's never a dull moment at Sol Andorfer's house. Last week he had to rush his wife to the hospital for the removal of an angry appendix. She is coming along nicely and by the time we go to press, she should be home. . . . It seems a shame that the man's gold wrist watch with a cracked crystal, belonging to Elmer Brown, hasn't been found yet. . . . If anyone has any pickles, contact Alice Pflueger. She is in the market for some. . . . We'd all be much better off if we could look as sharp and bright as Edna Ward does. . . . It was a pleasure to see our pensioners, Fritz Stauffer, Jimmy James, and Charles Crankshaw up for a visit. Also, a welcoming hand to our sick, back with us again: Ezra Garringer and Marion Sprague. . . . Alice Hahn says now that her husband is over his poison ivy, he can finish painting their bathroom. . . . We neglected last week to mention the beautiful linen handkerchiefs that Elizabeth Reed brought back as souvenirs from Switzerland for all the girls in the winding section. . . . If anyone is interested in acquiring a baby sitter, see Clara Kleint. They say she is very reasonable and dependable. Of course, a television set is a must. . . . A sight to bring tears to your eyes—Omer Mettler eating a large, hot pepper without benefit of bread, or anything else. . . . There won't be any shortage of potatoes at Otto Fackler's house this winter. He claims that his are so big that they are bulging the ground open in cracks an inch to two inches wide. Line up, boys, prosperity has come at last. . . . QUOTATION FOR THE WEEK: "Success is getting what you want; happiness is wanting what you get."

This is no joke, for any and all concerned. . . . A recent new recruit turned up in Fort Meade, Md., with the real but somewhat wonderful name of Pvt. Donald R. Duck.

RETIRING after 40 years of service, a GE lamp owned by Mrs. Ada Perrey, with her brother-in-law, GE pensioner, Ezmark Bolt, is shown where it has been in operation for 40 years.

WIRE RAVELINGS TAYLOR ST. Art Rasor

Our deepest sympathy to Forrest Gill on the death of his mother. . . . Why is it some fellows always plan on catching a big fish and have to rely on a story, when they return empty-handed. Fred Ramseyer borrowed a large ice box from Harry Perl so he could bring the fish home whole. Wait until next week to see how big the story will be. . . . Did you hear about Breese breezing out of Mexico? The story is long, but before the Mexican could catch him to play guitar music all night, he beat it for the border. . . . Imagine Clarence Coulter trying to join the C.W.A.! . . . Joe Taylor and his Indiana Redbirds played before a crowd of 8,000 at Buck Lake Ranch on the same program as Smiley Burnette. He also played at the round and square dances and showed the crowd some Fort Wayne style of Western music. . . . Congratulations to Steve Bobay on his 19th wedding anniversary, July 25. . . . Cletus Lothamer is home recuperating after an operation and is getting around very well. He is hoping to return to work after Labor Day. . . . Paul Patton and Glenn Rittenhouse go squirrel hunting and spend all day looking for a fictitious fox. A third member of the party had them jumping all day to watch behind them for a fox. . . . Earl Rickey is having a bit of trouble getting the perfume odor out of the office. His first move was to have Harry Bash dispose of his "Solventol" and he then requested an "apple blossom spray."

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

The Owl golf season came to an abrupt end with the twelfth session. This was at the request of Golf Chairman Harold Braden, so that all of the Club League winners could be properly identified at the sports banquet to be held early in October.

The Champs from Bldg. 19-1 who have been the scourge of the Owl League for many years, won the right to play in the championship 18-hole match by holding the top spot at the end of the twelve weeks.

The Owls have a system of play-offs which include the first five teams in the league standings at the end of the year. The champion is the winner of this playoff.

Lloyd Grider's Champs made sure of the final playoff berth by swamping Don Hower's Pars to the tune of 20 points. This win cemented the Champs first place with a 71 plus total. The loss of 20 pushed the Pars into fourth place behind the Eagles and the Birdies.

The Eagles had a good chance to cap the top spot with a forfeit win and ten points assured but the Champs had other plans.

Norm Wolf's Birdies moved up a notch with a gift ten point forfeit win. Old pro Warren Wickliffe paced the last day's firing with a one under par 35.

Play-off Results

The play-off parings were as follows:

Eagles vs. Pars.
Birdies vs. Bogeys.

The winners of the above matches to play nine more holes for the right to play in the 18-hole championship with the Champs.

The Pars had given the Eagles fits all season and the play-off was no exception. The Pars won by eight points. Norm Wolf's Birdies squeaked by the Runyon Bogeys by a mere two points.

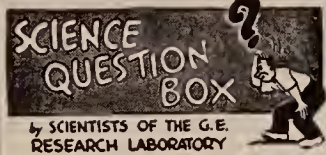

Vern Foulks led the opening play-off lads with a 39. Paul Billman, Dutch Day and Earl Stauffer (that's me!) were right behind with 40's.

Semi-Final Results

Hower's Pars and Wolf's Birdies hooked up in a ding-dong battle for the championship play-off spot and the Birdies won out by 8 points. The issue wasn't decided until the seventh hole when Harry Rhodes and Stauffer pared the rest of the way and while opponents Dave Mumma and Woodie Treese came in ten over total on the last three holes.

The final outcome showed the Birdies with a 174 total to the Pars' 186 total and a 4 stroke handicap.

Q. How many different animals are there?

A. Zoologists recognize something over 900,000 species of living animals. In addition there are a great many more which are now extinct, but are known through their fossil remains. Insects are the most numerous, with about 675,000 living species. Among the chordates (the large division which includes man) there are some 45,000 species, divided approximately as follows: fishes, 25,000; amphibians (frogs, toads, etc.), 2500; reptiles, 4500; birds, 8600 and mammals, 4400.

Q. Does it get cold or hot at very great heights above the Earth?

A. For the first five to ten miles, the temperature decreases, to about 67 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. Then it goes up, reaching 170 degrees around 40 miles altitude, but drops again, to about minus 28 degrees at 60 miles. Still higher, the temperature goes up again, until it is about 4000 degrees at a height of 400 miles. However, the air is so exceedingly rarefied at this altitude that it is not really "hot" in the same sense as the air is hot in summertime at ground level. The high temperature refers to the speed at which the few molecules present are moving. These would have very little effect on a thermometer, whose reading would be determined mainly by the radiation it absorbed from the Sun.

Q. What is the difference between noise and music?

CENTENNIAL QUEEN—Beverly Ann Kees reigned as queen of the Harlan Centennial July 31 and August 1. Sixteen-year-old Beverly is the daughter of Dallas Kees, Bldg. 19-5 Die Plant. A sophomore at Harlan High School, Beverly Ann took part in the pageant and other festivities and presented a floral award to Harlan's oldest living inhabitant.

A. Noise, as well as music, is a series of sound waves in the air. In general it can be said that the musical note lasts for a relatively long time, and that its intensity and frequency (the number of vibrations per second) are rather uniform. A noise, on the other hand, is a series of waves that is either very brief, or very irregular in frequency and intensity, so that it does not mean anything to us when we hear it. However, the exact dividing line between music and noise is a psychological one, and depends largely on one's training. Years ago, when first written, much of Wagner's music seemed very unmusical to many people, but now that we are used to it, it sounds very beautiful. Similarly, to many of us, the work of some modern composers is only noise, while trained musicians consider it to be musical.

GE Owls Beat Magnavox; Hold League Leadership

by Howard Colby

The GE Owls played Magnavox two games last week before they finally dumped them 17 to 3 to cop first place standings in the YMCA Softball League.

The first game was played last Wednesday morning at McMillen Park and ended up in a deadlock at nine all at the end of seven innings. This forced the two teams to play again on Friday as the League rules state that all games ending in a tie must be replayed.

Both teams totaled ten hits and nine runs in the first contest with the seventh to come out of a tie game. The tying run for GE came as manager Benny Penkul came to bat for Crosley and received a base on balls and came in when Gene Etter slapped a hard double. GE needed a run in the last of into left field to pull this one out of the fire.

In the game Friday morning, Paul Billman pitched the first five innings for the Club, and did a swell job of it as he held Magnavox to one run on two hits. The GE boys had a slug-fest and got to Buhler, the Magnavox pitcher, for ten runs on eight hits in the first two innings.

Broadfoot went to the mound in the third for Magnavox and allowed only one hit in this frame. But GE came back in the fourth and belted him for six runs on five hits to run the score to 16 to 1.

Ron Blodgett relieved Billman in the fifth inning keeping Magnavox hitless for the next two innings, while GE scored another run in the sixth.

Bub Hower went to the mound in the seventh and held Magnavox to two runs to wind up the game with a 1 to 3 victory.

All the boys hit well, with Blauvelt getting a home run in the sixth and Ken Zurbuch hitting a homer in the second. At this writing the drawing for the play-off has not been made.

Rod and Gun Plan 30-Cal. Match Sunday

Sunday, August 30, members of the GE Rod and Gun Club will travel to Huntington for a 30-caliber match at the Sam Bowlin farm, Pat Paterson, president, announced this week.

The meet will consist of four-man teams. Teams will be formed as the men arrive. Among other organizations participating are the Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver Club, Huntington Rifle Club, Police Rifle Team, and Marine Reserve Rifle Team.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Kirkendall's on the arrival of Alan Lee on August 24, weighing 6 lbs. 5 ozs. Mother, father, and son, all doing fine! . . . WELCOME to Virginia Moser. She formerly cashiered in the cafeteria. . . . AND WHAT'S ON YOUR ALLEGED MIND? It finally happened. Ray Jones made contact with the floor. He is now an official member of the Floor Sitters' Club. . . . LUCKY PEOPLE: Leon Diegel is now driving a new Ford and Forrie Carlson is driving a new Plymouth. . . . THE FINANCIAL SECTION REPORTS: Carolyn Kohrman became engaged to Skip Krider of Fort Wayne on August 18. The wedding date has been set for October 3, 1953. . . . HELLO to the following recent newcomers to the financial department: Helen A. Kaufman, Patricia J. Seymour, Mildred Mitchell, and Marcia Sue Priddy. . . . SINCERE SYMPATHY to the family of Ernest Spaulding who passed away Friday, August 21, at his home. . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK to Earl Bullock, who leaves us today to return to college. Earl was a member of John Willsey's group during his summer assignment. . . . A BELATED HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Gwen Griffith Bray on August 23. Gwen celebrated her birthday with her husband's folks in Iowa, and is spending her vacation in the West. We'd like to compliment Gwen on the chic blue dress she made. . . . More belated happy birthdays to Bill Rutledge, August 16; Claude Voss, August 17; Helen Kassen and Joe Baclawski, on August 22; Harry Balz, August 25; Stan Dasealoff, August 27, and a coming-up happy birthday to Walley Clayton on August 29. . . . LINDA is now the boss at 1505 Hickory Road. She also answers to the name of Legs. She is the young Doberman Pinscher belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baltz. Harry went through quite a bit of agony when Linda had her ears cropped. . . . SO GLAD to welcome Bob Susdorf as a permanent member of our organization, as of August 31.

SHAFT SHAVINGS BLDG. 19-3 Blanche Cowell

Welcome to Alvy Place, who started in the plating room. He came from Winter St. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cline. It is a girl named Karen Sue, born July 28. . . . A simple question Jerry Stanger would like to know. The truth is all he wishes. Are all fisherman liars, or do all liars fish? . . . The Eugene Blys' finally got out of Allen County. The first time since they were married. They went to Toledo. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Lenny Reuss on the arrival of Lenny, the third. He was born Wednesday, August 19, and weighed 8 lbs., 10 oz. A nice big boy. . . . Happy birthday to Jim Feber, III, whose birthday was August 24th. . . . Apparently, Fred McClure is taking on bigger or at least a better sparing partner. He is getting married soon. He is an amateur boxer. He boxes on TV on Saturday night from Indianapolis. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Henry Becker have returned from a flying trip to Europe. While there, they visited Austria, Switzerland and Germany. They came across the Elex girls on their tour. Henry says it was a wonderful trip. They enjoyed every bit of it.

GE Old Timers All Set For Big Game Tuesday

As time for the annual old-timers' classic nears, organization of the GE team is well under way, Manager Elmer Wagner reports. The big event takes place Tuesday evening, Sept. 1, at Dwenger Park. Game time is 8 o'clock.

By popular demand Wagner and Red Carrington, manager of the City Old Timers team will oppose each other on the mound for the opening inning.

Members of GE's Old Timers team as of press time are Ernie Hanauer, George Cowan, Sam Baumgartner, Lee Crowell, Tony Wichman, Erv Huth, Robert Glenn, Hank Bubbs, Vic Leakey, Charlie McAfee, Jap Voirol, Eddie Kam-meyer, Lou Barney, Otto Rodenbeck, George Langenberg, Joe Henry, and Dugan McKerring.

This will be the seventh meeting of the two teams in as many years. Tickets for the contest are fifty cents per person and may be secured from any of the above members of GE's group. The admission price is used to pay for injuries sustained by players of both teams.

Any employees who are interested in joining the squad may do so, manager Wagner reported, by contacting him on Ext. 2108.

Bowling Notes

All girls who bowled last year and want to bowl again this year are asked to contact their captains or the secretary of the league as soon as possible. League captains are anxious to know how many vacancies have to be filled.

Any new bowler interested in bowling on Friday nights should contact Virginia Mollet, Bldg. 31-2, on Ext. 2311, or Betty Puff, Bldg. 4-6, Ext. 726.

Bowling will start Friday, September 18, at 6 p.m.

ATTENTION: The Women's Tuesday Afternoon League still needs bowlers. This league bowls at 3:30 p.m.

League action starts Tuesday, September 15. Call or send your names to Mary Nute, Bldg. 4-3, Ext. 646, or Charlotte Stanford, Ext. 2553, Section 13, Taylor St.

Any woman on second shift interested in bowling on a second shift women's league are asked to contact Bea Lantz on H-75832, or Marj Rolands on A-40741. Contact either of these two between the hours of 8 and 10 a.m.

GE Jr. Fed Entry Lose at Elkhart

In the National Junior ABC tourney at Elkhart last weekend, the GE Club team lost out to the two teams that went on to the final game.

Starting out with a win, GE's boys won over Wisconsin by a 9 to 4 score in the first day of play, Thursday. That same day saw them defeated by the Detroit team which copped the championship of the event. Our team lost by a 9 to 0 score.

The double elimination event saw GE lose to Decatur, Ill., Friday, Aug. 21, by a score of 4 to 3 in a hard fought duel.

The GE Club Junior Federation team will be honored at the Club's fall athletic banquet along with other athletes who won honors in summer events. The team won three trophies in local and state Junior American Baseball Congress events for the current season.

DECATURITES George Laurent

"How to Remain Ageless" is the proposed title to a book reportedly being written by John Baumann. As proof of his facts, it has been established he is required by certain people to prove his legal age. . . . No, Jay Moser's upper lip isn't dirty. It is just a pretty red mustache he has grown. . . . The bowling season at the GE Club alleys will begin Tuesday, Sept. 8. It was announced jointly by Francis Eady, Club President, and Harold Shoaf, chairman of the Club Bowling committee. Mr. Shoaf stated that his committee will make every effort to contact all prospective men and women bowlers to get them lined up on a team for the season. Following is the tentative schedule set up for the various leagues:

Monday—GE Men's League.
Tuesday—GE Moose Women's League.
Wednesday—GE Fraternal League.
Thursday—GE Women's League.
Friday—GE Mixed Doubles League.

We wish to extend our sympathy to Paul Stahly upon the death of his mother, and to Bob August upon the death of his father. . . . Frank Braun, general foreman of Bldg. 2, Decatur plant, underwent major surgery at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne. At this writing Frank is reported to be recuperating satisfactorily. Frank's co-workers join me in wishing him a speedy recovery. . . . Homer Hoblet and Ralph D. Ross have returned to work after being on the sick list for several weeks.

2-2 TALES Belle Buchan

If Ralph Arme gets tired of riding around in his new car he can sit at home and look at his new television set. . . . Vern Castle can't even give his money away. Walt Kryder won a bet from Vern then big-heartedly refused to accept the money. We have a faint suspicion that Walt will get that money yet. . . . WE WELCOME to the office Sally Lepper. She is secretary to Joe Orbin. . . . Sixteen girls from the office went out to "Buchan Acres" for a chili supper and to play croquet and pitch a few horseshoes. Hope everyone had a good time. . . . Joyce Horstmeyer was very much surprised at a bridal shower given for her the other night. Joyce is our bride of the week. She is leaving after her marriage next Saturday.

TOP FLOOR TOPICS BLDG. 26-5

Jack Lea

Walt Mertz bestowed on me the doubtful honor of being one of the first to hear that he was a proud father. I refer to this as being a doubtful honor, as I don't care to be honored at 3 a.m. Walt seemed surprised that I should be sleeping at that hour. If anyone else intends to be proud parents in the future, please restrain yourself until I get to work. . . . WELCOME BACK to Betsy Felger, who has been off for some time. . . . Congratulations are in order for Elaine Nicodemus who recently married. . . . Henry (Spider) Webster had a little trouble with his hobby jeans. . . . Anyone interested in ordering "boy or girl" potholders should see Leona Henry. . . . Lela White and Julia Scheumann celebrated their birthdays with pie instead of cake. . . . Helen Doty raised the question of how long it would take a man to polish the chrome his wife is trimmed with. . . . A speedy recovery to Cecelia Pranger who is in the Lutheran Hospital, and to Mary Smith who is ill at home. . . . Helen Boyer goes out to the Speedway to catch up on her sleep. She takes cat naps between races. . . . John Hallien's old car finally had to retire to the junk yard, so John broke down and bought a new one. An Olds 88 no less. . . . Clarence Dick has left the company and we wish him lots of luck on his truck driving job. . . . Ellen Henry joins the long list of people who claim that not hearing the alarm made them late for work. . . . DAFFY DEFINITIONS: Better — What every girl should know. Nudist Camp—Where every sunrise brings the dawn of a nude day. Doughnut—A round straight line with a hole in the middle.

THE BIG WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Rachel Mounsey

Belated birthday greetings to Jean Young and Wilma (Tommy) Williams, who celebrated on the 23rd. . . . Ruby Stuckey was quite happy over the fact that her brother spent Sunday at the lakes with them for the first time in five years. . . . Alma Welches was at the Toledo zoo over the week-end. . . . We were sorry to see Barbara Kleinknight, Edith Hancock, and Anna Elliott leave us. . . . Marilyn Sprunger was really worn out Monday morning from seeing too much horse show over the week-end. . . . Helen has returned to work after four weeks in California. . . . Welcome back to Estella Coleman who has been on our sick list. . . . Hazel Gahman is trying to be a kid again, but found out that bicycle riding can be dangerous. . . . Bertha Steele went fishing on her day off Friday. . . . Stella Evans has a new way to get to the Toledo zoo. First you take U. S. 24 to Peru, then back to Fort Wayne before you get there. . . . Goody Cunningham found out he wasn't as big a man as he thought he was. He went to buy himself some article of clothing and when he got home to try it on it was too big. Inside the package was a small tag which said, "no exchange." . . . If you have any old fishing plugs that you can't use just bring them to Bob Johnson and tell him they are hard to get. Bob will buy them from you. . . . Frank Beatty found out what they mean by a lost week-end. The Beattys had a reunion and Frank was the host.

COUNT OFF SUB-SECT. 17 Marguerite Stahl

We hope Marceile Ewert, who is on sick leave, will soon be well and back with us. . . . We also hope Ed Willey is soon recuperated on his leave of absence. . . . Maurice Roe treated the gang with tomatoes from his own little garden that he raised with his own little hands. . . . Virginia Buesching attended the Arthur Godfrey show in New York on her vacation. She went by train in 16 hours, and came home in 4 hours by plane. She had breakfast in New York with her sister and dinner in Fort Wayne with her mother. . . . If you want information on fortune telling ask Harry Knafel. He attended a Fair last week. . . . Anyone wanting to buy some red bouncing tomatoes see Ralph Keller. He has them on special at $6 a bushel. . . . We have heard of people getting in a hurry but Rosie Johnson was in such a hurry the other evening she forgot what she was doing.

. . . We hope Elitza Rhinehold, Pat Hartman, and Josephine Wyss will soon be back with us, after a temporary lay-off due to lack of work. . . . How did Glen Miller get in on the muskmelon that Ed Feidler brought in to the girls? . . . Happy Birthday to Clara Gideby. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Ruth Cavender and Ollie Ragan on the death of their sisters. . . . Elinor Ness and husband moved into their new home in South Park over the week-end. . . . There was a lot of gabbing at work Monday with Hubby Stoops back from California. She and Marguerite Stahl had a lot of notes to compare. . . . We wish Oral Emrick a lot of luck in his shooting contest over in Ohio. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cannon and Estella Peele visited relatives in Bluffton Sunday. Mr. Cannon is a former co-worker and is now retired from GE. . . . Ed Bandt says he will still put a thermometer up on the post if someone proves they need another one.

There are two ways of spreading light: to be the candle, or the mirror that reflects it.—Edith Wharon.

Through the medium of the GE NEWS I want to thank each and every one of you for your felicitations and to wish you many happy days at your new work.—George H. Stouder.

MOTOR GENERATOR STATIC

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "Denunciation of the young is a necessary part of the hygiene of older people."—Logan Smith.

OF BABIES AND STUFF: The other day we received a call from our old friend Alice Rosendahl, now at Taylor St. Calls from Alice are always welcome as her conversations radiate an exuberant buoyancy that gives one a definite boost. Alice informed us that she visited with Vija Radzius during her vacation. Vija, her husband and baby son, now reside in Sheboygan Falls, Wis. She reports that Edwin Andre never permits his parents a dull moment. Vija was formerly employed in our production department. Alice also informed us that Don and Mavis Koehendorfer are the proud parents of a 9 lb. 2 1/2 oz. baby boy named Gary Paul. Mavis was formerly employed in our production department. . . . SLIGHT MISTAKE: Louis Hildner opened his lunch package the other noon. When he saw its contents his jaw dropped. It contained one dozen cookies. In his hurry to get started to work he picked up the wrong sack. . . . OUR WISE SAYING: Homer Campbell refuses to be outdone by the others who have contributed wise sayings to our column. His gem is: "Temperament is temper that is too old to spank." . . . MORE FUN. Had a game of "button, button, who's got the button" the other day. Homer Campbell lost a button off his shirt and had trouble finding it. He finally discovered the elusive critter and prevailed upon one of the young ladies to sew it on. Homer was happy and so was the young lady, who had thus performed her Girl Scout duty for that day.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

This is a tale of the trials and tribulations of Marie Buck. While preparing to take her daily walk during lunch time, Marie thought it would be desirable to lock her billfold in the file cabinet. Returning to work she learned, much to her sorrow, that her purse containing the keys to the cabinet was also locked in the file. The only other known key was with her boss, Mr. Kresge, far away in the east on business. Fortunately, this story has a happy ending. Marie was able to contact the firm from which the cabinets were purchased and obtained a third key.

A guy can't even cut himself shaving any more. When Ellis Bleke came to work with a patch under his chin, several prophetic coworkers were sure that they knew exactly what happened. Harvey Petty explained it this way: Ellis must have talked when he should have been listening. But Walt Buesking's version was that Ellis "stood up" when he was told to "shut up."

Ross VanHorn had his work cut out for him last week-end when he was assigned to keep the people off the golf greens during the PGA golf tournament. Did a fine job, too! . . . Ralph Lochner will long remember his recent trip to New York City. The purpose of the journey was to see his daughter, Edna, off for South Africa. Edna was appointed to a missionary post by the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene at Kansas City, and expects to teach in the high school and teacher's training school at Capetown, South Africa. A graduate from Olivet Nazarene College, Edna received her M. D. from Ball State. Congratulations, Ralph, you can be very proud of your daughter.

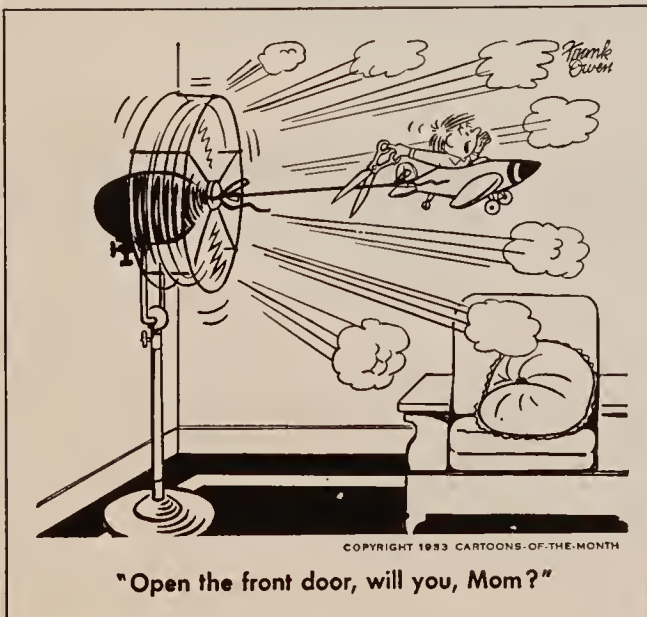

A busy week's vacation is scheduled by Winifred Hile, who is making ready for the big wedding that will take place soon. Winifred's daughter will be married and "Mom" is doing her share to help complete the plans for the big occasion. . . . Not content to just relate her fishing experiences in Wisconsin, Helen Homenberg brought in the pictures that were proof positive of the king-sized, tasty bluegills that were part of her prize catch. . . . A scream and a sudden flight down the aisle was the reaction that a huge horsefly, held captive in a jar, had on Beatrice (jet propelled) Pender. The plane isn't built that could equal Bea's take-off.

The purchase of a new television has made Dale Hobson very economy-minded. Dale's going to reconsider his generosity, collect all the gifts previously given, and sell them for what they're worth so he can make another payment on his television. . . . With the addition of a magician to the tool room, the men have readied themselves for any type of trickery that might be sent in their direction. We bid you "welcome," Tom Rockhill. . . . These musical productions have kept Fritz Woerner busy! He spent his time fiddling last week-end for the light opera production of "Bloomer Girl" which was presented at Franke Park.

We once again rolled out the welcome mat this week. This time it was to welcome Jack Harshman and Virgil Curley to the drafting room. . . . Having Toby Tyler's interest at heart, and trying to provide him with lunch time entertainment, Curley Mannon has introduced Toby to Pogo comic books for educational reading. Toby, now a Pogo enthusiast, says anyone not reading this comic strip is missing out on one of the finer things in life. . . . The purchase of obsolete office equipment has presented some slight domestic difficulties for a few anxious buyers. Al Tew purchased some desks and when they were delivered, the Mrs. refused to have anything to do with them. She had just done some cleaning and paid to have some unused items hauled away when these desks were staring her in the face. Besides, the doorway was not built large enough for her husband's thrifty purchases.

Then there is Jim Geiger who purchased a file cabinet and, deciding to clean out the discarded contents, discovered the files were locked and he was without keys. So Jim enlisted the help of a neighbor to help him tip over the heavy file so he could pry it open. This was a failure, so the next evening was spent trying each key in a group of over a hundred for "the key." At last—success!

The $64 question in the engineering section is "What is Ted Lorenz's first name?" . . . With the increase in office help, the pedestrian traffic in the third floor hall has reached an all time high. We have received a suggestion that traffic lights be installed and the speed limit lowered to enable Audrie Fankhouser to get across the hall without any further mishaps. . . . Jan Conroy came out with a screech through the halls when she was confronted with a very realistic, squirmy, plastic lizard. The originator of this practical joke? Hutch, of course. Who else?

Club Books Ring Card

GE Club Ring to See Boxing Action Sept. 29

Tuesday, Sept. 29, the GE Club will open its doors to a boxing show featuring 1953 Golden Gloves champions of Fort Wayne and Toledo. Frank Newport, Bldg. 19-1, is serving as chairman of the event, which is being sponsored by the Club boxing committee.

To further the interest in Golden Gloves for both participants and the public, plans have been made for a series of 10 boxing shows this year before the 1954 tournament opens the first of the year. Five of the shows will be staged in the Club and the others will be away from home. In future shows, championship teams from other cities in the vicinity will be matched against local champs.

The card for the opening show will feature five inter-city matches, three other bouts, and one special bout.

Tickets will go on sale this month at the GE Club. Reserved seat tickets may be purchased for one dollar. All other seats will be 60¢.

Truck Driver Is Commended For Courtesy

John E. Joseph, member of the Fort Wayne plant drivers fleet, received a pat on the back recently for his courteous driving while on the job.

On one of his runs to the Dekalb plant delivering materials, Mr. Joseph was observed on U. S. Highway 30 by a cooperating member of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association. For his "good job of driving in every respect," the driver was commended through a report from the association's director of safety.

In addition to the above comment on the driver's manner on the highway, the observation report also commented, "Driver unusually courteous to other drivers. Kept well to the right and signalled when it was clear to pass."

TOPS WITH $240—Arthur Hyser (right), an electrician in Bldg. 20-2, shows Whitey Van Auken the suggestion which earned him $240 in July and placed him at the top of the suggestion list for the month. His idea concerned improvements to a casting turning machine which reduced maintenance work.

GeCode Members Plan First Autumn Meetings

Wednesday, Sept. 9, is the date set by first and second shift Decatur GeCode Club members for their first autumn meetings. "GeCode Club Is Here Again" is the theme of both parties which are to be conducted at the Moose Home.

Today is the deadline for returning reservations for the first shift party, which will get under way at 6 p.m., Sept. 9. Night girls will convene at 12 noon the same day.

A white elephant sale will be conducted at the meetings. All members attending are asked to take articles for the sale and not to wrap them.

Chairman of the first shift party is Nyla Wilkinson. She is being assisted with arrangements by Zula Holloway, Viola Melchi, Esther Meyer, Genevieve Owens, Norma Poorman, Doris Resh, Margaret Waltke, Linda Striker, and June Railing.

Alice Burd is chairman of the

WOWO to Feature Junior Achievement

A program entitled "American Youth in Business" will be broadcast over WOWO tomorrow at 9:30 p.m. The program will feature Junior Achievement, an organization to interest young people in our free enterprise system by giving them an opportunity to run small businesses of their own.

General Electric is one of the sponsoring firms of the program in Fort Wayne.

140 REAP $1020 IN IDEA HARVEST

Arthur Hyser Earns $240 For Top Award During July

More than 140 employees shared in the suggestion harvest of $1,020 in July, according to A. C. Hartman, Suggestion Plan secretary. Reaping in the top award of $240 was Arthur Hyser, of GAC Section 13 at Taylor St. Mr. Hyser suggested improvements to a casting turning machine which reduced maintenance work.

Dean E. Shaffer, of the Large Motor and Generator Department, was next on the list with a $110 award for suggesting an improved method of identifying drawings.

There were two employees on the July list who earned $100 suggestion checks. They were John R. Miles, GAC Section 14, Taylor St., and Harlan L. Forschner, Specialty Transformer Section 93. Mr. Miles' idea was for adding a group to drawings to combine two different bases. Mr. Forschner suggested an improved method of lead tying.

Three $75 checks went to Manfred Adams, Specialty Transformer Section 94, George N. Miller and Wayne Cook, both of Specialty Section 19. Mr. Adams earned his award for an idea which saved time. He suggested that the cross-over connections be braised before treatment instead of after. Mr. Miller's idea omitted grinding and saved time and effort in the grinding operation. Mr. Cook suggested

The Best Way to Get That 'Raise'

The minds of countless men and women, great and not so great, have been busy over the centuries trying to figure out short-cuts or sure-fire formulas for spreading and increasing prosperity.

Politicians have tried turning out cheap money, so there would be more of it to go around for everybody. That usually drew cheers from the people, until it became obvious that doubling the supply of money did not double the amount of things that could be bought. Also the politicians tried fixing low prices for goods, to make the increase of cheap money mean something more than thicker wallets. But despite all the glowing promises and learned theorizing, that didn't work either.

More Money Is Natural Aim

It is perfectly natural for all of us to want to get more for our labors, and most of us have ideas of our own on how to do it. Union men believe that the best way to make economic progress is through organization and the use of pressures to up their rates of pay. The feeling still persists that machines threaten the jobs and standards of industrial employees—and some oppose the introduction of new machines although the facts disprove the "machine menace" theory. Others still favor the notion that feather-bedding is good economics. There are even those who think that apple-polishing, getting chummy with the boss, will make hay for them.

All of these devices have one thing in common: they do absolutely nothing to increase the output of goods. But whether we're aware of it or not, only by producing more goods for everybody to share do we actually move ahead. Those increases in wages which raise costs and hence cause higher prices bring no real benefit to anyone.

Without belittling anybody's ideas as to the best way to get ahead, we suggest that real hourly earnings—the actual buying power of an hour's work—have tripled since 1900 because of a force quite different from any of the devices we've mentioned.

Productivity Most Powerful Force

This powerful force is productivity. Numerous factors enter into the improvement of productivity—invention, capital investment, better machines, the skill and cooperation of employees, competition, management competence; even the weather. To reduce all this to a simple term, productivity usually is measured as unit output per man-hour. Greater productivity means higher wages, more goods, lower prices.

Recently the Twentieth Century Fund predicted that real wages probably will go up in the United States two and one-half to three per cent a year for the next ten or twenty years—due to new machines, better methods and realization by more workers that increased productivity is the only real road to better and better pay.

The meaningful thing about higher productivity is that it represents economic progress for everybody, by providing more goods and lower prices. Productivity is not the servant of any single group—and when any one group tries to get more at the expense of the rest of the population, the attempt is generally a boot-strap operation that ends in a fall.

If everyone does what he can to speed the march of productivity, we can all have that raise—in real rewards.

WIRE RAVELINGS TAYLOR ST.

Everybody is questioning what color of a toupee Truman Buckles would look well in. After friendly jests and an honest vote, they decided that red would fit him best—tomato red, that is. . . . Birthday greetings to Leo Elward on the 5th of September. . . . Squirrel hunting has become quite a game for Paul Patton. The best he could do was a chicken, two catfish, and one turtle. The chicken was an accident with the car, a set line caught the catfish, and the turtle was apprehended in a gravel pit. The total for squirrels was a big zero, but Paul hopes to get some yet before squirrel season closes. . . . Anyone wanting to purchase some catfish steak should contact Sylvester Steele today (Friday) while the meat is still only a week old. This 27-inch, 7-pound catfish was the catch of the week and everyone is having quite a time keeping from hearing the story twice. . . . If anyone can repair electric clocks, see Lena Goss, because she is having a little trouble. First the clock is a half hour fast, then it stops altogether. This is very important as she depends very much on the time. . . . Howard Smith boasts a limit catch every time he goes fishing but the rest of the fellows can't even get a bite. Since he catches so many they try to work him over for a fish fry but he always has an excuse. His friends are beginning to wonder if the fish are very small or whether they are marked fish from a conservation site. . . . After getting only one hit all season, Bill Brandt had eight hits for eleven times at bat to help Scott's Recreation win the Ham League title for the second year in a row. I think he deserves an M. V. P. award. . . . Our deepest sympathy to Lena Goss on the death of her sister. . . . Bill Wise has left the shipping section to start a teaching job at Huntertown school.

Dick wishes Dutch would take his turn at the pump sometime. . . . Paul Peterson is telling quite a variety of stories about the trip he took on his vacation. The truth finally came out. The trip consisted of walking out in the yard, cracking the whip over his boys building his new fence, and up to the city market. . . . It is reported we have a new convert to the art of fly-fishing. Someone should tell Eloise you are not supposed to use house flies. . . . Paul Freeman informs us he has to baby sit with his baby brother, Tom, while Tom's wife is on her vacation. . . . Clarence Rainey is now going steady with Al Topp; trying to get another free week at Al's cottage for next year's vacation. Brings Al presents every day. . . . We are wondering if Dutch Norwalt moved his cottage from Jones Lake to Columbia City, or is he getting his 14th 4,000 mile check-up on his new Dodge. . . . Ed Englert, Notice: Say, Ed, why do you have to drive 410 miles from home to have bearings put in your new Dodge. Don't local dealers service their cars, or are you getting particular? . . . Happy birthday to Edith De-Muth. Edith looked mighty pretty with the ribbon in her hair, from the gift she received. Last Sunday she went to Shelby, Ohio, to her sister's to celebrate. . . . Margaret Kenyon attended a wedding of a friend at St. Patrick's church Saturday. . . . Rennie Phelps said her good-bys last week. She was presented with a beautiful orchid and a radio. We wish Rennie the best of everything as she makes her home in Illinois. . . . Was Mabel Binkley's face red when she discovered she had taken Mary Green's lunch by mistake. . . . Helen Fraiser looks nice with her new permanent. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Eva Weber, who is off work because of illness. . . . We saw pictures of Joan Krammer's daughter, Linda Gayl, who is 10 months old. She is a very pretty baby. . . . Barbara Dannel is proud of her increased family, but is finding food and soap can be very expensive for a dog. . . . We miss our co-workers who have left us, and will miss the ones who will leave us. We hope to see them back soon. . . . Norm Wolfe took his third week vacation to be in the golf tournament. We understand he did all right. . . . Charlie Prine and John McKee sure are enthusiastic over their golf. . . . We are looking for someone to teach Frances Oberholtzer the fine points about driftwood before vacation next year. The poor girl was trying to gather some driftwood and she just doesn't know her driftwood at all! . . . Faye Patten had a party at her home Saturday in honor of her husband's birthday, September 1. . . . Ruth LaPraid disappeared the other day and when Homer found her she was under the table. He asked her if she was trying to hide from work. Her reply was that she was hunting material to complete her job. A pretty conservative worker, I'd say. . . . We are sorry to see Norma Huff, Donna Foulks, Rita Wolf, and Bob Hershey leave our 51 frame, but wish all the best of luck and hope you are back soon. . . . Sorry to hear of Faye Patten's daughter's illness. Hope she recovers real soon. . . . Dorothy Hart will spend the week-end and Labor Day in Elkhart.

Chess Club Slates Sept. 10 Meeting

The newly formed Chess Club will have an organizational meeting in the GE Club lounge Thursday, Sept. 10, beginning at 7:30 p.m., Robert Bechdolt, Bldg. 20-2, announced this week.

All employees who play chess and those who want to learn are invited to attend the meeting. Seventeen employees have become members of the club since plans for it were announced a few months ago.

Items to be considered at Thursday evening's meeting include election of officers and time of future meetings.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS BLDG. 22

George Winans

We learn something new every day. The other day was the first I'd heard of Red Juergen's accident. Several years ago he had a freak accident in which a lead pencil was driven so far into his arm that the doctor had to leave the lead, which had broken off, in his body. The arm healed up all right but he's still carrying that chunk of lead around. On several occasions I'd heard the boss (Al Mason) tell him to get the lead out, but I never knew until now what he was talking about. . . . Mildred Messer complained that her new European Studebaker (the car you fall down into) had no cigarette lighter. The salesman explained to her that you didn't need one. You just reach out the window and strike your matches on the street as you're rolling along. . . . In case any of you don't know by now why Kenny Evans was whistling the wedding march and singing, "I Love You Truly," last Thursday, it was his and Mary's 22nd anniversary. Our congratulations to the both of them. . . . Is Arnold Schieferstien taking in washings? He was observed doing a washing during his lunch period the other night. That's all clear profit when he uses the company's soap and water.

Wedding bells are ringing: We have had our share in the Apprentice School. We would like to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rosenhahn and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pinkerton. . . . Through the grapevine we have heard that Rosie is being henpecked. . . . Last Friday Bob Barnes celebrated his birthday and received a very nice sport shirt from the gang. . . . Would anyone like to buy a good putter? Jim Schwartz has found one, but the shaft is a little bent. They will give anyone a good deal on it. . . . Carl Johnson spent last week on his third week's vacation and he sure was missed. . . . Ron Davis is now a member of the well-known "Boat Anchor Club." . . . Last Thursday night about half of the school attended the Harlem Globetrotters game at Zollner Stadium. Tom Ahr bought a block of seats and sold them to the boys. All the fellows agreed it was a good show. . . . In the Apprentice School Golf League, Team No. 2 came from behind to win the team championship last week. The team is composed of Jim Schwartz, Dick Gottschall, and Stan Reidenbach. Individual point honors went to Leo Casso, who won out in a close fight over Jim Stroble by the slim margin of one point. The league tournament will be played this Friday and the trophies will be presented at that time. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Dick Arnold, who is in Room 263 at the Lutheran Hospital. . . . Vaughn Moore is now reading the "Book of the Month."

Keeping pace with the hot weather, Quarter Century Club reservations for the annual outing Saturday, Sept. 12, rose to a record 1,635 this week.

Three other professional acts which have been added to complete the program of professional entertainment were announced this week by Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman.

They are The Qualmans, Darlene and her Dad; Wes Usher, harmonica humorist; and Rex and Ray Griffith, The Smarties. The Qualmans present an act of comedy and pantomime. Billed as artistic poetry of motion, they present balancing in the modern manner.

An unusual combination of comedy and harmonica playing is performed by Wes Usher. The musical comedy team, The Smarties, has an act of singing, comedy, and dancing. The fourth act completing the program is Bobby Kuhn and the Midnite Sons, which was announced last week.

All the acts have appeared at theaters, supper clubs, and hotels in many parts of the country.

As plans for other parts of the outing move into the final stage,

QC members who indicated on their reservations that they wish transportation to Municipal Beach for the outing have been asked to be at the East Gate Broadway between 9 and 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, and transportation will be provided, Kenneth Redding, transportation chairman, announced.

it was announced that 39 attendance prizes will be awarded. These are General Electric appliances including fans, radios, clocks, iron, and mixer.

Otto Rodenbeck, Bldg. 19-4, and Betty Puff, Bldg. 4-6, are lining up their teams for the clash between QC men and GE girls. Anyone interested in playing on either of the teams should contact either of the managers.

Supervisors Club Remind Members Of Sept. 15 Party

Today is the deadline to return reservations for the September 15 meeting of the Supervisors Club, Charles E. Gable and Gordon L. Smith, co-chairman, reported.

Reservation cards were enclosed with invitations sent out last week. Return the card to Mr. Gable, Sub-Section 13, Taylor St.

The meeting will get under way at 7:30 p.m. in the GE Squares club rooms. Highlighting the program will be Freddie Caserio, professional entertainer. Caserio is a former National and International Golden Gloves champion. He provides entertainment as an M.C. and teller of tales in various dialogues about the fight profession.

A lunch and refreshments will be served also.

Welcome to Norma Henshaw and Gertrude Stewart. Norma is working with the I.B.M. group and Gertrude operates the duplicator. . . . George Hill, Gertie Koldewey, and Mr. Uncapher all celebrated birthdays this week. Happy birthday wishes to all of you, and may you celebrate many more. . . . Tony Koorsen has always been prompt in paying his driver, Paul Klage, and had never asked for credit. So, he couldn't understand why he was being stood up last Tuesday morning. After patiently waiting for about a half hour, and still no sign of Paul, Tony decided to phone and see what the hold-up was. Tony asked, "Hey Paul, are you going to pick me up this morning?" The sleepy reply was, "Why, what you getting excited for? What time is it?" Paul's only excuse was, something must have been wrong with the alarm clock, and he promised Tony it wouldn't happen again. . . . We extend our sympathies to Mr. Uncapher on the death of his mother-in-law. . . . Today we say so long to Jimmy Lowen. The Lowens are leaving to make their home in Indianapolis. We wish them lots of luck and success. . . . Otto Witte brought in some dry beans for Hugo Herbst to plant next season. They are green beans, of Arizona stock, and grow from 2 to 3 feet in length. Otto says, "they also have a delicious taste." . . . For most of us life is rough in the waking hours and peaceful when we are asleep. But Art Koeneman suffers more casualties during slumber time. Art's sister had asked him to make a window screen. Art made the screen (in his dream) and when he moved a little more to the right in order to fit the screen in the window, 'bang!' He fell out of bed. That must have been a very rude awakening.

an improved method of grinding the brushes on motors.

Paul G. Gruber analyzed the scrap on the commutator bar and managed to cut down the schedule of amount pieces. As a result some processes were improved and Mr. Gruber earned $60.

A $55 award check went to James W. Badders, Specialty Section 1, for suggesting the use of glass tubing over connections eliminating the tape. Earl Strong, GAC Section 14 at Taylor St., also received $55 for an improved method of chamfering for shrouds.

Max N. Kindey, of the General Tool Section, is $50 richer for his idea for a better method of polishing inside winding guns.

Among other award winners were Rachel D. Kelley, John B. Winstrel, and Robert Meehan, $40 each; Carl W. Doenges, $37.50; Walter W. Woehler and Harry H. Hire, $35 each; and William J. Cooper and Russell V. Bridges, $30 each.

One hundred and nineteen employees earned awards of under $25 in amount.

Intensive training for the show will get under way later this month, chairman Newport stated. He said that most of the boys have kept in shape through participation in summer sports.

The first show conducted at the Club in several years, the ring program is a part of the Club's 193-54 aim to bring a greater number and variety of programs to all employees.

Local sports enthusiast, Jim Kelley, will provide printed programs for the opening boxing program. They will be passed out at the door.

Q. How are tree rings used to find dates of ancient structures?

A. Every eleven years, on the average, the Sun becomes most active and sunspots are most numerous. At such times, generally, there is more rainfall and trees grow most rapidly, so the annual rings of growth formed in these years are wider than those of other years. The rings of a living tree may go back a hundred years or more. A log from one of similar age, that was felled 75 years ago, would take the record back still farther, and there would be a 25-year overlap, joining one record to the other. In this way the sequence of wide and narrow rings has been carried back, for particular areas, for many centuries. Then, when a timber from an old building is found in such a region, its ring sequence is compared with the standard and a place found where they fit together. Then, from the standard, it is possible to determine the year in which the other log was cut.

Q. What do astronomers mean by the "red shift?"

scope a spectrum is obtained, crossed by dark lines. If the star is approaching the Earth, these lines are shifted from their usual position toward the violet end of the spectrum. If it is receding, they are shifted toward the red. Distant galaxies, which are systems of stars like our Milky Way, show a red shift, apparently indicating that they are all receding from us, at speeds which are greater the farther away they are. One so distant that its light takes a hundred million years to reach us seems to be receding at about 12,000 miles per second, while that of one at 225 million light years is apparently 24,000 miles per second. One explanation is that the universe is expanding, and the movements are real, but it has also been suggested that, by some unknown process, something happens to light in traveling so far, making it lose energy, and so causes the red shift of the spectrum lines.

PRIZE POSSESSIONS—Are the lambs shown by William and James Kester, eight- and ten-year old sons of Estel Kester, Bldg. 19-5. In his first year of showing, James won two trophies and four ribbons for three of his lambs.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Spent Summer Vacation Earning Blue Ribbons for Prize Lambs

Although 10-year-old James Kester returns to school this week, his thoughts will continue to be filled with blue ribbons, trophies, and prize lambs for some time.

James, who is the son of Estel Kester, Bldg. 19-5, made a very successful entry into 4-H work this year when he won four ribbons and two trophies for three of his lambs at the Allen County 4-H Fair in the War Memorial Coliseum.

WINDS UP 30 YEARS—Henry Lantz (left) gets best wishes on his 30th anniversary with the General Electric Company from two of his co-workers, Russell L. Armstrong and Elmer J. Zelt. Mr. Lantz first joined the company in 1923 as a transformer worker in Bldg. 26-2. He is now a draftsman-designer in Bldg. 26-2.

A member of the Jolly Boys 4-H Club, of which Mr. Kester is leader, James shares an interest in raising the animals, registered Shropshires, with the entire family. His father and his younger brother, eight-year-old William, also have their own sheep. Even Mrs. Kester takes keen interest in the animals.

Interest in raising the animals began when Mr. Kester presented each of the boys with bred yearling ewes six years ago. As the boys grew older, the adventure of caring for their own sheep increased and now the younger William is eagerly awaiting his tenth birthday so that he can enter 4-H work.

The three lambs that won awards for James were born in February this year, and if James has his hopes fulfilled, they will see many shows and awards in the future.

But for now, he will continue his studies in the fifth grade at Leo School and spend his spare time learning more about the intricate job of caring for his sheep.

Young bride to groceryman: "I would like a pint of oysters, please." "Large or small, madam?" asked the groceryman.

Faced with an unexpected decision, she thought a moment. "Well," she reasoned, "they're for a man with a size 15 collar."

Fred Harris and Carl Hattendorf must vindicate themselves in the eyes of Oscar Fleming and Ray Lahrman because they have been unable to win a game of euchre in the last two weeks. It would be well to note how the cards are shuffled and handed out, rather than how well they play them. . . . Carl Miller had an amusing situation happen to him. Someone called him on the phone and asked if this were the Millers who washed. Carl said, "Yes." "How often?" the other voice said. "Everyday," answered Carl. "Well," said the voice, "we know some who don't." "They must be very dirty then," said Carl. Bang went the phone on the other end. . . . Becky Lisle has such an unusual way of applying lipstick that all the girls line up after lunch to watch. She has become so self-conscious, she sneaks off where she can be alone. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Green on the arrival of 9 lb. Henry Lance. . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD MARKS to the following employees who are returning to college: Connie Standish, junior at Ball State; Bob Steele, sophomore at Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill.; Don Heckler, sophomore at Valparaiso, and Bonnie Campbell, sophomore at Concordia here in the city. . . . Freddie Vogt has a new TV set and his wife makes him stay home every night. He's scared to death she won't let him out to bowl this Fall. . . . We say hello and welcome to Sandra Brown who is a new time clerk in the Factory Office. . . . The Keglers are getting all steamed up for another season of bowling. As usual, Walt Niemeyer says he will not be bowling this year, but that statement can be taken with a grain of salt since he hasn't missed a League since 1911. He claims his wife is using his bowling ball as a flower pot! . . . Earl Greenlee's DeSoto has arrived and he is mighty proud of it, you can bet. . . . Vern Daseler is so particular with his new car he backs it out of the garage whenever his wife is going to use it. He doesn't trust her. . . . Harold Brenner left us last Friday to go to Lynn, Mass. We wish him lots of good luck on his new assignment and just as much success with the project he has been working on in his spare time. . . . Paul Lehmon and Harold George have quite a machine in the Cold Header Section called a Slotter and a Shaver. Makes you feel like you are watching a refugee from a chicken coop or a Rube Goldberg invention. These designers can really dream up some fantastically efficient machinery. . . . Don McAleece attended an Engineers gathering at the Berghoff and ordered himself a $3.00 steak. "Hang the expense," he thought, "I'm famished." Was he surprised later when the secretary picked up the check. The refreshments were on the house. . . . Eldon Bell and Carl Kloepper are back after a week's vacation. Carl got his limit three times on fishing jaunts. Eldon went up to the cottage and "batched" it. Got 18 nice bass with his new spinner reel. They both looked rested and ready to pick up where they left off.

ECHOES from 19-2

Fred McIntyre

Best wishes to Robert Slagal, who has left the company to resume studies at Purdue University. Also to Gene Bengnot, who will be teaching again at St. Joe Township school. . . . Bill Pendergrass received a letter from Harold Baker, former press operator in Bldg. 19-2, who is now with the Army in Korea. Harold says that his overseas time is about up now and he is looking forward to returning home to the States. He wishes to say hello to his former co-workers. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Donald August on the loss of his father. . . . Congratulations to Flossie Shoopman on the occasion of her birthday. . . . Bonnie Aises has returned to work after spending a few weeks at home, nursing a broken toe. . . . Shirley Cunningham visited Jimmy Rehner recently and found him in good spirits. Jim is always looking forward to visits from his former Bldg. 19-2 associates, and hopes to read of their doings in the GE NEWS. . . . Edna Etzler, Mabel Liggett, and Gladys McMilliat were seen at the Hicksville, Ohio fair. . . . Joe Laisure is nursing a sore leg due to a misstep while playing golf. . . . We wish to extend our sympathy to Glen Carander on the death of his sister. . . . Belated congratulations to Arno Taylor on that new granddaughter of hers. . . . According to the grapevine, Henry Muehlenbruch should brush up on his answers. He was called on Tele Test. . . . Best wishes to Dale Bice, who has set sail on that sea of matrimony.

ROUNDS OUT 30 GE YEARS—Hubert Grage rounded out his 30th year of General Electric service last month. Congratulating him are W. B. Putt, Herbert Knafel, and Edward Bowser. Mr. Grage joined the company as an assembler in Bldg. 4-4. He is now on repair work at Taylor St.

ELEX CLUB SLATE

Candidates for office in the Elex Club for the 1953-54 year were announced today by Roqua Wibel, outgoing president. Pictures of the 17 candidates appear on this page.

All women employees who join Elex during the membership drive Sept. 8 through Sept. 21 will be eligible to vote in the election which is to be conducted Sept. 23, 24, and 25.

Contact girls will distribute ballots to each member. Votes should be sent to Mary Wyss Bldg. 21, chairman of the tellers' committee.

Opening the membership drive, two kick-off sessions have been slated for Tuesday, Sept. 8 for first and second shift contact girls. A breakfast will be conducted for first shift girls in Bldg. 16-2 beginning at 9 a.m. At 2 p.m., second shift girls will meet. Membership dues are $2.50 per person.

The first regular meeting of the new year will be Monday, Oct. 12, in the GE Club and will feature the Purdue University Glee Club.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

Bright and early in the morning, sleepy Mary Girard was out at her car to head for work when she discovered a flat tire. Slightly distressed when she thought of the time wasting changing the tire, she was relieved that she had the spare tire repaired recently. Unlocking the trunk, she found a tire for a Ford, filled with air and ready for use. The only hitch was—Mary is the owner of a Plymouth; the station attendant had made one slight mistake after repairing the last flat. . . . Having leisurely enjoyed two weeks vacation, Evelyn Engle couldn't take the strain of the first day back. Putting her best foot forward after eight hours of work, Evelyn didn't have the strength to lift her foot as high as the curbing. Luckily though, no broken bones. . . . Walter Shady has devised a new way for striking up acquaintances or renewing old ones. When his car stopped for a red light, he didn't spend these few seconds idly sitting there, he walked up to the car in front of his and struck up a not-so-casual acquaintance. The occupant of the other car? Vera Pontius.

Although Carol Windhorst has hut three blocks to work, each morning finds her making one mad dash up the stairs at 7:59 1/4. . . . Heine Mutschlechner has turned very economy-minded and has started counting the grains of salt in his salt shaker. When Evelyn Engle returned the salt shaker the other day with the report that she had used three grains, Heine, after careful calculation, informed her that she had used six grains; and, in the future, she should be more thrifty. After all, Heine doesn't own a salt mine. . . . After being kicked in the arm by a cow, from now on Toby Tyler will be more careful of these gentle domesticated animals. Since black and blue aren't his favorite colors, Toby has taken precautions to prevent a recurrence. . . . The loss of a special type duplicating pen caused quite an uproar in drafting. Pat Roehling and Jane Oberlin questioned everyone in their department and then proceeded to engineering. Many desks were checked and cleaned out looking for the lost article, but, to no avail. Late in the afternoon, the lost was found. Embarrassed, Jane had to admit that she had found the pen in her pocket.

One day when the temperature was soaring to 97, Marna Wilson and Esther Winje were sure someone must have been affected by the heat because they noticed that "winter clothes smell," mothballs. The explanation was simple, however, it was workmen on the roof applying a mothball-smelling substance. . . . If those unappetizing lizards don't stop making their mysterious appearance in Charlie Lammiman's lunch pail, Charlie will be down to skin and bones. Somehow, a lunch loses its appeal after a lizard is found reclining on a sandwich. . . . On Friday, August 21, the employees of the Fairfield Plant and their wives and sweethearts gathered at Gerke's Hall on Trier's Road for their annual picnic. Everyone enjoyed a potluck supper and wiener roast around the barbecue pit. Community singing followed, and Bill Stahl's rendition of the "Hound Dawg in the Window" was enjoyed by everyone, including the neighbors within a radius of one-half mile. Following the supper, a magic show was staged by Ed Gar, whose clock card shows him to be Ed Gallmeier, our test man. Ed Gar mystified the group with card, rope, and silk scarf tricks and even pulled a rabbit out of a hat. Popeye the Sailor, was portrayed by Henry Luedeke. Refreshments were dispensed very expertly by Duke Doepke until the ladies started to bother him. Even then, Ed Haugk admitted root beer with a beard on it was a good drink. Dancing wound up a very enjoyable evening and everyone wishes to thank Fred Gerke for a wonderful time.

The whole Fairfield gang is happy to welcome back Ores (Shorty) Redding after an absence of eight weeks due to illness. . . . We bid farewell to Vera Lyewski, who left us, and welcome Lavonne Ridge who replaced Vera and hope her stay with us is an enjoyable one. . . . It's a mighty healthy tree that bears the delicious peaches that Clara Heaston has been supplying the girls this week. The group receiving the delicious peaches are very appreciative. . . . A big party has been scheduled soon at the Paul Snyder home. The occasion is to celebrate Paul's youngest son's discharge from the Army. Tom returned to the states this month after spending time in Korea. . . . The guys in the shop are very enthusiastic about Tad Levandowski's new television set. Fred Rathert has been enlisting a gang to enjoy the fights and thinks the invitation will be forthcoming. . . . Three more ACD'ers returning to Winter St. for SIM are Art Hume, Ralph Ruch, and Elmer Abbott.

After carefully mapping out his journey, Don Lynch plans to take off Saturday for two weeks in the Rocky Mountains. . . . It was a pleasant surprise to see Charlie Chevillot completely recuperated and able to be back at work again. Charlie has been off ill since April. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKinney on the birth of a son last week. This is the third boy for the McKinney's, the newcomer has been named Steven. . . . Two former Winter St. employees were welcome visitors this week. They were Chet Engleman and Whitey Kolmerten, now employed at the GE plant in Erie. . . . Never having to worry about a ride home at night, Mary Ann Miller bounds out at 4:25 to find her own private chauffeur punctually waiting to escort her home. A very thoughtful husband.

Tool Room vacationers this week include Bill Kelsey and Clarence Ruegamer. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Lucille McGahey's father, who was taken seriously ill last week. Lucille has gone home to Charleston, W. Va., to be with her father.

Welcome to Betty Benedict, who is replacing Mary Alice Kieler as time clerk. . . . Luckily, this isn't "be kind to animals week," or Lucille Orr might have a guilty conscience. "How about another hot dog or more potato salad. Who wants more coffee?" were the words of Ann Barrick after a wiener bake at her home Thursday morning. With a groan she received the answer, "Not me, Ann, I'm too full!" from Gladys Cleland and her daughter, Myrna, Margaret Lessner, Carmen Sordelet, Virginia Pflueger, Imogene Meyer, and Bernadette Fortman. GE Club Rod and Gun Team Places Second in Recent .30 Cal. Match

The GE Rod and Gun Club placed second in Monday night's .30-caliber match at the Sam Bowlin farm, southeast of Huntington. The Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver Club won the match with a total of 525 points. GE's total was 519.

The match consisted of five-man teams and two teams each firing the course.

The calendar of .30 caliber events for the remainder of the outdoor shooting for this season is as follows:

Director of Civilian Membership qualification shoot for GE Club Rod and Gun members only will be held Sept. 13, Sept. 20, Ed Smith Memorial Trophy, and Oct. 11, the J. W. Dickens Trophy. Richard C. Miller, Bldg. 19-1, is the current holder of the Dickens Trophy. He is also secretary-treasurer of the GE team.

Oral Emrick, Taylor St., recently participated in the Camp Perry matches. Pat Patterson, GE Rod and Gun president, reported that Emrick turned in some fine scores, but that the competition was very tough.

The following are the individual scores in Monday night's .30 caliber match:

Hermetic Hackers

With only two nights remaining, Eldon Vosburgh's team still commands the 12 stroke lead over Joe Orbin's team, who are holding down second place with Herb Koch's team one stroke behind in third place. . . . Bob Dent's "Dubbers left the cellar position and turned it over to Boh Creclius' "divot diggers." . . . Arnold Hensick posted the highest score for the 13th hole at a new high of 11 to win. The announced prize: One-half of an old golf ball wrapped up in a pretty box with a pretty ribbon. . . . Deac Connor shot below his average of 60 by nine strokes. He received a brand new golf ball with a built-in slice. . . . The other winner for the least number of putts was Dick Madden who came in with 12 putts. Joe Orbin who putted 13, circulated the story that Dick crept up on each green so he could win that one golf ball. . . . Some of the most improved "hackers" are Phil Singleton, Walt Dreyer, Jr., Howard Reinking, Earl Cheever and Floyd Garland.

Two Events Slated By Decatur GE Club

The Decatur GE Club has announced two coming events of interest to sportsmen.

The annual Blind Bogey Golf Tournament will be staged Sept. 12 and Sept. 13 at the Decatur Golf Course. Entries should be turned in as soon as possible.

The entry fee is 25 cents, and the GE Club is donating all prizes. The prize list will be arranged so that everyone will receive an award.

Bowling teams are being organized and any interested bowler who has not signed up as yet should get in touch with Paul Briede at the GE Club alleys. League bowling will get under way Tuesday.

M.T.P. GOLF

Lec Elliot and George Ridge ran off with the prizes in the Manufacturers Training Program Golf Tourney held last Sunday at Foster Park.

Elliot copped the trophy for his low net score of 66 while Ridge picked off the top prize with a low gross of 87.

Out of the 16 who participated Brad Stevens was runner-up in the net division with a 69, while Dick Bruneau copped second in gross by shooting a 91.

PIN BOYS WANTED

Any employees having boys 16 years old or older who wish to set pins at the GE Club are asked to contact Charlie Wilt, GE Club, Ext. 742.

BOWLING NOTES

The Ladies' Tuesday Afternoon League are still in need of bowlers. The League bowls at 3:30 p.m. and action will start Tuesday, Sept. 15. Call or send names to Mary Nute, Bldg. 4-3, Ext. 646, or Charlotte Stanford, Section 13, Taylor St., Ext. 2553.

Capital is condensed labor. It is nothing until Labor sets free the condensed labor and makes it assume some form of utility or beauty. Capital and Labor are one and they will draw nearer to each other as the world advances.—David Swing.

GE Owls Move Into Final Playoff Series

By Howard Colby

The GE Owls defeated Zollner 8 to 2 last Wednesday morning, earning the right to meet Salisbury in a best two out of three game set for the championship in the YMCA Softball League.

In a game that was loaded with wild pitches, passed balls, and errors, GE took advantage of all these, added some good hitting and fielding, and put Zollner out of action as far as league play is concerned until next season.

In the first inning, GE pitcher Paul Billman kept Zollner hitless. While getting only one hit, GE scored three runs as Zollner committed two errors to present the Club with a 3 to 0 ballgame.

Zollner came back in the second to score two runs on two hits, while holding the Club team scoreless. This also marked the end of the scoring for Zollner, who were held to four hits in the remaining five innings of play.

The Club team scored two runs in the third as Somers got on base on a single, Boyce got a walk and both men crossing the plate on passed balls to make it 5 to 2, GE.

The GE boys, taking advantage of all errors, and wild pitching, scored another in the fourth as Blauvelt crossed the plate on a passed ball after getting on base with a single, to make it 6 to 1.

The fifth and sixth innings paid off for the GE boys with a run in each frame to wind up the affair by the score of 8 to 2, and the right to meet Salisbury in the final playoff series for the YMCA Owl League crown.

Tee Off

by Earl Stauffer

Borrowing a phrase from Red Buttons, "strange things are happening." The Birdies of the Owl Golf League refused to fold up under pressure of the "big one" and won the championship.

Norm Wolf's lads had it when they needed it in the finals to take the crown which has eluded them on three other occasions in the past seven years.

Even a stellar 74 performance by the Champs "old pro" Warren Wickliffe, who was the 1953 Owl League medalist, wasn't enough to offset the determined Birdies.

Until the final week of the season, the Wolf lads were no better than fourth place in league standings, but finally managed third spot on the final day.

In the playoff, the Birdies first skinned past a stubborn Bogey foursome by two points. The Pars, who had won the right to play in the semi-finals by beating the Eagles, were the next victim of the on-rushing Birdies. The Birdie win was by eight points.

Norm Wolf, Harry Rhodes, Johnny Stark and Lou Barney toured the 18-hole Championship round for the Birdies, while the Champs countered with Lloyd Grider, Warren Wickliffe, Jim Sternberger, and Ansel Black.

At the end of the outgoing nine, the Birdies led by five strokes. This added to the five stroke handicap was just too much for the Champs to overcome. The Birds on the other hand saw the long-coveted victory within their grasp and played their hearts out.

One of the big factors of the Birdie victory was the eleven point under average effort by Harry Rhodes. Harry put together scores of 42 and 44 for an 86.

All in all, the Champs bettered their team average by eleven, while the new Owl champions made a shambles of theirs by 22.

Besides Wickliffe and Rhodes other standout players were Jim Sternberger, with an 80; Lloyd Grider, with an 81; Lou Barney and Johnny Stark with 83's.

Championship match summary:

BIRDIES—PLUS 7

ALLEYS OPEN

The renovated bowling alleys at the GE Club will open Tuesday, Sept. 8, at 6 p.m., Joe Kramer, Bldg. 4-5, bowling chairman, announced this week.

Throughout next week the alleys will be available for open bowling and all GE employees and their families are invited to get in some kegling then, the chairman stated. The following week, beginning Monday, Sept. 14, league activities will start with 15 leagues slated to kegle at the alleys during the 1953-54 season.

EXPLAINS IDEA—Explaining the idea which earned him $55 in last month's suggestion round-up is Earl Strong (left). Estel Grier is shown with him. Mr. Strong, an employee of GAC Section 14 at Taylor St., improved the method of chamfering for shrouds.

G-E DEATHS

Otto H. Bright

Otto Bright, 60, Dies In Veterans Hospital

A Quarter Century Club member, Otto H. Bright, 60, died Wednesday, August 26, at the Fort Wayne Veterans Administration Hospital where he had been a patient for two days.

Services were conducted Saturday, August 29, at the Mungovan & Sons Mortuary. Burial was in Concordia Cemetery.

When he joined General Electric in July, 1923, Mr. Bright went to Bldg. 26-2. He was an assembler and cleaned cases. Prior to his retirement, July 1, 1953, he was in Bldg. 19-3.

Mr. Bright served in the U. S. Army in World War I. He was born in Alpena, Mich., and lived in Fort Wayne for the past 40 years.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Ida Hague, and two brothers, Fred and Herman.

Services Held Monday For Joseph J. Sallot

Joseph H. Sallot, 57, of 3007 Warsaw St., died Friday, Aug. 28 at the Methodist Hospital.

An employee since April, 1941, Mr. Sallot became an engine lathe operator at that time and went to work in Bldg. 4-4. In 1947 he transferred to Taylor St. where he was maintenance machinist in Sub-Section 14 until July of this year. Mr. Sallot took a leave of absence for illness then.

Survivors include his wife, Caroline; one sister, Mrs. Agnes Klug; and four brothers, J. August, Stephen A., Frank, and Hubert.

Services were conducted Monday, Aug. 31 at the Mungovan & Sons Mortuary and at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Dapp officiated. Burial was in Berne.

DECATURITES George Laurent

We extend our wishes for a long and happy retirement to Harvey Koos and George Anspaugh, who retired this past week. . . . August 24, 1953, will be a day long remembered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nyffler. On this day two young ladies, weighing 7 lbs. 11 ozs. and 6 lbs. 2 ozs., arrived at the Nyffler home to make a total of four daughters. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Nyffler, and hello to Nyla and Nadine. Yes, the proud father recovered sufficiently to come to work the next day and pass out the cigars. . . . The apple grower, Lawrence Franklin, has been helping a neighbor tend his apple tree hoping to share in the early fruits from the tree. With mouth watering for the luscious ripe apples Lawrence offered to help pick the fruit. Offer was refused and that was the last time that Larry saw any of the apples. Oh, well, they probably were sour anyway. . . . Belated greetings to Helen Brintzenhofe and Mabel Eyanson who celebrated birthdays recently. Helen treated the gang to candy and home-made cookies, while Mabel baked two chocolate cakes and brought them along for the gang. . . . We hear that Dick Myers celebrated his birthday the other day. Congratulations! Oh, yes, Ezra Brandyberry also had a birthday August 2. Although he says he has not had a birthday for years. . . . Eighteen years ago three girls started to work for GE. Today they are still on the job and hope to continue. Congratulations to the three, Betty Reichert, Josephine Ivetich, and Miriam Moore. . . . Do you have an amateur carpenter in your home? Well, Dick Schnitz does, and he has reached the ripe old age of four years. In an effort to save his own tools Dick presented a set of tools to his son on his birthday. . . . Just a word of advice to anyone thinking that they would like to help themselves to a chicken at the home of Niles Butler. Niles has a way of disposing of such culprits. From what we hear his method is very effective—if not so pleasant. We prefer fried chicken any day to hot dogs. . . . Here's a welcome to Betty Kukelhan, who joined the winding group in 7-50. Betty decided it must be a pretty good place to work since she has a couple of sisters here. . . . Rumor has it that Grant Fry, who just returned from his vacation at Turkey Lake, was too busy trying to make his escape from the fish in that lake to try to catch any of them. . . . OUR SYMPATHIES go to Ralph and George Roop and their families on the death of their father, Dick Roop, who died recently. . . . James Pollock and Roger Borne have returned to work after serving the past two years in Uncle Sam's service. Welcome back.

THISA & THATA BLDG. 4-3 and 4-4 Helen Engle

John Figley took his granddaughter to the pony farm so she could ride. Grandpa was going to show how it was done. They finally had to pull him off the pony so his granddaughter could ride. He was reliving his golden boyhood days. . . . The Ed Kirschner family has been increased by nine—pigs that is. . . . We extend our sympathy to Louis Davis on the death of his wife. Also, our sympathy to Alva Hazy on the death of his mother, and to Dan Bice on the death of his sister. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Jenny and George Fraizer, former co-workers, on the arrival of their second son, Gary Francis. . . . Hilda Seiler is on her third week of vacation this week just taking it easy. . . . Max Buckmaster and party was seen enjoying a meal at Schuelers in Marshall, Mich., last Sunday. It was his wife's birthday. . . . Sorry to hear that Mrs. Art Johns is in the hospital. Art is one of our pensioners. . . . Thelma Blue is back from a trip to California. She says this hot weather reminds her of sunny California. . . . Hazel Niswonger is learning to drive (a car that is) after all these years. She says she needs plenty of room, so you had better move over when you see her coming down the road. . . . Rudy Zelt isn't going to do much on his third week of vacation. He's just going fishing one day. . . . Grace Ober and Ruth Hine, and their better halves, are going to take in the State Fair over Labor Day. . . . BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to the following: R. L. Spitler, September 3; Everett, Orville Coleman, Ed Brink, and Leslie Richter, September 17; Joe Bruns, September 20; James Badgers, Robert Blee, and Harold Nagel, September 24; Eldon Moodie and Ivan Parrish on the 26th of September; Margaret Fuelling, September 5; Hazel Herron, September 9; Larena Hahn, September 16; Evelyn Grocock, September 19; Kathryn Gilbert and Hazel Stauffer, September 20; Paul Ginder, September 22; Peggy Phillips, September 26; Olga Kuzeff, September 28, and Deloras Hartman, September 29. . . . R. L. Spitler's son, Bill, is going to be in the tractor contest at the State Fair. He is the junior winner in Allen county. . . . June McNabb is the new girl in the office. She is taking Nancy Lockes' place. Nancy is leaving to join her husband, who is in Service. . . . Willard Smith is well satisfied with his Chevrolet. The poor Ford owners are taking a beating from him. . . . Sam Warren and Joe Dibert are model airplane fans. Their plane cracked up and they repaired it with gum. It flew again!

MOTOR GENERATOR STATIC

Thought of the Week: "Things that are bad for business are bad for the people who work for business."—Thomas E. Dewey.

SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT: The other evening the Thetus Johnsons were entertaining guests. Out in the backyard a dog was barking. Finally the visiting gentleman turned to Thetus and remarked, "Seems your dog is barking at something outside." "My dog? I don't have a dog," Mr. Johnson replied. "I'll see what's going on out there." He got up, opened the door, and in jumped a large rat the dog had cornered on Johnson's porch. Then the chase began—all over the house, under furniture, and finally into the kitchen. Then the rat turned and started toward Thetus. Our hero let go with a kick which would have been a credit to any college back field man, and the rat flew across the room. "Thought I had him then," Thetus remarked, "But he ran down our cold air register." . . . All evening long they could hear the rodent moving around inside the furnace. Next morning Mr. Johnson went down to capture the rat, but it was gone. It had found an opening in the water pan and escaped. . . . Now the Johnsons are wondering if the rat is still in the house or not. People get grey hair from less than that. . . . SMART! Our smart saying for the week comes from Doris Olinger. She defines a kleptomaniac as "A person who helps himself, because he can't help himself."

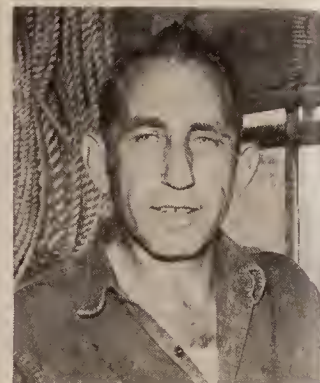

Inquiring Reporter:

DO YOU THINK THE WHITE SOX CAN WIN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT?

ELMER W. SAUER

Bldg. 10-2

"No. It looks like the Yankees again. But I think the White Sox are good enough to beat the Indians for second place."

BARBARA HALEY

Taylor St.

"No, their hitting is too spotty and inconsistent for a championship ball club. They cannot win when the heat is on as is evidenced by their showing against the Yankees in every series this year. Besides, have you noticed the lead the Yankees are sporting?"

ALFRED GROSS, JR.

Bldg. 19-1

"I won't say the Sox can't win the pennant, but it's mighty unlikely. There aren't enough games left to make up the lead the Yanks have on them; anyone else but the Yankees—maybe; but they're an 'institution', not just another ball team."

MARJORIE L. SMITH

Winter St.

"I think the New York Yankees have too great a lead for the White Sox to overcome in the 1953 American League pennant race. A miracle in the form of a complete Yankee collapse is the only thing that would offer the White Sox any real hope of winning."

ROBERT C. STRAIN

Bldg. 26-2

"Mathematically, they have a chance, but unless the Yankees fold up completely, they will never make it."

SCHOOL DAZE: Today we say "good-by and study hard" to three TE's, who worked in Specialty Motor Engineering during the summer months. They are all returning to their respective colleges for continuation of their college work. They are: Lit Ning Ma, of Art Wilson's group; Warren Ray, of John Willsey's group, and Huey Duncan, of Bob Loveland's group. . . . WE ALSO SAY FAREWELL to Don Stapleton, returning to high school. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAYS TO: Ray Devere Jones, September 2; Margaret Taylor, September 7; Gener Martz, September 10. . . . MEMBERSHIP GROWING: Two new members of the Floor Sitters' Club are: Harry Balz, with the assistance of a fellow employee, made the fastest initiation in the history of the club in the presence of quite a few people. We understand the show was terrific. Also, we have Charley Wurm, who made his debut last week while visiting at the desk of Bert Girardot. . . . FAREWELL to Harry Badger who is leaving Friday to work for Uncle Sam's Navy. Good sailing. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY AGAIN, and this time to Jean Stokke, Sept. 3. . . . PAT BOLING AND DICK NEHER enjoyed the sights of Fort Wayne the other evening from the air. The man at the controls was Pat. Dick was a little confused as to which way was up and which way was down, but really enjoyed it. Both had a safe landing. . . . WELCOME to Fritz Schulz, a draftsman working for J. C. Dur- yee. . . . THE GANG out of Adv. Dev. Drafting attended the Cleveland vs. New York ball game last week-end. Everyone had a swell time. Good driving by Jerry Dur- yee high-lighted the trip. Skeets Lahrman, Carl Fieretag, Jack Wil- son, Cliff Denney, and Herb Os- borne enjoyed the singing and stories. Altogether the trip was a howling success, and fun was had by all! Wilson sure looked funny standing on Lewis St. at 5:15 in the morning, with two cups of coffee, waiting for Cliff Denney to pick him up to meet the gang. . . . Remember the holiday slogan: "If you drive like lightning, you crash like thunder."

In the year of 1939 a certain business man and his family were forced to seek refuge in this country from the German Nazis. Although practically penniless, the family soon found new hope in our wonderful country. One member of the family, who was 12 years old then, has done very well, graduating from Ohio State University and now working in our section. He's George Sterne, the man around our floor carrying the tape measure in his hands. He's also single, girls, and he might be lonesome. . . . Louise Hegerfeld and Dick Burns rate special mention today. They engineered the fine outing at Foster Park that the draftsmen and their families enjoyed last Thursday evening. Around 90 persons were present. . . . Marlene Imel is leaving us today to further her study of music at Olivet College. We wish her the best of luck. We also say "hello" to Evelyn Jenkins, her replacement in the cost unit. . . . "Keep it in Spenceville," is the cry of card players Glen Brendel and Pete Spitler in their nightly rummy games. They usually do it, too, with Bill Spieth and Richard Friegy as opponents. . . . The grinding unit really woke up when a piece flew off of Carl Daniel's machine. The magnetic chuck wasn't turned on. . . . Paul Schroeder has the nickname "Smiley," and what name could suit his facial expression any better, as he helps the world to be happy? . . . I'm glad to report that Allison VanWormer can now be congratulated on his appointment as pastor of the Church of God Assembly at Bear Lake. . . . Floyd Null found a short cut expensive when he struck a railroad tie in the parking lot. . . . Lowell Welker had a high priced dream in which he bought a new Oldsmobile, but felt mighty rich driving his 1939 model the next morning. . . . Congratulations to Richard Fritz and wife on the birth of a son. . . . Dick Hemrick waited a long time to get a red star on his dinner check. It saved him a whole 20 cents. . . . Bob Mosshammer spent part of one night last week in a futile effort to catch a bat in his house. His wife lived the next few days in fear until Bob finally speared the young thing as it hid between the sliding doors. . . . Malcolm Arnold had good luck catching bluegills last week. . . . Ed Stahl's softball team won second place in their league. . . . Max Baron's work was interrupted last week when his daughter telephoned that a man with a gun was loose in the neighborhood. Max dashed home to find that neighborhood cowboys and Indians, mixed with a radio report of a manhunt, caused the young lady's anxiety. You're still her hero, Max. . . . Mrs. Chet Reynolds was elated when she found she could change a wheel on their car all by herself in seven minutes. Even Chet felt proud of her. That is, until he drove the car the next day and noticed an unusual vibration in the steering. Upon investigating, he found the lug nuts on backwards and not too tight. "Does it really make a difference," was Happy's innocent response. Chet gave her a fresh demonstration in wheel mounting.

Have you noticed how Neva Scott has been beaming lately? The reason? The arrival of her first grandson. Congratulations, Neva. . . . Anyone interested in observing the dignified behavior of a young man should have seen Jim Zehendner at the Clyde the other evening. . . . Ivy Mills is right on the ball when it comes to a fire. Only thing lacking was the fire. . . . Congratulations to Clarence Roth on his 30th anniversary with the company on September 2. . . . Happy birthday to Ralph Hardy, whose birthday was September 3. Ralph works in the Bldg. 6-3 office. . . . We welcome Malcolm Hamilton and Don Stroebel to the Bldg. 6-3 office. Mr. Hamilton hails from Bldg. 4-6, and Don from Bldg. 4-5. . . . Carol Sanderson, Bldg. 6-3 office, was the chief knife welder the other night when an escaped fugitive was hiding in her garage. The fugitive can consider himself lucky that it was her husband he tangled with instead of Carol. We hear she swings a wicked knife. . . . Nancy Blee has left us to enter college. Best wishes to her. . . . Moe Satterthwaite thought he had a couple of monkeys caged the other morning. They turned out to be two girls from Section 1.

Harold Wilkerson Completes Course As GE Apprentice

Harold Wilkerson graduated from the Apprentice School machinist-toolmaker course this month. A 1946 graduate of Central High School, Mr. Wilkerson entered the Apprentice course in March, 1950.

Prior to that time, he served in the U. S. Air Force, which he joined in 1947. Mr. Wilkerson received training at the Radio Signal School at Fort Monmouth, N. J. while in Service and was assigned to the Airways and Air Communication System at Sherman Air Force Base, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., prior to his discharge.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson and their two daughters reside at 5311 Bowser Ave.

Congratulations to Margaret Cook, who recently became Mrs. Tom Moeller. . . . Esther Schladauff was really enthused over a flight to Lafayette to a family reunion. Her brother piloted the plane. . . . Ruby Stucky was pleasantly surprised when her sister came for a visit from Texas. . . . Mabel Thompson, a former co-worker, now on retirement, was in to visit us last week and we might add, she looks wonderful and we were very glad to see her again. . . . Mary Redford has moved into her new home. . . . Barbara Wright's husband took a trip to Florida but missed Barbara so much he came home early and surprised her. . . . We wish Martha Powell a very speedy recovery. She is in the hospital. . . . Welcome to Mary Hopkins and Josephine Lagune, who have joined our section. . . . Donna Lake has decided to move to Fort Wayne. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Luella Ternet and Ed Birley, who celebrated last Friday. . . . We are glad to have Golda Tuck back with us after a long illness. . . . Stella Evans was in Chicago over the week-end, and she says she didn't go the wrong way this time. . . . We wondered what Frank Beatty meant when he talked about his yellow job. It's none other than his new Nash that mama got him for his birthday. . . . Dallas Patton asked Bob Johnson to come over for dinner the other day. Bob came over about 6:30 p.m. and Pat jumped all over Bob for being late. Pat told Bob dinner is at noon, not 7 p.m.

Effie Wyatt, A GE Traveling Pensioner Arouses Admiration of Share Owner

Miss Effie Wyatt, GE employee retired since 1949, has just added Canada to her travels, which already include visits to every state in the Union and Mexico. What's more, Miss Wyatt has a stone from every state to remind her of her journeys.

We learned about U. S.-trotting Miss Wyatt from Mr. A. J. Noerager, a GE share owner from Palo Alto, California, who encountered the former GE employee on a trip from Quebec to Burlington, Vermont. What impressed Mr. Noerager was her "sane attitude and healthy appearance."

"She seemed to be very happy and interested in everything around her," he said.

Miss Wyatt does all her traveling by bus and although she travels by herself, she is never alone. "You meet such interesting people," she exclaimed, and at Christmas time, she received greetings from 10 different states and even one from Australia from "interesting people" she has met.

The only time the energetic Miss Wyatt panicked slightly was last summer in Quebec. When she left her bus, and was greeted by the French language, she admits she was a little worried until she found some helpful English-speaking Quebecers.

She has something good to say for every state of the "Forty-Eight," but the trip which she considers the real highlight of them all, is the one she took to Alaska in 1950. "A wonderful experience," she says.

Her trip this summer took in all the northeastern states and eastern Canada.

All her stone souvenirs are arranged on a clay relief map of the United States on her coffee table. Her two favorite stones are the one from the top of Pike's Peak, highest point in the U. S. and one from the Carlsbad Cavern, New Mexico, lowest point in the U. S.

Miss Wyatt worked for GE for 22 years before retiring in 1949. During her GE years she was employed in Bldg. 17-3, Bldg. 4-3, and Section 14 at Taylor St.

75TH ANNIVERSARY OPEN HOUSE OCT. 15

OPERATION OPEN HOUSE—Plans for the General Electric Open House at the Broadway plant Thursday, Oct. 15, moved into high gear this week. The largest industrial open house ever staged in the area, the event will welcome members of the community to become acquainted with operations in various parts of the plant and employees of the organization. Among the many employees putting a special polish on the buildings will be Ralph Larman, Bldg. 20-1.

One of the largest industrial Open Houses in the history of Fort Wayne will be held Thursday, October 15, when the Broadway Plant of the General Electric Company throws open its gates to the general public in celebration of the company's 75th anniversary.

As a climax to General Electric's Diamond jubilee year, plans have been made to welcome more than 25,000 visitors at the Broadway plant from 4 until 9 p.m., Thursday, October 15, according to L. C. Swager, manager of employee and plant community relations and official host for the Open House program.

Employees will be invited to bring their families to a special preview open house at both the Taylor St. and Broadway plants, Wednesday, October 14, from 12:30 to 9 p.m.

Plans Well Under Way
"Plans for this special celebration have been under way since early last June. Every effort is being made by the various committees in charge of the Open House to better acquaint all of our friends and neighbors not only with our operations, but also with our people, our products and our policies," Mr. Swager said.

To Feature Displays

More than 20 displays featuring various aspects of product manufacture, including special company exhibits, are being assembled for the Open House.

There will be special bus transportation during Open House hours running down West Main to South Calhoun to West Creighton and down Broadway to transport visitors to and from the Broadway entrance. This is being done to help relieve the congested areas near the plant, where parking space is limited. Visitors to the Open House are asked to park on cross streets near the special

ARRIVES OCT. 1—General Electric will have a new telephone number beginning Oct. 1. The new number, E-7431, will provide better service to the community. (See story page 3.)

IDEAS themselves aren't enough

More Business for Public Schools

Every American citizen is a stockholder in an important national enterprise that has one million employees, serves 30 million clients and produces the most essential ingredient of our American way of life

That enterprise is our American Public School system and its essential product is the well-educated citizen of tomorrow.

Today, however, that enterprise is in serious trouble—1,800,000 more children are flocking to its school houses than were enrolled last year; more than 50 per cent of its classrooms are overcrowded; more than 25 per cent of its high school students are being housed in buildings that do not meet fire safety requirements, and a shortage of its skilled laborers, the teachers, is continuing to grow.

The directors of the enterprise—the school boards and superintendents of local schools across the country—are turning more and more to the stockholders for help in finding solutions to these problems. Silent stockholders—the citizens who sit back and watch their business from the sidelines—are not wanted. Only active, hard-working stockholders are the ones who can do the job and do it right.

They can do it by concentrating their efforts on bettering conditions in their own local schools and not letting staggering national statistics scare them away from the job.

They can do it by learning more about their own local schools and their problems and converting their interest in the schools into ACTION for them.

They can do it by joining with other interested citizens in their communities to undertake studies of today's and tomorrow's local problems.

They can do it by lending assistance to school boards and superintendents who need their advice and talents.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from the hospital, and returned to work.

APPRENTICE BROADCAST

James Schwartz

Transfers were flying thick and fast the past week. Jim Bird and Roger Geisman are now in the lathe section in Bldg. 19-5. Bob Taylor was moved to the Die Plant, George Haggenjos, to the Special Machine Section; Carl Hauke and Gene Bair were sent to Taylor St. Andy Chrystler is now working in Bldg. 17-4, and Dick Buffenbarger in Bldg. 4-2. Gene Ralstin and Frank Miller have returned to the school. . . . Enrollment in the school is still going up, with three more fellows signing on as machinist-toolmakers. They are: Russell Hawk, Lowell Deem, and Wes Craig. . . . Here is a choice bit of news: School starts September 14. It may not be as bad as it seems though, because it has been rumored that our new classroom will even be equipped with air conditioning units. . . . If you are wondering why the M. T. P. boys are wearing that smile, it's because they beat the apprentice nine in the softball game last week—some guys get all the breaks. . . . The Golf League held their tournament last Friday. Duke Doepeke walked off with top honors in the actual division, shooting a neat 37 over a rain soaked course. Ron Davis captured the handicap division with a net 29.8. Other handicap winners included Doepeke, Jim Schwartz, Gene Ralstin and Leo Casso. This tourney concludes league activity and all eyes will now be turned to bowling and basketball. George Haggenjos will captain the bowling team to what we are sure will be a successful season. We want to thank Jim Bird for the swell job he did in writing the column the past few months.

Seems the theme around here should be "Go East, young man, go East." Now it's Robert Alley who is leaving for Schenectady and more study under Creative Engineering. And just when A. A. Ralston was making a good secretary out of him, too. Come back in a few years and maybe you can make Bertie your secretary. . . . Kathryn Allridge's little boy, Butch, is home again after a two weeks visit in Michigan. Kathryn says it's amazing how these little fellers get under your skin and how lonesome a place grows without them. . . . Walt Niemeyer is running a hotel for his in-laws. He worked his Florida father-in-law so hard making major repairs on the farm that he packed up and left. Just about the time Walt got settled in his old routine of shoeless-shirtless-Groggin, his sister-in-law arrived for an extended stay. . . . Margaret Dishong likes catsup so well that she put a whole bottle of it on her sandwich. . . . We know Bill Swafford is a hillbilly and doesn't like the fact known. He is rumored to have a gal in them thar hills of Kentucky. . . . Since Mildred Smith has been taking driving lessons, maybe she'll get to work on time. . . . Carol Fairchild went to Nashville, Tenn., a couple of weeks ago to see the Grand Ol' Opry. She's been do-si-do-ing ever since. . . . Good-bye to Margaret Motherwell, who has returned to Winter St. Hello to Joan Gregg. Good-bye to Jacqueline Coughlin, who went to sunny California, and Rita Schiewers and Barbara Boyce, who are returning to college. . . . Congratulations to Irene Anderson and Ellen Northern, former co-workers in the Winding Section, who are now proud mothers. Irene has a 5½ pound daughter, and Ellen has a 6 pound 4 ounce son. . . . We are very sorry to learn of the death of Joseph Sallot and wish to express our sympathy to the family. . . . When the weather is good for flying, Herb Tons and Bill Lavine can make it to the lake in thirty minutes flat in Herb's Kaiser Monoplane. Bill says Herb flies too low when visibility is poor. . . . We wish to welcome Gene Bair, our new apprentice, who replaced Gene Ralstin. . . . Dick Nix has given up trying to teach Kitch and Buck how to play euchre.

Even when Dick quits trying, they can't win a game. . . . Si Alspaugh is remodeling his house. A great many people undertake this job themselves, but how many get lost in their own home while doing it. . . . The "Lavine Construction Company" is building chimneys this week at half price. . . . WHO'S SURPRISED- I IS! — I planned a party, using stealth, asked friends in to surprise him. They're right here now to drink his health and fondly lionize him. The girls are stacked, the lights are dim, cake's frosted, coffee's perking—and then I got a call from him—"Don't wait up, dear, I'm working," by D. B. Griswold. Ever have this happen to you?

Peg Ballenger found a way to cope with the heat. In order to get snow in his house, Peg bought a TV set. He claims that will give you all the snow you care to see. . . . The blue streak that you can see in the mornings on Highway 30 is Bob Hienzelman coming to work. He can leave home at 6:30, have time to stop for a cup of coffee, and get here in time to ring in at 6:48. . . . Fred Craig, our little helper, found out when it is a 30-mile zone it means 30 miles. Fred went a little faster and got a pink slip from the city to appear in court the next day. . . . Harold Mosshammer has found out that he isn't quite as young as he used to be. He tried playing softball over the week-end and then paid for it the next few days with sore and aching muscles. . . . What is Adele Wietfield planning on doing now that she has sold her car? . . . Jerry Schultz should try going to bed a little earlier so he can make it to work just once on time in the mornings. . . . Ruby Shive finally made the girls some candy, although she waited for the hottest day to do it. She did survive and the girls appreciated it very much. . . . Congratulations to Lois Burry, who celebrated her birthday last week. . . . Many girls are leaving us. They are Wanda Caster, Josie Hardy, Eullea Murray, Ruby Clouse, Thelma Onion, Leota Haverstick, Josephine Laquana, Levora Smithley, and Doris DeVoe. We hope to see all of them back with us again in the near future.

'Rocket Trip to the Moon' Is Theme Of Current Elex Membership Drive

With the moon representing their membership goal, the Elex Club opened its 1953-54 drive this week with the theme of a trip to the moon. Dividing the possible membership into four sections, the Club has represented each section with a rocket. The goal is to see which rocket can reach the moon first by achieving the most members.

The four rockets represent Broadway east side, Broadway west side, Taylor St., and Winter St. and Fairfield.

ELEX MEMBERSHIP DRIVE this year is in the form of a trip to the moon. The four rockets representing sections of the Fort Wayne plants will move toward the moon as they pick up members. Marian Leiter, Bldg. 4-6, in charge of the display, is shown adding the totals of each section.

The drive will continue through Sept. 21. During this period, contact girls will see women employees at all the locations. Membership is $2.50.

Persons who join during this period will be eligible to vote in the election which is slated for Sept. 23, 24, 25.

New employees and those who are off for illness during the drive may become members within two weeks after they begin or return to work and receive their first pay check.

Coming events slated on the fall club calendar include the installation of officers at a tea Sunday, Oct. 11. The following day, Oct. 12, members will congregate at the GE Club for their first regular meeting of the season.

Highlighting the program will be the Varsity Glee Club of Purdue University under the direction of Albert P. Stewart. An outstanding organization in the country, the Glee Club is well known for its achievements.

Vincent P. Gregg Appointed Specialty Product Planner

The appointment of Vincent P. Gregg as product planner of the Specialty Motor Sub-Department has been announced by Joseph J. Horan, manager of marketing.

Mr. Gregg's duties will include integrating, planning, and timing for various product lines and programs.

Joining the company in 1945, Mr. Gregg entered the test engineers program in Fort Wayne. Later he went to the Schenectady and Lynn plants. At the latter location, he was in charge of test engineer activities.

Subsequent assignments in Schenectady included technical personnel placement and sales training, buyer, assistant purchase agent, and purchasing agent in the Purchasing Department. In 1951, Mr. Gregg was named manager of purchasing, nonferrous metals, in Schenectady and had this position at the time of his present assignment.

A graduate of Washington State University, Mr. Gregg received his BSEE degree in 1945.

GE to Get New Phone Number After October 1

Effective Oct. 1, the telephone number of General Electric will be changed to E-7431, Robert Wylie, manager of contributing manufacturing section, General AC Motor Sub-Department, announced this week.

The number is being changed to provide better service for the community in dialing GE.

At present, outsiders dialing into the Company have ten possibilities of getting in before receiving a busy signal. Because of new equipment being installed by the telephone company on the Eastbrook exchange, the possibilities of getting in to GE will be increased to 30 beginning Oct. 1. The number of GE trunk lines will not be changed, but will remain at 30 as they are now.

The change in the number will be the first since May 30, 1925. At that time, the city went from a manual to an automatic telephone exchange and GE received its present number. There are now 2037 extension numbers at the Broadway and Taylor St. plants.

Partizan to Install Officers at Banquet

Members of the Elex Club's Partizan Chapter will convene at Howard Johnson's restaurant Tuesday, Sept. 15, for their annual banquet.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the meeting will feature the installation of 1953-54 officers and will be conducted in the private dining room. New officers are: Martha Zehender, president; Nora Coburn, vice president; Luella Tarmon, Secretary, and Bea Helms, treasurer.

In charge of the meeting and installation is Jane Yergens, outgoing president. She is being assisted by Clara Cooper, Ann Fox, and Fay Voss.

Tickets Available For 'Fall Brawl'

Tickets for the GE Squares 'Fall Brawl' square dance tomorrow evening are available through contact men of the Squares and test engineers groups.

Prices are one dollar per couple for members and $1.25 for non members. Tickets may be secured also at the door at McMillen Park pavillion prior to the dance.

From 8:30 until 11:30 p.m. music will be furnished for dancing and Arnold Kramer will be the caller. Jerry Doeden, Bldg. 26-2, is serving as general chairman of the event.

GE Small Appliance Division Plans To Sponsor Ray Milland TV Show

As a part of their extensive advertising campaigns General Electric's Small Appliance division and Radio-Television department will co-sponsor a new half-hour television show starring academy award-winner, Ray Milland. A situation comedy called "Meet Mr. McNutley", the program will make its initial appearance on the CBS television network on Thursday, September 17, at 7 p.m. E.D.T.

According to S. M. Fassler and G. A. Bradford, advertising managers of the Small Appliance division and Radio-Television departments, approximately 65 stations throughout the country will carry the new show. As an additional merchandising feature Kathi Norris, well-known television personality, will deliver the commercials.

A radio series of "Meet Mr. McNutley", with Milland as star, will also be sponsored by the Radio-Television department over CBS radio on Thursdays at 8 p.m. E.D.T.

History Highlights

of Fort Wayne General Electric

In the 1880's when the present General Electric Company had its beginning in Fort Wayne, one of the first products manufactured was the dynamo. Built by James J. Wood, prominent GE inventor, this early product was made at the Jenny Electric Lighting plant on Superior St. In addition to dynamos, arc lamps were the only other product of the plant. This first product, shown at left was the forerunner of our present large motor and generator set.

Q-C Club Outing Transportation

Quarter Century Club members who are attending the outing tomorrow at Municipal Beach and who need transportation are asked to be at the Broadway east gate between 9 and 10 a.m. tomorrow, Kenneth Redding, transportation chairman, reported.

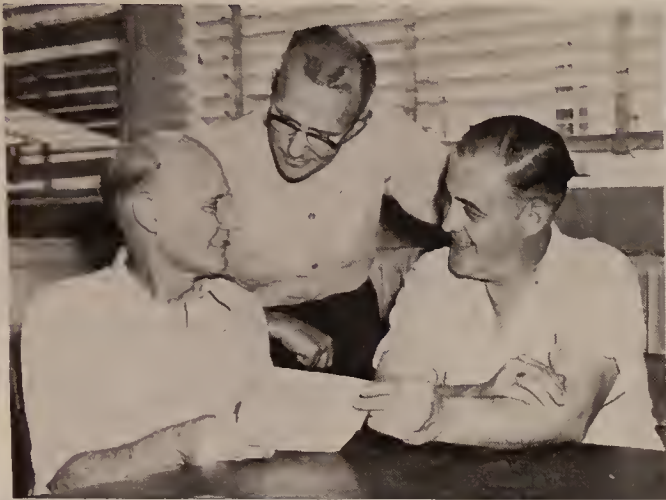

In case of rain, the outing will be staged at the War Memorial Coliseum.

QC fishermen who wish to enter the bait casting contest are asked to take their casting rods to the outing and contact Bob Neeb, Bldg. 4-5, who is in charge of this event.

'Watch That Child' Motorists Cautioned

As thousands of Fort Wayne children returned to school this week, motorists were reminded to be extremely careful in school zones, Harold S. Zeis, sheriff of Allen county, announced.

"Our objective this year is to establish a record of not a single accident to our children, and we need the help of everybody in this safety campaign," Sheriff Zeis stated. The sheriff's department is working with the city police department, Chamber of Commerce Safety Council, and other agencies in this campaign.

Four Tours Planned

Four separate tours have been arranged through the operations of the Broadway plant. The GE Open House entrance will be located on the west side of Broadway, where tours through the Specialty Transformer Department and the Large Motor and Generator Department have been scheduled. Company exhibits and special historical displays will be located near the entrance. Two additional tours through the Hermetic Motor Department and the Specialty Motor Department can be taken by crossing over on the company ramp to the east side of Broadway. Refreshments, including a piece of the 75th Anniversary cake, will be served to all guests at the end of the tour. There will be candy for the youngsters.

Though the plant will be open to the public only between 4 and 9 p.m., special arrangements are being made to welcome groups of senior high school and college students from the city and county schools earlier in the day.

A movie entitled "Freedom and Power" will be shown hourly in the GE Club.

Q. Does putting salt on a sidewalk to melt the ice cause damage to the concrete?

A. Yes, salt is definitely injurious to concrete, particularly during the first few years after it is laid. On concrete more than six or seven years old these adverse effects are not usually serious, according to the Portland Cement Association. However, even on old concrete there may be some effect. The salt holds moisture and as this repeatedly freezes and thaws there may be some damage which would not occur if the moisture were not there.

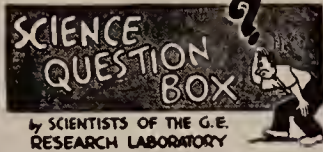

Q. What is the composition of natural gas?

A. Natural gas consists of about 90 per cent of methane, also known as "marsh gas," since it is formed by decaying vegetation in marshes. The additional 10 per cent is ethane, hydrogen and other gases. Natural gas is not as poisonous as the manufactured gases, which generally contain carbon monoxide, but the hazards from fire and explosion are just as great and it should not be handled carelessly. Since natural gas has practically no smell, a small amount of some odorous substance is usually added to it, in order to make it easier to smell when there are leaks.

Five Winter St. Appointments Disclosed

Five appointments in the Small Integral Motor Department were announced this week. John H. Andrews has been appointed supervisor of production and Marcella S. Koehn has been named supervisor of order service, Max A. Tritch, manager of materials, announced.

Glen L. Macy has been named supervisor of wage rate and William F. Mueller has been appointed supervisor of planning, it was announced by B. Franklin Burnham, manufacturing engineer.

Edwin W. Misselhorn has been appointed plant engineer, Oscar L. Weitzman, manager of manufacturing and employee relations, reported.

In 1945, Mr. Andrews entered the test engineers program in Schenectady. The following year he became general head of Bldg. 16 motor and generator test in the same location. He went into the creative engineering program in 1947.

Holds M.A. Degree

Mr. Andrews went into the Harvard University graduate school of Business Administration in 1947 and received his master degree in 1949. After returning to the Company the same year, he went into the factory training program at the River Works. At the Somersworth, N. H., he became cost reduction analyst and later was named a foreman. Prior to his present appointment, he was on special assignment to the superintendent at Somersworth.

In 1945, Mr. Andrews graduated from Yale University with a bachelor of engineering degree. He is a member of the ASME, AIEE, and the Supervisors Club.

The Andrews and their two children reside at 4717 Tacoma Ave.

Former Clerical Worker

Miss Koehn joined General Electric in 1917 as a clerical worker in shipping in Bldg. 6. In 1927, she was named a leader in billing and shipping. She went to Winter St. in 1931 as a supervisor of billing and shipping and held this position at the time of her present assignment.

A graduate of St. Catherine's College in Springfield, Ky., Miss Koehn graduated in 1917. She is a member of the Elex Club and the Women's Traffic Club. She resides at 425 E. Wayne St.

Mr. Macy entered GE in 1929 and went into the Winter St. plant in shipping and receiving. He later worked in the machine shop, assembly and welding, and was appointed a foreman.

Serving as a time study man, Mr. Macy became supervisor of wage rate and personnel in the Air Conditioning Department and had this job until his present assignment.

Has Two Sons

The Macys and their two sons live at 2715 Lillie St.

In 1911, Mr. Mueller became a GE employee and was a toolmaker at Broadway. He served as an assistant foreman, foreman, assistant supervisor, assistant to the superintendent, and supervisor in the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department.

In 1925, Mr. Mueller moved to Winter St. where he was an assistant to the superintendent and later became supervisor of planning and wage rate. Prior to his present assignment, he was a manufacturing engineer.

Q-C Member

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Mueller has two children and two grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Mueller reside at 1408 Clara Ave.

In September, 1943, Mr. Misselhorn joined the test engineers program at Schenectady. He completed a test assignment in Fort Wayne FHP Motor Department and performed his other tests at Schenectady.

Entering the U. S. Navy in 1944, Mr. Misselhorn served 19 months overseas. When he returned to the Company in 1946, he went to the Winter St. plant as an engineer in plant engineering. This was his job at the time of his present assignment.

A graduate of Purdue University, Mr. Misselhorn received his BSME degree in August, 1943. He is a member of FWAGEE and the Fort Wayne Engineers Club. The Misselhorns have two daughters and reside at 247 Burnham St., Kendallville.

The neighborhood borrower approached Mr. Smith Sunday noon and inquired:

"Say, Smith, are you using your lawnmower this afternoon?"

"Yes, I am," Smith replied warily.

"Fine. Then you won't be wanting your golf clubs — I'll just borrow them."

SHAFT SHAVINGS

BLDG. 19-3

Sherry Varner is a popular girl, according to all the mail she receives. . . . The William Browns are proud owners of a new Studebaker. . . . Ed Lepper is back from a weeks vacation. He spent part of the time at the State Fair where his two sons had some sheep on display. . . . We welcome Mike Sorgen to our office. We hope he will like working here. He is replacing George Garwick, who is going to Lynn, Mass. . . . The other day Dorothy Whonsettler opened her purse and out flew a moth. Do you suppose she is hoarding her money and it will become moth eaten? . . . The Frank Karthol's went to the State Fair. Frank saw and talked to his old friend Guy Lombardo and got some pictures of him and his cast. . . . The squirrel season is open so Two Gun (Lloyd) Germano and Kenneth Handschy went hunting at Claude Cline's place. The boys found the squirrels to be very indifferent to their shots. Two Gun Germano shot both guns at his squirrel and then had to beat it to death. Handschy shot three times at his, then it got away. (He says he brought two home.) Kenneth Hart has offered to train them in the use of firearms. . . . John Redmerski visited the State Fair.

On the way he found a place that still serves 18 oz. schooners for 20 cents. . . . Fred Paul and Charles Dixon are still the best of friends even though they are fighting as much as ever. . . . Joe Burton and Frank Elder had a long talk on the art of fly fishing. . . . Paul Lietsinn is sporting a new hair-do. . . . Herb Wendt has a new car that he is proud of. . . . We extend our sympathy to Phil Burney on the death of his grandmother.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

BLDG. 22

George Winans

They don't call Bouncy "Becker" "Bouncy" for nothing. The other day he was struck in the head with a 20-pound piece of steel. The steel bounced off Becker's head and flew clear over to Charlie Castle's booth. Result, one slightly sore head and one badly bent piece of steel. . . . Congratulations to Don (Generous) Voorhees, who has just acquired a new granddaughter. . . . Paul and Mary Gruber have bought the land to build their "Dream House" on. . . . The hottest day in Chicago's history found one Fort Wayne woman, whose initials are Mildred Messer, sitting in her car on one of Chicago's busy streets with the car windows rolled up and the doors locked. . . . Then there is the story that Ferroll (Cupid) Hill tells about the time he and his maw were vacationing in them thar hills. They stopped at a little grocery way back in the hills and Ferroll's ma asked the barefoot woman behind the counter if'n they had any cold meat. "Shore have," said the woman as she bit off a chaw of cut plug, "just foller me out to the cooler." There in the cooler hung plenty of fresh pork and beef. "But I want cold meat," said Maw Hill. "S'all cold," said the woman, "jes feel it."

RETIREMENT GATHERING—Harrison Bennett holds up two retirement cakes on his last day as a GE employee, while a group of his co-workers stand by to congratulate him. Mr. Bennett, a GE employee since 1913, was an assembler in Bldg. 4-3 before retiring.

TRIPLE RETIREMENT — Three Winter St. employees recently celebrated a joint retirement celebration. They are (l-r) Vern J. Gratts, Frank A. Neuman, and George H. Stouder. Paul Johnson (right) helps them unwrap their retirement gifts from their co-workers. Mr. Gratts, a GE employee since 1916, was doing silver solder work before retiring. Mr. Neuman was a blacksmith in Bldg. 2-C when he joined GE. He did heat treat work before retirement. Mr. Stouder's last job at GE was as an oven attendant. He had been a GE employee since 1913.

Herb Black lost about 10 years growth when Moe Moffit let loose on his car horn when Herb didn't know he was anywhere near. It scared him so badly he didn't get into work till 10 o'clock the next day. . . . Wonder what Paul Henricks, Jr., does over the week-end that he has such a vivacious "good morning" on Monday, turns into a "hi" by Wednesday, and just a nod by Friday. Wonder if that new Pontiac has anything to do with it? . . . Margaret Lehman is on the sick list. . . . Doesn't John Figley know that it is work that gets you places in this world and not trying to get favors by bringing tomatoes to folks? . . . John is only hoping that Paul Henricks, Sr., lives up to his word. He has promised John a big slab of deer meat in exchange for all the tomatoes and carrots. . . . Maggie Bopp had a birthday recently. They say the cake was real good. Also birthday greetings to Viola Donahue, on September 7, and to Irmgard Gehle, on September 4. . . . The heat must have gotten Red Grepke. He wore two different colored socks to work one day last week. . . . It must have been the heat or maybe Raymond Gard was so intent on getting to work on time he forgot to change shoes. He wore his houseshoes to work. . . . The best of luck to Jim Stauffer, who is entering the Indiana University School of Business this fall. . . . Bob Freidericks is the proud owner of a GE TV set. . . . Lou Howely's son left for the Marines last week. . . . Lois Weeks and family went to Toledo over Labor Day. . . . Poor Fern Painter, she's no shrimp, but she sure got a lot of shrimp sauce on her when her husband's plate (it was the paper variety) blew in her face. Incidentally, there was still some salad on it. . . . Hope Carrie Edgar has better luck with her cokes in Bldg. 6-4 than she had here. She kept spilling them here. . . . Is Helen Franklin trying to work magic or something? She was positive she could make 50 fields out of 25 sets of coils. It is probably the heat and that new "Simpson" mattress she has. . . . Carl Kinsey sure got a terrible bump on his head. Suppose he was trying to end it all because his name is Kinsey? . . . Among the Korean veterans to return was Unis Steinbarger's brother, Robert Jones. He still has to return to Great Lakes where he will get his final discharge. . . . Welcome back to Pearl Michials, who is in 1x50, and to Eleanor Huffman and Agnes Shane. . . . We are sure Ruth Therur really loves us. She spent part of her vacation touring Bldg. 4-3. . . . The girls in the lead section had a lovely party at Irene Kregers. They celebrated Irene's birthday. . . . Dorothy Mollet and Edith Minnich spent Labor Day at the Van Wert Fair. . . . Jeanette Cook said her farewells last week. She will be home with her family. . . . Billie Gawthrop, we are sorry to hear, is on sick leave. Our best for a fast recovery. . . . Poor Ray Soest spent his third week vacation building a garage. He didn't even have a fan like the lucky guys who worked!

DITTIES FROM DISTRIBUTION BLDG. 6-2 Ruth Sorg

SHIPPING: Happy birthday greetings to Francis Miller, who celebrates her birthday today. . . . Cathy Trautman spent the Labor Day week-end moving to her new home east of town. . . . Vera Poe attended the State Fair on Labor Day. . . . Welcome to Myron Biggs, the new duplicator. . . . Ruth Sorg left last Monday on a vacation touring the Eastern states and Canada. . . . TELEGRAPH: Normal Durnell and Cholene Anderson spent the week-end and Labor Day in Indianapolis attending the State Fair.

TRANSFORMER TATTLES BLDG. 26-4 Dutch Norwalt

Famous last words by Al Topp and Rollie Mennewisch: "I lost five pounds today." . . . We feel very sorry for poor Tom Freeman. Tom has to drive clear up to his lake for his meals. His mother, at long last, is on her vacation and isn't here to cook them for him. . . . The boys in the packing section, Bldg. 26-4, would like to know where Bob Enz acquired his new perfume. . . . A new department seems to have been developed in transformer test. Jerry Moore was observed teaching Dutch Norwalt the proper way to load platforms. . . . Dick Goller's duties as a foreman must be very strenuous. Dick fell out of his boat trying to land a 6-pound bass. . . . We extend our sympathy to Bill Fowler on the death of his pet, "Corky." . . . Paul Peterson was seen bringing a post hole digger to work. . . . It has been reported that Gerald Norwalt again made his weekly trip to see Art Pequignot. Wonder if the Dodge has developed new rattles or are they the same old ones? . . . It has been called to the reporter's attention that Maurice Casey has developed a new technique for making holes. Instead of drilling them, Casey burns them through buss bars. . . . Attention everyone: Clear the stairs for the 3:30 flash when T. H. Freeman takes off for Hamilton Lake.

The time to prevent an accident is before it happens.

SPECIALTY MOTORS Shipping—Receiving—Order Service Eileen Fitch

We say farewell to Dale Thompson, and Victor Koepsell. Dale is leaving us to make his residence in Arizona, while Vic will take up the teaching of readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic. To both, we wish lots of success. . . . Mr. Saurbaugh returned to work this week looking rested. He spent most of his vacation time searching for a cool spot on the map, trying Michigan and Blue Lake. Like the rest of us, he came to the conclusion that no place this side of the North Pole, offered much relief from the heat. . . . Ilene Richardson, lucky gal, on vacation, and hubby are giving some of the western states the once over. Denver, Colorado, being their main objective. . . . Happy birthday wishes this week to Melvin Schrader and Charlie Von Behren. . . . We extend wishes for a speedy recovery to Kenny Schenk's mother, who recently has been very ill. . . . This little episode happened some time ago, but we thought you might like to hear about it. Charlie Strong was sitting on a barrel of glue. The lid was loose and it tipped. Charlie's weight caused the glue to splash out on the floor and down the sides of the barrel. Quite a mess it was. After Howard Sauers pried Charlie loose from the barrel, he insisted that Charlie clean up the glue. Ever since, Charlie Strong has a great dislike for horses, dead or alive. . . . We're going to have to put Ed David on a diet. His chair broke down, the other day. . . . Bill Degitz, one of our retired buddies, stopped in to see us. He looks hale and hearty. George Elson also stopped by. He had just returned from a fishing trip in Minnesota. . . . Dorothy McCoy and Bob Kurt: are our lucky vacationers. Bo Younghaus is back, full of pep and vigor. . . . We got our gardeners mixed last week. Mel Beucier is our green bean grower. Otto Witte is our flower specialist.

OLD-TIMERS MANAGERS—Red Carrington, manager of the city old timers baseball team, and Elmer Wagner, Bldg. 19-3, manager of the GE old timers team, match their luck in tossing a coin before the annual classic clash recently. The city team defeated GE in the seventh meeting of the two teams.

STORMY WEATHER BLDG. 17-4

Bill Hurtt and Larry Reed

Whenever you forget your wife's birthday, rest assured she'll remind you in a very subtle way, as Buck Lydy learned. After that date had been passed for two weeks, she came into the living room one evening carrying a cake with the correct amount of candles and singing "Happy Birthday." With that gentle reminder there's no doubt that Buck paid dearly for his lapse of memory. . . . It's a pleasure to see the change of heart that has come over Clarence Nussel, especially when he even went so far as to shine Ed Klomp's shoes. . . . While we weren't able to welcome Red Braden home with the championship, we extend our congratulations to him for the fine showing he made, and we feel justly proud of his accomplishments for Fort Wayne. . . . Des Walker says never again will he go to Chicago to see the Yanks play the White Sox, unless they can guarantee that the weather will not get up in the 90's. . . . The hot weather doesn't affect Charlie Kensill at all. For, as he says, when he thinks of last winter when he was laid up with a broken wrist, his wife had to shovel the snow from the walks. He realizes now it will be his turn to remove the snow and that thought sends one chill after another over him. Therefore, the present heat wave has been overcome by him. . . . Found: One furbearing animal on our floor. Arrangements are being made for Hilda to take Clarence Nussel on a swimming party so he can proudly display that mattress he carries around on his chest. . . . Edna Ward is willing to give up part of her dress to provide shoulder straps for Clara Kleint's dress. But, the material to be used must be her pockets and not from the center of the dress, as Clara wants. . . . Although he is definitely not a stranger to us, we welcome Jerry Holgreve to the planning department and wish him every success. . . . We extend our deepest sympathies to Ray Pflueger on the loss of his sister. . . . The best way to beat the heat, says Omer Mettler, is to sit on the front porch and read your newspaper. Of course, if you fall asleep at 6 p.m. and don't wake up until 4 a.m., then you've killed two birds with one stone. . . . Herb Ufhiel doesn't mind an enforced layoff, but when it is caused by an aching tooth that has to come out, that's adding insult to injury. . . . Anyone interested in a diet, see Cy Seymour. He has the answer. At the cafeteria, he ordered coffee, put sugar in it and then didn't drink it. When asked why he didn't drink it, he replied that it had sugar in it. But when the question was put to him why did he put sugar in it, the reply was that he liked it that way. You're right, we can't figure that one either. . . .

Big GE Club Boxing Show Tickets On Sale Sept. 16

Tickets for the GE Club's boxing show Sept. 29 will go on sale Wednesday, Sept. 16, at the Club desk. There will be 898 reserved seat tickets available at $1 per person. The remainder of the seats will be unreserved and tickets for these will be on sale at the box office at 60 cents each the night of the fights.

Next week about a dozen local boxers will move into the Club gym to begin training for the event, which is the first staged at the Club in several years. Frank Newport, chairman of the event and of the boxing committee, announced that he does not have the complete roster as yet for it will depend upon which weights are sent here from the Toledo Golden Gloves squad. The first workout session is slated for Monday at 7 p.m., and the public is invited to attend the workouts.

Possibilities for the Fort Wayne card are Gene "Red" McClure, Bldg. 19-3, lightweight; Al Campbell, Bldg. 6-B, welterweight, and John Freeman, heavyweight.

The show will feature five inter-city matches, three other matches between city boys, and one special event.

The Sept. 29 card will be the first of five to be staged at the Club and there will be five away from home prior to the 1954 Golden Gloves classic. Future shows will bring boxers from other cities in the vicinity.

The following committees have been announced by chairman Newport for the initial show: tickets, Bill Schible, Dale Weaver, and Charles Winans; box office—Bob Myers and Cecil Onion; arrangements—Richard Grote, Bill Hanke, Guy Miller, Frank Paul, Charlie Wilt, and Cecil Onion; publicity—Sam Baumgartner, Don Castle, and Newport; and protection—Harold Smith and Bill Schible.

GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK to Nancy Starke, who is entering Indiana University where she will take preparatory course for nurses' training. After approximately one year, she will report to an Indianapolis hospital. We'd like to commend you on this big step, Nancy—we really do need more like you in this field. . . . THE STORK is hovering around 3419 E. Pontiac. Wonder when he'll make a landing, Gil Baker. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to E. M. Stanberry, on September 13; Virginia Gruber, on September 14; Carl Leitch, Julian Stark, and Gloria Snyder, on September 15. Also, happy birthday to Margaret Taylor, on September 7; Paige Thompson, on September 9, and Chris Flanigan, on September 12. . . . FAREWELL to Andrew Itzov, who is leaving for his next test and is going to Burlington, Vt. He is being replaced by Hans Killingstad, TE who will work for C. J. Herman. . . . HAROLD DIMKE would like to know if Kirkendall is going to CHOOSES TO RETIRE—Carl Wiegman (left) left the company on optional retirement this month after more than 25 years of service with General Electric. He first came to GE in 1925 as a machine operator in Bldg. 2-3. He was a bench machinist in Bldg. 19-2 before retirement. Kenneth D. Strong is shown offering him best wishes on his last day at work.

17-3 NEWSIES

Wilhelmina Beeth

Congratulations to Jacklyn Bell for being a lucky little girl. James and Ethel Bell have opened their hearts and home, and have taken her as their adopted daughter. . . . Glad to see Emma Snyder ringing in her clock card again. . . . The next time Bob George goes to the lake we will have to supply him with a map, so that he will know where he is. When asked at which lake he spent the week-end, he said he wasn't sure but he thought it was Lake Erie. . . . We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Virginia Hall, Virginia Pelz, Margaret Zumbun, Sadie Hudlow, Betty Margaret Zumbun, Sadie Hudlow, Betty Marquis, and Margie Williams. . . . Rachel Jackson has been trying to run her new car without gas, but it doesn't work. . . . Doris Ryan was on vacation last week. . . . Ellen Williamson has been bringing the girls on the line one sample of her baking. She is getting in practice for her husband when he comes home from Hawaii. . . . Violet Brower was trying to make out a slip with a red pencil, but was using a red colored stick. The slip remained a blank. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Jo Matter, who is on the sick list.

BOWLING NOTES

Members of the Monday Night Girls' League have been asked to meet at the GE Club Monday, Sept. 14, at 7:45 p.m. Helen Mossburg, Bldg. 26-2, president of the league, announced that a short organization meeting will be conducted.

* * *

All girls signed up for the Tuesday afternoon league are asked to report Tuesday, Sept. 15 at 3:30 p.m. ready to bowl. There will be a short meeting in the Trophy Room prior to kegling.

Happy birthday to Cozette Walper. The switch and assembly girls enjoyed the candy. She said she will make a cake when the weather is cooler. . . . Pauline Settle set her alarm clock an hour early the other night and got right out in the dark. She couldn't understand why she was so sleepy until she checked her watch. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Maurice Roe on his 24th wedding anniversary. Next year he will have a double celebration with 25 years with GE and also his 25th wedding anniversary. . . . Ask Clara Gidley, Mary Shreve, and Lois Burry how they liked their fast ride up to Skinner Lake with Fred Young, the other night to get an ice box. Anyway, they saved a trucking bill by Fred lifting one end of the box and the three women the other end. . . . How many boxes of crackers did Rosie Johnson use the other evening to get enough crumbs for a meat loaf? Then she went to bed and forgot the loaf in the oven! . . . Will Alberta Watt please give Bernadine Warner the right telephone number after this when she calls about peaches for Catherine Chilcote and herself. The man at the Insurance Company said they didn't sell peaches. . . . Betty Bertch about strangled drinking her milk when Louise Sinn cut her straw in half. If the price of hogs hadn't gone down Louise might have been married. Ed Feidler has been looking for a woman with a lot of hogs. . . . Ruth Smith is back to work after being in Covis, N. M., and Dorothy Weiler is back after spending six weeks in California. . . . Ruth Cavander wishes to thank the birthday group, and also the department, for the flowers at the time of her sister's death. . . . Otts Geiger is enjoying his third week vacation. We hope, with all the hot weather, he is able to keep cool someplace.

A thought for safety is time well spent.

HERE 30 YEARS—August Weisenburger (second from right) receives best wishes on his 30th GE anniversary from (l-r) C. M. Witham, Ewald Stinsmuehlen, and F. G. Campbell. Mr. Weisenburger joined the company as an apprentice in Bldg. 26-5. He is now a foreman at Taylor St.

Virgil Howell has a cottage on Lake George and he is having Open House every week-end for the workers in the Wire Sub-Section, their families and friends. The only catch is you'll have to find him home. . . . George Miller says that he has used his allotted time for fishing this year and any other invitations will have to be turned down. However, they will be gladly accepted for next year. . . . It was a close call, and Porky Schoenefeld's neighbors thought it was a miniature "A" bomb exploding. After a thorough investigation they discovered that Porky was removing a fire hazard by burning dirty rags and papers that were used in cleaning paint brushes. It was only a matter of seconds when a match was applied, but it was another grey hair for Porky. . . . Don Pappert wants to know if anyone has a book on etiquette by Emily Post. He wants to learn how to remove a chair for a lady to stand. . . . In case you are wondering who the three likeable young fellows are in the Wire Lab, they are William (California Bill) Crowe, William (Curly) Von Behren, and Jose (Siesta Time) Gutierrez. The two William's are on training courses and Jose is assisting Dick Carlton. Crowe has a special liking for doing scrape abrasion, Von Behren enjoys photography, while Jose's hobby is picket fences and flower gardens. . . . Orval Doherty had his third week of vacation last week and we hope he got the chance to visit Mammoth Cave. . . . "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT": There is a certain guy with the initials of Jim Blake who just loves to talk. Well, anyway, a couple of the fellows got mighty sick and tired of Jim's yaking one day, so as one held Jim's arms behind him the other took about 12 yards of masking tape and started on Jim's mouth and kept winding around and around. When they saw Jim getting red in the face they decided that he had had enough so they took the tape off. I don't know what happened after that little incident, but knowing Jim, I don't think he took it sitting down. . . . Albert Hutchinson has been having himself quite a time with the upper part of a set of hideous store teeth that he purchased at the dime store, while he is waiting to get some real purty ones from the dentist. He can't understand why his wife refuses to let him wear them when they go out together. . . . Suzanne Wilkens has taken over my job and I am now working for Art Braun of Test Floor. I know you will be happy here, Sue, because there are a swell bunch of guys and gals in Bldg. 19-1, etc. . . . Here comes Mary Ann Goodman over to our office again to sharpen her pencils. Gad, I wish there was some way the company could swing it so Kenny Strong could give his secretary a pencil sharpener of her very own.

TOOL BITS BLDG. 19-4 and 5 Don Clark

George Sterne, whom you met in this column last week, is leaving today. His MTP course and work on his master's degree in industrial management require him to join the Syracuse Works. . . . We also say good-by to Professor Pat Smith, who is returning to his teaching position at Case Institute. While here Pat not only worked on some of our factory layout problems, but also tossed in a little instruction as well. That is, he carefully advised George Sterne on his many problems with the fair damsels of our city. . . . Gerry Widner has a new Ford equipped with fire engine red paint, but no bell. . . . Chet Reynolds and family spent Labor Day week-end at Randall Lake. . . . Don't get too excited about that phone call from a radio station! John Roemer received a phone call last week and answered the questions right, but alas, no prizes were forthcoming. Someone was playing a not too funny practical joke. On the other hand Hank Wittber's wife answered a legitimate phone call from a local station and presented Hank with a basket of groceries. . . . Stewart Bohrer rates mention again for another grandson. . . . It wasn't unusual for Walter Greiner to see Paul Yentes trying to level a lawn across the street, but my, what tools—a putter, driver and niblick! . . . Lowell Welker, who shot a nice 44 on his first golf game this year, attributes his success to his ability to keep out of the woods. . . . Bobo Woodrow Hursh made a personal appearance at the Hometown Fair. He worked in one of the booths. For 25 cents you could throw three balls at "Bobo" who faced the possibility of being dunked in a tub of water. Woody didn't mind, especially after they heated the water. Clyde Spangler was on a less exciting job of selling tickets for ferris wheel rides. . . . Carl Mosser is making a science out of his fishing hobby. He has a barometer and water thermometer for selecting fishing dates and nights. At least he should be able to dress appropriately for the weather that day. . . . Observing a pitiful foursome on the golf course recently, Hayden Rice couldn't refrain from commenting, "They play worse than a bunch of women." Turning around, however, he was surprised to receive a scathing rebuke from the pert young lady golfer who by chance heard his remark. No fooling, folks, Hayden swung three times before hitting his next tee shot. . . . Good luck to Kurt Martin, as he begins his 31st year at GE.

GENERAL SERVICE

Mary Saxton

Congratulations to John Lare and Bob Dressel, new grandpas. John has a granddaughter and Bob a grandson. . . . They're girls for George and Maren Wralstad and Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Jackson. Congratulations. . . . Someone presented Milford Tony with a 20-inch pike but forgot to tell him about it until the pike made itself known. Mrs. Tony was the first to notice the "sweet" aroma and insisted that Milford do a little cleaning around the cottage. After searching for quite a while, he found the fish on the roof. A planner at Taylor St. seems to know all about it, but won't admit anything. . . . Louie Bricker says he went squirrel hunting, but he sure confuses us. While driving down a road he hit a chicken and picked that up; put a line in the water and got several fish, and finally shot a big turtle. He went home with his chicken, fish and turtle and never even saw a squirrel. . . . Congratulations to Arnold Wuebbenhorst on his 25 years with the company. Speaking of Wuebbie, he recently received this little verse: You really have a pretty garden, it really is sublime. But it would be much better yet, if your wife had a little more time. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Bobbie Godfrey and Marge Barnes, both on Sept. 9. . . . This is a sample of what our section could send to the Liar's Club: Merritt Meyers said that there was a squirrel in his tree but he couldn't get it because it was up 75 feet high. He decided, since he couldn't shoot it, he would cut down the tree. After the tree fell, the squirrel started up and was about 60 feet in the air before he realized that the tree was cut down. . . . Then: Hobby Hobson said that there was so many fish in the lake in Canada that the main trouble was getting the bait down through the smaller ones to catch the big ones. . . . Mary Jane Howe had another battle with a bat. She sought the aid of her cat, but he was more interested in a wash cloth. So she armed herself with a broom and slew the terrible beast herself. . . . Have you heard about the perils of "Ghandi" Van Auker? He demonstrated how to get paint off of his trousers without getting the least embarrassed.

A friend is the golden link in the chain of life.—A. E. Biard.

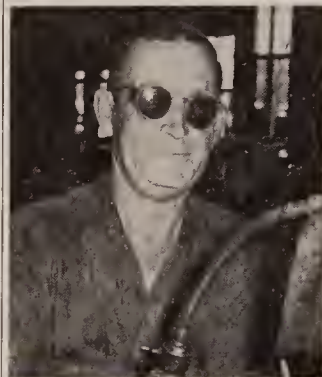

Inquiring Reporter:

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION OF THE KOREAN TRUCE?

CECIL L. GOODSON

Bldg. 19-1

"I do not think the truce in Korea will be a lasting one. While we are fortunate in not having to sacrifice any more men or materials I do not have any confidence in anything connected with the cut-throats in the Kremlin."

JOHN KNUTH

Bldg. 10-2

"After reading how the Communists treated our men in the prison camps, the truce was better than leaving all our men to die."

RUTH N. HARROLD

Taylor St.

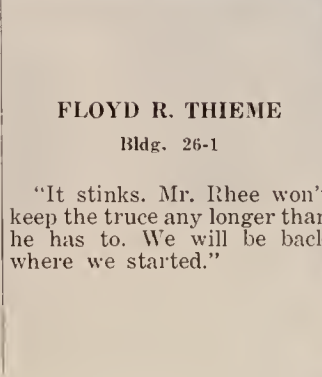

"I am thankful for the truce because it stops the senseless fighting over 'hills' and brings back many Americans held as prisoners by the Reds. The truce itself, however, avoids the issue of a united Korea and is not protection against potential Communist aggression in other areas."

PAUL R. REYNOLDS

Winter St.

"I could say 'happy days are here again', but I won't. It has temporarily stopped the killing and maiming of a lot of human beings but the war goes on. If it isn't the fighting kind of war, it's the rumor kind and the only tangible evidence of Communist sincerity is the return of a handful of American prisoners."

FLOYD R. THIEME

Bldg. 26-1

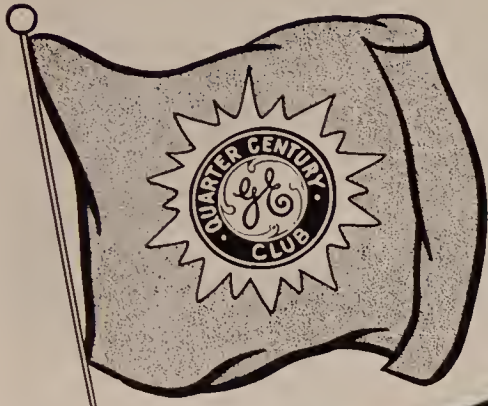

"It stinks. Mr. Rhee won't keep the truce any longer than he has to. We will be back where we started."

Thorndyke

It's not that I mind the way they ship me off to summer camp -- I just wish they'd give a little thought to how they paste on the labels!"

MG RUSHES ORDERS TO GM PLANT

Q-C'ers Set New Outing Attendance Record

1350 QC Members Enjoy 39th Outing at Municipal Beach

Amidst occasional sunshine and fall breezes, 1350 Quarter Century Club members gathered at Municipal Beach, Saturday, Sept. 12, for their 39th annual outing.

Coming from near and far, the largest number ever present at one of the outings gathered to participate in the fun-packed, full program and to talk over the good old days with friends and co-workers.

Among the streams of members stopping at the registration desk where early arrivals grouped was Henry C. Lepper, 91 years old, the oldest pensioner. Four of the five 50-year service members who accepted the invitation were Harry C. Prange, William N. Wehrs, John C. Schoedel, and James H. Rehrer. Coming the farthest distance was John W. Felmlee who traveled from California.

Registration continued through-

Employees Dig In To Aid Auto Plant Destroyed by Fire

Stepping in with assistance at a critical time, employees of the Direct Current Motor and Generator Department are at work on a rush order for the Detroit General Motors plant which burned Aug. 12. The fire idled many thousands of workers.

Last week the department shipped the first two of 30 dynamometers to the plant which will aid them in re-establishing a producing unit as soon as possible.

Placed on an emergency rush order basis, the 30 units will continue to roll off assembly lines in Bldg. 19 through the extra effort of many employees. Normally the units are manufactured on a basis of delivery 20 to 25 weeks after the order is received. But in this case, work on the order began Aug. 15, less than a month before the first two units were shipped.

DEBUTING THIS WEEK—One of the Fort Wayne Transit's buses makes its debut on the streets this week. Painted blue and grey, it will inform the public of GE's open house slated Oct. 15. Melvin Hill, of the Hill Advertising Service, puts final touches on the bus as he discusses the decoration with Don Dannecker, chairman of publicity and special program committee for the open house.

M AND G RUSH ORDER—At work on one of the 1225 pound dynamometers being shipped to the Detroit General Motors plant which was destroyed by fire last month are Motor and Generator employees Ferrol Hill, John Hoelle, and Harry Seitz. The unit is one of 30 of a rush order.

Guarding Our Children

The youngsters are back in school again, and though it would be small comfort to reluctant Junior to know that more than 28 million other kids share his fate, the fact is of the utmost importance to his country.

In these days of ideological warfare for the minds and souls of men, the axiom that Knowledge is Power is more truly meaningful than ever before in our history. Our schools, with a total enrollment of almost 35 million, constitute a veritable front line in defense of our institutions—of our very existence as free men.

But probably our most important job is day by day, to do what we can to guard and protect our youngsters from a very practical threat which they face daily—the automobile.

The Allen County Sheriffs Department, the Fort Wayne Police Department, the Chamber of Commerce Safety Council, and many other agencies are putting forth every effort to insure your child's safety on his way to school.

But they are efforts which will fail without the cooperation of every single driver, especially in the vicinity of schools, playgrounds and other places where children congregate.

1. Always expect the unexpected where children are concerned.
2. Give young bike riders every break.
3. Drive with extreme caution near schools and playgrounds and in residential areas.
4. Be especially alert in school areas for signs, signals, traffic police, patrol boys and for children themselves.

Our schools are protecting our children's minds, it is up to us to protect their lives. This safety campaign needs the help of everybody. The child we save may be our own!

Ex-Newsie Gives Tip to Boys

A fellow who once sold newspapers himself, out in Kansas, was talking to a crowd of newsboys in Philadelphia several years ago. After impressing upon them the value of a good name—"sell your papers, but never sell yourselves"—he went on:

"You may often hear capitalists referred to in tones of anything but respect. But you yourselves are capitalists—you have exercised the right of a free American to save a portion of what he makes by his own efforts and put it aside for a rainy day, or for a bicycle or for schooling.

"And when you do not have that right to save money, you also are not going to have the right to speak as you please, worship as you please, take the job that you please and work at it as long as you please." . . . The speaker, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

History Highlights

of Fort Wayne General Electric

In the early years of the 1900's when grandpa parked his Model T along Broadway and came to work at GE, there were a group of people in the Fort Wayne plant working on plans for a club house for all GE employees—a place where they could go for recreation, club meetings, and sporting events. A group of eight employees met with E. A. Barnes, superintendent, and outlined their ideas on Nov. 20, 1919. Eight years later the GE Recreation Building was dedicated with such dignitaries as GE President Gerard Swope present at the impressive ceremony. The houses shown at left had given way to the GE Club.

The original eight employees who worked with Mr. Barnes in making this structure possible are: William Melching, William Doan, Edwin Hulse, Irene Fox Offenloch, Cora Blue Polhamus, R. O. Orff, and E. A. Sivits.

A Bldg. 12-1 employee now serving in the U. S. Navy, Lewis Davis, was home on leave last week and stopped by to see former co-workers and express his thanks for the Elex boxes he has received. A fireman apprentice, Lewis takes care of electrical equipment on board the destroyer U.S.S. Dickson.

Since he has been in Service, Lewis has seen such far-off places as Africa, Italy, Sicily, France, Spain, and Gibraltar. Although he had only short leaves in these ports, he says that he liked France best.

Lewis would enjoy hearing from any of his friends in Specialty Transformer. His present address is:

Lewis E. Davis, EMFA 4308099
U.S.S. Harlan R. Dickson DD708
c/o F.P.O.
New York, N. Y.

Robert Dale Miller has sent a change of address. He sent his thanks also for the Elex boxes and GE NEWS which he receives. His new address is:

Robert Dale Miller F. A.
431-78-70 A-Division
U.S.S. Adirondack AGC-15
F.P.O. New York, N. Y.

Serving with the U. S. Army in France, Robert E. Pelz writes his appreciation for the notes sent him by Bldg. 17-3 employees. He was very thankful for these and also for the Elex boxes he has received. Robert states that his buddies benefited also from the Elex packages and from knowing how the people back home felt about their fellow workers. He says he likes to read the GE NEWS to keep up to date with events here. His present address is:

The following employees have entered the Armed Forces: Robert E. Wilkerson, Jr., Richard H. Meran, Jr., John F. Spieth, William O. Hermanson, Joseph F. Henry, Charles N. Harter, Lewis B. Ehlen, Thomas D. Nycum, James H. Spieth, Lamont E. Klein, Robert E. Fate, William H. Shambaugh, Robert J. Scheel, and Donald C. Brown.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, and returned to work:

Sick List

Katherine Biltz, Alice Joanne Leaman, Genevieve Mueller, Georgia Beamer, Catherine Harris, Cecil Tarney, Robert Blosser, Dorothy Andrews, Lawrence O'Shaughnessy, Ruth Lemmert, Luella Murrar, William Morton, Carl Garner, Donald Batchelder, Bernice Harnes, Clifton Harnes, Marian Harnes, Jeanne Brown, Gay Huey, Margaret Evans, Ezra Garringer, Mildred Grandstaff, George Danehy, Robert Bunyon, Deloris Jarvis, David Peters, Kenneth McKnight, Paul Willer, Paul Mueller, Luke Shorter, George Webb, and Lawrence Walters.

Returned to Work

Helen Bodecker, William M. Allen, Eugene Kilty, Ralph Farrell, Lavona Clark, Walter Duane, William Bellamy, Jay Bowman, Dorothy Burns, Eugenia Fry, Paul Bowman, Eva Johnson, Paul Nunemaker, Marion Milledge, Virgil Royer, Archie Wright, Bettie Norman, Harry Parker, Julia Sparks, Virginia Strait, Sarah Moore, Willie Rowell, Dorothy Lebrecht, Alfred Snawder, Beverly Weatherpoon, Eblen Whitten, Earl Wendell, Hobart Winebrenner, and Violet LeFavour.

2-2 TALES

Belle Buchan

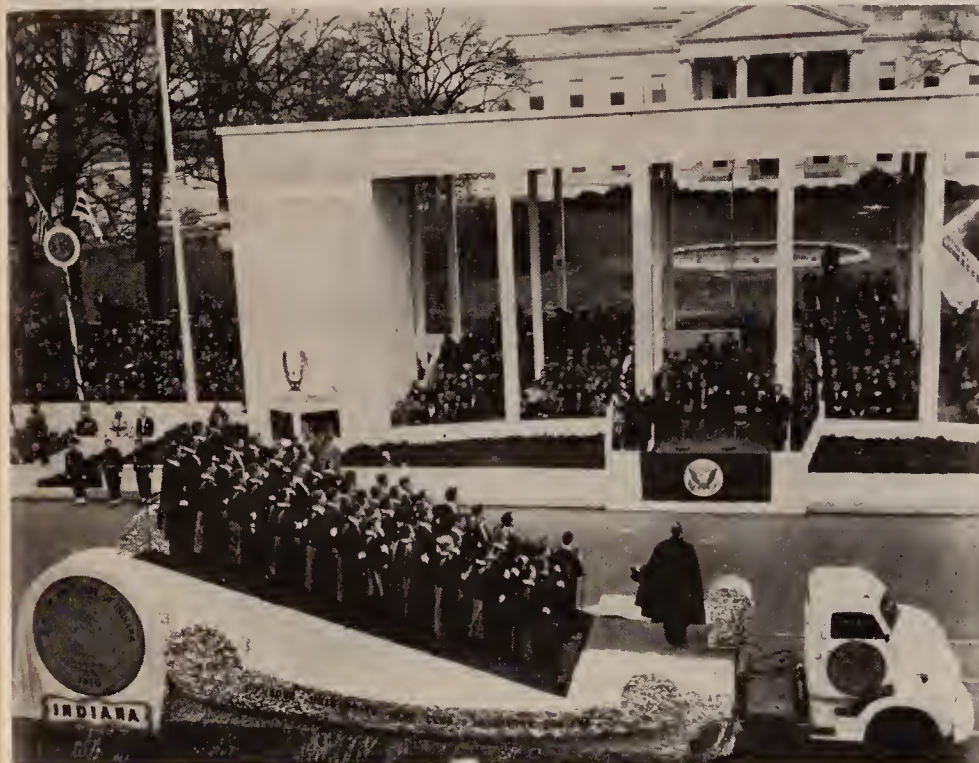

This week we said good-by to Marinell Fry, who went to Taylor St. to work. We are going to miss that nice smile. . . . Herb Koch showed up for work this week with a bandage on his arm, and wouldn't say much about it. Wonder if he got it driving a long one down the fairway. . . . Happy birthday to Carolyn Burnett, Mickey Crawford, and Belle Buchan. All of them are sweet sixteen, plus. . . . Well, everything zaney that happened for the last few weeks, we blamed on the heat, but this one we wonder about: Hugh Reynolds was heard calling his own telephone number and asking for Hugh Reynolds. . . . Aside from the weather man playing a bad joke, the Quarter Century party this year was a real swell shindig. Vern Castle wished that he had taken his foot warmers along. . . . Girls, don't forget to join Elex. It's the biggest value you can get for your $2.50.

Elex to Host Regional Fall Conference

ON ELEX PROGRAM—The Varsity Glee Club of Purdue University will highlight the Oct. 12 Elex meeting in the GE Club. This will be the first meeting of the club year and is open to members only. The Glee Club, under the direction of Albert P. Stewart, is shown as they pass the reviewing stand in the inaugural parade for President Eisenhower, Jan. 20, 1953.

'New Horizons' Selected As Theme For GE Women's Oct. 17-18 Meeting

The Elex Club will be host to women's clubs of the branch plants at the annual fall conference to be conducted in Fort Wayne Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 17 and 18.

"New Horizons" is the theme of the two-day meeting which will convene at the Hotel Van Orman. In addition to branch plant representatives, members of the Partizan Chapter, Cincinnati, and Chicago clubs will attend.

Presiding officer of the convention is Roqua Wibel, Elex president. Club members may make reservations with contact girls or in the Women's Activities office, Bldg. 18-1.

Price of the conference is $10, which covers the banquet, luncheon, mixer, registration, and the general assemblies. All reservations are due by Oct. 5 and final payment must be made by Oct. 12. Decatur plant GeCode members should make reservations with the club president.

Committees in charge of the various activities are composed of the present officers of Elex. They are: Registration, Mary Olson and Mary Jane Horrell; program, Maxine Baker, Justine Brown, and Helen Bradley; banquet, Maxine Root, chairman, and Dorothy Brubaker, co-chairman; luncheon, Gerry Schmidt, chairman, and Frieda Knoche, co-chairman; hostesses, Grace Collins, chairman, and all out-going and incoming officers; and skit chairman, Donna Bauermeister.

City Fire Department To Make Plant Tour

The annual tour of Fort Wayne General Electric for the city fire department will be conducted next week, Ernie Hanauer, GE fire chief reported today.

Scheduled for Sept. 21, 22, 23, and 24, the tour will be conducted by Chief Hanauer, battalion chief Merle Morkoetter, and fire inspectors. It will acquaint firemen with the physical layout of the plant and hazardous areas. Members of fire companies that make runs to GE will take the tour.

APPRENTICE BROADCAST

James Schwartz

Congratulations are in order for Master Robert Boyd Kapke, who, on September 6, became the possessor of two very proud parents. Papa Kapke is a Manufacturing Trainee now working in the apprentice school. . . . Don Batchelder is down for the count, or perhaps we should say waiting for the pollen count to go down. Don has taken up temporary residence in the Veterans Hospital with a bad case of hay fever and asthma. We all wish you a speedy recovery, Don. . . . Little Max, up in the lathe section, is fast learning the safety rules. He was in the lathe section two days and only cut his fingers twice. . . . Myron (Office Boy) Auer was day-dreaming of his blonde while shaking his box of chocolate milk. Unfortunately, he forgot he had already opened it up. . . . Summer is obviously over, Karl Hofacker is no longer wearing khaki. . . . We would like to take this opportunity to inform all personnel that Myron Auer had a tooth filled last week. Myron will no doubt tell you about it, but we thought we could save him a little time with this announcement. . . . Bill Cox is busy putting away nuts for the long winter months. He was seen dashing around the school wearing a squirrel tail. . . . In case you are wondering what happened to Harold Wilkerson, he and his family are vacationing in Colorado. . . . We wish to extend a hearty welcome to Keith Walda, John Croghan and Richard Verhoeven. Keith and John have entered the schools as drafting apprentices and Dick has enrolled as a machinist-toolmaker. We would also like to take this opportunity to welcome Dewey Cobb back into the school. Dewey re-entered the school after a short stay down south.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES TAKE PART

Chamber of Commerce Committee to Stage Fire Prevention Show at Coliseum Sunday

Demonstrating practical methods of extinguishing fires occurring around the home, the Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee will stage a fire prevention show, Sunday, Sept. 20.

Open to the public, the show will be presented at Memorial Park. Ernie Hanauer, GE fire chief and chairman of the committee, is in charge of the demonstrations. Among those assisting with preparations and presentation of the show are employees Merle Morkoetter, battalion chief, and Claude L. Gill, Bldg. 20-2.

Starts at 1:30 P.M.

The show will get under way at 1:30 p.m. with entertainment provided by the American Legion Post 47 band. Colors will be posted by Boy Scouts and the Redi-Kilowatt quartet will perform.

Announced by Hilliard Gates, the demonstration will begin at 2:30 p.m. Simulating actual conditions, the following types of fire hazards will be shown with the wrong and right ways of handling them: bonfire, ironing board fire, cleaning fluid fire, overloading wiring, rubbish around furnace, smoking in bed, kitchen fires, and filling station fire.

Attendance Prizes

Other events scheduled for the show include attendance prizes and balloons for the children.

In addition to the city fire department, other industries participating in the program beside GE are Tokheim Oil Tank and Pump Co., U.S. Rubber Co., Aircraft Gear Division of Dana Corp., and International Harvester Co.

RETURN TO CENTRAL STANDARD TIME

September 18, 1953.

At midnight Saturday, September 26, the Daylight Saving schedule will end and clocks throughout the city will be set back one hour, returning to Central Standard Time.

The Fort Wayne plants, however, will not change their clocks until midnight Sunday, September 27.

Any third shift operators working on Sunday night will ring in on Daylight Saving Time and ring out on Central Standard Time so that the interval worked will be one hour more than the clock card registration. The Payroll Sections will take care of this adjustment in time.

AUF WEIDERSEHEN is our farewell wish as we bid Don Reek good-bye today. Don is joining the Technical Personnel Development Services, working out of Schenectady, but eventually to be the Fort Wayne representative. To say that we wouldn't miss you would be a gross prevarication, we most certainly will. We'll probably have to call on you for our office plays. A skit without Reek and Rutledge wouldn't be a skit. Also, good-bye today to Freddie Asmus, TE in Max Barrow's group. Fred is off to his new assignment in Johnson City, New York. The new TE in John Willsey's group, located at Taylor St., is A. Curtis Nold; single and from Rock Rapids, Iowa. He is a graduate of Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. . . . APPLES! APPLES! Stories are going around concerning a reputable young engineer, who, upon spying an apple tree loaded with apples in a forsaken spot, helped himself to a quantity, thinking all the time of the delicious pies they would make. They turned out to be the wrong kind of apples and not fit to eat—a lot of trouble for nothing, eh, Joey? . . . HAPPY LANDINGS: The stork finally made a three-point landing, depositing 7 lb. Timothy Dean Baker in the arms of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Baker. Timmie is 19 inches long, and completely bald. He arrived Thursday, September 10. All doing fine. Congratulations! . . . WE WELCOME Mary Harper to the Specialty Motor file room. We are happy to have her join our large family in Bldg. 4-6. . . . GLAD TO MEET YOU: The two new drafting apprentices in Specialty Engineering are Bob Dafforn and Dick Poe. . . . THE GROUP around H. Von Gunten Monday was wondering why he was wearing a safety pin, loaned to him by Shirley Doster. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Pye. They were married in South Bend, Ind., on Saturday, Sept. 12. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Herb Osborne on Sept. 18. . . . WELCOME to George W. Megginson, working for Larry Wightman. He hails from Alabama. . . . FAREWELL to Darrel Kirkendall. He is going to Winter St. for his next test. . . . VISITOR: Phyllis Moody paid us a visit today from Albuquerque, New Mexico. Nice to see you. . . . PROF. J. E. WILLIAMS and D. F. Hang are returning to their classrooms in Illinois.

Blume, Alter Receive Appointments In Specialty Motor Department

Two appointments in Specialty Motor Sub-Section 23 have been announced by Omer J. Mettler, superintendent of the sub-section. Carl A. Alter has been appointed supervisor of cost in product development. Arthur J. Blume has been named a foreman in training in test and inspection in the model shop.

In 1935, Mr. Alter became a GE employee and started as an insulator in the wire mill. The following year, he became a cost clerk in the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department. He transferred to Winter St. in 1939 when he did the same type of work.

Served in Europe

Prior to entering the U. S. Army in 1941, Mr. Alter was in cost work at Broadway. He served 18 months in the European Theater of action. After being discharged in December, 1945, he returned to the company as a cost leader. In 1949, he was named cost estimator in Sub-Section 1 and prior to his present assignment was in Sub-Section 2 on the same position.

Chairman of the Employee Community Services Fund, Mr. Alter served as vice chairman last year. He is a graduate of St. Mary's Commercial School and has completed the International Accountants Society course. He also attended Indiana University Extension for two years, majoring in accounting and commercial subjects.

Mr. and Mrs. Alter, who have four children, reside at 4730 Hoagland.

Started As Apprentice

Entering the Apprentice School when he came to the company in 1928, Mr. Blume graduated from the electrical testing course in 1931. He went into experimental test in Bldg. 17-4 after graduation. In 1940, he was placed in charge of testing aircraft motors in Bldg. 26-5.

Mr. Blume went into the U. S. Army in 1941 and served in the European Theater for one and a half years. He was discharged in 1946 and returned to GE as a planner in Bldg. 17-4. This was his location at the time of his present appointment.

Chorus Invites New Members to Attend

In spite of heat and humidity, the GE Club Chorus held regular rehearsals throughout the summer. F. H. Fleischer, president, reported. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday evening at the United Brethren Church, 3516 South Wayne Ave., starting promptly at 7 p.m.

Mr. Fleischer said that there are openings in all sections of the chorus. Anyone wishing to attend should come to a rehearsal or phone Irene Szink, Ext. 652, or Mr. Fleischer, Ext. 375. Under the leadership of William Davies, the chorus has developed a repertoire of familiar choral songs. Membership is open to all GE employees and members of their families.

out the morning. Early arrivers paused for the flag raising and then went on to the ball game between the QC men and GE girls and games for the ladies. Some gathered to pitch horseshoes while others settled down to a game of cards.

Highlighting the five-inning game which was won by the men, 5 to 2, was the appearance of a masculine member bedecked in golden curls and a girl's uniform who played on the girls' team. Jim Daley was the fellow who braved the cool air with bare legs.

Continuing their discussions as they waited in line to eat lunch, members sat at long tables by the river to consume the gigantic proportions of 335 pounds of baked ham, 235 pounds of swiss steak, 234 nine-inch Dutch apple pies, 450 pounds of potatoes, 300 pounds of cabbage, 220 pounds of frozen peas, 2300 rolls, and 100 gallons of coffee. These huge portions were served under the big tent by Cutter's Catering service.

After lunch, members moved to the ball diamond, which had been converted into an open-air theater with a stage and chairs around it. Receiving the official welcome from QC president Wally Beer, members paused for a silent prayer for the 34 members who had died during the year. They were introduced to H. A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of the Component Products Division. Mr. MacKinnon addressed the group, complimenting them for the important role they play in the company. He pointed out the fact that Fort Wayne with 2400 members has 10 per cent of the total company membership of 24,000.

Members stayed on for the program of professional entertainment presented by four acts and the awarding of 39 attendance prizes and quickly dispersed to their cars and homes.

Rush Job

Two days after the GM plant, which manufactures Hydro-Matic transmissions, was destroyed in the worst disaster in automobile industry history, Motor and Generator salesmen were contacted to fill an emergency order for the dynamometers. These are used by the GM plant on production test of all transmissions.

M and G men in planning engineering, production, and manufacturing set to work securing critical materials, designing the special mechanical construction, laying out the production schedule, and met the emergency.

By mid-November, all units are scheduled for completion and the department will have a new record of manufacture. Because of the disaster and the urgent need for this equipment to maintain normal production in the automotive industry, M and G will manufacture as many units of this type dynamometer in the next two months as is normally produced in a year.

By this teamwork, employees are proving themselves good neighbors to the Detroit plant and helping make it possible for many employees in the automobile industry to return to work.

Congratulations to our red-blooded packing designer, Ralph Heminger. Last Friday Ralph rolled up his sleeve for the 8th time, which entitles him to the very special honor of becoming a member of the "Gallon Club," and quite an honor it is. . . . Notice! Bob Kurtz, who has been on vacation the past two weeks, was seen by one of our long distance truck drivers, away up north. How does that car run, Bob? We didn't think it would make it. Bob was away up north, by Hometown. What a trip. . . . Bob Younghaus had written quite a lengthy report, but he had to rewrite it. Some prankster had written on the bottom of the sheet, "Nobody home. Gone on vacation? . . . Ed David was showing his prize catch of fish to his friends up at his lake cottage. Everybody was impressed (until they found out the truth later). Some of Ed's friends had brought the fish from Toledo. That's rough, when you live at the lake and have to borrow fish. . . . Happy birthday wishes this week go out to Ralph McMurtrey, Bill Stiles, Viola Haiber, Tom Fox, and Kenny Schenk.

REACHES RETIREMENT DATE—Frank Gitter (third from left) reached his retirement day recently and on hand to congratulate him were Ed Riley, H. Wichern, E. C. Kronmiller, K. S. Harz, and C. Fisher. Mr. Gitter has been employed in Bldg. 17-1 since first joining the company in 1928.

COMMUNITY SERVICES FUND QUARTERLY REPORT

The financial results of the GE Employees Community Services Fund for the second quarter of 1953 were announced this week by H. B. Leach, treasurer.

Balance not disbursed at end of 1st quarter....$ 1,368.86

Contributions to Fund representing amounts deducted from salaries and wages earned by members and cash payments made by members during the second quarter ended June 30, 1953$24,023.51

Payments as authorized by Board of Administrators from above contributions:
United Fund of Allen County$24,196.47

Balance of above contributions not disbursed. $ 1,195.90

During the first quarter of this year the Employees' Community Services Fund paid to the United Fund $21,201.12. Including the $1,195.90 not disbursed this makes a grand total of $46,593.90 that has been contributed by employees since the beginning of the year through June 30, 1953. For the entire year of 1952 the total amount contributed by employees amounted to $71,346.00. "Our 1953 contributions are at the rate of $92,000 per year, which is very gratifying," Mr. Leach stated.

Well, at last it happened at the Kraft home. They have two girls and last Sunday they got a big boy, no less than 9 lbs. He will answer to the name of John. Congratulations, Jerry. . . . We are sorry to hear that Daisy Ford is on our sick list. Hurry and get well, Daisy. . . . Esther Walborn was on her vacation last week. . . . Everett Lindeman is doing some painting on his vacation this week. . . . Bill Widefeld is taking his vacation this week, too. . . . Emery Tucker says the dogfish are in shallow water and he is not having much trouble catching them at Petoskey, Mich. . . . From all reports everyone had a good time at the Quarter Century party, and a few of the girls came home 50 cents richer. . . . Bud Struver, Helen's son, is home on a 30-day leave from the Air Force. He is stationed in California. . . . Virginia Badgers is on the second trick. . . . Ralph Waikel lost his wife the other noon. She was at the Broadway gate waiting on him and he was at the Fairfield gate looking for her. Don't know who found whom, but by way of the grapevine, we hear she found him on Taylor St. . . . Josie Felger got stung on the lip on the way to work the other morning. She is glad her husband isn't here to see her swollen lip. He is on his way home from Japan and should be here any day. . . . Pat Hatch is very happy as her son Gordon is home on leave from the Air Force. . . . Grace Hunt sure fooled the girls. They thought she really lost her temper when the beads started flying. But she wasn't, they just broke, and really girls, the earrings came from a local inexpensive store. . . . Ruby Chrysler doesn't recognize anyone when she drives the Chrysler, but boy does she lay on the horn when driving the new Buick. . . . Birthday greetings to Lucille Quick. . . . Ruby DeBolt now knows how the girls feel when their husbands are in the Service. She was a widow only for a week-end and she didn't like it one bit. . . . Congratulations to R. I. Spittler's son, Bill. He came through at the State Fair and won first in the "tractor driving contest." . . . Dorwin Stout is driving a new Ford. The big one, too! . . . Eldon and Ruth Moodie have a new Studebaker. . . . The Bob Gormans have a new boy at their house who answers to the name of Dennis Michael. . . . Don Ertel cleans his glasses every 15 minutes now. The spots were starting to look like men on the towers at the Erie Cement Works. . . . Ed Pranger had the tall tale to tell this week. He had to use the wheelbarrow and farm wagon to get his truck garden in before the frost. A lot of big melons and great big tomatoes. . . . Gus Ruts reports plenty of little fish but no big ones on his fishing expedition. . . . George Crickmore is among the elite now. He has a new GE television set. . . . The boys in 1x20 say there is more efficient service since Sam Taylor's hide-out has been removed. . . . Thanks for the treats, Clara Patterson. Hope you have many more happy birthdays. . . . Frede Farley is really happy. She moved into her new house. . . . Welcome to Margaret Parisot, Doris Biltz, and Clarice Fyock, who are now in 1x50. . . . Gosh, we never knew Reggie Engeman was such a good cook. After sampling THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: "A groundless rumor often covers a lot of ground."—Luke McLuke.

NOT OUR DWIGHT: Our pal Dwight Myers is a nosey little fellow when something arouses his curiosity. Recently curiosity overcame caution and he began nosing around an operating cement mixer. During the progress of this exploration a crank on the mixer gave him a resounding smack on the head. Fortunately, for our hero the mixer was not damaged, but Dwight sustained a cut on his scalp. Next day he presented himself at the dispensary. "I would like to have my head examined," he announced. While we of Bldg. 31 decided a long time ago that such an examination was in order, this request rather floored the dispensary personnel. Most head cases have to be delivered in a straight jacket for examination. But not our Dwight. . . . FORGOT: George Mopper, of our cost department, purchased a new movie camera to take on his vacation trip. He shot a lot of footage but when the film was processed, much of it was blank. He had forgotten to remove the lens cap. . . . OH YEH? Homer Campbell also took pictures during his vacation. He sent several rolls in for processing and then began fuming when the film was not returned as soon as he thought it should be. Finally, the original package came back marked, "Returned — insufficient postage." There were no stamps on it. "I am sure I placed stamps on it—they must have fallen off," remarked Mr. Campbell. "Oh Yeh?" was the reply from his pals, "Just trying to beat the government." . . . SMART: To Ruthie Schafenacker goes this week's laurels for her smart saying. Her cutie is, "Imagination is what makes some politicians think they're statesmen."

her chocolate chip cookies we really found out. . . . Irene Stein is reverting to her childhood. She lined up with the kids and took a ride on the rocket ship at the market. . . . Julia Hohnhaus was honored with a lovely party on her birthday. She received a pretty blouse and pin.

DECATURITES George Laurent

We now have a new version of "I bumped into a door." Bob Noll came to work last week with a beautiful black eye. And of all things, tries to make us believe a "speaker" fell down and struck his eye. . . . Who was singing "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" last week? Nothing like rushing the season. It sounded very much like Ed Meyers. . . . An interested spectator saw J. J. B. on a recent visit to Fort Wayne attempting to get away in someone else's car. Our interested spectator was quite amused at Julie's reactions when he realized he was a victim of his own absent-mindedness. Julie, you'd better be careful of those Decatur detectives working in Fort Wayne. . . . Mary Miller, one of our women bowlers, should be congratulated. She organized a bowling team with four girls who never bowled in league before. Mary says their scores may not be too hot to start with, but they will be in there pitching and having fun. . . . Evelyn Plasterer is the newly-elected president of the GE Women's Bowling League. Other officers elected for the '53-'54 season are: Helen Wellman, secretary; Lovina Affolder, treasurer; Toots Briede, sergeant-at-arms. . . . Johnny Baumann won the low actual score prize at the annual GE Club golf tournament with a 79, followed by K. Gaunt's 80. Buford Dull successfully defended his title for high score with a grand 144. Mary Miller was low actual score winner in the women's division, followed by Earleen Steffen. A new grand champion high score was set by Ruthie Foreman, who reported 238 strokes and refused to count the strokes where she missed the ball completely. Jake Eady breezed in with 112, which happened to be the lucky blind bogey number. For some reason, unexplained, E. W. Lankenau's score was not posted on the official list. Your reporter suspicions bribery on the part of Lankenau. Everybody had a lot of fun and some 35 prizes of cash and golf merchandise were awarded. Johnny Baumann directed the event, and after studying the score card, awarded some of the prizes on stamina rather than the least strokes taken.

Calvin W. Langohr

Calvin W. Langohr reached his 35th year of service with the General Electric Company today.

Mr. Langohr worked for a short time as office boy at GE but began his real career in the Meter Department in 1918. In 1946, he transferred to the Laboratory as a leading operator and model maker, where he is presently employed in the design and manufacture of special devices for development of chemical and metallurgical materials and processes.

The Langohrs have one daughter Sharon and reside at 450 W. Fleming Avenue.

Evidently a few people look forward to this column. Helen Doty said a number of people asked her where it was last week. . . . Al Tyson's son, Bob Drane, sent word back from Seoul, Korea, that he looks forward to receiving his copy of the GE NEWS, as do the rest of the gang that gather around to read it. Don't be going to too many of those parties over there, Bob! . . . Careless people end up getting clothes caught in washing machine wringers, etc., but Les Baker did the job right by getting his necktie caught in a fan. However, to go further, Les picked an inopportune time for his caper. It happened during a funeral, when relatives of the deceased were gathered in mourning. Les commented, "It sure made a racket." . . . How did Dorothy Ley suddenly get so old as to have a husband in World War I? . . . Mary Markey got up in the middle of the night, without the benefit of a light, to get another sheet. Come morning, Mary discovered she had been sleeping under her linen table cloth! . . . Cora Charleston returned from a visit with her granddaughter in Tennessee. She visited the Mammoth Caves in Kentucky on the return trip. . . . Ed Kronimaker was flashing a $100 bill around, and invited anyone who wished to see them made, to his basement. If any treasury agents read this we're only kidding. . . . Everybody's leaving! Mary Klemm has taken a leave of absence. Darlene Bridge has joined her husband who is starting his junior year at Purdue University. Doris Dohman has also left the Company for her second year at Concordia College where she is studying elementary school teaching. . . . Forger: A guy trying to make a name for himself. . . . Glasses: What persons living in stone houses should not throw.

EARNs RUBY PIN—William O'Brien (second from right) is awarded his ruby pin for 40 years of service to the General Electric Company at a celebration in his honor Sept. 1. On hand to congratulate him were Ed Klomp, Ed Sondag, and Wilmer LaVine. Mr. O'Brien joined the company in 1913. He is now a general foreman of inspection and test, Bldg. 4-5.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Mary Jane Rauner

A raised nail, just high enough to prove a nuisance, caused Al Tew to suddenly come "bustin' out all over". This little catastrophe necessitated Al's returning home for a pair of trousers, without the air conditioning facilities. . . . Eileen Salmon received her lunch via mail. A tasty little chlorophyll-colored grasshopper, carefully placed in an envelope, caused quite a stir from Eileen. Accusations flew, but the guilty party has yet to confess. . . . Pearl Baughman proved she was "crazy with the heat." When the whistle blew at 3:30 for the factory to quit, our office gal, Pearl, was up from her desk and started toward the time clock when she noticed no one was following her lead. Discovering it was only 3:30, and hoping her quick exit went unnoticed, Pearl tried to be very nonchalant and casually walked back to her desk and started to work again. Pearl, nothing ever goes unnoticed around here.

Pulling one of their practical jokes, Jan Conroy and Carole Calkins informed Charlie Lammiman he had a long distance call from Washington, D. C. Charlie was off like a bird to take the call; but the girls, taking pity, told him they were only kidding. Charlie was real disappointed to find that "he" wasn't calling for Charlie's expert advice. . . . There have been some odd nicknames attached to Winter St. individuals, but the one that Bill Burtzner and Herb Adamske have pinned on Ellis (80%) Bleke is really a puzzler. . . . Marge Aughenbaugh came through her appendectomy operation with flying colors; she is at the Lutheran Hospital. A speedy recovery, Marge. . . . We hope Don Batchelder, apprentice tool maker, will be feeling better and be able to return to work soon. Don was admitted as a patient at the Vets Hospital.

The gang assembled to present Vera Pontius with a mixer as a wedding gift. Last Friday, Vera became Mrs. Dale Sowards. Congratulations to the newlyweds Pensioner John Schoedel dropped by and stopped to visit with his former co-workers in the tool room and then made a tour of the office, chatting with his many friends there. . . . Five-foot-two Nick Trainer may be a little on the short side, but he can handle any of the biggest jobs that are set before him. . . . While vacationing last week, Audrie Fankhouser decided on a fiendish plan. She threatened to call every day at 12:15 to interrupt the deep concentration which surrounds the canasta game Esther Winje, Marna Wilson, Mary Miller, and Mary Ann Schuman engage in during lunch time. . . . We wish a speedy recovery for Kenny Bett's daughter, Marion, who is hospitalized following a recent operation. At this date, she is doing fine. Also on the sick list at the Betts' are Kenny's two grandchildren, who are suffering from cases of mumps.

Eileen Salmon answered the phone with her usual efficient, business-like tone. When the party on the other end of the line asked to speak to "Eileen Salmon"; from force of habit, Eileen said, "Just a moment, please, I'll see if she's here." . . . Looking the picture of health, Vivian Curran returned to Winter St. after being off ill for a number of months. . . . September 27 is the big day for the Volunteer Firemen's Chicken Fry to be held at the Schuhler farm. Knowing an enjoyable day is in prospect, the firemen and their wives always look forward to this event with great anticipation. . . . After a four weeks' vacation trip in the west without incident, Harvey Smelser was in South Dakota, on his way home, when a Mercury tried to pass a semi, forcing Harvey onto the berm, and then crashed into his car. Fortunately, no one was hurt, but the two cars and the truck involved were damaged.

The girls on the second floor wouldn't know what to do without Clara Heaston; she always brightens up the day by spreading sunshine around the shop. . . . Art Hickman and Harold Bohde suffered a fate worse than death—they lost seven consecutive euchre games. This disastrous defeat came from the hands of Bob Branning and Bill Sommers. . . . Fritz Woerner has learned the easy way to make money. He visited the mint at Washington, D. C., to see if he could pick up little pointers on the fine art of making money. Fritz found out that the mint is one place they don't pass out any samples. . . . While Bill Kelsey just returned from his vacation at Barbee Lake, Neil Daley is just starting his three weeks' vacation. Neil intends to spend the full three weeks painting Pete Liebig's boat—quite an undertaking!

A big "hlow out" stag was held at Bob Branning's basement last Friday with 17 fellows attending. A cement mixer will be required to make minor (?) repairs on three walls—a quiet party! . . . Wehler Porsch went shopping for a tricycle this week for the child next door. Someone miscalculated along the long, long trail to the garage and made a tangled wreckage of the tricycle. . . . Congratulations to "uncle" Don Anderson; we're sure Don is real proud of the fact that he now has a nephew and a future fisherman. The little one has been named Bill. . . . The stork also made another delivery last week which made Oscar Mensch a grandfather for the third time. The newest grandchild is a girl and was named Terry.

Three days away from work can make some people rather forgetful. Early Tuesday morning Joan Vorndran was in dire need of her notebook and pen. After a careful inquiry of everyone, she proceeded back to her desk. Just like that it hit her. The previous Friday she had filled her notebook in a new location. But the pen didn't turn up till a few days later. It seems she left it in her smock pocket. Oh, well, all is well that ends well.

Q. What is the Celsius scale of temperature?

A. This is the same as the Centigrade scale, in which the freezing point of water (32° Fahrenheit) is zero, and the boiling point (212° F.) is 100 degrees. It is named after Anders Celsius, professor of astronomy at the University of Uppsala in Sweden, who first proposed this scale in 1742. In 1948 the Ninth General Conference on Weights and Measures decided that Celsius should be used as the official name of the scale, rather than Centigrade.

Q. Is there any animal that can get along without water?

A. All animals require water in their bodies, but some can get it without actually drinking the liquid. For example, zoologists have found that the desert rat, which lives in the driest regions, such as the bare sand dunes of Death Valley, can get along indefinitely without water and with only dry barley seeds for food. In spite of this it maintains about 65 per cent of its body weight as water. Even dry seeds contain a very small amount of water, which it uses, but most of it is actually made in the animal's body. The food contains hydrogen, and the rat's digestive processes can extract this, and combine it with oxygen from the air, to make water which consists of these two elements.

Q. When will we be able to see the planet Mars again?

A. On July 8 Mars was far out beyond the Sun, but now it is drawing closer to the Earth. During the autumn of 1953 it will be seen low in the southeastern sky before sunrise, but by next spring it will be visible in the evening sky. In July, 1954, it will be close to the Earth, at a distance of less than 40,000,000 miles, and it will shine more brilliantly than any star or any other planet except Venus. Then it will draw away again, only to approach us again in 1956, when it will come even nearer, closer than in many years.

Q. What happens in an iron bar when it becomes magnetized?

A: A material such as iron is made up of a multitude of minute magnets, called magnetic domains. Ordinarily they are in random positions. The effect of one neutralizes that of another and they all cancel out. When the bar is placed in a magnetic field (produced, for example, by an electromagnet) these domains tend to line up and the bar is magnetized. In one of soft iron, they return to their original random positions as soon as the magnetic field is removed. With certain alloys they can be made to stay in line and this makes possible a

Arthur R. Kabisch Gets Planning Post In Specialty Dept.

Arthur R. Kabisch has been appointed supervisor of inspection and test planning in the Specialty Motor Department, Morton G. Pugh, supervisor of inspection and test, announced this week.

When he joined the company in 1916, Mr. Kabisch became a machinist in the special tool department in Bldg. 26-5. Later, he went into the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department as a foreman of mechanical inspection.

Mr. Kabisch moved to the refrigeration division where he was on inspection and later had positions as a manufacturing foreman and a general foreman. In 1942 he became acting superintendent of the refrigeration division and was a superintendent and general foreman at the Winter St. plant prior to his present assignment.

Mr. Kabisch is a Quarter Century Club member. He and his wife and son reside at 2808 Waynedale Blvd.

Former co-workers of Wilbur Meyer have a letter and a picture of him in his army uniform, posted in the test section. Wilbur's address is: Pvt. Wilbur E. Meyer, US 55418486, Co. A, 37th Armd. Inf. Bn., Div. Arty., Third Armd. Div., 4th Plat, Ft. Knox, Ky. . . . Bob Serovey is home on leave and stopped in to see us. He left us his address: Robert Serovey, EMFN, Div. E-USS Talladega, APA 208, F.P.O., San Francisco, Calif. . . . The tool section was awfully quiet a week ago. Jake Harshman and Fred Bailey were on vacation. . . . Hilda Walda came to work the other morning still a bit sleepy. She had attended the Daisy play-off game at Kalamazoo. The Daisies won, 3 to 1, in the 12th inning. . . . Joe Trentadue is leaving the commutator and mica section to join the RSO renewal parts section. Although they are only about 40 feet apart he thought he should be given a farewell party. So, the fellows obliged. Floyd Louain delivered to Joe a tray set with paper towels on a place-mat and napkin, an ice cream bar and a coke. . . . Ben Porsch is installing a new chimney flue in his home and ran into the center of a joist. His problem now is how to get by this joist before winter sets in. . . . Paul Monroe took Ed Clausenkamp to the Quarter Century picnic Saturday. When it came time to go home Ed wasn't to be found. Monday came, but still no Ed. After some investigation it was made known that Ed is on vacation this week, but what happened Saturday?

A careless person is just an accident going somewhere to happen.

cheer him up, especially since he has no close relatives here. . . . Fred Harris and Carl Hattendorf have vindicated themselves in that daily euchre game that has been so disastrous for them lately. Yarm and Fleming seem to have their backs to the wall. . . . Section 114 Bowling League got under way last Thursday. There were a few new faces in the league: E. Hines, H. Huebner, F. Lefevre, and Schlotterbach. A number of the boys are already making predictions as to how they are going to end the season. Vern Daseler says he will finish about 7th. Niemeyer and Vogt are on the same team and are racing each other. Oyer hopes to win more tourney money than he did last year. Milt Marks gave up bowling in favor of his daughter's choir practice but still wishes he was in there pitching. . . . Our section was well represented at the 39th Annual Outing of the Quarter Century Club last Saturday at the beach. Everyone was proud of his pen with the retractable points. Several said they wished they had dressed a wee bit warmer as there was quite a chill wind blowing that day. . . . If you like good Swiss cheese and the great outdoors, Elmer Jockel has a real nifty idea for you. Pack a lunch some week-end and take 30 north out of Van Wert until you get on the other side of Wooster, Ohio. Along the way you will find several places where Swiss cheese is made right on the farms. These Swiss people certainly know how to make cheese and it is delicious. So stop at one of these Alpine chalets and buy a hunk. You won't regret it. There are at least six roadside parks where a skillet full of sizzling cheeseburgers will whet the appetite on a cool crisp autumn day. Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

The pins were flying, but not too briskly, as the Office League opened the 1953-54 bowling season at the GE Club alleys. Pawlisch Shoe Repair rolled to the lead by winning all three games. Transformer, Reproduction, Dynamos, Small Motor Development, and M and G Sales each won two games.

The pins were flying, but not too briskly, as the Office League opened the 1953-54 bowling season at the GE Club alleys. Pawlisch Shoe Repair rolled to the lead by winning all three games. Transformer, Reproduction, Dynamos, Small Motor Development, and M and G Sales each won two games, while dropping one game. Bob Knepple, the genial secretary of the Office League, rolled the high series, a 535 score helped by an even double century count. Frank Schlink scored a 201 count and Ed DeCrappeo rolled a 200. Joe Donahoo converted the 5-7 split. Harold Dinke and C. Gnaw thied for second place honors, each with 535 series.

Ladies Monday Night

In the Ladies Monday Night League teams No. 8, 6, 10, and 12 each won three games. Team No. 8 and Team No. 1 won two, while losing 1. Francis Miller kegled the high series, a 475 score on games of 175, 153, and 145. Marilyn Franke rolled a 463 series on games of 154, 161, and 148. Dot Fuks kegled a 175 and Margaret Beugnot a 170. Winnie Scheurich, secretary of the Monday Night League, welcomes all the new bowlers into the League.

Tuesday, activities at the Club will find the Taylor St. girls kegling at 3:30 p.m. Secretary of this league is Charlotte Stanford. In the evening the Masonic League starts the pins falling at 6:15 p.m. The Transformer League rolls on six alleys at 8:30, while the new Hermetic League topples the maples on the other alleys at 8:30 p.m.

Small Motor League takes to the lanes on Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. and Inter-division at 8:30 p.m. On Thursday it is the Apparatus League at 6:15 p.m. and the two Taylor St. Leagues at 8:30 p.m.

Friday at 5:45 p.m. the ladies will be on eight of the alleys and at 6:15 p.m. Series and Specialty take over on the remaining four alleys. At 8:30 p.m. the six teams from Winter St. kegles on six alleys, while Test Engineers League use the remaining six alleys.

At 10 a.m. Saturday morning the Owl League holds sway. An important notice appears in the paper concerning the Owl League. Please read if you are interested in the Owl League.

Decatur GE Fraternal League

The bowling season started off with a resounding mid-season atmosphere in the GE Fraternal League. Thirteen bowlers crashed through with 200 scores, with Graber's 240 leading the assault on the new pins; although his Riverview Gardens team lost three to the Peterson Elevator. Teeple Truck Lines took two from West End Restaurant in a renewal battle of long standing rivalry. GE Club and Casablanca bowled a sociable 1½ wins apiece. The K of C and Elks match was postponed till next week. The 200 scores are as follows: Graber, 240; Baumgartner, 216; Werling, 200; Bruick, 202; Briede, 211; Shackley, 201; Bauserman, 224; Petrie, 207; O. Schultz, 202; Jackson, 219; Lord, 232; Beery, 210; Laurent, 222.

Decatur Women's League

Team No. 2 won two from Team No. 1. Team No. 4 won three from Team No. 3. High scores were: H. Wellman, 180; G. Reynolds, 178; M. Miller, 177; E. Plasterer, 162.

Recently Bill Meiners walked down the aisle of St. John's Reformed church to give his daughter, Elsie, in marriage to John Whikehart. It was a lovely wedding and we wish them many years of happiness. Bill doesn't understand why the paper didn't also state that it was his birthday. Oh, well, Bill, even the family had a hard time remembering, what with all the excitement. . . . Lou Ann Beauchamp looks real George in her new glasses. . . . Clarence Shanebeck had an embarrassing thing happen to him in the cafeteria. Some one on K. P. forgot to tighten the holder on the mustard container (or so Clarence says). When he went to apply mustard to his sandwich, the glass container hit the floor with a resounding splat. Surprisingly, none got on Clarence, but Fred Campbell got his shoes decorated. . . .

No wonder Berch Reed is getting to work on time. He has a new Studebaker and he parks it where we can all see it. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Anne Ruth Clements, Polly Line, and Kathleen Jencks. . . . GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK to Annie Crosby and Ann Thomas. Annie will take up house-keeping and Ann is going to California. . . . HELLO to Ralph McKown, who transferred from Bldg. 17 to Test and Inspection. . . . WELCOME BACK to John Miles, who has returned to work after an absence of three months due to illness. We are happy to see him again. . . . Rosella Koons spent Labor Day in Michigan, and Edith Niemeyer went to Crooked Lake. Helen Platt took the holiday seriously and washed the family car. . . . Rex Mercer would like a new auto. The old Kaiser shimmies too much. Any bargains around? . . . We are sorry to learn that David Peters, who works second trick, is at the St. Joseph Hospital with polio. He is getting along very fine now and cards and notes would certainly go a long way to

GE Owls Add Playoff Cup to League Crown

Two Former Golden Gloves Champs On Big GE Club Ring Card Sept. 29

Two bouts in the GE Club boxing show slated for Tuesday, Sept. 29, were announced this week by Frank Newport, chairman of the event. In the lightweight division, Red McClure, Bldg. 19-3, will meet Toledo's Ted Adams. Both weigh about 135 and are scrappers, Newport said.

The 1953 featherweight champ in the city's Golden Gloves, Jim Reeder will meet Melvin Reed from Toledo's GG list. The other three inter-city bouts will be announced next week.

Tickets went on sale this week at the GE Club and Main Auto Supply Company, 213 W. Main St. These are all reserved seats and are one dollar per person. All unreserved seats will be 60 cents each and will be on sale at the box office the night of the show.

Ring activity will get under way at 8:15 p.m. Sept. 29 with some special events included on the card in addition to the five regular matches.

There will be printed programs distributed at the door. These have been donated by Jim Kelley, city sports enthusiast and former employee.

A welcome back from vacation to Calvin (Casey) Case and Otto Pfeuger. . . Eugene Bieberstien has left us to attend school, then he will join the drafting department. We wish him lots of luck. . . Kenneth Nulf thinks the squirrels have left LaGrange county since Two-Gun Germano was there last week. He went hunting on the same farm and didn't see a squirrel. . . A visitor! Charlie Strodel, a pensioned employee, came to see us Friday. He looks fit as a fiddle and he should. He spends his summers at the lake and winters in Florida. Nice life if you can get it. . . Our sympathy to Ed Lepper on the death of his mother-in-law. . . The stock room manager, Kenneth Handschy, came to work with a tall white cap on Monday. The fellows thought he looked more like a feed store attendant, so they put up a sign to that effect. . . Instead of "Golden Boy" he is known as "Golden Rod" Kartholl since his loyal friends brought him a bouquet of golden rod. It's good for hay fever. . . Absent-minded Charlie McCormick had better go back to the rifle range at Huntington and pick up his jacket he left hanging on a fence. Someone might shoot it full of holes thinking he is still in it. . . Elmer Wagner was on vacation last week and spent a few days in Chicago. . . Ludwig Stetter looks very rested after a week's vacation. . . Ted Schulp spent his vacation fishing and attending the Van Wert Fair. . . John Redmerski is under the impression that the large steam dryer in the insulation department is a hot plate. You're wrong, John, the press is not a waffle iron either. . . Herman Zuber is a frequent visitor at market, could it be he is checking on the tomatoes to see if they are firm?

There are two sides to every argument, but no end.

BOXING KNOW-HOW—is flying around at the GE Club training gym these days in preparation for the club's boxing show Sept. 29. Frank Newport, chairman of the show, gives some pointers to "Red" McClure, Bldg. 19-3, who is entered in the lightweight division.

It is good-by and fond farewell to the golf season with the blind bogey scheduled for tomorrow at the Brookwood links. For the day leagues it means playoff time. The season league winners will battle over 18 holes for the coveted championship. The Owl League Birdies, captained by Norm Wolf, have already wrapped up the crown.

Another feature of the blind bogey is the last place championship with the cellar dwellers in each league competing. The winning teams will receive their awards at the sports banquet to be held early in October.

Golf Chairman, Harold Braden, invites all the league golfers to this final event of the season. There are many prizes, come one, come all!

Did you know that watching television may give you something the doctors call "torticollis, due to nuchal contortions"? . . . Stiff neck, in other words.

Girl's Softball Nine Thanked

Betty Puff, manager of the GE girls softball league, wishes to thank all the girls who played in the game at the Quarter Century Club Outing September 11.

Edge Salisbury 2-1 in Third Game Of Close YMCA League Playoffs

The GE Owls added a double set of trophies to the GE Club laurels by taking the YMCA League crown in regular season play and also the championship cup in the playoffs.

The double crown is credited to good all-round team work and a fine managing job by Benny Penkul.

In the first playoff game, Salisbury set the GE Owls back on their heels with a 12 to 6 loss. Salisbury got 12 runs on 13 hits, while GE garnered only 6 runs on 6 hits.

In the second game of the series, Ron Blodgett pitched one of the best games of the entire season, shutting out the Salisbury nine 8 to 0.

Earn 8 Runs

Salisbury could get only four hits off Blodgett, while the Club entry nicked Salisbury for 6 hits and 8 runs. This set the stage for the final game, and the right to wear the League crown.

With Ron Blodgett again taking the mound for GE, the Club boys edged Salisbury 2 to 1. The first three men up for Salisbury went down in order. GE had three men on base, but failed to bring anyone across the plate. The first inning ended with no score.

In the second frame, Salisbury's second baseman, Neuman drilled a hard hit ball into left field for a home run, the first hit off Blodgett. GE again put two men on base as Blodgett singled. Bob Crosley bunted safely, only to be picked off later at second base. Gene Etter went out to the first baseman and Baker struck out to retire the side.

In the third, Salisbury again went down in order, while GE repeated and put two men on base, as Somers singled and Chuck Boyce reached first on an error. The much needed punch to bring boys home, however, failed to materialize.

Down In Order

In the fourth inning, both teams went down in one, two, three order. In the fifth, Salisbury got their second and final hit of the game. GE tied up the ballgame at their turn at bat as Baker reached first on an error. He completed the circuit one base at a time, as Salisbury had a flurry of passed balls. Both teams went scoreless in the sixth.

In the seventh, Salisbury went down in order. Blauvelt, the first man up for GE in the seventh, doubled and the next man up struck out. Chuck Boyce, the third man up, hit a hard single into right to bring Blauvelt in, end the game 2 to 1, and give the GE Owls the YMCA championship.

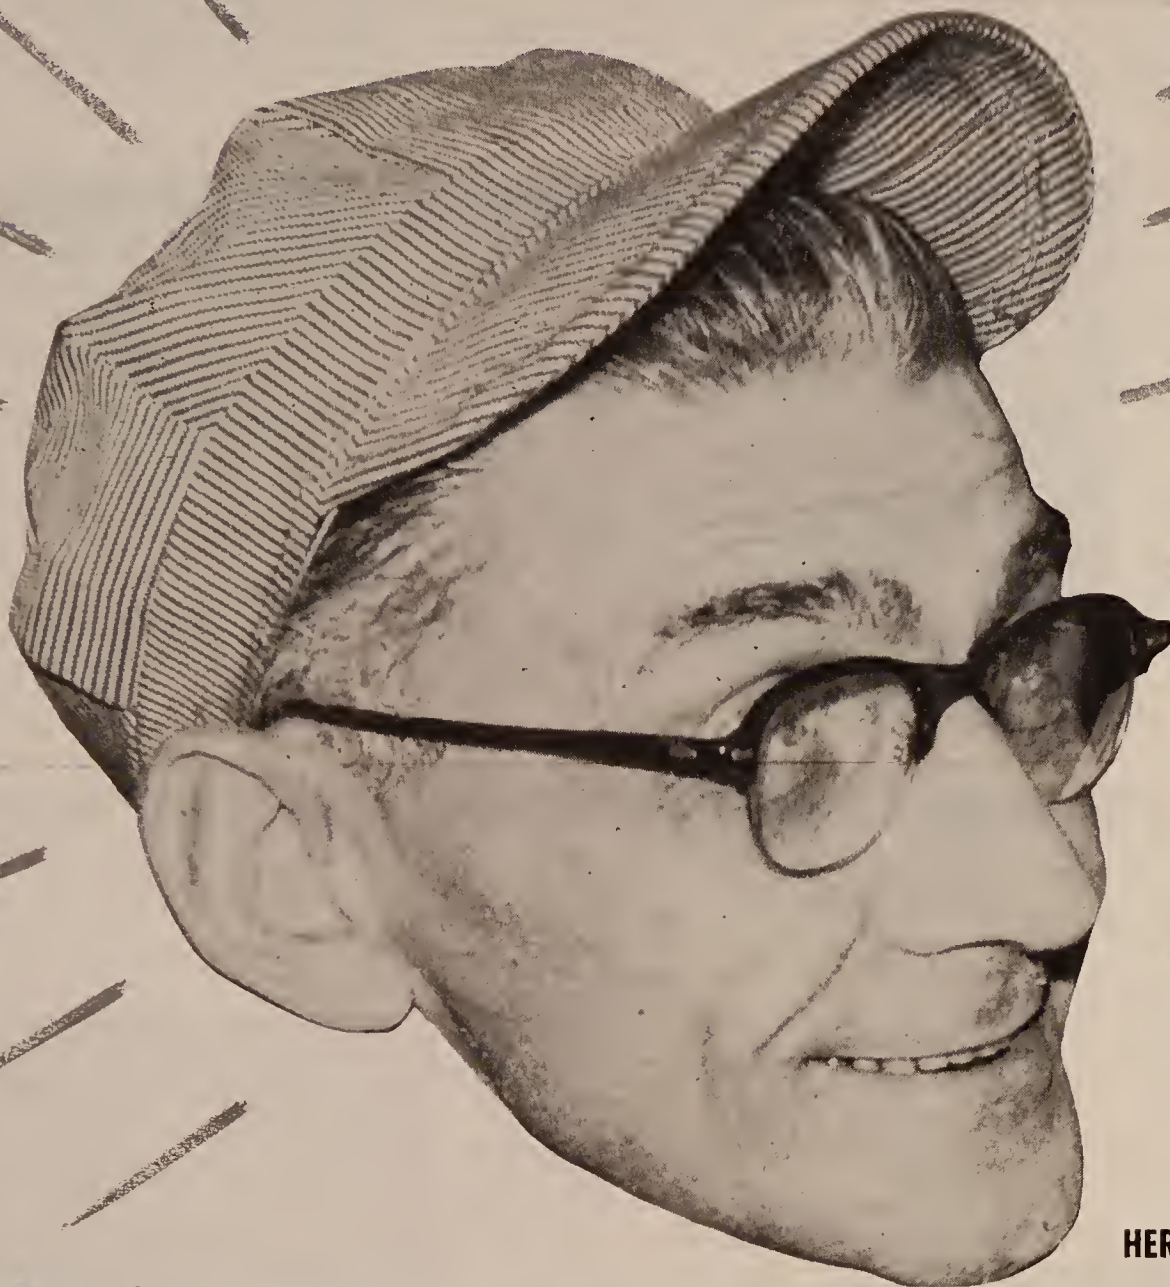

BOWLING NOTES

Friday night women's bowling will begin this evening in the GE Club. A short meeting of the league in the Club lounge will be conducted starting at 5:45 p.m.

KEGLERS START TO ROLL—Jean Doege, Bldg. 26-4, and Winnie Scheurich, Bldg. 31-1, prepare to open their bowling season in the GE Club alleys. League bowling started Monday at the Club.

Mrs. Charles Abbott, wanting to please her husband, rearranged their furniture without his help. As things usually go Charley wasn't pleased at all. He arrived home after dark, stubbed his toe on a misplaced chair, woke everyone up with howls of agony, and demanded first-aid for an injured toe while wondering when will a man be safe in his own home. . . . Genevieve Burk is mighty happy now—she has that important diamond on the right finger. . . . Betty Strong, who is counting the time until her boyfriend returns from service, was fortunate last week. She saw his picture several times in a news reel at the theatre. How many times did you see that show, Betty? . . . We say good-by and extend best wishes to Delores Ralstin as she leaves today. . . . We welcome Alice Martinez, who joins us all the way from New Mexico. . . . One recent afternoon Lowell Welker was observed contributing 5 cents to a downtown parking meter. That's not unusual, but why does he do it on Sunday? . . . We have figured up the cost of the one fish Kurt Martin caught on his last fishing trip. It amounts to $8.58. No wonder he likes to eat those inexpensive T-bone steaks. . . . We apologize to Hayden Rice for saying he missed that tee shot three times. He claims they were practice swings. Anyway, you have to move the hall six inches before it counts. . . . Willie Garman's square dance party was quite an affair with Charley Abbott furnishing the fine music. . . . Harold Blauvelt finally bought his wife an automatic washer. He became tired of doing the washing himself. . . . Allison Van Wormer appears satisfied with his new car but we wonder why one of his riders, Walter Esterline, is now wearing that motorcycle belt. . . . The new children's swing was ready and Ren (Tarzan) Getty took the first ride. One of the hooks gave way and Ren found himself hanging to one rope. He finally positioned himself and flipped to the ground resolving to let someone else try it first next time. Besides, his hand was sore anyway. . . . Lowell Welker's tummy reducing diet and work get along fine, only he can't refrain from eating his lunch before noon. Then he has sandwiches brought in for his noon snack. . . . The location doesn't bother Bob Moss-hammer at all. He lost 150 ft. of line and numerous hooks while fishing in Florida this summer. Last week he borrowed a rod and reel to use up at Sand Lake and lost them out of his car. Bob says you can't trust the fish in Florida or the thieves in Indiana. . . . James Kavanaugh proved that he can out-duel a car any day. When an approaching car almost ran him down at a downtown intersection, Jim grabbed the hood and kept himself out of the way of the wheels and yelled. Finally the driver was able to stop the car and quick thinking Jim was unhurt. . . . We say welcome to Ike Rea whose home is Shaw, Miss. like, an Air Force veteran and graduate of the University of Illinois is assisting on our plant layout work. . . . Leroy Paulson has a safety-minded and bargain-minded unit. James McFeeley, Rufus Niblick, Carey Baker, James Kavanaugh, and Charles Gatton followed him over to buy safety shoes on sale. That's setting a fine example, men.

If you didn't get to the Hunter-town Fair, you missed the opportunity of a lifetime. Who had his head through the hole at the pie throwing booth and received those gooey messes square in the face but our old friend, Jim (Pieface) Smith. . . . Beware of Charlie Kensill, says Larry Reed. When he went in to have a little refreshment and met Charlie there, he (Larry) had to pay for two, as Charlie slyly held up two fingers and thereby gained an extra libation. . . . There are rumors that a collection is to be taken up in order to buy Bill Geist a new pair of pants so that he won't have to steal his son's all the time. Of course, the pants will be quite a bit shorter since his son really towers over Bill. . . . The soybean crop promises to be a big one this year, and John Howard brought in a stalk to prove it. The only drawback to his was the fact they were slightly mildewed and fuzzy. So, John proceeded to spend an entire Saturday filing off the fuzz so they would be more presentable for market. However, Sol Andorfer brought in a sample of his crop which are pretty fair; but before any comparison can be made between the two, we're afraid Sol will have to do some filing and hurrying, too. . . . Now that the hunting season is open Joe Prez-bindowski is in the height of his glory, especially when he had such good luck and had the visible proof of it. The main topic of conversation for the last week has been bowling. Frank Serovey, Zirk Rodgers, and Joe Dennis will form the new Airliners team. They are going to have to hold up our good name. The league champions for the last three years have been "Airliners." Bill Garton has an average to hold up. He's sporting an average of 199 for six games. It won't be long before the classic league will be after him. . . . If you haven't been approached by Johnny Ormiston, yet, don't feel slighted. He will get around to you eventually. He is now part-time super salesman for a well-known TV store. Frankie Laier was Johnny's first customer. . . . That worried look that Harold Dalman has been wearing lately, isn't altogether caused by bugs in motors. It's just that he bought one of the old barracks from Baer Field and is trying to get it moved before the snow flies. . . . With school starting we say good-bye to James Zehendner and Steve Winner. William Lohrig also said his good-byes last Thursday. . . . We welcome Paul Kinsey, Robert Pierce and James Snodgrass. . . . Mary Stopher has returned from a leave of absence. . . . The new girl in the Bldg. 6-3 office is Jane Laurent, formerly of Bldg. 4-4. . . . The Quarter Century Club had their annual meeting last Saturday and Evie Partee was initiated. Bob Pence and Freddy Sarasen were the initiating committee, and Evie will never be the same. . . . With all the long faces that were seen around, we gather that everyone lost at the Breakfast Club meet that was held at Perry O'Neill's last Friday night. By the way, Perry, we all wish you a happy birthday. Perry's birthday is tomorrow. . . . If you've noticed a new glamour in our midst, it's none other than Laura Black sporting a new pair of specs. . . . Since we are about ready to go back on Central Standard Time, Esther Weeks and Ivy Mills have decided they can get up early enough to work days. Welcome to first trick, girls! . . . Jackie Keller and George Prince are on their third week of vacation. What a quiet week this has been! . . . Charlie Castle was so stowed up with arthritis last week he could hardly get around, and Bouncy Becker lost his voice and had to write everything down. He sure used up a lot of tablets, both throat and pencil. . . . Pat McCutcheon has put on quite a lot of weight so he is selling all his old clothes to Johnny Berger. Now I'm just waiting for Johnny to get fat so I can buy the clothes from him. . . . Well, Henry and Mildred Wells got back safely from their vacation in Canada. Henry reports that he saw a big bear but that Mildred scared it away before he could get a picture of it. They were going down the stream in a canoe and as they rounded a bend they came upon this huge bear along the bank. The bear didn't see them, as he was busy eating the top off a tall hazel nut bush. Henry says he should have sense something was wrong by the expression on Mildred's face. He says it was the first time he'd seen that expression since the night she sat on the whoopee cushion Ken Settemyre put on her chair. Anyway, she screamed, Henry fell out of the canoe, and the bear fell over backwards, then scrambled to his feet and took off for the woods as fast as he could go.

GUESTS WILL BE 'ON THEIR OWN'

Specialty Transformer Prepares To Welcome Open House Visitors

One of the four tours available to members of the community on Thursday, October 15, at the 75th Anniversary Open House will be in the Specialty Transformer Department.

During the day, approximately 30,000 visitors from Fort Wayne and surrounding areas are expected to tour Bldg. 26. The tour will be conducted on an informal basis. Individuals or groups will be greeted by receptionists and escorted to the spot where the tour begins.

After that, they will be "on their own" . . . following directional signs, observing displays, and holding discussions with guides who will be posted at various points of interest along the way.

Doors Open to Schools

From 1:30 to 3 p.m., the doors will be open to high school and college groups from all over the country. At 4 p.m. the general public will be invited to "make the rounds" and see industry in action.

Guests will be met by transformer personnel at the entrance of the east elevator of Bldg. 26. From there they will be guided to the fifth floor, Bldg. 26-5, where the tour begins. A circular route around the floor has been arranged to give an overall picture of operations involved in transformer units in progressive stages of completion. The displays will be marked with descriptive and explanatory information.

Tour Wind-Up

As tourists complete the circuit on the fifth floor, they will exit by way of the east stairway and enter the east end of the fourth floor. All those on the tour will tour independently of one another and may spend as much time as desired at any particular point. The GE guides will not circulate with the crowd, but will remain at stationary posts where they will offer comments and answer questions when they arise.

Leaving the fourth floor by the west stairway, tourists will enter the third floor from the west side. From there, they will move toward the east staircase, stopping en route to view machines, equipment and displays. Such operations as spool-making, coil winding, and finishing operations may be seen in Bldg. 26-3.

Special Customer Display

A special display of air-filtration will be set up by the American Air Filter Company of Louisville, Ky. This GE customer uses power packs, a third floor product, as one of their components in air-filtration units. After guests have had a look at hand-stacking of punchings, they may investigate operations performed in the final stages of transformer assembly. And lastly, visitors complete their tour of Bldg. 26-3 as they view the intricacies of testing and packing.

Visitors will use the east stairway in descending from the third floor to the first. No tour of Bldg. 26-2 has been arranged since few manufacturing operations are performed there. There will, however, be a comprehensive tour of the ground floor where the heavy equipment and presses are located. Processes that are performed in the annealing ovens and treatment room are also included on the tour of the first floor. By the time the sightseers conclude the tour and exit from the west end of the ground floor, they should have a vivid overall impression of the manufacturing processes and products of the Specialty Transformer Department.

Safety Shoe Sale

An inventory clearance of safety shoes in various styles and sizes was announced this week by Ray L. Fischbach, manager of the Employee Store. The shoes are specially priced at $6, and are available at either the Broadway or Taylor St. stores beginning this week, the manager reported.

GOES UP MONDAY—The large red and white sign announcing GE's open house Oct. 15 is being readied to go up Monday over the railroad underpass on Broadway. S. R. Hoffman, right, of the Brinkman Corp., talks with William Brunner, chairman of the display committee for the open house.

Store Inventory

The Employee Stores at the Broadway and Taylor St. plants will be closed for inventory Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, September 23-24-25, R. L. Fischbach, manager, announced today.

The stores will be open for business as usual Monday, September 28.

FORT WAYNE DEPARTMENTS PAY OUT $2,382 FOR SUGGESTIONS IN AUGUST

Motor-Generator Employee Heads List with $350 Award

One hundred and fifty-eight employees in the Fort Wayne plants received a total of $2,382.50 in suggestion awards during the month of August, according to reports of the various department secretaries.

Herman Kuhn, of the DC Motor and Generator Department,

Fund to Solicit Non-Members Starting Oct. 12

Monday, Oct. 12, solicitation for the GE Employees Community Services Fund will begin in the Fort Wayne plants. W. E. Beer, general chairman of this year's campaign, announced today. The solicitation will be held in conjunction with the civic United Fund Drive.

Only those employees who have not become members of the Employee Community Services Fund will be contacted. Employee relations managers will serve as chairmen in the department and conduct soliciting. The number of persons who will contact non-members will be determined by the number to be solicited.

Plans also include sending a letter to non-members explaining the purpose of the fund and its accomplishments, the board of the Services Fund reported.

The method of contributing to the fund will remain the same. Pledge cards will be given those who wish to join and they may designate on the cards the amount they wish to contribute and whether they wish to make their contribution every week, or in one lump sum. Contributions are by payroll deduction.

The board of administrators of the Employee Community Services Fund is composed of the following: Carl Alter, chairman; John Thomas, Broadway; Roger Grant, Winter St.; Ivan Standish, Bldg. 27; Ed Reese, Bldg. 31-1; Paul Frantz, Bldg. 12-1; Vic Grotehouse, Bldg. 26-4; Carl Reiter, Taylor St.; Sam Allmandinger, Taylor St.; John Repine, Taylor St.; John Fleischer, Bldg. 19-4; Virgil O. Brown, Bldg. 4-4; H. B. Leach, Bldg. 18-2; Lester Bienz, Bldg. 10-1; Jim McFeely, Bldg. 19-4, and K. W. Michael, Bldg. 18-2.

led the suggesters with an award of $350. His winning idea was for designing and suggesting the use of a simple jig for drilling "amortisseur connecting links" thus eliminating layout and reducing the drilling time. His suggestion also resulted in a better method of determining the developed length of links.

Mr. Kuhn has had 16 suggestions adopted out of 64 submitted up to the present time.

Motor-Generator

Another M-G employee, Donald E. Connett, earned $60 for suggesting that fans which were used repeatedly throughout the year be placed in stock and thus save both time and expense.

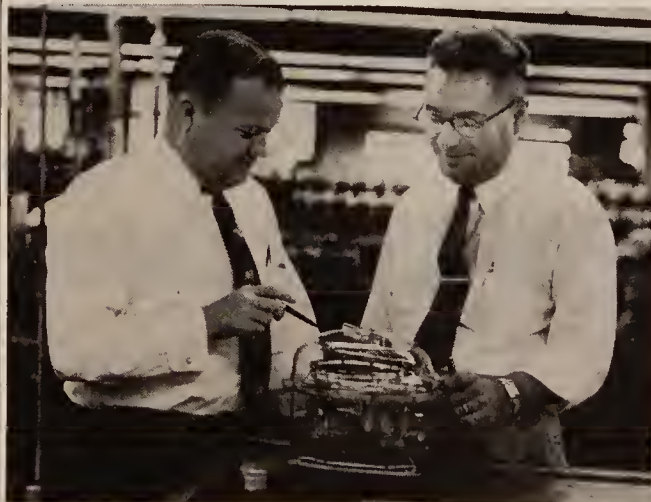

Clifton J. Mugg, of Motor-Generator received a $25 award. There

VISITING FIREMEN—City firemen from Rescue Unit No. 2 were among those who came to the plant this week for the annual tour of GE, which acquainted them with the physical layout and hazardous areas of the plant. The fire truck is shown entering the east side Broadway gate.

HERMETIC TOURISTS TO SEE PRODUCT THAT REVOLUTIONIZED AN INDUSTRY

HERMETIC DISPLAY—On Oct. 15, visitors to Hermetic Motor manufacturing sections will see models of motors actually running inside plastic compressors as well as various stages of manufacture of the product. One of the models to be viewed by members of the community is set up by Wally McKay and Mel Kiessling, members of the tour committee.

Visitors to the Hermetic Motor Department during the Oct. 15 Open House will see in stages of manufacture a product that has revolutionized an industry and made possible a higher standard of living, Joseph P. Orbin, chairman of the tour, explained today.

One of the four tours being planned at the Broadway plant, the Hermetic tour will introduce members of the community to production of motor parts for hermetically sealed refrigeration compressors in Bldgs. 17-2 and 17-3. Along the route, hermetic motors actually running in plastic compressors will be displayed.

For the first time, many persons will see the product that appears in nearly every home and yet is little known; for it is not seen, barely heard, and rarely needs to be serviced. The tour will allow visitors also to observe the precise and clean methods of manufacture of this product.

As far back as 1910, GE started

Ft. Wayne Engineers To Hold First Meeting Sept. 30 at F.O.P. Club

Members of the Fort Wayne Engineers' Club will conduct their first meeting of the 1953-54 season Wednesday, Sept. 30 at the F. O. P. Country Club. New members have been invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 5:15 p.m. when the club opens.

Doxie Moore, director of conservation in Indiana, will be the principal speaker at the dinner meeting. He will discuss "Hoosierland Conservation."

A fish dinner, with fresh fish flown in from Canada, will be served at 6:30 p.m. and a program of musical entertainment has been planned.

The F.O.P. Country Club is located one and three-fourth miles north of intersection of State Rd. 37 and St. Joe Rd. The entrance is on the west side of St. Joe Rd.

Max D. Barrows, Bldg. 4-6, is vice president of the organization and Ernie M. Freegard, Bldg. 26-2, is secretary this year.

Aspirin Doesn't Always Cure Headache

A doctor friend was remarking to us the other day about the conquest of pain and suffering in this country. He feels that people do not realize how rapid our pace has been, considering that the introduction of the first general anesthetic came only a century or so ago. Up to that time, mankind's indifference to aches and complaints was shocking. Patients about to undergo surgery sometimes got a bit of alcohol or opium, and the inventive Egyptian medicos would simply slug their subject across the skull with a blunt instrument, hoping for results midway between too hard and too easy.

Brooding upon this historical development, we were awed by the place that relief of pain and discomfort now occupies in our modern culture. For the healthiest people on earth, we appear to have a national preoccupation with ways and means to effect remedy or cure of an enormous number of maladies and shortcomings.

An hour or so of research in television graphically supported this trend. A man in a judicial robe leveled his finger and sternly sentenced us to 20 years of Nagging Backache. Later he reappeared with a white coat and a stethoscope to talk cosily about the Harsh Irritating Cough that could be eliminated through proper medication. A young lady in an alarming bit of black lace promised that our Tired, Worn-Out Feeling would disappear if we would shift to a Posture-Pure mattress, like hers. We had to admit that she looked rather fit, without a trace of that Tired, Worn-Out Feeling.

If you think the newspapers tell a different story, look again. The issue we're looking at quotes a Mrs. S. J., of Fargo, North Dakota, in as grim a recital of nervous torment as we've read since Dante. Succeeding pages devoted to ills affecting the eye, ear, nose and digestive tract proved equally gloomy, and not even Mrs. J.'s magic recovery through the Dan-Dee Heat Pad brightened our mood.

Sovereign Specifics Abound

To judge by the ads, we have little real cause for concern. Sovereign specifics abound for every evidence of disquietude. We have salves, unguents, prosthetic marvels of straps and laces, stimulants and sedatives without number. Our attention is called to proprietaries for speedy relief of Acid Indigestion, of Cramps and Nausea accompanying a Sluggish Liver Bile, of Chiggers, Hives and Shingles. Even this merely scratches the surface; today we have a list of disorders outdistancing the definitions of the U. S. Pharmacopeia. We have Lordosis, a female complaint traceable to inadequate stays. We have Ptorosis, the hideous aftermath of sleeping in unfiltered air.

Not to be misunderstood, we are as sensitive to pain as anyone, as our dentist will attest (he sneers coldly whenever we are dragged, screaming, into his inner chamber). We endorse and applaud each of these victories over man's ancient foe, from Creme-Glo (for Itchy Scalp) to Dr. Paul's Bunion Pads (for Hot, Tired, Aching Feet). Nor do we give credence to the theory that such gentilities have rendered us soft and easy to tread upon.

No, what concerns us is the fear that we are coming to apply the opiates and the pain-killers in our approach to national problems. There are disturbing signs in the picture.

We avoid the Nagging Sensation of our tax liabilities with the Soothing Balm of pretending that they are really being borne by somebody else. Sharp Twinges in the body politic are eased quickly by applications of tidy slogans, comforting but deceptive. Regulations that threaten our freedom gain acceptance through reassuring titles which dull our senses to their real purpose.

This nation was not settled by turning our backs on unpleasant facts or by falsifying the price on the label.

We Love to Delude Ourselves

Today many of us yawn discreetly at mention of mounting taxes, under the narcotic illusion that the Big Corporations will pay the bill. Though misery may love company, the fact is that our own bill is little less because our neighbor's is

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from hospital and returned to work:

Sick List

Joseph Robinson, Gwendolyn Robinson, Levi Mercer, William Morton, Waymon Morton, Robert Mobberly, Russell Rose, Mildred Phillips, Joan Schrock, Levon Schnepf, Leo Madden, Ned Altekruze, George Shearer, Chester Krasienko, Alto Campbell, Lucille Keller, Charles Sessler, Frances Franklin, Pauline Settle, Roscoe Beedle, Genevieve Mathias, Frederick Frey, Roy Hosler, James Hughes, Harold Friedrich, Frances Fry, Clara Cohagen, Gene Bryant, Ammi Fett, Vera Everett, George Webb, Eleanor Beerbower, Raymond Meyers, Lawrence Walters, Leonard Jenne, Orpha McCreary, Lloyd Forsythe, Billy Gawthrop, Raymond Shepherd, Charles Menefee.

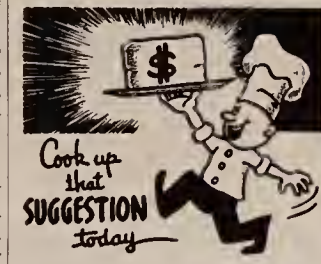

Dismissed from Hospital

more; it is perhaps comforting to hear that Mammoth and Co. has paid millions if we fail to note that the money was ours, collected in higher prices. We love to delude ourselves.

We are gratified when we note that the "assessment" on our real estate is under what we paid for the property. We are, in fact, so pleased that we fail to note the rate of taxation, unmindful of any connection.

The symptoms that warn us of dangers to our freedom, as individuals and citizens, cannot be discouraged by resort to syrups and tablets fizzing in water even upon assurance that they Work Three Ways. We cannot alkalize nor can we anesthetize against forces that bit by bit eat at our vitals. We can cure only by real diagnosis and swift surgery.

Income Inadequacy, a disease affecting all of us, might prove less epidemic if we face up to the facts. The cause may be the Tax Tremors which we set at rest with some temporary nostrum. Our susceptibility to many another costly economic virus may have a similar history.

All drugs, in time, produce a tolerance, requiring larger and larger quantities to attain an effect. And no drug is so insidious as the tendency to dull pain with handy remedies, to mask fact with comforting fantasy.

Unless we're on guard, we'll have a Sick Headache one of these days that won't yield to the sturdiest of cure-alls. We're close to that point right now. The time comes when we should leave the aspirin on the shelf and go see what's really wrong!

Thought of the Week: "Capitalism is the only system in the world founded on credit and character." —Hubert Eaton.

LUCKY FELLOW: George Mompfer was one of the older folks attending our Quarter Century picnic. Too old to take an active part in the athletic events, George performed best when food was available. At the close of the day George approached a booth to procure an ice cream cone to take home to his little grandson. He requested some dry ice to keep it solid on the way home, and was offered an ice cream box by the attendant. When George arrived home he found the box contained 11 cones instead of one. . . . TOO FRESH! Fresh eggs are always in demand, but Carol Franke decided they can be too fresh. The other day Carol prepared to eat her noon lunch. In the package was what appeared to be a hard boiled egg. She tapped the egg to crack the shell and things happened. Someone had given her an uncooked egg. Never knew a fresh egg could be so messy. . . . SYMPATHY: Our sympathy to Margie Messer. Sometime ago we wrote of her son's purchase of a white mouse. We might explain now that any rodent sends cold chills up and down Margie's back. In other words, she just doesn't like them. Last week she gave us the sad news. "Well," she began, "our mouse died last night." Ha! Ha! This writer knew from the outburst just how bad she felt. Hence, our sympathy. . . . SMART: This week's smart saying comes from Bill Meyer. Bill remarks "Elbow grease is the kind that won't soil a shirt."

COMINGS AND GOINGS: Howdy-de-doo to Kathleen Ann Terveer, new gal in the File Room. And we welcome back to GE Weir Anderson after an absence of a little over two years. Also, we'd like to welcome Kenny Hawkins to Art Wilson's group. Ken is single and comes to us from the Bloomfield plant, where he served his last assignment. Previous to this, he was located at Evendale. He is a graduate of Ohio State with a degree in AgE. His home town is Jefferson, Ohio. . . . TODAY we bid good-by to three of our TE's, Norman Kendt, Larry Norquist, and Alex Stone. Norman will work for the lab, Larry for marketing, and Alex in plant engineering. Looks like they like good old Fort Wayne, eh? . . . BACK WITH US AGAIN and mighty happy to see you looking so well, is Owen Vaught. Owen has been absent for 15 months due to illness. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Herb Reitz, Saturday the 26th; Jack Jennings, Sunday the 27th, and to our boss, Ted Ross, on Monday, September 28th. Hope you all will have a big birthday cake and a very happy birthday. . . . WE'D ALSO LIKE TO SAY GOOD-BY to Barbara Moore, who is leaving us next Thursday, October 1. Barbara will not be here next Friday, making last minute preparations for her wedding on Saturday, October 3, so we'll say: Hope you'll be very happy in your new life, Barb. A luncheon is being given in Barbara's honor the day she leaves. She will be married to Mr. Robert Mynhier in Avilla, Ind. . . . PATTY CURTIS will take over Barbara's work in the engineering section. Take it easy boys, Patty has a heart-throb in Uncle Sam's Army.

Today is Elex Deadline For Returning Ballots

Today is the deadline for returning ballots in the Elex Club election, Mary Wyss, Bldg. 21, chairman of the tellers' committee, reported. Ballots should be sent to the chairman.

The tellers' committee will meet in the Women's Activities office, Bldg. 18-1, Monday, Sept. 28, to count votes. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the committee are: Rose Onstatt, Martha Bennett, Eva Westrick, Bernita Welbaum, Selma Kuyoth, Bertha Schrader, Mabel Schaaf, Mary Leiter, and Ceal Romary.

Program schedules for the annual fall conference, "New Horizons", were announced this week by Roqua Wibel, general chairman of the two-day event. Elex will be host to members of branch plant clubs, Partizan Chapter, Cincinnati, and Chicago clubs.

The schedule for the first day, Saturday, Oct. 17 is:

9 a.m.-1 p.m.—registration on mezzanine of Van Orman Hotel.

2 p.m.-4:30 p.m.—general assembly, ballroom.

6 p.m.—mixer, mezzanine.

7 p.m.—County Fair banquet, including side show stunts, Chat-terbox.

Sunday, Oct. 18, the program will be:

10 a.m.—morning devotion, ballroom.

10:15 a.m.-12 noon—general assembly, ballroom.

12:30 p.m.—Harvest Time luncheon, Oak Room.

3 p.m.—Candlelight service, ballroom.

Oct. 5 is the deadline for making reservations for the conference. They may be secured from contact girls or in the Women's Activities office, Bldg. 18-1. Price is ten dollars. For those coming from out-of-town, hotel reservations are extra. Persons who wish to attend just the Saturday meetings may make reservations for six dollars. They make reservations for just the Sunday meetings for four dollars.

The Elex Corner Cupboard counter in the Employee Store, Bldg. 8-1 will open Monday, Sept. 28 with many new items, including Christmas cards. The counter will be open from 11:30 until 4 p.m. daily Monday through Friday.

Holding Period For 1948 Defense Bonds Terminates Dec. 31

The five-year holding period for U. S. Defense Bonds purchased in 1948 under the GE Employees Savings and Stock Bonus Plan terminates Dec. 31, 1953, according to O. M. Corrigan, manager, Employee Savings Services, Schenectady.

The 1948 bonds will be delivered to participants as soon as practicable after Dec. 31, 1953.

Transformer and Ballast Departments Hold Three-Day Sales Conference at Wawasee

The Eighth Annual Specialists Conference sponsored by the Specialty Transformer and the Ballast departments was held Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, of this week at the South Shore Inn at Lake Wawasee.

Approximately 70 district specialists and component products managers attended the three-day sales conference for the interchange of marketing information.

Representatives from all 14 of GE's sales districts were included.

The conference was held in the form of a round table panel discussion on marketing problems of the two departments. H. A. MacKinnon, GE vice president and general manager of the Component Products Division, and Robert C. Hanna, manager of marketing for the division, were principal speakers on the program.

Joseph P. Coughlin, Specialty Transformer manager of marketing, and E. C. Schorr, Ballast marketing manager were official hosts for the conference.

Many of the conference delegates returned to Fort Wayne at the conclusion of the meeting for additional discussions on specific problems.

Carl A. Schafianski

Schafianski Named Motor-Generator General Foreman

Appointment of Carl A. Schafianski as general foreman in the Direct Current Motor and Generator Department has been announced by Kenneth D. Strong, superintendent of the shop.

In 1928, Mr. Schafianski became a GE employee and entered the Apprentice School. After graduation from the machinist-toolmaker course in 1932, he went to the toolroom in Bldg. 17-4. In 1939, he entered M and G as a machinist.

Appointed a foreman in 1943, Mr. Schafianski was named assistant general foreman in 1950. He had this position until his present assignment.

The Schafianskis, who have six children, reside at 2009 Emerson Ave.

Karl M. Feiertag Granted Patent On Permanent Magnet Clutch Brake

Karl M. Feiertag, Bldg. 4-6, has been granted his fifth patent by the U. S. Patent Office, Washington, D. C. The patent covers a permanent magnet clutch brake device.

In this mechanism, magnetic fluid has been provided both between the driving and driver members and between the driven member and the brake. By means of a shunt, the fluid in either location may be caused to bind the two surfaces. By this means, the time delay between driving and braking is avoided.

Mr. Feiertag received his fourth patent for a clutch brake mechanism wherein both the clutch and brake are operated by finely divided magnetic material preferably mixed with oil. This patent provides a time lag between the driving arrangement and actuation of the brake.

In 1919, Mr. Feiertag joined the company and went into testing in refrigeration. He entered drafting in 1922 and two years later transferred to Fractional Horsepower Motor drafting. At present, he is a design draftsman in the Specialty Motor Department.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT—is provided by the General Electric electric blankets, which Dorothy Leininger, Bldg. 18-1, looks at in the Employee Store. A new feature has been added to the blankets, custom-contouring. The three sizes now come to fit over the end of a single, double, or twin mattress. Employee price of the double-bed size is $41.45; single bed, $34.50, and twin bed, $33.15. The bedside control dial maintains the degree of warmth desired.

Partizan Elect New Officers; Appoint Committee Chairmen

New officers and committee chairmen of Partizan Chapter of Elex Club will meet Thursday, Oct. 1, at 9 a.m. at the home of Nora Coburn, 1515 Pontiac St.

At the meeting, the board will set up the club's 1953-54 program, which will be announced at the first meeting of the year, Oct. 20.

Newly appointed chairmen are: Publicity, Myrtle Lauer; historian, Bertha Mattes; flower fund, Nora Kern; Airfresh, Annette Hastings; gelatin, Helen Miller; travel, Myrtle Bennett; Helene Curtis, Frances Hart; and telephone, Betty Miller, Edith Vendrick, Blanche Druesedow, Lillian Wolf, and Marie Hummel.

The officers who were installed Sept. 15 are president, Mrs. Gerald Zehendner; vice-president, Mrs. Nora Coburn; secretary, Louella Tarmon, and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Helms.

PARTIZAN'S NEW OFFICERS—Newly elected officers of Partizan Chapter who were installed recently are (l-r): Mrs. Gerald Zehendner, president; Louella Tarmon, secretary; Mrs. Nora Coburn, vice-president, and Mrs. Ralph Helms, treasurer.

Joseph G. Williams

Joseph G. Williams, 68 Dies in Retirement

Joseph G. Williams, 68, retired employee, died Monday, Sept. 21, in Wichita Falls, Texas, where he had been living for the past year.

Retiring Oct. 1, 1950, Mr. Williams came to the Company in 1916. He was a machine hand at that time. Later he entered the Motor and Generator manufacturing section as a bench lathe operator in Bldg. 27. At the time of his retirement, he was a turret lathe operator in the same location.

Mr. Williams was a Quarter Century Club member.

THE NIGHT WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST. Hazel Davis

Dorothy Hart visited in Elkhart Sunday and went to Buck Lake Ranch to the Mickey Rooney Show Sunday. . . . We are glad to see Meredith Have back on second trick. . . . Dallas Patten is taking his third week of vacation next week and expects to finish his garage. . . . Congratulations to Ann Cueller, who was crowned Queen at the Mexican Festa. Ann will be Queen for three years if she doesn't marry. As popular a gal as Ann is, we wonder. . . . We are glad to hear that Hazel Davis' husband is home from the hospital and hope he is well real soon. . . . The 51 frame assembly dedicates the following lines to the ones who are leaving the line for other jobs:

Strolling down the river
One by one,
Donna, Norma, and Rita—
A new job begun.
They were working for the GE
All so happily.
Oh, how we will miss them
On 51 assembly.

Now our group is dwindling
More and more each day.
Dorothy, Jessie, and Margie.
They are on their way.
We hope they will be happy
And soon again in line,
Working all together
On the 51 frame line.

Still there's more a-leaving.
Our men are going, too—
Stanley, Bob, and Johnny,
Now what shall we do?
We'll try to keep them rolling
And hope in a very short time.
We'll all be back together
Shoving motors down the line.
—D. V. Hart.

AIEE and Other Engineers to Hold Three-Day Confab in Fort Wayne

Members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and other engineering societies from Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Ohio will attend a special three-day conference at the Van Orman Hotel Oct. 6, 7, and 8, James H. Capps, Bldg. 4-6, conference chairman, announced this week.

Approximately 200 persons are expected to attend the three-day meeting. Sponsored by

After last week our column will be known as the Lost Column. For you who didn't get to read our column it was under the heading of Shaft Shavings, 19-3. As the old saying goes, "It was more fun looking for it!" . . . Lillian dropped a glass of jelly. Hazel Leonard said it would have been good if it weren't for the glass in it. We also want to congratulate Lillian on the glamorous look she acquired by having her hair cut. . . . We wonder why Millie Horman likes to stay home evenings now. Could it be the television? While we are on the subject of Millies, let's all wish Millie Koehler luck on the coming Elex election. . . . On one of the cool days last week Betty Thompson wore a new sweater to work. Since it was a new one Betty told the girls she didn't want to get it dirty. So, the girls obligingly wrapped her like a mummy. . . . Marge DeArmond has a new shiney Ford. . . . Barb Smith flew to Chicago last Sunday night to see her sister and two nephews off to Japan. Barb's daughter, Ardie, is throwing a party Saturday in celebration of her fourth birthday. . . . Elmer Harshman, our inspector, celebrated his 30th year with the Company by having his picture taken. Congratulations. . . . We are sorry to lose Helen Thieme, who is leaving to become a full time housewife. . . . Esther Bennett and husband are going to Wabash to visit their folks. They're not going to travel far because their parents live across the street from each other. . . . Betty Clevenger must have been tired when she threw her last ball last week while bowling. They tell me she walked halfway down the alley before she could let go of the ball. . . . Dorothy Rebber went to visit Daisy Ford, who has returned to her home from the hospital. Dorothy reports that Daisy feels good and looks fine. . . . Thelma Purdue believes in doing things the hard way. She had a lock filed off her attic door. Wouldn't it have been more simple to use the key? . . . Donna Hahn is a girl that likes to do things differently from any one else. When the temperatures was in the hundreds, Donna suggested taking the windows out of the office. Now since it's cooler she must be taking the rest of the office home to build a fire, because every day a little more of the office disappears! I can't understand how those 2x4's fit in her purse, though. . . . Eleanor Whitehouse had a big 524 in bowling last week. . . . We welcome Vera Sessler to days. . . . Ivy Mills and Deloris Soderquist have decided to cut about three feet off of Harold Dalman's whip so he can't reach the repair bench. They're still behind the eight ball. . . . We can account for the red glow over Fort Wayne last week. Glen Archbold celebrated his birthday and when Glen celebrates, he really celebrates. . . . the AIEE committee on rotary machinery and Fort Wayne Section AIEE, 22 technical papers on the application of motors to air moving equipment are scheduled to be read. These are concerned with such subjects as ventilating fans, blowers, and room air conditioners.

Oct. 8 a symposium on induction motors will be conducted and will deal with design, calculation, and analysis problems. Discussions covering motor protection and Underwriters and Armed Forces requirements are planned also.

Such technical meetings of representatives of fan and blower manufacturers and motor manufacturers bring about improved products for home and plant use, Mr. Capps stated.

brates. . . . Andy Anderson put new white sidewalls on his Olds 88. Like the younger generation says, "It looks real nervous." . . . We extend birthday greetings to Carl Kirbach, Ida Humbarger, Harold Geise, and belated greetings go to Marguerite Dasher. . . . We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to Roxie Murray on the death of her mother, Mrs. Hunt, of Muncie.

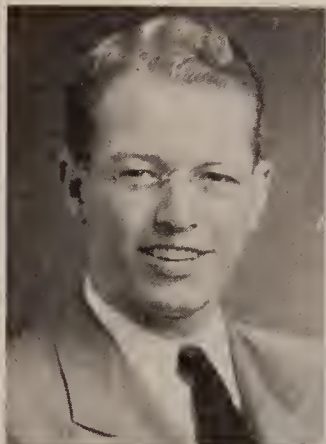

Good for the body is the work of the body, good for the soul the work of the soul, and good for either the work of the other.—Thoreau.

OPENS RETIREMENT GIFT—Edna Crow opens her retirement gift with the help of Omer Meyer on her last day of work. Edna was a winder in Bldg. 17-2 when she first came to GE in 1927. She was a coil placer in GAC Section 13 at Taylor St. before retirement.

Nine Staff Managers Named In Transformer, Ballast Depts.

Nine staff managers in the newly-formed Specialty Transformer Department and the Ballast Department have been announced by Carl H. Rinne and Charles P. Hayes, managers of the two departments.

Appointees to the Specialty Transformer staff are:

Everett J. Thomas, manager of engineering.

Richard J. Keyser, manager of manufacturing.

Joseph P. Coughlin, manager of marketing.

Eugene H. Henry, manager of finance.

Stephen R. Capps, manager of employee relations.

Four employees named to the Ballast Department staff are:

Gordon C. Harvey, manager of engineering.

Elmer F. Paul, manager of manufacturing and relations.

Edmund C. Schorr, manager of marketing.

Ralph M. Hensler, manager of finance.

Earlier this month, the two departments were formed from the former Specialty Transformer and Ballast Department. The change was made because these departments represent operations grown big enough to be conducted as individual businesses in their own right. H. A. MacKinnon, vice-president and general manager of the Component Products Division, stated in announcing the move. He said that the two departments can do a better job with separate managements devoting full time to the development and improvement of designs, manufacturing methods, and commercial coverage.

Headquarters for the Specialty Transformer Department will be in Fort Wayne and the Ballast Department will have headquarters in Danville.

Set 'em up in the other alley for Marie Stalter, Billie Tucker, Elaine Guiff, Clara Micheline, Marge Cross, and Marie Franzis! They represent a newly-formed bowling team from the winding section. . . . The "Bat" assembly line spreads the welcome mat for Maxine George, Ethel Shipman, Mildred Wolfe, Betty Baker, and Ann Bremer. . . . We're sorry to lose Dorothy (The Huntington Terror) Ley, Rita Hart, Zuma Roberts, and Robert Febera. Hope they are all back with us soon. . . . Hang onto your newspapers! One evening newspaper isn't enough for Bernice Hughes. She takes the second trick operator's paper, too. . . . Gale Harris is nursing a bruise! We won't say where, but he acquired it while roller skating. . . . Congrats to Marcella Adams, who recently had a baby girl. . . . All cokes, ice cream, candy, cigarettes, and milk are on Ced Persing this week, as a result of winning a prize. That sounds good anyway! . . . DAFFY DEFINITIONS: Adamant—What Adam should have been. Yes Man—One who invariably stoops to concur. Bank—A place where you can borrow money in the event you can prove you don't need it.

Last week, we gave Ralph Heminger a pat on the back for becoming a gallon blood donor. He has informed us that our source of information was wrong; as he has to "roll up the sleeve" two more times, before he can qualify as a gallon donor. Sorry for the error, but holding a $\frac{3}{4}$ gallon record is still quite an achievement. . . . Happy birthday this week to Evelyn Kissinger, Katie Minehart, and Bill Switzer. . . . Speaking of birthdays, last Tuesday, Viola Haiber certainly received her share of birthday cakes. First Vi received a doughnut, all done up in a cake box and even decorated with candles. That was just the beginning, as later in the day she received a real for sure, big birthday cake, beautifully decorated. In fact, Vi says, the biggest cake in all her 21 years of birthday celebrations. . . . Bob Younghaus has gone in the popcorn business. He has sold about a ton of corn so far. Marie Renz bought some of the corn, and she popped what she thought would make a nice bowlful, but instead, she had a dishpan over-flowing with popcorn. Then she had to stay up half the night to get it all eaten so it wouldn't be wasted. . . . Bob Kurtz dislikes publicity, so as a favor to Bob, we're not telling any of his exploits this week. . . . We wish to extend our sympathies to Floyd Brown on the death of his father.

17-3 NEWSIES

Wilhelmina Beeth

Don't forget to turn your clocks back and gain that hour of sleep you lost last spring. . . . The other day Louie Wyss didn't have far to go to answer the fire alarm. Did a fine job of putting it out, too. . . . If you thought Walter Kryder was walking a little faster than usual last week, it was because he had received the word that his son was on his way home from Germany. . . . Does anyone know where you can get an unbreakable thermos bottle? Millie Reynolds is looking for one. She has been dropping them at the rate of one a week and they cost money. . . . We wish Roger Crabill lots of luck on his new job in Bldg. 17-2. . . . QC picnic highlights: There is a new GE clock at the Charlie Rice home. Charlie won it at the picnic. . . . Violet Brower was a near casualty when she fell down. . . . Maude Goodrich and Nellie Ruger was seen trying to share a coat. Maude would zig when Nellie would zag. They were having quite a time. . . . Doesn't Margaret Monnot look glamorous in her new specs? . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Mary Hake, who is in the hospital. Also, to the husband of Louise Hayes, who has been seriously ill.

COUNT OFF

SUB-SECT. 17

The girls in the switch section would like to thank Ed Feidler for the lovely tomatoes he brought in. . . . Thanks to Clarabelle Whiteman for the birthday treat, and we wish her many more. . . . We hear Ross Haifley has jack rabbits for sale; dressed or undressed. Anyone interested in them may see them at 1034 Swinney Ave. . . . We think Virginia Buesching will be brushing up on her Spanish now so she can read her mail she has been receiving. . . . Kenny Brown says he brought a horse for his daughters and that is all the comment at the present time. . . . The kindergarten group are worried that they will go hungry since Alberta Watt was transferred to Section 14. . . . We wish Ruth Smith a lot of happiness in her new home in California. . . . The kindergarten group had a wiener bake and home made ice cream at Louise Sinns' home. They all had a grand time but hope Louise has the ice cream frozen when they get there the next time. Will someone tell Betty Berth that Louise lives a mile and a half on the Leebury road, and not in Columbia City? . . . ls Doyle Sheets getting ready for winter by wearing angora clothes or could it be cat hair from the new cat? . . . Linda Wahrer will probably be making a lot of trips to Chicago now that she meets such interesting people on the train. . . . Congratulations to Bea Allen on her beautiful new diamond ring. . . . Tom Harber and Clarabelle Whiteman are trying to make dollar bills stretch. They ended up with four halves from two $1 bills. . . . Don't be surprised if Eddie Bandt comes to work with a bug bomb in one hand and a hoe in the other. He has been under a nervous strain all summer because of the insects (monsters) his driver keeps in the car. And now, a snake skin. Ed is worried about the whereabouts of the rest of the snake. The last we saw of it, Ed, it was singing, "Baby It's Cold Outside," and its insides were outside. . . . Sorry we let your down on the news last week but Ruby Stoop was busy and Marguerite Stahl was home with her son, who is on furlough from Camp Roberts, Calif. He will return to Fort Lewis, Wash. . . . Sydonna Fox's daughter Arlene is getting to be quite a cake baker, even if she does double the shortening.

Many a person listens to his conscience—after telling it what to say.

Mary Whitelock

Sandra Brown, who has a new poodle cut, burned out the clutch in her pop's car. The battery was dead in her jalopy and it needed a bit of pushing, so she used the family car. Wonder if Pop Brown has simmered down yet? . . . WELCOME to Robert R. Pair, the new test engineer. . . Kathryn Erwin is "Gramma" and proud of it. The little gal's name is Donna Rose and she weighed 7½ pounds. . . We are sorry to hear Mildred Phillips is on the sick list and wish her a speedy recovery. . . The Bowling League is planning a party at the country home of Abe Oyer to sample some of the 96 lbs. of beef he has stored in the freezer. It hasn't been determined whether the party will be stag or otherwise. . . Anna Ruth Clements was selected from the crowd to draw names for the wonderful prizes given away at the Quarter Century outing. She tried her best but never once did she pull a number for her co-workers in 14. . . Will anyone having a bib please bring it to Helen Platt so she won't dribble her milk all over herself when she tries to drink it? . . . Mike Brayer tossed a stag party at the lake Saturday for the planners. He couldn't have picked a drizzlier day if he had tried but the fellows enjoyed themselves just the same. Mike is quite a virtuoso on the 88, but Bill Williams outclassed him when it comes to playing with the feet. It was the first time Bill had ever seen a player piano and he went all out for it. Carl Kloepper and Earl Greenlee braved the weather to try their hand at fishing, atired in raincoats and umbrellas. They are the rugged, outdoor type but it was too much for them, and they gave up after hauling in two "whoppers." Doug Campbell, the novice, learned to play euchre and pinocle. He had the usual beginners' luck and cleaned up on everybody. The chili, made by Mike from his favorite recipe, saved the day and was enjoyed by all. . . Dorelyn Forde and the Heart-throb drove up to LaGrange QUADRUPLE ANNIVERSARY—Four new 30-year employees recently celebrated their anniversaries together. They are (l-r) L. Walter Pfeiffer, Ted Waggoner, Charles E. Niblick, and Clifford Muggs. Mr. Pfeiffer is a welder in Bldg. 20-1; Mr. Waggoner is a chauffeur; Mr. Niblick, an electrician, and Clifford Mugg, also an electrician in Bldg. 20-1.

Sunday to visit relatives. Sounds sorta serious, hm? . . . Becky Lisle, after reading the papers, says she is taking up target practice and when it comes time to shoot, she will know how to do so proficiently, fastidiously and with dispatch. Mr. Lisle, please note! . . . Dorothy Klug has a new GE TV and she and Pepper enjoy it very much. Pepper is the dog who is 18 years old (almost old enough to vote) and he gets quite a jar out of seeing Wild Bill and other dogs, or should I say side-winding varmints? . . . Whenever you catch yourself thinking people are trying to pin something on you, you've probably lost your buttons.

What counts is not the number of hours you put in, but how much you put into the hours.

Del Stickler has proved it pays to wear safety glasses. The tool bit that struck and broke the lens of his safety glasses could easily have ended his working days. How can anyone in our section honestly refuse to wear safety glasses after Del's narrow escape. . . Clyde Spangler believes in the lost and found want ads. He even located a calf that had been missing for days. . . Holding both bowers and the ace of trump, Bill Trumbower did perform the impossible and became euchred. Bill lost the first three tricks and suddenly discovered that he had failed to discard as he still held the bowers and ace in his hand. . . Bob Sowards blames TV eyes as the reason for wearing his apron backwards Monday morning. . . Richard Burns, who has a great love for the outdoors, was seen last Sunday in a local park practicing his archery in preparation for a hunting trip up north next month. . . Keith Jamison and Ed Kayser make it "o work on time every day and we know how they do it. Would you wear your pajama tops to work? . . . Herb Thiele had waited one week for his new TV set when he received a phone call that the set had broken down during test and could not be delivered for some time. Herb was much disturbed but later quite relieved when his friends confessed to making the phony call. Nice fellows in Herb's group. . . Elmer Sauerwein spent a very enjoyable week's vacation at Clear Lake even though he had to keep the furnace going full blast. . . Elmer Ueber's wife is a very good provider. She won a 16-lb. ham as a door prize at Kenny Doell's new super market. . . Joe Mettler and Woody Hursh went against all barometer readings and invaded the depths of Coldwater Lake to come home soaked and wet carrying five small fish. . . Archie Gwaltney is journeying to Poseyville this week-end to visit several old acquaintances. Archie tells us Poseyville is in Posey County, but regrets the main crop is not poseys, but watermelons. . . Hayden Rice hasn't told us yet whether that 62 he posted in last Saturday's golf game was for 9 or 18 holes. . . Leo Schlaudroff is doing a swell job in donating blood, a very fine patriotic gesture. According to the daily papers he now belongs to the gallon donor club. . . We extend our deepest sympathies to Marion More, on the death of his sister. . . Kurt Martin was advertising for a new keg but the only person answering was Walter Greiner, who had 3 or 4 old nail kegs that he would gladly give away. For some reason Kurt declined the offer.

Facts are worthless to a man if he has to keep running to somebody else for advice on how to use them.—Sven Halla.

The other Sunday, the morning newspaper ran a story of the old "Pond Lilly Special," an excursion train that ran from Fort Wayne to Sylvan Lake at Rome City. There was a picture of the old train and it brought back fond memories to many an old-timer.

"Messer Special"

Now, I would like to run a little story about another vehicle that was intended to make the same run, carrying happy vacationists (Adam Farrell, Ann Thomas, Sam Baumgartner, and the Messer family) to the lake. That vehicle was a huge bus called the "Messer Special," named after its owner, Mildred Messer. However, the trip proved too much for the old bus. After arriving at the lake with one last wheeze it collapsed upon the beach, and settled down for its final rest. . . Pat McCutcheon has a brand new Cadillac. Now Johnny Berger is waiting until Pat gets too fat to get behind the wheel (it won't be long), and then he can buy it at a big discount. . . The newest craze to hit the office is third dimension comic books. . . Somebody switched the water and air lines on Ralph Garrett's machine the other day. When he started to blow the dust off his machine he got things pretty damp. . . Let's give Red Juergens a big hand. He shot a coon out of the tree the other night and got it the first time. The coon was in the fork of the tree, about eight feet up, and Red got him with a 12-gauge shotgun. When he shook the tree all that fell down were the ears and tail.

SAYS GOOD-BYS—Art Krohne (second from left) says his good-bys on his last day of work to Art Druce, Art Braun, and C. W. Hale. Mr. Krohne, who had been a GE employee since 1941, was a spray paint operator in Bldg. 19-1 before retirement.

RETIREMENT BOUND—Emmett Brooks (center) shows the drill press he received as a retirement gift to Sam Baumgartner (left) and Leonard Reuss. Mr. Brooks joined GE as a machine hand at Winter St. in 1930. At retirement he was a boromatic operator in Bldg. 19-2.

SUGGESTIONS PAY OFF IN CASH AWARDS

WELL, I'LL BE—Herman Kuhn (right) tips his hat in amazement and pleasure as he receives a $350 suggestion award from K. D. Strong. Mr. Kuhn, a Motor and Generator Department employee designed and suggested the use of a simple jog for drilling AC motor links. His idea eliminated layout, reduced the drilling time, and gave a better method of determining the developed length of the links.

were 18 awards in the department of under $25 in amount.

The grand total for the department was $582.50, according to C. S. Peden, suggestion secretary.

General AC Motor

Charles J. Belot, of the Wire and Insulation Section, headed the GAC suggestion list with a $200 award. He suggested a method of salvaging varnish.

Another big GAC suggestion award was paid to Edwin F. O'Brien of the general tool section, for suggesting a change in the type valve used on fusion welding equipment. His idea, which saved maintenance and oxygen, earned him $145.

Other GAC suggestion awards went to Richard C. Nix, of GAC section 14. He earned two awards, one for $40 and one for $35. Roscoe S. Martin, GAC Section 13, received $30.

There were 46 awards paid which were under $25 in amount. A. C. Hartman, suggestion secretary, said the grand GAC total for August was $780.

Specialty Motor

Margaret Hilgemann topped the Specialty Motor Department's suggestion list with a $95 award. She suggested that they make a top on arbor presses to insure the right amount of pressure on coils. This eliminated opens caused by too much pressure. It was an additional payment on the suggestion.

Frank E. Wolter received a $25 award check and 43 other employees earned less than $25 for a grand total of $485 in the Specialty Motor Department, H. L. Smith is suggestion secretary.

Hermetic Motor

Heading the Hermetic Motor August suggesters was Edward G. Hechler. He received $70 for suggesting that two sizes of wedges be ordered, and thus eliminate waste from having to cut down the wedge.

There were seven other awards in this department of less than $25. The grand total in Hermetic was $127.50, J. P. Orbin revealed.

Specialty Transformer

A time-saving suggestion brought $50 to Raymond P. Barwiler, of Section 91. He suggested the use of a dip tank in place of spraying hand hole covers.

Other Transformer employees rating suggestion awards were Robert Bultemeier, $45; Lester L. Baker, $35, and Wanda L. Anderson, $32.50. Twenty-nine other employees earned awards of under $25. The total amount paid to Specialty Transformer employees was $407.50.

Don Waldrop is secretary of the suggestion committee in transformer.

SOME SUGGESTION!—Edward G. Hechler (second from left) earned $70 in August for suggesting that two sizes of wedges be ordered and thus eliminate the necessity of cutting one down to size. He is congratulated on his waste-saving idea by Elmer DeBolt, H. V. Koch, and Vern Castle. Mr. Hechler is employed in the Hermetic Department.

$80 AWARD—Charles Belot (center) recently added $80 to his collection of suggestion awards. He is shown receiving a suggestion check from J. E. Kramer and F. A. Arnold. Mr. Belot, a Wire Section employee at Taylor St., suggested a method of salvaging varnish.

$60 SMILE—The smile Don Connett (left) is giving H. E. Stevenson and G. E. Jordan is for a $60 suggestion award. Mr. Connett, Bldg. 19-3, suggested placing fans that were used repeatedly throughout the year in stock and thereby save time and expense.

EARNs EXTRA $50—Raymond Barwiler (second from right) is congratulated by Walter Wolf, Joe Ort and Kenneth McCoy. Mr. Barwiler, Bldg. 26-B, suggested the use of a dip tank in place of spraying hand hole covers, thus saving time on the job.

FOUL LINE ABLES

by KEGHEAD KELLER

The Small Motor Bowling League got off to a fast start. Big Hank Vance, rolling for Tommy's Lunch team, kegled a 605 series on games of 165, 215, and a 225. Hank's high game was over-shadowed by Gus Ormsby, who kegled a 232 score for his highest game to date. E. Huth rolled a 210; R. Seidel, 211; A. Trosin, 211; the two Walts, Lamboley and Whonsetler, scored identical 213 counts and Sam Baumgartner a 200. No team scored three wins, so it is Drafting, Hi Five, Two Legs Clothing, R and R, Office, and Koorsen Painters each with two wins and one lost records. Corky Smith and Team No. 4 racked up a first game total of 945 actual pins. Walt Whonsetler and Ray Lindemuth were elected president and vice-president respectively of the Small Motor League. Joe Kramer will serve as secretary this season.

Friday Night Ladies

The Friday Night Ladies' League got off to a big bang. Several high scores were rolled to start the season with Winnie Scheurich scoring a 520; Alice Dahman had games of 172 and 180; Charlotte Stanford spilled the maples for a 179; Betty Thompson, 177; Justine Brown, 175; Winnie Scheurich, 187; Joan Korn, 170, and Liz Shearer, 175. Liz Shearer had everyone guessing how, when she hit the 4-7-10 split in her third game. Virginia Mollet and the officers of the Ladies' Friday Night League would like to extend a hearty welcome to all the new girls and hope they have fun bowling in this league.

Apparatus

Charlie Briggs, secretary of the Apparatus, reports that Bob Stute was elected President and Paul Perry was elected vice-president of the Apparatus League. Teams No. 2, 10, 7, 6, 12, and 3 each won two games while losing one. Len Reuss rolled a big 237 count; Zernie Wellmann, 220; Harry Waggoner, 215; Ross Smith, 210; Jimmie James, 208; Cliff Dunten, 204; Don Greenler, 202, and George Horner, 201. Jus Heaston converted the 6-7-10 split and Don Greenler made the 3-10 split three times in a row.

Monday Office

Out in front with six wins and no losses is Pawlisch Shoe Repair. Small Motor Development, Reproduction, and Dynamos are tied for second having dropped two games, while winning four games. Pawlisch Shoe Repair paced by Gil Baker's 618 series rolled a 3033 three-game series on games of 1004, 1087, and 942. Gil Baker's 618 series was made on games of 198, 209, and 211. Also aiding the cause was Harry Dalman with counts of 235 and 225. Ted Ross scored with a 201 to aid the cause. Forest Carlson rolled the high game to date, a big 265; Larry also had games of 178 and 180 to add up to a 624 series. Charlie Shipman came up with a 247 score; Don Ewing, 218; Carl Hattendorf, 213; Les Hahn, 210; Frank Schlink, 203; and Wendel Miller, 201. Small Motor Development kegled a 1013 team score.

Ladies' Monday Night

Team No. 12 is leading the league with a record of six wins and no losses. Four teams have won four games and only lost two, they are teams No. 10, 6, 8, and 7. Team No. 12 rolled a 2136 series count which is high for the league. Francis Miller broke into the charmed circle by kegling her first double century count, a 201 score. Margaret Beugnot rolled a 193; Dorothy Fuhs, a 181; Alberta Rath, a 175; and Ilo Matter, 174. Winnie Scheurich got what the little boy shot at.

Tuesday Afternoon Ladies

Edna Bailey, secretary of the Tuesday Owl League, reports that league activity is in full swing. Team No. 2 and Team No. 6 are tied for the top spot, each having won three games and lost none. Team No. 4 is in third place with two wins and one loss. B. Ramsey kegled the high single game of 181 and also a 444 high series. M. Leiter scored with a 175 and C. Maley with a 162. Team No. 2 rolled a 1946 high series which included a 689 high single game.

Masonic League

In the Masonic League the Squares and Ionic are tied for the lead, having won three games and losing none. Trowels, Plumbs, Corinthian, and Pillars each won two games and lost one game. Weddle rolled a 219; A. Hickman, a 217; Patterson, 214; Manecke, 206; Biedenweg, 203; Doc Peters, and N. Bailey, 201.

Decatur

In the Monday Night League Flanges won three games from Rotors, and Office won two games from Stators. Schuster kegled a 210 and Laurent rolled a 223. In the Fraternal League, West End Restaurant won three games from Casablanca and Teeple Truck Lines won three from GE Club. Peterson Elevator won two from K. of C., while Elks took two games from Riverview Gardens.

OWL AWARDS PRESENTED—Three members and the manager of the GE Club softball team in the YMCA Industrial Owl League present two trophies won by the team to Erv Huth, chairman of athletics. The awards will be placed in the club trophy room. They were won by the team for achieving first place in league play and in the play-off tourney. Shown (l-r) are: Bennie Penkul, manager; Harold Blauvelt; Huth; Ron Blodgett, and Howard Colby.

Bob Werling kegled the big series of the night, a 651 score on games of 212, 192, and 247. E. Faulkner's 634 series was made on games of 237, 183, and 214. Other 600 counts were made by Gary Schultz with games of 184, 223, and 219. George Laurent put together games of 182, 193, and a big pin heavy count of 266 for a 641 series. Double century scores were made by Baumgartner, 201; Hoffman, 221; J. Murphy, 214; Bauserman, 203; Johnson, 200; Petrie, 201; Lord, 224; Appelman, 202; Briede, 200; and Jackson, 225. Teeple Truck Lines rolled a 1061 single and 2989 series for the high season count to date.

In the GE Women's League, Team No. 3 won three games from Team No. 1 and Team No. 4 won three games from Team No. 2. High scores were rolled by M. Miller, 192 and 178; Myers, 162; A. Reynolds, 160, and E. Piasterer, 175.

APPRENTICE BROADCAST

Paul Zook, a former apprentice now serving in the Air Force, paid a visit to the school last week. Paul would enjoy hearing from his old buddies again. His address is: Paul Zook, Pre-Cadet DTCH, 3500 Student Sqdn., Reese Air Force Base, Lubrock, Texas. . . . Duke Doepke proved his little old Chevy has got what it takes in a jaunt down Clinton with Ron Davis' Olds. Of course, Duke had to run a red light to prove it. . . . The Apprentice Bowling team got off to a good start in the season's opener. The boys won two out of the three games. Jack Becker, Jerry Gibson, and George Haggengos were all over the 500 mark with their initial effort, nice going, boys. . . . Lt. Joel Traylor, one of the M. T. P. boys, has been called to active duty by Uncle Sam. Joel will be leaving Friday. We would all like to wish him the best of luck in his venture. . . . Several changes were made in the school the past week. Myron Auer is now instructing the fellows in the Turret Lathe Section. Dick Reinking has taken Myron's place in the office and Jim Schwartz replaced Dick on the jig borer. John Waltemath and Duke Doepke are now in the lathe section and Dick Bridge has been moved to the Turret Lathes. . . . We would like to extend a hearty welcome to James Burhart. Jim has enrolled as a machinist-toolmaker. . . . We would like to take this opportunity to wish a speedy recovery to Mrs. Richard Wagner. . . . See you TAB DAY.

I hear that Charlie Fisher just loves ice cream. In fact, he went to a picnic recently and did away with 14 dips of the stuff. Not only that but he also eats it for breakfast. What, no Cheerios? . . . I want to welcome Carol Chambers, of payroll, to the gang. It's a little late but I hope she will like us. We are not such a bad lot after you get to know us. . . . Virgil Carmean has been wearing an unusually bright smile lately. The reason being that his son is home on a furlough from the service for a couple of weeks. . . . We are losing a very fine fellow by reason of retirement in the person of Art Druce. After 36 years of faithful service I think he deserves a good carefree rest. . . . Louie Tagtmeyer's wife was in Fort Wayne's big Fashion Show held at the Coliseum not too long ago, and she was the prettiest by far. Also, Bob Buck's daughter, Roberta, modeled, and she was very cute. . . . Nice to have Rus Case back among us after a siege with hay fever. . . . Bill Hoelle and his podner, Frank Mollica, get quite a kick out of teasing Helen Staley. Bill is very helpful, too. He wanted to hold a stepladder that Helen was on, but she put the kabosh on that. . . . By the way, if any of you single girls are looking for a dark, attractive, single guy, Frank is your answer.

35-YEAR CONGRATULATIONS—Congratulations were in order recently for Frank Rathert (center) as he celebrated his 35th General Electric anniversary. George Grote (left), and H. S. Garton are shown with him. Mr. Rathert has been a GE employee since 1918. He is now an elevator operator in Bldg. 27.

CLUB ANNOUNCES SEPT. 29 RING CARD

Decatur Champ

John Baumann Adds City Title To Golf Laurels

John Baumann, Decatur GE Club golf champ, added to his laurels by capturing the Decatur City Title. He defeated Dr. Ed Peck 8 and 7 in the 36-hole finals. This is the second consecutive year Johnny has won the City title. John works as a special dispatcher in the production section at the Decatur Plant. Robert Lord, another GE golfer, lost out in finals of the third flight to Bill Kuhnle, by a score of 4 and 3. Bob is a dynamic rotor balancer in Bldg. 1, Decatur Plant.

The complete card of seven fights between Fort Wayne and Toledo boxers for the GE Club boxing show, Tuesday, Sept. 29, has been announced by Frank Newport, chairman of the show.

In addition to the seven inter-city matches, a novelty bout, a battle royal will be staged. In this three-ring event, four fighters enter the ring blindfolded. They wear a boxing glove on one hand and carry a tin can with stones in it in the other hand. They find each other to fight by the rattle of the tin cans.

The seven matches are:

Welterweight

Al Campbell, Bldg. 6-B, Fort Wayne.
Fred Gordon, Toledo.

Welterweight

Melvin Claymiller, Fort Wayne.
Don Hudelston, Toledo.

Featherweight

John McBride, Fort Wayne.
Fred Tettaway, Toledo.

Lightweight

Red McClure, Fort Wayne.
Ted Adams, Toledo.

Featherweight

Jim Reeder, Fort Wayne.
Melvin Reed, Toledo.

Light-Heavyweight

Lonnie Early, Fort Wayne.
Jimmy Mitchell, Toledo.

Middleweight

Freddy Dinkin, Fort Wayne.
J. C. Williams, Toledo.

Although there is no Toledo opponent yet, there is a possibility that Tom Freeman, heavyweight, from Fort Wayne, and winner of that class in the '53 Golden Gloves, may fight if the other city brings an opponent.

In addition to members of the boxing committee handling various arrangements at the show, Cy Seymour will serve as timer. Bob Smith, city policeman and referee at Golden Gloves tournaments, will referee the bouts.

LOOKING FOR OPPONENT—Tom Freeman, Fort Wayne heavyweight and 1953 Golden Gloves champion shows the punch he is willing to use in the GE Club boxing show next Tuesday, providing Toledo can find him an opponent.

Sweet to Pilot Inter-Dept. Cage League

Jack Sweet, Bldg. 26-3, has been named manager of the Inter-department Basketball League for the 1953-54 season, Erv Huth, chairman of GE Club athletics, announced today.

Jack Sweet

Jack played on the transformer team last season and is editor of the GE NEWS column, "Pick-Ups in 26-3."

Anyone interested in playing on one of the teams in the league or in organizing a team in their section should contact the new manager on Ext. 747.

League activity will get under way next month.

worker was still interested so she asked what some of his favorite dishes were. "Oh, he can cook anything!" replied Marilyn. . . . Birthday greetings to Dorothy Fuhs and Cecilia Horstman. . . . Justin Heston, of Taylor St., and Ray Lepper met at the Quarter Century Club Outing. They were flattering each other and expressing their friendship as they strolled along the river bank. When, all of a sudden, the wind blew Ray's straw hat off. Justin instantly showed his friendship by trying to kick it into the river. . . . Kenny Stinson and his family were on their way to visit relatives when an owl flew in the open window of the auto. It hit the opposite window so hard it fell to the floor. Kenny picked it up and was going to show his catch to the relatives. After a few miles old Mr. Owl revived and planted his beak and claws into Kenny's hand. After a struggle Kenny and the owl were both free. . . . Can anyone enlighten us as to who out-smarted who when the paths of Mr. Frank Gamec and a sleight-of-hand artist crossed recently?

George Miller and Gene Foster celebrated their birthdays by cutting a cake to share with the office group. They were given nice gifts, among which were fishing poles and Cadillacs. . . . Charlie Reinbold had unusual fisherman's luck recently. The only thing he got was a ducking when he fell out of his boat. . . . Dorene Tully is wearing a new French hair-do. . . . Marilyn (Dunifon) Waller, a new bride, was being asked about her husband. She said, "He is a wonderful fellow and we live at 2501 South Barr St." But a co-

RAIN WASHES OUT BLIND BOGEY; SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10, DATE SET

by Earl Stauffer

The rains came with a vengeance last Saturday and the annual Blind Bogey, which had been promised only scattered showers by the weather man, was forced to postpone the contest until Saturday, October 10.

Oddly enough, this was the first golf session of the leagues' season which had to be cancelled because of rain. As a result, the regular league play has been completed for some time.

The rain did stop momentarily to permit the league play-off teams to tee off. The first foursome got as far as the eighth tee before they gave up to the elements. Most of the lads gave up long before that, however. Bill Kayser probably hated to stop most of all, since he was two under par at the time.

Only six golfers finished the 18 holes, but not without an early Saturday bath.

Golf chairman Red Braden announced that the scores posted would hold for the new date, October 10.

THE BIG WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST.

Rachel Mounsey

We wish a very speedy recovery to Jennie Mathias, who is a patient in the hospital. . . . Connie Snyder is quite proud of the new addition to the family. It's a little pup. . . . When George Snyder was questioned about his bright shirt Monday morning, he told them he had forgot to take his pajamas off. . . . Fred Adams dressed in such a hurry the other night he got quite a shock when he went into the bathroom. He discovered he had his unmentionables on backwards. . . . Millie Snyder won first place in the B class, over the week-end, in shooting. Now she is waiting for her deer. She says she doesn't spell it dear, either. . . . Clarence Saylor has returned after two weeks of navy duty. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Ilene Davis and Mildred Orr. . . . We are sorry to see Mary Hopkins and Wayne Cusey leave us. . . . Bertha Steele came to work the other morning and felt something on her arm. She pulled it out of her sleeve and found it was one of her husband's ties. Now, how did that get there. . . . Esther Richmond doctored her son the other night but evidently she is a sound sleeper. He had an awful time waking her up, with little time left to spare. . . . Delores Heaston's son came home the other evening with 25 little turtles. Delores says all of them together wouldn't make soup, so now they are going to sell them. . . . We are sorry to see Gene LaFavor leave the section. . . . Clarence Myers was really on the ball on his job the first day he had lost his wrench. . . . As you know, Jim Linn has a bowling team in the Taylor St. League. Last week the most unusual thing happened to his team. They bowled more frames in one game than the whole team did all night. . . . John Haggenjos found out the hard way that if you put a coin in the vending machine and don't pick up your candy, somebody else will. . . . We really saw a man that had a red face. Mr. Fred Pyle went through a narrow space that had a little object sticking out. It caught on Fred's pants and made a nice little rip in them. You ought to have seen Fred disappear to get them fixed. . . . If you heard any loud bangs in the bowling alley it was Rose Liby enjoying her 25th wedding anniversary. Rose waited until she got on the alleys, then really let her hair down. . . . Nellie Wiggins was all thrills last Thursday night when she bowled her first 200 game, and also her first 500 series.

OWL BASKETBALL PLAYERS ASKED TO CONTACT HUTH

Any second and third shift employees interested in playing basketball in the Owl Inter-department League have been asked to contact Erv Huth, Bldg. 20-2.

Those interested in participating in this GE Club activity are asked to fill in the blank below and return it to Erv not later than Monday, Oct. 5. There should be at least six teams entered in order to start league action, Huth stated.

DECATURITES

George Laurent

Does anyone have an extra flashlight that he would kindly give to Skip Hamma? Skip is so desperate for a flash light that he was seen recently trying to take one from A. Buffenbarger. . . . We haven't been hearing much lately about Phil Baker, the racer. But last Sunday at the Lakeview Speedway, Phil became the winner of the trophy. Nice going, Phil, but that is driving a little faster than we care to drive. . . . Mac McClure has been on vacation, but whether he spent the time painting or fishing we haven't heard. Perhaps he just rested. . . . Say, did you ever wake up in the night to find one of those insectivorous night flying mammals, commonly known as a bat, flying around in the house? Well, Clem Snell did recently and he says that it isn't very much fun either. They are pretty good at dodging. . . . On a certain cold, rainy Monday morning Eloise Noll decided it would be nice to stay in bed just a little bit longer. Her driver arrived but Eloise was still sound asleep. Yes, the rest of the gang got to work on time but not Eloise. . . . Walt Lister has returned to work after a week's vacation. He reports that the fishing was very good and that he caught his limit. . . . Ed Adler also returned from a week of vacation. We haven't heard where he went or what he did. But from all indications he enjoyed the week. . . . Are they starting a new fad in aviation? Oh, they float through the air with the greatest of ease. What is the matter with those folks down there? Why are they hopping around and acting so funny, haven't they ever seen a plane before? Oh, oh, where did it go? Well, as Earl Mounsey says you don't need the bottom in the plane to fly—you only need the motor, wings and tail. . . . That old proverbial saying of "a stitch in time" became a well-known fact for Herman Lengerich recently. Unable to find a needle and much needed thread Herman discovered that wire would solve the problem. Don't misunderstand us, we don't mean that Herman is intending to open a tailoring shop. Now if you are a "quidnunc" and really want to know what happened, ask Herman. . . . Our best wishes and congratulations go to Leona and Pat Patrick, who celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary on Sept. 16. . . . For those that have been wondering what became of Hez Cochran we are glad to say he is on vacation. We have been told that he is vacationing at the lake. Since the weather has turned so cold we just wonder if he is doing his fishing through the ice. . . . It is rumored that Oscar Teeple had some difficulty escaping from the zoo while spending a week-end in Toledo recently. . . . Move over and make room for another grandmother in the Grandma's Club. Marie York is a recent member to the club. . . . Our sympathies are extended to Charlie Morgan, whose brother died recently, and to Art Dennig upon the death of his mother. . . . Congratulations and best wishes to Doyt Schaad, of the office, and his new bride Phyllis. We wish them many years of wedded bliss. . . . Nellie White returned to work after an extended illness. We wish her the best of health. . . . Hilda Staley is back on the job after battling a bad case of hay fever. Welcome back, Nellie and Hilda. . . . Congratulations are in store for Ardella and Rex Heare upon the arrival of their first tax exemption, and a pink one at that, by the name of Karen Sue. Ardella formerly worked for Mr. Welch. . . . By the time the next issue of the GE NEWS is off the press, the Yankees and Dodgers will be recording another chapter in Work Series history. In spite of all warnings by my son, Lou, the Mosers, the Berrys, et al, here goes my neck in that familiar noose—I predict the Dodgers to win. Come on, you Dodgers!

And now we have something to talk about. It is our men's bowling teams; the nicest thing that has happened in our section in a long time. Those fellows are getting better acquainted and having a lot of fun doing it. Vern Castle thinks he will lose some inches from around his waist. But if bowling really does reduce the waist, we hate to think what it is

TAYLOR ST.

Art Rasor

On Thursday, September 17, three workers from the fabric section were absent from their jobs. It was discovered that they were out riding in Amel Beck's new Dodge. They were seen having a good time, like there was never a worry in the world. They rode side by side; Amel, Charlie Brubaker, and Jess Easterday. . . . It looks like sugar rationing will return. The cafeteria is ruling that in the future you may have not more than two lumps of sugar per person per cup of coffee. As one fellow discovered, sugar can disappear mighty fast, either dissolved or eaten by horses. . . . Bill Von Behren has finished his work in the Wire Sub-Section and has been transferred to the east side of Broadway. He left without his fellow-workers getting a chance to win back some of the cokes he was lucky enough to win. . . . Keith Dickason has left the company to take a full time job at Sears Roebuck and Company. Neither had been working there part time. His fellow workers wish him the best of luck on his new job. . . . For extra-curricular activities Ralph Hoover has been studying chiropractics. But he lacks the patients. So, if anyone comes to work with a stiff neck, lumbago, etc., you had better get Doctor Hoover's advice on getting back into shape. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Best upon the arrival of a 3 lb., 2 oz. baby girl, born Wednesday, September 16. . . . Birthday greetings for the week go to Don Pappert. . . . Paul Patton has left the company to take a job at a San Bernardino newspaper company, and he wishes to thank everyone for the toaster he received as a going-away gift. . . . Everyone is questioning why Eubert Logan is putting an addition on his house at the lake. Do you suppose he is preparing to invite more fellow-workers to the lake next summer? . . . The residents of Cromwell must have given Virgil Howell a rough time at the Cromwell Centennial. After refereeing a wrestling match, I think he was run out of town and was unable to find his way home. . . . A new member of the Birthday Club—Fritz Rudasky. . . . Forrest Mann is leaving today to work at a golf course in Florida. We surely are going to miss that motorcycle. . . . As Al and Mrs. Hambrook were fishing in Wisconsin, a storm forced them to land on an island, keeping them there for six hours. Can you imagine being marooned on an island with your own wife?

going to do to Eldon Vosburgh. . . . It is a good thing that Barbara Houser isn't afraid of mice (or isn't the screaming kind). She might have raised the roof when she found a mouse trap, complete with mouse, in her desk drawer. Of course, it wasn't a real mouse, but if that had been some of us we wouldn't have taken time to find that out. . . . We are glad to see John Magley back at his desk after being bitten by a dog. Johnny was required to take some shots that made him quite sick. . . . Joyce Horstmeyer Meyer, our latest bride, was in to say hello. The young couple are living in southern Indiana, where Jack is going to school. . . . Archie Evans has been absent from work due to flu. That is, I believe, our first case, and we hope that old flu bug stays away from our door this winter. . . . Don't forget our big "Open House." It's a good place to meet old friends.

35-YEAR MAN—Ray Mutton (right) reads a congratulatory letter he received on his 35th GE anniversary to John Neukam and Louis Paluszak. Mr. Mutton is an engine lathe operator in Bldg. 19-5.

What makes America great? Well, for one thing: "America is great because we drag her faults into the open for all to see and criticize and help correct." Said by Blythe Anne Jackson, 15, Litchfield, Minn., winner of a $4000 college scholarship in an essay contest sponsored by a Midwest manufacturer.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Joan Vorndran

Beaming from ear to ear, Shirley Starkel came to work this week flashing a diamond on her third finger left hand. Her only concern was the fact that her sister, Dot Dobler, hadn't worn her sun glasses to ward off the glitter. . . . On the day that broke the low temperature reading for September, Edna Koester got on the wrong bus and increased her walking distance by eight blocks. When she got home, she couldn't understand why her ears had gotten so cold through her head scarf. The answer was a simple one—worrying about the added blocks and how cold she would get, Edna had forgotten to put on the scarf.

Proving it never rains but what it pours, Nurse Berneta Welbaum, making a hurried attempt to get ready to go away for the evening, had to answer several phone calls, ruined a pair of new hose, and then got her finger caught in the fan. Never a dull moment. . . . Vera Sowards probably considered herself very fortunate since she had so many means of getting to work. First of all her husband could take her. And second, her usual ride with Paul Snyder. The first day back to work after the honeymoon, Vera's husband went to work thinking Vera had a ride with Paul; Paul went to work thinking Vera would ride with her husband. Vera had to ride to work in a taxi.

The sudden low temperature brought forth Carole Calkins' new winter dresses, sweaters, and skirts. Paul Snyder tried to add to the factory girls' comfort by supplying them with foot stools to keep their feet off the cold cement. Very helpful, too! . . . Chet McKee has already laid his plans for attending the hockey games this year. Just to make sure he always has dependable transportation, Chet has dug down deep in his savings to become the owner of a new Pontiac.

It was with deep appreciation that Joe Raupher accepted the lovely watch that he received as a gift from his overly generous co-workers.

It will only take $60 to get the relic into perfect working condition. After all, it's the spirit that counts. . . . Vacationers this week were Anita Slusher and Opal Miller. Both had plans for a restful vacation. . . . It's "welcome back" to Russell Gebhart and "welcome" to Pearl Forshea and Beverly Winans. . . . A visitor at the Lemish house is Frank's son, Mike, who pitches for Brooklyn. Mike had an outstanding record this season, winning the last seven consecutive games before losing the final game in the 11th inning. He also pitched a shut-out at Monticello recently. A son to be proud of!

Anybody got a second-hand well for sale? Pete Liebig will be singing "How Dry I Am," if his well at the lake takes one more drop. . . . Filled with confidence for the Yanks, Walter Shady has money that says the Yanks will take the series. If you disagree with his opinion, get your money out and see Walt. . . . Have you noticed that shallow look in Dick Tholen's eyes lately? It isn't the result of illness or overwork; put the blame on his new TV set.

Tool room's Dale McCombs does a perfect imitation of Abe Lincoln. Every available minute of his time is spent clearing the land, getting ready to build his new home. . . . Hearing Heine Mutschler tell of the interesting tales of astronomy has made Gerry Coyne star-conscious. Gerry remarked that she likes to study the stars even if it's a cloudy night. . . . Whenever a problem arises, Carole Calkins always knows who to turn to. Any difficulty is satisfactorily solved by Winter St.'s Dorothy Dix, Mickey Crawford.

The feud between the Ford owners and another car owner is going strong this week. It centers around "Hot-Rod" Smith and his new Chevrolet, and Jay Meichiels, who is still in the Ford class with a new 1953 Mercomatic. . . . We see by the newspaper that Maurice Geary's wife had a new baby. Have you been holding out on the boys, Maurice, and where are the cigars? . . . A new member joined the Floor Sitter's Club recently. None other than Wally Reichter. The next time you better take your feet off the desk before you fall, and you won't be in such an awkward position. . . . Fern Hollowell was so sorry the shoes that Bill Wiffedell bought were too big, and she says they were real pretty, too! . . . Three boys left us Friday to continue their studies at Purdue; namely, Earl Feltz and William Wolf, taking engineering, and Oral Bridges studying agriculture. . . . Rodney Lee is the name of the new arrival at the Dick Bucher home. . . . Ross Hobbs is very love sick. He brings in pickles by the quart, both sweet and sour. They were very good, Ross. . . . We are sorry to hear that Hazel Maxon is in the Methodist hospital. Hope you recover quickly, Hazel, and also that you will be as good as new. . . . We hope to see Malinda Beerman back soon. Malinda has been off work with the flu for some time. . . . Poor Lorinda Byerlien had a nightmare the other night. All she could see were YB2 coils dancing around. . . . Mildred Gaffer is really tired these days. She is moving from one side of the street to the other. . . . Augusta Gallmeier better check her sacks after this. When she opened her lunch all she had was a dirty apron. . . . We are glad Pat Gardner is in town. She will be coming back to work soon. . . . Congratulations to Emma Bultemeier, who celebrated her birthday the 18th. . . . Mildred Green thought she lost her two young sons last Sunday, but they had just gone to two shows instead of one. . . . Luella Murrah is recovering and is out of the hospital. . . . Poor Mary LeCoque better get to a dentist. I'd say it was about time after having a toothache for three weeks. . . . The Bob Blochers were getting ready to go away for the day and Pauline had the baby all ready and laid him in on the bed. Then they proceeded to load all their stuff in the car and were ready to leave when the friend they were going with asked them who was taking care of the baby. There was the little tyke left on the bed just waiting to go someplace. . . . The girls said they got quite a thrill riding on the bus that is telling all about the GE's 75th birthday. . . . We wonder if Lee and Everett Lindeman were having trouble with that new Packard or if they were just admiring the motor? . . . Mildred Carpenter is on her third week's vacation this week and so is Maude Erhardt. Maude is on a trip through the Smokey Mountains. . . . Howard Hubbard decided that he was too far away from his singing engagement, so he has moved back to town. . . . Birthday greetings to Edgar Ort, September 24; to Paul Arnold, September 26, and to Harley Heckley, September 28. . . . Paul Arnold is looking for some brother laborers to help on his new house. That is free labor! . . . Moe Moffitt has a 4-cent first mortgage on Sam Warren's car and he is wondering if he made a bad investment?

Claude Summers Nominated for VP Position in AIEE

Claude M. Summers, manager of the Fort Wayne laboratory, has been nominated for the position of vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, fifth district. He received the nomination at the annual directors meeting in Chicago earlier this month.

The nomination is unopposed. Election will take place in April next year and the new officers will assume their duties Aug. 1, 1954.

The fifth district is comprised of sections and student branches in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

Dial E-7431 After Oct. 1

Beginning Thursday, Oct. 1, the General Electric telephone number will be E-7431, Robert Wylie, manager of contributing manufacturing section, General AC Motor Department, announced this week, in reminding employees and citizens of the change.

The new number, which will replace our present one, will provide better service to the community in dialing GE.

GE Again to Help Sponsor Baking and Recipe Contest

The General Electric Company has announced that it will join with Pillsbury Mills in promoting Pillsbury's Fifth Grand National baking and recipe contest.

The contest, similar to those held for the last four years, will be climaxed with a bake-off on General Electric ranges at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York on December 14.

The 100 participants in the bake-off—80 adult and 20 junior homemakers—will be chosen on the basis of recipes they enter in the contest.

Winners will be awarded a total of 558 prizes worth $100,000, plus more than $53,000 in General Electric appliances.

To qualify for the GE bonus prizes, given in addition to the cash awards offered by Pillsbury, contestants must obtain a registration blank at a General Electric appliance dealer's store. All such entries must be postmarked not later than October 15.

Each of the 100 recipe contest winners will receive an expense-paid trip to New York City for the bake-off, a two-day stay at the Waldorf-Astoria, and a $100 cash prize.

Each also will receive a GE Stratoliner range and a GE mixed as used in the December 14 bake-off.

The first prize winner in the senior baking contest will receive $25,000. Other top cash awards will be $7,500 and $2,500 for the second and third place senior winners, respectively; $3,000, $2,000, and $1,000 for the first three winners, respectively, in the junior contest, and $1,000 "best of class" awards in each of four divisions. The divisions are breads and main dishes, cakes, pies and desserts, and cookies.

General Electric bonus prizes will include a two-door 11-cubic foot refrigerator-freezer to the top senior winner; an 11-cubic-foot upright freezer to the second-place senior, and a deluxe automatic clothes washer to the third-place senior.

Also, a deluxe wringer washer will be awarded to each of the four best-of-class winners and an automatic dishwasher to the junior first-place winner.

experimentation with refrigeration units which contained a motor and compressor sealed together inside of a metal shell. After 10 years of work and several millions of dollars, practical hermetic refrigeration became a reality and by 1925, General Electric had "monitor" top refrigerators on the market—a product that offered superior service and performance at less cost to the consumer.

Since that day, "belt drive" refrigeration has ceased to exist in the home market and our unique hermetic motor parts have been copied by 100 per cent by all present day manufacturers of compressors.

Along the way the Hermetic Motor Department has developed many other firsts, among them the first use of Formex insulation, the first use of welded stator core construction, the first use of cast aluminum rotors, the first use of oxidized surfaces. These combined with the invention of the hermetic motor itself make quite an impressive story for this department. Today nearly all manufacturers of hermetic motors are these principles first developed by GE.

During the tour, in addition to seeing motors built in air-conditioned factories with air cleaner than the average home, our visitors will see first hand our people performing operations that have helped make GE famous.

The outgrowth of the vast years of refrigerator motor experience has allowed GE to become the major supplier of hermetic motors to a tremendous industry—an industry that now includes home freezers, room air-conditioners, central air-conditioners, ice making machines, walk-in freezers, meat cases, vending machines, candy case coolers, water coolers, and many others.

Registration Open For Art School

Registration for classes at the Fort Wayne Art School will begin this Saturday, September 26, for Saturday classes. School will be open for registration from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Night school registration will be held October 1, from 7 to 9 p.m. The school is open to children in the first through 12th grades. The Art School is located at 1026 W. Berry.

History Highlights

of Fort Wayne General Electric

Mr. Slattery and His Electrically Driven Tricycle

At the time that the Fort Wayne Electric Corporation moved to a site on the east side of Broadway in 1886, an electrician from Massachusetts, M.M. "Duke" Slattery, was at work in the field of incandescent lighting. He "joined issues" with the company through the efforts of its far-sighted head, R. T. McDonald. Not long after the easterner came to Fort Wayne, the Slattery Alternating Incandescent Lighting System grew from his work. It consisted of dynamos, transformers, and auxiliary apparatus. In 1888, it was widely advertised as "The most carefully worked out and complete alternating system of electric lighting in existence."

After the success of this system, its developer turned to experimenting with storage batteries, and the factory became fully equipped to manufacture these batteries. Great excitement was created in the city when the first storage battery car was operated on the West Jefferson St. short line.

ECHOES from 19-2 Fred McIntyre

Congratulations to Luella Eisberg, formerly of Bldg. 19-2, who now has a new baby boy to occupy her spare time at home. . . Shirley Cunningham has a new grandson. . . Ada Phillips' mother has left the hospital and has been returned to her home. We hope she is well on the road to recovery. . . Al Johnson, who is usually on hand the opening night of the bowling season, was not around this year. He has been sidelined by an attack of lumbago.

Chester is now stationed at a Naval Air base in Japan and James is stationed at Long Beach, Calif., having returned from Korea aboard the U. S. S. Endicott. Both are former employees of Bldg. 19-2 and Jim is the son of Vi Trammel, also of Bldg. 19-2. . . It's bowling time again and we are hoping to hear of some perfect scores, but better take your first games easy so you'll be able to work. . . Carl Beber celebrated his birthday recently. It was just one coke after another when his friends found out about his birthday. . . Emmett Zollinger recently went to Chicago on business for the company. He reports a very enjoyable time. . . The gals are really getting fashion-minded. Attending the fashion show at the Coliseum were: Eileen Gault, Cecile Hinton, Nellie Parr and daughter, Violet Trammel. Clothes will probably be the main topic of conversation for a while. . . Whoever left the cabbage, rice, meat, and sauerkraut on Nellie's bench really knew what they were doing. Nellie took the hint and the girls had cabbage rolls the next day for potluck. You don't have to be smart, just hungry enough to be ingenious.

Chester and Jim

CENTRAL STANDARD TIME

Tomorrow Fort Wayne citizens will set their clocks back one hour to Central Standard Time. Daylight Saving Time ends officially at midnight, Saturday, Sept. 26.

The Fort Wayne plants, however will not change their clocks until midnight, Sunday, Sept. 27.

ON 30TH ANNIVERSARY—Edgar Ort (right) recently completed 30 years as a General Electric employee. Congratulating him are Glenn Castle and Victor Jacobs. Mr. Ort came to GE in 1923 and is now a group leader in Bldg. 4-4.

PREPARING FOR OPEN HOUSE—Roland E. Kohl and Henry A. Smith, of the Fort Wayne Laboratory, prepare one of the displays to be used in the Lab exhibit for the October 15 Open House. This exhibit will be housed in the large display tent to be set up near the Broadway west side gate.

VALUABLE SPECTACLE—Del Stickler, Bldg. 19-5, considers his safety glasses pretty valuable property, especially after they saved his sight last week. Del shows the glass lens which was shattered when a tool bit broke while he was undercutting a mold and hit the left lens. He holds the piece of metal which broke off in his right hand.

SEEING DOUBLE—was the experience Richard E. Double, Bldg. 26-1, had this week when his wife had twins at St. Joseph's Hospital. The twins, Howard Arthur and Patricia Ann, at three days give a sleepy greeting from the arms of Nancy Knight and Carol Kiep. Howard and Patricia arrived a little early for GE's Baby Derby which is being conducted in connection with the 75th anniversary. Babies born to employees on Oct. 15 will receive 5 shares of GE common stock.

Every Week is Fire Prevention Week

The observance of Fire Prevention Week will take place from Oct. 4 to 10, but every week is "fire prevention week" at the Fort Wayne plants. For constant vigilance is the watchword of the plant protection section here, as every effort is exerted in keeping down disastrous industrial blazes. GE firemen daily make the rounds of various equipment locations throughout the plants, checking, inspecting and otherwise keeping in tip-top condition the countless pieces of fire-fighting apparatus throughout the plant.

Fire extinguishers designed for specific types of fires, such as oil, flammable liquid, electrical and rubbish, are conveniently located and clearly indicated in all buildings. Employees, in order to be of greatest help in emergencies, are urged to familiarize themselves with the proper use of each type.

Plant Protection men here also maintain continued inspection for potential fire-traps and hazards, and in this manner are able to eliminate the cause of a blaze before it has a chance to start.

Each year fires cost American industries almost $200 million in property alone, not to mention indirect losses affecting employment, buying power, credit ratings, contract cancellations and interruption of production.

During the next 24 hours, the chances are that fire will take 30 lives—and destroy $2,000,000 worth of property, and that will happen during every ensuing day and night, if fire waste continues at the present rate.

Fire Prevention Week has been an annual event since 1920 when President Woodrow Wilson issued the first Presidential proclamation authorizing it. It has only one purpose—to show us the simple precautions that will prevent most fires. To achieve that goal, thousands of experts contribute freely of their knowledge, time and energy. Nothing is left undone that might serve the cause. Practically every American, unless he be a hermit in the hills, has the chance to gain knowledge that may save his life, his home, his job.

Ideas Unlimited

American industry depends a great deal on highly-trained engineers, scientists, and inventors to develop the machines and methods that make our nation so highly productive.

Giving these experts all the credit that is due them, it is a fact that many of these machines and processes are made to work more efficiently and economically because of the alertness of the men who man the machine. There can be "bugs" in any man-made creation and very often it is the people who work with machines day after day who hit on the ways to remove the bugs.

Ideas are not limited to those who have had special technical training. And industry does not, generally, limit its acceptance of ideas—it welcomes ideas from any source. If you have an idea, make it known.

FOREMEN SLATE ANNUAL LADIES NIGHT

Annual Dinner Event to Be Held Oct. 7 in Chamber of Commerce

Honoring the ladies, members of the Foremen's Association have scheduled their annual Ladies' Night party for Wednesday, Oct. 7, at the Chamber of Commerce, Leonard G. Reuss, president, announced this week.

Tickets are available from contact men for $3.00 per couple. Single tickets may be secured for $1.50. This is the only social event of the club year and the only one where the ladies are invited.

Fund Solicitors Meet to Plan 1953 Campaign

Meetings of solicitors for the GE Employees Community Services Fund drive Oct. 12 have been set for Thursday and Friday, Oct. 8 and 9, it was announced by Wallace E. Beer, general chairman of the 1953 campaign.

The solicitors are being named this week by employee relations managers in each department. Being held in conjunction with the city's United Fund drive, the plant solicitation includes contacting only non-members to give them the opportunity to join the employee organization.

At the meetings of the newly-named solicitors they will be given pledge cards and information about the services fund.

The pledge cards will be given those who wish to become members. In signing up, employees may designate whether they wish to contribute weekly or in one lump sum. Deductions from paychecks are made by the payroll sections for those contributing.

Through this organization, members contribute to 27 Allen County agencies which make an important contribution to the health, welfare, and recreation in the city and county.

The 27 agencies are: American Red Cross, Fort Wayne-Alton County Chapter, Allen County Cancer Society, Allen County Community Chest, Allen County League for the Blind, Allen County Society for Crippled Children and Adults (Easter Seals), Associated Catholic Charities St. Vincent's Villa.

Others are: Boy Scouts Chil-

Beginning at 6:30 p.m., the meeting will get under way with a buffet supper. Each lady attending will receive a favor and attendance prizes will be awarded.

Irene Meyers, supervisor of women's activities, will be the guest speaker. She will discuss the European Tour taken this summer by Elex Club members and friends.

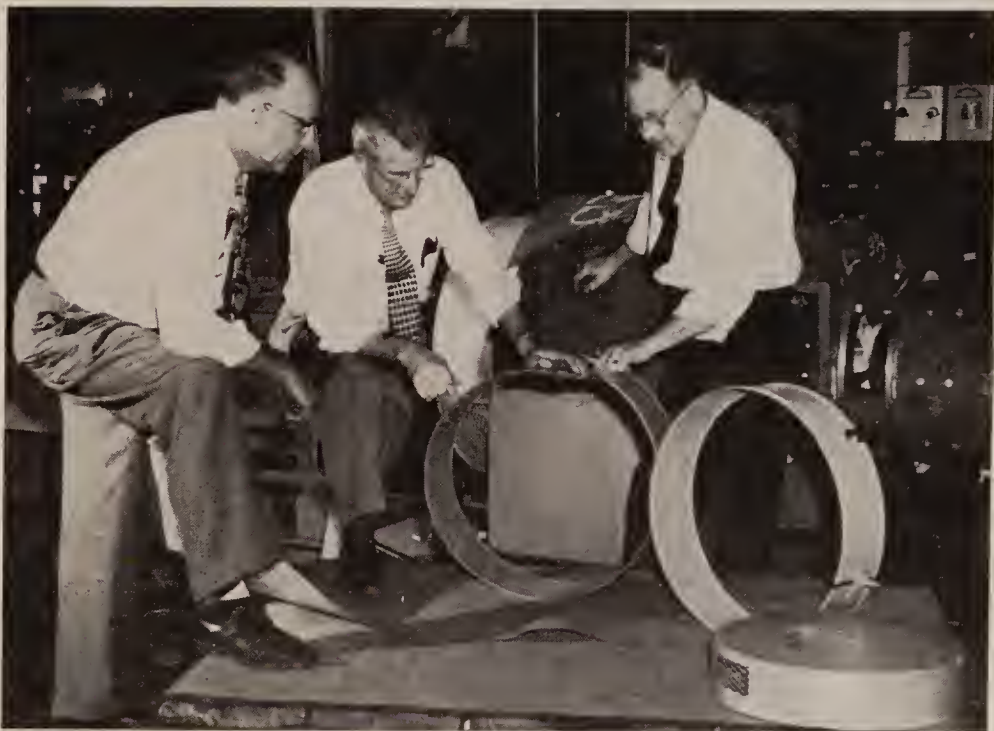

Providing musical entertainment will be the Sentimental Four quartet, of which Duane Schele, Bldg. 19-5, is a member. Dinner music by Mrs. Marie Rodman, pianist, has also been slated.

Outgoing officers of the Elex Club have been invited to the meeting also.

William L. Paulson, Bldg. 19-4, is serving as general chairman of the event. Assisting him are L. Wilmer LaVine, Bldg. 4-5, and C. W. Hale, Bldg. 19-1. Other members in charge of various arrangements are: H. W. Nickels, Bldg. 10-1, and K. M. Hyman, Bldg. 17-2, favors; Paul K. Hapner, Bldg. 6-2, announcements; Mr. LaVine, flowers and Mr. Reuss, attendance prizes.

More are: Polio Services, Public Health Nursing Services, Rescue Home and Mission, Salvation Army Social Planning Council, Westside Neighborhood Center, YMCA, YWCA, American Hearing Society, National Probation and Parole Association, Mental Health Services, Medical and Dental Services.

Motor and Generator Open House Visitors To See Large Manufacturing Equipment

On the Direct Current Motor and Generator Department tour Oct. 15, visitors will witness the manufacture of equipment which is instrumental in producing the high standard of living in the United States today.

Guests taking this Open House tour will see finished Motor and Generator products and their many applications, as well as observing the products in various stages of manufacture and in the test area.

Members of the committee in charge are making plans so that the tour will be as interesting and informative as possible.

Starts in Bldg. 22

After entering the Broadway west gate, visitors will find the start of the M and G tour at Bldg. 22. Here they will see the latest techniques in cutting heavy steel plate by oxygen, gas metal cutting equipment, and frame rolling equipment.

Leaving Bldg. 22, tourists will proceed along the non-escorted route following direction markers to the east entrance of Bldg. 27. Observed here are the heavy machining, punch press, sleeve bearing babbitting, light machining, bearing finishing, horizontal boring mill, and bearing assembly sections.

Proceeding into Bldg. 19, the guests will have a view of AC motor and generator rotor assemblies and the rotor treating oven. Along the route, guides will be posted at convenient intervals to answer any questions and explain phases of M and G manufacture.

Assembly and Test

Moving through Bldg. 19-1, members of the community will see Manufacturing phases that will be stages of assembly and test. Many different types of machines will be featured in the testing process to give guests an idea of the diversity of this department's products.

Concluding at the southeast entrance of Bldg. 19, the tour will leave the visitors free to proceed to the main Open House entrance to take other tours.

The tour committee has planned events so that visitors will obtain a better understanding of the many special processes and equipment that are used in the manufacture of DC motor and generator products.

Wilhelmina Beeth

Congratulations to our new button poppin' grandma, Dolly Cox. She went to Hillsdale, Mich., to see her new granddaughter and reports that she is just a doll. . . .

We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Verna Kohart and Lucille Allen. . . . Ellen Dittlinger would like some expert information on how to train dogs. Someone dropped an overgrown puppy at her house. She wasn't so happy when he tore her clothes off the line. If she comes to work slightly tattered, let's blame it on the dog. . . . We are very glad to see Florence Miller and Luella Koche ringing in their clock cards again. Both are back to work after extended leaves. . . . We bid farewell to Doris Hixon, who has spread the welcome mat for Mr. Stork. . . . Louis Hoffman came to work with his arm in a sling. It was from shoveling dirt (so he says). . . . Fireplaces don't need chimneys now, so Erma Hiatt tells us. She built one of her own ingenuity. What happens to the smoke? Your guess is as good as mine. . . . From the way Pauline Kirchner screeched the other day, we don't believe she likes those four-legged animals known as mice. . . . Walter Kryder can see around the corners now. He has new specs. . . . Bob George tried to slip past Eva Tucker and have a free breakfast, but Eva caught up with him.

1953 TAB DAY—Marching to the flag raising at TAB Day conducted at Municipal Beach last Saturday are some of the 375 members of test, apprentice, and business training programs and GE management who attended the annual event.

OPEN HOUSE BUS ROUTE—Special Fort Wayne Transit Co. buses will operate on a circle loop of the Broadway Plant during the 75th Anniversary Open House, October 15, for Community Day, and also on October 14 for employees. Busses will run continuously in both directions around the old Belt Line loop. There will be two moving in each direction to pick up guests and deposit them at the Broadway entrance. On October 14, the buses will be in operation from 12:15 to 10:45 p.m. and from 4:15 to 10:45 p.m. on October 15.

Laboratory Plans Unique Display for Open House

One of the highlights of the exhibits to be housed under the large tent which will be set up near the Broadway west side gate for the Oct. 15 Open House will be the Fort Wayne laboratory display.

Showing science in action in a unique way, the three booths featuring the laboratory will have eye-catching devices performing interesting feats along with exhibits of other little-known aspects of lab work. The entire display will present an all-over idea of the roll that GE laboratory plays in industry and living.

Illustrating the three divisions of lab work, three booths will display the work in metallurgical-welding, chemical-insulation, and electrical-mechanical.

In the metallurgical-welding booth, atomic models of metals showing how they combine to form their final shape will be shown tourists pointing out that such structures as this afford an insight in explaining the physical properties of metals and alloys. The atomic structure has never been seen by the naked eye.

A simplified illustration of the application of magnetic fields that visitors will see is a device that will show two colored ping pong balls being rotated without any visible means of support. This field is one of the basic principles of fractional horsepower motors.

A replica of a Cobalt 60 capsule, which is about one inch long and has 10,000 times more penetration power than X-ray units used in medical applications will be shown.

Recent products of chemical research which help to make better GE products will be shown in the chemical-insulation booth. Among these will be nylon, nycam, Mylar, glass fiber, and silicone. A demonstration will be set up to show how distilled water is purified to produce high-purity water for precise analytical work.

A motor running under water will be included along with typical instruments used in the evaluation of paints.

A unique demonstration, using mothballs as a moving element, will illustrate a chemical reaction in motion.

The high lights of the Electrical-Mechanical Exhibit will include displays of the instrumentation used in the development of Fort Wayne Products. Such displays will include Radio Noise, Audio Noise, Magnetic, and Insulation Testing Equipment.

Members of the committee in charge of the exhibit are Henry A. Smith, chairman; Roland E. Kohl, George R. Hemmeter, Glen D. Seabold, and Marshall H. Dole.

Salvage, Oil House Operations Are Decentralized This Week

Service Eng'ing Operation Set Up At Morrison Plant

Establishment of a new service engineering operation at the Morrison Plant has been announced by R. P. Cheesman, manager service engineering for the Component Products Division.

In keeping with the trend of decentralized activity, the location of a representative of Service Engineering close to the operating functions of the Product Department will permit prompt effective full time attention to the problems of the product line, Mr. Cheesman said.

D. R. Jennings will be the representative of service engineering at the new location.

A part of the Apparatus Sales Division, service engineering provides the coordination between the product department and the dis-

Salvage operations and oil house operations have been decentralized, Robert Wylie, manager of contributing manufacturing section, General AC Motor Department, announced this week.

Effective Sept. 28, salvage operations for the Broadway plant were transferred to the Specialty Motor Department and similar operations at Taylor St. assigned to GAC.

Similarly, oil house operations at Broadway have been assigned to Specialty Motor and Taylor St. oil house activities are now responsible to GAC.

All machine tool purchasing was also decentralized this week and has been transferred to each of the product departments, Mr. Wylie reported.

strict sales office engineers in connection with engineering service to customers. Mr. Jennings will serve both the Appliance Control Department at Morrison and the Electric Sink and Laundry Department at DeKalb.

TALES from TAYLOR SUB-SECTION 13 TAYLOR ST.

Harry Parker

During the past week the Bluffton Street Fair drew the attention of quite a number of our co-workers. For instance there was Ivan Hammond, who diligently fried hamburgers for the hungry mobs until the wee small hours. This made it very difficult for him to get up in the mornings; he was late several times. We cannot vouch for the quality of his burgers but some of the boys reported that he sure served them up paper thin. Another one of the faithful each year is Lawrence Garton, whose job it is to control traffic. He certainly does a masterful job in keeping the heavy traffic moving smoothly, and at the same time bossing all of the parking lot attendants. Lawrence surely makes an impressive spectacle standing in the middle of the main drag waving his arms and wearing that dirty red cap he has worn while at work for the past five years. . . . DURING THE EARLY SUMMER Art Brandenburg was worried about how to keep the varmints (two legged and otherwise) out of his strawberry patch. Someone told him to get a flock of geese and turn them loose in the patch, thereby eliminating all intruders. So, this is just what he has done. An order has gone forward for a flock of young geese to be delivered early next spring. Now that this has been done he has begun to worry about the raccoons eating up his geese. Our only solution to this is to get several of those "Have-a-Heart" traps, capture them, and make pets of them. . . . A NEW BUSINESS establishment has been launched to be known as Eastes' and Harold's Pork Raisers and Buyer's Inc.; the incorporators being Lindsey Eastes, Howard Harold, and George Schoeph. Howard will be the field man, making all purchases. Lindsey will do all of the weighing in, while George will make all pick-ups, taking all of the porkers into a central point (yet to be announced) where they will be fattened up for the market. Also, their plans call for entering the pork packing business, but this will not be in the immediate future.

SPECIALTY MOTORS Shipping—Receiving—Order Service Eileen Fitch

Last Friday, when Katie Minehart arrived at work, setting on her desk was a box wrapped and tied with ribbon and bows, with a birthday card attached. Katie had little trouble getting the wrapping paper and the ribbon off, but after that, it was a struggle. The box was taped well enough to pass export shipping requirements. Finally, with the aid of a file, she got the box opened only to discover another box within and sealed just as securely as the first box. After another 10 minute struggle, Katie finally succeeded in getting to the present, a coconut candy bar! . . . Happy birthday wishes to Fred Wheeler and Ralph Heminger. . . . Hugo Herbst went to the Bluffton Street Fair, and he was seen being led past certain concessions and side shows. Now, one of his coat sleeves is longer than the other one. . . . WHAT A FISHERMAN: Tom Dent went out to get into his boat at Lake George, found out he forgot the oars, went back to the cottage to get the oars, then back to the boat again; discovered he forgot the bait, so back to the cottage after the bait, then back once more to the boat. We sure hope you won't forget to pull the fish in when they bite on your hook, Tom. . . . If anybody has an extra city map and a compass, Ed David certainly could make use of them. Ed, Tom Dent, and Herman Ebel were out in the Lakeside area, Tom was driving and Ed was directing him back to the plant. His directions were somewhat in error and they ended up outside the city limits. Then Herman and Tom took over and they found their way back.

Voyce Brumbaugh Pilots Elex for 1953-54 Year

Voyce Brumbaugh, Taylor St., has been elected president of Elex Club for the 1953-54 year. Other newly elected officers are: Florence Hargan, Taylor St., first vice-president; Mary Zirkle, Bldg. 17-3, second vice-president; Leola Johnson, Bldg. 18-1, secretary; Mary Harper, Bldg. 4-6, director for two-year term; Mary Olson and Marguerite Schnieders, Taylor St., directors; Floetta Zartman Bldg. 17-3, and Virginia Buhr, Bldg. 26-2, trustees.

To Install Sunday

The new officers will be installed at the YWCA Sunday, Oct. 11. Kenneth W. Michael will be in charge of the installation ceremony. Reservations for the installation tea, which will be from 4 to 6 p.m., should be secured by Oct. 8 for 50 cents per person. This is the first year that this ceremony has been in the afternoon. It has been set up at this time so that second shift members may attend.

Reservations for the fall conference, "New Horizons", are due Monday, Oct. 5. Elex and Partizan Chapter members who wish to attend the two-day meeting of women's clubs from the branch plants and Fort Wayne should complete payment on their reservations by Oct. 12. Price of the two days is ten dollars. The conference will be conducted at the Van Orman Hotel.

Purdue Glee Club

Monday, Oct. 12 Elex will have the Purdue University Glee Club at its opening meeting of the club year. The GE Club will be the site of the dinner meeting beginning at 4:45 p.m.

Reservations for this meeting are due Oct. 8 also and tickets are $1.25 per person. This meeting is open only to Elex members.

Company Announces New Iron Models

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—Two new electric irons have been announced by the General Electric Company's housewares department.

One is a steam-and-dry iron which can be used with tap water in all but extremely hard water areas, and the other is the Visualizer, a lightweight automatic iron. Both new models feature modernized design, larger soleplates and lighter weight. Fabric selector dials, conveniently located on the handles of the new models, have been modernized to include a setting for the man-made fibers so widely used in fabrics.

According to company officials, the larger soleplates and lighter weight of the two new irons are especially designed to make ironing easier and less time-consuming.

AIEE Conference Here Gets Underway Tuesday

Tuesday, Oct. 6, a special conference sponsored by the Fort Wayne section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will get under way at the Van Orman Hotel.

Those who have not made reservations and wish to do so should contact Jim Walley, Taylor St., Ext. 2857. Concluding Thursday, Oct. 8, the conference will be attended by engineers from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana. James H. Capps, Bldg. 4-6, is general chairman.

Advisors for the three-day meeting include three employees: M. L. Schmidt, W. W. Warner, and M. L. Miller.

In addition to Mr. Capps, the committee in charge of arrangements consists of: M. J. Carroccio, publicity; D. D. Hershberger, finance; Sol London, arrangements; P. O. Noble, program, and Mr. Walley, registration and reservations.

Highlights of the program include the presentation of 22 technical papers on the application of motors to air moving equipment, a symposium on induction motors and discussions covering motor protection and Underwriters and Armed Forces requirements.

The convention has as its purpose to deal intimately with the particular problems of a segment or field of industry.

Squares Wives Reveal Plans For Halloween Party

The Squares Hall will be the scene of a Halloween Party planned by the by the Squares Wives organization for Saturday, Oct. 10 it was announced by Mrs. Stan Antalis, chairman of the event.

The ladies will entertain the GE Squares Club members with fun-packed, varied program, including a floor show and side shows.

The social meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. Tickets may be secured for 50 cents per couple.

Decorations carrying out the theme have been planned and refreshments will be served.

Assisting the chairman with arrangements for the informal event is Mrs. John C. Willsey. The ways and means committee of the Squares Wives is in charge of this meeting.

GE ON RADIO AND TV

Bing Crosby Returns to Radio

Bing Crosby began his second season under the sponsorship of the General Electric Company, Sunday, September 27, when he returned to the CBS radio network in the 7 to 7:30 p.m. (CST) time period, a change from his Thursday night show of last year. The format of the program follows basically the same formula that the crooner has found so successful in the past . . . a casual, relaxed half-hour of light-hearted banter between Crosby and his long-time radio crony, Ken Carpenter and, of course, a generous exercising of the most widely known set of vocal cords since Demosthenes. Bing also plans to entertain a "name" guest star each week.

One unique aspect of this season's program, however, will be the sponsor's message which will represent a new twist in radio advertising. Instead of using the show as a medium to promote the sale of its products, General Electric has undertaken to give the American public an insight into the operations of our business system, and to explain just how and why our economy operates the way it does. According to GE, the program is intended to help fill a long-felt and vital need for better public understanding of our country's economic make-up.

Meet Mrs. McNutley

When Ray Milland, as Professor McNutley in the General Electric Comedy Theatre series, "Meet Mr. McNutley," becomes embroiled in his comedy complications, it's his lovely wife "Peggy" who brings order out of chaos. A professor's wife has to know the answers that aren't in the books, and that's where Phyllis Avery shines. The series is telecast Thursdays, 9 p.m. CST over WKZO-TV.

Phyllis Avery

In private life, Miss Avery is Mrs. Don Taylor, wife of a motion picture star, and the mother of two little girls.

Miss Avery also plays the part of Ray Milland's wife "Peggy" on the radio version of the comedy heard Thursdays at 8 p.m. CST on CBS.

Fred Waring Show Back on TV

Fred Waring began his fifth television year Sunday evening, September 27, when he returned to the CBS-TV network in his traditional 8 to 8:30 p.m. (CST) time period. Waring and his Pennsylvanians will perform under a somewhat revised format this season. The show's production staff met frequently during the summer at Fred Waring's home in Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pennsylvania, to work out several new features and to organize the new show structure. In order to better demonstrate the musical perfection for which the Waring group has become so famous over the years the new program will tend to play down dancing and excess movement and place greater emphasis on vocal and orchestral arrangements.

Another new aspect of this year's program will be the admission of a studio audience for the first time in three years. According to Waring, the enthusiasm exhibited by audiences during a recent 18,000 mile transcontinental concert tour convinced him that a "live" audience would greatly enhance the vitality of his TV program.

General Electric is also instituting something of a new experiment in its television plans this season. In order to broaden the appeal of its TV fare to satisfy a greater variety of tastes, the company plans to present on an alternating basis with The Fred Waring Show, a number of half-hour dramas, filmed in Hollywood for GE. According to present plans there will be 17 such plays and 21 Fred Waring programs presented during the coming season.

These lovely members of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians sing a song of farewell to a pleasant vacation. They'll substitute bright studio lights for bathing beach sunshine when they return to the CBS-TV network on The Fred Waring Show on Sunday, from 8 to 8:30 p.m. (CST).

'I Married Joan' In Second Year

Irrepressible Joan Davis, who has proven during her first year on television that glamour and gags make a fine entertainment mixture, starts the second year of her "I Married Joan" show October 18, NBC-TV, at 6 p.m., (CST) over WKZO-TV.

The first of the new series, titled "Brad's Mustache," follows the clever comedy pattern the program has maintained in reaching a solid Hooper rating, that of wrapping hilarious humor around an ordinary situation which might take place in any American home.

In June, 1945, the "Joan Davis Show" went on the air, to win for her various honors such as a movie magazine award as "No. 1 Radio and Screen Comedienne;" Coronet Magazine's choice as "The One Woman Mirthquake;" "First Lady of Laughter," bestowed by 317 college newspapers and the happy-sounding title, "The Girl I'd Most Like To Have A Laugh With," handed to her by American GI's of World War II.

The Major Appliance Division of the General Electric Company, Louisville, Ky., sponsors the program.

Sleuthing in 4-6 by Al Happel

"FLASH!" A free demonstration of flash bulbs was given in the Employee Store at the "expense" of Lela Ompach. It seems Lela was losing a lot of film because the flashes weren't going off right, so she returned the remainder of her purchases and filed a complaint. Very obligingly the clerk tried testing, and one by one found them all to be perfect (that is, they were before he tested them). Then came the "light"! The testing was proving loss instead of gain. It was, however, an illuminating experience. Lesson relearned by Lela was the "old proverb": You can't have your cake and eat it, too. . . . A BIG TURN-OVER has occurred in the Marketing Section's roster since this lethargic reporter has made with the pencil. . . . New faces include Harvey Anderson and Bob Ryan in Bob Groot's group; John Dufley and Shirley Woullie in Johnny Johnson's group; Johnny Reuille has transferred from Engineering to Fred Wilson's group where Bob Hess has gone off test. . . . TODAY is farewell to Mrs. Arlene Dellinger, a veteran of eight years in renewal parts, who is retiring to take full charge of the home front. Good luck, Arlene. Replacing her is Joan Traxler, who is an ediphone room alumnus. . . . TEST MEN now staging three month stands in Marketing are Jerry Friant, a Scotch-Irish-German with a French name from the Yankee side of West Virginia, and Ken Frankenstein, who claims no relation to another well known "test man." . . . BEST WISHES to Gene Frey, until recently a proposition engineer for shaded pole motors, who is recuperating at his home from an operation. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Clark Stevens, Oct. 6; Paul Lange, Thursday, Oct. 8. . . . Speaking of birthdays, Ted Ross was completely "bowled over" last Monday—what with the delicious "Sweet Story" cake presented to him by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Connor, and approximately 100 birthday cards, along with a special song by the famous "Berkheiser-VonGuten" duet dedicated to Mr. Ross, ending with the gang singing "Happy Birthday." . . . COMING AND GOING TODAY: We bid farewell to Clarence Bode and Eugene Beeler, both finishing their assignments in Specialty Motor Engineering. Our new TE's are: Steve Devich, married, and from the University of Minnesota. His home town is Buhl, Minn. This is his second test, having spent his first at L. & C. E., Erie. Steve can be found in Max Barrow's group. Marvin Simonson, age 23, single, from Gonzaga U., Spokane, Wash. Marv reports to John Willsey. This is his second test, having been previously located at Erie. His home town is Otis Orchards, Wash. Last but not least, is Harold Winderl, also single and from the same college as Marv Simonson, but his home town is Richland, Montana. Harold is a member of Max Barrow's group. This is his second test coming from L. & C. E., Erie. . . . WHO GOT THE BIRDIE? Rumors have it that Paul Deal's secretary was asked to add a new task to her present assignment. Paul rushed out of his office, "Lura, get that bird out of my office!" Flitting about in the light fixtures was a frightened, lost, and perfectly harmless little parakeet. How it ever got in with the sealed windows, no one knows. How it ever got out—no one knows—it remains a mystery. The worried Paul didn't know how polite his little feathered friend would be to his out-of-town visitors. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Cliff Denney. . . . SATURDAY, the third of October at 9:30 o'clock Miss Carolyn A. Kohrman will become the bride of Mr. Raymond E. Krider at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, 4500 Fairfield Avenue, Fort Wayne. A reception will take place from 6 until 9 at St. Nicholas Hall. . . . THE RECENT MARRIAGE of Clara Steele to Max Mygrant has caused a lot of commotion down Bluffton way. Since Max is a truck driver, his working hours are very irregular, and poor Clarie doesn't know whether he is coming or going. Within a period of three weeks, Max has managed to get to bed by crawling in a window one night and waking all the neighbors with the phone other nights. Does he have his ticket to Reno yet, Clarie? . . . GINNY PRICE has returned from her trip to Yellowstone Park. Thanks for the cards, Ginny. Geneva Buckmaster's card was received two days after Ginny's return. How did the postman know it was for Fort Wayne, it didn't say so. The question now is what happened to Art Westenfeld's card. She claims she sent him one too. . . . THE DEV. DRAFTING DEPT. would like to thank Herb Osborne for treating us to a box of candy on his birthday last Friday. . . . Chris Flanigan also enjoyed the treat. We considered why Chris didn't treat us on his birthday this month, but his excuse was that it fell on a Saturday. That's no excuse, Chris, we'll enjoy a belated treat just as well. . . . HAS ANYONE NO-TICED Karl Feiertag's new crew cut. It looks like he got his head caught in an electric lawnmower and forgot how to shut it off. His reason for getting it now is if he waits any longer, no hair. . . . WELCOME to Bob Guiler who hails from our very own state of Indiana—town of Terre Haute. Bob was graduated from Rose Polytechnic this year. He is working in C. J. Herman's group. . . . Deepest sympathy to Leon Diegel during his recent sorrow. . . . WE WISH a speedy recovery to Jean Stokke.

TOOL BITS BLDG. 19-4 and 5 Don Clark

Jim Duff anticipated a royal time last week-end when he took a group of Boy Scouts to Twin Lakes. It was fun, but playing "prisoner hase" and "capture the fort" left him in an exhausted condition on Sunday evening. . . . Carl Schlenker says it's too crowded in Brown County for him. He also visited his son and daughter at Indiana University and had quite a time getting around on the roller coaster roads in that area. Zook and welcome to Jerry Gibb. . . . We say good luck to Glenn son in the office. . . . Ed Stahl is all set now. He had his TV set in tune for the World Series. Wonder if he has a snow shovel, too. . . . Dallas Kees would like to know how his new convertible runs. It has been in the garage so much he really doesn't know. . . . Glenn Hoon is too an expert fisherman. Can't you tell by the picture of him at his favorite lake? . . .

Easy Life

Roy Gawthrop won a $5.00 prize at the "meet the boss" picnic at Municipal Beach. He repeated the mystery word and immediately won the prize. . . . Earl Brandon believes in shopping around before he spends any money. He finally ended up in Florida getting a haircut for 45 cents. . . . Kenny Sefton thinks that the hand is quicker than the eye, as the gift candy for his 30-year congratulatory meeting disappeared before his very eyes. What a crew he works with. . . . Kenny McCague was appointed fire chief of Waynedale for another term. We feel sure that his slogan, "We haven't lost a basement yet," was a big factor in the appointment. . . . George Hartman, who has been living around Lake George for 25 years, let the boys know he's still a tenderfoot. Last week-end he became lost and couldn't find his own cottage. . . . The boys in the Lathe Unit were really thrilled when it appeared that a huge stork was perched on top of St. Joseph Hospital. A closer look revealed it to be a construction crane, so come back from your childhood, boys. All's well that ends well. . . . Hayden Rice finally took Gus Ormsby and Bud Dunlap in their weekly golf game.

Avery Spayde is going out of the duck business. He is offering them at a cut rate price to get them all sold by Thanksgiving. Get your order in early and avoid the rush. . . . Paul Shaffer has a new baby girl at his house. Her name is Jeanie Ann. . . . Russell Rose is still on the sick list, but is feeling better. . . . Jerry Pierce got his limit of fish this week-end—just one fish. Earl Sexton got four more than his limit, he got five. . . . Was Maurice Geary's face red when the boys asked him where the cigars were! It seems there are two Maurice Gearys. The one up here happens to be a bachelor! . . . Ed Pranger was pretty well burned up Friday. He got through work at 11:30 p.m. and went to his car to go home. Someone had blocked him in and he didn't get out till 1 o'clock. He didn't get paid for the extra time either. . . . Buss Romary is back. His boy is much improved following treatments at Denver for polio. . . . I hear that Betty Froebe has some vinegar for sale. Seems she got too much on hand, and the pickles ran out! . . . Gerna Cook has a new short hair-do. Looks real nice, too. . . . Hazel and Elbert Niswonger are going in for the better "arts" these days. They bought some oil paintings and now Hazel has to try them in all the rooms to see where they look the best. . . . Edith Schriener was on her vacation last week. . . . Susan Zollars, Betty's young daughter, was in the Civic Theatre's production of Mid-Summer Night's Dream. We think that is pretty wonderful and maybe some day we can say "I new her mother when Susan was a little girl and just started on the road to fame!" . . . This is one I never heard before. Helen Wyss went to bed Sunday night and when she got up Monday morning her arm was sprained. She sleeps alone and claims she didn't fall out of bed. Says she must have lain on it. You figure it out for us, we can't. . . . We heard that John Piper, retired, was in the hospital at Muskegon, Mich. Hope he is well on the road to recovery by now. . . . We all wonder when Rodger Williams is going to grow up and get out of this "kid stage." . . . Irene Miser was so excited about going home early last Friday, she picked up the wrong purse and didn't notice it until she got home. She had to call Betty Minard and explain and meet Betty and exchange purses. She was still embarrassed Monday morning trying to explain her way out. . . . Mildred Carpenter said she got tired running around on her vacation and had to come back to work to rest up. . . . We extend our sympathy to Chet Laughman on the death of his father. . . . Orville Coleman is on his vacation this week. The World Series is on, you know! . . . Harlan Heckley celebrated his birthday. He says if he had to do it over, he would spend his time traveling. Also he quoted "good men are going to be scarce." Wonder what he means? . . . Gladys Strong is sad this week; her son Paul had to return to Texas where he is in the Air Force. . . . Mary Raub reports that her mother is improving. She is in the Sacred Heart Hospital in Garrett. . . . Gertrude Bertsche spent her vacation last week visiting relatives in Michigan and Ohio. . . . We are glad to hear that Carl Kinsey's father is feeling better. He will have to be in the hospital for at least two more weeks. . . . Augusta Gallmeier is getting more absent-minded every day. She had to come clear back to GE last Friday because she left her house keys locked up in her locker. . . . If the inventory in group 1x79 is off some this year, it will be because Julia Hahnhaus had to weigh her arm several times. Poor Clarence Norris couldn't figure out what was wrong with the scales. . . . Welcome to Willie Jackson who joined 1x79 recently. Helen White, Florence Byers and Marie Griffin spent a wonderful day in Chicago last Saturday. . . . Ralph Waikel rang out with the feminine gender Friday noon. What could be on your mind, Ralph? . . . Emily Nieman was in a popular drive-in eating a hamburger when she decided she didn't want anymore. She took a swing to throw it out the window. To her surprise the windows were closed. . . . Enjoying TV is Verena Hullinger. Her husband gets up before breakfast to turn it on. . . . Grace Ober celebrated her birthday and wedding anniversary over the week-end. . . . Vernon Burkett is going to celebrate his birthday Oct. 12, but he won't be with us, as he is in Germany with the Armed Forces. Happy birthday anyhow, Vernon. . . . Some more people having birthdays in October are: Robert Black, Oct. 8; Beverly Scanlon, Oct. 9; Bonnie Wolf, Oct. 11; Wayne Boester, Oct. 12; Louis Clark, retired, Oct. 14; Bill Schultz, Oct. 14; Joan Gausepohl, and her twin sister Jean, Oct. 19; Ethel Yunker, retired, Oct. 22; Ruth Nordyke, Oct. 21; Stell Mailand, Oct. 23; Lucille Schriener, Oct. 23; Ardola Metker, Oct. 24; Beulah Briner, retired, Oct. 29.

Norwalt, Inc. is expanding again! Along with his flower business Dutch now has the shoe shining concession for Bldg. 26-4. For references, see Al Coxon! . . . Happy birthday to Betty Harkenrider! . . . Welcome back to Virginia Meyer who has been off sick for quite some time. . . . Gladys J. must expect to have a "special bus" bring her to work, since she always forgets to pull the stem out on her alarm clock. . . . We at the west end, sure hated to see Dick Potee leave our midst, but sincerely hope he will like his new position in the office. . . . I'm sure everyone would like to wish Loretta Bloom a speedy recovery. She is at the St. Joseph Hospital. . . . Anyone remembering Betty Armstrong might like to know she has a baby girl. . . . A strange wish: Janie would like to be a tiger. This is what comes from working with the "Nuttty Nine!" . . . It's a good thing the bowling alleys at Scott's are smooth, because Lucy K. was mopping it up with her skirt. Don't you know that when you throw right handed you should start out on your left foot? . . . Get out your brooms, boys, Dick Goller has his white shirt on and Bill Crouse his blue suit. Let's get the place cleaned up! Company coming! . . . Max Kimble is really out in front these days. The evening of Sept. 15, Max in a new evening suit, takes his family out to the GE open house, only to be told by the guard to come back October 15. Max, you are a little early. Max had to treat the family to supper and the show. . . . Jerry Moore is going strong again. After the elevator operator says "full up, boy" Jerry pushes the waiting girls and gets on the elevator. Nice going, Jerry! . . . Tom Freeman is making his garbage collection franchise into a still more profitable enterprise. He is now dumping the garbage into the lake so when the lake is lowered by the recent pumping he can use the well fertilized land for farming or in his expanding fish-worm business. Pretty sharp, Tommy! . . . Al Topp is resigning as the manager of Rollie Menne-wisch reducing campaign. Al lost 3 pounds; Minnie gained 5 pounds. . . . Fay Russell goes out to Podunk and gets a new Chevrolet for less; can't seem to get a good check-up and service. Take it to Columbia City, Fay. Dutch Norwalt has now had his 14th 1,000 mile check up. . . . Dick Goller, the head pumper for Norwalt's "Keep 'Em Alive Inc.," has now installed an air system along with his pumping operations. Jones Lake not only needs more water, but more air to keep the few remaining fish alive. . . . Dick Goller is very unhappy. The company has installed milk machines and he can no longer bring Paul Peterson in his daily ration of milk. Cheer up, Dick, you can still furnish the straws and look for greener pastures.

WINDS UP 35 YEARS—Melvin Payne (left) wound up 35 years of service with GE recently. On hand to offer him best wishes were John Hunnicutt (center) and Harry Slater. Mr. Payne first came to GE in 1918 as a messenger. He is now employed in Section 17 at Taylor St.

Belated greetings to "Duffy" Heller who celebrated his birthday Sept. 23. It has been rumored that several of the fellows want to claim the same date and age, but that is impossible. But they did sing happy birthday to him. . . . Believe it or not you only have 70 more days to shop before Christmas. Doesn't seem much like Christmas weather now, but that can change in a hurry. . . . Can any of the fathers give a solution for this problem? Clem Snell is seeking a way in which he can manage to balance a young son on each shoulder and still be able to move around through the crowds at a Fair. At the Bluffton Fair, the boys had to take turns riding on Clem's shoulder so that they could see anything. . . . "These city folks just don't realize how nice they have it—they can eat bologna all the time, while us country folk have to eat fried chicken"—so says Bob Miller. Say, Bob, we will trade you bologna any day for that good old fried chicken. How about it, huh? . . . Those 3-D movies seem to fascinate or bewitch Earl Mounsey. It seems as though he will drive for miles just to view such a show. Just what is the big attraction, Earl? . . . Ed Adler was a visitor in Fort Wayne last Sunday. . . . We want to wish a happy birthday to Anna Womack, who celebrated her birthday Sept. 28. Betty Reichert celebrates her birthday Oct. 9. . . . We hear via the grapevine that Elmer Chase will have a birthday Oct. 10. . . . Among those who are enjoying or did enjoy an early autumn vacation are Fred Chronister, Jim Chilcote, Arthur Kelly, Ralph and Bernard Rabbit and Fannie Amstutz. We haven't heard the details concerning these vacations, so if you hear anything interesting why not report to your editor? . . . Oh, what a shame. Already to go home, everything locked up and just ready to leave as soon as the buzzer is heard. Look at the clock again, Tibi! Yes, Tibi Gehrig found that he had one more hour to work before going home. It is getting so that you can hardly trust the clock even they will try to fool you. . . . Welcome back Tom, Joe and John. Tom Miller returned to work this week after a three-year hitch with the Army Air Corps. . . . Joe Adams resumed his duties in the Inspection Department after two years in Uncle Sam's Navy. . . . John Kable also returned to work after two years in the U. S. Army. John built up quite a reputation as a shortstop on his army post's baseball team. . . . We wish to express our deepest sympathy to Nora Smitley upon the death of her brother and to Chester and Lohnas McIntosh upon the death of their father.

Say, talk about embarrassing situations. Fenton West had one the other day while walking down the aisle of Bldg. 19-1. For further details, see Mary Ann Goodman. I don't dare print it. . . . Jim Scarbough had an unusual experience happen to him also, but I promised not to say anything about it. (I can't bear to see a man cry.) . . . Russell Fox is going to take that final step down the aisle. I think it must have been Mary's big, brown eyes that did the trick. All kidding aside, congratulations to both. . . . All this talk about women being vain is a bunch of malarkey. I think the men take the cake. Now you take Art Braun. He came to work on inventory day dressed in a gay sport shirt, and later got wind that he and several other personalities were to have their picture taken. So Art took off in his bus, went home, changed into a fresh white shirt, and came back already to be shot. . . . TOLEDO WINS OVER GE IN CLUB BOUTS

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR WOMEN'S BOWLING TOURNAMENT AT GE CLUB

Tentative plans are being made to conduct a bowling tournament open to all GE women employees and all women bowling at the GE Club alleys, Joe Kramer, bowling chairman, announced today.

The tourney has been scheduled for Nov. 14 and 15 with openings for team, singles, and doubles entries on those two days.

To be eligible to compete, the ladies must be members of the Women's International Bowling Congress and of the GE or of a team bowling on Club alleys.

The GE Club will contribute the first prize in each of the events. Entry fee will be one dollar and bowling and tourney expense will be one dollar, making the total registration fee two dollars.

Persons interested in entering should contact either Virginia Mallet, Bldg. 31-2; Winnie Schuerich, Bldg. 31-1, or the club desk, Ext. 742. If enough interest is shown, the tourney will proceed as scheduled. Bldg. 31-1; Charlotte Stanford, Taylor St., or the club desk, Ext.

The three ladies' leagues kegling at Club alleys whose members are eligible to enter the event are Monday Girls, Tuesday Girls, and Friday Girls.

Entry blanks will be available at the Club desk when plans are completed.

BACK IN FORM—Hap Carter (left) shows Don Stoneman and Bob Knepple that he hasn't lost the touch. Hap was in mid-season form and kegled a 196 count the first game out. The three bowl on Monday nights in the Office League at the GE Club alleys.

A crowd of enthusiastic fight fans turned out Tuesday night for the first in a series of boxing shows sponsored by the GE Club. The crowd saw nine good matches plus a battle royal finale. Toledo won the bouts by a close margin, 4-3.

In the heavyweight battle, Fort Wayne's John Freeman found Ted Coopwood of Gary, Indiana a little too cagy for him and lost by the decision in a close contest.

One of the best fights of the evening matched Al Campbell, of Bldg. 6-B, with Fred Gordon, of Toledo. Al took the decision, scoring well with his right hand. He set the Toledo scrapper on the canvas in the second round.

The bout between Red McClure and Ted Adams, of Toledo, was a real crowd pleaser. In the first round, McClure wildly swinging tore into his opponent, but Adams, an experienced boxer kept out of his way, in later rounds pounded him with short punches and took the decision.

In the final of the evening, Jimmy Reeder, last year's featherweight local Golden Gloves champ, pounded out a win over Melvin Reed of Toledo.

In other bouts, Norm Stevenson, of Butler, won a decision from Rival McBride, of Garrett, in the featherweight class; Jessie Tettabay decisioned Bob Tetter, of Auburn in the flyweight class.

There were two knockouts during the evening's scraps. Fred Ernie, of Toledo, showed himself a veteran by kayoing Bob Haskell in the second round. Walt Mitchell, also of Toledo, put Fred Dinkin of Fort Wayne down for ten, also in the second round.

Frank Newport, GE boxing committee chairman, served as matchmaker for the events.

Bros., 210; Meeks, of Pindusters, 208; C. Miller, of Old Crown, 223; Boner, of Brouwers, lead the League in the team standing with six wins and no defeats. Kinney's and Harvey Bros. are right behind with five wins and one defeat. Old Crown Beer has the team high single game of 1020. Kinney's has the team high three game total of 2784.

Ladies Monday Night

Peterson Elevator won two games from the GE Club, K of C won two games from Casablanca, and Riverview Gardens and Teeple Truck Lines split, each winning one and one-half games. E. Faulkner kegled a 634 series on games of 212, 219, and 203. Bob Lord had 214, 202, and 191 for a 607. Glen Baumgartner split the maples for a 602 series with games of 191, 189, and 222. Double century counts were made by Steury, 203; G. Strickler, 206; Macklin, 213; O. Schultz, 20; Appleman, 201; L. Hoffman, 213 and 206; Pillars, 202; Johnston, 201; . Murphy, 202; G. Schultz, 208; and Jackson, 203 and 215.

GE Women's League

Team No. 3 won two games from Team No. 2 and Team No. 1 won two games from Team No. 4. M. Miller scored with a 164; O. Myers with a 182; G. Reynolds kegled a 189, and F. Engle, 167.

GE Orphans League

The 28 girls from GE second shift, who are bowling at Scotts Alleys at noon Fridays have named themselves the GE Orphans, since they could not bowl at the club at that hour. Bee Lantz is the star bowler with a 198 game. Hilda Bander is next with 176. In third place is Eileen Foor, with 175. Bernie Motor Sales leads the league with a 6 won, no loss record. Next is Keenan Hotel with a five won, 1 loss record. Two girls are needed to bowl in the league. Anyone interested should call Marge Rollins, A-40741.

Masonic League

The Squares are out in front in the Masonic League, having won six games and lost none. Doric, Trowels, and Composite are tied for second place, having won four games while losing two. Hitting a 500 clip, Corinthian, Fellowcraft, and Ionic have each won three games while losing three games. W. Hoelle rolled the high series, a 608 score which included a 245 single game. Wartenbe kegled a 219; Lauterberg, a 215; Schaberg, 208; R. Hickman, 203. Grabill rolled 211 and 201, but couldn't get the third double century count for a 600 score.

Friday Night Ladies

The pins had splititis Friday night, but the ladies were up trying and really did a good job. Betty Puff and Tommy Williams converted the 6-7-10 and Velma Seibt the 4-7-10 split. Liz Shearer put together games of 176, 192, and 168 for a 536 total series. Tommy Williams had a 510 series on games of 173, 180, and 157. Charlotte Stanford kegled a 184 count, Eula Murray, 177; Willie Scheurich, 174; B. Dennis, 173.

Small Motor

Each having won five, while losing only one, Office and R and R are at the top in the Small Motor League. Hi Five and Test are tied for third place with a record of four wins and two losses. Two Legs Clothings, Models, and Denton Drugs have a 500 record, three wins and three losses. Edward Bowser bowled Tommy's Lunch to a third game win with a pin heavy 266 count. Ed's 266 is the high single count rolled on the GE Club alleys to date. R. Guingrich kegled a 204; Art Lantz, 200; C. Brandt, 203; Ray White, 221; E. LaFavour, 201; R. Tholen, 237; Jack Margurum started out rather shaky, but soon got into mid-season form when he tossed a 204 score, a 97 or thereabouts was his first game score.

Ladies Tuesday Afternoon

Teams No. 2 and No. 6 are leading the league each having a record of five wins and one loss. Team No. 5 is in third place with a three win and three lost record. The team high series is a 2032 kegled by Team No. 2 who also rolled the high single count, a 58. Billy Tucker scored with a 176; Mary Nute, 14; Jeanne Gladieux also rolled a 174. Mary Nute converted the 6-7-10 split.

Apparatus League

In the Apparatus League there is a three-way tie for top spot with Central Dairy, Team No. 6, and Team No. 3 each having a record of four wins and two losses. Central Dairy leads the League in high team series with a count of 2750. Team No. 3 is second with a 2726, and Team No. 9 has scored a 2666 series. Team No. 3 has rolled the high single game, a 967; Central Dairy, 941; and Team No. 2 scored a 938. Team No. 2 carries the high team average, 830 pins.

Interdivision League

Erv France was the first bowler in the Interdivision League to come up with a 600 series. He rolled a 611 on games of 169, 208, and 234. His 234 game is also the individual high single game score. A number of 200 games were rolled last Wednesday night. W. Beery of Transformer had a 201; Luedeman, of Brouwers, 205; France, of Brouwers, 208 and 234; Rump, of Kinney Koncession, 226; Becker, of Apprentice, 221; Haggenjos, of Apprentice, 201; Fremion, of Harvey

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Joan Vorndran

Mayme (bring 'em back dead) Carney was on one of her squirrel hunting expeditions; quietly sitting under a tree waiting for a tasty little squirrel to make its appearance. Suddenly some bushes moved and Mayme fired—a direct hit. It wasn't a squirrel, however, but a red fox. Thinking she might keep the culprit, Mayme didn't turn it in for the bounty; but, after so long, she decided now was the time to dispose of the not-so-sweet-smelling animal. Did you bag the game in your usual hill-billy 'style of hunting, Mayme—barefooted?

A new car rash has again broken out. The latest brand new car owner is Stu Fisher, the proud owner of a Buick. Just to put some miles on the new car, Stu decided to drive to Bluffton to take in the sights at the Street Fair. Also, with a new car is Russell Gabhart, whose purchase was a '50 Chevy. . . . We're glad to hear that Elmer Heemsoth's son is recovering very quickly from a recent appendectomy operation. . . . Are you fish hungry? If so, contact Charlie Foulks, who has just returned from a very fruitful fishing trip.

Tad Lewandowski is going on a strict fast for the next few days; he's getting ready for the big feed that will be had at the Winter St. Volunteer Firemen's chicken fry to be held on Saturday. . . . We're wondering what important engagement Aubrey Lash was trying to keep the other night. His one foot was on the first step to leave the building when his foreman reminded him of an over-time job that was awaiting. Well, you almost made it, Aubrey. . . . Now, Elmer Abbott could never work overtime! He has to get out of work right on time so he can make it home to hear the trials and tribulations of "Young Widder Brown." Elmer's enthusiasm for this soap opera outshines any housewife's.

It would be really nice to have Charlene Bierbaum for a daughter-in-law. Charlene used her spare time and her skill to coach her mother-in-law an afghan. A beautiful piece of handiwork! . . . Bea Pender can't brag up the institution of marriage enough, especially when she's trying to convince Mary Garrard that she should take the fatal step. So far, Bea hasn't made much progress with Mary; but, knowing her, we're sure she'll keep on using her persuasive lectures. . . . Something new has been added to the collar on Bob Scherrer's shirt—a bow tie. Looks real nice, too.

It's common knowledge that Rodger Pitzen thinks his new Ford can do anything; but, really, somebody should tell him that even a Ford requires gas. How far was the hike to the gas station, Roger? . . . It's the makings of a good ball player that Lawrence Magsamen has for a son. Playing in a tournament, Larry hit three home runs during the contest, bringing in the runs that really counted, and thus winning the tournament for the 22nd. Bomb Wing. . . . Great was Ray Dumbord's disappointment with his $1 purchase of tomato plants this spring. He considered the results very meager—his wife canned 50 quarts, they supplied all the neighbors with tomatoes, and sold $15 worth to a neighborhood grocery. Don't give up, Ray, maybe you'll have better luck next year.

Ellsworth Geller returned to work this week after a successful fishing trip in Wisconsin. The catch was plentiful, but would have been more so if it hadn't been so cold and windy. . . . Art Hickman had that sleepy look about him Friday; the reason? Art lost sleep trying to decide where he could spend the $15 he won on the Marciano fight.

Nick (Little) Treiner returned from a week's vacation in Washington, D. C. Included on the visit was a tour of the White House, but Nick didn't get to have his little chit-chat with Mr. Eisenhower, as Ike was busy with another dignity at the time. . . . It was a girl for Madonna Ranney last week. Madonna was formerly employed in the drafting section at Winter St. The little girl has been named Charlene.

A dual celebration was in store for Toby Tyler Friday. Toby was presented with his quarter century pin and picture and he also celebrated his birthday. Double congratulations, Toby. . . . Using the newly acquired calculators last Saturday, Al Tew got them in a completely jammed mess and then put in a call for the repairman. But by the time the repairman had gotten there Monday morning, the girls who operate the machines had pushed one simple little button and had restored the machines to their usual perfect working condition. Somebody should explain these little things to Al.

The accounting section rolled out the welcome mat to greet Eddie Strasser and Harold Niswander this week. . . . Accounting received a cheery letter from Lucille McGahey, who is caring for her ill mother in Charleston. Lucille expressed her desire to receive mail from her co-workers. . . . "Helpful Hal" Staley is always willing to oblige by answering the phone for busy secretaries. Not to confuse the called by hearing a man's voice Hal answers the phone in a very dainty feminine voice.

Heine Mutscheleener, Herb Vogel, and Alma Elliott finally "got the bird"—out of the office, that is. With all the windows open, our inquisitive fine feathered friend decided to investigate the "goings-on" of office life. Chasing the bird from one light fixture to another and with the use of a broom handle, the clapping of hands, etc., the bird took the hint that he wasn't wanted and took his leave. . . . Experiencing a new thrill by undertaking the sport of roller skating, Carole Calkins has been suffering with aches and pains all week. As a matter of fact, she was so tired she couldn't lift her feet high enough to go up the steps and almost went sprawling, making a three-point landing in the office.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

People in the vicinity of the General Electric Company were startled out of their wits the other evening when a Chevrolet came charging out of the parking lot, whistling, screaming and exploding with great clouds of smoke billowing from under its hood. The young lady behind the wheel, our own Mildred Messer, wishes me to explain that her car does not usually sound like that, but that some practical joker had put a bomb in it. . . . We have another Cadillac owner in our midst. Paul Gruber, our dispatcher, bought himself a big Fleetwood job. I hear also by the grapevine that Charles (Curly) McCormick of Bldg. 19-3, either is getting or already has a big Cadillac. The boys up there sent the news to this column for they were afraid that if Mac's office girl mentioned it in hers he'd probably cut her wages or her lunch period. . . . Tragedy struck Bldg. 22 last week. Charlie Castle lost his voice! Those of you who know Charlie know that without his voice, Charlie is like ham without eggs. Charlie, by the way, is taking a little trip to Montreal in Canada. Good luck, Charlie. . . . FATTIES? Either Boucy Becker or Johnny August, or both of them are putting on weight because they couldn't pass each other in the east aisle the other day. Johnny had to back up and pull over on a siding for Becker to get through. . . . While Ferroll (Cupid) Hill was attending a meeting the other day, someone took his work clothes and made a dummy of him at his work place. Since Hill doesn't move very fast anyway, very few people noticed the difference. Hill caught the culprit though, for he, Henry Wells, forgot and left his gloves on Hill's table. . . . Charlie Johnson was in last Friday and he looked mighty fine. . . . So long to Art Druce of Bldg. 19-1 paint shop, who is retiring this week. Art is another of those many foremen who is referred to by his employees as a good Joe.

Joe Adams went fishing in Lake Erie last week-end. He brought home 50 pickerel. Of course he had the help of four other guys! . . . Congrats to Ted Ranier! Ted won first place in the bull-dogging contest held in Kendallville last Sunday. . . . George Prince finally returned to work after his third week vacation. He hasn't said a word about his Lost Monday. . . . Tomorrow Morris Pool will celebrate his 25th year with the company. Morris works for Ed Glenwith in 2x36. . . . Walt Dreyer says he grows the biggest and the best and if the potato on Mr. Smith's desk is any proof, all we can say is "You are so right! . . . We all wish a speedy recovery to Ruth Troyer who is in the hospital. . . . Dody Clinger rushed to the parking lot the other night in such a big hurry to get started home. After rummaging through her purse for her keys, she came to the conclusion they were lost. Esther Fagan came to her rescue and picked them up off the ground, just where Dody had dropped them that morning. . . . Walt Richardson must be getting ready to run for the office of Fire Chief in Waynedale. He bought a new Buick and the color—fire engine red. . . . We were glad to have David Jacobs pay us a visit, but did Dave come to see us or a certain person? . . . Here is a good one on Gaylord Sparks: One day one of the girls was taking cold pills and Gaylord asked what the pills were for. After being told they were cold pills, Gaylord indulged in some and a couple of days later he really had a cold. Gaylord, you crazy mixed-up kid! . . . Les Hubbard was one of the many to attend the Bluffton Fair. . . . We wonder just what Merle Keesler means when he says "give me a clue." . . . Warning Notice: Helen Shuler has taken her first driving test; so best we keep the kids off the streets. . . . If you know of any displaced pets, see Lois Tibbles. Especially if they are dogs. . . . We hear Marie DeVaux is going on her second honeymoon over the week-end. . . . We welcome Viola Krominaker back to first shift.

Farewell to Bernie Dwyer and Walt Riedinger. Today is their last day with us as they are both going out into the District. Bernie to Chicago, and Walt to St. Louis. I think we all agree, it was a pleasure to know and to work with these fine fellows. Our best wishes go to both of them. Last Wednesday evening the Dwyers and the Riedingers were entertained with a farewell party, by the group, at the home of Wendell Hughes in Waynedale. Each were given a little remembrance. . . . Last Friday afternoon we also bid farewell to George Dykhuizen, who left the company to go with Economics Laboratory. Good luck to you, George, in your new enterprise. It was a pleasure working with you and we will all miss you around here, even the mice. . . . Welcome to the following new-comers: Dave Musgrave, who recently joined up with Pritchard's office. Dave was formerly with the ANP Project, Evendale plant. Leo Everitt, a test engineer, who is in Fort Wayne on a test assignment. Before coming to Fort Wayne, Leo was on an assignment at the Johnson City Plant. He is single, and a graduate of Ohio University. We also wish to welcome Gil Garl into Sales. Gil came to us from Engineering. J. H. McCulloch has joined the Ballast Sales from Ballast Engineering. He promises to solve all of the problems of the fixture manufacturers. And last, but not least, we wish to welcome that charming personality, Marjorie Pasternak, the new typist. Marjorie is rather new in Fort Wayne. She hails from Chicago, and she is married. . . . It seems fitting at this time to also welcome back Ginny Winegart. Ginny has been on vacation in Oklahoma. . . . Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George Culp on the arrival of a baby boy.

Our deepest sympathy to Bill Leimenstoll upon the death of his mother. . . . If anyone wants a thorough car wash he should see Ralph Remenschneider for instructions. His washing includes upholstery and the floor mats as well but he can't understand the water in the crankcase. Maybe someone ought to explain to him it isn't necessary to put his car in the river to give it a thorough washing. . . . Bill Brandt takes all honors by holding the 11th round in the pool on the heavyweight boxing title bout last week. It was a good thing it wasn't a 10-round match. . . . The next time Ray Kierspe makes a bet for a cigar he is going to be a little more certain. The sad story is that Ray thought he had seen a B-36 with pull type engines and it was hard to convince him that they are pusher type. However, thanks to last week's candid camera section, Ray had to hand over the cigar. . . . It is a new Ford for Bill Skinner as he joined the parade in buying a "53" model. . . . We welcome James Jamison and Kenneth Menefee to the Wire Sub-Section. James is driving a truck in the drawing section, while Kenneth will be seen carrying the mail. . . . Birthday greetings to George Miller on October 9 and to Herb Thompson on October 10. . . . Ralph Hoover is still walking away with the prizes for his chickens. With twenty entries at the Bluffton Street Fair, Ralph received the grand prize for the best pen and hen. In all he received 12 first prizes. . . . The latest greeting from Paul Patton is from Tucumcari, New Mexico. He says that every once in a while they have to stop and rest because the weather is too hot for driving. . . . Someone has been helping Don Pappert's popularity, as a song request for his birthday was labeled "Lover Boy." . . . Best of luck to Cahen Murphy and Miss Joan Holman, who will be united in marriage at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 3.

women can find too much work to be done. . . . Welcome to Bill Miller and Arthur Kurtz in Test. . . . Andy Woods was wearing a conductor's cap last week and we wonder what railroad he is working for? . . . Bernadine Warner won a doll at the Bluffton Street Fair. . . . Alma Vondran and Linda Wahrer attended the Bluffton Fair Thursday night. . . . Ross Haflich wishes to state he has sold his entire stock of jack-rabbits to Harry Knafel. Anyone wanting jack-rabbits should see Harry, as he is carrying a complete stock, dressed or alive. . . . Ruby Stoops really burned the cobwebs out of her car going to Huntington Sunday. We are looking for her to enter the 500-mile race at Indianapolis next year. . . . Al Seifert reports a good catch of fish over the week-end at Rome City. He also caught a cold. . . . Congratulations to Iva Powell who has three new grandsons and a new granddaughter. . . . Paul LeCoque found each step in the cellar stairs Saturday the hard way and Harry Helwig will be watching the back steps at his home. Glad there were no broken bones, boy. . . . We are happy to have Ned Altekruze back with us after two weeks absence. . . . Josephine Lutz and Gladys Disler have returned to work in the Lead Section.

RACONTEUR SUB-SECTION 14 TAYLOR ST.

Mary Whitelock

Everyone worked like bees last Friday and we are all glad inventory is over for another year. . . . It has been reported that Bill Weber was seen wearing a sign on his back pocket. . . . We would like to welcome Lela Evans, Marjell Fry, and Norma Puff to our section. Hope you are happy here. . . . Doris Rhonemus and friends attended the Indiana-Ohio football game last Saturday at Columbus and Doris really enjoyed the exhibition put on by the bands at the half. That's the best part of the game.

Otto Brandt and Walt Niemeyer are still having a corn raising contest, a hang-over from last year, when it was rumored that Otto swiped one of Walt's ears to show off at work. Otto brought in an oversized ear of corn recently and Walt was skeptical about it being raised on the Brandt rock quarry. He says Otto either bought it from some farmer or got it at the State Fair. There is a big sign up in the test and inspection department with some weeds hanging on it. The sign says, "Weeds for Sale—Reasonable. Otto Brandt." The lengths to which those fellows go! . . . Herschel Hammons is leaving us for the full time job of being a chiropractor. Good luck, Herschel. Dale Irwin will become a good potential customer if he falls down at the bowling alley any more. . . . Mildred Smith's little girl, Judy, is a dancing fairy in the production of Midsummer Night's Dream at the Civic Theatre. . . . Last Saturday the trainees had quite a party at the Municipal Beach, called TAB Day. All the big wheels were there to get acquainted with the young hopefuls. Contests were held, prizes awarded, and the food was on the house. It was a beautiful day for an outing and a good time was had by all. . . . CONGRATULATIONS to Vivian Tricker on her birthday and to Maude Crooner who celebrated her first wedding anniversary. . . . Here's wishing a speedy recovery to Geneva Pickering who is in the hospital for surgery. . . . Burch Reed tells us his bowling average is 240 and we are wondering how he keeps score! . . . A lazy autumn moon was shining when Mrs. Ted Child's left "Pretty Cat" (as she called it) outside to play and look at the stars before retiring for the night. About an hour later she called but "Pretty Cat" did not respond. That was a week ago and to this day she has not returned. The Childs mourn the loss of their household pet and hope that someday she will return to gladden their hearts again.

Lloyd Faulks takes his third week of vacation while the Bluffton Street Fair is in full swing. He has lived in that vicinity for many years and he and the Mrs. seldom miss the event. We hope they had a good time. . . . Elmer Jockel celebrated his birthday on September 22 with a dinner at his home. You will have to look up the records to find out how old he is. He won't tell. Congratulations, Ed, and here's wishing you many more. . . . Charter members of the 1953 Gutter Ball Club are Fred LeFevre, Estel Grier, and Paul Clendenen. Low man on a Totem Pole is Norb Meyers who bowled a munificent score of 92. That guy walking around like a pouter pigeon is none other than Paul Smith, who really outclassed himself by howling a 205 game.

THE BIG WIND SUB-SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST.

Rachel Mounsey

Welcome back to Marilyn Davis after her illness. . . . We are glad to have Virginia Johnson, Alma Anderson and Vi Cowan on days with us. . . . Bob Heinzelman was lucky at the Fair a while back. He won a duck so now anyone who is interested in buying a duck should see Bob. . . . Mildred Orr attended the pumpkin festival at Eureka, Ill., over the week-end, while visiting her daughter. . . . Esther Schladenhaufen is visiting friends in Portland, Maine. . . . Lena Stump was in South Bend over the week-end. . . . We were sorry to see Wanda Scare, Stella Allmiller, and Donna Lake leave us. . . . Gladys Dunbar attended a reunion at Cairo, Ohio Sunday. . . . Gerry Trautman also attended a family reunion over the week-end. . . . We are glad to hear Elsie Dunfer has left the hospital and is at home now after an accident during vacation. . . . The smoke that everyone saw Friday walking around was nothing but Gordon Smith's feet. He walked so many times back to one end and then the other that his feet were really burning when he finished with his work. . . . Dallas Patten took his third week vacation to do a little hunting, but by the time he finished his work at home, there wasn't any time left for hunting. . . . We have a real helpful man in our group if anyone gets stuck and needs help. Bob Boone is always Johnny-on-the-spot. . . . Connie Snyder has left us to work second trick.

DITTIES FROM DISTRIBUTION

SHIPPING: Betty McMullen left us to live in California. Dorothy Long came over from Bldg. 26 to take her place. . . . We would also like to welcome Joan Schuhler and Myron Biggs. Belated birthday greetings to Sarah Harris and Marie Dunn. Helen Elbert, Charlotte Daun and Cathy Trautman will celebrate their birthdays within the next few days. Edna Turnbaugh is spending part of her vacation in Cleveland, Ohio. . . . Dutch Wilson can really see now. He came in Monday sporting a new pair of glasses. . . . Millie Kouders and Martha Newell really had a good time on their vacation down in Florida and Louisiana paddling around in the rain. . . . TELEGRAPH: Toadie Durnell, Joan Rosener and Rosemary Ort attended the Bluffton Street Fair Friday night. Dolores Miles celebrated Saturday night. The Josephs are the proud owners of a little dog. Several weeks ago it was mentioned that Cholene Anderson and Normal Durnell attended the State Fair. We wish to make a correction. It should have been Norma instead of Normal. Lucille Werling had a big time showing the city firemen around the switching center last week. . . . MAILING: Jerry Crowell left us to take up his studies at Indiana University. We would like to welcome Michael Laughlin, Rober Mills, William Haney, Fred Sheets and Charles Steckert to the mailing section.

APPRENTICE BROADCAST

James Schwartz

Tab Day is over, and all of the boys will long remember a day well spent. Aches and pains were abundant Monday morning as the fellows realized that the Tab Day games were a little more exerting than our ages allowed. We have decided the touch football game was a contributing factor to this end. Tom Ahr was a major loser during the day, as he came out second best in a duel with a Cadillac and Jim Schwartz literally lost his pants. But all in all we had a wonderful day. . . . John Blair has switched from rum-soaked cigars. He now smokes oil-soaked cigarettes, or at least he tries awfully hard. . . . Dewey Cobb isn't exactly absent-minded, but it seems he forgot to punch his time card at noon for three days in a row. . . . Ron Davis falls into this category also. Ron charged into work last week and then remembered he locked his car with the keys inside. . . . The bowling team featured three good 500 scores last week. Jack Becker, Jerry Gibson, and George Haggenjos were on the throwing end of the games. . . . We are happy to see Glen Zook's smiling face in the grinder section, Glen has returned from Bldg. 19-5. . . . A hearty welcome is extended to Jack Wilson. Jack has enrolled in the Manufacturing Training Program. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wagner wish to take this opportunity of thanking the apprentice school "for the lovely flowers" received by Dick's wife during her recent stay in the hospital. . . . It has been requested that all apprentice personnel park their cars so that they do not block the parking lot on nights when they attend school.

"And now, for my impression of our dear employer returning from another arduous trip..."

Are YOU a "Wise Guy" about Fires?

Here's how to tell: See if you can find any of these fire hazards in your home:

Smoking in bed

Frayed electric cords

Matches near children

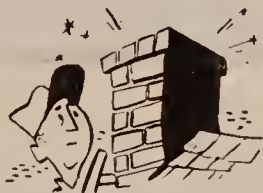

"Junk" in cellar, attic or closets

Overloaded electric outlets

Ordinary extension cords on heaters, irons

Chimney that sparks

Flammable cleaning fluid

Cigarette carelessness

If you find any of these fire hazards — and if you don't get rid of them at once — then you belong with the "wise guys". Because 9 out of 10 home fires are preventable — and these are the ways and places they start.

It may take trouble to go through a house from top to bottom, looking for and getting rid of fire hazards. But it's a lot more trouble to have a fire — even aside from the danger to human life and to pets.

So be fair to your family! Be fair to your neighbors! Be fair to yourself! Check your home for fire hazards today. No, don't put it off till tomorrow — then you would be a wise guy.

GE GETS READY TO WELCOME OPEN HOUSE VISITORS THURSDAY

GE Community Services Fund Drive For Non-Members Starts Monday

Beginning Monday, non-members of the GE Employees Community Services Fund will be given the opportunity to join the Fund, W. E. Beer, campaign chairman, announced. Solicitors will contact all non-members throughout the week. The campaign will close Friday, Oct. 16.

By joining the Services Fund, employees can contribute to 27 health and welfare agencies in Fort Wayne and Allen County through payroll deductions in weekly amounts or one lump sum.

Today approximately 300 solicitors from the various departments will be acquainted with the procedure to be followed in contacting employees. They will receive pledge cards for future members to sign.

"A number of these agencies provide services that may be needed by any of us on an emergency basis. In addition to being a good neighbor in helping others through our contributions, we are providing stand-by services for ourselves and

H. A. MacKinnon to Speak At Elex Fall Club Conference

A total of 275 members of Elex Club and other GE women's clubs in the area have made reservations for the fall conference at the Van Orman Hotel Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 17 and 18.

Reservations for the two-day event, "New Horizons", are closed. Roqua Wibel, outgoing president, announced.

H. A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of the Component Products Division, will be the principal speaker at the County Fair banquet Saturday evening.

Wallace E. Beer, supervisor of employee services, will present the welcoming address at the general assembly Saturday afternoon.

L. C. Swager, manager of employee and plant community relations, will conduct devotions at the morning worship service Sunday.

Starting at 9 a.m., registration will open the meeting on the mezzanine. The general assembly and mixer will follow and the banquet will conclude the first day's activities. At the banquet, each of the plants will present a skit in competition for the "Oscar", which is given to the club with the best skit. Last year's winner was Danville.

Following Sunday morning devotions, a general assembly will

When the doors of the Broadway plant open to the public Thursday, Oct. 15, for the 75th Anniversary Open House, General Electric employees will welcome an anticipated 30,000 members of the community.

Celebrating the company's Diamond Jubilee, the Fort Wayne plant will give visitors the opportunity to become better acquainted with the products manufactured here, the people who make them, and company policies, L. C. Swager, official host, announced.

Guests will receive special anniversary cake and punch, with candy for the children. A special edition of the GE NEWS will be passed out to them.

Climaxing GE's anniversary year, the open house will be one of many conducted at other plants throughout the country. The event will open here at 4 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m.

Special bus transportation will be available to the community on Thursday, with four buses running continuously during the above hours. They will operate on the former belt line route, two in each direction. Visitors are asked to park on cross streets near the bus route and take the buses to the plant.

A large display tent will be set

Decatur Drive Starts Monday

Decatur's annual drive for the 1954 Community Fund will begin Monday, George F. Laurent, general chairman of the GE drive, stated. A committee from the Decatur Plant will contact each employee during the week of October 12 to 17 for contributions to the Fund.

Employees may contribute through the payroll deduction plan or by cash donations.

The following Red Feather agencies are assisted by the Community Fund in Decatur:

Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, the Den, Decatur Recreation Committee, Cancer Society, Salvation Army, United Defense Fund, Inc., and the Mental Health Society.

75TH ANNIVERSARY SPECIAL—For one day only, Oct. 15, the Employee Store will offer 75 new General Electric portable radios and 75 GE clock-radios at the reduced price of $19.95. Frank Miller, Employee Store salesman, shows the two radios, which cost $39.95 for the portable and $27.95 for the other model at non-employee prices.

Square Dance Opens GE Club Fall Program

Opening the GE Club 1953-54 calendar of entertainment, a square dance is slated Saturday, Oct. 31, in the auditorium, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, announced today.

The first event in a program packed with events, the dance is one of 13 to take place at the Club during the year.

A Halloween theme will be carried out for the initial dance which will begin at 8:30 p.m. and continue until 11:30 p.m. Johnny Lukens and his Rhythm Rascals will provide music for the season of square dances.

Highlighting the opening entertainment event, attendance prizes will be awarded at the first dance only.

Members of the entertainment committee in charge of arrangements for the square dance are Ken Redding, Taylor St., sub-chairman; Buck Buchan, Bldg. 19-2; Belle Buchan, Bldg. 2-2; Glen Seabold, Bldg. 28-1, and Mamie Allen, Bldg. 4-5.

No Unimportant Jobs

If you should begin to think that your job is of no importance (regardless of what it is), consider:

It cost a lot of money—probably many thousands of dollars—to create your job. That investment never would have been made if your job was not important.

Modern industrial methods depend on good performance and teamwork all along the line. Even as seemingly trivial a matter as a carelessly-driven screw or misplaced rivet can spoil the finished product.

The customer is not interested in who is to blame, or what the excuse might be. His way of dealing with the situation is to buy some other company's product. The job-creating customer is also the most effective eliminator there is. Unfortunately, he may eliminate good workers who feel their job is important, along with the fellow who doesn't.

—O—O—O—

Destroy Your Old Ice Box

Due to the increasing number of deaths to small children, who have been suffocated after closing themselves in abandoned ice-boxes and refrigerators, the National Electrical Manufacturers Association has issued instructions as to the proper way of disposing of the abandoned cabinets. Employees are urged to follow these instructions in helping to safeguard the lives of small children.

There are more than 60 million ice-boxes, refrigerators and freezers in use today which are being discarded or scrapped at a rate of approximately 2 million a year, and therefore the cabinets presently in use may become potential sources of hazard over the next 30 years. A similar hazard exists with discarded trunks, chests or other air-tight containers into which a child might go.

The most effective means of rendering discarded cabinets safe is to scrap them or to completely remove the doors or lids. Unused cabinets which are stored temporarily should be placed with their doors against a wall or have their hinges or latches removed.

Some cities and states have already enacted ordinances requiring the removal of doors or lids from abandoned or discarded ice-boxes or refrigerators.

Various suggestions have been made that safety releases be provided inside of the doors or lids or refrigerators and freezers now being manufactured. This, of course, would not take care of the many millions of cabinets now in use and the Association members believe it would only provide a false sense of security, since there can be no assurance that panicky small children would have the knowledge, strength, or ability to operate such a device in total darkness. It is common experience that small children cannot unlock a bathroom door when they have locked themselves inside, even though they are being told how to do so by their parents on the outside.

Even though a completely foolproof latch could be devised, the problem for many years to come will be in safely disposing of the discarded cabinets or chests.

—O—O—O—

For Good Business

Some people are inclined to believe that the Korean truce (or a real peace, should it come about eventually) may cause a slackening in business and industry. But do non-productive military expenditures mean good business? Here is what the National City Bank of New York—which knows pretty well what business requires—has to say:

Business depends, in the end, upon the enterprise and ambitions of people; upon their willingness to work in order to raise their standard of living; upon research and technological progress; upon saving and investment; upon good management of public and private affairs; upon cooperation and understanding to maintain fair and equitable terms for the exchange of goods and services; and, finally, upon peace, order and stability.

SICK LIST

The following employees have been reported on the sick list, dismissed from hospital, and returned to work:

S-O-S! If you know of anyone expecting a visit from the stork on October 15, that is eligible for the GE prize, please notify your reporter immediately. . . . Our "we wish you happiness mat" is out for George Soule and Edna Stanton. They middle-aided it last Saturday. . . . Virginia Pelz was a very happy mother last week. Her son, Bob, called her from Munich, Germany. Bob is stationed in France, but was on a 15-day vacation. He is a GE GI. . . . Spring is in the air. Mary Jane Redding has a new yo-yo. . . . Congratulations to our new officers of the Elex Club. Let's give them our full support during the coming year. . . . Since the change to standard time, Mary Seicrist gets here early. In fact, she gets here before the lights are turned on. . . . We have some new sewing machines and Don Williams is going to take up sewing lessons. . . . Stella Kempf was on vacation last week. . . . The other morning Sarah Russel tried to find her work place in Bldg. 17-4. She decided to come down to our floor to work. . . . Glad to have Ruth Lemert back in the groove. . . . Ron Offord took his mother, Fay Stockberger, and Cecil Phillips, Luella Knoche, and Ethel Keller to see former co-worker Grace Jones. Grace is fine and sent us a "hello". . . . We wish a very happy birthday to Jenny Zimmerman and hope she is off our sick list soon. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Mary Murphy and Harriet Haynes, who are on the sick list. . . . Also, to the son of Lucy Alexander, who was seriously injured in an auto accident.

GE Annual Report Gets Top Rating

For the seventh consecutive year, General Electric's Annual Report has been judged the best in the electrical equipment industry in a survey conducted by "Financial World," business and investment weekly.

A bronze "Oscar of Industry" will be presented to Chester H. Lang, GE Vice President in charge of Public Relations, at an awards banquet in the Hotel Statler, New York, October 26.

Financial, art and editorial experts made up the jury which considered 5,000 annual reports from all of industry in picking the winners in various classifications. In the electrical equipment industry field, Westinghouse was second and Master Electric, third.

Sincere apologies to Clarabelle Whiteman for the typographical error which resulted in the misspelling of her name in last week's column. (Ed.) . . . We hope George Ryan and Hilliard Moore enjoy their vacation this week. . . . Alberta Watt didn't forget the Kindergarten girls. She brought them a cake last week, and Catherine Chilcote also baked them a date and nut cake. . . . Elmer Scherer hopes it won't snow too soon as he will miss the Hot Rod races and also the good coffee at intermission. . . . Louise Sinn really gave her sisters, as well as herself, a thrill driving on Lake Shore Drive in Chicago. . . . Herb Richter and wife attended the wedding of his nephew, Wayne Richter and Joan Prough, at the Baptist Church in Bluffton, Saturday. . . . Our sincere sympathy to Crystal Boyd on the death of her little niece, Carol Sue Feldner, who was a victim of polio. . . . STORMY WEATHER

by Bill Hurtt & Larry Reed

We don't know whether her wrath was justified or not when Alice Pfueger was asked if the new shoes she wore the other day were the white ones she had dyed. However, they claim the heat generated in the south end of the floor was the cause of the water pipe hursting in Bldg. 17-3. . . . For the benefit of the winding girls, Maxine Baker will take care of all contracts and information concerning the Elex Club. . . . We extend our deepest sympathy to Sid Barton on the loss of his mother. . . . Now the argument is raised as to which one is the better fisherman, Phil Lydy or his wife. They went fishing the other night, he with a fly rod and she with a cane pole. Then she proceeded to land a bass 17 inches long and weighing 3½ pounds. However, according to Phil, he still holds the edge since he caught one last spring which measured 10 inches but weighed 4½ pounds. . . . We point with pride to our own Russ Noll who on September 28 celebrated 45 years of service with GE. This in itself is an enviable record for a man who is rated not only as a top model maker but one of the nicest fellows we know. His ready smile, the ability to give and take, has made him well liked by all. Congratulations, Russ, and may your remaining years with GE be even more pleasant and successful. . . . The best way to lose a parakeet, says Bill Meeks, is to carry him around the house on your shoulder then walk outside to the garage. Don't be surprised if the bird takes off, because you'll be like Bill, and still be waiting for your feathered friend to return. At last reports, his has failed to show up. . . . "It must be nice to be rich" dept.—Proudly displaying new cars are Alice and Ray Pfueger with a Buick and Andy Chrystler with a Mercury. . . . Now that George has a part time job as salesman it gives Alice Hahn another chance to run the tires off their car. . . . It's with reluctance that we say good-bye to Ann Richard, who is leaving us; and extend a welcoming hand to Joan Evers, who is taking her place. . . . We're glad to report that Ezra Garringer is home and recovering nicely from his operation. . . . Quotation for the week: "Friendships multiply joys and divide griefs."

Who's in the Race?

Baby Derby to Close Oct. 15; Prospective Winners Should Phone Entries to GE NEWS

In less than a week the advanced planning of Fort Wayne GE parents-to-be will be put to the test—for on October 15, the GE Baby Derby ends.

All babies born to GE parents on that date will receive five shares of company stock. For the information of those who don't follow the stock markets, that's worth around $370.

The GE News is fairly chomping at the bit to know who's in this stork race. We announced the contest back in January—in plenty of time for anyone interested to enter the race—and now we're fairly certain there are many employees "expecting" to win the prize. IT'S ALMOST TIME TO FIND OUT WHO THE WINNERS ARE.

Prospective derby winners are urged to phone in news of their entries (Ext. 441) as soon as they are delivered. We will wire the news to New York and the Derby Chairman immediately.

The stock will be given to the parents in trust for the child. Stipulations are that at least one of the parents be on the GE payroll from January 14 to October 15. If the GE parent is the mother—on maternity leave—she is, of course, "on the payroll" for this particular event.

Purpose of the Derby is to mark GE's Diamond Anniversary by commemorating, through the formation of a new group of share owners, the organization of the Edison Electric Company, which later became General Electric. Thirteen investors formed the original com-

Elex to Install At YWCA Sunday

Newly elected Elex Club officers will be installed Sunday, October 11 at the YWCA. A tea will be conducted from 4 until 6 p.m. Kenneth W. Michael, manager of plant community relations, will be in charge of the ceremony. Roqua Wibel, outgoing president, and Joyce Brumbaugh, incoming president, will preside at the tea table.

Preparing for the fall season of activities, Elex has received shipments of Christmas cards and four kinds of candies which are for sale through contact girls or at the Elex Corner Cupboard counter in the Employee Store, Bldg. 8-1. In addition to these items, the counter has children's play aprons for sale.

pany on October 15, 1878, and 75th anniversary committee officials are hoping that 13 babies will become new investors this year.

Actual issuance of the stock by the secretary of the Company will come as soon as possible.

William R. David, Jr. to Serve As Administrative Practices Supervisor

William R. David, Jr. has been named supervisor of administrative practices in the Direct Current Motor and Generator Department, Richard M. Hartigan, manager of Fort Wayne manufacturing, announced this week.

In October, 1946, Mr. David entered the company's test engineers program at Schenectady. He completed tests at Lynn and Pittsfield and upon completing the program entered the Advanced Production Training Course Group 10 in 1948. While on this course, he spent six months in various operating sections at Fort Wayne and finished the course in 1948.

At that time, Mr. David came to Fort Wayne's Motor and Generator manufacturing section as assistant to the supervisor in charge of inventory control in 1949. He became supervisor of production services on year later and later was named supervisor of loading and requisition service.

Earlier this year, Mr. David was appointed services decentralization projects specialist and had this assignment until his present position.

Graduating from Syracuse University, Mr. David received his BS degree in industrial engineering in 1943. He is a member of the National Society for Advancement of Management, Supervisors' Club, and the GE Squares Club. He resides at 711 Edgewater Ave.

OPEN HOUSE SIGNS—go up in the Specialty Motor Department along the route to be taken by visitors Oct. 15. Department tour members who are completing plans for the event are (l-r): George E. Hicks, Robert T. Blee, Robert L. Spitler, and Ed T. Brink.

Hospitality, Safety to Keynote Specialty Motor Open House Tour

Employees of Bldg. 4-3 and Bldg. 4-4 will be hosts for Specialty Motor's tour during the 75th Anniversary Open House Thursday, Oct. 15.

"We hope that each employee along the tour route will cooperate in expressing the company's hospitality to visitors, particularly in helping to safeguard children from any possible hazards," George E. Hicks, tour chairman, stated.

At the start of the tour, a display showing some of the many portable tools, business machines, "3-D" projection systems and other devices in which specialty motors are used will be featured.

Production View

Visitors will be treated to a view of production of series motors, series motor parts, and small induction motors in Bldg. 4. The tour route will begin at the north door entrance to the passenger elevator in Bldg. 4. The elevator will take guests to the fourth floor. After seeing manufacturing on this floor, they will proceed to the third floor.

The Open House will be the first such public reception conducted by the department since its establishment last year.

Primarily set up to design and manufacture special motors for special applications, Specialty Motor produces a great diversity of motors for many uses from time clocks to battleship radar systems.

Types of these motors include series motors and parts for portable tools and business machines, small induction motors for business machines, shaded pole motors for fans and blowers—particularly in refrigeration applications, Direct-Current equipment for use on industrial machines, and a wide line of aircraft and armament motors for defense applications.

Squares Women's Division Slate Two October Events

The Squares Wives organization has slated two events for the month of October to entertain their husbands. A Halloween Party is scheduled Saturday, October 10, and a potluck will be given October 13.

Application Engineering

Characteristic of most Specialty Motor business, however, is a high content of application engineering—that is, engineering assistance offered to the customer in getting the right motor for his requirements. Specialty Motor maintains a large staff of design engineers and a battery of test equipment to insure that the customer gets a motor that will do the job best.

Engineer's Job

In selling a motor, Specialty Motor engineers, in direct contrast to taking a standard motor off the shelf, may be called on to help redesign a customer's unit or to design a new motor for proper motorization.

Thus Specialty Motor lives up to its name, from the high volume production of fan and blower motors to the design and manufacture of heavy industrial direct-current machines for use in steel or paper mills.

The Squares Hall is the scene of the Halloween Party, which will begin at 8 p.m., Mrs. Stan Antalis, chairman, announced. Tickets are 50 cents per couple and also will be available at the door.

A program including side shows, a floor show, cake walk, and refreshments is planned. Assisting with plans for the party is Mrs. John C. Willsey.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the potluck will also be conducted in the Squares Hall with husbands as guests. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Milton DeJean and Mrs. Donald Cochran. The dinner will be followed by bridge and canasta.

Other committee members assisting with the Oct. 13 event are: Mrs. Robert Barker, Mrs. Guy Bradley, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Remsen Chatterly, Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Richard Harlow, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Donald Mohrman, and Mrs. Ray White.

Ivan, by the way, got a wonderful gift from Mrs. Osterman—a son named Ronnie Dean. Congratulations, both of you. . . . We had a very interesting visitor last week. Joe Lambole came in on his 85th birthday to look up old friends in production. Joe started working at the GE in 1902 and retired in 1938. His hobby is gardening but he is up to snuff on most any topic. He had lunch with "his boys," Carl Reynolds and Mel Warner. Come see us again, Joe. . . . Frank Hickman was also in to say hello and he looks just fine. He has his house painted and polished to a fare-the-well. Says he and the Mrs. will be taking off soon on another trip. Effie Wyatt, who retired in 1949, also visited with co-workers at Taylor St. When asked if things were much different from the old days, Effie said yes, she had to walk miles to find the old gang as they were scattered all over the place. She doesn't spend all her time gadding. She is helping finance an Apache Indian missionary in Arizona. Good girl. . . . What a wonderful time of the year to go on a vacation! John E. Rodgers

Rogers Assumes New M & G Post

The appointment of John E. Rogers as supervisor of wage rates and operation planning in the Direct Current Motor and Generator Department has been announced by Fenton E. West, supervisor of methods, planning and wage rates.

When he joined the Company in 1922, Mr. Rogers entered the Apprentice School. After graduation from the electrical tester course in 1925, he entered Motor and Generator time study work.

Continuing in M and G, Mr. Rogers went into planning and wage rate and later became leader of operation planning. In 1950, he became supervisor of wage rate. Prior to his present position he was assistant supervisor of wage rates and operation planning.

Mr. Rogers is a member of the Apprentice Alumni Association. The Rogers and their two daughters reside on R.R. 1, Ashley.

MARKS 45 GE YEARS—Russell Noll (center) reached the high mark of 45 years of service with the General Electric Company Sept. 28. A group of his friends gathered to congratulate him on his GE anniversary. Left to right are C. H. Hattendorf, Omer Mettler, Mr. Noll, Ed Klomp, H. B. Carter, and Carl Alter. Mr. Noll was a machinist in Bldg. 17-4 when he joined the company. He is a model maker in Bldg. 17-4 at the present time.

A former Bldg. 4-4 production dispatcher, Dean Crum, is stationed at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. His wife, Joan, works in the wire section office at Taylor St. Dean's new address is:

BLIND BOGEY TOMORROW AT BROOKWOOD

How Our Community Services Fund Helps

Employees contributing to the GE Employees Community Services Fund prove themselves good neighbors; provide stand-by service for themselves in times of emergency; and build tomorrow's citizens. All of these services are accomplished by the 27 area agencies which receive aid from the Services Fund.

Through the aid given the local Red Cross chapter, one of the 27 agencies, this organization now provides 104 bottles of blood plasma per day to hospitals in the area.

The 27 agencies are: American Red Cross, Fort Wayne-Alan County Chapter, Allen County Cancer Society, Allen County Community Chest, Allen County League for the Blind, Allen County Society for Crippled Children and Adults (Easter Seals), Associated Catholic Charities St. Vincent's Villa.

Others are: Boy Scouts, Children's Day Care Association, Family and Children's Service, Fort Wayne Jewish Federation, Fort Wayne Urban League, Girl Scouts, Lutheran Social Services, National Travelers Aid, United Defense Fund.

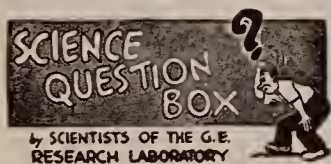

More are: Polio Services, Public Health Nursing Services, Rescue Home and Mission, Salvation Army Social Planning Council, Westside Neighborhood Center YMCA, YWCA, American Hearing Society, National Probation and Parole Association, Mental Health Services, Medical and Dental Services.

RED CROSS AID was made possible to victims of the automobile crash on Calhoun St. last year by providing blood plasma. This is one of the 27 agencies to which members of the GE Employee Services Fund contribute. Through their contributions, citizens prove themselves good neighbors by helping to keep Red Cross services available to those who need them.

FAMILY AND CHILDREN'S SERVICE—is one of the agencies aided by the GE Employees Community Services Fund. Employee contributions going to this organization provide medical attention for others and employees as well as in case of emergencies.

Q. Why does hydrogen peroxide seem to wear out, even though kept in a tightly closed bottle?

A. Hydrogen peroxide is chemically very similar to water, which is made up of molecules consisting of two hydrogen atoms attached to one of oxygen. In the hydrogen peroxide molecule there is an extra oxygen atom, but it is very easily detached, producing free oxygen and water. While pure hydrogen peroxide can be prepared, it is likely to explode, and the commercial product is a weak solution in water, to which some chemical preservative is usually added to slow down the decomposition. Keeping it cool in a refrigerator will also aid in its preservation. Contact with metal will speed the decomposition.

Q. Why is it that thunderstorms often seem to come up against the wind?

A. As a thunderstorm forms there is an increasingly rapid vertical movement of air inside the cloud. This causes air some distance away to rush in from all directions toward the base of the cloud; then it is carried to high levels by ascending currents. An observer on the ground, near an approaching cell of a thunderstorm, would notice at first that the wind was blowing from him toward the storm. As it came nearer the observer the winds might die down for a time, and then, after the storm had passed, they would blow in the opposite direction from what they did at first.

Q. What causes brown streaks to form from the clapboards outside our house at attic level? The attic floor was recently covered with insulation. Would this have anything to do with it?

A. This is probably caused by warm air which passes through the ceiling, and the insulation, and loses its moisture by condensation on cold surfaces in the attic. Apparently no vapor barrier was installed when the insulation was put in. This consists of a treated paper or aluminum foil fastened tightly to the joists before the insulation is applied. Probably it would not be practicable to install such a barrier now, but the condition might be helped by increasing the ventilation of the attic. This might be done with an attic fan having a capacity per hour of four to six times the volume of the attic space. In the winter it would be necessary only to run the fan intermittently. Using it in the summer would help materially in keeping the house cool.

Q. What is a calorie?

A. According to the general scientific definition, a calorie is the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of a gram of water from 14.5 degrees Centigrade to 15.5 degrees. (A gram is about 1/28th ounce, a degree Centigrade is 1.8 degrees Fahrenheit, and 15.5 degrees C. is about 60 F.) There is also the large calorie, or "kilocalorie," which is the amount of heat needed to raise a kilogram (1,000 grams) of water the same amount in temperature. When doctors and dietitians talk about calories, in connection with the food needs of the body, they are referring to kilocalories. Another heat unit is the British Thermal Unit, or "B. T. U.," the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of a pound of water one degree F., around 39 degrees Fahrenheit. It is equal to 252 calories, or a little more than a quarter of a kilocalorie.

Q. Why is it that a person often wakes up just before the alarm clock goes off?

A. Experiments have been made with students who thought they could wake up "any time they pleased." They were put in a dark room with cotton in their ears, and it was found that they could not tell the time even within two or three hours. Psychologists believe that just as we may look at our watches during the day without realizing it, at night we may also check subconsciously while we are asleep by such things as the time the milkman comes, a church clock rings or a factory whistle blows. Also, many alarm clocks have a very faint click as the gears get the mechanism ready to ring. It is well known that very often we "hear" subconsciously what we cannot hear consciously, so such a click, faint as it is, might serve to awaken a person in advance of the actual ringing of the alarm. You might try putting the clock in another room, and then seeing if you wake up before it goes off.

TALES from TAYLOR SECTION 13 TAYLOR ST.

Harry Parker

Darcie (One Round) Campbell comes forth with a story that has anything but a happy ending lately. He tells us that over the past week-end he took his four coon hounds and his airedale out into the country for a run across hill and dale. All the dogs descended into a shady glade where in a goodly size creek ran. Now

Darcie, hearing a terrible rumpus set up by his dogs from that direction, proceeded to investigate. He discovered a goodly sized raccoon hunting for crawfish along the shore of the creek, but was being worried by the dogs. He suddenly turned around, taking a bite out of the airedale, which took off immediately for the tall timber, but the other four dogs kept after the raccoon which calmly kept them back with one paw as he continued to rake out fish from among the rocks lining the shore. . . . Oliver Tyler is surely in line for the Carnegie hero medal. Last Sunday he and his family decided to go on a fishing trip up the St. Joe river. While there one of the youngsters, being around three years of age, persisted in running up and down the river bank. Oliver cautioned him about this but the child kept on, finally tumbling into eight feet of water. His dad immediately dove in, clothes and all, rescuing the lad. Then Oliver, who was soaking wet, wanted to leave for home right now but his wife said no as the fishing was too good. Poor Oliver had to air dry himself. . . . Well, at long last, after much higgling and haggling, Clarence Stove's wife gave him the green light on the purchase of a television set. But we really wish that he had not done this as we who work with him are continually being persecuted with his talk about his new television set, and comments on each night's reception. All of us here are surely looking forward to the time when TV gets old to him.

It is better to live rich, than to die rich.—Samuel Johnson.

New Store Hours

New hours for the Employee Store at Taylor St. were announced this week by Ray L. Fischbach, manager. The store will be open from 12:30 until 4 p.m. Safety shoes will be on sale from 12:30 until 3:30 p.m.

The hours for the Broadway Bldg. 8-1 store will remain at 11:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and safety shoes will be sold during the same period.

LET IT ROLL! Action in the Ladies' Monday Night League shows Kathryn Bailey delivering the ball on the GE Club alleys. Waiting to roll their initial frame are Beverly Stauffer, Jean Doege, Ilo Matter, Donna Lommatzsch, Jackie Trier, Virginia Frank, Jean Cirks, and Winnie Scheurich.

THISA & THATA BLDG. 4-3 and 4 by Helen Engle

Florian Korte is now living in the far southern part of the city. He sure has a long walk to the "corner" since he moved there. . . . Bob Blee was seen shopping in the new community store in his neighborhood, namely Sears. . . . Verna Meyer has a new '53 Pontiac. . . . Bob Meyer went to the Smokies on his vacation last week. He says the scenery was beautiful. . . . Walter Reichter served as best man at his brother's wedding last Saturday, and we have it from good authority he was more nervous than the bride. May we extend to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Reichter our congratulations. Wallace says he doesn't want any more weddings for awhile, he couldn't stand it. . . . Ralph Mennewisch spent the week-end in Detroit. . . . Glen Schwartz is in the duck business. His grandson got one at the Bluffton Fair and now grandpa has it. He is going to raise ducks as soon as he discovers the breed. . . . Mary Reynolds couldn't understand why she only got paid for 24 hours when she worked three days. . . . Joyce Schroeder is sure glad there are some honest people in this world. She lost her furs at the ice show and some nice lady found them and returned them to her. . . . Ted Bain has finally moved into his new house and he says the "Welcome" shingle is out. . . . Rosemary Kintz's husband is home from Korea. We are almost as happy as she is. He has till January and then he'll be home for good. . . . Butch and Alice Claymiller are living in their new house, too. Next year Butch says he will get to do a lot of fishing. . . . Did you all notice the yellow and black polka-dot shirt that Ivan Parrish had on? He is going to be working in 1x29 now. . . . Emery Tucker says it was so warm up in Northern Michigan he hung his "longies" on a tree. . . . Art McKinley is driving a new Ford. . . . Wishing Bob Mobberly a quick recovery. He was a patient at Ford Hospital in Detroit. . . . Josie Felger's husband, Richard, got home from Korea and they went on a second honeymoon to Maine. He is to get out of the service soon. . . . Betty Rykowski suggests that Sears serve splatter shields with their hot-dogs. It would prevent

Cage League Meets

A meeting of members of the Interdepartment Basketball League is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 14, in the GE Club lounge beginning at 6:30 p.m., Jack Sweet, manager of the league, announced today.

All employees interested in participating in the league are asked to attend the meeting at which organizational plans for the coming season will be made.

others from getting squirted. . . . Merlin Heller is on his vacation—just loafing and going fishing. He says the GE is celebrating his birthday with an Open House party. . . . Ed Runyon spent his Saturday at the Auburn Fair. No one up here won the TV set. . . . John Paxton is on his vacation this week, too. . . . Dick Blust is on vacation, spending a week-end in Chicago and the rest of the time at home. . . . Frank Voirol had too much company and didn't have time to try out his new method of bass fishing. Will report more on that later. . . . Chet Laughman thanks all for the flowers sent when his father died. . . . Birthday congratulations to Reggie Engeman and Helen White, who were born on the same day. Incidentally, Helen got a new Italian hair cut. . . . Vera Neate and Katherine Putt were happy to get on days this week. All they need is toothpicks to prop their eyes open. . . . Esther Harkenrider entertained her nephew, Joe Adams, over the week-end. Joe was recently discharged from the Navy and has returned to work at GE. . . . Reggie Engeman almost knocked herself out hunting for the light switch. Quit changing the furniture around, please. . . . Welcome to Alice Robinson, Wanda Scare, Mary Brown and Marg Crable, who are working in 1x79. . . . Edith Juillerat is happy her son Monty is back from Galapagos Island. He will have to return to Norfolk in 10 days. . . . Clara Frede is on her third week of vacation. She will be keeping her mother company.

Small Motor League

Repair and Return and Office are tied for the top spot in the Small Motor League, each having won eight games while losing one. Four teams, namely Hi Five, Test, Denton Drugs, and Koorsen Painters, each have won five games while losing four. Joe (Keghead) Kramer rolled the high single count, a 234 score. Carl Brandt scored a 213, R. Harstmeyer, 203; G. Ormsby, 202; George Kaade, 207; Roy Brimeyer, 210; and Lloyd Pinkerton, a 204. Tommy's Lunch has the high team single count, a 979 effort, while R and R rolled a 2620 for high series.

Ladies' Tuesday Afternoon

Team No. 2 is out in front with seven wins and two losses. In a tie for second place are teams No. 6 and 4, each having won five games while losing four. Mary Nute did it again to show that it was no accident. Mary converted the 6-7-10 split again this week. Norma Woods converted the 7-9 split. Edna Koester rolled the high game of the night, a 164 score.

Ladies' Monday Night

Team No. 7 really got to work and took over top spot in single high game with a 776 score and high series with a 2244 count. Maxine Root kegled a 500 right on the button with games of 151, 175, and 174. Margaret Bengnot kegled the high individual game, a big 208 count. Katherine Bailey rolled a 172 and a 178. Pearl Houtz, 178; Ardyth Hawley, 171, and Jeanne Cirks, a 184. Team No. 10 took over top spot when Team No. 12 lost three games. The top four are Team No. 10, with 10 wins and two losses; Team No. 7 and No. 8, each with nine wins and three losses; Team No. 12 slipped and have won eight while losing four.

Apparatus League

It is a three way tie for first place in the Apparatus League; Central Dairy, Teams No. 6 and No. 3 have each won six games while losing three games. Team No. 10 and No. 8 are just one game behind the leaders, each having won five while losing four games. Bob (Sore Thumb) Blomker kegled a 628 series on games of 172, 256, and 200. Paul Perry rolled a couple of double century counts, a 221 and a 214, but couldn't get enough wood in the third game for a 600 series. A 150 count made him a 585 series. Art Glass rolled a 225-Vic Rump, 212; Tom Anderson 202; Jimmie James, 210; Charlie Townsend, 207, and Bill Stute, 201.

Decatur

After losing six straight, the newly organized Rotors team exploded their wrath by winning three from a much surprised Office team. The Flangers took over first place by winning two games from the Stators. George Laurent is still mowing them down. George put together games of 174, 238, and 190 for a 602 series. Wynn rolled a 206 and Schultz a 215.

GE Fraternal

West End Restaurant took two games from Peterson Elevator, Teeple Truck Lines won three games from K of C, Riverview Gardens won three games from Casablanca, and GE Club lost three games to Elks. Appelman scored a big 622 series on games of 195, 234, and 193. Double century counts were made by Zelt, 213; Ladd, 201; Lord, 201; Werling, 204; Limenstall, 223; Bruick, 227; Bolinger, 215; Tutewiler, 207; G. Schultz, 212; Faulkner, 203; Laurent, 208; Bultemier, 200; Feasel, 201; Oetting, 221, and Macklin, 204.

GE Women's League

Team No. 2 took two games from Team No. 1 and Team No. 3 won two games from Team No. 4. E. Plasterer rolled a 161 score and G. Reynolds rolled 182 and 169 counts.

GE Orphan League

Keenan Hotel won two from Bernies Motor Sales, Team No. 2 won two from Team No. 5. Team No. 6 won two from Team No. 4. Bea Lantz rolled the high game of the evening, a 180 count. Virginia Keesler rolled a 176 and Milly Rietdorf a 166. Keenan Hotel has the high team single count, a 737, and also the high series, a 1940.

Bowling Notes

Girls are still needed for the Tuesday afternoon league, which bowls at 3:30 on GE Club alleys. Contact Mary Nute, Ext. 646, or Edna Bailey, Ext. 2170 if you are interested.

GE Rod and Gun Club Announces Schedule

The GE Rod and Gun Club has announced their 22 caliber rifle and pistol shooting schedule for this year. They will shoot from 7 until 10:30 p.m. at South Side High School. Any one interested in taking part in the 22 caliber matches, either rifle or pistol, should contact either Richard L. Miller, Bldg. 19-1, or Pat Patterson, Bldg. 31-1, for information.

The schedule is as follows:

October 6, 13, 20, 27; November 3, 10, 24; December 1, 8, 15, 22; January 5, 12, 19, 26; February 2, 9, 16, 23; March 2, 9, 16, 23, 30; April 13, 20, 27; May 4, 11, 18, 25.

GE Vets Take Loop Title; Edge Squares in Playoff

The GE Vets, winner of the League's first half, and the GE Squares, winner of the League's second half, met in a two out of three game playoff for the championship. The Vets, leaving no one in doubt as to which was the better team, took the playoff in two straight games.

Free scoring was the keynote of both games as the Vets took large leads in the early innings and the Squares did their scoring late in the game.

Following are the box scores of both games:

	R.	H.	E.
Vets	24	14	0
Squares	6	4	13
C. Grimes-Ahr.
DeJean-Junk.
Squares	9	7	5
Vets	18	11	0
Cochran-Junk.
C. Grimes-Lydy.

The following players of the Vets team will receive awards later in the year at a banquet given by the GE Club, when awards are made for all sporting activities: A. Grimes, C. Grimes, C. Brenner, E. Rosswurm, Wickliffe, W. Ort, L. Reuss, R. Zimmerlee, H. Hoevel, T. Ahr, C. Kiester, M. Sorgem, B. Stelman, P. Lydy, M. Moffatt.

TOOL BITS BLDG. 19-4 and 5 by Don Clark

Carl Schone paid us a welcomed visit last week and is looking good. He expects to return to work within another month. . . . We express our sympathy to Jim Hoppel on the death of his mother. . . . Most everyone likes milk, but Gerry Widner always drinks the chocolate variety. You see one of his favorite pirate story radio programs is sponsored by a prominent chocolate making concern. . . . The lathe section welcomes Tom Dixon and David Harrold. . . . We congratulate George Droidy on his marriage last Saturday. . . . For forty years the men working with Charley Bracht have endeavored to learn the identity of his middle name. At last it has come out and we are sure Celestine sounds better than what that "W" in my name stands for. . . . Glenn Kline visited Tiffin last week-end and reports that Bob Gale is enjoying life in that community. . . . Kenny Smith bought a television set last week and this week is fighting a misdirected garnishee for a delinquent grocery bill. Since Kenny always pays cash for his groceries we can't say he would rather see television than eat. . . . Les Hines and Max Baron's verbal bouts are getting to be quite heated. What did you say about boxing gloves? . . . Clayton Racquet and Bob Mosshammer installed Clayton's TV antenna but had to call on Louis Pieper for help to get the job done. . . . Paul Weaver's twenty miles per gallon mileage comes from this test. He fills his tank, drives ten miles, refills the tank out of a quart measure and computes his mileage. The average of ten such tests is Paul's choice figure. . . . An apprentice, Allen Brown, asked Walter Pook to help him change the belt on his machine. Walter obligingly took over and did all the work. Then Allen politely collected a wager he had made that he could change the belt on his grinder without dirtying his hands. Smart boy! . . . Helny Guenther was looking fine on his visit this week. He is moving to

Local GG Boys Face So. Bend In Second Boxing Feature At GE Club Gym October 19

The second boxing show sponsored by the GE Club will take place Monday, Oct. 19, in the Club auditorium, Frak Newport, chairman, announced this week.

At the second match, Summit City boys will meet the South Bend lads to test their ring ability.

Monticello, Ind., soon. . . . Junior Wilcox and Bard Zwyer both passed out cigars for one reason—baby daughters. . . . John Fleischer's lake property has been bought by Bob Mosshammer, who wants a secluded spot for reading his comic books. . . . Ron Blodgett's best friend left him last week when his favorite dog died. Cheer up, Ron, and look around. You still have your wife you know. Herb Thiele is losing his influence. Another neighbor traded his Hudson for a Ford. . . . We welcome Russell Hambly, who is contributing to our factory layout work. . . . Harold Blauvelt is worried about all those apples he'll get since being appointed instructor on the second shift. Remember, Harold, no singing lessons please. . . . Bob Bosser's home is nearly complete and he's looking for some help to paint it. Any offers, boys? . . .

Charles Wrisk says the picture shows his son, James, on tour in Cuba. Nice looking boy, Charley.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS BLDG. 22

by George Winans

The Halloween pranksters were off to an early start this season. The other evening when Paul Gruber went to get his Cadillac out of the parking lot he found someone had let the air out of his tires.

The show is one of five scheduled in Fort Wayne this year between city Golden Gloves boxers and GG boys from other cities in the area.

Tickets will again be on sale at the GE Club desk for reserved seats and will be one dollar each. All unreserved seats will be sold the night of the meet at the box office.

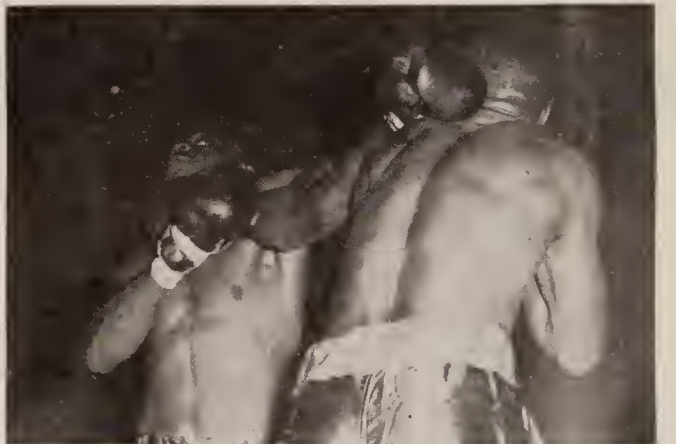

Action will get under way at 8:15 p.m. In addition to home shows, five are slated away from home so that boys who plan to enter the 1954 GG contest will have plenty of experience under their belts. This is one of the purposes of the ten matches in addition to providing the opportunity to pick up boxing know-how for those who want to learn.

Newport announced that the Club training room will be open evenings for any boys who wish to take advantage of the free training. The sessions get going at 7 p.m.

Ooo-oh what he said! . . . Congratulations to Henry and Mildred Wells, who celebrated their second wedding anniversary Tuesday, September 29. . . . The other noon Ralph Garsett had the radio on listening to the World Series but he didn't have the station tuned in right and another station was butting in. The other station had some sort of a guest program and several people were talking and laughing. Ralph just couldn't figure out what could be so funny at a ball-game that the fans should really laugh at. . . . It finally has happened. That break press he operates finally got old Kenny Evans! He was seen last week hunting all around under his table for, of all things, some snowballs he hid there last winter. . . . Wonder why it is that all butcher boys are fat? Anyhow, most all of them are. When we hear of a butcher boy we naturally think of a huge, roly poly character. A certain super market in town has a part time boy that is as fat as butcher boys come. That chubby little liverwurst behind the counter is Bldg. 20's Harold Smith. . . . We were all glad to see Ernie Brown, who was in to visit us last week. Come back again, Brownie.

LOCKER ROOM ACTIVITY—Bob Fetter, from Auburn, is being readied for his match in the first boxing show at the GE Club last month as another local Golden Gloves lad, Red McClure, Bldg. 19-3, stands by waiting for his entry into the ring.

THE EYES HAVE IT—Seeming to be dancing side by side, two boxers fight it out at the GE Club show Sept. 29. While the eyes of the audience were on the boys, one seems to have found some more eye-catching sight beyond the flood lights.

BATTLE ROYAL—The most popular event of the first boxing show was the Battle Royal in which four boxers were thoroughly blindfolded and outfitted with one glove each and a small tin box with stones in it taped to their ungloved hands. At the sound of the bell they left their corners to find an opponent and deliver heavy blows at empty air. The roar of the crowd almost drowned out the bell.

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Joan Vorndran

Monday evening Gene Jenney was back to work promptly at 6 o'clock for his overtime assignment. Gene came in, sat down at his desk and began to work. Seemed odd to him that the other five guys hadn't shown up yet; but, maybe they were delayed. 6:20 came and Gene decided to check why he was the only prompt employee. Calling Walt Buesking, Gene was informed that Tuesday was the night assigned for overtime. . . . Evelyn Engle looked mighty sharp the other day when she went over to Taylor St., but when she came back, it was a different story. Someone had neglected to clean up some mashed potatoes that were dropped on a chair in the cafeteria; Evelyn came in, sat down, and remashed the mashed potatoes all over her skirt. . . . Checking his watch Monday morning, John Reardon noted that it was 11 o'clock; time for his morning coffee. So, out he went for his mid-morning pick-up only to discover that it was only 10 o'clock—what a let-down! Yes, John had set back all of his clocks, but had neglected his watch.

That slight limp with which Ellis Bleke was afflicted was explained with this logical statement—"I forgot which foot I had up in the air and came down on my own foot." . . . Notice all the cigar smoke hovering overhead last Monday? The cigars were passed out by Don Alsever, who became the father of a 6 lb. 3 oz. girl, born Sunday. Congratulations to you and the Mrs., Don! . . . Filling her glass with water at the drinking fountain, Carole Calkins was on her way back to her desk when she was stopped by thirsty Jan Conroy, who wanted just one swallow to moisten her throat. Carole obliged but received an empty glass after a few quick gulps. Jan is offering Carole a full time job as water-girl. . . . Paul Carter is hoping that after the remodeling is completed at Winter St., he will be supplied with a map that lists each door and what lies beyond. These changes have Paul very confused. . . . Did you notice Gerry Coyne's mutilated finger? This came from forcefully pushing the lock on a door without bothering to remove her finger first.

We're welcoming to Winter St. this week Marilyn Crouse, Quality Control; Eleanor Bollenbaugh, Cost; Harry Larson, Order Service; and Marjorie Hill, Employment. . . . The Volunteer Firemen's Chicken Fry was a huge success with 31 people attending. Of course, the main attraction was the delicious fried chicken. Paul Snyder's appetite wasn't up to par this year and so, mustering all his strength, forced himself from the table after devouring just 11 pieces of chicken. Other highlights included horseshoe games, of which Aubrey Lash was deemed "king," and many card games. Not having any success playing poker with the men, Ed Denzel became another player in the ladies' poker game. This didn't help Ed's luck, however. Pictures were taken of the gala event and any botched-up pictures will be blamed on Helen Blumenberg. As usual, the party was a huge success. . . . After hearing the numerous compliments that he got on the roses

RETIREMENT GIFT—Zella Wittmer shows Kathryn Johnson the watch given her as a retirement gift, while Paul Merkey and her two daughters, Violet Robbins, and Margaret Ellen Bager, look on. Mrs. Wittmer has been a GE employee since 1929. She was employed in GAC Section 13 at Taylor St. before retiring.

he brought in to work, Frank Lemish supplied Marion Zent with rose bush starts and is now contemplating entering the nursery business. . . . That bright as sunshine, healthy look with which Norma Wood has been endowed, can be attributed to Post Toasties and evaporated milk.

Wouldn't you know it if you had your sweater on upside down? Helen Weinert didn't. Waking up just in time to hear her driver honk the horn, Helen dressed. But didn't have her shoe buckled, nor all her buttons fastened, and had her sweater on upside down. The next morning the alarm will be set. . . . Congratulations to Charlene Bierbaum who celebrated her birthday last Friday. Harold Bohde broke a seven-year losing streak by hitting a winner on the baseball pool. Other winners were Andy Anderson, Bob Kerr, and Dale Weaver; the losers were too numerous to mention. . . . Bob Branning was really excited the other day; he heard sounds floating through the air that would add a perfect finishing touch to his orchestra. Investigating, he was disappointed to find that it wasn't a skilled magician, but a cement mixer.

Bowing enthusiasts should be able to secure expert advice from Herb Adamske, Jack Skevington, or Milt Bryan. All three are carrying close to 200 averages.

Nick (Little) Treiner says that the new fight law concerning three knock downs would have cost him a fight once. In one fight, Nick was down six times, then retaliated to knock out his opponent. . . . These nice fall days have enabled Bob Kerr to actively pursue his favorite outdoor sport. Bob likes to get on an old tractor, remove the muffler, and start going to town wide open. . . . Ed Ehrman was anxiously looking forward to last week-end and the Purdue-Notre Dame football game. Ed's youngest son, Phil, plays for Purdue. . . . The happiness that is beaming from Marie Buck can be attributed to the fact that her son Jack has just returned to the states, after spending several months in Japan with the army. . . .

The girls on third floor gathered last Friday to present Jane Oberlin with a beautiful light green baby shawl, daintily offset with pink rose buds. The gift was presented for the baby-to-be on Jane's last day at Winter St.

Ed Perkins became the father of a baby girl this week. The baby, named Elaine, was born on October 1 and weighed just under eight pounds. Congratulations to Ed and the Mrs. . . . Changes in the drafting and engineering this week were as follows: Sid Shaffmaster will be permanently located at Winter St. once again, and Mary Beth Schwartz transferred from the cost department to drafting. Best of luck to both. . . . With knocking knees, Walt Brake was awaiting his first airplane trip last week. Paul Berghorn and Walt were flying to Lynn. Plans were that Walt would pick up Paul to go to the airport and when Walt was late, Paul wondered if everyone's gory details on flying had made Walt turn "chicken". But, no, rumors have it that Walt showed up with approximately 16 of his relatives forming a band to see him off and bid their last good-bys, just in case. . . . Just by one little mistake, by stamping all papers September 31, Edna Kuhlman could have necessitated a complete revision of the Gregorian calendar system. "30 days hath September," Edna. . . . Evidently John Quaintance thought it would be terribly dull if he truthfully admitted he hadn't spent a very exciting vacation. So, when questioned, John, in his usual casual manner answered, "Oh, I went to Bermuda."

THE BIG WIND SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST.

by Rachel Mounsey

Lester Beck wishes to express his appreciation for the kindness shown on the recent death of his mother. . . . Congratulations to Helen Kritzman on the 8½ pound baby girl born September 21. Helen was form rly a tester on the 11-21 frame line. . . . Ruby Stuckey and husband weren't taking any chances on not seeing the ball game on TV, so they drove up to the lake where they got much better reception. . . . Ida Schrenk visited friends at De-

DECATURITES by George Laurent

Nothing like being prepared. Harold Durbin was invited out for dinner at the Merle Riley home. All he could think of was that good fried chicken that Mrs. Riley could prepare and hope that chicken was the feature of the day. Just to be sure that he would get chicken Durbin killed one just in front of Riley's home. Tough luck—Riley just dressed the chicken and put it in the deep freeze. . . . As Harry Staley says, "It isn't the initial cost of the cabinet that really costs." He has been so busy refinishing the cabinet and has only about 100 hours of labor involved in the project so far, and more yet to do. Oh, well, Harry, you will really have something nice when you get it finished. . . . I understand Clifford Miller is very unhappy; just think, Clifford has worked here since December, 1952, and never even once had his name in the GE NEWS. Anyway, now he has had it in two times. . . . The lunch box blues, or how to keep from having coffee nerves, was the subject for the lecture given by Peter D. Schwartz recently. Yes, he forgot to put the coffee in his thermos bottle but he had put in the cream. But, during the lecture he even managed to spill the cream. . . . The North is calling to Chalmer Lee. So, he takes his family and heads for Spider Lake near Traverse City, Mich. And they sure did work fiance, Ohio, over the week-end. . . . Vi Minnich and husband visited her brother in Pontiac, Mich. . . . Pauline Ober attended the Auburn Fair and Irene Winnik attended the ice show. . . . We are sorry to see Hazel Gahman and Betty Peffery leave us. . . . Clarence Gardt came in Monday morning with a beautiful black eye. He says a ball hit him. We wonder. . . . Lois Burry had the misfortune of falling off the back step at home and received a badly cut arm. We wish you a speedy recovery, Lois. . . . Darrell Emerick has a new name here at work, "Einstein." He just can't count. . . . Golda Tuck visited in Kentucky with her father over the week-end.

while there, clearing up his land so that he can build a cottage up there. He hopes to be able to get that done next year. . . . Leona Patrick wishes to express her sincere thanks to the anonymous giver of the gift she found in her car recently. It was an imitation of a four footed, long tail creature called a mouse. . . . Lawrence Beal got so tired waiting to get a painter to do some work for him, that he spent his third week of vacation "just painting." . . . We wish to express our deepest sympathy to Nora Smitley upon the death of her brother. . . . Say, have you heard? The Vilas Bollinger family has an increase. Three of them, to be exact. Yes, the family pet fox terrier presented them with three puppies. . . . Yep, Noble Drum is on vacation. We hear he took his wife and headed for Canada. . . . Ker-choo, ker-choo! Oh, me, oh my, what a frightful way to have to spend your vacation. Arthur Kelly spent his third week at home "just nursing a cold." . . . Yes, it's a pink bootied tax exemption at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Ohio City. She weighed 7 lbs. and arrived Sept. 24. Congratulations to the proud parents and hello to Carolyn. Carolyn has two brothers Henry says that he is glad to try his luck raising a girl since he has had so many hair-raising experiences so far with his two boys. . . . Just what is it about a bucket of paint that attracts these fellows anyway? Rumor has it that the seat occupied by Joe Murtaugh turned out to be a bucket of paint. And all of it did not stay in the bucket either when Joe tried to sit on it. Then a bucket of paint just jumped in front of Cal Amick one day. So, Cal kicked the bucket—of paint that is. . . . Seen roaming down the street at Van Wert the other Sunday were Charlie Zimmerman and "Skip" Hanna. P. S. Their wives were following them so we know that they did not get into any mischief while enjoying the warm afternoon sunshine. . . . A husband's pet peeve: It is bad enough when the wife moves the bedroom furniture and says nothing to the husband. But it is even worse when the husband, after his kerryplop on the floor, attempts to give his wife a goow bawling out only to turn on the lights and find she is not even there to listen. The final results, however, found both Jay and Marge laughing hysterically over the whole thing. . . . Employees are invited to stop at the new GeCode Club sales stand which is located near the entrance to Bldg. No. 1. GeCode has many fine cards for all occasions for sale as well as other nicknacks. The GeCode Club for the past several years has used this method as a means to partly defray the cost of their year round program. The girls solicit your support. . . . Herman Keller, Paul Meyer, J. K. Eady, Pappy Kreischer, and Mickey McDougal went to Mutschler's cottage in northern Michigan. We understand there has been some snow there but we are sure this crew will keep warm.

This year the Chamber of Commerce Annual Fish Fry has a special interest to GE employees. Joe Taylor, a Fort Wayne GE employee, and his Redbirds are billed as one of the entertainment highlights. One of their featured musical numbers will be "Johnny Appleseed," our own George Cramer's current hit. "Johnny Appleseed" could be called George's box-top hit, because as the tune jumped around in his head he would jot down, on motor packing boxes, a note or stanza or line. Don't be surprised if George's next song effort involves the hum of our production lines.

You Can Be a Happy Angel!

From your little cloud in outer space, you'll be able to gaze down on a home protected by the GE Insurance Plan. If the angel Gabriel should sound his trumpet for you, a member of the Plan, your beneficiary will receive an insurance payment equal to about 1½ times your average straight time earnings. This should take care of immediate needs in case of your death until the family can make the necessary adjustments. Because the cost is so low, you can afford other insurance, too. But, it's nice to know that this payment under the GE Plan will be made to your beneficiary as quickly as possible.

If the angel Gabriel should call you quickly to the fold because of an accident, $2,000 in an additional benefit will be paid to your beneficiary.

Of delegations coming from branch plants, DeKalb has the largest number of reservations with 43 women planning to attend. Those coming from other plants are: Tiffin, 21; Danville, 14; Chicago and Decatur 12 each; Morriston, 10, and Evendale, 9.

Miss Wibel is general chairman of the conference. She is being assisted by the following committees: Maxine Baker, chairman, Marian Leiter, Justine Brown, and Helen Bradley, program; Grace Collins, and all outgoing and incoming officers, hostesses; Mary Olson and Mary Jane Horrell, registration; Maxine Root, Dorothy Brubaker, banquet; Geraldine Schmidt and Frieda Knoche, luncheon; Donna Bauermeister, skit chairman.

our families where we would need such help," Wallace E. Beer, general chairman of the campaign, stated.

Through the Service Fund which contributes to the United Fund, one campaign replaces the many that were conducted by the 27 agencies.

The agencies provide assistance to members of the community in times of individual or community emergencies; they provide for the welfare of the less fortunate, and offer constructive building programs for the area's youth.

The Employees Service Fund is directed by a 16-man board of administrators elected by members once a year and appointed by the company and unions represented here. The board issues regular statements to the membership on the amount of contributions and the allocation of them.

up near the Broadway west side gate. In it will be exhibits showing the public GE Firsts; historical display of old products; community relations booth; Elex Club; GE Club; safety, fire, and industrial hygiene booth; job benefits; Apprentice School; laboratory, and appliance distributors display.

In visiting the Broadway buildings, guests will be able to take four tours through manufacturing sections of the Specialty Motor, Hermetic, Specialty Transformer, and Direct Current Motor and Generator Departments.

On these tours, the visitors will be on their own, guided by signs. Tour committees in each section will have employees stationed throughout each tour area to provide information and directions.

Children are invited to attend with their families and must be accompanied by adults.

Students and members of women's clubs outside the city have been invited to the celebration also. Approximately 2000 of these are expected to attend.

The sound and color movie, "Freedom and Power," produced by General Electric, will be shown at the GE Club every hour on the hour for guests.

GE OPEN HOUSE TODAY

Welcome To Our Anniversary Open House

It is a genuine pleasure for me to welcome our employees' families and the many friends and neighbors of General Electric to our 75th Anniversary Open House.

This week, we join with 131 other General Electric plants in celebrating the Company's Diamond Jubilee. All of us are proud to have had a part in these 75 years of electrical progress and invite you to share this occasion with us.

We hope you will enjoy your visit here today and that you will see evidences of employee initiative, inventive genius, and fine workmanship which have made this observance possible.

After meeting our people and seeing our products in the process of manufacture, we believe you will see why we take such pride in GE's significant achievements during the short span of one man's lifetime. These achievements have helped bring a new way of life to Fort Wayne and other communities throughout the world.

On this 75th Anniversary of our founding, we re-affirm our goal to be a good industrial neighbor in the best spirit of GE tradition.

What Is GE?

Recently in connection with the celebration of our 75th Anniversary, the GE NEWS was faced with the problem of finding a single picture which could be identified as "GE."

To make one photograph which would show such a diversified and abstract thing as the General Electric Company is no easy task. We decided to conduct a little survey and ask various Fort Wayne people what they pictured when they heard "the General Electric Company."

The answers were varied and interesting.

One woman not directly connected with the company said she always thought of a refrigerator when she heard of GE. This answer should please Fort Wayne employees, since the Fort Wayne-made Hermetic motor is such a vital part of GE's refrigerator. The refrigerator popped up again and again in conversations—more so than any other GE product—and ranking second only to the monogram as a GE identification mark.

GE IS A NEIGHBOR

Another woman told us that GE to her always meant her neighbor who works on the second shift here. She said she always thought of him going down his front walk as regular as clockwork every afternoon, carrying his lunch box. To her, GE was a person.

GE was also a person to many of its employees. A man said his foreman characterized GE to him. A little five-year-old boy who lives in the GE neighborhood, said GE was the guard at one of the gates. (The two of them are in the habit of exchanging views on the affairs of the world when the guard is on duty.)

One elderly lady, who lives on the Broadway bus route and likes to spend pleasant afternoons in her favorite downtown stores, always thinks of GE as "all those buildings just before you get to the elevation." Other downtown folks think of GE as the huge lighted monogram in the Fort Wayne sky at night.

A social service worker laughingly said GE meant a big check for the United Fund. And to top it off, one employee's wife told us she always thought of GE as a smell—the smell of compound used in transformers which her husband brings home on his clothes each afternoon.

And there were many other answers. . . .

A PANORAMA OF PROGRESS

But the only honest, and incidentally very satisfying, conclusion to be drawn is that GE is many things to many people. It can't be shown in one picture, because it is a panorama of all things and more. . . . OF BUILDINGS (133 plants in 103 cities); OF PEOPLE (One out of every 620 Americans is a GE shareowner—one out of every 200 workers is a GE employee; OF PRODUCTS (more than 200,000 different ones).

Today as we reflect on three quarters of a century in GE history, we are justifiably proud of the people, products, the buildings, the donations to the United Fund, even the smells and the noise which are part of the economic and industrial machine that is General Electric.

SHAFT SHAVINGS

by Blanche Cowell

We welcome Norris Hewitt from second to first shift. . . . Dorothy and Forest Whonsetler are back from vacation. They went on a fishing trip and fished in Munuscong Bay in Northern Michigan. They had a grand time. . . . Curiosity finally got the best of Sherry Varner. She got a notice there was a card for her at Columbia City that needed a penny postage before delivery. She could wait no longer, finally spent five cents to get the card only to find the message was, "So this is what you spent a nickel for." . . . Apologies to Leland Brown. I called him William in the column a couple of weeks ago. . . . "Two Gun" Germano and Claude Cline went hunting again and Claude came back with a black eye. The story goes a squirrel kicked him, but he says it was the gun. . . . Fred Paul remarked about the unusual quiet in his section. Then he noticed John Redmerski was on vacation and went about his work smiling. . . . Sue Wagner has her nose to the grindstone again. She is helping out in Wagner's office. The fellows are glad to see her back again, if only for a little while. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schoenlien are back from a Florida vacation. Elmer says its wonderful down there. . . . Sherry Varner is on the sick list. We wish her a speedy recovery. . . . There was some new plumbing put in on 19-4. The pipes and valves are just below the ceiling of Elmer Wagner's office. At times they are quite noisy. The plumber says they will quiet down after awhile but in the meantime, Rodger Haifley hopes they will hold out. He doesn't want a shower because he is not sure whether it would be hot or cold. . . . Forrest Reed calls Herb Roderman the "Brain" of the Commutator Section. There he stands beating his desk and chewing his gum while his hair turns grey.

WE WONDER why Cliff Denney was walking to work the other morning, and especially taking the long way to work. There is nothing like fresh air to wake you up, is there, Cliff? . . . PROF. HANK AND PROF. WILLIAMS were visiting this week for the A.I.E.E. conference. . . . CALL THE FIRE DEPARTMENT! Hugh Stephenson's garage caught on fire while he was downtown. When he arrived home the firemen had broken all the windows and the door and exposed all the contents (mostly antiques) to the neighbors. The neighbors always did want to know what was in the garage. Thanks to the firemen the garage is still standing. Hugh has made a few trips to the dump since the fire. . . . JERRY DURYEE is the proud owner of a new buggy. It is two-tone and has four wheels and one spare tire and is called a Mercury. . . . YO-YO SEASON is coming again. All young boys are getting their yo-yos out, and so is Harry Balz. What are you trying to do, Harry, be young again? . . . EMPLOYEES of Bldg. 4-6 give their best wishes to General Electric's 75 Year Diamond Jubilee!

Words by Walt

1878 To 1953

I wasn't around when our company was formed,
And I'm positive neither were you.
You couldn't have been, if you're working today,
For at sixty-five now we are through.

A few in retirement, of course, may recall
Having helped in our company's beginning;
But seventy-five is a long span of years,
So the ranks of these few must be thinning.

Imagine if all of those staunch pioneers,
Who created our first company link,
Could see what a chain it has grown to be.
I wonder just what they would think?

In modest surroundings, our company began
In the year eighteen, seventy-eight.
And now after seventy-five years of growth,
We feel we should all celebrate.

In reflecting, there's one thing we shouldn't forget,
And I feel it is worthy of mention.
It's well to remember, it didn't just grow
Without constant and careful attention.

In the years that have passed, it has given the world
What sincerely it feels was the best.
So it didn't just happen, it's standing today
Head and shoulders above all the rest.

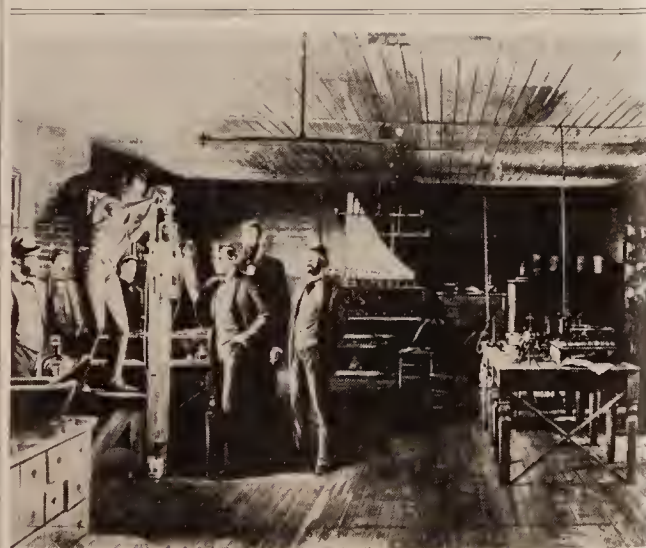

But, there's one thing these seventy-five years have taught;
It's the fact that the world has a way
Of forgetting the past and turning to those Who are building the best things today.

We all should be proud of its standing,
Because it is proof of a well-managed past.
But remember the future, each day moving in,
Must determine how long it will last.

We have no way of knowing just what it will bring,
Nor the things that it may have in store.
Each day is a challenge the moment it dawns,
To accomplish a little bit more.

If that is our goal, and it always has been In the seventy-five years we've led,
The future will still find us right on the top
Through the seventy-five years ahead.

TENSE MOMENT FOR GE—Thomas A. Edison waits tensely with associates in his Menlo Park, N. J., laboratory to see if his new carbonized thread lamp will work. The time: 1879, one year after formation of the Edison Electric Light Company, first of the companies which later became General Electric.

GE CLUB SETS ANNUAL FALL REVUE DATES

Supervisors Club Schedules Oct. 22 Theater Party

Members of the Supervisors Club have scheduled a Theater Party for Thursday, Oct. 22, Charles P. Gnau, Bldg. 26-2, and George A. Finkbeiner, Bldg. 26-3, co-chairmen, announced this week.

The Civic Theater will be the scene of the party. Members and their guests will see an advanced showing of the comedy, "The Male Animal." Corsages will be presented the ladies at the door. Those attending are asked to be at the theater at 7:30 p.m., the co-chairman stated.

To secure tickets for the event, members should see their contact men.

The October meeting is being arranged by Group II of the Club.

Authored by James Thurber and Elliott Nugent, the comedy hit has amused audiences throughout the land for many years.

The local production will feature Evelyn Erikson, Herbert Willis, James Voors, John Renforth, Al Busse, Jack Morey, Beulah Strachan, Robert Becker, Margery Suter, and Polly Deal. Mrs. Deal is the wife of GE employee Paul Deal.

The Theater Party is an annual event for Supervisors members.

Elex Club Orders 400 Yule Boxes For Servicemen

Approximately 400 Christmas boxes have been ordered by the Elex Club to send to GE employees in the Armed Forces, Voyce Brumbaugh, president, announced this week.

In making the announcement the president asked that friends and relatives of our servicemen notify Elex of any recent changes of address reported by any of the boys or girls. A great deal of delay results when changes are not reported, she stated.

These boxes are the fourth shipment made to GE GI's this year. Previous gifts were sent at Easter, in the spring, and in the summer.

To raise money for their defense program, Elex members conducted an Easter egg sale, ice cream social, rummage sale, and square dance this year. Proceeds from these events were used to pay for the boxes. The president stated that quite a bit of the expense involves postage. On the Christmas boxes, about $1.60 per box will be paid for postage.

Profits from candy now on sale at the Club's counter in the Bldg. 8-1 Employee Store and from contact girls will also be used in the defense program.

To Star in Fall Revue

'Harmonicats' to Head Bill At November 7-8 Club Show

Jerry Murad's Harmonicats, outstanding instrumental trio, will headline the 1953 annual Fall Revue sponsored by the GE Club, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 7 and 8, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, revealed this week.

A total of six shows have been planned for the revue. Five professional acts will come to the Club in addition to the headliners. Shows will be presented at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 7, and at 1, 3, 5, and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 8.

Employees' Tickets Free

The date that tickets, which are free to GE employees, will be available will be announced later. Employees may secure tickets for themselves and members of their immediate families. To do so, they must present their GE Club membership card for the current year. These cards, which show the number of dependents, will be issued to all employees later this month, the Club officers announced.

Well known since their nationwide hit, "Peg O' My Heart," the Harmonicats appear on radio, television, and at theaters and clubs in many parts of the country. As recording artists, they are known for their fast selling disks of "Tea For Two," "Harbor Lights," "After You've Gone," "Malaguena," "Dardanella," "Little Red Monkey," and "Harmonica Boogie."

The other five acts will be announced later.

Second Club Event

The Revue is the second event on the Club's 1953-54 entertainment calendar which has been increased in size and scope. In order to provide entertainment for GE employees and members of their immediate families, the entertainment committee has outlined a schedule of 48 separate programs.

The first of these will get under way Saturday, Oct. 31, when the first of 13 square dances take place at the Club. There will be 21 kiddies' movie programs, one every Saturday afternoon beginning Nov. 14.

An addition to the list are adult movie shows which will also be shown in the Club on Saturday evenings when no dances are slated. Eleven of these programs will be conducted. The annual Kiddies' Christmas Party and Spring Revue are also planned.

TO PAY $200 IN CASH AWARDS

GE Open House Essay Contest Announced For All Allen County High School Seniors

In conjunction with the GE Open House celebration today, an essay contest for high school seniors of Fort Wayne and Allen county will be sponsored, E. S. DeCrappeo, contest chairman announced.

The essay's subject is to be "What the General Electric Open House Meant to Me." The contest will be limited to seniors and should be written after they have completed the tour of the plant. Participation in the contest is entirely voluntary.

Six cash awards totaling more than $200 will be made. The first prize will be $100. Official entry blanks and contest rules have been submitted to principals of each of the high schools.

Judges of the contest will be Joseph P. Coughlin, manager of marketing, Specialty Transformer Department; Walter H. Sunier, manager of employee relations, Specialty Motor Department, and Virginia Molden, GE NEWS editor.

Essays must be submitted by October 26, 1953. Winners will be announced November 9, 1953.

Arrangements have been made for special conducted tours for high school seniors. The tours have been planned to give the students a firsthand look at GE operations and products.

A record number of 1444 women employees joined Elex in the first month of their membership drive, it was also reported this week.

As the pace of Elex activities quickens, members will host the annual fall conference this weekend at the Van Orman Hotel. A total of 275 members of women's clubs from branch plants, Chicago, Evendale, Elex and Partizan Chapter will attend the "New Horizons" conference.

H. A. MacKinnon, vice president and general manager of the Component Products Division, will be the principal speaker.

Other speakers on the program include Wallace E. Beer, supervisor of employee services, and L. C. Swager, manager of employee and plant community relations.

The conference will begin with registration at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 17, and conclude with a candlelight service Sunday, Oct. 18, in the afternoon.

New GE Fire Equipment Previewed At Downtown Rescue Demonstration

The GE fire department's new stretcher bag was previewed for Fort Wayne citizens recently in a rescue demonstration staged in a downtown area under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee.

Conducted in connection with Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10, the demonstration was given by city firemen and members of the committee, including Merle Morkoetter, GE battalion chief.

The roof of Meyer's Drug Store at the corner of Wayne and Calhoun Sts. was the scene of the noon program. By use of the bag, firemen showed how it is possible to evacuate an injured person safely.

Developed by members of the Ansul Chemical Company's rescue squad, the stretcher bag was made for GE's firemen by the squad which conducted a series of sessions on rescue work at our Fire School this summer. City firemen who make calls to GE attended the school and were trained in use of the bag.

The bag consists of a canvass stretcher which secures the injured person by three straps and an outer canvass which zips up after the person is secured. A steel ring is attached to the bag so that a rope may be fastened to it for raising and lowering. The GE firemen's portable speaker also was used in the demonstration.

Several GE-ers Expect to Win The 'Baby Derby'

Announcements of prospective winners of the GE Baby Derby have been pouring into the NEWS office. If everything goes as scheduled, there'll be at least one GE parent whose October 15 baby will receive five shares of company stock.

For the information of anyone not yet acquainted with the contest, we repeat the details. To celebrate GE's 75th Anniversary any babies born to GE parents (at least one parent must be on the payroll from January 15 to October 15) on October 15 will receive five shares of company stock—in trust to the parents.

A note to expectant fathers: IF YOUR baby is born today, don't walk, run to the nearest phone booth and call the GE NEWS, Ext. 441. We will wire the Baby Derby Chairman in New York immediately, and you will receive the stock shortly thereafter.

Good luck—and we hope to hear from lots of you.

Lloyd Jacobs was on his vacation last week. Could it be that he attended the World Series via TV? . . . We hope Sam Taylor eats all the fruit and vegetables he gets in Lloyd's place. Maybe that is why he bought such a big garbage can at Sears. . . . Moe Moffitt says he didn't have any trouble with his back until he rode in Sam Warren's new Mercury. . . . Helen Smith graduated from the bearing room to testing fields. Glad to see you again, Helen. . . . The boys all wonder where Freeman White was when he stepped on that nail. We all know he wasn't out helping Paul Arnold on his house. . . . Hazel Stauffer's son, Jim, likes it at I. U. The Stauffer family is going to visit down in Bloomington soon and will take in a football game. . . . There are going to be a lot of new TV antennas in Fort Wayne. Margaret Beugnot, Fred Castor, Bonnie Engelking, and Bonnie Wolf are all proud owners of new TV sets. . . . After buying a new pair of trousers, and taking his meals standing up for a few days, Bill Widdifield says he is going to call in his three sons to finish putting a new roof on the barn. . . . Since you've moved in your new house, Ted Bain, we want to know how Millie is making out, and all about the new red mail box. . . . Just as there is a reason for everything, a cause for every effect, so are conditions, heredity, and environment responsible for much we condemn in our friends. . . . Ivan Parrish has moved to Tri-Lakes where he made good friends with a neighbor. There is nothing strange about this, but this particular neighbor lent him his TV set and Ivan kept it until the neighbor had to ask for it back.

WIRE RAVELINGSTAYLOR ST.*Art Rasor

A welcome to all families of the Wire Section and other GE families to the tour of the Wire Section. We hope you have enjoyed our preparation as much as we enjoyed your hospitality.

TOOL BITSBLDG. 19-4 and 5*Don Clark

Welcome, families, to our open house today. We are glad you came. . . . Warren Brown's return to work after his illness also makes us glad. . . . Bill Hoel, who has been repairing machines for many years, absolutely refuses to shake hands right-handed. Of course, I don't blame him, since he now has a broken bone in his right hand. In shifting a guard that he was reworking he caught his hand on a vise. Was he surprised when they told him he had a broken bone. The vise still works okay, left-handed. . . . Vernon Burke has again demonstrated why he is a model husband. His wife woke up at five o'clock the other morning, poked him in the ribs and told him she was hungry. Vernon crawled out of bed, made his way to the kitchen, prepared fried eggs, bacon and toast, headed back to the bedroom, told his wife it was ready and dropped into bed for a few minutes more of snoozing. Now wifey—don't you get any ideas.

WINTER STREETJOTTINGS*by Alma Elliott

Al Disler says it isn't necessary to pick a winner in the World Series—just pick people who can pick winners and generously offer, "If I win I'll share with you and if you win, you share with me." . . . Paul Snyder has discovered Walt Disney. Have you met Mickey yet? . . . New faces in various places: The winding department welcomes Virginia Moore; Don Voohies (of the southern accent) and Joe Hahn have returned to assembly from Broadway; Carl Hoffer, an apprentice tool-maker, is back with us until December; our new matron is Mary Kiep; Marcos Belen is the latest addition to drafting; and sales accounting has two newcomers, Betty Spittler and Marie Shaffmaster.

David Jones, one of the "Now Smile" gang, will have his own dark room and equipment right at hand. All this and a nice new house, too. . . . Winter St. girls have the welcome mat out to anyone, office or factory, who would like to bowl with us at 8:30 on Friday nights at the GE Club. Those interested may contact Carole Calkins, second floor. Just follow the strains of "Owen Is Back" to the source for easy location. . . . Dale McCombs' joy in his new car has dimmed and he now comes to work moaning, "Oh, for the good old horse and buggy days." Troubles, Dale? . . . Ray Ruegamer is greeting folks with "Hi Podner" these days. Ray spent his vacation in the Wild West.

Sorry to hear that Neal Daley had his vacation plans cancelled by illness at home. . . . Want to all circle round and do-se-do? Harry Kessen is the man to see for instructions in "THE DANCE." . . . Oscar Mench has just returned brown and rested from a three weeks' vacation in California. . . . Harvey Petty says he will wear a diving suit to his next football game. Harvey was another person who was caught in the downpour at Ann Arbor while watching the University of Michigan beat Tulane.

SMOKEHOUSESAYINGS*BLDG. 22*George Winans

The "Smokehouse" extends a hearty welcome to all the guests of GE's Open House. . . . We believe we detect a slight French accent in Charlie Castle's voice since he has returned from his trip. . . . The stingiest man we know of is Harold Smith, the "whip" of Bldg. 20. Smitty is also a deputy sheriff, butcher boy, photographer, and florist. His son sells magazines and his daughter sells lead pencils, and yet he won't buy his poor kids any toys. So, Hobie Stevenson buys toys for them. . . . Our sympathy to Don Voorhees, who has a bad knee. It bothered him so much the other Saturday that he couldn't go up or down the steps. So, the little woman had to clean up the basement all by herself. Don says he could hardly enjoy the ballgame for listening to the Mrs. moving those heavy boxes and things around down there. . . . That chubby little fellow sitting on his front steps looking through a telescope is Bldg. 22's Bouncey Becker, and he's looking for the stork. We all hope the big bird makes his landing on October 15. That GE stock would make a fine start for the little fella.

SPECIALTY MOTORSShipping—Receiving—Order Service*Eileen Fitch

Mr. Wheeler was surprised when he received a cake for his birthday, and it really was different. The cake looked like a real circus clown, full trouser legs, polka-dot suit, even a tassel on its cap. There were only 6 candles on the cake, so we thought each candle surely represented more than just one year. Fred informed us, each candle represented 6½ years, as he and Jack Benny are the same age, 39. . . . The shipping office, and their families, had a weiner roast Monday evening at McMillen Park and it would be hard to say who had the most fun, the big kids or the little ones. With singing, dancing, games, and all you could eat, a good time was had by all. Eloise Hoehn took first prize in the balloon blowing contest. The prize? Another balloon. . . . Bill Brown has been back to work now for several weeks, and we didn't let you know. We wanted to be sure he would make it. He really looks fine now. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISHES to Russell Ramel and C. L. Saurbaugh. . . . Frank Parker tried to tell us that his cigar was made of cabbage leaves and we didn't believe him. After he took a few vigorous puffs on it, smelling was believing. . . . Bob Younghaus is getting off to a fine start this bowling season. He bowled a 605 score Monday night in the Moose Minor League at Scott's Bowling Alley.

RACONTEURSECTION 14 TAYLOR ST.*Mary Whitelock

We would like to take this opportunity to welcome all employees and their families and pensioners to our section. . . . Hugh Neely is planning on retiring since he won two baseball pools in a row. . . . Carl Kloepper was co-winner in another series pool and was counting quite a pile of that crisp, green stuff—by fives, yet! . . . Dorelyn Forde's one and only thinks Fridays are bad business. Because it was on Friday that someone rammed into the left door of his new Studebaker at an intersection; while doing some excavating, a wall caved in and knocked him out cold; then he tangled with a cement mixer and cracked a knuckle. All on the same Friday.

F. G. MOTORSBLDG. 8-1*Mary Wright

A 75th Anniversary.
We are about to celebrate,
With Open House and refreshments.
Let's be sure to not be late.

Each employee is proud, I'm sure,
Of the progress we have made.
May we congratulate this company,
And may their progress never fade.

To those who had to leave us due to transfers, we miss you and hope you are back real soon. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Gertrude Martin, who is in the St. Joseph Hospital, and to Ann Lehman, who is recuperating at home. . . . We almost had a double celebration of birthdays last week—Virgie Mayer and Edith Clevenger. Congratulations, girls. . . . I am sure Jay Burris is soon going to apply for a patent on his 3D field glasses. But do they serve the purpose, Jay? . . . We are sure glad to have Mary Baker back with us again.

On Our 75th Anniversary —

THE GE STORY

Seventy-five years old today! That's good reason to celebrate, and good reason, too, to take a few moments to look back into the past and re-read the GE story.

We have to go way back to 1878, when the Indians were still at the back door. Our country was on the verge of its greatest era of progress, and in New York 13 men met on October 15 to form the Edison General Electric Company. They didn't know it then, but it was a night of destiny for hundreds of thousands of people.

Today, one out of every 620 Americans own a part of General Electric; one out of every 200 American workers is a GE employee; one out of every 92 scientists is in a GE laboratory, and one out of every 31 engineers is a GE engineer.

This is the story of one of America's really big companies, which started almost literally on a shoe string.

REMEMBER THIS HOUSE?

It's where Fort Wayne GE was born, on Superior Street between Calhoun and Harrison. It wasn't very pretentious, but it was a good beginning and we stayed there from 1881 to 1883. It was the Jenney Electric Lighting Plant then. Three years earlier the Edison General Electric Co., GE forerunner, was formed. This modest dwelling was torn down shortly after World War II.

Let's move on now to a picture story of the people who, blessed with the privilege of being Americans, helped build this company and who now strive to make its future as brilliant as its past.

SYMBOL OF QUALITY—

Within our walls we help to bring about a better way of life through the manufacture of many products. Four employees displaying one of the products from their individual departments are (l-r): Geraldine Bevan, Bldg. 26-5, Specialty Transformer Department; Vern Dafforn, Bldg. 4-5, Specialty Motor Department; Emma Snyder, Bldg. 17-3, Hermetic Motor Department; and Russell Case, Bldg. 19-1, DC Motor and Generator Department.

TIME FOR ACTION in the form of a move to a better location came in 1886 when we picked up our belongings and transferred them from Calhoun and Harrison Sts. to our present Broadway site. While other future General Electric plants in the country were getting their start, we settled down to work in our new home, tugging and pulling at wires to make dynamos by the light of arc lamps—our only other type of product in those days. Two years later, we joined forces with the Thomson-Houston Company, which in 1892 merged with the Edison General Electric Company to form the GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY.

MEN OF VISION formed our company with optimistic activities and continuous effort. Most outstanding of these was Thomas Alva Edison. One-time railroad butcher, telegraph operator, and ticker-tape repairman, he carbonized a tiny bit of thread to form the filament for his first incandescent lamp in 1879.

THE ERA OF ELECTRICITY for everyone was ushered in at Menlo Park, N. J., where Edison conducted his experiments in this main building. Our great-grandparents might have viewed the first public showing of his lamp on the poles in front of this building.

FIRE BRIGADE—Preparedness was a virtue of chaps in our plant in the early days. With this in mind, they organized the Fort Wayne Electric Corporation Fire Department in 1890. The first of many organizations to develop here later on, this group was popular for the recreational activities it provided in addition to fire fighting training. Our present day firemen gave us such good training and protection that our plant received national recognition for no fire losses during 1951. Probably the greatest fire danger for the 1905 men shown at left involved their bushy mustaches.

OUR FIRST BOSS was R. T. McDonald. Although we know the story about him parking his private railroad car on the siding by the plant, we remember him as the one who brought the Jenney Electric Co. to Fort Wayne. He started the early plant to produce dynamos and arc lamps developed by James A. Jenney. A successful business man, McDonald contributed much to our success by bringing top men with vision and ideas to our plant. He cut quite a place for us in the community and industry. The Jenney arc lamps were destined to merge with the Edison General Electric Co., and blaze the trail to light the world.

NEW PRODUCT was introduced after the turn of the century when we began making fractional horsepower motors for player pianos, coffee grinders, and washing machines.

THE WOOD SYSTEM was an important part of us for many years. It was the most up-to-date lighting system of its time and was developed by James J. Wood (extreme right), one of the vivid personalities brought here by McDonald. Some of our present buildings still bear Wood's name, reminding us of the man who had an important part in building our future. Wood is shown above looking over one of the products bearing his name with some of our forebears who manufactured the parts of this system.

GREAT JOY was felt in the Summit City when the Pennsylvania Railroad passed the word around that it was going to elevate its tracks. This was a memorable occasion in 1910 for both us and the community and the plant photographer rushed out to get a "before" shot of the tracks near our buildings.

ELIMINATING THE PAINS—In order to refresh everyone and put them in better condition to take up their work at desk or machine, we took time out from our duties in 1920 to participate enthusiastically in calisthenic sessions.

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS have been a part of our group for a long time. As the nation entered the Roaring Twenties era, those of us who administered the Mutual Benefit Association plan went out to the park to have our picture taken in 1920. Still in existence today, the MBA now provides employees' dependents with assistance in times of sickness.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS of building their organization into a top women's industrial group were celebrated by Elex Club members in 1941. Since the girls organized their club in 1916 they have gone from basket weaving to a European tour this year. E. A. Barnes, former general superintendent of the Fort Wayne operations, and "father" of the Elex Club was honored on the occasion of their Silver Anniversary in 1941.

GUARDING OUR MONEY—During the years, in addition to joining clubs, recreation organizations, and benefit plans, we were busy earning our livelihood by building bigger and better motors and generators. Instead of checks issued on modern machines, we received our pay in currency, and even received gold pieces many years ago. Each week a pretty sizeable payroll was brought from the local banks and closely guarded by a young army loaded for bear. Not even a nickel escaped under their watchfulness.

HURRAY FOR OUR TEAM! All of us cheered the GE Club Voltmen when they won the national semi-pro baseball championship for three straight years, 1947-48-49. This is just one of the many athletic organizations sponsored and organized by the GE Club, of which all of us are members.

BOOM TIMES kept all of us busy before the big crash of the markets. By 1929 when we hurried around to work in our village of buildings, we had expanded on both sides of Broadway and added a plant at Winter St.

WORLD WAR I—We sent our men to war in 1917 and honored them in our hearts every time we looked at the flag with 180 stars for those who did not return.

WORKING TOGETHER we geared our minds and hearts for the second World War and pitched in with all Americans working toward victory. Our co-workers left us to enter the battle and we continued producing war equipment and giving blood. Our Taylor St. plant grew out of the war and was built by the government in 1941.

HAPPY days are experienced by many of us when we find that we have won a cash GE suggestion award for our ideas of ways to improve our work. Since 1923 when we started this system in our plant, we have turned in ideas that netted us more than a half million dollars in awards. Some of us, like Red Braden, have earned several awards by turning in many suggestions. Our company pioneered in the formation of the Suggestion Plan in industry. One of our Schenectady employees, Christian Steenstrup, is generally recognized as the founder of the plan.

OUR CUSTOMERS are important to us and many times they come to call at the plant. One of these, Ray Herriek, president of the Tecumseh Products Company, came to Fort Wayne this year to talk with Hermetie Motor employees.

ENJOYING A GOOD INVESTMENT are the 1291 retired employees of our ranks who joined the Pension Plan and provided for their future while working with us. To many of these, like Frank Ross, retirement has meant traveling near and far. The company adopted its first Pension Plan in 1912.

MARCHING MUSIC has long been a favorite among us. Proof of this were the many bands we organized through the years and their popularity. This musical group played at the auspicious occasion of our Decatur plant dedication in 1922. Becoming an ever-increasing family we have added five branches since our first at Decatur to take care of our business.

YEARS OF RESEARCH by our marketing and engineering staffs resulted in the Form G fractional horsepower motor, a completely new motor designed to satisfy future needs of this expanding business.

GOOD NEIGHBORS in the community, we perform our civic duties not only by participating in many organizations but by contributing to 27 area health and welfare agencies through the GE Employees Community Services Fund. We operate the Fund through the representatives we elect. Annual solicitations for new members are held.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE, we set aside space for classrooms and a training area and opened the Apprentice School in 1913. Here we train our young men for a career in industry through either the machinist-toolmaker or drafting courses which represent about four years of work each. Today, we have 127 employees enrolled in the school.

OUR PRESIDENT, Ralph J. Cordiner, has visited us on several occasions since he succeeded C. E. Wilson to General Electric's top position in 1950.

KIDDIES PARTIES for employees' children at Christmastime are only a part of the huge program in which all of us in the Fort Wayne GE family participate. We are mighty proud of our Club and its activities which are planned by the officers we elect. There is always some recreational or entertainment program going on for us and our families.

SIX TIMES SAFER AT GE—Our plants throughout the country are six times safer for employees than their homes, National Safety Council records tell us. We have accomplished this by inaugurating and cooperating with safety programs. Locally, our plant and its branch plants won the council's 1951 Award of Honor, which is the top industrial division award. Growing through the years, our local program now provides safe working areas with guards on hazardous equipment and for many of us this includes wearing safety glasses on the job.

LOOKING AHEAD—Our place in the span of time shows us a future as bright as that visualized by Edison and with the same optimistic enthusiasm we plan for tomorrow through research and training programs. Adding an even firmer foundation to our place in the community and the nation in the years to come, we believe with Dr. W. R. Whitney, first director of General Electric research, "The undiscovered truths of creation are much more numerous and of greater import than the ones thus far discovered."

George Ludeman has been going around with his chest out so much that the buttons on his shirt are about to pop off. George is leading the Classic Tournament with a big 653 series. How does a bowler like that get such a big handicap? . . . Joe Adams bought his wife an automatic washer and Joe, wanting to know how it operated, started fooling around with it. When he finished nosing around, he left the washer on "Suds Saver". The next day his wife started to do the washing. She thought, while the tub was filling, she would go gossip with the neighbor lady. She was gone only a few moments and when she returned she had seventeen gallons of water on the floor. TALES from TAYLOR

SECTION 13 TAYLOR ST.

by Harry Parker

One morning, the other week, Johnnie Junk awoke suddenly. Getting out of the hay he glanced at the clock which gave the time as 5:40. Deciding to get back into bed for another half hour's snooze, he flopped down hard on the bed breaking the side rail, which immediately took all the sleep out of him. Now he is looking for a good wood welder to put his divan of Morpheus back in good order. . . . Ralph Dunlap took in the style show at the Coliseum and was very much impressed with the fall styles in men's clothes. Also, the streamlined young men modeling them. Desiring to look as they did he is planning to go on a strict diet so as to reduce his bay window. Then he will purchase himself a complete new outfit for the coming fall and winter. But it was the young lady models that really laid him in the aisles. He simply went ga-ga over them. He became so dizzy that he had to ask several of them if they would be so kind as to help him find his car. . . . Brice Martin, being of conservative nature, has turned his attention to parking meters. When he goes into the business district to do a little shopping, he drives around for about an hour or so checking all the vacant metered zones. Then he picks out the one that has the most unexpired time on it and proceeds to park his battered old kettle. In all probability he uses up about fifty cents worth of gasoline to save a few pennies on the meter. He tells us that he can see no sense in wasting all that money.

GE President Outlines Expansive 10-Year Production Program for Electric Industry

NEW YORK—While the world ponders the potentialities of atomic power, the electrical manufacturing industry is going ahead with plans to produce as much electrical equipment in the next 10 years as it did in the past 75 years of its history, President Ralph J. Cordiner of the General Electric Company said here today.

"And we'll probably achieve this goal before atomic power becomes economically feasible for peace time use," he added.

"Electrical Eternity"

Whatever the future of atomic power, it will represent no more than another chapter in an "electrical eternity," for the simple reason that atomic power will provide only another fuel for generating electricity, Mr. Cordiner said.

"Electricity will continue to be man's most useful tool for as long as anyone living today can reasonably conceive. The so-called ages—the steel age, the electronic age, and even the atomic age—will continue to depend on electricity as the source of their eminence, even until the time they are supplanted by other transient ages," the GE executive said.

In a message to the company's 226,000 employees commemorating General Electric's 75th anniversary, Mr. Cordiner declared no other industry, with the single exception of the chemical industry, has the potential of the electrical manufacturing industry in the next decade.

Must Prepare

"By 1961, our industry will supply an estimated 5.75 per cent of the gross national product as compared to 4.1 per cent last year," Mr. Cordiner stated. "In fact, we must prepare to grow more than twice as fast as the remainder of the economy."

General Electric, expecting to report record sales of about $3 billion this year, traces its history back to October 15, 1878, when Thomas A. Edison and a group of 13 investors formed a company for the purpose of inventing an electric lamp. At that time, the group raised a total of $300,000, of which Edison used $250,000 to provide additions to an existing plant, and retained $50,000 as working capital.

The growth of General Electric since its incorporation in 1892 has been steady in every respect. Since 1940, the company has nearly trebled the number of its plants, more than doubled its number of employees, and increased its sales volume six times. Today it has 132 plants in 102 cities in 25 states, is owned by nearly a quarter-million stockholders; employs one out of every 92 American scientists and one out of every 31 American engineers employed in industry.

As the electrical manufacturing industry continues to play an increasingly important role in the country's economy, Mr. Cordiner said, General Electric can expect to do an annual business of between $4 and $5 billion by 1961, even if it does no more than maintain its share of the industry against the continuing efforts of an estimated 900 competitors.

GE CLUB AWARDS BANQUET OCT. 27

Club Trophies, Other Honors to Go To Ranking Softball and Golf Teams

Tuesday, Oct. 27, the first Athletic Awards banquet to be conducted by the GE Club will take place, Bill Schible, president, announced today.

The fall banquet will honor those who won awards in Club sponsored sports activities during the spring and summer.

Invitations will be sent to all those eligible to take part in the ceremonies.

Awards will be made for softball and golf activities, and for the GE Club Junior Federation League baseball team. Little and PONY League activities are company-sponsored and will not be eligible for awards.

Items included in the awards are jackets with the GE Club emblem on them, trophies, and golf shirts.

Site of the affair will be the club auditorium.

A similar banquet is planned for the spring when winners of fall and winter activities sponsored by the Club will be honored.

In charge of arrangements for the initial event are Red Braden, golf chairman; Erv Huth, athletic chairman; Joe Kramer, bowling chairman; Charlie Wilt, GE Club manager, and prexy Schible.

Another Big 'Battle Royal' On Monday Night Ring Card

By popular demand, a Battle Royal will be featured at the second GE Club boxing show, Monday, Oct. 19, in the Club gym, Frank Newport, boxing chairman and coach, announced this week.

In addition to this comedy match which pits four blind-folded fighters against each other, five inter-city matches will take place with Golden Glove boys from Indianapolis.

This is a change from the original schedule which called for Fort Wayne lads to meet South Bend pugilists. The team from Indiana's capital city has been getting plenty of practice before television cameras. They have been on a weekly fight program produced in that city.

Fort Wayne boys participating in the second show in the Club include three former area champions and two runners-up. In the heavyweight class is Johnny Freeman, 1953 champ in that division and Odell Billingsley, who won the light-heavyweight runner-up title in 1952.

Jimmy Reeder, featherweight champion in 1953, will be on the card along with Al Campbell, welterweight champ in the same year. The fifth match will feature John McBride, of Garrett, featherweight runner-up this year.

Tiny Bland is coach for the Indianapolis boys making the trip. He is in charge of the Golden Gloves annual matches in that area.

The Battle Royal takes two boys from each area and puts them in the ring with blindfolds and one glove each. In their ungloved hands, they have a small metal box with stones in it taped securely. When the bell sounds, the fighters move out from their corners and try to locate each other by the sound made by the rattle of stones in the box. This proved the highlight in the initial bout conducted at the Club last month.

The coming ring card is the second of five to be staged here prior to the 1954 Golden Gloves tourney early next year. In addition to these matches, five away from the Summit City have been planned.

The purpose of these meets is to develop the entrants in the annual GG classic by giving them experience.

Birthday Spells Trouble For Ray Milland Tonight

A circled date on the calendar coupled with a phone message from a bakery that "the" cake will be delivered to his house "on time" indicates only one thing to Professor Ray McNutley, played by Ray Milland—it's his wife's birthday—on the General Electric Comedy Theatre radio broadcast of "Meet Mr. McNutley," tonight at 8 p.m., EST, on CBS.

Even on this short notice, Ray determines to buy a present for his wife (Phyllis Avery). However, his good intentions soon hit a stumbling block in the person of Dean Bradley (Verna Felton) who insists he entertain the parents of a prospective student. All day long and even at dinnertime the professor is involved in the task of convincing the couple that Lynn-haven College for Women is the best place for educating their offspring.

Not only is he unable to find the opportunity of buying a gift, but is in the position of having to foist unexpected guests on his wife for dinner where he learns the real reason for "the cake."

Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher wrote this episode of "Meet Mr. McNutley."

GE Company to Discontinue Wringer-Type Washer Line

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Manufacture of wringer washers will be discontinued by the General Electric Company by April, 1954, it was announced today.

James H. Goss, general manager of the company's home laundry equipment department, said the decision to discontinue manufacture of wringer washers was made in order that effort might be concentrated on the production of automatic washers and dryers.

Wringer washers have been produced at the Bridgeport, Conn., works of the company since 1935, and the 1954 line, the last to be manufactured by GE, will be produced there.

Goss noted that wringer washer manufacture was the only phase of the major appliance division operation located in Bridgeport that had not been transferred to Louisville in 1951.

"The development and acceptance by the public of the automatic washing machine shows clearly that the future of the business lies in this field," Goss said. "The rapid growth of the automatic washer has speeded the obsolescence of the conventional wringer type washer," he added.

"Last year, industry sales of the automatic washer exceeded for the first time the sales of the wringer washing machine and this year are substantially ahead. The General Electric Company is always alert to new developments so that changes can be made to supply the demands of the market."

BABY BOOM!

182 New Share Owners Win Stock Derby

INTRODUCING—a new General Electric stockholder, John Lee Long. The son of Earl B. Long, Bldg. 4-5, Master Long is shown a few hours after he made his debut at the St. Joseph Hospital Oct. 15. John Lee and the four other babies born to Fort Wayne plant employees are among the 182 GE babies who receive five shares of GE stock each for entering the world on Oct. 15.

General Electric today stood firmly behind its offer to present five shares of stock to any child born October 15 to a GE employee despite a startling baby crop. The count is up to 182, 103 of which were boys.

Five Fort Wayne employees shared in the awards. Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Neal had a son, Richard Alan, at 4:27 a.m., October 15. Mr. Neal works in Bldg. 4-3.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shultz also had a son, their second child, at 2:10 a.m. Mr. Shultz is an inspector in Section 17 at Taylor St. A son, Jonne Lee, was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Long at 7:35 a.m. Mr. Long works in Bldg. 4-5.

James Porter, Jr., and his wife Jamesetta had the only girl in the Fort Wayne area. Alicia Denise Porter was born at 5:29 p.m. Mrs. Porter works at Taylor St., and Mr. Porter is employed in Bldg.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Grunst take honors with the last baby born within the time limit. Their son arrived at 11:59 p.m. Mr. Grunst works in Bldg. 2-2.

Company officials noted that GE stock which opened October 15 at 76, closed at 78½.

The "stock" derby was announced last January 14 with the idea of welcoming a new group of investors yesterday to commemorate the founding of GE. Seventy-five years ago on October 15, a group of 13 investors formed the

SET SERVICE SPEED RECORD

GE people can put on the speed when it means customer service. Thanks to an example of this special service, TV station WACH at Newport News, Va., put its first program on the air Oct. 2 on schedule.

The day before the station's scheduled debut, Hugh Foster, of Graybar, telephoned C. R. Johnson, of the Norfolk, Va. Apparatus Sales Office at 12:50 p.m. to say that WACH-TV, the second UHF station in the Tidewater area, needed a 5 KVA automatic voltage stabilizer in order to open their new station the next day. WACH was determined not to put on its first program with a bad picture transmission.

The ball was in GE hands.

At 1:10 p.m., Johnson talked with H. F. Briggeman, Specialty Transformer production manager here. Briggeman put a 388-pound stabilizer in a pick-up truck and rushed it to the Baer Field airport by 2:15 p.m. A United Airline plane was departing at 3:25, but the extra time was needed because of the weight of the apparatus.

The stabilizer arrived in Cleveland at 6 p.m., where Capital Airlines took over at 7:05 p.m. bound for Norfolk.

At 11:36 a.m., Oct. 2, the equipment was in WACH's hands and the "show went on."

Foster had picked up the equipment at the Norfolk airport and delivered it personally to the customer at Newport News. Elapsed time—22 hours, 46 minutes.

The Dangerous Years

It's possible we all have different ideas about just what the dangerous years are. However, one might imagine that the dangerous years safety-wise might be among the very young who are daring—and the very old who are tottering. Tain't true!

At least it isn't true as far as motor vehicular accidents are concerned. Statistics recently compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show that the greatest increase in death rates through motor accidents since 1949 has taken place in the age groups from 15 to 19 and 25 to 29. These figures are for all types of motor accidents, including pedestrian deaths which involve one or more automobiles.

It's all very well to analyze the "whys" of these statistics—but in almost 100 per cent of the cases the cause simmers down to carelessness. The wise thing to do is—always be careful and be alert. Remember liquor and automobiles are a poor combination; adjust your automobile in tip-top operating condition—beware smooth tires, and poorly adjusted brakes; obey all warning signs. As a pedestrian—refrain from jay walking; look before crossing streets; when walking along a highway, walk on the left hand side of the road facing oncoming traffic; when walking on the highway at night, be sure to carry a lighted flashlight.

Don't you tempt the statistics.

Families, Friends See GE at Work During 75th Anniversary Open House

With the last lollipop stick cleaned away and no more space helmets or comic books to give out, employees at the Broadway and Taylor St. plants settled down to normal routine this week, after joining in with some 30,000 citizens to celebrate GE's 75th anniversary at the Open House.

A record throng invaded our gates to attend the largest industrial Open House ever conducted in this area. Besides consuming 1500 gallons of punch and 29,000 pieces of cake, the visitors toured manufacturing areas in four special tours at Broadway and one at Taylor St. with not even one minor abrasion reported.

In addition to the tours, the guests were acquainted with other activities that go to make up the GE Story in a large tent housing various exhibits.

The visitors came and departed on special buses which offered them free transportation. Among the crowd were special school tours from the city and surrounding towns.

Manager of employee relations in the departments feel that the comments and interest shown during the Open House were very gratifying and made the event well worthwhile.

GE Sales Highest In Company History

Sales of the General Electric Company for the first nine months of this year, totalling $2,341,048,000, represented the highest nine-months' level in the company's history and marked an increase of 29 per cent over the same period last year, President Ralph J. Cordiner announced this week.

Net earnings for the nine months totalled $116,386,000, which was equivalent to 5.0 cents on each dollar of sales. During the corresponding period of 1952 net earnings equaled 5.2 cents per dollar of sales. A total of $873,499,000—or 37.3 cents out of each dollar of sales—went to General Electric employees in the form of wages and the cost of benefits.

Provision for Federal taxes on income and renegotiation for the first nine months of 1953 showed a sharp increase over the corresponding period in 1952. With an increase in both sales volume and profit, those portions of income subject to excess profits taxes also increased, Mr. Cordiner stated. The total nine month's provision for Federal, state, and local taxes amounted to $346,537,000.

The company's sales for the third quarter of 1953 were $780,600,000 compared with $777,819,000 for the year's first quarter, and with $782,629,000 for the second quarter. Sales for the third quarter a year ago amounted to $642,288,000.

Commenting on the nine month's results, Mr. Cordiner noted that all of the company's major groups—Apparatus, Appliance and Electronics, Industrial Products and Lamp, and Defense Products—shared in the increased business. "We see nothing in this picture to justify the fears of a recession which are being expressed in so many quarters today," Mr. Cordiner said. "All product groups remained firm in the second and third quarters and were better than a year ago. Inventories have been kept well in line, and we see no reason why consumer durables cannot continue to maintain a good volume with proper selling effort at all levels.

"The other principal source of concern of those predicting a recession apparently has been an expected cutback in defense requirements following the Korean armistice. However, the General Electric defense cutbacks will be gradual and are not expected to take effect until next year. In the meantime there is the opportunity to expand our efforts on normal activities. The cutback in personal income taxes and expiration of the excess profits tax scheduled to take effect January 1 should help sustain a good volume of business next year."

A dividend of 75 cents a share of common stock will be paid on October 26 for the third quarter of 1953, making a total of $2.25 a share declared for the first nine months of this year, which is the same amount as declared last year. This is the 226th dividend on General Electric common stock.

THANK YOU

Robert C. Hanna, general chairman of the anniversary committee, and L. C. Swager, official host, extended their thanks and appreciation to all employees this week for their cooperation and assistance in making the Open House a great success.

EARN NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL TOP AWARD

3 Million Accident-Free Man Hours Bring Award of Honor to Two Depts. From National Safety Congress

For their record of more than three million man hours without a lost-time accident, employees of the Specialty Transformer Department and Ballast Department were awarded the National Safety Council's Award of Honor this week.

Presentation of the award was made during the 41st National Safety Congress and Exposition in Chicago at a meeting of GE safety men. Stephen R. Capps, Specialty Transformer manager of employee relations, accepted the award on behalf of the two departments.

The Award of Honor, which is the highest industrial safety award presented, was earned by employees of the two departments for their safety record of no lost-time accidents from Oct. 18, 1952, until June 8, 1953. During that period, employees worked a total of 3,186,091 man hours.

The two departments, with operations here and at Danville, were one department, Specialty Transformer and Ballast, during the time covering the award. Since June 8 this year, they have been split into their present organization.

Others from the two departments attending the Congress are Donald Waldrop, safety and suggestions specialist; Edward Palguta, test equipment specialist and Herman Gondry, plant protection officer at Danville.

GE Squares Club Members Plan Informal Halloween Dance Oct. 31

GE Squares Club members will entertain their guests at the "Pumpkin Prom," an informal Halloween dance, Saturday, Oct. 31, in the Squares Hall. Guy Bradley, Bldg. 31-2, is serving as general chairman of the event.

Music for dancing will be provided from 9 until 12 p.m. by Bob Wiebke and his orchestra. An entertainment program has been planned and refreshments will be available.

Tickets may be secured from contact men in the Squares and test engineers organizations. Tickets for members are $1.75 per couple; and for non-members, tickets are $2.25.

Assisting the chairman with plans for the dance are Paul Hasler, Bldg. 31-2, tickets; Don Stearns, Bldg. 26-2, publicity; and Frank Woods, Bldg. 31-2, decorations. The scene of the informal event will be decorated in the Halloween theme.

Hupp Article Appears In Electrical Magazine

An article by Raymond L. Hupp, a design engineer in Bldg. 4-6, appears in the October issue of Electrical Manufacturing. It is entitled "The Thyatron Control for Ward Leonard Drive" and explains a new control device that operates DC from AC line with control speed.

Mr. Hupp received a patent in March of this year on the device. It was his first patent. He is employed in Advanced Engineering of the Specialty Motor Department.

Fall Revue Tickets Available To All Employees Wednesday

Tickets for the 1953 Fall Revue Nov. 7 and 8 at the GE Club will be available to employees beginning Wednesday, Oct. 28, Gordon L. Smith, entertainment chairman, announced today.

Employees may secure tickets for themselves and members of their immediate families at the GE Club desk, the Taylor St. employment office, or from members of the entertainment committee. The tickets are free of charge.

New Club membership cards for the 1953-54 year are expected to be distributed today or early next week, Bill Schible, president, announced. The cards, a replica of which is shown at right, will give the employee's name and number of dependents. The cards should be shown by employees when they get their tickets and punched. This aids in limiting tickets to employees and members of their immediate families and makes it possible for all employees to attend the show which is sponsored by the GE Club.

This year's Revue will feature Jerry Murad's Harmonicats, well known recording artists, radio, television, and theater performers. In addition, a second act has been announced. The Five White Guards have been booked. This outstanding vocal group has performed in many parts of the country in theaters, clubs, on television and radio. They recently appeared at the War Memorial Coliseum on the United Fund show.

The other four acts which will perform at the Revue will be announced later.

A total of six performances have been scheduled for the two-day program. Tickets for the following times will be available: Saturday, Nov. 7 at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 8 at 1, 3, 5, and 7:30 p.m.

Members of the entertainment committee who will have tickets in addition to the chairman are: Gayle

STORMY WEATHER

BLDG. 17-4

by Bill Hurtt & Larry Reed

While it was very nice the night Herb Ufhiel worked overtime and then was invited to stay for supper by his nephew, it must have been the sadistic streak in him that let his poor wife and son, who had driven up to Fort Wayne to get him, sit there without any supper and watch him put away the groceries. However, there is no doubt he will pay dearly for that in the near future. . . . We've seen it in pictures and read about it in stories but never did we think it would happen until it came out that Alice Hahn was supposed to pick up George at the new Sears store. When she went past there, he was at the A&P; when she went there, he had returned to Sears. You guessed it—that went on for hours, ending up with two disgruntled people. . . . Was the shock of seeing his dad working too much for Mike Love's boy? The next day he proceeded to fall and break his arm. Seriously though, we are glad to report he is doing well and enjoying an extra week's vacation. . . . Back in 1865 Lincoln freed the slaves, but not so at Edna Ward's house. She exerted her power and her poor husband was seen mopping the floor. Edna says she feels sorry for him and promises to hold the lantern the next time he has to cut wood. . . . While it's entertaining and instructive to go window shopping, Ray Hoelle really gets the most out of it. He figures it's silly to buy a television set when he can drive up and down the streets till he comes to a store that has television. He then proceeds to park and watch. That saves money all right but it will be a little uncomfortable in the winter, won't it, Ray? . . . Joke that backfired: Red Braden in an attempt to trap a victim with a loaded cigarette, lit the wrong end. When it exploded in his face, he threw cigarette, lighter, and everything else as far as he could. Now he takes a dim view of all things not according to Hoyle. . . . The official title for Ed Klomp now is "Chief Hole-In-The-Sky." For further details and enlightenment we refer you to Ed. . . . At least Clarence Nussel is considerate because he presented Hilda with a very nice, white milking stool he had made. It was even padded on the seat so that she would be comfortable while doing her duties. . . . It was good to see our retired pensioner, Ernie Freuchtenicht, back up on the floor for a visit. . . . The race is on again—Sol Andorfer brought in an ear of corn 12 inches long, so John Howard, determined not to be outdone, took a week off to go through his cornfield in an attempt to find a bigger one. . . . 2nd Shift Foremen To Meet Oct. 30

Getting together for their second meeting of the current year, members of the second shift Foremen's Association will meet at the Rhythm Ranch Friday, Oct. 30. The meeting will begin at 12 midnight, Harry Nickels, Bldg. 10-1, vice president, announced.

A lunch and refreshments will be served and entertainment will include card games.

There is no charge for the meeting for which tickets should be secured from contact men. Wednesday, Oct. 28, is the deadline for securing tickets and making reservations.

The Rhythm Ranch is located on the Miller Rd. Assisting Mr. Nickels with plans for the meeting is Bill Rodocker, Bldg. 20-1.

BOARD GOES TO BAT FOR BABY

Philip D. Reed, board chairman of the General Electric Company and a lawyer by profession, went to bat today for a prospective new shareowner.

The six-pound daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gougian, of Los Angeles, posed a technicality during the company's derby. She was born in Boston, where her mother was visiting, at 1:30 a.m. E.S.T. on October 16, an hour and a half too late for the qualifying date.

Her father in Los Angeles, where he is employed at the company offices, was notified of the birth at 10:30 p.m. Pacific Standard Time.

The question arose: Was the baby eligible for five shares of GE's stock?

Said Mr. Reed, attending the board of director's first western meeting at Los Angeles, "I'll argue the baby's case. I'm confident she'll be awarded five shares of stock."

To GE employees all over the country, Baby Gougian looked like a sure winner.

Edison Electric Light Company to produce an incandescent lamp. This was the first of the companies which, in 1892, became the General Electric Company in its present corporate form.

An amateur statistician at GE, last January hesitantly estimated that the new investors might equal in number the original 13. As they noted his obvious failings in such work, company officials also observed some interesting items in the reports which flooded in from most of the country.

In Schenectady, N. Y., where the company has its highest concentration of employees, 39 babies were born in GE families. This compares with an average daily rate of four each in the three hospitals.

In Bridgeport, Conn., a GE employee's wife gave birth to her second child. The couple's other child is 16 years old.

In Evendale, Ohio, a proud father happily named his son Gerold Eric Bernstein so the first two initials would be those of the company. In Minneapolis, Minn., Donald Johnson named his son Gerri Edward.

ELEX SECOND SHIFT SLATE OCT. 29 PARTY

Second shift members of Elex Club will conduct an "Echoes from Europe" party Thursday, Oct. 29, at the YWCA. The luncheon meeting will get under way at 12 noon, Florence Hargan, first vice president, announced.

Tickets may be secured for $1.25 from contact girls. Deadline for securing tickets is Monday, Oct. 26.

Colored movies taken on the European trip will be shown at the meeting and a display of articles purchased by members during the trip will be exhibited.

An article purchased in Germany by Olene Amburn has been donated as an attendance prize.

afternoon, it appeared that the honor of being first born belonged to a baby girl born at 12:04 a.m. to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar P. Stall, of Chatham, N. Y. Mr. Stall works in the company's transformer tank shop at Pittsfield, Mass.

In Atlanta, Ga., G. J. Vande Noord, a GE employee and his wife had their second child, a girl. The baby's aunt is Patricia Neal, actress, now touring in "The Children's Hour."

40 YEARS IN GE FAMILY—Alton R. Kissinger (second from right) receives his ruby service pin on his 40th anniversary with General Electric from Carl Hattendorf. At the celebration were (l-r) W. L. We're glad to see Elsa Fred back to work, whether she's glad to be back is another question. Elsa spent the last two weeks visiting her brother in Missouri. . . . Marcella Kokosa has bought a new TV set. Already she is a wrestling fan. . . . Nelda Brenizer thinks next week will be mighty lonely, as her better half is going deer hunting. Two or four legged, Nelda? . . . We're sorry to see Pauline Baker and Agnes Sutter leave us. Hope you have an early comeback, girls. . . . Here's a puzzler: What was the George Lude-man stole from Lillian Shaffer that has Doris Doebla stumped? . . . Happy birthday to Lem Clouse. Lem, the next time you are around Five Points Service Station, I'll buy one. Coke, that is. . . . Dutch Konow is better known as "Little Boy Lost" since he got lost in the cafeteria. . . . If you're watching Fords go by, watch for Dorothy Duff, as she is now the proud owner of one. . . . Selma Hans bought a new pair of shoes, but they just don't want to go upstairs. I guess you'll just have to go up bare-footed, Selma. . . . Polly Krider has left General Electric to live in Lafayette, where her husband is attending school. . . . The new auto bug bit Wave Miller, but hard. Her indecision lay between a Ford and a Mercury. After seeing the price tag on both, she made up her mind—bicycle built for two. . . . Nominee for the most generous tipper in the division, Lois Tibbles paid her cab fare and tipped the cabby the balance of a five dollar bill. Pretty generous, we'd say. . . . Contract in voices: The gentle purr of Dorothy Edgar and the lion's roar of Alice Flaugh. . . . Since Harriet Minch is going to celebrate her birthday, let's all help her and stay at home tomorrow. Happy birthday, Harriet. . . . Belated congratulations to John Oaks, who is the proud owner of a new Chevie. . . . Have you had a lot of suggestions as to what the foremen could do with the lighters they received. One was to put the lighters on the desks and everyone could use them. We promise to remove all fingerprints. As for the other suggestions, they would burn up the column. . . . We wish to give honorable men-

Our heartiest congratulations, Margaret. . . . Wasn't it enlightening to see all the little kids here at Open House. A change of scenery doesn't hurt anyone, does it? . . . From what we hear, Gene Haifley was really given a good send-off on his new job. Bud Harwood is taking over Gene's job.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN SIGNS? Fred Lahrman and John Donovan apparently don't. There were two large "Wet Paint. Keep Hands Off!" signs on one of the machines in the paint shop, and these two younguns went ahead, touched it, and messed up the works for the paint sprayers. "Heavens to Betsy," Red Suter exclaimed. . . . Jerry Berger, our mail boy, is leaving us to work in Bldg. 31. We'll miss ya, kid. . . . Max Baer is taking over Paul Schladenhauffen's job while Paul goes to Bldg. 27. Good luck, fellows. . . . Louie Clark sure keeps Eckrich Meat Co. in the business. When his wife makes his lunch she puts three different kinds of cold meat in the sandwiches. In a week's time that adds up to a small fortune. . . . Louie Culbertson went after Louise Drake went a bumble-bee got on the loose in payroll. It decided to stick close to Louise. 17-3 NEWSIES

by Wilhelmina Beeth

We were glad to see some of our former co-workers during Open House. . . . Mary Shumm had a special anniversary hair-do. We liked it, too. . . . Stop-Watch Kid—We are wondering if Freddie Grunst was watching a stop watch when his new blue-bootied bundle arrived at 11:59 p.m., Oct. 15, with his little fists full of GE stock. Congratulations to the new parents. . . . Vickie Clayton's little four-year-old boy was very unhappy the morning of Open House. When they brought her to work he thought he was going to get to go to Open House then. . . . Congratulations to the Frank Shidlers on their 25th wedding anniversary.

We light another candle on the cake and wish a happy birthday to Minnie Barr, Dorothy Johnson, Ida Sinn, and Hazel Sabo. . . . Congratulations to the Harold Bowlers on their new blue-bootied tax deduction. Harold was a former set-up man on our floor. . . . Nellie McGuire is a brand new grandma. . . . Glad to see Opal Sample, Doris Lontz, and Evelyn Jennings ringing in their clock cards again. . . . Edith Beaty went to Monroeville the other night and had the misfortune of having her car stall. She got out to give it a push and it started again. Her husband kept right on going and didn't realize that Edith was absent for quite some time. Now we know that Edith couldn't be a back seat driver. . . . Floetta Zartman doesn't believe the gas gauge on a new DeSoto when it says empty. Therefore, she ran out of gas near Roanoke on her way to Indianapolis.

Walter Kryder is on vacation this week. He is visiting with his son, who is home from Germany. . . . We bid farewell to Nancy Gordon and Emma Noel, who will be very busy making tiny garments. . . . Maggie Kelley went to Alabama to attend the funeral of an uncle. . . . We extend our sincere sympathy to Verna Bullerman on the loss of her mother. To Louise Hayes on the loss of her husband, to Tom Stewart on the loss of his infant daughter, and to Louise Melvin on the loss of her grandfather.

Rites Held Monday For Raymond Greek

Services for Raymond L. Greek, 59, were conducted Monday, Oct. 19, at the Getz & Cahill Funeral Home and the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Dapp officiated. Mr. Greek died Friday, Oct. 16, at St. Joseph's Hospital. He had been in ill health for several months.

A Quarter Century Club member, Mr. Greek joined the company in July, 1918. He became a bench hand then. Later, he was an assembler, bench lathe operator, and experimental worker. He was a bench machinist in Bldg. 17-4 until Feb. 2 of this year when he took a leave of absence for illness.

Surviving are his wife, Ruth, and a sister, Mrs. Thelma Sherman, of Kansas City, Mo.

Burial was in South Whitley cemetery, South Whitley, Ind.

Ballast Announces New Ballast Case

A new shallow-height, brick fluorescent ballast case which is smaller and lighter than previous models has been announced by the General Electric Company's Ballast Department.

Approximately 10 per cent lighter, the new ballast case has a sharper radius with a long smooth panel on each side for better compound filling. It is designed so that if one side of the ballast is in contact with one side of the fixture wiring channel, there is better heat dissipation.

Ballast leads extend from the new case through elongated slots located 1/4 inch away from the base and halfway between the center mounting slot and the corner mounting holes. This lead arrangement provides easier mounting independent of type of mounting used, according to GE engineers, and the leads cannot get in the way of tools used for mounting.

Hospital. Services were conducted Monday, Oct. 19, in the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church by the Rev. Charles S. Hartman. Burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

In 1920, Mr. Bunner joined the company and became an assembler in Bldg. 19-1. He was named assistant foreman in Bldg. 4-5 in 1937 and became a foreman in 1941. He was named assistant general foreman in 1942 and was appointed general foreman in December, 1951.

Survivors include his wife, Orilla; three sons, Robert W., James E., and Alan D.; two brothers, five sisters, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bunner, and five grandchildren.

DECATURITES by George Laurent

We have heard of people trying to forget their own birthdays, just in hope that the years would pass by and not add to their age. But 'tis a sad day indeed when even your mother forgets that it's your birthday. And that is exactly what happened to Bob Owens Aug. 6. The day was almost over before Jenny Owens remembered the event. Belated greetings from all of us, Bob. . . . Carl Smith spent most of his week visiting in Illinois during his vacation. haven't heard just what George Buckley and Curt Baxter did with their vacation time. . . . Oh, what a let-down after such a glorious evening of entertainment. A certain little bird (must have been a night flying critter) whispers that while heading for home from the Ice Follies a certain car refused to run without gas.

Leonard Meyers tried to get his sleep during the daylight hours last week. Leonard took Mickey McDougal's line at night while Mickey enjoyed his vacation. . . . Now just where does Noble Drum go to collect eggs in the shop? Or does he have a flock of chickens around behind the building somewhere? Who knows the answer? At least we saw him going through the shop with an empty egg carton. . . . Doris Reah Chilcote announces that she has a brand new 9 lb. 6 oz. nephew. . . . Mary Fenning says, "It's another boy at her son's home, and a big one at that, better than 9 lbs." . . . We wish to extend condolences to Lewis and John Shook upon the death of their father. . . . Welcome back, Herman. This column unintentionally failed to mention the recent return to work of Herman Everett. Herman spent two years in military service in the Korean conflict. Certainly we are glad to have you back, Herman, but we would like to advise you to beware of those girls you work with.

The average bowlers of the Decatur GE Club Women's League wish to congratulate Ruth Foreman. Ruthie, a member of the office team struck out her first game; picked up two difficult splits and rolled up a score of 159 her second game. Nice going, Ruthie. It won't be long until we will be taking lessons from you. The other new members of the office team are also progressing nicely.

This past week has been vacation time for Cleotus Miller, Ed Heshner, Bob Miller and Niles Butler. What ideal fall weather it has been for a vacation! Nature has the countryside all dressed up in beautiful colors for all to enjoy. . . . Oh, the irony of it! First they offer a gift for a baby born Oct. 15, GE Anniversary Day, then along comes George Womack with a birthday that day. But as George says, he was born too many years ago to be classified as a baby at this day and age. . . . Just what did Alice Gerber do to earn the name of "Speed"? Any information concerning this will be appreciated as we like to keep informed of all interesting happenings going on around here. . . . Backwards, still backward he goes, still clutching the handle in his hand. Joe Weber had some difficulty keeping his equilibrium while going in reverse and pulling those pans after him. Yes, the handle broke from the pan and Joe kept on going in reverse until he came in contact with the table. . . . Belated greetings to Clarence (Bill) Dellinger, who celebrated his birthday recently. . . . Helen Brintzenhof reports a very enjoyable weekend visit with relatives at Youngstown, Ohio. . . . The candy cage had a new attendant last week as Fred Engle was enjoying a week of vacation. . . . Hear dem bells? Wedding bells is what they are. Listen carefully. We have been told that a certain young man claims that he is getting married soon, in fact he even tells the day—Nov. 31. But as we all know that November only has 30 days, we are wondering just what he is trying to do—change the calendar or pull the wool over our eyes? Herman Everett is the guy we hope to be able to tell you more about him later. . . . We are happy to see Frank Braun back at his post of general foreman after an extended absence due to illness.

SPECIALTY MOTORS Shipping—Receiving—Order Service

by Eileen Fitch

We say adieu to Pat Henry, who left us to become a full time "woman of the house." We'll miss Pat and we want to wish her lots of luck and happiness in her new occupation. . . . Welcome to Ella Davis who joined the group in I.B.M. We hope you will like working with us, Ella. . . . We certainly have been going "all out" for birthdays the past couple of months, but Wednesday, we believe, Mr. Saurbaugh topped them all. He wasn't presented with just one birthday cake, but two cakes plus a leather autograph book which was from the shipping office. The cakes, not only were pretty to look at, but they also were mighty tasty, and the credit goes to Eloise Hoehn and Mary Jane Wise. They created the two masterpieces with their very own hands. . . . Happy birthday wishes to Louie Manz and Maurice Petgen. . . . Bob Whonseller and Bill Switzer said the only trouble "Open House" caused them, was drooling when the visitors passed through eating their piece of the anniversary cake. Upon retiring that night, they both had dreams of eating cake, all the cake they could eat. . . . Dorothy McCoy is advocating a "Get Acquainted With The Guards" week. Dorothy has been passing through these gates night onto 25 years, and imagine her bewilderment when she felt a friendly tap on her shoulder and the voice of the guard saying, "Where do you think you're going?" . . . Bob Younghaus has decided to rise above us. He transferred from Bldg. 6-1 to 6-3. We'll miss you, Bob.

Autumn, beautiful Autumn,
With the trees dressed in colorful hues.
Old Jack Frost has done his best,
With his magic of color, for you.
And as each leaf, your summer coat.
Falls gracefully to the ground,
Then Autumn's beauty starts to fade.
For I must rake the lawn.
Winter, beautiful Winter,
Spreads a blanket of glistening snow.
Making the earth like a fairland.
And the hearth-fires lend a glow.
Jack Frost paints the windows.
And hangs icicles in a row.
Then Winter's beauty starts to fade.
For I must shovel snow.

Foremen's Ladies Night Highlights

ATTENDANCE PRIZES—One of the lucky ladies to receive an attendance prize was the wife of Kenneth Hyman, Bldg. 17-2 employee. She receives her gift from Mike Sorgen, Bldg. 19-3.

GUEST SPEAKER—Irene Meyers, Bldg. 18-1, discussed the Elex European trip at the Oct. 7 Ladies' Night meeting of the Foremen's Association. A pre-dinner confab was held by President Leonard Reuss, Bldg. 19-3, Miss Meyers, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klomp. Mr. Klomp is located in Bldg. 17-4.

FUN FOR EVERYONE AT OPEN HOUSE

AMONG the many self-appointed chief testers of our anniversary cake were many of our wee guests.

GRADE SCHOOL children also got in on our anniversary activities when they attended the movie at the GE Club, received comic books, space helmets, and refreshments as the highlight of their tour.

JUNIOR, the walking, talking refrigerator delighted youngsters at the GE Club as he called them up, danced with them, and gave them lollypops.

FINALE to Open House festivities came for many when they boarded special buses which offered them free transportation home from our big event.

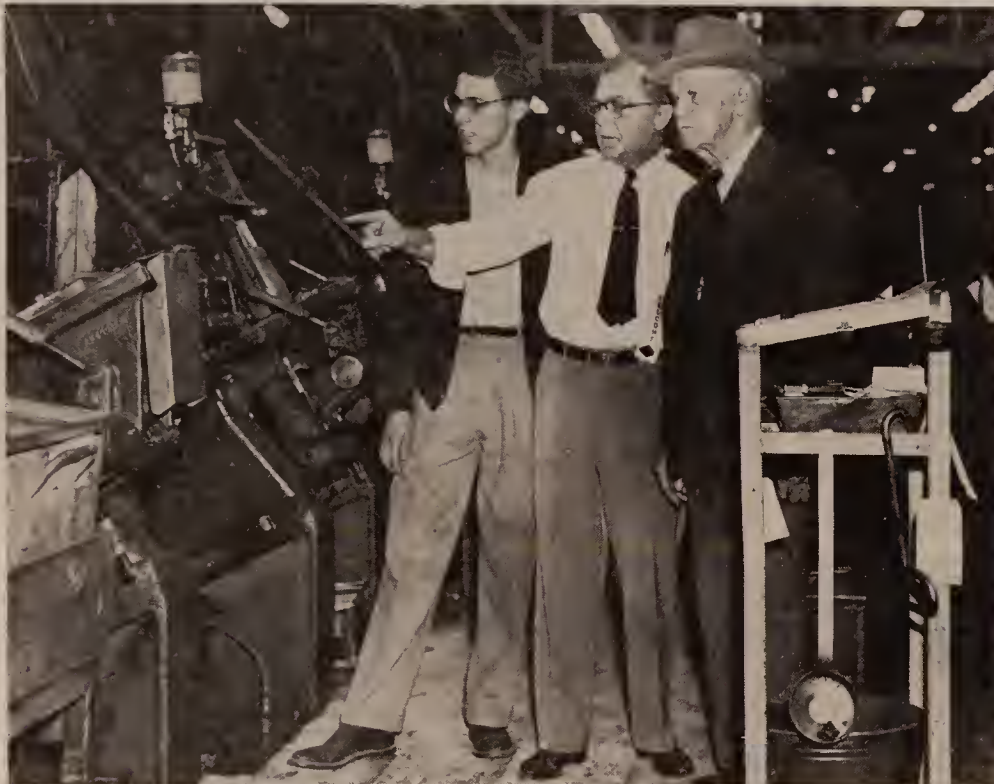

HILLIARD GATES, broadcaster of the GE sponsored "Gatesway to Sports" program, did two of his daily programs from our tent during the anniversary festivities.

FORMER EMPLOYEE, Mrs. Mary Schlatter, took the opportunity of the Open House to visit her daughter, Clara Gidley, at Taylor St. Mrs. Schlatter, who is 85 years old, compared changes that have been made since she worked here 66 years ago at what was then the Fort Wayne Jenney Electric Light Co.

PREPARATIONS to entertain our guests at Open House got under way early last week when signs went up and the large tent housing displays was put up on the west side of Broadway.

THREE GENERATIONS of the Wyss family got together at the Taylor St. plant as Joe Wyss, Taylor St., Sect. 13, took his son and father on a tour during the Employees' Day festivities.

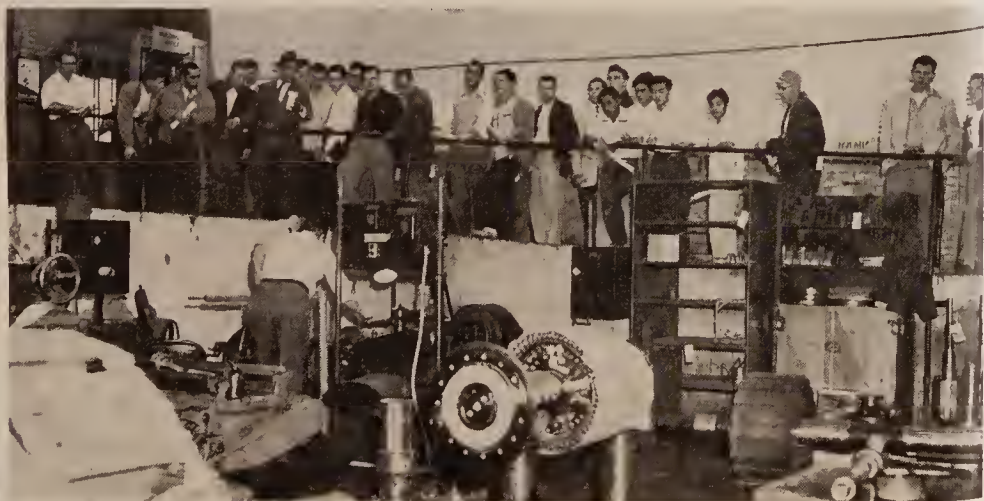

RECEIVING guests inside the tent were Sue Smith and Sally Samson, who were among the many employees ready with information for visitors.

SPACE HELMETS were passed out to the younger guests at the Open House and quickly assembled by some as they hopped their imaginary rocket to outer space.

SMALL FRY delighted in playing fire chief as they sat in the GE fire jeep, blew the horn, and imagined themselves racing to put out a fire.

STUDENTS came to see industry in action on four tours. One of the student groups observes Direct Current Motor and Generator sets being manufactured.

GE CLUB PLANS ANNUAL BOWLING TOURNEY

Local Boxers Lose to Indianapolis In Second GE Club Amateur Event

With an improved card and crowd, the second GE Club amateur boxing show was presented Monday evening, Oct. 19, when the GE team lost to a more experienced Indianapolis team 3 to 1.

Former city light heavy and heavyweight champ, Odell Billingsley, won the lone victory for Fort Wayne by defeating the capital city's Nate Bradley in a close decision.

Al Campbell lost a decision to Cleo Horton and Jimmy Reeder dropped his bout to Sonny Lee, who showed very good boxing form.

The local lad, Johnny McBride lost by a TKO to Leon Harris in the second round.

Other bouts on the card brought Oscar Ayers and Henry Chapman out on the winning side against McKinley Davis and Norm Stevenson. Former lightweight champ from Van Wert, Ayers proved more of a boxer than his opponent and won by decision.

Chapman scored a TKO in the first round over Butler, Ind.'s Stevenson.

Red McClure was more fortunate in his second appearance at the Club shows when he won by a KO in the third round over Bob Paschal. Red showed his usual slugging and wild-swinging form.

The Battle Royal concluded the evening's program and was its usual success. Brought back by popular demand, the session with four blindfolded fighters proved very entertaining.

CAGE LEAGUE MEETS

An Interdepartment basketball league meeting is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 6:30 p.m. in the GE Club lounge, manager Jack Sweet reported today.

Sweet said the meeting would be an organizational get-together in an attempt to get 10 teams in the league this year. He urged anyone interested to turn out for the meeting.

Owl Cagers Hold Initial Practice

The first practice session for GE's team in the Main Auto Owl Basketball League has been slated for Monday, Oct. 26, at the GE Club gym, Bennie Penkul, manager, reported today.

Beginning at 12 noon, the practice will get under way with 12 employees who have signed up for the team. A second session will be conducted at the same time Friday, Oct. 30.

Any second shift employees interested in trying out for the team should attend the two practices coming up, Manager Penkul stated. They should bring their gym equipment with them, he added.

This season, league play will get under way Nov. 5 when three games will be played. All games will take place at the GE Club. The other five teams in the league are Salisbury, Eckrich, Zollners, Aircraft-Gear, and Indiana Rod.

Slated for Nov. 21, 22, 28 and 29; Competition to Include Four Events

The GE Club bowling committee has announced dates of the ninth annual GE Employees Men's Bowling Tournament. It will be conducted Nov. 21, 22, 28, and 29 on Club alleys.

The contest's agenda include four competitive events, five-man singles, doubles, and all-events. The tourney is open to all GE employees as long as they have an established average, regardless of the alleys they have been using.

A handicap of 70 per cent up to 1,020 for teams, 420 on doubles, and 210 on singles, with no maximum has been reported by Joe Kramer, bowling chairman.

Keglers must be members of the American Bowling Congress, which sanctions the meet. They will be allowed to compete only once in each event.

The GE Club which sponsors the meet, has donated $150 to cover first place purse prizes in each of the four events.

Entry blanks are now available at the Club desk and must be returned by Friday, Nov. 13. Bowlers desiring further information may contact chairman Kramer, Bldg. 4-5, Ext. 2180, or Les Shroyer, Bldg. 31-1, Ext. 2112.

by Rachel Mounsey

Joe Eifred sure had a surprised look on his face when the chair he was sitting on over at the Satterthwaites collapsed. Joe spilled his drink all down his shirt and he just threw it in the fire and wore one of Moe's home. . . . Welcome to Mary Green and Adele Wietfeldt to the day shift. . . . Congratulations to Jerry Shultz on the boy born on the 75th anniversary and also to Deloris Ward, who had a baby last week. . . . The girls in Fred Sipe's section wish there would be more Open Houses just so they could see Fred wear a white shirt. . . . Esther Schladenhauffen visited Brown County and Spring Mill Park. . . . Welcome back to Phyllis Allmiller, Theo Olsen, Agnes Wolf, and Bertha Nickols. . . . Harriet Palmer has returned to work after being on a trip. . . . We wish a speedy recovery to Charlotte Blauvelt, who is a patient at the Lutheran Hospital. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Laura Krauskopf, who celebrated last week. . . . Golda Tuck visited friends in Columbus, Ohio, over the week-end. . . . Betty Shockey sure doesn't trust herself when she has a good looking boyfriend to escort her around. . . . Now that squirrel season is over, what is Mel Kestner going to do? Wait for the rabbit season, Mel. . . . Marvin Van Skyock was really lucky, winning a hundred dollar jackpot on the World Series. . . . Pereline Webber just came back after a week of vacation. She went to the Smoky Mountains and over into Virginia. We are glad she had a nice trip. . . . We hope Sarah Pulver has a few more days of good fishing before it gets too cold. . . . It seems the other day we were already to go home, when Frances Davis noticed she still had her apron on. . . . Dick Graham is polishing his shoes a day early. So he won't have to walk so hard on the next day.

Paul Hendricks got a new power-glide Chevrolet. He took the old Plymouth to the junk yard. He is leaving the new car in the garage so it will last him the rest of his life. . . . Fred Troutman is all set for the long cold winter months—a new set of teeth and a new TV set. Fred can eat popcorn and see the shows without going outside. . . . Edna Rohrbach and her sister Helen went to see a friend who had died and later told another friend that he didn't look natural. Imagine their surprise when later in the day they discovered that they had gone to the wrong funeral home and had seen the wrong man. . . . We extend our sympathy to Joyce Schroeder in the death of her father-in-law. . . . Bill Berning has a new outlook on life since he has new glasses. . . . Glad to know that Hank Shirley's daughter, Laurel, is on the road to recovery following an appendectomy. . . . Josie Felger and her husband are the proud owners of a new home and say the welcome shingle is out to their friends. . . . Viola (Babe) Donahue and Agnes Grosjean are taking in the Notre Dame and Georgia Tech game tomorrow. . . . Rena Hullinger was so mixed up last week. As you know we got GE NEWS on Wednesday, and when she came in Thursday, she couldn't find her clock card. She thought it was Friday and deposited the card in the little black box. . . . Pauline Kauffman left last Friday. She received many nice gifts for her new baby. . . . Section 401 office girls had a wiener bake at Bonnie Wolf's. They didn't wear masks—just came natural. . . . We welcome Gene Haifley back to 401 from 402. . . . Ivan Parrish says his living room is so crowded since he bought his TV set. His wife has moved, lock, stock, and barrel right into the living room so as not to miss anything. . . . Elmer Robin says that the cinerama is the coming thing. He spent the week-end in Chicago and saw it. Says it is well worth your while to see it if you can. . . . Glen Castle knows what manual labor does to one. He is so stiff and sore from mixing concrete that he can hardly move. . . . Russell Neal was a lucky man. His wife presented him with a son to make him eligible for some GE stock. Now the baby is worth more than mamma and papa. . . . Paul Hendricks says someone is taking the vegetables that his friends bring to him. The boys wonder if that is really so, or if he is just saying that to keep from giving them some deer meat when he gets some. . . . Lavon Nesbit spent Sunday at Turkey Run and was tired from so much walking. . . . They tell me that John Figley was a very unhappy man last week because he couldn't drape 15 stator cores around Sam Taylor's neck. . . . The people of 1x25 want to welcome Delores Heaston and Clarence Shady to their section. . . . When Wally Reichter pours catsup in his coffee instead of milk, then we've heard everything. . . . Fred Conture paid us a visit during Open House. Everyone enjoyed having him visit us and he looks grand. . . . Dorothy Franklin and Marg Rollins, learned about everything at the fire prevention demonstration, except how not to make a hot-toddy. Bea Adams says, you don't put the whiskey on the fire to heat, because she tried it. Result: No whiskey, no toddy—same old cold for Bea. . . . The Supervisors of Section 1 are taking in the boxing match at the GE Club as a party. . . . Wonder who Esther Harkenrider was following the other day? She got down to the drinking fountain before she realized she was way past her place of business. . . . After Helen Boecker hunter the whole floor for the winning ball ticket she was ready to give up and keep the winning herself, when Mary Raub, who sits across from Helen was holding it all the time. Mary, please, you'll have to look out for your own interests. . . . Carl Kinsey claimed he found a cherry tree in bloom and has a piece of the tree to prove it. . . . Birthday greetings to Agnes Shane, Mary Alice Williams and Betty Dunn. . . . Irene Kreger got a new short hair cut and now all call her Stub! . . . Gladys Strong was so happy as her son Paul is home again. He will be stationed a lot closer to his home soon.

Boy, or boy, were we excited last Thursday, talk about your expectant fathers, Fred Grunst's new son, Stephen James, sure had a lot of expectant friends who were hurrying old man stork along to push him under the finish line in the Baby Derby, and by gosh the old bird won by one minute. Congratulations to Fred and Mrs. Grunst. . . . Wasn't the Open House party a grand success? More excitement and more new friends. I, for one, am proud to have had a small part in it. . . . Dorothy Askren has a new nephew named David. The mother, Betty Yarger Askren, and the father, Charles, are former employees. . . . Ruth Reynolds looked pretty sharp the other day, when he was playing host to our neighbors. If Hugh ever goes out to his cow barn in that suit, his cows will refuse to give milk. They would probably think that he was rich enough. . . . And now perhaps Walter Kryder can simmer down to normal since his son got home to stay. Welcome home, Dick.

We welcome Tony Wichman to our floor. He comes from Bldg. 27. . . . We lost Fred McClure to 2nd trick. We hope he will like his new job. . . . It must be that Paul Lichtsinn is a vegetarian, by the variety of vegetables he brings in. . . . We have an official Coca-Cola taster. Ed Lepper tests all the Coca-Cola that is put in the machine. . . . Is Mrs. Lenny Reuss just plain lucky or what? At the Foremen's Dinner Party, she drew her own name for second prize. . . . Beware! Anyone buying a hot dog at the Coliseum be sure to inspect it. LeRoy Cook is trying to sell them minus the dog. . . . The boys bought a Coke for Rudy Rastencalled. The boys in the commutator section enjoyed his broadcast so much they made him a microphone and presented it to him the next morning. LeRoy Cook acted as master of ceremonies. Now, Mike can practice and not be embarrassed by forgetting, the next time. . . . Really there isn't a feud between Elmer Wagner, Sherry Varner, and Herb Wendt. Elmer was seen throwing a cup at them. Luckily it missed the mark and Elmer is going to be careful from now on. He was tossing drops of water at them when the handle of the cup broke and the cup flew. . . . Otto Pfeuger bought a cow to butcher. So, how about a nice hamburger fry, Otto? . . . It looks like the reporter of Smoke House Sayings, George Winans, has gone haywire or is entering his second childhood. He thinks he is a cowboy and we have the picture to prove it.

"Ride 'Em, Cowboy"

TALES from TAYLOR SECTION 13 TAYLOR ST.

Harry Parker

A group of our foremen helped Ralph Dunlap celebrate his birthday last Saturday. A beautifully decorated cake was presented to him, but unknown to most of the guests was the fact that the cake was a phony. It was made of corrugated paper. Time for cutting the cake came and Ralph was presented with a knife and told to begin carving. Starting in he complained of the cake being tough. At this juncture one of the guests said, "Well, if you are going to cut it, get busy as we are hungry." Still struggling with the cake and getting nowhere, this guest got up, went around the table picking up the cake, and sat it down over Ralph's head. . . . We do not recall of ever having heard of Quentin Romy being awarded a medal for an outstanding achievement. Actually we think that he should be awarded one for the patience displayed in being the only man we know, having carried more empty fish sacks around the lakes of lower Michigan and northern Indiana. . . . As writer of this column, and being fully aware of the fact that Darcie Campbell does not need further publicity regarding the actions of his many dogs, he came up with another story that we just cannot pass up. So, we give it to you for what it is worth and you can believe it or not. He tells us that he has a new hunting dog of small stature, measuring around a foot high at the shoulders. The other day he had him out for a trial run. Poochie jumped a rabbit, which made for a six-inch drainage tile half full of earth. This dog did not hesitate but went right into the tile. Not getting the rabbit he did a complete turn around and came out head first. We believe that Darcie can now qualify for full membership in the Anninias Club. . . . All of us are aware of the fact that Buck Adams is building a new home at Lake Gilead. Well, he has a tremendous pile of earth upon his lot which he is using to fill in around the foundation. Some of his neighbors are helping him to accomplish this task, but it seems that they are always ready while he is not. So, when they start he drops whatever he is doing and gets busy with a shovel. He tells us that he does not want the rest of the people around there to think that he is sitting in the house while some of his neighbors do the work. . . . This past summer Monroe Fuhrman constructed a new home on the Hillegas road. It seems that his neighbor allowed his lot to become a wilderness, providing a good cover for small game. But other things sought refuge in the heavy undergrowth, as Monroe found out the other evening upon arriving home from work. There stretched out upon his lawn was a six-foot blue racer accompanied by a four-foot rattlesnake. Now a big reptile elimination program is in progress with Monroe as leader of the posse. We suggest that much time and effort would be saved if he would borrow several of Howard Harold's snake eating hogs. They would no doubt clean up the place in a jiffy. . . . Evidently Cecil Gordon does not know or care what she eats. The other morning Harley Ward brought in some ripe figs, placing one before her saying, "there is something good, try it." Whereupon she gobbled it down, then said to Harley, "My, that was good. What was it?" . . . Archie "Paw-Paw" Boren wishes in this manner to inform our readers that the harvest of Indiana bananas is now under way. He tells us that this year's crop of the luscious paw-paw is exceedingly heavy in spite of the dry summer. So, if any of our readers desire to obtain some for cold packing, get in touch with Archie, for he will surely supply you with any quantity you may desire. . . . A new stage production will shortly get under way at some of our local playhouses. This production, as yet unnamed, will be a glorified version of "Cops and Robbers" starring Howard Harold, Lindsey Eastes, and one 199-pound hog. The supporting cast as yet has not been selected. This play is a thrilling story of a bold bad robber with no cops in sight as yet. This production will be under the able direction of Richard Johnson.

"There is no real wealth but the labor of man. Were the mountains of gold and the valleys of silver, the world would not be one grain of corn the richer; no one comfort would be added to the human race."—Shelley.

THANK YOU

I would like to take this opportunity to thank my many friends in transformer and especially the committee who made my retirement party such a big success. Carrie Krauter.

THANK YOU

For the wonderful gifts, I thank each and everyone. When my last day's work at the GE was done. Myers was my foreman, A mighty nice guy. Fuzz was his name, at least That is what he went by. My co-workers, nicer folks I will never find. As in GE Section 13. On Taylor St. bus line. They are wonderful pals In sickness and health. If you need a dime They share their wealth. And last but not least, Their kind words and friendly look Will more than fill My life's book. And while I was working, I am glad I was at the GE. Although I have retired, I will still receive a fee. —Zella M. Wittmer.

MOTOR GENERATOR STATIC

Thought of the Week:

"Children have more need of models than of critics."—Joubert.

PARTY: Put a large circle around October 31, on your calendar. That is the date of Motor Generator's big party to be held at Bojrab's Club House starting at 8:30 p.m. This party is open to all employees of both factory and office, their families, sweethearts, and friends. As this is the Halloween season you may come in costume if you desire, although this is not essential. Watch the bulletin boards for names of the contact man or woman on your floor who will supply you with tickets and information. The cost will be $1.50 per person and includes dancing, entertainment, games, and all the refreshments you desire. So set this date aside, come out, get acquainted with the other folks in this division and have a good time.

SMART: Thanks to Jack Toole for our smart saying of the week. He defines a sport roaster as "a love seat with wheels."

WINTER STREET JOTTINGS

by Joan Vorndran

Love may laugh at locksmiths, but Don Voohries would welcome some aid from one. He is wondering what he has in his trunk—if anything. Whatever it is will be safely hidden there until he can find his misplaced keys. . . . Congratulations to: Mary Leiter and Joan Vorndran who agree that "good things come in small packages." (The girls are wearing bright new diamond rings on that important finger of the left hand.) . . . Ted Gebhard on his promotion. Ted is going to Bloomfield to become foreman of maintenance. . . . Bob Branning on his 11th wedding anniversary. . . . Joe Rowan on the birth of Christopher Kent, an 8 1/2 lb. boy. . . . Billy Sommers for celebrating his birthday by winning (finally) in the noon-day euchre games. . . . To Mickey Crawford for her aid to Indiana Tech students.

Marianne Royce, Jane Cusenberry, and Eileen Salmon served as receptionists and "odd job doers" at the Van Orman recently. The occasion was a Sales Force meeting with the group later taking a tour of our plant. . . . C. O. Jenkins reports a nice restful (?) vacation at his cottage at Lake Gage. Says he didn't do any fishing this time but did clean up some minor repairs he has so successfully put off for some time. . . . The motto of the third floor drafting department is "work here and live dangerously." Bob Messmer was recently greeted by a falling lighting fixture and Walter Brake was quick to dive when a piece of iron fell through the ceiling. Everyone is now working with one eye on the ceiling to see what, or maybe who, will drop in.

Having trouble with all those new fall colors? Bob Davidson will be glad to give you expert advice on the different shadings. . . . Both office and factory workers were given a tour to see the renovations which we have been hearing take place. This tour, during working hours, gave us a chance to see the type of work being done by others, the new machinery, and the additional work space which is being prepared. . . . Co-workers are advising Dick Fahling to put in a claim for 2 1/2 shares of GE stock in the Baby Derby. The Fahlings had a boy on the correct date but Dick has only been here since March. The latest addition gives the ardent Daisy rooters five girls and a boy. . . . Don Batchelder is called the "Mystery Man." Fellows in the toolroom can't understand why anyone with a Packard convertible and a socially acceptable face is still single. Just wait, Don, Sadie Hawkins Day is on the way. Two recent arrivals from Broadway are Shirley Richards and Tom McCrea.

Anyone interested in tulip culture? Fred Woerner finds the subject fascinating and spends his spare minutes studying all available literature on the subject. Lawrence Magnesman says they aren't making signs as clear as they used to or his glasses need changing. With all the moving around being done you don't know where you are going until you get there. . . . The girls' bowling teams have had a good turn-out the past two weeks and still have openings for anyone interested in joining us. Some books to improve your game are still available —serious looking tomes and some easily read comic books. See Marna Wilson, third floor if you would like a copy. The GE Club is protecting their alleys by lending us a coach to show us the difference between throwing and rolling the ball.

RACONTEUR SECTION 14 TAYLOR ST.

by Mary Whitelock

Clayton Culver celebrated his 40th year with the company and was presented with his 40-year pin this week. Congratulations, Clay. . . . Ralph Fishback, Cliff Witham and Carl Reynolds are back looking fit and rested after their vacations. Ralph and wife drove to Norfolk to visit with their daughter and new son-in-law. They visited in Southern Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and Washington, D. C. . . . Carl spent part of his vacation recovering from the flu but he got to play golf for three days anyhow. . . . Vern Daseler is on a vacation and Louis Shattuck has that strained look from watching programs on his new TV set. . . . Margaret Cowan entertained friends from Louisville, Ky., over the week-end, who raise parakeets and racing pigeons. Margaret tried to contact some racing pigeon enthusiasts here in Wayne for her guests to meet, but they had all gone to Chicago to attend a pigeon racing convention. . . . Rosella Koons and Helen Platt spent Monday evening visiting with Joan Workinger, a former co-worker. Joan is the proud mother of a 6 lb. baby girl, Sharon Kay. . . . Edna Marquardt is also a new mother. She has a 7 lb. 5 oz. boy. Congratulations, both of you. . . . Belated birthday wishes to Alverna Crowell. . . . May we extend our deep sympathy to Shirley Clark on the loss of her father and to Florine Elzy on the loss of her brother. . . . Buck Sessler has been giving Theron Kitchen lessons in the art of euchre playing. It seems that after Wednesday, Kitch needs lessons in the art of marking, also. . . . Bill Lavine and Herb Tons are going to start a bus line between the lakes and Taylor St. Bill says Herb flies too low and Herb says Bill drives too slow. . . . Charlie (Santa Claus) Hazen is selling electric trains this year. Now we know why he is looking so young. . . . TV has claimed another victim. Vondy is going to watch the basketball games this winter. . . . Never heap too much praise upon a mechanical device, especially if it's an automobile of your particular choice, for that critter you prize so highly will leave you stranded at a crucial moment and you will be tempted to hang a "For Sale" sign on it. Ted Childs will vouch for this with a wry smile. . . . John Miles has his picture taken for the GE NEWS about as often as anyone. He received a sizeable check for some sort of an idea he had and the check was presented to him at an opportune time, i.e., when he was off sick. When John gets one of those checks he is just like a little boy with a new toy, happy and smiling all the time. . . . Ray Rodenbeck and his wife contemplated spending a whole week at Lake Mitchell, but the lake was too rough and the weather too cold, so they left after three days. . . . Ted Childs and his wife parked their boat within 50 feet of a man on Randall Lake and watched him pull in two big pike within 20 minutes time. Yes, they are there and biting.

TOOL BITS

BLDG. 19-4 and 5

by Don Clark

Who was our first visitor to Open House? Mrs. Art Thieme, and Art was resplendently dressed for the occasion in a fresh white shirt. Bernice Mertz and family earned the role of last dog home. Their tour with Chet Burgette as guide ended at 10 p.m. James Hoppel was by far the most accommodating guide. One of his tours included the Melvin Franke family. When Mel's two-year-old son grew tired, Jim picked him up and carried him the rest of the distance. The tot couldn't resist Jim's comfortable arms and at the end of the route was fast asleep. . . . The Cost Unit welcomes Janice Stanton and says best of luck to Genevieve Burke, who is leaving. . . . Betty Strong's happiness can be attributed to one thing—her boy friend is home from the Navy. . . . The mill unit welcomes Bill Dasher. . . . Keith Jamison jerked and cut his wrists when a TV electrical connection bit him the other day. Maybe that isn't news, but wait until we hear that Jamison bites a TV set. One more time and it will happen. . . . The Community Fund parade was a high success. It had to be, since lanky Ron Blodgett took part. . . . Harold Blauvelt ordered and thought he bought a new black colored car. Was he amazed to learn it was really dark green. . . . When Del Stiecker left work last Wednesday, he mistakenly carried Orville Anderson's full lunch box home, but never realized it. When he came back for open house it was Orville's chance to ask him how he liked his supper. . . . Gus Berghoff should have accompanied his wife to church last Saturday night. Someone snatched her purse. . . . DIE PLANT: Hayden Rice is making the most of this nice weather to finish the bath room in their home at Big Lake. I don't blame him. It gets mighty cold taking your bath in the lake these fall evenings. . . . Gus Ausderan, who filled his garage with old papers for a paper drive is now disgusted. They called off the drive. The price of paper dropped and he can't get his car in the garage. . . . Ned Gruelach hurried out to the parking lot the other night, but to no avail. His car was in another lot. Les Hines was lucky when he made a wrong turn downtown the other night. The policeman was in good humor. . . . Cleo Baird drove to Fort Sheridan to get his son. He made it, too, only becoming lost three times in the Fort's maze of roads. Glenn Hoon's Dodge may save six barrels of oil per year, but it still runs out of gas. Futile way to save money, Glenn. It's no reflection on Gus Ormsby's sight, when we congratulate him for winning the GE Blind Bogey Golf Tourney. . . . If you read a little envy in Art Thieme's eyes, here's why. He could only catch a six-inch mud bass, while Walter Greiner's daughter landed a three pound bass last week-end. Charley Shipman and Woody Hursh thought they would see the Bears play football. They were so high in the stands, they needed a portable radio to understand the game. Carey Baker brought two sandwiches for lunch. The first was O.K., but when he seasoned the second one, he could only find lettuce and onion. The chef forgot the meat. Sounds like somebody's cutting down expenses. . . . The party Bob Truelove held for the fellows at his farm was a success, except most of them are accustomed to electricity. Using lanterns was quite a change. . . . Clyde Spangler found out that Art Dicke's vise-like handgrip wasn't a lie. Clyde thinks Art should be on a television wrestling circuit. . . . Open House was quite a success as far as Kurt Martin was concerned. His wife, daughter, and granddaughter visited him and saw his work, tools, toolbox and pictures. Kurt's dog, King, broke his leg a week ago and Kurt reports he is rapidly recovering. Joe Mettler bought a television set last week. He tells us the voice is just fine, but he hasn't seen a picture since he got it. We might mention Joe's son is doing fine on his new job as professor of math at Catholic U. of Washington, D. C.

SMOKEHOUSE SAYINGS

by George Winans

Everyone I've talked to enjoyed GE's Open House. Let's hope we have another one in the near future. I especially liked "Junior," the talking refrigerator. I still believe that the biggest attraction was the ushers. No movie house in the country was ever graced with such handsome ushers as we had. Officer Tieman wore a grey suit and a red neck. Al Mason and Art Thompson had ties without the gravy spots for a change. There's an ugly rumor that Harold Smith was selling cakes and lemonade, but we don't believe it. Smitty is not much for lemonade. He was noticed going in and out the big ten several times and shrugging his shoulders each time he went through the opening. Benny Clouse comes up with an explanation for that though. He says Smitty was just trying the tent on for size. . . . Curly McCormick, Bldg. 19-3, had the easiest ushering job of all. He just roped off the commutator section and sat on a chair by the stairway. Whenever anyone came along, Curly would say, "that's all up here, folks, please take the stairway down to the second floor, where Joe (Ding Ding) Laisure will be glad to show you around. . . . Belated birthday greetings to Dick Bodkins and Al Kleinrichart. . . . Three more new car owners in our little group. They are Tieman with a Studebaker; Millard Wells, a new Buick, and Charlie Mowery, a new Plymouth. . . . Millard Wells is a big oil man now. They are drilling for oil on his place. We hope that gusher comes in soon. . . . That's all for this week, folks, and remember, "Stepping on others never made anyone any taller."

SLEUTHING in 4-6

by Al Happel

HAPPY BIRTHDAYS to Owen Vaught, Tuesday, Oct. 27, and Lew Gossman, Wednesday, October 28. . . . HEY JOE! Though you had to learn the hard way not to let your keys dangle from your desk when you leave the office. We can't resist the temptation to tell all. . . . Last Thursday on Open House Day, Joe Truba took his wife to a bridal shower and young Mike accompanied him. When Joe returned home, he was locked out, couldn't find his keys. Being a smart engineer, his deductions were sound. He had left them dangling from his desk at work. So he proceeded to the Broadway plant, and to Bldg. 4. The passenger elevator was all tied up with the visitors, so poor Joe had to tote Mike up the six flights of stairs to his office. Yep, there they were. Since he was back at GE, Joe thought he might as well take "in the show," so he introduced young Mike to all the wonders of his great company. Who knows? Perhaps Mike will be one of our big engineers in the year of 1978 or thereabouts. . . . THE TWO NEW ENGINEERS (working for Bob Loveland) are Jaime A. Ibanez and Frank Strang. Jaime is a native of Arikupa, Peru, and is a 1952 graduate of Notre Dame with a BSEE degree. Jaime is on his fifth test with GE, having had previous assignments in West Lynn, Philadelphia, and two in Erie. Frank comes to us from Los Vegas, Nevada. He is single and is a 1953 graduate of Antioch College. His BS degree is in Business Engineering. This is Frank's third test, having served at Erie in the Locomotive and Car Equipment and Motor Development Test, and STAB here at Fort Wayne. . . . SPOOKS—ARE THEY REAL? This was the cry of fellow-workers of Max Barrows and Val Rowan last Thursday when they appeared at their desks when everyone was expecting them to be in Schenectady. The explanation they gave is that they did not make connections with the bus driver who was to take them to Waterloo. Val was waiting at a different hotel than was the bus driver. They were then to pick Max up at the north end of town. Max finally gave up in despair, too. . . . NICE TO MEET YOU: It was a great pleasure to meet the families of the employees of the Specialty Motor Department at our recent Open House. We should do it more often. The children were, in most cases, quite impressed with their daddy's chairs, of all things! . . .] WE MISS YOU AND WISH

YOU A SPEEDY RECOVERY—Bill Pringle is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. The fish-bowl doesn't look the same, Bill, one fish missing—so hurry back. . . . HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Virginia Mosser, Oct. 24. . . . FLASH—Have you noticed that extra sparkle in the eyes of Dick Neher? He has a good reason. He is now engaged and the lucky girl is Sherry Strassle of Peru. . . . WE WISH TO THANK BETTY PUFF for making name cards for all the Developmental Drafting Section. . . . H. ANDERSON of Commercial, arrived just in time to join the Floor Sitters Club. That was the initiation to your new location, in the Development Div. Welcome to all your other friends who did not join the Floor Sitters Club. . . . JOHNNY REUILLE claims that if any visitors show up in the next inventory, it's not his fault. Johnny manned the vestibule in Bldg. 4-1 during the Open House rush hours. . . . BOB MEE has joined the Specialty Motor Floor Sitters Club. Wasn't that a big thrill, Bob? . . . THE TV CLUB OF BLDG. 4-6 has two new members. They are Gil Baker and Harvey Von Gunten. Any friends of Gil Baker have been invited to his home for a free TV demonstration. Gil has asked all guests to please bring their own refreshments. . . . SPECIALTY MOTOR found out that they have a Fibber McGee II in their group. There was a big crash! bang! noise heard the other day. After the loud noise there was a red faced engineer. The group was wondering how it happens, huh, L. Gossman? P. S. Was your filing drawer too full?

COUNT OFF

SECTION 17 TAYLOR ST.

by Marguerite Stahl

Ray Hill was in Cleveland over the week-end. . . . Betty Graft was in Chicago Sunday and saw a big fire. . . . Connie Fernandez flew to Puerto Rico to be at the bedside of his mother who is quite ill. . . . Gladys Pantizen reports that shaving creme is an excellent shampoo for the hair when you are out of the real stuff. There were about four blank pages in the GE NEWS that Gladys picked up Friday. So, if there is some news you think would interest her please pass it on. . . . Carl Reidel and 160 Boy Scouts attended Junior Leaders Training Course at Rome City Saturday and Sunday. They planned to have meat loaf for dinner Sunday, but it seems they ended up with hamburger steaks. . . . Ruth Cavender and Kenneth Brown came in all dolled up to have their pictures taken for the Quarter Century Club. Congratulations to both of you. . . . Laura Gerber said it is odd that after a trip through Michigan seeing the scenery, that we have some lovely sights right here at home. . . . Alma Vorndran is being transferred to Broadway. We hope she likes her work. . . . Linda Wahrer says all that extra pep she has is for the hockey games which are starting for the season. . . . We all wish Beverly Numbers a happy birthday. . . . When Clyde Helms came back from his meeting last Friday he found himself all set up in business. . . . What a henpecked life some men lead! Even though Dan Bishop is a bachelor (eligible, no less) he still had to drive around the country and listen to the World's Series broadcasts on his car radio.

"I look on that man as happy who, when there is question of success, looks into his work for a reply."—Emerson.

ECHOES from 19-2

Fred McIntyre

We were really proud of our management during Open House. They sure looked nice — ties straight, hair slicked down, and, of course, their very courteous treatment of our visitors made us realize the importance of this 75th Anniversary. . . . Jim Foerster, who attends Indiana Tech, and studying electrical engineering brought the students from his class to Open House. . . . Dorothy Lebrecht became the bride of Vernon Lahman in the Bethlehem Lutheran Church recently. Best wishes for your happiness, Dorothy. . . . Another birthday has rolled around for Cecile Hinton—that means birthday cake and lots of good wishes for Cecile. . . . Noel Jackson was passing out cigars and candy. The occasion was a new son. The employees presented him with a $20 coupon book, so now he can shop for the little fellow. . . . Edna Lesh has a new grandson of whom she is very proud. . . . We think Eileen Gault must have had a touch of spring fever. She left at noon and went home. It was such a nice day, too, and the next day, we heard her reciting poetry. . . . We are glad to hear that Tommy Russell's son is getting better after being critically injured in an auto accident. . . . Welcome to Clarence Beverford and Clarence Hildenbrand, who are new employees on Bldg. 19-2. . . . Congratulations to James Porter and his wife on the occasion of the birth of a baby on the company's 75th Anniversary. . . . Wilma Burkholder had the misfortune to fall and break her arm recently. We wish her a speedy recovery and return to work. . . . Pete Prince, Pappy Lee, and oppy Moffet, who are retired on pension, were recent visitors to Bldg. 19-2. . . . Frank Schlink claims a rat or something was so thirsty that it climbed up inside the hood of his car while it was parked in his garage and chewed a hole through the radiator hose to get a drink. He brought the hose to work to prove his story. . . . We've heard of surgeons leaving various instruments in the incisions of people following operations, Gladys McMillen reports that after having a tire repaired at a service station, when she had occasion to use the spare it developed a peculiar noise. Thinking the tire defective, she decided to buy a new one. The serviceman who changed her tire informed her that he found a standard two-cell flashlight that had been left in the tire. No wonder it made a noise while it was in use. . . . We extend our sympathy to Edgar Moeschberger on the death of his brother-in-law, Forest Bunner.

DITTIES FROM DISTRIBUTION

by Ruth Sorg

SHIPPING: 'Twas good to see Georgie Turnbow, a former employee, and small son Michael, who paid us a visit on Family Day. Did anyone see Millie Koudor on TV last Saturday. Millie attended the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh football game. Birthday greetings today to Emma Meyer who is celebrating her birthday. . . . Helen Elbert and Millie Koudor looked refreshed this morning after a week's vacation. . . . TELEGRAPH: We wish a speedy recovery to Helene Nelson's husband, who went to surgery last Saturday? Millie attended the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh football game Saturday.

Predict Fluorescent Street Lights For Every Major City in 10 Years

Every major city in the United States will have an installation of fluorescent street lights within the next ten years, according to a recent prediction by C. K. Fulton of the General Electric Company's Lighting and Rectifier Department.

Speaking at the G-E Institute of Lumenology, recently held in Lynn, Mass., Mr. Fulton said that nearly 1,000 of the giant fluorescent fixtures are already in use or on order in eighteen communities throughout the country. The largest present installation (77 units) is on the Alaskan Way Viaduct in Seattle.

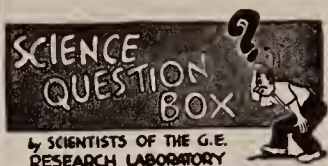

Fluorescent street lights were first introduced in this country about three years ago, Mr. Fulton said, when G-E lighting research engineers found them to be an excellent source of high quality and virtually-glarefree light. Engineering modification of the lamps and ballasts as well as design of special luminaires made the system applicable to street lighting.

The first major installation in the nation was turned on November 3, 1950, at Detroit, Michigan.

Lyndonville, Vt., was the first community to light an entire business district with the modern "tubes of light" in 1951. The fluorescents were well adapted to the needs of the village which primarily wanted high light output and attractiveness so as to accentuate the natural beauty of the winter resort. Oakwood, Ohio, boasts the most recent major installation of the ultra-modern units. Others now using these lights include Schenectady, N. Y.; Nantasket, Mass.; St. Louis, Mo.; and Redwood City, Calif.

"The number of pioneering communities installing fluorescent luminaires is growing day by day," Mr. Fulton said. "This initial acceptance plus new product developments, indicates that the United States is gaining world-wide leadership in the fluorescent street-lighting field—a position that Europe has traditionally held."

"By 1963 I expect every major city in the nation to have an installation of this newest street-lighting development," he said.

Q. Would the Earth look as bright from the Moon as the Moon does from the Earth?

A. Seen from the Moon the Earth would change in phase, just as the Moon does for us. When we have a New Moon, the lunar observer would see a Full Earth, but it would be about 80 times as bright as the Full Moon looks in our sky, for two reasons. First the circular area which the Earth would present in the sky would be about 13.5 times as big as the Full Moon appears to us, and hence that much brighter. Also, the Earth's atmosphere and clouds make it about six times better as a reflector of light than the bare rocky surface of the Moon.

Q. How is the height of an airplane measured?

A. The height above sea level can be measured approximately with an altimeter, which is simply an aneroid barometer, a device that measures air pressure. This decreases with altitude as the air gets thinner, so the barometer reads about an inch lower for every increase of 1000 feet in height at lower altitudes. Also there is the radio altimeter, which sends out a radio signal and measures the time it takes for the return of the echo reflected from the ground below. Since radio waves travel at constant speed, this gives the actual height above the ground.

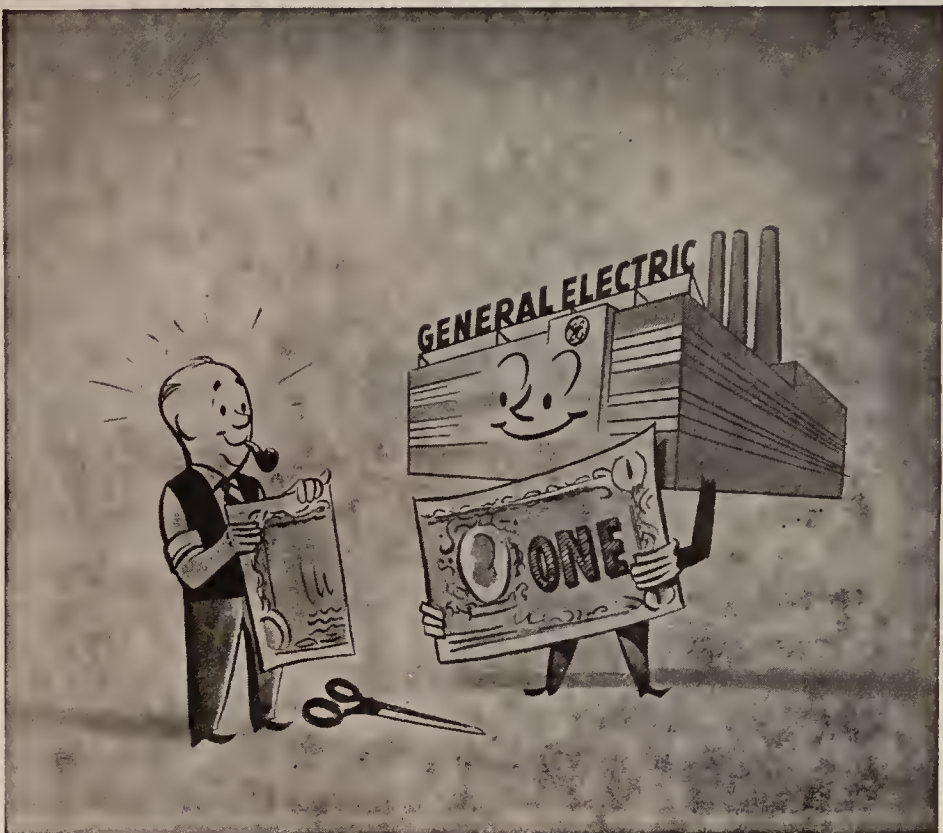

Q. How can human blood be distinguished from that of animals?

A. This is done with the precipitin test. A suitable animal, such as a rabbit, is injected with human blood serum, and after a few weeks its blood develops "antibodies," or "precipitins," which are effective only against human blood. If the clear serum from the rabbit's blood is then mixed with clear serum from human blood, a cloudy precipitate is formed. This does not occur when blood serum from some animal other than man is mixed with the rabbit serum.

Q. What is phlogiston?

A. About two centuries ago it was supposed that any combustible material contained a substance called phlogiston, which was given off when it burned. This theory was later shown to be wrong. We now know that when a thing burns, it unites with oxygen from the air. Wood, for example, contains carbon and hydrogen. When wood burns, these two elements each combine with oxygen to form carbon dioxide and water, which is a combination of hydrogen and oxygen.

"To rest is an art, and few understand it."—Arthur Pendenys.

THIS IS A 2 FOR 1 BARGAIN!

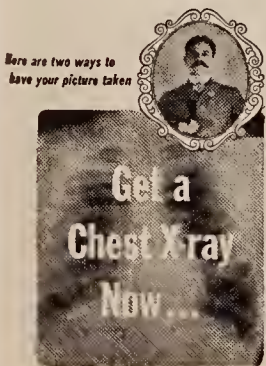

This is the reason that your membership in the GE Pension Plan and the GE Insurance Plan costs you so little. For every one dollar which you put into the plans, GE puts in about two.

The Company does this so that during a period of illness you will have a steady income; so that if you should die, your family will immediately have a sum of money to tide them over the emergency; and so that when you reach retirement age, you will have a regular source of income.

Then, too, the low cost of these plans makes it possible for you to budget a portion of your income for your own personal insurance and annuities to meet your desired additional needs during these periods.

BLIND BOGEY WINDS UP GOLF SEASON

by Earl D. Stauffer

The 1953 golf season came to a close with the annual Blind Bogey held at the Brookwood links last Saturday. The weather was ideal and the golf sharp.

The only time when the weather had been a factor during the whole season was the day originally scheduled for the Bogey. No matches were called off because of the weather.

The champions of the Owl league, Norm Wolf's Birdies, picked up the crown weeks ago. The day champion was settled last Saturday.

Leo Almandinger's Putters from the Monday afternoon ran the gamut of the day workers' winners and stroked their way to the championship. The Monday evening Pros, the Tuesday evening 19th Holers, and Bob Shoaff's Winter St. entry comprised the opposition.

Each of the teams played against the average of the Pros. Willie Adams, the ex-Foster Park caddie, master blasted out a one under par 71 to lead the Putters to the coveted title. Tony Wichman also of the Putters fired a 78 for the second low spot.

The second place winner was the

14-Year-Old Boy Is Veteran Outboard Motor Boat Racer

With 12 races to his credit, 14-year-old Harold Eizinger is on his way to becoming a veteran of outboard motor boat racing. Son of Arthur Eizinger, Bldg. 27 employee, Harold has been racing since February, 1952, when he first took to the water in his father's boat, "The Flying Tub."

Racing against men of all age groups, Harold has come out with a good record, placing in every race he entered. Among his prized possessions are the 12 trophies he has received from these races.

In his most recent race, which was last month at Rome City, Harold won second place in the Utility class of the midwest zone and the opportunity to go to the finals in Texas where champions of the various zones in the country competed. Although he didn't go to the finals, Harold got a lot of experience by competing against entrants from 13 states.

All of the races he enters are sanctioned by either the American or National Outboard Motor Associations.

When he isn't attending Forest Park school or working with his motor at home, Harold spends his time getting in practice on the St. Joseph River. Since he is not of age, he is entered as the driver in the races by his father. Although he has been offered cash awards for some of his wins, he has refused them to remain in the class of an amateur sportsman so that he can enter high school sports.

As far as Harold is concerned, the future holds the prospect of many more races and perhaps the opportunity to go to the finals another year.

Louie Maier told Garnall and Dewey Parkison that after having his suit for three months he made a call on the tailor to find out why there were no pockets in his coat. To his surprise he had pockets! The tailor had forgotten to take out the stitching that helps hold them in shape until sold. Then Garnall spoke up and said that he has had two suits for a year that were without pockets. However, when he checked them at home that evening he was surprised to find the stitching just hadn't been removed. Gee, look at all the time he could have been standing around with his hands in his pockets! . . . Vaughn Sheets had everything ready for when his son would arrive home from Japan; everything, that is, except the television. A television set was included on a list of items his son wanted to enjoy on his leave, but since everyone is buying a TV set Vaughn has to wait his turn. By then the leave will probably be over. . . . Bill Rohe brought in roses one morning and found that he was in trouble because he didn't bring roses to all of the girls. So the following morning roses appeared on the scene for the rest of them and everyone in the office enjoyed their aroma and beauty. . . . Virgil Howell says that you have to go only 50 miles to get to his cottage on Lake George, which seems to be the way the crow flies. Maybe he's flying low in that new Nash. . . . Warren Harding is in the Lutheran Hospital for observation. So, if anyone gets a chance they may visit him in Room 159. . . . Virgil Nash had his car in the garage for repairs. When his wife picked it up she was told something about the heater but she didn't quite hear it all and never passed it on to Virgil. They used the car for a couple of days and also used what they thought was the heater, and got results, too. When Virgil returned to the garage and the garage man replaced his heater Virgil couldn't understand how he had gotten results without a heater. . . . Bill Irwin has had a week's vacation and will be in Monday to take up where he left off with his daily chores. Of course, "the fish aren't biting," "the water was too cold," or any excuse will be acceptable if there aren't any fish.

Five Transformer Employees Share Top Prize in Anniversary Contest

Winners of the Specialty Transformer Department and Ballast Department 75th Anniversary contest have been announced by Carl H. Rinne and Charles P. Hayes, general managers of the two departments.

Twelve employees shared the first five prizes and ten honorable mention awards were announced.

Announcement of the winners and presentation of certificates for merchandise awards were made by Mr. Rinne Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, during Open House activities.

First Prize

First prize in the contest was shared by five employees whose joint idea concerned the development of a metal enclosure for one of the ballast models. The first place winners are Armin F. Mittermaier, Charles F. McVoy, Elmer J. Zelt, Roy H. Dierstein, and James R. Clark.

For their entry which suggested redesign of indoor hanger type luminous tube transformers, three men received the second prize. They are Lee C. Radamaker, Raymond L. Kieffer, and Sam A. Macy.

Yvonne Cecie suggested cleaning and soldering of permafil transformer leads to win third place in the contest. Fourth place went to Walter Eker for his idea of repairing of permafil units. Larry D. Bishop and Robert F. Rowe turned in a joint entry for reducing the size of one ballast model and were awarded fifth place.

Honorable mention awards were presented by Mr. Rinne to the following: Robert F. Hunt, Charles Tribolet, Freeman Rohlfing, George Horner, Carl Stout, Farold Schuman, Dan Lovinger, Robert D. Meese, Armin F. Mittermaier, and Ronald F. Rutan. All employees

Six Objectives

The contest was conducted in celebration of General Electric's 75th anniversary. Rules were based upon the six objectives set up by the company to further electrical progress in the future and entries were judged on the basis of how they furthered these objectives.

The six objectives are:

1. Increase sales of GE products.
2. Improve service to all GE customers.
3. Make GE a better place to work.
4. Increase the opportunity for profits in the company.
5. Contribute to a strengthening of the defense effort of the United States and the free world.
6. Contribute to the greater understanding of American industry.

Dan Foreman Elected Aeolian Choir Prexy

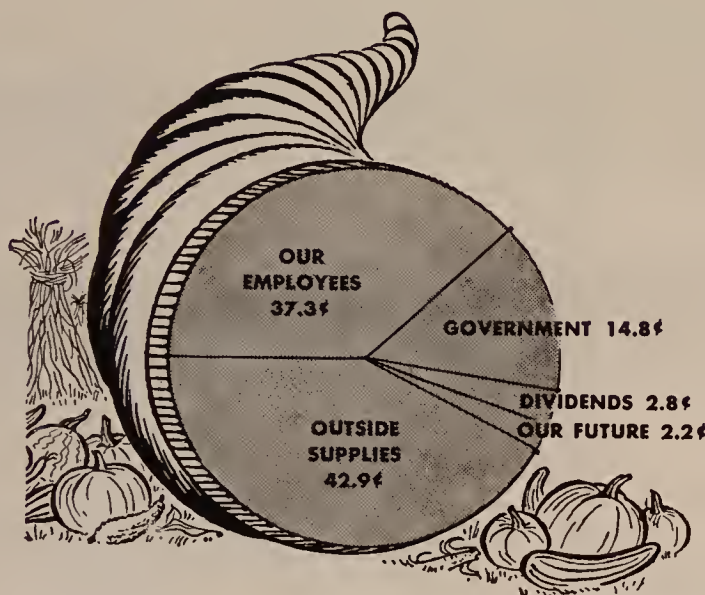

Dan Foreman, of Decatur, has been elected president of the Decatur plant Aeolian Choir for the 1953-54 season. Other newly elected officers are: Harold Mumma, vice president; Eloise Noll, secretary-treasurer; Estella Leitz, social chairman; Ted Hill, finance Chairman; Emma Goldner, membership chairman; and Jane Rentz, librarian.

Celebrating its tenth anniversary this year, the choir is again under the direction of David Embler, also of the Decatur plant.

The choir appeared at the annual fish fry of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce yesterday and will present an hour hour concert Nov. 5 at the annual meeting of the Fort Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

How all hands shared in the harvest...

FROM NINE MONTHS OF WORKING TOGETHER

In return for our output of goods and services in the first nine months of this year, we in General Electric received more than 2,341 million dollars to distribute among those who contributed to that nine months' output. Here's how all hands shared:

GOVERNMENT

took $346,537,000 (14.8¢ out of each sales dollar) in direct taxes for its contribution of protection and for some other services which may or may not have been needed or helpful. Government took, of course, still a lot more in indirect taxes which we paid as a hidden part of the price our suppliers charged us.

OUTSIDE SUPPLIERS

got $1,004,312,000 (42.9¢ out of each sales dollar). From this, they had to pay millions of dollars to their employees, their suppliers, and their tax collectors.

OUR EMPLOYEES

got $873,499,000 (37.3¢ out of each sales dollar) in pay and benefits for the work of their minds and muscles in helping produce our output.

OUR SHAREOWNERS

got $64,437,000 (2.8¢ out of each sales dollar) in dividends as immediate pay for the work their savings did in supplying the designs, tools, and other arm-lengthening facilities for our output.

OUR FUTURE

took the reinvestment by the shareowners of their remaining earnings of $52,263,000 (2.2¢ out of each sales dollar) to pay for more and better facilities. These will help us make more and better products. These, in turn, are the only avenue not only to more and better and steadier jobs at General Electric, but also to improved rewards for all the others concerned—including the shareowners who have thus reinvested, rather than withdrawn, these remaining earnings.

COMMUNITY SERVICES FUND ENROLLS 809 NEW MEMBERS

A total of 809 new employees were signed to the Employee Community Services Fund during the solicitation which ended Friday, Oct. 16, Wallace E. Beer, chairman of the 1953 campaign, stated this week.

The new members pledged $4,872.25. This amount brings the total of Services Fund contributions to $97,000 for the current year. The amount pledged by the new members together with other pledges received during the past year represents a six per cent increase over last year's pledges at the end of the 1952 campaign, Mr. Beer reported.

The percentage of employees participating in the Fund also was increased to 85 per cent. Together with the 809 newly signed, the Services Fund has approximately 9,000 members now.

On behalf of the fund board of directors and himself, Mr. Beer expressed his thanks and appreciation to the new members and solicitors. He stated, "We are very appreciative for the response to the Employee Community Services Fund and for the work of the solicitors in the various departments. To each employee who contributed goes the thanks of the many citizens who benefit from the 27 agencies which receive our contributions."

Employee contributions to the services Fund are made by payroll deduction in weekly amounts or one lump sum. The entire amount going into the Fund is contributed to the United Fund of Fort Wayne and Allen County.

The Employee Community Services Fund is operated by a 16-man board of administrators. Four of these are appointed and the remainder are elected by members of the Fund.

CONGRATULATIONS—Received from C. Mr. Sherland, who is recuperating from an operation, was at home when the safety record of Section 13 was reached this month.

4 MILLION SAFE MAN-HOURS

GAC Section 13 Sets New Safety Record

Accomplishing one of the highest safety records in the company, employees of General AC Motor Section 13 completed four million man hours without a lost-time accident this month.

Since Feb. 27, 1951, Section 13 employees have worked without a lost-time accident. At present there are approximately 750 employees in the section.

Congratulating the section, C. Russell DeReamer, manager of safety services in the General Electric Company, sent the following telegram to Harold E. Koehlinger, superintendent of Section 13:

Cooperative Effort

"You and each employee of the GAC Motor Department have our heartiest congratulations for having worked 4,000,000 man-hours without a lost-time accident. Your record is proof that by cooperative effort accidents can be prevented."

Members of the section's safety committee attribute their record to constant watchfulness and a good follow-up job on any minor accident which might lead to a lost-time accident. The alertness of all employees to safety measures has made the record possible, Mr. Koehlinger stated.

21-Member Committee

Safety practices within the section are carried out by a 21-member safety committee, which changes almost entirely each year. Chairman of this group is Mark Gotsch. These employees meet along with foremen each month to review hazards of the section and ways of eliminating them.

Records show that two other areas in the General Electric Company, the East Boston Lamp Works and Hanford, have established records equal to or greater than the Section 13 record.

Open Season on Children

Now that hunters are taking their guns out of locked closets, the next three months may well be termed "open season on children." While all hunting accidents are needless, the maiming and killing of children as a result of the sport of hunting is particularly tragic.

An estimated total of 9,300 shooting mishaps will occur this year. About three-fifths of these deaths and injuries will occur in the field or in public places, while the remaining two-fifths will happen because of carelessness with guns in or around the home. How many children will be involved? Last year the figure topped 2,700 killed and injured.

According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, parents should be as gun-wary during the hunting season as battle-shy vets.

If you live in the country or wooded areas, don't let the children play in the fields.

Warn the children not to pick up or throw rocks at any shotgun shells they may see on the ground. Ammunition is not to be played with.

Don't let Dad toss his hunting jacket over a chair when he comes in from hunting. All ammunition should be cleaned out of hunting togs, placed beyond the reach of children, and locked up before the hunting clothes are even put away.

The hunting gun should be "broken down" and put safely in its case before the hunter enters the house.

When Dad cleans his gun, make sure the children are not present.

Finally, never allow a child under the age of 14 to accompany a hunter on a trip. No matter how cautious the child or his parent, there are probably other hunters in the field. Too many of them are thoughtless and "trigger-happy."

If guns and ammunition are no more accessible to children during the hunting season than at other times, and if children are kept out of target range, the headlines need not count so many children among the hunting season casualties again this year.

A Special Message For Religion in American Life

By President Dwight D. Eisenhower

The early American settlers were hardy and courageous and resourceful. They had to be—else none of them would have survived. But they were not sufficient unto themselves. The odds they were up against—facing that hostile wilderness—were too great for them to rely on themselves alone. They needed God's help; they gladly sought it and they frankly acknowledged that it was that Power beyond themselves that provided the strength which saw them through.

I believe there are many indications in American life today that that faith is reviving. Faced as we are with difficult times, confronted with much uncertainty, we are beginning to recognize that we are no more self-sufficient than our forbearers were. More frankly perhaps than in less disturbed times, we are beginning to acknowledge that, like them, we need God's help.

That, I believe, is why our churches today are more crowded; why religion is more frequently talked about; why faith seems, more and more, to be something men and women and young people frankly try to live by.

One of the undertakings dedicated to such revival of faith is the non-sectarian movement known as Religion in American Life. Through each November this movement calls our attention to our religious institutions and their essential place in the life of every one of us. I am happy to have a part in that undertaking.

I should like to feel that, in every American family, some place is made for an expression of our gratitude to Almighty God, and for a frank acknowledgment of our faith that He can supply that additional strength which, for these trying times, is so sorely needed.

FHP GENERAL MANAGER RETIRES TODAY

M. E. Lord Closes GE Career Ending 45 Years of Service

Manley E. Lord, general manager of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department, will retire today after 45 years of service with the General Electric Company.

His many friends and associates with whom he has worked during his service with the company honored Mr. Lord at a party at the Fort Wayne Country Club earlier this month. He was also presented with the 500,000th Form G motor produced at Taylor St. at a luncheon, and the Elex Club honored him at their October meeting when they presented him with a gift.

Joined GE in 1908

Well known throughout General Electric for his association with the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department, Mr. Lord came to the company in 1908. He became department manager in 1947 when the company established an integrated operating unit form of management to provide for expanded production. Prior to that, he served as Works manager of the Fort Wayne plant for eight years.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mr. Lord quit high school in his freshman year to help support the family when his father died. He worked in a shoe factory, a Newark wagon works, as an electrician's helper, and on a farm while attending night classes at the Newark Evening Technical School, now Newark University.

Started in Newark

In 1908 he accepted a job with the GE Newark Lamp Works at 15 cents an hour in a position comparable to today's test engineer. By 1916 he had worked his way through the factory and office to become assistant plant superintendent.

A few years later he moved to the company's Edison Lamp Works in Harrison, N. J., where he was on the production manager's staff as assistant in charge of manufacturing and in 1929 moved to Schenectady, N. Y., as a member of the vice president's manufacturing staff. Six months later Mr. Lord was appointed secretary of the company's manufacturing committee.

Comes to Fort Wayne

He completed a four-year assignment as coordinator of manufacturing activities for GE refrigerator plants in Erie, Pa., Schenectady, and Fort Wayne before moving here in 1939 as works manager.

Mr. Lord is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Community Chest, YMCA, Rotary Club, Fort Wayne Country Club, Masons, Schenectady Mohawk Club, and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, and a former officer in the National Guard.

The Lords have one son, Alan C., manager of employee relations at Winter St., and a daughter, Mrs. David S. Saylor, also of Fort Wayne.

Mr. Lord plans to devote much of his time to their farm on Covington Road, where they reside.

The art of living easily as to money is to pitch your scale of living one degree below your means.—H. Taylor.

HONORING MR. FHP—Manley E. Lord, general manager of the Fractional Horsepower Motor Department, second from right, chats with friends at a recent party in his honor. Shown (l-r): W. C. Wichman, vice president and general manager of the Industrial Power Components Division; A. F. Vinson, vice president-manufacturing; Mr. Lord, and A. W. Bartling, manager-component products sales.

500,000TH FORM G MOTOR—M. E. Lord, retiring FHP general manager, receives the 500,000th Form G Motor produced by the General AC Motor Department from L. D. Hodell, GAC general manager. The presentation was made at a luncheon in Mr. Lord's honor.

Decatur Plant Gives $2,269 To Community Fund

Employees of the Decatur GE plant contributed a total of $2,269.65 to the Decatur Community Fund, Inc., during the recent drive. The city's quota for the current year is $10,228. Contributions to the Fund aid the Red Feather agencies in the area.

Appreciation for the employees' contributions were expressed by the company and Fund officers to all those who gave to the fund.

Recognition was also given the 17 solicitors who signed up new members and explained the Fund and its purposes. They are: Ina Noack, Milt Chronister, Charles Morgan, Gene Myers, Bob Bolinger, Sol Lord, Clarence Painter, True Gephart, Dick Noll, Viola Melchi, Frieda Keller, Jane Currie, James Hackman, Gretchen Foreman, William Hartman, Mary Miller, and Helen Mowery.

Kiwanis to Sell Tickets To Pistons Dec. 3 Game For Kids' Day Benefit

Tickets for the Zollner Pistons vs. Boston Celtics professional basketball game Dec. 3 will be on sale at the GE Club desk beginning today. This game is being sponsored by the Kiwanis of Fort Wayne.

All proceeds in addition to expenses, will be used for the Kiwanis project of building a shelter at Klug Park. This is Fort Wayne's contribution to Kiwanis Kids' Day.

The coupons at the Club will be redeemable for tickets to the game. These may be secured on a first-come, first-served basis at the Vim Sporting Goods Store, 1027 S. Calhoun St.; Fisher's Harrison Hill Drug Store, 3818 S. Calhoun St., or the Coliseum.

Three prices of tickets are available, $1.50, $1.25, and $1.

A TIMELY BARGAIN at the Employee Store is the model of General Electric wall clock which Joan Gauspohl, Bldg. 4-4, looks at. A total of 144 clocks of this model are available now at a special employee price of $4. Regular employee price of this model, which is being closed out, is $5.25.

Elex Club to Visit 'Continental Cafe'

Turning the GE Club into the scene of a sidewalk cafe, Elex Club members will conduct a "Continental Cafe" party Monday, Nov. 9, Voyce Brumbaugh, president, announced this week.

Beginning at 4:45 p.m. with dinner, the meeting will be festive with decorations of typical European scenes and huge push-carts filled with apples. The girls will sit at small tables during dinner.

Color movies made by those taking the trip will be exhibited.

First shift members may secure tickets from contact girls for $1.25. All reservations are due by Thursday, Nov. 5.

A shipment of home-made candy from the Kopper Kettle Kandies has been received by Elex and is on sale from contact girls and at the Corner Cupboard counter. It includes peanut brittle, pecan bark, peanut clusters, and pecan patties. Elex also has gaily colored aprons for children and adults with handy pockets on sale as well as a shipment of pecans.

Elex also has received a shipment of Christmas cards which may be purchased from contact girls or at the Corner Cupboard counter in the Employee Store. The counter is open from 11:30 a.m. until 4 p.m.

GE DEATHS

Clifton Shoemaker

Q-C Club Member Dies Following Long Illness

A Quarter Century Club member, Clifton Shoemaker, 77, died Monday, Oct. 26, at the Lawton Sanitarium. He had been in ill health for several years.

Services were conducted Wednesday, Oct. 28, at the Tom Mungovan Funeral Home by the Rev. E. H. Lane. Burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Shoemaker joined the company in March, 1917. He became a trucker and later went into the receiving section at Broadway. In 1927, he went to Winter St. where he was a packer until his retirement Jan. 1, 1945.
